THE LATE COLONEL CHESTER.—The Dean and Chapter of Westminster have signified their intention of placing in the Abbey a memorial tablet to the late Colonel Chester, in recognition of his valuable and disinterested services as editor and annotator of the "Westminster Abbey Register." Colonel Chester was a native of the United States of America, but had for many years been resident in England, where his reputation as an authority on all genealogical questions was unrivalled. His valuable papers, the result of many years of unwearied and discriminating industry, are, we understand, in the hands of Mr. Cokayne, Norroy King of Arms. His work on the "Westminster Abbey Registers" (which forms the tenth volume of the publications of the Harleian Society) was printed in 1876, and was dedicated by permission to the Queen.

defeat; Kermesse, who took five prizes out of six including the Middle-park Plate and the July Stakes; and Dutch Oven, who won nine races out of 12, including the Dewhurst Plate and Rous Memorial; and it seemed to admit of no question that the fillies, taken as a whole, were quite as good as even the best of the colts, if not a little better, though as between Bruce, Geheimniss, and Dutch Oven, who never met, it was after all a mere matter of opinion. Epsom was, therefore, looked forward to with great interest, as Bruce and Dutch Oven were both engaged in the Derby, and Geheimniss, Dutch Oven, and Kermesse in the Oaks.

How during the winter Dutch Oven fell ill and her Derby prospects were thereby prejudiced, how this spring Kermesse broke her pasterns and was rendered unfit to run again, was told in The Times from time to time. The Derby and Oaks, therefore, seemed to be mere matters of health for Bruce and Geheimniss respectively. That any danger was to be apprehended from the chestnut filly Shotover, who took part in three races in 1881 unsuccessfully, or from the dark Stanton colt Quicklime, was not even dreamt, and 100 to 1 represented their chances in the turf market when the season opened. The Two Thousand Guineas, however, changed all this, and it became pretty clear that the leading couple highest score yet run up for this prize; and for Mr. Secretary Childers's prize, with a military breech-loader, at 900 yards, Private M'Vittie, 1st Dumfries, got 33 points, the highest score so far recorded.

THE LATE COLONEL CHESTER.—The funeral of Colonel Chester, of whom an obituary notice appeared in The Times on Monday last took place yesterday, at Nunhead Cemetery. The service was performed by the Dean of Westminster, who was present as representing the Chapter and also the University of Oxford, from which the deceased had so lately received the honorary degree of D.C.L. The American Embassy was represented by Mr. E. S. Nalal, one of the Secretaries of Legation. The Society of Antiquaries was also represented, and among many of Colonel Chester's old friends or immediate neighbours were the Hon. J. C. Rogers and the Rev. Edward Rogers. Times, June 1, 1902.

A sad occurrence, which only became known on Saturday evening, put a stop to all festivity in the camp. Lieutenant Alexander, of the London Scottish, was found dead in his tent by some one who entered to get a cricket-ball. It had been noticed that his tent remained closed, but it was thought he had gone to town. Apparently he had died in a fit either just before or just after taking his morning bath.

On Friday last Colonel Joseph Lemuel Chester, the American genealogist, expired at his residence in Southwark-park-road, London. The deceased was 61 years of age, and had spent the last 25 years in England. He was a gentleman of independent means and came over to this country for the purpose of tracing up the genealogy of the Pilgrim Fathers who left England in the Mayflower. Some idea of the great labour he went through for this purpose may be gathered from the fact that he obtained a written copy of the parish register of every church in England and carefully indexed the whole. His researches at Westminster Abbey excited the warmest interest of the late Dean Stanley, at whose instance, and with the cordial approbation of the Chapter, he published in 1876 a work entitled "The Marriage, Baptism, and Burial Registers of the Collegiate Church or Abbey of St. Peter, Westminster," which was dedicated to the Queen and was presented to Her Majesty by Dean Stanley. The deceased, besides being a Fellow of the Historical Society, was also a member of the New England Historical and Genealogical Society, and of numerous other historical societies in the United States. Last year the honorary degree of D.O.L. was conferred on him by the University of Oxford. He was one of the founders of the Harleian Society, and was a well-known contributor to various periodicals. The American Minister, Mr. Lowell, was one of those who visited him during his brief illness, and regret will be felt on both sides of the Atlantic at the news of his death, which was caused by internal cancer.

THE HISTORY OF THE CITY OF BOSTON
FROM 1630 TO 1800

The history of the city of Boston from 1630 to 1800 is a story of growth and development. It begins with the arrival of the first settlers in 1630, who founded the city as a haven for Puritans seeking religious freedom. Over the years, Boston grew from a small village into a major center of commerce and industry. The city played a pivotal role in the American Revolution, serving as the site of the Boston Tea Party and the signing of the Declaration of Independence. In the 18th century, Boston became a hub for intellectual and cultural life, with the founding of the first public library and the first university in the United States. The city's economy diversified, moving from its initial reliance on trade and shipping to include manufacturing and education. By 1800, Boston had established itself as one of the most important cities in the young nation, a testament to the resilience and vision of its early settlers.

THE LATE COLONEL CHESTER'S MSS.

THEY may be divided into nine series, each series being quite separate and unconnected with the other, viz. :—

I. The splendid collection of Extracts from PARISH REGISTERS from nearly all the counties in England, consisting of 87 FOLIO VOLUMES, each containing about 400 pages, closely written. Of these volumes 70 are full and are carefully indexed, the “index nominum” to each being a work of immense labour. The other 17 are partially filled.

They contain the entries of all the families of note in the parishes thus dealt with, but were, it is believed, made with the special view of illustrating such families as emigrated to America. They are therefore particularly valuable to the American nation, and it was in America that Colonel Chester fully believed they would eventually find their home.

Judging from the price which MSS. of this nature have fetched during recent years, it is more than probable that, if sold (by auction or otherwise) separately, they would command at the lowest possible calculation, an average price of £50 a volume (£4350); but, as it is wished, for the sake of doing more honour to their great and indefatigable collector, to keep them together, THE WHOLE series is now offered as one collection at a very considerably less rate, viz. for £3000 nett (which is the minimum sum that will be taken), being less than £35 a volume. They are as follows, viz. :—

II. A complete series of all the MATRICULATIONS at the University of OXFORD, from the commencement in 1567 to 1869, beautifully written. Seven enormous folio volumes, viz. :—

Vol. 1.—A.D. 1567 to 1580; with Index. [Mem. The information given at this time was very scant.]

Vols. 2 to 4.—A.D. 1581 to 1714. } The names arranged in „ 5 to 7.—A.D. 1715 to 1869. } strict alphabetical order.

These entries (about 95,000 in number) show for the most part, not only the College, the age and birthplace of the person who matriculated, but also the name and description of his father.

Vols. 2 to 7 were valued by Colonel Chester at £300 each (£1800). The whole series of SEVEN VOLUMES are now offered at £1500 nett.

III. Complete list of ENTRANCES AT GRAY'S INN, 1581 to 1781, arranged chronologically, showing in most instances the name and description of the father of the student. Barristers, 1657 to 1865, &c.

One thick quarto volume, nicely written, £100 nett.

IV. MARRIAGE LICENCES. Five folio volumes, of about 400 pages each, nicely written and carefully indexed, from the following offices, viz. :—

The Bishop of London's Office, 1521 to 1828.

IN the seventh and eighth volumes of Collectanea Topographica et Genealogica, published by Messrs. Nichols and Son in 1841 and 1843, were printed certain extracts from the Registers of Westminster Abbey, from a MS. in the College of Arms, with annotations by the late Sir Charles G. Young, Garter. These extracts will be found on pages 162-174, 243-248, and 355-377 of vol. vii., and 1-21 of vol. viii., of that work. They proved a great boon to historians, biographers and genealogists, and have ever since been accepted as standard authority. A conviction that the series was imperfect, and the entries often erroneous, induced the present Editor to collate his copy with the original, and the result was so startling that it was felt that the knowledge obtained ought not to be confined to himself. In a word, it was found that the errors, both of omission and commission, were so numerous and so serious as to render the Collectanea version untrustworthy and practically worthless. In some instances, also, the identifications by the annotator of persons named in the text were found to be incorrect. It would be impossible to point out all the discrepancies revealed by a careful examination of the original Registers, and they can be ascertained only by a comparison of the two versions: some of the more flagrant errors, however, are referred to in the notes in the present volume. The late Mr. John Gough Nichols was so profoundly sensible of the injury unwittingly done to the literary world by the Collectanea version that he at once proposed to print the corrected one at his own expense, but this arrangement came to an end by reason of his untimely death. It was then intended to reprint only the oldest volumes of the Registers, embracing the period covered by the Collectanea extracts, ending with the year 1705; but on consulting with the present

Dean of Westminster, he naively asked the question, Why stop there? The final result was that, at the instance of Dean Stanley, and with the cordial approbation of the Chapter, the entire Registers were allowed to be given to the world. It is only just to say that for the publicity of these interesting and valuable records, so illustrative of the personal history of the venerable Minster, the world is indebted to the liberal spirit of its present chief dignitary. From the inception of the design to the last moment of its completion, he has taken the liveliest interest in the work, and the Editor desires to record permanently here his gratitude for the numerous courtesies, generous sympathy, and cordial encouragement, which he has received from him during the many years of his interesting labour.

Anything like biographical sketches of the various persons named in the Abbey Registers would have swelled the work into half a dozen volumes, and it was deemed best that the Editor should restrict his labours to their identification, giving, perhaps, any salient facts concerning them, and references by which their own history or that of their families could be pursued. The present volume is therefore designed for reference, rather than for popular perusal. Brief as many of the annotations are, however, they have often cost much time and labour, and there is many a line and half line which is the concentrated result of weeks of patient research. Those only who have been engaged in a similar undertaking can have the slightest conception of the amount of serious work embodied in the following pages. Still, while claiming that he has done his work carefully and conscientiously, the Editor is not vain or foolish enough to believe or hope that no errors will be detected. He does believe, however, that they will be very few, accidental, and unimportant, and that every statement of facts and dates may be absolutely relied upon.

Whenever the authorities for the annotations naturally suggest themselves, and are common and open to all, they are not mentioned; but any unusual reference is carefully given. Whenever monumental inscriptions are quoted, it may be taken for granted that the Editor has personally examined them, if in existence; but, if they have disappeared, then resort has been had to the numerous books in which they have been printed—so numerous and so common that it would have been idle to reproduce the inscriptions in the notes. Whenever Wills are referred to, it may be understood that they are to be found at the Principal Registry of Probate, now at Somerset House, unless otherwise stated. The contractions “Mar.

Lic. Fac.," "Mar. Lic. Vic. Gen.," "Mar. Lic. Bp. Lond.," and "Mar. Lic. D. and C. Westm.," of course indicate Marriage Licences, the allegations for which are to be found at the Faculty Office, or that of the Vicar-General of the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Registry of the Bishop of London, or in the Act Books of the Dean and Chapter of Westminster, now at Somerset House. The full sense of any other contractions, such as "dau." for daughter, and "Admon." for Letters of Administration, will readily be perceived.

From the manner in which the earliest volume of the Abbey Registers was compiled (see the heading, p. 1), and from the too evident carelessness of some of the later officials, it is quite certain that many other persons have been buried in the Abbey and its Cloisters of whose interment no record now exists. The same remark applies to marriages and baptisms to some extent. Instances of the latter occur where the ceremony was undoubtedly performed in the Abbey, but the record of them appears only in the parish registers of St. Margaret, Westminster. And, again, according to the Abbey Registers, it would appear that no baptisms took place, on one occasion, for a period of about thirteen years, which is, to say the least, highly improbable. So far as Mr. Tynchare was concerned, it is but fair to presume that the sentiment which led him in the first instance to secure and perpetuate what was left of the "imperfect books" also induced him to do his work as thoroughly as possible, but it is certain that the records antecedent to the Restoration are sadly deficient, and the names and dates sometimes inaccurate. These discrepancies have been reconciled by the Editor whenever positive evidence could be obtained. Mr. Tynchare, however, died in 1673, and by whom, or under what system, the Registers were afterwards kept, it is impossible to determine. That at a much later period some reprehensible looseness existed is abundantly proved by the action of the Chapter. The "Chanter" was never the proper official on whom this duty should devolve, but rather the Registrar, or Chapter Clerk. When the late Mr. George-Giles Vincent was appointed to the latter office, in 1803, he appears to have so regarded the matter, as still does his successor, Mr. Bedford. The action of the Chapter just referred to will be found in the following entry in its records, under the date of 12 June 1804:

"Ordered, that Mr. Horsfall make up the Register Book of Burials to the time of Mr. Vincent's appointment to the office of Chapter Clerk, and, that Mr. Horsfall be allowed one month from this day to make up the said book, and, if it be not made up at that day, Mr. Vincent be authorized to employ some person to make it up, upon such evidence as is still in existence."

The eight words italicized, and especially the last three, suggest the unpleasant suspicion that there had been other "evidence" not then in existence, and the whole entry shews at least that the Registers had not been properly kept. From the uniformity of the writing and the colour of the ink, it seems also certain that the neglect covered a very long period.

Whatever the losses from this neglect, it is impossible now to retrieve them from the Abbey records themselves, which have been carefully examined with that object. The probability is that the difficulty grew out of the number of persons authorized to officiate at the various ceremonials, who, instead of making, or seeing made, the entries themselves, trusted to some person whose duty it was supposed to be. In other words, the duty was theoretically everybody's, but was suffered to become practically nobody's.

For the omissions in Mr. Tynchare's portion of the Registers there is, of course, a sufficient excuse. One fact, however, should be noticed. It has always been customary to attribute the mutilation of parish registers, as well as the spoliation of monuments and sepulchral brasses, to the rough soldiers or the stern officials of the Commonwealth. Even if this were true generally, there is good reason to believe that part, at least, of the damage done to the Abbey Registers was the work of some over zealous loyalist who had the custody of them, or access to them, immediately after the Restoration. Else, why do we fail to find in them, for instance, the name of a single member of the Protector's family? Yet Cromwell himself was buried in the Abbey, as were his mother, his sister, his daughter, his son-in-law, and his grandchild. Why do we also fail to find the names of Bradshaw, and Pym, and Strode, and Bond, and May, all of which appear in the royal warrant for disinterment in 1661 (see pp. 521-3), and of whose places of burial there must have been some record, as their coffins were readily found? It would be unfair to assume that Mr. Tynchare himself purposely omitted these names, as he preserved no less than thirteen others which appear in the same warrant, the memory of which must have been sufficiently, if not equally, offensive to the then ruling powers.

Some of the entries which were evidently missing when Mr. Tynchare performed his work would now be deeply interesting; such, for instance, as those of the burials of Old Parr and Ben Jonson. Others would have been of great service in throwing light upon subsequent ones, wherein it is stated that persons were buried with or near their parents, their wives or husbands, their brothers or sisters, or their children. In several instances the absence of these earlier entries has entirely prevented the identification of persons interred at later periods.

Whether the earlier Registers had disappeared before Mr. Tynchare's time it is impossible to say, but it is probable that he preserved all the fragments he could find. At all events, they are now hopelessly lost, as all the Abbey muniments have recently undergone a careful examination, in the course of which the volume so frequently mentioned as the "Unofficial Register" was discovered. It is hardly necessary to say that the records of the sixteenth century, could they be recovered, would be priceless.

A considerable list of burials that do not appear in the Registers might be compiled from the monumental inscriptions; but these have been repeatedly printed, and their reproduction would be foreign to the purpose of this volume, which professes to deal only with the Registers as they now exist. The only exceptions made are a considerable number of entries which appear in a volume kept by one of the minor canons, designated in the notes as the "Unofficial Register," and a few from a series of small books kept from an early period by the officials in immediate charge of the interments, in which they usually transcribed the inscriptions from the coffin-plates, and noted the exact position of the graves, and which are referred to in the notes as "Funeral Books." All of these semi-official entries are printed in italics, in order to distinguish them from those in the official Registers, but there is not the slightest doubt that they are of equal authority. An entirely exceptional case is that of Lady Noel, buried in 1671, the evidence, as stated in the note, being deemed sufficient to justify its admission. A few entries have also been incorporated from the registers of St. Margaret, Westminster. The rest of the text is simply a transcript of the official Registers, omitting only the constant succession of unnecessary verbiage, such as the phrases "were married," "was buried," etc., rendered still more unnecessary by the general heading at the top of each page. Great convenience will be afforded, so far as the burials are concerned, by the reduction of the two series of Abbey and Cloister interments into one unbroken chronological arrangement.

It will be noticed that, in accordance with the system of annotation adopted, as much care has been taken with the names of persons in humble positions as with those of their superiors. This seemed necessary in order that their very names, and their appearance in the Abbey Registers, should not hereafter mislead inquirers as to their social rank.

Having said so much concerning the defects of the Registers, it must not be forgotten that there is a reverse to the picture. It is equally true that many persons have the historical reputation of interment in the Abbey for whom its gates were never opened. An examination of almost any of the printed family histories will reveal references to ancestors said to be there buried, in support of which claims there is not a shadow of evidence, but, in many instances, ample proof to the contrary. So, through carelessness, errors have crept into the MSS. of even eminent historians and genealogists, which have been perpetuated until they have become a part of history. For instance, Peter Le Neve, in his Diary, recorded the burial of the Morocco Ambassador in the Abbey on the 31st of August 1715, and even noted the name and address of the undertaker from whose shop the body was carried. He was correct as to the date, but the interment actually took place in the neighbouring church of St. Margaret. There are few who would not accept Le Neve's authority, and yet this is but one of a number of similar errors detected by the Editor during a careful examination of his MSS. Even the monumental inscriptions themselves could not always be trusted. In many instances they contain nothing to indicate that the persons to whose memory they are inscribed are not actually there interred, and it would be difficult to determine whether the stereotyped "Hic jacet" and "In memory of" were not regarded as synonymous. It may be suspected that the existence in the Abbey of a merely honorary memorial has more than once led persons in modern times to assume the actual burial there of their ancestors.

It may be as well to add that the Editor has a large collection from which he may eventually decide to print a list of such persons as were probably buried in the Abbey, but whose names do not appear in the Registers, with the evidences, and also that, if his life is spared a few years longer, he intends to embody in a Supplement such important information as he may acquire respecting the persons named in the present volume, and especially concerning the few still unidentified.

In bringing to a close the labours of love which have occupied him so many years, the Editor has to return his hearty thanks to all those who have in any way assisted him in his investigations, and feels bound to name particularly the kindness of Messrs. Moore and Currey, and Mr. Taylor, of the Faculty Office, John Shephard, Esq., and Mr. John Collis, of the Bishop of London's Registry, Francis-Hart Dyke, Esq., and Mr. Henry Watts, of the Vicar-General's Office, and T. G. Godfrey-Faussett, Esq., and W. H. Cullen, Esq., of Canterbury, for the unlimited use of the records in their custody; Sir Albert W. Woods, Garter King of Arms, George-Edward Cokayne, Esq., Lancaster Herald, and their associates generally, for unrestrained access to the invaluable MSS. relating to personal history in the College of Arms and in their private collections; Rev. Dr. John Griffiths, Keeper of the Archives of the University of Oxford, for permission to consult ad libitum the matriculation registers of that University; the Rev. H. O. Coxe and Mr. Henry J. Sides, of the Bodleian Library, for great kindness and much assistance during a long period passed in that Library; and J. F. Coleman, Esq., Senior Record Keeper, and J. C. C. Smith, Esq., Superintendent of the Literary Department, of Her Majesty's Court of Probate, for generously and very greatly facilitating the necessarily extensive and protracted researches among the archives in their custody.

1655 May 7 Walter Bildee and Mary Dunton.<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> He son of Hugh Billey, Esq., Master Cook to K. Chas. I., who was buried at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 13 Mch. 1648-9. She his second wife. He was married, first, at St. Martin in the Fields, 1 Feb. 1629-30, to Camilla dau. of John Lake, of Greenwich, Yeoman of the Pastry, and she was buried at Greenwich 18 Feb. 1653-4. He died before 24 Oct. 1668, as on that day his widow Mary had license from the Vicar-General to marry William Hayes of Deptford, Kent, Yeoman. On 8 Mch. 1670-1, the Dean and Chapter of Westminster granted letters of Administration to Mary Hayes alias Billey, relict of Walter Billey, late of St. Margaret's, Westminster.

<sup>3</sup> The register of St. Bride's, London, records that a certificate for this marriage was given 10 July, after three publications. In that record he is called “John Hastings, Esq.,” and she “Mrs. Elizabeth Parris.” In the record of publication in the register of St. Margaret's, Westminster, he is described as “John Hastings, of St. Bride's, London, Esq.,” and she as “Mrs. Elizabeth Paris, of St. Margaret's, Westminster, widow.” It seems probable, therefore, that her first husband's name was Paris, and not Parry. See her third marriage 20 Dec. 1687. Four children by this marriage, viz., Thomas, William, John, and Sarah Hastings, were living 8 June 1693, when they were mentioned in the will of her third husband, who administered to her estate 1 Aug. 1692, she being described as “Elizabeth Feltham alias Hastings,” of St. Botolph, Aldersgate. She appears to have had no issue by her third husband, and was evidently much his senior.

<sup>1</sup> Baptisms of five children of this marriage occur at St. Margaret's, Westminster, where she was buried 14 Sep. 1674, and he also 13 Nov. 1690. He married another wife, Ann, and had by her five other children, all baptized at St. Margaret's, among whom was General John Wynyard, buried in the Abbey 27 Feb. 1752. She survived him and administered to his estate 15 Dec. 1690. He had probably already been married, as there is a monumental inscription at Boxwell, co. Gloucester, for Alice, dau. of Matthew Huntley, of Boxwell, Esq., and wife of John Wynyard, of Westminster, Esq., who died 2 Sep. 1650, æt. 23.

<sup>2</sup> She probably sister to Margaret in the preceding entry. A Thomas Hutton was admitted to Gray's Inn 27 Oct. 1656, as son and heir of Richard Hutton, late of Poppleton, co. York, Esq. deceased, who was living at the Visitation of 1665 with a wife Anne and three children, the eldest of whom was then only three years of age. This may have been a first marriage.

<sup>4</sup> The date should probably be December. Published at St. Andrew's, Holborn, 25 Nov. and 2 and 9 Dec. 1655, James Clutterbuck, Gent., son of James Clutterbuck, of Wells, co. Somerset, Esq., and Mrs. Millicent Wilde, dau. of John Wilde, of Bagshot, co. Surrey, Gent., then both of St. Andrew's aforesaid.

<sup>7</sup> Patent to John Stockdale as Bellringer, 11 Dec. 1660. See the baptism of a son 9 May 1665, and the burial of a dau. 28 Apl. 1664, and probably of another son 13 Dec. 1670.

<sup>8</sup> Admon. (D. and C. Westmr.) 24 Aug. 1682, to Elizabeth relict of Edward Christian of St. Margaret's, Westminster, where he was buried on the 16th of that month.

of Sir Richard Gargrave of Kingsley and Nostell, co. York, Kt. She died the 15th and was buried at Ifield, co. Sussex, 25 Sep. 1667, in her thirty-second year, and her husband administered to her estate 22 Feb. 1668-9. He remarried, at Kensington, 6 June 1670, Anne eldest dau. and coheir of Sir Francis Pile, of Compton Beauchamp, Bart., who was also buried at Ifield 4 May, 1632. He is said to have died 1 Mch. 1689-90, aged 63, and to have been buried at Aldenham, Herts, but his burial is recorded at Ifield 11 July 1692. His will, dated 3 Sep. 1680, was not proved until 4 Mch. 1694-5. By his first wife he had two daus. who died young. His son Denzell, by his second wife, succeeded as third Baron, but died unmarried, 1694, and the titles became extinct. (See his father's third marriage 14 Sep. 1666.)

<sup>1</sup> He only son of Sir William Dugdale, Garter King of Arms, by Margery dau. of John Huntbach of Sewall, co. Stafford. He became Windsor Herald in 1676, and Norroy King of Arms in 1686, and was then knighted. She his first wife, second dau. and coheir of Alexander Baker, of New Windsor, co. Berks, Gent., by Elizabeth dau. of Thomas Farrar of Harold, co. Beds. She died 9 Jan. 1670-1, and was buried at Windsor, with an infant son and daughter. See her grandfather's burial 2 Oct. 1635. Sir William remarried, 4 May 1672, Elizabeth dau. and heir of Thomas Pigeon, of Coventry, Esq., by whom he had issue, and, dying 31 Aug. 1700, at Coventry, was buried at Shustock, co. Warwick.

<sup>2</sup> Mar. Lic. Vic. Gen. 18 June 1663, for Robert Powell of Everbury, co. Worcester, Clerk, widower, about 25, and Elizabeth, dau. of Philip Tinker alias Littleton, of Westminster, Gent., spinster, about 20. See her father's burial 12 May 1673. They were both living at the date of his will the preceding February, in which she is called his third daughter. A Robert Powell, son of a Minister, matriculated at Oxford, from Merton College, 1 Apl. 1656, and another, as servitor, from St. John's, 15 June 1657.

<sup>5</sup> Mar. Lic. Fac. 19 Jan. 1663-4, for Edward Littleton alias Tinker (he so signed the allegation) of St. Botolph Aldersgate, Clothworker, bachelor, aged 25, and Elizabeth Bush of the same parish, widow, aged about 29. See his father's burial 12 May 1673, in whose will he is called fourth son. He was living 31 Aug. 1696, as appears by the Probate of his brother John's will.

<sup>6</sup> Francis Prujean, a native of Essex, matriculated at Cambridge, from Caius College, Apl. 1610, and was M.B. 1617; M.D. 1625; Fellow of the Royal College of Physicians 1626, and its President five successive years, 1650-4; knighted 1 Apl. 1661. His will dated 23 Apl. 1665, as of St. Martin's Ludgate, was proved 6 July 1666. He died in the Old Bailey 24 June, and was buried 17 July 1666 at Hornchurch, co. Essex, with his first wife Margaret (buried there 24 Jan. 1660-1) and his only son Thomas (buried 15 Oct. 1662). In the Hornchurch register he is styled "First Physician to the King." In the license for this marriage his age is stated to be 60 years. Margaret, his second wife, was dau. of Edward first Baron Gorges of Dundalk, and relict of Sir Thomas Fleming. In the Mar. Lic. Fac. she is called of St. Martin in the Fields, aged 40 and upwards, and, having been dangerously ill, the marriage was to take place in Westminster Abbey, "or in some convenient room in the house of Thomas Gorges D.D., one of the Prebendaries, situate in the cloisters of said church." She survived her husband, and married, thirdly, Sir John Maynard, Kt., Serjeant-at-Law.

<sup>3</sup> Mar. Lic. D. and C. Westmr. 15 Mch. 1664-5, for William Scoles, widower, and Millicent Thurlow, widow, both of St. Margaret's, Westminster.—Mrs. Jane Scoules was buried at St. Margaret's 22 June 1657.—Baptized at St. Margaret's, 13 Jan. 1652-3, Mary, and 26 Dec. 1654, John, children of Barnaby and Millicent Thurlow.—See a marriage 17 June 1683.

<sup>6</sup> He eldest son of Sir George Benyon, of London, Kt., by Alice dau. of Francis West of London. He died a few months after his marriage. (George Benyon Esq. was one of the Gentlemen of the Privy Chamber to King Chas. II. in 1661.) In the Mar. Lic. (D. and C. Westmr.) she is called Eliz. Hackford. She remarried, shortly after her husband's death, the Rev. John Ward, Vicar of Weedon, co. Northampton, the Mar. Lic. Vic. Gen. being dated 23 Oct. 1667, and they were to marry at Misterton, co. Leicester. Mr. Ward was deprived of his benefice in 1676, "for divers crimes committed and duties omitted" (Baker's Northants).

<sup>7</sup> The note in Collectanea identifying the parties to this marriage as John, afterwards Duke of Newcastle, and Lady Margaret Cavendish, is manifestly erroneous, for that John Holles was not born until 9 Jan. 1661-2. "The Lord Holles" of this period was Denzell Holles, second son of John first Earl of Clare, by Anne dau. of Sir Thomas Stanhope, of Shelford, co. Notts, Kt. He was created Baron Holles, of Ifield, co. Sussex, 20 Apl. 1661. He died 17 Feb. 1679-80, aged 81 yrs. 3 mos. and 16 days, and was buried 10 Apl. following, in St. Peter's Church, Dorchester, with his first wife, Dorothy, only dau. and heir of Sir Francis Ashley, of that place. According to a Horoscope in Ashmol. MS. 243, Bod. Lib., he was born 31 Oct. 1599, at 9.10 p.m., and was married to his first wife 4 June 1626, who died 21 June 1640. He married, secondly, Jane, eldest dau. and coheir of Sir John Shirley, of Isfield, co. Sussex, who had previously been the wife successively of Sir Walter Covert of Slougham, co. Sussex, Knt., and of John Freke, of Cerne, co. Dorset, Esq. The License for the latter marriage was issued at the Faculty Office 20 Dec. 1632, she being then described as of Greenland, co. Bucks, and aged about 34. She was married to Lord Holles 12 March 1641-2, according to the Horoscope above mentioned, and in her will, dated 31 July 1658, her ante-nuptial Settlement is cited, bearing date 10 Mch. 1641-2. She was buried at Iwerne Courtney, co. Dorset, 25 April 1666.

The blank in this entry should doubtless be filled with the name of Lord Holles's third wife, viz., Esther, second dau. and coheir of Gideon Le Lou, Lord of the Manor of Columbiers in Normandy, and widow of James Richer, Lord of Cambernon in the same province. Her will is dated 24 Aug. 1683, she then being ill in the manor house Deschamps, in the parish of Lieury, in France. She left all her estate to her children by her former husband, but directed that her body should be carried to Dorchester, to be buried near her last husband Lord Holles. From documents attached to her will, she appears to have died after 22 June 1684, and letters of administration were granted 23 Dec. in that year.

	April 25	John Lyon and Elizabeth Paul.

<sup>3</sup> The identification in Collectanea of Dr. Lloyd as Bishop of Llandaff, Peterborough, and Norwich, is erroneous. This William Lloyd was son of Richard Lloyd, B.D., Rector of Sonning and Vicar of Tilehurst, co. Berks, by his wife Joan Wickins, and was born at Tilehurst Aug. 1627, being baptized there the 26th of that month. He matriculated at Oxford, from Oriel College 25 Mch. 1639, aged 11, but removed next year to Jesus Coll., and was B.A. Oct. 1642, M.A. at Cambridge 1660, B. and D.D. at Oxford 2 July 1667, and successively rector of Bradfield, co. Berks, Dec. 1654; King's chaplain, 1666; Vicar of St. Mary's, Reading, 9 Jan., and prebendary of Salisbury 6 Feb. 1667-8; Archdeacon of Merioneth, 13 June 1668; Dean of Bangor, 2 May 1672; Vicar of St. Martin in the Fields, 31 Jan. 1676-7; consecrated Bishop of St. Asaph, 3 Oct. 1680; confirmed Bishop of Coventry and Lichfield, 20 Oct. 1692; and translated to Worcester, 22 Jan. 1699-1700. He died 30 Aug. 1717, in his 91st year, and was buried 10 Sep. following at Fladbury, co. Worcester. His wife was eldest dau. of Walter Jones, D.D., Prebendary of Westminster (see his burial 15 July 1672), by his wife Philippa dau. of Dr. Samuel Fell, Dean of Christ Church, Oxford, where she was baptized 18 Nov. 1646. She died 17 Sep. 1719. (See her brother's baptism 10 Dec. 1663, and her sister's marriage 7 Feb. 1675-6.)

<sup>4</sup> He of Elymore Hall, co. Durham, Gent., and died in 1680, aged 35. She dau. of Sir Henry Firebrace, Kt., Chief Clerk of the Kitchen to Kings Chas. I. and II., by his first wife, Elizabeth, dau. of Thomas Davill of Stoke Golding, co. Leicester. She survived her husband 35 years, dying 28 Nov. 1715, aged 74, and was buried in the church of Pitlington, co. Durham. The Mar. Lic. (D. and C. Westm.) is dated 5 Jan. 1669-70, and, as the same occurs with reference to the next entry, it is clear that the error is in the Register, and that the date should be a year later.

<sup>5</sup> He eldest son of Sir Timothy Tyrrell, of Oakley, co. Bucks. and Shotover, co. Oxon, Kt., by Elizabeth only dau. and heir of the Most Rev. Dr. James Usher, Archbishop of Armagh, and was baptized at St. Giles in the Fields, 14 May 1642. He was admitted to Gray's Inn 7 Jan. 1655-6. He was author of a well known General History of England, and died 7 June 1718. (See his sister's marriage 3 Dec. 1672.) She only dau. and heir of Sir Michael Hutchinson, of Fladbury, co. Worcester, Kt., one of the Body Guard to King Chas. I., by Mary eldest dau. of Sir John Brereton, Kt., and sister of William second Lord Brereton. She died in 1687, and was buried at Oakley. The Mar. Lic. Vic. Gen. is dated 18 Jan. 1669-70 (see end of preceding note). Their son and heir, James, became a Lieut.-General in the Army, and was Governor of Gravesend and Tilbury Fort.

<sup>3</sup> Mar. Lic. Fac. 16 Aug. 1670, for Isaac Houblon, of St. Mary Woolchurch, London, bachelor, 32, and Elizabeth King, of St. Martin in the Fields, spinster, 21, her parents dead. He was son of James Houblon, the eminent merchant known as the "Father of the Exchange," by his wife Mary Ducane, and was also a merchant. His will, dated 14 Feb. 1701-2, was proved 27 Mch. following. See his brother's marriage 2 Jan. 1671-2. She was youngest dau. and coheir of Henry King (second and youngest son of Henry, Bishop of Chichester) of Chichester, Gent. of the Privy Chamber to K. Chas. II., by Joan dau. of Henry Smith Esq., of Guildford, co. Surrey, and was born before 1653. She died 26 Aug. 1719, and her will, dated 29 Oct. 1717, was proved 1 Sep. 1719.

<sup>5</sup> Mar. Lic. Vic. Gen. 12 Jan. 1670-1, for John Wilson, widower, about 66, and Anna Penniell, widow, about 50, both of St. Margaret's, Westminster. See his burial 27 Feb. 1673-4, and that of her first husband 13 Jan. 1666-7.

<sup>8</sup> He eighth and youngest son of Sir Nathaniel Barnardiston, of Kedington, co. Suffolk, Kt., by Jane dau. of Sir Stephen Soame, of Little Thurlow Hall, same county, Kt. He was a merchant of London, and of Hoxton, Midx., and was buried at Kedington, 7 Jan. 1691-2. She a dau. of Sir Richard Lloyd, of Halam, Notts. The record of a hatchment in a Herald Painter's Work Book at the College of Arms establishes the date of her death as about 11 May 1687, and she was buried at Kedington on the 19th. A second wife has been assigned him in the accounts of the family, viz., Mary dau. of Sir Samuel Luke, who is also said to have remarried Samuel Blackerby, Esq. If so (and the fact seems confirmed by the record of another hatchment in the Work Book above mentioned, dated 1 Jan. 1691-2, where the coats-of-arms ordered to be painted are those of Barnardiston impaling Luke) the marriage must have taken place on his death bed. He was a widower at the date of his will, 20 Dec. 1691, for the first item in it reads, "I give to Mrs. Mary Ellis my intended wife £400." Mary, dau. of Sir Samuel Luke, was baptized at St. Anne, Blackfriars, 27 Jan. 1640-1, and would have been 50 years of age at this time. Le Neve, in his Baronets (MS. Coll. Arm.) says Arthur Barnardiston's second wife was "Mary dau. of Samuel Luke of Woodend, Cople, Beds," without giving him the knightly prefix. It may be doubted, therefore, that she was a daughter of Sir Samuel, but it seems clear that she was a Luke, and widow of an Ellis. She married, first, Simon Middleton, of Hackney, Midx., Esq. (father of Sir Hugh, first Bart.) to whom she was fourth wife. In the Mar. Lic. Vic. Gen., dated 6 Apl. 1672, she is called "Mary Luke, of Woodon [Woodend], Beds, spinster, aged about 24, and at her own disposal." She renounced the probate of her husband's will 29 Nov. 1680, and must have subsequently married Ellis, Barnardiston, and Blackerby in succession. She survived the latter and appears to have died about 1 May 1718, on which day a hatchment was ordered, to contain the arms of Blackerby impaling Luke. It has also been stated that this Arthur Barnardiston's daughter Anne was the first wife of Edward Fowler, Bishop of Gloucester. This is an error. He had no daughter of that name, and the Bishop's wife was his cousin, daughter of Arthur Barnardiston, one of Cromwell's Masters in Chancery in 1655, as appears by the inscription on her monument at Hendon, Midx.

<sup>3</sup> He eldest son of Thomas Warre, of Swell, co. Somerset, Esq., by Anne dau. of George Speke, of White Lackington, same county, Esq. She dau. of Richard Newman, of Fifehead Magdalen, co. Dorset, Esq., by Anne, eldest dau. of Sir Charles Harbord, Kt., Surveyor-General. She was baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 13 Sep. 1653. The Mar. Lic. D. and C. Westminster, is dated 22 Apl. preceding. She died before her husband, and was buried in Shepton Beauchamp church, co. Somerset, leaving four children. His will is dated 24 Oct. 1685, and Admon. was granted 26 Jan. following. A second wife, Cicely, survived him. (See marriages of her sisters 15 July 1675 and 6 Jan. 1675-6, and burials of her brother and sister 25 July 1668 and 23 July 1673.)

<sup>1</sup> In the unofficial register only. Mar. Lic. Fac. 16 Sep. 1672, for Sir John Ernle, of Burytown, Wilts, Kt., widower, and Dame Elizabeth Seymour, widow, relict of Charles Lord Seymour, late Baron of Trowbridge, in said county, deceased. This is the only license to be found at either of the three offices, near this date, authorizing the marriage to take place in the Abbey; which is probably a sufficient identification of the parties. He was son of John Ernle of Whetham, co. Wilts, Esq., by Philadelphia dau. of Sir Arthur Hopton of Wytham, co. Somerset, Kt. He was knighted Nov. 1665, became Chancellor of the Exchequer 21 Nov. 1679, which post he retained until the end of the reign of K. James II., and was also of the Privy Council, being sworn 10 May 1676. His will, dated 28 Aug. 1696, was proved 29 Nov. 1698, and he was buried at Calne, co. Wilts. She was eldest dau. of William first Lord Alington, by Elizabeth dau. of Sir Lionel Tollemache, second Bart. of Helmingham, co. Suffolk. By her first husband (to whom she was also second wife) Charles second Lord Seymour of Trowbridge, who died 1665, she was mother of the fifth and sixth Dukes of Somerset. By her second husband she had two daughters. She was buried at Horseheath, co. Cambridge, 30 Oct. 1691.

<sup>2</sup> He eldest son of Robert Warden of Leyland, co. Lancaster, and of Cholmeaton, co. Chester, Esq., Major General to K. Jas. II. and Treasurer to Q. Mary, by his first wife Jane Backham of co. Kent. He was created a Baronet 28 Nov. 1672, and D.C.L. at Oxford 22 May 1683. He held various important public appointments, among them that of Secretary to H.R.H. the Duke of York when Lord High Admiral, and was Commissioner of the Customs in the reigns of Kings James II. and William, and Q. Anne. She, his first wife, is only known in the records of the family as a dau. of the Rev. Dr. Osborne, and had no issue. He remarried Mary dau. of William Osborne of Kenyford, co. Devon, Esq., by whom he had issue, but the title became extinct on the death of their son Sir John, second Bart., 13 Feb. 1758. He and both wives were buried at St. Martin in the Fields; Dame Lucy, 7 Feb. 1678-9; Dame Mary, 22 Aug. 1683; and himself 7 Nov. 1716, having died 29 Oct. preceding, in his 77th year. In the register of that parish, as well as in the Oxford record, the surname is invariably Warden.

<sup>3</sup> He fourth but second surviving son of Sir Henry Blount, of Tittenhanger, Herts, Kt., by Hester dau. and coheir of Christopher Wase, of Upper Holloway, Midx., Esq. (and widow of Sir William Manwaring of Chester, Kt.), and was born at Upper Holloway 27 Apl. 1654. He was a man of considerable literary celebrity in his day, but after his wife's death his mind appears to have become somewhat unhinged, and he shot himself on the 28th of July 1693, because, as is alleged, he could not marry her sister, and died from the effects of the wound on the 31st Aug. following. She a sister of James Tyrrell, Esq. (see his marriage 18 Jan. 1668-9, and note), being fourth dau. of the same parents. She was buried in the church of Rolleston, co. Stafford, 27 Feb. 1688-9, but was afterwards removed and interred with her husband at Ridge, co. Herts.

<sup>4</sup> In Mar. Lic. D. and C. Westmr. 5 Dec. 1672, he is called only Philip Littleton, and she Frances Stork, both single. See his father's burial 12 May 1673. He was second son. See his own burial 1 July 1686.

<sup>6</sup> Mar. Lic. Vic. Gen. 8 Mch. 1672-3, for Richard Langley of Bexwells, co. Essex, Gent., bachelor, aged 28, and Mrs. Cecil Ellis, of St. Martin in the Fields, spinster, aged 18, with her mother's consent. He was knighted 5 Mch. 1672-3, as son of Alderman Langley of London. His will, as of St. Martin in the Fields, dated 8 Feb. 1677-8, was proved 30 Oct. following, by his friend Thomas Francis of the same parish. He left all his estates in Mold, co. Flint, and in the island of Jamaica, to his father, John Langley, Esq., and his wife is not mentioned. She was only dau. of Andrew Ellis of Alrey, co. Flint, Esq., by Frances second and youngest dau. and coheir of James Fiennes, second Viscount Say and Sele, and remarried William Fiennes, Esq., elder brother of Lawrence fifth Viscount, whom she also survived. She died, without issue, at Bath, 22 July 1715, in her 58th year, and was buried at Broughton, co. Oxford. Her Christian name, according to all the records, was Cecill, and she so signed her will. Her first husband appears not to have been officially recognised as a knight, not having paid the customary fees, and she is not called "Lady" either in her will or the probate.

<sup>1</sup> He son of Edward Skipwith, of Gosberton and Grantham, co. Lincoln, Esq., by Elizabeth dau. of Sir John Hatcher, of Careby (erroneously called Coteby in the Baronetages), co. Lincoln, Kt., who were married at Careby 18 May 1617. He was knighted 29 May 1673, made a Serjeant at Law 21 Apl. 1675, and created a Baronet, as of Metheringham, co. Lincoln, 27 July 1678. He died at his house in Lincoln's Inn Fields 2 June 1694, and was buried at Upminster, co. Essex, with his first wife, Elizabeth, dau. and heir of Ralph Latham, Esq., of that place. (See his daughter's marriage next following, and the burial of his son's wife 8 Jan. 1741-2). She dau. of Sir John Rea, of London and of Richmond, co. Surrey, Kt., and relict of Edward Maddison of Caistor, co. Lincoln, Esq., where he was buried 30 Mch. 1672. She survived her second husband, and was buried at Caistor aforesaid 19 Mch. 1697-8.

<sup>2</sup> The Baronetages call this Sir John Williams son of Sir John Williams who was created a Baronet 22 Apl. 1642, as of Minster, Isle of Thanet, co. Kent; but this is an error. Sir John Williams of Minster died a bachelor, 27 Feb. 1668-9, and is so described in the record of administration, which also says that he died in the Inner Temple. His brother, Sir Edmund Williams, was also created a Baronet, 19 Apl. 1642, and married Mary, fourth dau. of Sir John Beaumont, first Bart. of Grace Dieu, co. Leicester, who afterwards remarried John Tasburgh, Esq. Sir John Williams of this entry was the only issue of that marriage, and was baptized at St. Andrew's, Holborn, 11 Sep. 1642. He succeeded his father as second Bart. of Marnhull, on his death in 1644. He succeeded also to Minster Court, the estate of his uncle, and was his administrator. He died in St. Martin in the Fields, and his wife administered to his estate 22 Nov. 1680. She was dau. of Sir Thomas Skipwith by his first wife (see preceding entry and note), and, if the reports of the day are to be accepted, one of the favourites of the Duke of York. See her burial 26 Sep. 1689. Her will, dated 15 Sep., was first proved by her father, 13 Jan. 1689-90, and afterwards, 7 Jan. 1692-3, by her two daughters, Mary, then wife of Charles Petty, Baron Shelburne (in Ireland), and Susanna, then unmarried, but for the burial of whose husband see 28 Feb. 1716-7.

<sup>2</sup> He second son of John Upton of Lupton, co. Devon, Esq., by Dorothy dau. of Sir Anthony Rouse of Halton, co. Cornwall, Kt., and was a merchant in London. He married, first, Elizabeth dau. of John Bence, of London, by whom he had only one daughter, and, secondly, Jane, dau. of Sir John Lytcot of Moulsey, co. Surrey, Kt., by whom he had four sons and three daus., and who was buried at Stoke Newington, Midx., 8 Aug. 1672, where he was also buried 10 Dec. 1689, aged about 73. She, his third wife, was dau. of a Mr. Stow, of Canterbury, and married, first, a Mr. Agar, and, secondly (Mar. Lic. Bp. Lond. 24 Nov. 1666) the Rev. Dr. James Meggs, rector of Newington, co. Surrey, and of Theydon Garnon, co. Essex, who died 22 Jan. 1672-3, and was buried at Theydon Garnon. She survived her third husband, and was buried with him, at Stoke Newington, 4 Oct. 1713. See the burial of her sister, Mrs. Gibbs, 12 Dec. 1710.

<sup>3</sup> He only son of Sir Richard Howe, second Bart. of Compton, by Anne dau. of Dr. John King, Bishop of London, and relict of John Dutton of Sherborne, co. Gloucester, Esq. In the Mar. Lic. he is called of Grobham, Wilts, bachelor, aged about 22. He was M.P. for Wilts, succeeded as third Bart. in 1703, and died, without issue, 3 July 1736. She is erroneously called "Elizabeth" in the Abbey Register. Her name was Mary, and is so given in the Mar. Lic. Vic. Gen., dated 11 Aug. 1673, in which she is described as of St. Paul's, Covent Garden, spinster, about 18. She was eldest dau. of Sir Henry Frederick Thynne, first Bart. of Kempford, by Mary dau. of Thomas first Lord Coventry, and therefore sister to Thomas first Viscount Weymouth. She died 5 Sep. 1735, and her will, as Dame Mary Howe, was proved 22 Nov. following. See her sister's marriage, 3 Dec. 1674.

<sup>4</sup> He eldest son of Rev. Stephen Lodington, Rector of Leadenham, co. Lincoln, by his wife Susanna Leedall, and was baptized at Leadenham 22 July 1610. He became Rector of Carlton Scroope, in that county, as early as 1640, and was collated to the Archdeacons of Stow, 14 Nov. 1641, both of which preferments he held until his death, as he did also the rectory of Potter Hanworth, in the same county, to which he was instituted 18 July 1663. He was also collated to a Prebend of Lincoln, 15 Nov. 1641, which he resigned 7 May 1674, in favour of his only surviving son. He was created S. T. P. at Cambridge, by the King's command, in 1661. He died the 7th and was buried 10 Feb. 1676-7, at Carlton Scroope, and not in Lincoln Cathedral, as is sometimes erroneously stated. She was his second wife, and he her third husband. She was the youngest dau. and coheir of Thomas Streatfeild, of Shoreham, co. Kent, Esq., by Frances dau. of John Reeves, of London, Esq., and had previously been the wife of, first, William Stanley, of the Middle Temple, Esq., and secondly, of the Rev. Samuel Dillingham. She appears to have survived her last husband. (See the marriage of his daughter, 27 May 1680; and, perhaps, of his brother, 20 Apl. 1680.)

He was baptized 28 Dec. 1655, died 29 Apl. 1698, and was buried at Brome, co. Suffolk. See burial of his brother 17 Feb. 1682-3. She eldest dau. of Sir Stephen Fox, Kt., by his first wife Elizabeth, dau. of William Whittle of co. Lancaster, Esq., and died at Tunbridge Wells, 1682. See burials of their children, 9 May 1679 and 30 May 1680. See also burials of her brothers 17 Nov. 1667, 20 Oct. 1669, 28 Oct. 1675, 21 Nov. 1677, and 23 April 1680, and of her uncle 23 Nov. 1691; also of Lord Cornwallis's children by his second wife, 25 July 1690 and 27 May 1693.

<sup>3</sup> He only son of Major General Brett, of Rotherby, co. Leicester, sometime Governor of the Isle of Wight, by Frances dau. of Sir Henry Neville, of Billingbeere, co. Berks, Kt., and relict of Sir Richard Worseley, first Bart. of Appuldercombe. He had been previously married to Anne, dau. of Sir Ambrose Browne, first Bart. of Beechworth Castle, co. Surrey, by whom he had a daughter who died young. (In the publication of their marriage at St. Bride's, Fleet Street, she is called Mrs. Ann Leeds, and was probably a widow.) He was a Gentleman Pensioner in Ordinary, and died the 24th and was buried 27 May 1682, at St. Margaret's, Westminster, aged 50 years and 4 months. A tablet to his memory has been removed from its original position in the chancel, and is now on the wall of the vestibule of that church. Mary, his second wife, was dau. of Col. John Jeaffreson, of Dullingham, co. Cambridge. In the Mar. Lic. Vic. Gen., dated the day of the marriage, her age is given as 23 years. She survived her husband, and remarried, but died before 30 June 1703, as on that day letters of Administration de bonis non were granted to Christopher Jeaffreson, of Dullingham, Esq., on the estate of said Charles Brett, his relict and executrix, Mary Morgan alias Brett, being also deceased.

<sup>4</sup> He third and youngest son of Sir Thomas Hatton, first Bart. of Long Stanton, co. Cambridge, by Mary dau. of Sir Giles Alington, of Horseheath, co. Cambridge, Kt. He was of the Middle Temple, and aged about 23 at his marriage. He subsequently succeeded his two nephews as fifth Bart., and died Oct. 1720. She eldest dau. of Thomas Buck of Westwick, co. Cambridge, Esq., by his first wife, Rebecca, dau. of Thomas Lovering, of the city of Norwich. In the Mar. Lic. Vic. Gen., dated 15 June 1674, she is called a spinster, aged about 20, and was to marry with her father's consent. She died July 1710. He was nephew to Sir Christopher Hatton buried 11 Sep. 1619.

<sup>5</sup> He eldest son of Col. John Lowther, of Lowther, co. Westmoreland, by his first wife Elizabeth, dau. and coheir of Sir Henry Bellingham, first Bart. of Hilsington, and was born at Hackthorp Hall, in Lowther, in 1655. He succeeded to the (Nova Scotia) Baronetcy in 1675, and was created Viscount Lonsdale 28 May 1696. He died 10 July 1700, aged 45 years 2 months and 18 days, and was buried at Lowther. (See his sister's burial 23 Oct. 1724.) She second and youngest dau. of Sir Henry Frederick Thynne, first Bart. of Kempsford, by Mary dau. of Thomas first Lord Coventry, and was born at Caus Castle, in Shropshire, 21 Sep. 1653. Her will, dated 30 Sep. 1711, was proved 25 June 1713. See her sister's marriage 12 Aug. 1673.

<sup>2</sup> He eldest surviving son of Sir John Monson, K.B., by Judith, eldest dau. of Sir Thomas Pelham, second Bart. of Laughton. He was baptized at Burton, co. Lincoln 17 Sep. 1653, succeeded his grandfather as third Bart. of Carlton 29 Dec. 1683, was M.P. for the city of Lincoln in three successive Parliaments, died without issue the 6th, and was buried at South Carlton, co. Lincoln 18 Apl. 1718. She dau. of Charles Cheyne, first Viscount Newhaven, by his first wife Lady Jane Cavendish, eldest surviving dau. of William first Duke of Newcastle. She was baptized at Chelsea, co. Midx., 18 May 1656, survived her husband, and, dying the 20th, was buried with him 29 Apl. 1725, at South Carlton.

<sup>3</sup> He third but second surviving son of the Hon. and Rev. Henry Fairfax (fourth but second surviving son of Thomas first Baron Fairfax of Cameron), rector of Bolton Percy, co. York, by Mary dau. of Sir Henry Cholmley, and was born at Newton Kyme, co. York, 6 Oct. 1633. He was M.A. of Oxford 28 Sep. 1663, and created D.C.L. there 6 Aug. 1677. He was Equerry to K. Chas. II., and sometime Secretary to Archbishop Tillotson, and died 20 Sept. 1711. She only dau. and heir of Sir Edmund Cary, Kt. (great-grandson of the first Lord Hunsdon), by Anne dau. of Sir Charles Gerard, of Halsall, co. Lancaster, Kt. She died 14 Nov. 1709.

<sup>6</sup> He son of Sir Edward Honywood, first Bart. of Evington, by Elizabeth dau. of Sir John Maynard, of Tooting, co. Surrey, Kt. He was second Bart., died 8 June 1748, in his 94th year, and was buried at Elmstead, co. Kent. (See his sister's marriage 12 June 1673). She dau. of Richard Newman of Fifehead Magdalen, co. Dorset, Esq., by Anne eldest dau. of Sir Charles Harbord, Kt. She was baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 3 Sep. 1657, died 26 Oct. 1736, and was buried at Elmstead. See marriages of her sisters 18 July 1672 and 6 Jan. 1675-6, and burials of her brother and sister 25 July 1668 and 23 July 1673.

<sup>7</sup> In the Mar. Lic. D. and C. Westmr. dated 1 Nov. 1675, he is called a widower and she a spinster, both of St. Margaret's, Westminster. She appears not to have lived very long, as he had another license, from the Vicar General, 22 Apl. 1680, his age then being 54, to marry Mrs. Elizabeth Cotter, also of St. Margaret's, a widow, aged 42. They were also to marry in the Abbey, but no record of the marriage occurs in the register. In this second marriage license his name is spelled Vanbracht, and he is called "Esquire." He died at sea, on board the ship Gloucester, and administration was granted on his estate, 16 June 1682, to his relict Elizabeth. On the 27th Sept. 1687 administration was granted on her estate to her dau. Elizabeth Cotter (who then also administered de bonis non to her step-father), and she was described as late of St. Ann's, Westminster, but died at Stepney, co. Midx. (This entry is in the unofficial register only.)

co. Dorset, Esq., by Anne eldest dau. of Sir Charles Harbord, Kt., and was baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 8 July 1659. She administered on her husband's estate 8 June 1681, having already remarried Edward Scott, Esq., and both were still living in Sep. 1695, the date of her father's will. See burials of a son by each of her husbands, 28 June 1699, and marriages of her sisters, 18 July 1672 and 15 July 1675; also burials of her brother and sister, 25 July 1668 and 23 July 1673.

<sup>1</sup> He a Citizen and Fishmonger of London, of the parish of St. Mary Aldermanbury. His will, dated 20 Feb., was proved 5 May 1699. She youngest dau. of Rev. Dr. Walter Jones, Prebendary and Sub-dean of Westminster (see his burial 15 July 1672), by Philippa dau. of Dr. Samuel Fell, Dean of Christ-Church, Oxford. She died before her husband, leaving issue Anne, Benjamin, and Richard. Another son, John, was living at the date of her mother's will, 20 Sep. 1678, but is not named in that of her husband. See her brother's baptism 10 Dec. 1663, and her sister's marriage 3 Dec. 1668.

<sup>2</sup> He, eldest son of Sir Richard Brownlow, second Bart. of Humby, by Elizabeth dau. of John Freke of Cerne Abbas, co. Dorset, Esq., was born 26 June and baptized, at Rippingale, co. Lincoln, 6 July 1659. He succeeded as third Bart., on the death of his father, 3 Aug. 1668, married in his 17th year, and died, without male issue, 16 July 1697. She eldest dau. of Richard Sherard of Lobthorpe, co. Lincoln, Esq. (father of the first Baronet of that name and place), by Margaret dau. of Lumley Dewe, of Upton Bishop, co. Hereford, Esq. She survived her husband, and her will was proved in 1721. Their four daus. and coheirs married, respectively, Peregrine second Duke of Ancaster, John sixth Earl of Exeter, Francis second Lord Guilford, and John Viscount Tyrconnel.

<sup>3</sup> Mar. Lic. Vic. Gen. 22 May 1676: he of St. Olave's, Southwark, Citizen and Embroiderer, bachelor, aged 28; she of St. Dunstan in the West, spinster, aged 23, her parents dead. The names are there given Mytton and Gwin: in the unofficial register they are Mytton and Gwyn.

<sup>4</sup> He eldest surviving son of Sir John Newton second Bart. of Barr's Court, by Mary dau. of Sir Gervase Eyre of Rampton, co. Notts, Kt., and succeeded as third Bart. on the death of his father, 31 May 1699. She dau. of William Heveningham, of Heveningham, co. Suffolk, Esq., by Mary only surviving dau. and heir of John Cary second Earl of Dover. She died 11 May 1686, in her 26th year, and was buried at Haydor, co. Lincoln. He remarried, at St. Giles in the Fields, 23 Mch. 1690-1, Susanna, dau. of Michael Warton of Beverley, co. York, Esq., and fourth wife and relict of Sir John Bright of Badsworth, co. York, Bart., who survived him. He died 12 Feb. 1733-4, aged 83, and was buried at Haydor. See burial of their grandchild, 30 Mch. 1703.

<sup>5</sup> Edmund Pipes, Gent. (so called in his marriage license) was Clerk of the Kitchen to the College, but was removed from that office, 15 Jan. 1683-4, on account of certain defalcations. The Chapter Book also states, 10 Jan. 1686-7, complaints of "several tradesmen from whom he had taken up goods for the College, and had not paid them money given him for that purpose." She was his third wife (see burials of his first and second, 6 Apl. 1665, and 18 June 1676). This entry is in the unofficial register only. (See also a baptism 11 Dec. 1666, and burials 7 Aug. 1667, 11 Mch. 1678-9, and 20 Feb. 1680-1.) A dau. evidently of this marriage, named Ryall, was baptized at Drypool, co. York, 12 Mch. 1692-3, but the name does not occur again in that register.

<sup>2</sup> (In the unofficial register only). Mar. Lic. Vic. Gen. 23 Dec. 1676, for Timothy Puller, of Sacombe, Herts, D.D., bachelor, about 38, and Mrs. Alice Codrington, of Kingston, Surrey, spinster, about 25 : to marry at Henry 7th's Chapel, Westminster. This seems sufficiently to identify the "couple" whose names were unknown to the scribe 200 years ago. Timothy Puller, son and heir of Isaac Puller of Hertford, Herts, Esq., by his wife Elizabeth, dau. of Gabriel Barbor of Hertford, was admitted to Gray's Inn 12 Feb. 1657-8, but appears afterwards of Jesus College, Cambridge, A.M. 1660, S.T.B. 1667, and S.T.P. 1673. He became Rector of Sacombe 11 July 1671, and of St. Mary-le-Bow, London, 23 Sep. 1679, and held both livings until his death. His will, dated 9 Oct. 1693, was proved 23 Jan. following. Anthony Wood says that he died in Nov. 1693, and was buried in the church of St. Mary-le-Bow. His wife was the only child of William Codrington, of St. Gregory's, London, citizen and draper, by Mary dau. of William Haslefoot, of St. John Zachary, London, Gent. She survived her husband, as did also two sons and two daughters.

<sup>3</sup> Rightly Sir Henry Pickering, only son of Sir Henry Pickering, first Bart. of Whaddon, co. Cambridge, by Elizabeth dau. of Sir Thomas Viner, first Bart., Lord Mayor of London in 1653. He succeeded to the baronetcy, on the death of his father, 4 Mch. 1667-8. She, his first wife, was second dau. of Sir George Downing, first Bart. of East Hatley, co. Cambridge, by Frances fourth dau. of Sir William Howard, and sister of Charles, first Earl of Carlisle. (See her sister's marriage 16 Feb. 1685-6.) A daughter of this marriage, named Elizabeth, was baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 27 Nov. 1679. The mother probably died at Barbadoes, where Sir Henry was living at the date of his mother's will, 1693, with a second wife, Grace Sylvester, of that island, and where he also died. His will, dated 15 Apl., was proved 27 Oct. 1705. His remains were brought to this country and buried at Whaddon. The baronetcy evidently became extinct at his death.

<sup>4</sup> He held, in 1673, the place of Comptroller of the Customs at Newcastle-on-Tyne, when he petitioned the Government for the reversion of the same in behalf of his brother George. He was buried, as "Captain Foster," at St. Martin in the Fields, 25 Mch. 1678, and in the record of administration on his estate, 8 Apl. following, he is called of that parish, and "Esq." The name is sometimes written Foster. She was one of the four daus. and coheirs of Col. Henry Washington (eldest son of Sir William Washington, Kt., by Anne Villiers, half sister of George first Duke of Buckingham), by Elizabeth dau. of Sir John Pakington first Bart. There was one dau., Catharine, of this marriage. Mrs. Foster remarried (Mar. Lic. Fac. 9 Mch. 1686-7), being then about 27 years of age, Barnabas Tonstall, of the Middle Temple, Esq., son and heir of the Rev. Frederick Tonstall, of Edgcombe, co. Surrey, and was living 24 Dec. 1698. The documentary evidence connected with her history establishes the fact that her father had no male issue (at least, surviving), and therefore destroys the theory that he may have been the ancestor of the first American President.

<sup>2</sup> He son of John Chase, Esq., of Marlow, Bucks, Apothecary to K. Chas. II., by Elizabeth dau. of the Rev. Thomas Soame, D.D., Canon of Windsor. In the Visitation of London, 1687, he is also called "Apothecary to the King's Royal Person." He was afterwards M.P. for Marlow for 20 years. He died 23 June 1721, æt. 72, and was buried at Little Marlow. She second and youngest dau. of Sir Ralph Box, of London, Kt., by Elizabeth dau. of Philip Jermyn, Esq., Serjeant at Law. She died 28 Sep. 1736, æt. 77, and was also buried at Little Marlow.

<sup>3</sup> Thomas Lechmere was admitted to the Middle Temple, 13 Feb. 1670-1, as son and heir of Thomas Lechmere of London, Gent., deceased. In the Mar. Lic. Vic. Gen., which is dated 24 Dec., he is called a bachelor, aged about 26, and described as of the Middle Temple, Esq. He survived his wife, and was buried in the Temple Church 1 Nov. 1703. She was eldest dau. of Thomas Blagrove, Citizen and Vintner of London, sometimes called Captain Blagrove in the parish register of St. Christopher le Stocks, where he was a resident, by his first wife Jane, dau. of Owen Taylor, of Upper Wych, co. Chester, who was buried in that church 6 May 1683. (Capt. Blagrove, according to his will, held the Crown Tavern in Threadneedle Street, and other property at Isleworth, Midx., and Caversham, co. Oxford. For an interesting notice of him and the Crown Tavern, see Burn's London Tradesmen's Tokens, p. 190. He was buried at St. Christopher's 17 Sep. 1693.) There were two sons and two daus. of this marriage, and Mrs. Lechmere was buried at St. Christopher's 9 Dec. 1684.

<sup>6</sup> He son of Peter Beckford, of Maidenhead, co. Berks, where born. He was Alderman of London, Sheriff in 1677, and knighted 29 Oct. that year. His will, dated 10 Aug., was proved 1 Oct. 1685. She dau. of William Thomas of Folkington, co. Sussex, Esq., by Katherine dau. of George Rose of Eastergate near Chichester, and of Woodman Court, co. Sussex, Esq., and was sister of Sir William Thomas of Folkington, Bart. She was baptized at West Dean, co. Sussex, 3 Mch. 1645-6. She married, first (Mar. Lic. Vic. Gen. 16 May 1665), then about 19 years of age, John Eversfield of Horsham, co. Sussex, Esq. (see their daughter's marriage 10 Feb. 1680-1). After Sir Thomas Beckford's death she remarried (Mar. Lic. Fac. 30 Sep. 1686), Corbett Henc, of St. Martin in the Fields, Gent. Surviving him also, she married, fourthly, Sir Henry Fermor, Bart., of Welches, co. Sussex, and died before 1732.

<sup>3</sup> He eldest son of Sir Theophilus Biddulph, Kt. and first Bart. of Westcombe (Greenwich), co. Kent, by Susanna dau. of Zachary Highlord, Alderman of London. According to the Mar. Lic. Fac., dated the previous day, his age was 24. He succeeded as second Bart. on his father's death in April 1683. She his first wife, dau. of Col. Roger Whitley, then of St. Helen's, London, afterwards of Peele co. Chester, by Charlotte dau. of Sir Charles Gerard of Halsall, co. Lancaster, Kt. (see her burial 18 Oct. 1662). The Mar. Lic. gives her age as 20. See her burial 15 Sep. 1689, and note. Sir Michael remarried Elizabeth dau. of William D'Oyley, Esq. (who survived him), and is said to have died 20 Apl. 1718, but his will was not proved until 26 May 1719.

<sup>4</sup> He fourth but third surviving son of Sir Thomas Willys, first Bart. of Fen Ditton, co. Cambridge, by Anne eldest dau. and coheir of Sir John Wilde, of Canterbury, Kt. He was of London, a Hamburg merchant, and was buried at Fen Ditton 9 Aug. 1706, aged about 67. She his second wife, dau. of Robert Gore, of Garlick Hithe, Merchant of London, and of Chelsea. She was first married, at St. Luke's, Chelsea, 19 Dec. 1667 (Mar. Lic. Vic. Gen. 16 Dec.), then aged about 19, to George Evelyn, eldest son of George Evelyn of Wotton, co. Surrey, Esq., who died in 1676. She died 20 Aug. 1720, and was buried at Nackington, co. Kent. Their sons, Thomas and William, owing to the failure of male issue in the elder branches of the family, became successively fifth and sixth Barts. of Fen Ditton, and on the death of the latter, unmarried, 14 Apl. 1732, the baronetcy became extinct.

<sup>5</sup> He younger son of Sir Ralph Dutton, Gent. of the Privy Chamber Extraordinary to K. Chas. I., and Sheriff of Gloucestershire 1630, by Mary dau. of Sir William Duncombe, of London, Kt. He was M.P. for Gloucestershire, and was created a Baronet 22 June 1678. She his second wife, only surviving dau. of Dr. Peter Barwick, Physician in Ordinary to K. Chas. II., by his wife Anne (previously the wife of Richard Howlet, Dean of Cashel in Ireland, and of Mr. Sayon, a merchant of London, and said to have been a near kinswoman of Archbishop Laud). She was baptized at St. Gregory's, London, 2 Feb. 1661-2. The baptisms of several of their children occur in the registers of St. Margaret, Westminster. Her will, dated 22 July, 1721, was proved 4 Oct. 1723.

<sup>6</sup> He eldest son of Sir John Cotton, first Bart. of Landwade, co. Cambridge, by Jane dau. and sole heir of Edward Hinde, Esq. He succeeded as second Bart. about 1690, and was Recorder of Cambridge, and M.P. for that town. He died the 20th and was buried 23 Jan. 1712-3, at Landwade. She dau. of Sir Joseph Sheldon, Kt., Alderman of London, and Lord Mayor in 1675, being only surviving child by his first wife, Elizabeth, dau. of William Clifton of St. Paul's, Covent Garden, and coheir with her only surviving half sister. She became the mother of two sons and nine daughters. (In Collectanea, by a curious blunder, her name is omitted, and that of Mary Barwick, of the preceding entry, repeated instead).

<sup>2</sup> Robert Berkeley of Spetchley, co. Worcester, son of Thomas Berkeley of Ravenshill, same county, Esq. (only son of Sir Robert Berkeley, Kt., one of the Judges of the King's Bench), by Anne eldest dau. of William Darell, of Scotney, co. Kent, Esq. He was born 15 July 1650, and died 14 Jan. 1693-4. He was buried at Spetchley, and his will was proved 2 Apl. following. He apparently left no issue. Elizabeth, eldest dau. and coheir of Sir Richard Blake, of St. John's, Clerkenwell, co. Midx., Kt., by Elizabeth dau. of John Bathurst, M.D., Physician to Oliver Cromwell, and subsequently of Richmond and Arkendale, co. York. She was born 8 Nov. 1662. She survived her husband, and in May, 1700, remarried the Rt. Rev. Gilbert Burnet, Bishop of Salisbury, to whom she was third wife. She died 3 Feb. 1708-9, and was buried at Spetchley with her first husband. (See an interesting memoir of her prefixed to her "Method of Devotion," of which there were several editions).

<sup>7</sup> (In the unofficial register only). Mar. Lic. Fac. same date: he of Reigate, Surrey, bachelor, aged about 24: she of Whitechapel, spinster, about 17, her parents dead.—Haeſtrecht James was son of Roger James of Reigate, Esq. (only son of Sir Roger James Kt. and Mary Aucher) by Elizabeth his wife. Margaret Meggs was only surviving child of William Meggs, Esq., and Mary his wife, and sole heir to her grandfather, Rev. James Meggs, D.D., Rector of Newington, Surrey, and of Theydon Garnon, co. Essex (see his second wife's remarriage 7 Aug. 1673). She was baptized at Theydon Garnon 21 Sep. 1662. There were eleven children by this marriage. She survived her husband, to whose estate she administered 19 Nov. 1702, and was living 13 Nov. 1710, as appears by the will of her grandfather's widow, having remarried a Mr. Newton.

<sup>8</sup> (In the unofficial register only). See burials 17 June 1689, 16 May 1690, and 26 May 1726, for Catherine Forster; also marriages 6 Nov. 1679 and 1 Jan. 1688-9, and burials 7 June 1670, 24 Apl. 1678, 14 Dec. 1682, and 4 Mch. 1685-6, all probably of her family.

above 40, and a widower, and Alice Stevenson of co. Midx., above 40, widow.—“Last Friday night the corpse of Richard Sheldon, Esq., who died last week at his house in Hatton Garden, was interred in great solemnity in the family vault at Thornham in the county of Essex” (Daily Gazetteer, 10 Jan. 1736-7).

<sup>2</sup> Six children of this marriage were baptized, and one buried, at St. John's, Hampstead, Midx., between 16 Mch. 1680-1 and 19 Oct. 1694, after which last date the name disappears from the register. Four other daughters were born elsewhere. The only Daniel in the editor's extensive Lodington collections was a younger brother of Archdeacon Lodington (see his marriage 14 Aug. 1673), who was baptized at Leadenham, co. Lincoln, 5 Oct. 1626, and who, though advanced in life, would not have been necessarily too old for this marriage. He was living as late as 26 July 1699, but died before the date of his wife's will. The unofficial register gives the name as that family always wrote it, viz. Lodington. She was second dau. of James Ware, formerly Citizen and Vintner of London, but described in his will, in 1671, as of Hampstead, Midx., Gent., by his wife Elizabeth dau. of Thomas Prouse of Willesden, co. Devon, Esq. Her will, as of South Mimms, Midx., dated 12 Aug. 1726, was proved 13 Nov. 1733.

<sup>4</sup> He second but eldest surviving son of Sir Ralph Verney, first Bart. of Middle Claydon, Bucks, by Mary dau. and heir of John Blacknall of Wasing and Abingdon, Berks, Esq. In the Mar. Lic. Vic. Gen. he is called of London, merchant, a bachelor, aged about 35. He succeeded as second Bart. 24 Sep. 1696, and was created, 16 June 1703, Baron Verney of Belturbet and Viscount Fermanagh in the peerage of Ireland. He died the 23rd and was buried 28 June 1717, at Middle Claydon, in his 76th year. See his second marriage 10 July 1692. She was eldest dau. of Ralph Palmer of Chelsea, co. Midx., Esq., by Alice White, of the family of Dr. Francis White, Bishop of Ely, and her age is given in the Mar. Lic. as about 16. She died the 20th and was buried 28 May 1686, at Middle Claydon. Her only son, Ralph, succeeded as second Viscount Fermanagh, and was created Earl Verney. (An entry of the marriage of “Mr. Vernon and Mrs. Elizabeth Palmer” in the register of St. Luke's, Chelsea, under date of “1680,” is evidently a mere memorandum referring to the ceremony, which undoubtedly took place in the Abbey, although the place named in the license is Chelsea. The absence of the precise date, and the incorrect spelling of the name, in the Chelsea register, render this almost certain.)

Worville, Berks, and was born about 1641 (Visitation of Northamptonshire, 1681). He was of Christ's College, Cambridge; A.B. 1660, and A.M. 1664. He became Rector of Tansor, co. Northampton, and was collated Prebendary of Lincoln 30 May 1672, but resigned in 1675, and was installed Prebendary of Peterborough 6 June 1676. He died 18 Aug. 1685. She is described in the Visitation mentioned as dau. of Matthias Ring, Citizen and Plumber of London, and was his second wife. His first wife was Dorothy, dau. of John Sayer, of Bouchier's Hall, co. Essex, Esq. She died 22 Aug. 1677, and was buried at Tansor.

<sup>5</sup> Mar. Lic. Fac. 10 Apl. 1681, for Reynolds Calthorpe, of the Middle Temple, Esq., bachelor, aged 26, and Dame Priscilla Knight, of Chawton, co. Southampton, widow, about 28.—He was third son of James Calthorpe of Apton, co. Suffolk, Esq. (sometimes called "Knight," having received that title from Oliver Cromwell), by Dorothy dau. of (Sir?) James Reynolds, one of Cromwell's Admirals. She was dau. of Sir Robert Reynolds of Elvetham, Hants, by his wife Priscilla (who remarried Henry Alexander fourth Earl of Stirling, and died in 1691, when her dau. Priscilla Calthorpe administered to her estate). She was born 25 July 1650, and was first married to Sir Richard Knight, of Chawton, Hants, who was knighted 10 Jan. 1667-8, and died without issue. She died 29 Aug. 1709, and was buried at Elvetham, where her only son, Reynolds Calthorpe, born 6 Nov. 1689 and died 10 Apl. 1714, was also buried. Her husband remarried (Spec. Lic. Fac. 11 June 1715) Hon. Barbara Yelverton, eldest dau. of Henry first Viscount Longueville, and, dying 12 Apl. 1719, was also buried at Elvetham, aged 63.

of Morden, co. Surrey, by Dorothy dau. of Robert Greenwell of the same place, Gent. A daughter of this marriage was baptized at Morden 19 Mch. 1681-2 and buried there the same year, after which the name disappears from the Morden register. The immediate predecessor of Rev. Edward Booth in the Rectory was his uncle Rev. William Booth, and they were of the family of that name at Wootton, co. Lincoln.

<sup>1</sup> Mar. Lic. Vic. Gen. same date, for Gilbert Gerrard of St. Martin in the Fields, co. Midx., Esq., aged 19 and upwards, with consent of his father Sir Gilbert Gerrard Kt. and Bart., and the Hon. Mary Bartley, of the same parish, spinster, about 18, with consent of her guardian the Earl of Dorset, her parents being dead.—He was son of Sir Gilbert Gerard, first Bart. of Fiskerton, co. Lincoln (who was buried in York Minster 24 Sep. 1687), by his second wife, Mary, dau. and co-heir of Dr. John Cosin, Bishop of Durham, and succeeded as second Bart. She was only dau. and heir (posthumous, or born very near the date of her father's death) of Charles Berkeley, Earl of Falmouth (see his burial 22 June 1665), by Mary only surviving dau. of Col. Hervey Bagot (younger son of Sir Hervey Bagot, first Bart. of Blithfield, co. Stafford), who remarried Charles Sackville, sixth Earl of Dorset of that family, and died in 1679. She was divorced from her husband in 1684, and died 18 Apl. 1693, in her 28th year, according to her monument at Bexley, co. Kent, where she was buried. Sir Gilbert (usually called Sir Gilbert Cosin Gerard) remarried the divorced (fourth) wife of Sir Samuel Morland (see note to a burial 24 Feb. 1679-80), and the subsequent history and fate of this wretched couple are entirely unknown. The baronetcy became extinct at his death.

<sup>3</sup> He only surviving son of Dr. Thomas Willis, the celebrated physician of his day (see his burial 18 Nov. 1675), by his first wife, Mary, dau. of Dr. Samuel Fell, Dean of Christ Church (see her burial 3 Nov. 1670). He was born about 1658, probably in the parish of St. John, in the city of Oxford. He matriculated at Oxford, from Christ Church, 22 Mch. 1672-3, aged 15; and was B.A. 26 Oct. 1676, and M.A. 23 June 1679. He was afterwards of Whaddon and Bletchley, co. Bucks, and, dying the 11th, was buried at the latter place 15 Nov. 1699. She dau. of Robert Browne, of Blandford St. Mary, co. Dorset, Esq., by Alice dau. of Joseph Frankmore, of Shoreham, co. Sussex, merchant of London. She was born at Stepney, co. Midx., 2 June 1663, and, dying the 9th, was buried at Bletchley 13 Jan. 1699-1700. This entry was unaccountably omitted in Collectanea, and, which is still more extraordinary, Browne Willis, the celebrated antiquary, who was their first child, does not appear, from a careful examination of his MSS., ever to have ascertained the date or place of their marriage. In one of his MSS. in the Bodleian Library (4to 40.) a note in his handwriting gives the precise date and place of his mother's birth, in order to correct the statement of her age on her monument, and he adds, "This was not known till about 1737: Mr. Wotton, B.D., wrote these epitaphs about 1704."

<sup>5</sup> (In the unofficial register only.) See his burial 11 June 1713, and hers 17 Jan. 1727-8. The marriage is not recorded in the register of Bromley, co. Kent, and probably took place in the chapel of the Bishop's Palace there; the Bishop of Rochester being then also Dean of Westminster, and the parties connected with the Abbey.

<sup>6</sup> He eldest son of John Godschall, of London, Merchant, and of East Sheen, co. Surrey, who died in 1691, by his wife Jane. He was also an eminent Turkey Merchant in London, and of East Sheen, where he died 10 Oct. 1725. His will, dated 24 Sep., was proved 22 Oct. the same year. She died before her husband. Their third son, Sir Robert Godschall, knighted 31 Oct. 1735, being then Sheriff of London, was afterwards Lord Mayor, and died in that office 26 June 1742. Their third dau. Jane was wife of the celebrated Sir John Barnard, Lord Mayor in 1737, and thus ancestress of the late Viscount Palmerston and Lord Hotham.

<sup>1</sup> He fourth but eldest surviving son of John Parker of Reigate, co. Surrey, Esq., by his second wife, Anne, dau. of John Ashe, of Freshford, co. Somerset, Esq., and relict of Nathaniel Barnard, of Shepton, co. Somerset. He died 23 May 1689, aged 35, and was buried in Reigate church. His will, dated 13 May, was proved 28 June 1689. She dau. of James Ashe of Fyfield, co. Wilts, Esq., brother of her husband's mother. She died 11 Sep. 1720, and was also buried in Reigate church. They had issue, John, James, Anne, and Elizabeth, of whom the three latter were living in 1693.

<sup>2</sup> The unofficial register says: "Mr. Samuell Grascome married to Mrs. Eliz. Watkins. My Lord married them privately, he being his curate att Bromley." Dr. John Dolben was then Bishop of Rochester and Dean of Westminster. A Samuel Grascome was A.B. of Magdalen Coll., Cambridge, 1664, and A.M. 1674.

<sup>4</sup> He afterwards of Haughley, co. Suffolk, where his will was dated 4 June 1697, but not proved until 26 Apl. 1717. She eldest dau. of John Nedham, Receiver-General and Solicitor of the Abbey (see his burial 13 Feb. 1705-6) by his wife Jane (see her burial 7 Apl. 1708). Her will, dated 1 May 1724, was proved 19 Jan. following. See baptisms of their children 14 Oct. 1683, 11 Feb. 1691-2, and 26 July 1695, and burials 15 Dec. 1705, and 24 Apl. 1716.

<sup>5</sup> The baronetcy of Middleton of Ruthyn is usually said to have merged into that of Middleton of Hackney, in 1675, on the decease without issue of Sir Hugh Middleton third Bart. of the former creation. His successor is said to have been Hugh Middleton of Hackney, eldest son of Simon Middleton (youngest son of Sir Hugh Middleton first Bart. of Ruthyn, the projector of the New River) by his second wife, Mary, dau. of John Soame of Burnham Market, co. Norfolk, Esq. This is a manifest error, as this last Hugh was himself created a baronet 6 Dec. 1681, and there could have been no necessity for such a creation if he was already a baronet by succession. This Sir Hugh, first Bart. of Hackney, married Dorothy dau. of Sir William Oglander first Bart. of Nunwell, Isle of Wight, from whom he is erroneously said to have been divorced. An Act of Parliament, which received the royal assent 2 May 1690, merely confirmed a settlement for her separate maintenance, and she died his wife about 1700, and evidently without male issue. He is further said to have wasted his estate, and to have died in obscurity about the commencement of the 18th century, when the baronetcy became extinct. It has also been supposed that he was identical with a certain Hugh Middleton, who resided at Kemberton in Shropshire under the assumed name of William Raymond, and died "10 March 1702." All writers have left the history of the two families, and the fate of the two baronetcies, in the utmost obscurity, which this entry in the Abbey Register may at least partially clear up. About the lady there can be no doubt whatever. She was dau. and coheir of Henry Hall of Gretford and Burton Coggles, co. Lincoln, Esq., by Elizabeth dau. of Sir Edward Hartopp first Bart. of Freathby, co. Leicester, and relict of Montague Cholmley of Easton, co. Lincoln, Esq. The editor finds among his notes from the parish register of St. Peter's, Nottingham, the burial, 7 Mch. 1732-3, of "Dame Elizabeth Myddelton relict of Sir Hugh Middleton Barnt." Her will is dated 30 Apl. 1731, in which she is called "of the town of Nottingham, widow of Sir Hugh Middleton, Baronet." She left bequests to her son Sir Hugh Middleton, Bart., and to her daus. Charlotte, Anne, and Margaret, and appointed said Charlotte and Margaret joint executrices. The latter, as Margaret Middleton, spinster, proved the will as surviving executrix, 8 Jan. 1735-6, the former having been buried at St. Mary's, Nottingham, 2 Dec. 1735. The editor finds also among his notes from the register of St. Mary's, Nottingham, the burial, 2 Feb. 1700-1, of "Sir Hugh Middleton, Baronet," and thinks there can be little danger in regarding these two entries as referring to the persons married in the Abbey. As to the identity of Sir Hugh, the probability seems to be that Sir Hugh, third Bart. of Ruthyn, did not, as has been supposed, die without male issue, but that this was his son and successor, numerically fourth Bart., and that his son Sir Hugh, named in his widow's will, became fifth Bart., and was married, at St. Benet's, Paul's Wharf, London, 8 May 1716, to Ann Comyns, of Chigwell, co. Essex, who were both buried at Chigwell, he 16 Nov. 1756, and she 31 Dec. 1764, having had a son Hugh, who succeeded as sixth Bart., and was sometime of Chigwell, an object of common charity. The Sir Hugh buried at Nottingham in 1700-1 appears to have left no will, which may indicate that he was in a reduced state, while the fact that his widow's will was not proved until nearly three years after her death would justify the inference that her bequests were comparatively unimportant. It may be added that Carlisle names Sir Hugh Middleton, Bart., as one of the Gentlemen of the Privy Chamber in 1685, and that Le Neve, in his MS. Baronets, mentions as M.P., in 1694, Sir Hugh Middleton, Bart., "son of Sir Hugh Middleton of Ruthyn and Elizabeth his wife," and this contemporaneous record, it must be remembered, was nineteen years after the third Bart. of Ruthyn is said to have died without issue. (A Sir Hugh Middleton, Bart., according to the Journal of the House of Lords, 20 Feb. and 1 Mch. 1664-5, was Gentleman Usher in Ordinary to H.R.H. the then Duke of York.)

<sup>1</sup> See her burial 10 Aug. 1686. He was Clerk of the Kitchen to the Queen Dowager in 1692.—Mar. Lic. Vic. Gen. 7 Feb. 1695-6, for William Yardley, of St. Clement Danes, Gent., widower, aged about 38, and Mrs. Elizabeth Symonds, of St. Mary Woolnoth, London, spinster, about 28, and at her own disposal; to marry at Putney, co. Surrey. (The marriage is not in the Putney register.) He was buried at Greenwich, co. Kent, 14 Jan. 1706-7, and his will proved the next day by his second wife and relict, Elizabeth, whose will, dated at Somerset House 19 May, was proved 27 Oct. 1718.

(This entry in the unofficial register only). The will of Elizabeth Clarke, of St. Margaret's, Westminster, widow, dated 12 May 1714, was proved (D. & C. Westmr.) 13 May 1715, by her dau. Barbara Clarke, residuary legatee. The only other legatees were her son John Clarke, and her daus. Margaret Evans and Jane Fruin.

<sup>6</sup> He matriculated at Oxford, from Queen's College, 14 Nov. 1661, aged 16, as son of Thomas Milne, of Shap, co. Westmoreland. He signed his own name "Milne" in the Subscription Book, but subsequently was known as Mill, and sometimes Mills. Against his name in the matriculation register are the expressive University indicators of the lowest social rank, viz., "Pl. pp." and "Ser.," but which, properly interpreted, may simply mean that he entered college as a servitor. He took the degrees of B.A. 3 May 1666, M.A. 9 Nov. 1669, B.D. 8 July 1680, and D.D. 8 Dec. 1681 ; became Prebendary of Exeter 29 Oct. 1677, Rector of Blechingdon, co. Oxford, Aug. 1681, Principal of Edmund Hall, Oxford, 5 May 1685, and Prebendary of Canterbury 14 Aug. 1704, and was also Chaplain in Ordinary to King Chas. II. His chief literary labour was the well known folio Greek Testament. He died the 23rd and was buried at Blechingdon 25 June 1707, and his father, as Thomas Mill, administered to his estate 12 July following. The surname of his wife is a manifest error in the Abbey Register. She was youngest dau. of Sir William Palmer, of Old Warden, Beds, Kt., by Dorothy third but eldest surviving dau. of Sir John Bramston, Kt., Lord Chief Justice of the King's Bench, who were married at St. Mary Aldermanbury, London, 28 Jan. 1627-8. She died in the first year of her marriage, and was buried at Blechingdon 14 Apl. 1685.

<sup>7</sup> He, son of John Angier, Gent., Burgess of Westminster, by his wife Margaret, was baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 11 May 1651. His will, as of Northaw, Herts, Esq., dated 19 July 1712, was proved 12 Nov. 1713, and he was buried at St. Margaret's, Westminster, the preceding day. He was brother of the first baronet of the name, and was himself knighted six days after this marriage. He was afterwards Resident at the Court of the Elector of Hanover, where he died. His will, dated 4 May 1689, with a codicil 29 Aug. 1693, was proved 18 Jan. 1693-4. She, his third wife, was dau. of John Garneys of Morningthorpe, co. Norfolk, Esq., and relict of William Shipman, of London, Merchant. Her will, as of Ealing, Midx., dated 6 May 1725, was proved 1 July 1726.

(See his great-grandfather's burial 27 May 1640, and his uncle's 19 June, 1665.) He succeeded as fourth Earl 16 Nov. 1676. On account of his adhesion to King James II. his immense estates (valued at a later period at £200,000 per annum) were forfeited, but his life was spared on condition that he quitted England never to return. He afterwards resided abroad, and died at Hamburg in 1734. Elizabeth Spencer, second dau. of Robert second Earl of Sunderland, by Anne dau. of George Digby second Earl of Bristol. After her husband's disgrace a considerable pension was allowed her by the Government, which at her death reverted to the fund for augmenting small benefices. She died in June 1704. <sup>5</sup> Mar. Lic. Vic. Gen. 31 Dec. 1684, for Nicholas Sankey, Esq., bachelor, aged about 26, and the Hon. Mrs. Frances Trevor, spinster, about 21, her parents dead; both of St. Martin in the Fields. This entry is in the unofficial register only, and the marriage does not appear to have actually taken place in the Abbey. It is not, however, to be found in the register of St. Martin in the Fields, although that church is the only one designated in the license, and hence this is the only record of it. She was one of the daus. of Colonel Mark or Marcus Trevor, created Baron Trevor and Viscount Dungannon, 28 Aug. 1662, by his first wife Frances, dau. and coheir of Sir Marmaduke Whitechurch. Nicholas Sankey was in active military service at and after this period, and was advanced to the rank of Lieut.-General, 10 Jan. 1710. His connection appears to have been always with Irish regiments. His will, dated 8 Mch. 1719-20, was proved 4 July 1723; but from the record he evidently died before 6 Nov. 1722, having survived his wife, and leaving no issue.

<sup>6</sup> He only son of Sir Thomas Clayton, Kt., Warden of Merton College, Oxford, by Bridget dau. of Sir Clement Cotterell, Kt. He was of the Vach, and lord of the manor of Chalfont St. Giles, Bucks, where he died, without issue, 28 Nov. 1714, in his 65th year, and was buried in the church. She was youngest dau. of Sir Joseph Alston first Bart. of Chelsea, Midx., by Mary dau. and coheir of Mr. Crookenberg, a merchant of Bergem-op-zoom. She was baptized at Chelsea, 21 June 1663, and survived her husband until May 1730. (She was his second wife, as on the 1st June 1677 he had license from the Vicar-General to marry Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Richard Grubham Howe, of Wishford, co. Wilts, Bart. She died in childbed, 9 Apl. 1681, and was buried in Merton College Chapel.)

Franchise Court of Westminster, elected M.P. for Westminster for the Parliament summoned to meet in 1679, knighted at Whitehall 18 Apl. 1680, Serjeant-at-Law 23 Apl. 1682, a Judge of the King's Bench 23 Apl. 1683 (but removed 21 Apl. 1687 for denying the King's right to exercise martial law in time of peace without an Act of Parliament), and Recorder of Kingston-on-Thames in 1685. He died at Eltham, which estate he then held, and was buried there 12 May 1704. She was dau. of Sir Thomas Taylor, first Bart. of Park-House in Maidstone, co. Kent, by Elizabeth dau. and heir of George Hall of the same place, Esq., and was born in 1656. She figures in the "New Atalantis," and other authorities more trustworthy agree in the statement that she wilfully involved her husband in debt for the purpose of getting him into prison. She is said to have survived her husband and remarried Sir Thomas Colepeper, the last baronet of Preston Hall, near Aylesford, Kent, but the accounts of that family do not mention her.

<sup>2</sup> Mar. Lic. Vic. Gen. 17 June 1685, for William Wyndham of Lincoln's Inn, Esq., bachelor, aged about 24, and Rebecca Stroud, of Chevelyn, Kent, spinster, about 19, with consent of her mother Dame Catherine Stroud.—He was son of John Wyndham of Dunraven, co. Glamorgan, Esq., Serjeant-at-Law, and his will, as of Cowbridge, co. Glamorgan, dated 2 June 1691, was proved 8 Dec. 1696. She was dau. of Sir Nicholas Strode, of Chevening, co. Kent., Kt., by his second wife Catharine, dau. of John Savile of Methley, co. York, Esq., and relict of Sir William Cholmley, of Whitby, Bart. Her will, dated 16 July, was proved 11 Aug. 1703.

<sup>3</sup> He eldest son of Richard second Lord Byron, by his first wife Elizabeth dau. of George Rossel of Ratcliffe-on-Trent, co. Notts, Esq., and widow of Nicholas Strelley, of Strelley, in the same county, Esq. He succeeded as third Lord Byron 4 Oct. 1679. He died 13 Nov. 1695, and was buried at Hucknall-Torkard, co. Notts. She eldest dau. of Sir George Stonhouse, of Radley, Berks, fourth Bart., and relict of Sir Richard Stydolph, of Norbury, Surrey, Bart. (to whom married about July 1658, and who died 13 Feb. 1676-7). She died 28 Dec. 1703, æt. 77, and was buried at Mickleham, Surrey.

<sup>4</sup> Louis Jacques Le Vasseur-Cougnee, son of George Le Vasseur-Congnee, Marquis de Thouars. He also bore the courtesy title of Marquis De Puissar. He was a refugee officer, and in 1695 was appointed Colonel of the 24th Regiment of Foot, which served afterwards in Flanders. He died as early as 1701, as the following year his widow was drawing a pension, and was then remarried. In her will she mentions him, dated 7 May 1697, in which he left her a considerable sum charged on his estate called Wreburgh, in Holland. She was a dau. of Sir Edward Villiers, Kt. Marshal (see his burial 2 July 1689), by his first wife Lady Frances Howard, dau. of Theophilus second Earl of Suffolk (see her burial 27 Nov. 1677). She remarried her cousin-german William Villiers, second son of George third Viscount Grandison, and her will, dated 20 July 1706, was proved by him 25 July 1709.

He died in his father's lifetime, 2 July 1689, and was buried in the church of Trinity Minories, London. (See his brother's burial, 16 Sep. 1718). He became a merchant of London, was knighted 23 Feb. 1685-6, Sheriff of Herts 1692, and M.P. for Middlesex 1697. He is usually said to have died in 1711, but his will, dated 2 Feb. 1712-3, was proved 13 Aug. following. He was buried at Oxhey. She was his first wife, and the marriage license corrects an error in former accounts of her parentage, which say that her father was Richard Graham of Westminster. William, a son of this marriage, was baptized, at St. Giles in the Fields, 28 Aug. 1688, and she died before 1 Oct. 1694, on which day her husband remarried, at St. Martin in the Fields, Mary dau. of Sir John Reade, first Bart. of Brockett Hall, Herts.

<sup>6</sup> He son of Sir Richard Bulkeley, first Bart. of Old Bawn, co. Dublin, Ireland, by his first wife Catharine, dau. and coheir of John Bysse, Esq., Chief Baron of the (Irish) Exchequer, and succeeded as second Bart. in 1685. She third dau. of Sir George Downing, first Bart. of East Hatley, co. Cambridge, by Frances fourth dau. of Sir William Howard, and sister of Charles first Earl of Carlisle. (See her sister's marriage 8 Mch. 1676-7.) Their respective ages, as stated in the Mar. Lic. Vic. Gen., dated the previous day, were about 26 and 20. He died, without surviving issue, 7 Apl. 1710. and was buried at Ewell, co. Surrey, when the title became extinct. She died the following 9th October, and was buried with her husband. The inscription on their monument states that both were in their 47th year, which does not accord with their ages as given in the marriage license.

Gen., 14 May 1686, his age is stated to be about 20. He succeeded as fourth Bart. 17 Nov. 1706, and was created, 1 Jan. 1711-12, Baron Mansell, of Margam. He was Comptroller of the Household to Q. Anne, and of her Privy Council, one of the Commissioners of the Treasury, and one of the Tellers of the Exchequer. He died 10 Dec. 1723. See burials of his brothers 22 June 1681 and 6 Apl. 1693.

<sup>4</sup> He, second but eldest surviving son of the Rev. William Radford, by Anne his wife, was born the 18th and baptized at Richmond, co. Surrey, 22 Jan. 1657-8. He was admitted to Gray's Inn 19 Nov. 1684, having previously been of Staple Inn. He was first married, about 14 Jan. 1678-9 (Mar. Lic. Vic. Gen.) to Jane, third dau. of John Everson, of London, Merchant, who died in childbed of her second dau. and was buried at Richmond 7 Oct. 1681. He is said to have been afterwards of Wilbarton, Isle of Ely, and to have been Recorder of London, though his name does not appear in the lists, and to have died at Ipswich in 1694. She, eldest dau. of Sir Robert Wright, of Wangford, Suffolk, Lord Chief Justice, by his second wife, Susan, dau. of the Rt. Rev. Matthew Wren, Bishop of Ely, was born the 21st and baptized at Ely Chapel 27 April 1664, and survived her husband. Their only son Robert, who was baptized at St. Paul's, Covent Garden, 7 Aug. 1688, died at Eton, while a scholar there.

Surrey, 1 Apl. 1697, and was Sheriff of London, 1704. He died the 12th and was buried 24 June, 1709, at St. Peter-le-Poor. (See his sister's burial 16 June 1731.) She dau. and heir of John Hall, of Yarmouth, co. Norfolk, Merchant of London. See her remarriage 13 Aug. 1712. She survived her second husband also, and, dying at Sheen the 20th, was buried at St. Peter-le-Poor 27 May 1737.

<sup>6</sup> See her former marriage, 14 July 1655, and note. He was an Apothecary, of St. Botolph, Aldersgate, London, and remarried (Mar. Lic. Vic. Gen. 31 May 1693) Sarah Newland, of St. Sepulchre's, London, spinster, aged about 23, his own age being then about 40. His will, dated 8 June, with a codicil 23 Sep., was proved 4 Oct. 1693, about four months after his last marriage. He evidently left no issue by either wife.

Essex, second son of Sir John Musters, of Hornsey, Midx., and of Colwick, Notts, Kt., by his second wife Sarah Biddulph. He died 18 Dec. 1719. She dau. of John Wentworth of Somerleyton Hall, co. Suffolk, Esq., by his second wife Dorothy, dau. of Sir Thomas Leventhorpe, second Bart. of Sabridgeworth, co. Herts. Her will, dated 13 Apl. 1742, was proved 12 Oct. 1749, and she was buried at Sabridgeworth. (See the marriage of his half-sister 25 Apl. 1691.)

<sup>4</sup> He eldest and only surviving son of John Speccott, Esq. and Honor his wife, of Penheale in Egloskerry, Cornwall, where he was baptized 19 Apl. 1665, and was M.P. for that county. He died of apoplexy, 16 June 1705, and was temporarily interred at St. Anne, Soho, from whence his remains were removed and finally buried at Egloskerry 20 July following. She fifth and youngest dau. of John Robartes, first Earl of Radnor, by his second wife Letitia-Isabella (called Isabella only in the peerages, and in the entry of her burial in the Chelsea register Letitia only, but both in the license for her second marriage to Viscount Newhaven), dau. of Sir John Smith, of Kent, Kt. She was baptized at Chelsea, Midx., 7 Apl. 1669. She died within three weeks after her marriage, as an order was given for hatchments, etc., after her death, 1 May 1689 (Painter's Work Book, Coll. Arm. 4 I. B., p. 216.)

<sup>5</sup> He a younger son of Sir Robert Cooke, of Highnam, co. Gloucester, Kt. He was a Master in Chancery from 24 Dec. 1673 until his death, and knighted 25 Jan. 1673-4. He died suddenly at his house in Chancery Lane, and was buried at St. James, Westminster, 21 Feb. 1698-9. (He appears to have had a former wife, viz. Radegunda, dau. of Sir Peter Ball, of Mamhead, co. Devon, Kt.) She second dau. of Sir Robert Bolles, second Bart. of Scampton, co. Lincoln, by Mary dau. of Sir Edward Hussey of Honington, in the same county, Kt. She was born the 9th and baptized at Scampton 19 Oct. 1648. She had been previously (Mar. Lic. Fac. 8 June 1674) the second wife of Thomas Agar of the Middle Temple, Esq. (who was never knighted, as is erroneously stated in Collectanea and elsewhere), who was buried at St. Anne's, Soho, 1 Sep. 1687, and whose will, dated the previous 4 Feb., she proved 10 Nov. in that year. She remarried, thirdly, Thomas Turner, of Kingston, co. Kent, Esq., also a Master in Chancery, whom she survived, he dying 1 April 1715: (she was his third wife, his second having died 1 April, 1704.) Her will dated, 22 Dec. 1714, was proved 26 June, 1731, by her son Robert Cooke, sole legatee and executor.

<sup>1</sup> He was one of the Messengers, and at his death Doorkeeper, of the Treasury. Considerable payments are recorded to him in the "Secret Services of Chas. II. and James II." (Camden Society's Volume, 1851) "as a reward for his extraordinary pains in carrying letters on several occasions for our service." A former wife, described in Mar. Lic. Vic. Gen., 26 Sep. 1685, as Mary Waith, of St. Clement Dances, spinster, aged about 21, was buried at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 23 Nov. 1688. In that license he is also called of that parish, gentleman, bachelor, aged about 25. He died the 3rd, and was buried at St. Margaret's 8 Feb. 1717-8. She, his second wife, was, as appears from his will, a sister of the Rev. John Tonge, who, at its date in 1714, was rector of Brancepeth, co. Durham, and was living in 1718. She proved her husband's will 26 April 1718, and the name occurs for some years later in the registers of St. Margaret's, Westminster.

<sup>4</sup> He an attorney at law of London and Doncaster, son of John Ellerker, Esq., Alderman of Doncaster, by Elizabeth dau. of Peter Short, of the same place, and was there baptized 4 July 1655. Administration to his estate was granted 9 Dec. 1693, when he was described as of St. Martin's, Ludgate. She dau. of Robert Mellish, of Ragnall, Notts, Esq., and sister and heir of Robert Mellish of St. Andrew's, Holborn. She survived her husband, and remarried, at the Chapel Royal, Whitehall, 16 May 1696, John Williams, of St. Martin's, Ludgate (Mar. Lic. Bp. Lond. 11 May; he a bachelor, and each aged about 30).

<sup>5</sup> He second son of Alexander Rigby, of Layton, co. Lancaster, Esq., by Anne third dau. of Thomas Birch, of Birch-Hall, near Manchester, Esq. He was knighted 28 Nov. 1695, and died 20 April 1717. (He was a Turkey Merchant in London, and had property worth £40,000 seized by the enemy in Queen Anne's wars, which rendered him a bankrupt, and he was thrown into prison. He probably died in the Fleet, as in the register of St. Bride's is an entry of a certificate for the removal of his body, dated 26 Apl. 1717. Although through his paternal grandmother he was a second cousin of the Queen, the Government gave him no redress, except to make him a Knight and a Commissioner in Scotland, but an Act of Parliament was passed for his relief shortly before his death.) She dau. of Peter Calvert of Nine Ashes, in Hunsdon, Herts, by his wife Honour Bates, of Hertford, whose Mar. Lic. (Vic. Gen.) is dated 3 Apl. 1669.

the Rectory of Cranford, Midx. 8 Apl. 1686, and was installed Prebendary of Westminster 13 June, 1687. He was buried at Cranford, 18 Oct. 1694. Jane, dau. of George Cole, of Buckish, co. Devon, and Enstone, co. Oxford, Esq., by his wife Anne. She was baptized at Enstone, 1670. (See baptism of their only child 22 Mch. 1691-2). She remarried Jeremiah Chaplin, Esq., one of the Gentlemen Ushers and Daily Waiters to Q. Anne, and they became, through their only daughter, ancestors of the present Earl of Buchan. She died in 1747.

<sup>1</sup> He fourth but only surviving son of Ferdinando sixth Earl of Huntingdon, by Lucy dau. and heir of Sir John Davies, of Englefield, Berks, Kt. He was born at Donnington Park 10 Dec. 1650, succeeded as seventh Earl 13 Feb. 1655-6, and died 30 May 1701. She his second wife, dau. and sole heir of Francis Leveson Fowler, of Harnage Grange, Shropshire (by Anne second dau. of Peter Venables, Baron of Kinderton), and relict of Thomas Needham, sixth Viscount Kilmorey. (A curious incident in her history is revealed by a Mar. Lic. Vic. Gen., dated 14 Feb. 1687-8, more than two years before this marriage, and very shortly after her first husband's death, viz., for the Hon. Francis Brereton, of Brereton, co. Chester, Esq., bachelor, aged about 24, and the Rt. Hon. Frances Viscountess Kilmorey, widow, about 23. From some unexplained cause the marriage did not take place, as he succeeded as fifth Lord Brereton, and died unmarried in 1722.) She remarried, thirdly, Michael de Ligondes, of Auvergne in France, Knight of Malta, and Colonel of Horse in the French service, who died in 1717. She had issue by each of her husbands, and died 26 Dec. 1723.

<sup>2</sup> He youngest son of Stephen Humble, of St. James, Westminster, Gent., by Katherine his wife, and was baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 1 Feb. 1661-2. His will, dated 18 Sep. 1694 and proved 20 Nov. 1699, describes him as of Littleton, co. Midx., Gent., but in the calendar he is called of co. Southampton. She survived him, and was his executrix. Their only son, Benjamin, was living at the date of his grandfather's will, 7 Nov. 1706.

<sup>3</sup> He only son of Sir Ralph Carr, of Newcastle-on-Tyne and of Cocken, co. Durham, Kt., by his second wife Isabella, dau. of James Darcy, of Sedbury Park, co. York, Esq., brother of Conyers first Earl of Holderness. He was born 19 June 1669, and died 24 May 1706. She fifth but third surviving dau. of Henry fourth Lord Fairfax of Cameron, by Frances dau. and heir of Sir Robert Barwick of Tolston, co. York. She was baptized at Bramham, co. York 27 Apl. 1670, and died 3 July 1699. They were buried at Houghton-le-Spring, co. Durham.

<sup>4</sup> Mar. Lic. Fac. 1 Dec. 1690, for Philip Astley, of Melton Constable, co. Norfolk, Esq., bachelor, aged about 22, and Elizabeth Bransby, of Great Yarmouth, co. Norfolk, spinster, about 18, her parents dead, with consent of her uncle and guardian Robert Bransby, Esq.—He second but eldest surviving son of Sir Jacob Astley, first Bart. of Hill Morton, co. Warwick, by Blanche eldest dau. of Sir Philip Wodehouse, third Bart. of Kimberley. He succeeded as second Bart. Aug. 1729, and died 7 July 1739. She only dau. and heir of Thomas Bransby, of Castor, co. Norfolk, Esq., and died in April, 1738.

<sup>5</sup> He of Hitchin Priory, Herts, son of Ralph Radcliffe, Esq. and Edith his wife, and grandson of Sir Edward Radcliffe, Kt., Physician to K. James I. He was knighted 18 Feb. 1667-8, and died 15 July 1720, in his 87th year. She his third wife, only dau. of Sir John Musters, of Hornsey, Midx., Kt. (by his first wife Anne dau. of Sir John Maynard, K.B.), and relict of Sir Richard Spencer, second Bart. (of the second creation) of Offley, Herts (to whom married at Hornsey 23 July 1672, and who died Feb. 1687-8). She died without issue the 3rd and was buried at Hitchin 14 Sep. 1719, with her husband.

<sup>6</sup> Mar. Lic. Vic. Fac. same date: both of St. Andrew's, Holborn, both single, and each aged about 30.—She was dau. and coheir of Thomas Waller (second son of Thomas Waller, Esq., of Gregories, Bucks), by his wife Elizabeth, and thus distantly related to the eminent poet. Two sons of this marriage were baptized at St. Andrew's, Holborn: Hogan, 30 May 1692; and John, 1 Jan. 1694-5.

<sup>2</sup> He eldest son of Rev. John Westwood, Vicar of Hales Owen, co. Worcester, by Rebecca dau. of Rev. Thomas Littleton, Rector of Suckley in that county and also Vicar of Hales Owen, and sister of Rev. Dr. Adam Littleton, Rector of Chelsea, Midx., and at this time Prebendary and Sub-dean of Westminster. He was baptized at Hales Owen 7 Mch. 1664-5, admitted to Westminster School 1680, elected to Trinity College, Cambridge, where he matriculated as a Pensioner 19 June 1684, and had the degree of A.B. in 1687. He was inducted Perpetual Vicar of Overton, Hants, 30 Jan. 1689-90, and was buried there 9 Oct. 1709. She appears to have been a dau. of Edward Nott of Minty, co. Gloucester, Esq., by Anne dau. of William Webb alias Richmond, of Lydiard Millicent, Wilts, and widow of Edmund Webb of Minty aforesaid. Her will, dated 18 Dec. 1711, was proved 2 June 1712. The baptisms of ten of their children occur in the parish register of Overton, as well as the marriages and burials of several of them. (It is possible that a burial, 5 May 1691, refers to a former wife of Mr. Westwood).

<sup>3</sup> William Ingoldsby, of Ballybeg, co. Meath, Ireland, son of Sir George Ingoldsby second Bart. of Lethenborough, Bucks, by Mary dau. of Sir Peter Stanley second Bart. of Alderley, succeeded as third Bart. His age, according to the Mar. Lic. Vic. Gen. dated the previous day, was about 20. He died at his house in York Buildings the 25th, and was buried at St. Martin in the Fields 28 Apl. 1726, leaving no male issue, and the title became extinct. Theophila, dau. of Sir Kingsmill Lucy, second Bart. of Broxbourne, Herts, by Lady Theophila dau. of George first Earl of Berkeley, was born and baptized at St. Martin in the Fields 24 Jan. 1670-1. She died 30 July, and was buried at Cranford, Midx., 4 Aug. 1721.

<sup>4</sup> He younger son of Robert Jacob, Esq. (brother of Sir John Jacob first Bart. of Bromley) by his second wife, Margaret, dau. of Alexander Packer of Kings Charlton, co. Gloucester, Esq., and was a Turkey merchant in London. The inscription on his coffin-plate styles him "Mercator e Societate Turcicâ primarius," and says that he was born 1 Feb. 1646-7, and died 31 Mch. 1721. (The words "a foreigner," added to his name in Collectanea, are not in the Abbey Register, and the date there given is slightly erroneous.) She dau. of James eighth Lord Chandos, by Elizabeth eldest dau. and coheir of Sir Henry Bernard, of London, Kt. (See marriages of her brothers and sisters, 28 Nov. 1689, 26 May 1692, 27 Feb. and 10 Mch. 1695-6, 2 May 1700, 7 June 1705, and 6 Oct. 1709). See their son's marriage 5 Dec. 1717. She remarried, at St. Paul's Cathedral, 27 Dec. 1722, the Rev. Thomas Dawson, D.D., Vicar of Windsor, where she died 23 Nov. 1739, and was buried at Whitechurch, Midx.

Cope, Esq. (third but second surviving son of Sir William Cope, second Bart. of Hanwell, co. Oxford) of Ronton Abbey, co. Stafford, by Anne dau. of Sir Hatton Fermor of Easton Neston, co. Northampton, Kt. She was born at Ronton Abbey the 1st, and baptized at Ellenhall, co. Stafford, 26 Dec. 1655. They left surviving a dau. Judith, wife of Walter Stubbs, of Beckbury Hall, co. Salop, Esq., and a son Jonathan, Fellow of the Royal College of Physicians, London, who died in Norfolk Street, Strand, 12 Apl. 1732.

<sup>2</sup> John Du Commun was Yeoman of the Confectionery to the King in 1692, and was naturalized in 1698. Paul Puech was naturalized in 1682. Her will, as a widow, dated at Bath (where she died) 3 Jan. 1738-9, was proved 16 Apl. 1739, by her son Peter John Du Commun. It mentions also her son John, then at Jamaica, and her dau. Jane, wife of Mr. Daniel Debat.

<sup>4</sup> He eldest son of John Chamberlaine of Mangersbury, co. Gloucester, Esq., by Mary dau. of Walter Savage of Broadway, co. Worcester, Esq. He was born about 1670, and was high sheriff of Gloucestershire in 1705. She dau. of James eighth Lord Chandos, by Elizabeth eldest dau. and coheir of Sir Henry Bernard of London, Kt. (See marriages of her brothers and sisters, 28 Nov. 1689, 24 Dec. 1691, 27 Feb. and 10 Mch. 1695-6, 2 May 1700, 7 June 1705, and 6 Oct. 1709.) She died, his relict, at Mangersbury, in June 1738 (Historical Register).

<sup>2</sup> He third son of Sir Cuthbert Heron first Bart. of Chipchase, co. Northumberland, by his first wife Elizabeth third dau. of Sir Richard Graham of Netherby, co. Cumberland, Bart. He succeeded his brother John, as third Bart., about 1693. His will, dated 24 July 1694, was proved 30 Oct. 1711, and the record states that he died in the Fleet prison. She eldest dau. of Sir William Pulteney of Misterton, co. Leicester, Kt., by Grace youngest dau. of Sir John Corbet of Stoke, co. Salop, Bart. Her will, dated 20 Sep., was proved 26 Oct. 1720, and she was buried at St. Martin in the Fields on the 18th of the latter month. See her sister's burial 28 Feb. 1745-6. (This entry is in the unofficial register only).

<sup>3</sup> The date of this entry in Collectanea is erroneously 1693.—A Mr. Thomas Browne was sworn Gent. Extraordinary of the Chapel Royal in 1683.

<sup>4</sup> From his will, dated 19 July and proved 9 Nov. 1713, he appears to have been a brother of Peter Walter, Esq., the famous "usurer" immortalized by Pope. He described himself as of St. Margaret's, Westminster, "Grocer," and was buried in that church, 3 Aug. 1713. She survived him and was his executrix.

<sup>5</sup> He eldest son and heir of James Brydges eighth Lord Chandos, by Elizabeth eldest dau. and coheir of Sir Henry Bernard, of London, Kt. He was born the 6th and baptized 12 Jan. 1673-4, at Dewsall, co. Hereford, succeeded as ninth Lord Chandos 16 Oct. 1714, and was created Duke of Chandos 30 Apl. 1729. He died the 9th and was buried 23 Aug. 1744, at Whitchurch, Midx. (See marriages of his brothers and sisters, 28 Nov. 1689, 24 Dec. 1691, 26 May 1692, 10 Mch. 1695-6, 2 May 1700, 7 June 1705, and 6 Oct. 1709.) She his first wife, dau. and eventually sole heir of Sir Thomas Lake, of Canons, Midx., Kt., by Rebecca dau. of Sir John Langham first Bart. of Cottesbrooke, co. Northampton. She was baptized 18 July 1668, at Whitchurch, and died the 15th and was buried there 23 Dec. 1712.

- 1696 Nov. 4 Arthur Moore, of St. Bride's, London, widower, and Theophila Smyth, of Epsom, co. Surrey, single woman.<sup>1</sup>
- 1697 Feb. 11 Thomas Crow, of Colliton, co. Devon, widower, and Elizabeth Gill, of St. Margaret's, Westminster, single woman.
- 1697 April 25 Charles Osborn, of Hall [sic], in Yorkshire, widower, and Frances Digby, of Mansfield-Woodhouse, Notts, widow.<sup>2</sup>

<sup>2</sup> Mar. Lic. Vic. Gen. 21 Apl. 1697, for Charles Osborn, of Hull, co. York, Esq., widower, aged 55, and Frances Digby of Mansfield-Woodhouse, co. Notts, widow, aged 45.—Mar. Lic. Fac. 7 Sep. 1663, for John Digby of Mansfield-Woodhouse, Esq., bachelor, aged about 30, and Frances Pinckney, spinster, about 20, with consent of her father Leonard Pinckney, of Westminster, Esq.—A Charles Osborne, Esq., was Lieut. Governor of Hull in 1692, and M.P. for Hull 1690-8, but he is said in the Peerages to have been a brother of the Duke of Leeds, and to have died unmarried. (Query, if it should not read without issue).

<sup>3</sup> The well known bookseller of his time, "at the Dial and Bible over against St. Dunstan's Church in Fleet Street." The more notorious Curll was occupying these premises in 1710, and Bosville seems to have retired to St. Margaret's, Westminster, as early as 1708, as his will is dated 9 Nov. in that year. He styled himself "Citizen and Stationer of London," and bequeathed all his goods, one half to his wife Anne, and one half to his only child Elizabeth when of age or married. He was buried at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 30 Sep. 1717, and his will was proved 24 Oct. following by his relict Anne, who appears to have been also buried at St. Margaret's, as the "widow Boswell," 7 Feb. 1717-8.

- 1697 June 3 Giles Palmer, of St. Bartholomew Exchange, London, and Honor Carter, of Hertford, Herts, both single.<sup>1</sup>
- June 19 John Holworthy, Esq., and the Lady Judith Barkham, widow.<sup>2</sup>
- Oct. 17 Oliver Goodacre, of St. Paul's, Covent Garden, widower, and Mary Kellum, of St. Sepulchre's, London, single woman.<sup>3</sup>
- Oct. 27 Edward Tufnell and Anne Browne, both single and of St. Margaret's, Westminster.<sup>4</sup>
- Nov. 24 Peter Birch, D.D., and Mrs. Martha Millington.<sup>5</sup>
- Dec. 19 Benjamin Dewell, of St. Mary Hill, London, and Ann Stampford, of St. Botolph's, Aldersgate, both single.<sup>6</sup>

<sup>8</sup> He probably son of Everard Fathers, of St. Margaret's, Westminster, whose estate was administered (D. and C. Westminster) 3 Mch. 1702-3, by his relict Catharine. She dau. of George Strode and Mary his wife, and was baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 7 Jan. 1676-7. They were living as late as 7 May 1710, when their son Everard was baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster.

Earl of Rutland. He was born about 1670, and succeeded as third Earl 1 Apl. 1690. He was divorced from the Countess, on account of his cruelty, 12 June 1701, and, dying 21 Jan. following, was buried at Farnborough, Hants. See her burial 8 Apl. 1743, and note. Their only child was ancestress of the present Marquis of Normanby.

<sup>1</sup> He third son of Sir Philip Carteret (killed in the naval battle of Solebay, 28 May 1672) by Lady Jemima Montagu, dau. of Edward first Earl of Sandwich. He was baptized at Hawnes, co. Bedford, 28 Nov. 1671. He was in several Parliaments, and, 4 April 1721, was constituted a joint Postmaster-General, in which office he continued till his death. He died 15 Apl. 1739, and was buried at Hornchurch, co. Essex, the 21st of that month. She dau. of Sir Thomas Exton, Kt., LL.D., Dean of the Arches, Vicar-General and Chancellor of London, and Master of Trinity Hall, Cambridge, by Isabella dau. of Robert Hore, Citizen and Apothecary of London, and relict of Thomas Prujean, M.D. (son of Sir Francis Prujean, Kt.). She was baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 19 Sep. 1667. She married, first, Sir John Sudbury, only Bart. of Eldon, co. Durham, who died 27 Mch. and was buried at Hornchurch, Essex, 3 Apl. 1691. (The only issue of this marriage, a dau. Anne, was buried at Hornchurch, 12 Sep. 1691.) She married, secondly, Thomas Clutterbuck, of Ingatestone, Essex, Esq., by whom she had a son, born about 1696, afterwards the Rt. Hon. Thomas Clutterbuck, Treasurer of the Navy, who died 23 Nov. 1742, and was buried at Hornchurch. She herself died 18 Sep. 1735, and was buried at Hornchurch the 26th of that month. See burial of the eldest son of this marriage, 14 Nov. 1718.

<sup>3</sup> In the Mar. Lic. Bp. Lond., dated the previous day, his age is given as 23, and hers about 16. He was son of John Parkhurst, of Catesby, co. Northampton, Esq., by Katherine dau. of John Dormer of Leigh Grange, co. Bucks, Esq. He died 20 May 1715. She eldest dau. of Altham Smith, of Gray's Inn, Esq. (eighth son of Sir Thomas Smijth first Bart. of Hill-Hall, Essex), by Susanna (née Gore) relict of Sir Richard Munden, Kt., Capt. R.N.

<sup>4</sup> He eldest and only surviving son of Edward Boscawen, Esq., by Jael dau. of Sir Francis Godolphin, K.B., and sister of Sidney, Earl of Godolphin, Lord High Treasurer. He was created Viscount Falmouth 13 June 1720. He died suddenly at Trefusis 25 Oct. 1734, and was buried at Penkevil, co. Cornwall. She eldest of the two daus. and coheirs of Charles Godfrey, Esq., Master of the Jewel Office, by Arabella Churchill, sister of John, Duke of Marlborough (see her burial 10 May 1730). She died 22 Mch. 1754, and was buried at Penkevil. They were the parents of eighteen children, of whom twelve were baptized at St. Martin in the Fields. See the marriages of three of them, 17 Aug. 1732; 3 Feb. 1742-3; and 18 Aug. 1746.

<sup>5</sup> He son of William Bouchier, of Barnesley, co. Gloucester, Esq., by Martha dau. of Randolph Brereton, Esq. (who were married at St. Bartholomew the Great, London, 27 Feb. 1651-2). In the Mar. Lic. Fac., dated 27 Apl. 1700, he is called a widower, and of Barnesley. He was aged 27 and upwards at the Visitation of Gloucestershire in 1682. She dau. of James Brydges eighth Lord Chandos, by Elizabeth eldest dau. and coheir of Sir Henry Bernard, of London, Kt. She died 11 July 1732, aged about 52. bachelor, aged about 38, and Mrs. Annabella Guise, of the same parish, spinster, aged 21 and upwards, and at her own disposal.—Their dau. Elizabeth was baptized 23 Jan. 1701-2, and their dau. Ann 27 Oct. 1703, both at St. Anne's, Westminster, and in both instances her name is written Arabella in the register.

<sup>5</sup> He third son of Anthony Thorold, Esq. (second son of Sir William Thorold, first Bart. of Marston, co. Lincoln), by Grisilla second dau. of Sir John Wray second Bart. of Glentworth in the same county. He succeeded his two elder brothers as fourth Bart., and, dying without issue, æt. 54, was buried at Syston, near Grantham, in that county. His will, dated 12 Dec. 1712, was proved 15 Jan. 1716-7. She third wife and relict of Francis Coventry, Esq., second son of Thomas first Lord Coventry (the Lord-Keeper), who died 15 Nov. 1699, in his 87th year, and was buried at Mortlake, Surrey. She survived Sir John, her second husband, and founded in her lifetime several important charities in Lincolnshire, which are still in successful operation. Her will, dated 23 July, with a codicil 30 Oct. 1732, was proved 31 Jan. 1732-3, by Thomas Coventry, Jr. She described herself as then of St. James's, Westminster, and directed to be buried with her first husband at Mortlake, or with her second at Syston. She died the 23rd and was buried at Mortlake 29 Jan. 1732-3, aged about 81.

(About this lady there has always been a considerable mystery, which it is the editor's province to clear up, at least in part. All the printed accounts and MS. pedigrees of the Thorold family mention her simply as the relict of the Hon. Francis Coventry and daughter of "— Waters," or "Walters, Esq.," sometimes adding "of Surrey." The accounts of the Coventry family ignore her name altogether. Among the retainers of the Thorold family in Lincolnshire, and the people in the neighbourhood of their seat, there exists to this day a tradition that Sir John, the fourth baronet, married one of his menial servants. This is, of course, an error, for, so far as he was concerned, his wife was a lady of considerable wealth, and the widow of a baron's son. It is not improbable, however, that the story originally had some basis, although the details were subsequently perverted. The facts, so far as the editor has been able to trace them, appear to be these: Mr. Coventry, then a widower, was married at Carshalton, Surrey, 31 Jan. 1665-6, to Lady Elizabeth, relict of Sir Edmond Hoskins, Kt., Serjeant-at-Law, and she was buried at Carshalton 16 Sep. 1688. On 22 Aug. 1689, as plain "Francis Coventry," he obtained a license from the Faculty Office to marry "Margaret Waterer" (not Waters, nor Walters), described as a "maiden, aged about 37." In the allegation they are both stated to be of Carshalton, and they were to marry at St. Paul's, Covent Garden. They did not marry there, but about six weeks after, viz., 4 Oct. 1689, they were married at St. Mary Abchurch, London, and the entry in the register describes them as "Francis Coventry, of Carshalton, widower, and Margaret Waterer, of the same parish." Mr. Coventry was born in 1613, and was therefore at this date seventy-six years of age, more than double the age of his wife. His residence at Carshalton is explained by the fact that his second wife's estate was there; but the name of Waterer does not occur in a single instance in the parish register of Carshalton, from 1538 to 1812, which is an ample proof that it was not the residence of her family. Under all these circumstances it is not unreasonable to suppose that Miss Waterer had been a member of his second wife's family (perhaps a personal attendant or upper domestic), whose good qualities he had had an opportunity of observing, and whom he thus selected as a nurse and companion for his later years. Indeed, he says almost so much in his own will, at the close of which he makes this extraordinary appeal to his family: "My desire is that my will may be received, construed, and taken to the best advantage of my dear wife, whom I take myself to be bound both in honour and conscience to provide for, as my wife, and her that has expressed all the care and affection for me that I could desire to be applied to me in this infirm and sickly part of my old age; and let all my relations be of the same mind, and wish her the Godspeed, as they love me or hope for a blessing upon anything they have and enjoy of mine." Such an appeal as this could hardly have been necessary if her rank and social standing had been equal to his own, and is not to be explained by the disparity in age. On the presumption advanced the Lincolnshire tradition would be accounted for, as also the ignoring of his rank in the marriage license and in the record of the marriage, the marriage itself at an obscure church in the city, instead of the then fashionable one named in the license, and the entire absence of any record of her and her origin in the accounts of the two families into which she married. Another fact may be mentioned in corroboration of this theory. The body of her will is in the legal language of such documents, but the codicil, evidently her own composition, both in sentiment and orthography, is clearly that of an uneducated person. She gives no clew to her family in her will, but incidentally mentions that she had preferred to provide for them in her lifetime.)

<sup>1</sup> He matriculated at Oxford, from Trinity College, 17 Nov. 1671, aged 18, as son of Thomas Hikes, of Warwick, "Pleb.," and was B.A. as of Magdalen College 26 June 1675, M.A. 16 Apl. 1678, B.D. 7 April 1690, and D.D. 2 June 1701, becoming a Prebendary of Exeter 11 Dec. 1706. She was fifth and youngest dau. of Samuel Trotman, of Bucknell, co. Oxford, Esq., and of the Inner Temple, Barrister-at-Law, by his second wife Mary dau. of Sir Samuel Warcup, Kt., and was living, a widow, at the date of her brother Samuel's will, 30 Jan. 1719-20.

<sup>2</sup> He son and heir of Francis Milles, Citizen and Skinner of London, by Elizabeth his wife, and was admitted to the Inner Temple 2 May 1694. He was previously married, at St. Bride's, London, 15 Jan. 1690-1, to Mary Pannott (or Paynot), who in the marriage license is described as a widow, but in the parish register as a spinster. By her he had a son John, and a dau. Elizabeth, married to John Dering, all of whom were living at his death. He was buried at St. Paul's, Covent Garden, 27 Jan. 1717-18, aged about 55. His will, dated 13 Aug. 1702, was proved 3 Mch. 1717-18. His second wife survived him. She is described in the marriage license as a spinster, aged about 26.

<sup>3</sup> He eldest son of Robert Wither, Esq. (only son of George Wither the celebrated poet), by Elizabeth, eldest dau. and coheir of John Hunt of Thedden, near Alton, Hants, Esq., and was born in 1662. He became a Colonel of Foot in the British Army, and a Brigadier-General in the service of Chas. II., King of Spain. He was buried at Shalden, Hants, 29 June 1718, where, until recently, there was a monument to his memory in the churchyard. His will, as of Thedden aforesaid, dated 22 July 1717, was proved 17 July 1718. She is simply called in the accounts of his family "dau. and heir of Robert Welstead of London," but her domestic history, which has been somewhat difficult to trace, was so remarkable as to deserve a more extended notice, which may be gathered from the fact that Mr. Wither was her fourth husband in less than eight years. She married, first, Henry Perin, a physician, who died 4 June 1694, aged 31, and was buried in Winchester Cathedral; secondly, Richard Wilson, also a physician, of St. Andrew's, Holborn, whose will was dated 18 Nov. and proved 9 Dec. 1697; thirdly (Mar. Lic. Fac. 4 Feb. 1698-9), Edward Alpe, also a physician, who died 25 Dec. 1700, and was buried at Little Bealings, co. Suffolk; fourthly, General Wither, as in the text. By her first husband she had an only child, Dorothy Perin, who was married before 1717 to Thomas Bonham, Gent. By her second husband she had no surviving issue; but a still-born child (evidently posthumous) was buried at St. Andrew's, Holborn, 14 Dec. 1697. By her third husband she had only one child, Edward Alpe, who was baptized at Framlingham, Suffolk, Jan. 1699-1700, and buried there 4 June following; and by her fourth only one son, Henry Wither, who was living in 1717, about eleven years of age. She survived General Wither about fourteen years, her dau. Dorothy Bonham administering to her estate 8 May 1732, when she was described as of Old Alresford, Hants.

<sup>4</sup> He son of William Genew, of the Inner Temple, Esq., by his wife Mary, dau. of William Gladwin of St. Paul's, Covent Garden, Citizen and Girdler of London. He was born 24 Apl., and baptized at St. Paul's, Covent Garden, 9 May 1676. He matriculated at Oxford, from Christ Church, 14 Dec. 1695, but appears to have taken no degree. He was Sheriff of Surrey in 1711, and his will, dated 23 Oct. 1729, was proved 15 Mch. 1731-2. She his cousin, dau. of his father's brother, John Genew, Esq., by Rachel, dau. of Sir Thomas Cambell first Bart. of Clay Hall, Essex, who were married at St. Martin in the Fields 9 Jan. 1667-8. Her will, dated 12 June 1736, was proved 26 Apl. 1738. They were buried at Petersham, Surrey.

<sup>5</sup> Mar. Lic. Fac. 1 July, 1702, for Robert Svann, of Newton, co. Cambridge, bachelor, aged 30, and Anne Needham, of St. Margaret's, Westminster, spinster, aged 23 and upwards. He is elsewhere called of Sawston, co. Cambridge, Gent., and was living in 1706. See her baptism 21 Jan. 1672-3, and burials of her parents 13 Feb. 1705-6 and 7 Apl. 1708. She proved her mother's will 4 Nov. 1708.

	Aug. 17	Charles Mompesson, Esq., and Elizabeth Longueville, spinster. <sup>6</sup>
	Sept. 30	Michael Newnam, widower, and Judith Cooke, spinster. <sup>7</sup>

<sup>3</sup> He of Walthamstow, Essex, eldest son of Sir John Johnson, Kt., Alderman of London. He died 26 Jan. 1729, aged 59. She eldest dau. of Thomas Windsor-Hickman, seventh Lord Windsor, created Earl of Plymouth in 1682, by his second wife, Ursula, youngest dau. and coheir of Sir Thomas Widdrington, of Sherburne Grange, co. Northumberland, Kt. She died 20 Aug. 1737, aged 64, and was buried at Walthamstow.

<sup>4</sup> Wardell Andrews matriculated at Oxford, from University College, 9 June 1697, aged 15, as son of George Andrews, Esq., of Barbadoes (who was son of Jonathan Andrews, of Barnes Hall, co. Worcester, Esq.). The will of Wardell Andrews, of the parish of St. Joseph in the Island of Barbadoes, Esq., dated 8 April 1714, was proved in England 5 Mch. 1728-9. From one of the documents attached to it he appears to have died before 9 Oct. 1714. The wife mentioned in the text probably died in Barbadoes, as the will calls his then wife Thomazine, and her maiden name was evidently Thornhill. He left an only son William, in case of whose death before his majority his entire estate in England was to go to his cousin, William Andrews, of Barnes Hall aforesaid, Gent. His mother was Lucretia, dau. of Thomas Wardell, of London, Merchant.

<sup>5</sup> He son and heir of Thomas Chowne of Alfriston, co. Sussex, Esq., by his wife Elizabeth Foice, of Shipley, in the same county (who were married at Shipley 19 May 1669), and was baptized at Alfriston 22 Apl. 1679. He died the 16th and was buried at Alfriston 24 Sep. 1724. She youngest dau. and coheir of William Westbrook, of Ferring, co. Sussex, Esq., by Elizabeth, dau. of Thomas Houghton of Mayfield, in the same county, Esq. The Mar. Lic. Vic. Gen., dated 26 June 1703, gives her age as above 21, and states that her parents were dead. She died the 17th and was buried at Alfriston 21 Dec. 1713. The baptisms and burials of some of their children occur in the registers of St. Margaret's, Westminster.

<sup>6</sup> He only son of Sir Thomas Mompesson, of Bathampton, co. Wilts, Kt., by his second wife, Barbara, dau. of John Waterer, of co. Midx., Esq. He was baptized at St. Martin in the Fields 27 Jan. 1671-2, but born, according to the parish register, "26 Jan. 1670." He was M.P. for Wilton and Old Sarum in several Parliaments. His will, dated 17 Aug. 1713, was proved 12 Aug. 1714. He died 12 July in the latter year, and was buried with his parents in Salisbury Cathedral. She second and youngest dau. of William Longueville, Esq. (see his burial 30 Mch. 1721), by Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Thomas Peyton, second Bart. of Knowlton (see her burial 21 Jan. 1715-6). She died 30 Sep. 1751, aged 73, and was also buried in Salisbury Cathedral. Their only son, Henry, was also buried there Jan. 1731-2, aged 26.

<sup>7</sup> (His name erroneously "Newman" in Collectanea.) He matriculated at Oxford, from Wadham College, 26 Oct. 1666, aged 16, as son of Michael Newnam of Iwer, co. Bucks, Gent., and was admitted to the Inner Temple 17 Aug. 1667. She his third wife, and was buried at St. Bride's, London, 18 June 1707, her dau. Judith being baptized the same day. In his first Mar.

Lic. Vic. Gen., 7 June 1677, his age is given as about 26, and he was to marry Mrs. Sara Bond, spinster, about 21, dau. of Mrs. Sara Bond, of Fleet Street, London, widow. (Michael, a son of this marriage, was baptized at St. Bride's, London, 3 Sep. 1680.) His second wife (Mar. Lic. Bp. Lond. 13 Dec. 1686) was Mrs. Mary Barton, of St. Bride's, London, spinster, aged about 18, who was buried at St. Bride's 17 Dec. 1697. He was himself buried at St. Bride's, 7 May 1727, and his will, dated 10 Sep. 1725, was proved 16 Nov. 1727.

<sup>1</sup> He matriculated at Oxford, from Pembroke College, 5 Dec. 1679, aged 15, as son of Philip Dauvergne, of the Isle of Jersey, and was B.A. 20 June 1683, and M.A. 4 May 1686. He had for a time the rectory of St. Breladc, Jersey, but became Chaplain to the Royal regiment of Scotch Guards, and attended them through the campaigns in Flanders, 1691-7, a History of which he published. He was afterwards Chaplain to King William, who presented him to the rectory of Great Hallingbury, Essex, 11 Dec. 1701, where he died 7 Nov. 1737, æt. 73.

<sup>2</sup> Henry Brydges, second son of James eighth Lord Chandos, by Elizabeth eldest dau. and coheir of Sir Henry Bernard, of London, Kt. He was baptized at Dewsall, co. Hereford, 26 Jan. 1674-5, and was educated at Christ Church, Oxford, where B.D. and D.D. 4 July 1711. He was Rector of Agmondesham, Bucks, and installed Prebendary and Archdeacon of Rochester 24 May 1720. He died the 9th, and was buried 18 May 1728 at Whitchurch, Midx. (See marriages of his brothers and sisters 28 Nov. 1689, 24 Dec. 1691, 26 May 1692, 27 Feb. and 10 Mch. 1695-6, 2 May 1700, and 6 Oct. 1709). She dau. of Edward Atkins, Esq., Barrister-at-Law (second son of Sir Robert Atkins, Kt., Lord Chief Baron of the Exchequer), by Annabella dau. of Sir Richard Atkins, second Bart. of Clapham, Surrey. She was also buried at Whitchurch, 24 Aug. 1763, aged 84.

<sup>3</sup> (The date in Collectanea is erroneously the 7th.)—He eldest son and heir of Edmund Pye, M.D., of Faringdon, Berks, by Anne dau. of John first Lord Crew of Stene, and widow of Sir Henry Wright, first Bart. of Dagenham, Essex, and was born 23 Aug. 1683. She his first wife, dau. of Sir Nathaniel Curzon, second Bart. of Kedleston, co. Derby, by Sarah dau. of William Penn, of Penn, co. Bucks, Esq. (ancestors of the present Lord Scarsdale). She died in childbed on the 15th Mch. following, and was buried at Faringdon. He remarried twice, and, dying 6 Jan. 1748-9, was also buried at Faringdon.

<sup>4</sup> He of Dalham Hall, co. Suffolk, only surviving son of John Affleck (or Auchinleck, descended from Sir John Auchinleck of Auchinleck in Ayrshire), by Neeltice, dau. of Gilbert Schape, of Amsterdam, merchant. He was M.P. for Cambridge 1722-7. She third dau. of John Dolben, Esq. (second son of John, Archbishop of York), by Elizabeth second dau. and coheir of Tanfield Mulso, of Finedon, co. Northampton, Esq. (See the marriage of one of her sisters 6 Feb. 1702-3, and the baptism of another 19 Feb. 1701-2). They had twelve sons and six daughters, the baptisms of many of whom occur in the registers of St. Andrew's, Holborn, and St. Giles in the Fields. Their ninth son, Edmund, was created a Bart. 28 May 1782.

<sup>5</sup> Sir Edmund Andros, second son of Amias Andros of Sausmarez, Guernsey, Esq. (Marshal of the Ceremonies to K. Chas. I.), by Elizabeth, sister of Sir Robert Stone, Kt., Cupbearer to the Queen of Bohemia. He was born in London 6 Dec. 1637. He held various positions at Court, and in the military service, but is better known as having been successively Governor of New York and New England. (In the latter office he became extremely odious to the colonists, and his name was handed down to the latest American generations as almost synonymous with infamy. A recent American writer, William H. Whitmore, Esq., of Boston, in an admirable memoir of Sir Edmund prefixed to a collection of documents of his period (printed in 1868), has frankly and completely relieved his memory from the odium hitherto attached to it, and placed his character and official conduct in their true light.) Sir Edmund, who was knighted in 1681, was first married, in Feb. 1671-2, to Mary eldest dau. of Thomas Craven, Esq., of Apletrewick, co. York, by Anne dau. of Francis Proctor of Beckwith in that county, who died in New England 22 Jan. 1687-8, and was buried at Boston. He married, secondly (Mar. Lic. Vic. Gen. 3 Aug. 1691), Elizabeth, third dau. and coheir of Thomas Crispe, of Quekes, co. Kent, and widow of Christopher Clapham, Esq.: she was buried at St. Giles in the Fields 18 Aug. 1703. Of the family or history of Elizabeth Fitzherbert, his third wife, there is no knowledge or tradition whatever. Sir Edmund was buried at St. Anne's, Soho, 27 Feb. 1713-4: she survived him, and was also buried there 12 Feb. 1716-7. In his will, dated 19 July 1712 and proved 8 Mch. 1713-4, he bequeathed her a life annuity of £100, but she appears to have left no will, and no estate sufficient to call for letters of administration.

<sup>1</sup> Mar. Lic. Vic. Gen. 20 June 1709, for John Trenchard, of Ash, in the parish of Stour Payne, co. Dorset, Esq., bachelor, aged 29, and Grace Peck, of St. Giles in the Fields, Midx., spinster, aged 22.—This marriage does not appear in any of the accounts of the Trenchard family. He was the celebrated author of "Cato's Letters," and was third son of William Trenchard of Cutteworth, co. Wilts, Esq., by Ellen dau. of Sir George Norton of Abbots Leigh, co. Somerset. She was dau. of William Peck, of Sampford Hall in Little Sampford, Essex, Esq., by Gertrude dau. of Sir William Greene, Bart., of Mitcham, Surrey. According to a monumental inscription at Little Sampford, she died 30 Oct. 1717, "about an hour after she had been delivered of a dead son," and was buried at Leigh, co. Somerset. He remarried (Mar. Lic. Fac. 19 Nov. 1719, wherein described as a widower) Anne, dau. of Sir William Blackett, first Bart. of Newcastle, who survived him and remarried his friend and secretary Thomas Gordon, Esq. Mr. Trenchard died at Abbots Leigh 26 Dec. 1723, in his 55th year, being then M.P. for Taunton.

<sup>2</sup> He third and youngest surviving son of James Brydges eighth Lord Chandos, by Elizabeth eldest dau. and coheir of Sir Henry Bernard of London, Kt., and was baptized at Dewsall, co. Hereford, 3 Sep. 1676. He was of Chiswick, and was Receiver General of the Salt Duties, in which office he died, 25 Sep. 1714, and was buried 1 Oct. following, at Whitchurch, Midx. He left no issue. (See marriages of his brothers and sisters, 28 Nov. 1689, 24 Dec. 1691, 26 May 1692, 27 Feb. and 10 Mch. 1695-6, 2 May 1700, and 7 June 1705.) She dau. of Thomas Western, of Rivenhall Place, Essex, Esq., by Martha dau. of Samuel Gott, of Battle, co. Sussex, Esq., and was baptized at St. Dunstan in the East, London, 3 July 1663. She survived her husband, and is said to have been buried at Whitchurch, 31 May 1724, but letters of administration on her estate were not granted until 10 June 1725.

<sup>3</sup> See her first marriage, 27 Oct. 1687, and note thereto. He was admitted to the Middle Temple, 16 Oct. 1683, as son and heir of William Hiccocks, of South Lambeth, Surrey, Gent., deceased. He was a Master in Chancery from 20 July 1703 until 1 June 1723, and was buried in the Temple Church 19 Apl. 1726. According to his monument there, he died 5 April, in his 58th year.

<sup>4</sup> He second son of Daniel Waldo, of Gray's Inn and of Harrow on the Hill, Midx., Esq., by his first wife Adria. He matriculated at Oxford, from Exeter College, 18 Mch. 1688-9, aged 17, and was B.A. as of Wadham College 27 Oct. 1692, and M.A. 28 May 1695, and B.D. and D.D. as of All Souls College 5 July 1720. He became Rector of Aston Clinton, Bucks, and died 25 Jan. 1745-6, aged 74. His will, dated Oct. 1745, was proved 4 Mch. following. She eldest dau. of Theophilus Leigh, of Adlestrop, co. Gloucester, Esq., by his second wife, the Hon. Mary Brydges (see their marriage 28 Nov. 1689), and was baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 6 Oct. 1690. She survived her husband. See a burial, probably of their son, 22 Nov. 1725.

He matriculated at Oxford, from New College, 15 Sep. 1693, aged 18, was B.A. 14 Apl. 1697, and M.A. 14 Jan. 1700. He became Rector of Stoke Hammond, Bucks, 6 Feb. 1707-8, and Archdeacon of Leicester 17 July 1715, and died 18 May 1756, aged 81. His monument in Lincoln Cathedral records that he was "S.T.P., Rector of Stoke in Bucks 48 years, Prebendary of Castor 6 years, Archdeacon of Leicester 41 years, and Precentor of this church and Prebendary of Kilderby 38 years." Her name was Sarah, not "Clare," and she is so called in all the wills of both families, and in parish register entries. She was dau. of William Westfield, of London, Merchant (called "Refiner" in his own Mar. Lic.), by his wife Sarah Barton, sister of Rev. Dr. Samuel Barton, Prebendary of Westminster (see his burial 23 Aug. 1715), who were married at St. Martin Outwich, London, 29 July 1680. She was baptized at St. Alban's, Wood Street, London, 23 Mch. 1690-1, where her son David was also baptized 22 Feb. 1713-4, as son of Rev. David and Sarah Trimmell. She proved her husband's will 17 June 1756.

<sup>4</sup> Mar. Lic. Bp. Lond. 19 May 1716, for Augustin Woollaston, of St. Bride's, London, bachelor, aged 31, and Elizabeth Nelthorpe, of St. Andrew's, Holborn, widow.—He probably son of Richard and Elizabeth Woollaston, baptisms of whose children occur in the registers of St. Bride's, from 1686 to 1695. She dau. of William Bird, of Hackney, Midx., Esq., Merchant of London, by his first wife Elizabeth dau. of Edward Bushell, of Hackney, Merchant, and was baptized at Hackney 13 Oct. 1668. She married, first, at St. Martin Outwich, London, 9 Dec. 1685, James Arther, who was buried at Hackney 13 Mch. 1690-1, and, secondly, at St. Olave, Hart Street, London, 28 July 1698, John Nelthorpe, son of James Nelthorpe, of Charterhouse Yard, Midx., Esq., on whose estate letters of administration were granted 8 Nov. 1700. Her will, as of St. Martin in the Fields, dated 17 Feb. 1725-6, was proved 29 Nov. 1726, by her husband, Augustine Woollaston, Esq., then of Whitehall.

<sup>7</sup> See the marriage of his parents, 24 Dec. 1691. He was their third and youngest but second surviving son, and was born and baptized at St. Mary Aldermanbury, London, 22 Jan. 1698-9. He became also a Turkey merchant, and died at Boston, in New England, in 1732. She probably a relative, as Richard Chapman, widower, and Mary Jacob, spinster, were married at St. Bride's, London, 9 July 1691. She died in 1742. Their only child, Elizabeth, died unmarried, 12 July 1763.

<sup>1</sup> He son of James Perrott, of North Leigh, co. Oxford, Esq., by Anne his wife. He was born 29 Sep. and baptized at North Leigh 9 Oct. 1689, and was M.P. for Oxfordshire from 1715 until his death. He died at Paris 4 Feb. 1739-40, and was buried at North Leigh 9 July following. See the marriage of her parents 2 May 1700. She died the 11th, and was buried at North Leigh 17 Oct. 1741, aged 38. They left only two daus., Cassandra and Martha, who both died unmarried.

<sup>2</sup> He third and youngest but only surviving son of Sir John Parsons, Kt., Lord Mayor of London, by Elizabeth dau. of Humphrey Beane, of Epsom, Surrey, Esq. He became M.P. for London, and was twice Lord Mayor. He died 21 Mch. 1740-1, during his second Mayoralty, and was buried at Reigate, Surrey. She third dau. of Sir Ambrose Crowley, Kt., Alderman of London, by Mary dau. of Charles Owen, Esq., son of Sir William Owen, of Shropshire, Kt. She is erroneously called a widow in the Abbey Register. She died 28 Jan. 1759, and was also buried at Reigate. (See her sister's marriage 6 Mch. 1724-5).

<sup>3</sup> He son of Colonel John Mews (brother of Peter, Bishop of Winchester) by Sarah, dau. of John Mellish, Citizen and Merchant Taylor of London, who administered to her husband's estate 9 Sept. 1679, and remarried, about Sept. 1680, Sir John Matthews, Kt., Merchant of London, and of Evesham, co. Worcester. He matriculated at Oxford, from St. John's College, 31 May 1688, aged 15, and was B.C.L. as of All Souls, 14 Dec. 1695, appointed Chancellor of Winchester 20 Aug. 1698, knighted 13 July 1712, and was M.P. for Christchurch, Hants, from 1710 until his death. His residence was at Hinton Admiral in that county, and, dying 19 Mch. 1725-6, he was buried at Christchurch. His will, dated 22 Apl. 1725, was proved 20 Feb. 1726-7. She is elsewhere called a daughter and coheir of George Jarvis, of London, and of Islington, co. Midx., Esq. (Wilson's History of St. Laurence Pountney, p. 249, and Clutterbuck's Hertfordshire, i. 465). She died 6 Apl. 1751, in her 75th year, and was buried at North Mimms, Herts, with her father, as she directed in her will, which was proved 27 July following. They appear to have left no issue.

<sup>4</sup> He only son of Mountague Drake, of Shardeloes, co. Bucks, Esq., by Jane only dau. and heir of Sir John Garrard, third Bart. of Lamer, Herts. He was born the 14th and baptized at St. Martin in the Fields 19 Oct. 1692. He was M.P. for Agmondesham, in the county of Bucks, from 1713 until his death. He died 26 Apl. and was buried at Agmondesham 8 May 1728. (See the marriage of his only sister 15 June 1721.) She only dau. and heir of Thomas Marshall, of St. Michael Bassishaw, London, Merchant, who died in 1712, by his first wife. The papers of the day record her fortune as upwards of £30,000. She was buried at Agmondesham 30 June, 1744. Her step-mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Marshall, then of Basinghall Street, London, died 18 Nov. 1729. Baptisms of their children occur in the registers of St. Giles in the Fields.

of Pierce Butler, sixth Lord Cahir, and succeeded his brother Sir Richard Everard, as fifth Bart., before 1707. He was created D.C.L. at Oxford, 22 Sep. 1715, when the Earl of Arran was admitted Chancellor of the University in place of his brother the Duke of Ormond, and probably at his instance. He is repeatedly mentioned in the correspondence of Bishop Atterbury, while in exile, as "the Knight," or "the Knight at Chatou," and was one of the witnesses to the Bishop's will, 31 Dec. 1725. He is called "a relation of the Duke of Ormond," and was evidently a Jacobite, and one of the exiles of that period. His will, dated 10 Mch. 1739-40, then still residing in France, was proved at Dublin 16 Apl. 1746. She only dau. of Mountague Drake, of Shardeloes, co. Bucks, Esq., by Jane only dau. and heir of Sir John Garrard, third Bart. of Lamer, Herts. She was born the 15th and baptized at Agmondesham, Bucks, 25 June 1694. (See the marriage of her only brother 13 Oct. 1719.) She survived her husband, but died intestate, and letters of administration on her estate were granted, at Dublin, to Richard Luane, a Paris banker, who also proved her husband's will. They evidently left no issue.

<sup>7</sup> Second son of Sir Thomas Bilson, of Maple Durham, Hants, Kt. (son of Thomas, Bishop of Winchester), by Susanna, youngest dau. of Sir William Uvedale the elder, of Wickham, Hants, Kt., who were married, at Wickham, 6 Aug. 1612. He married Eleanor, eldest dau. of Sir William Lewis, Bart., of Borden, Hants. His will, dated 29 Aug. 1695, was proved 12 Feb. 1695-6, by his relict Eleanor, and he was buried at Buriton, Hants.

<sup>8</sup> See his father's burial 16 May 1621. His mother was Margaret, sister of Dr. John Davenant, who succeeded his father as Bishop of Salisbury. She died 29 Oct. 1633, aged 49, and was buried in Salisbury Cathedral. She was married to Mr. Tounson, at St. Mary-le-Bow, London, 17 June 1604, being then widow of William Townley, Gent., who died about Oct. 1603. A MS. note in a copy of Camden's Annals in the Bodleian Library says that this son was born 18 Mch. He probably died young, as he is not named in the family wills some years later. The name is rightly Tounson.

<sup>4</sup> Rightly Tounson. See her father's burial 16 May 1621, and her brother's baptism 1 Apl. 1619, and notes thereto. She probably died young, as she is not named with the other children in family wills a few years later.

<sup>6</sup> Eldest dau. of Sir Edward Villiers, Kt. (half-brother of George, first Duke of Buckingham) by Barbara, eldest dau. of Sir John St. John (see her burial 16 Sep. 1672). She married, first, Thomas Wenman, son and heir of Philip third Viscount Wenman; secondly, Sir Richard Wentworth; and thirdly, James Howard, third Earl of Suffolk, to whom she was second wife. She died 13 Dec. 1681, and was buried at Saffron Walden, Essex.

He described himself as of Chilton-Foliatt, Wilts, but directed to be buried at Shellingford, Berks, among his family. His wife, whose maiden name was evidently Fettiplace, survived him, but he appears to have left no issue.

<sup>11</sup> See her mother's burial 13 Feb. 1672-3, and note thereto. She was living as Margaret Collinson at the date of her brother William's will, 12 June 1669, but is not named in that of her mother three years later.

He died 26 Sep. 1653, and was buried at Launton, co. Oxford. His first wife, and the mother of the children baptized in the Abbey, was Mary Combes, sister of John Combes, of Gray's Inn, Esq. He married, secondly, Margaret, dau. of Christopher Wornall, of Lambeth, co. Surrey, Gent., who died 5 Aug. 1671, and was also buried at Launton. <sup>2</sup> Son of William Gawen, of Westminster (second son of Thomas Gawen, of Bristol), by Anne, only dau. of Isaac Bush (see his burial 30 Dec. 1641), by Frances his wife (see her burial 9 Sep. 1641). The Mar. Lic. of the parents was issued by the Dean and Chapter of Westminster, 8 Sep. 1634. A monumental inscription in the Cloisters states that the mother died 26 Nov. 1659, and was there buried, with five of her children, but no positive record of any of the burials occurs in the Register, except of that of one daughter (see her burial, 14 Apl. 1650). See, however, the burial of Edward Coven, 30 June 1643, who was perhaps this child.

<sup>4</sup> James Try, Gent., had a patent from the Dean and Chapter, 23 May 1631, as Sexton, and another, 11 Jan. 1631-2, as a Bell-ringer, and is also mentioned in the Chapter Book, 22 Dec. 1638, as Master of the Choristers. His wife was Jane, dau. of Bazill Smith, clerk of the parish of St. Andrew, Holborn, who recorded in the register of that parish the baptisms and burials of all his grandchildren. From that register it appears that this child was born 12 Mch., at his father's house in the Great Almonry, near the Singing Men's Rents, and was buried at St. Andrew's, Holborn, 17 Nov. 1644, his father being then also dead. The mother was living 5 Feb. 1647-8, when she administered to her father's estate. The St. Andrew's register also states that a dau., Elizabeth, was born 20 Apl., and baptized in the Abbey 1 May 1636; but no record of it occurs in the Abbey Register: she was also buried at St. Andrew's, Holborn, 26 Jan. 1636-7. Another son, Richard, born 20 Nov. and baptized 2 Dec. 1639, and another dau., Elizabeth, born 7th and baptized 21 Aug. 1641, both in the Great Almonry, were probably also baptized in the Abbey, but no record occurs of either. Other children of Mr. Try were born and baptized at Kentish Town, Midx.

minster (see his burial 13 July 1672). It is probable that the severe notions of the latter would not allow him to recognize the validity of a prior baptism in New England, and hence the re-performance of the ceremony here. (See the baptisms of his sisters, under similar circumstances, 10 Apl. 1669, and note thereto). He returned to New England, where he was living in 1681, and was the ancestor of the present American family of this name.

<sup>1</sup> See the baptism of their brother 18 Apl. 1663, and note thereto. They were probably re-baptized for the same reason there stated. See their father's burial 3 Nov. 1668. His will, made before he left New England, states that he intended to bring them with him to England, and describes them as his two youngest daughters. It will be noticed that this re-baptism did not take place until some months after his death. They were residing with their uncle, Rev. Herbert Thorndike, Prebendary of Westminster (see his burial 13 July 1672), until his death, and he made a considerable provision for them in his will, on condition that they should neither return to New England, nor "marry with any that goes to mass or any of the new licensed conventicles," and the payment of a portion was dependant upon their marrying, or willingness to marry, "such as sincerely cleave to the Church of England." As no subsequent trace of them has ever been discovered in New England, it is probable that they accepted one of the latter contingencies, and retained their bequests.

He died in that office 23 July, and was buried at Chiswick, Midx., 6 Aug. 1712, aged about 70. His will, dated 23 Apl. 1711, was proved 30 July 1712, by his nephew Pelham Richardson, residuary legatee, and he left bequests to other nephews, Thomas and William Richardson, and Lieut. Charles May. He married (Mar. Lie. Vic. Gen. 8 Dec. 1669) Mrs. Melior Gower, sister of Lieut.-Colonel James Gower, and cousin of Mrs. Frances Gower (see her burial, 17 Apl. 1698). She was buried at Chiswick, 4 Oct. 1705, aged about 58. This son John was also buried at Chiswick, 27 Mch. 1711. See his sister's baptism, 15 Apl. 1675.

<sup>9</sup> He was second and only surviving son of Rev. Simon Patrick, Prebendary of Westminster, and then Dean of Peterborough, afterwards successively Bishop of Chichester and Ely, by Penelope, dau. of William Jephson, of Froyle, Hants. Esq. According to his father's autobiography he was born the previous day. He went from Eton to Cambridge in 1697, and was A.M., of Queens' College, in 1701. The same authority says he married, 14 June 1702, the eldest dau. of Mr. Fountain, of Melton, near Doncaster, and had a daughter born 21 July 1704, and a son 23 Mch. 1705-6. (Miss Catherine Patrick, who died at Bury, unmarried, in 1792, aged 82, is said to have been a grand-daughter of Bishop Patrick, and if so, must have been his daughter). <sup>3</sup> Rev. William Sill, A.M. of Trinity College, Cambridge, in 1662, was collated a Prebendary of Carlisle 27 March 1668. He subsequently became Chaplain to the Bishop of London, who gave him the Prebend of Neasdon 10 July 1678, which he appears to have exchanged for that of St. Pancras 24 Sept. following, on which day he was also installed Archdeacon of Colchester. Both of these preferments he appears to have subsequently resigned, his successors, Dr. Sherlock in the prebend and Dr. Beveridge in the archdeaconry, being appointed on the same day, 3 Nov. 1681. The records of his various preferments as given by Newcourt (Reperitorium, i., 93, 186, 197, 288, 922), and perpetuated by Le Neve (see Hardy's edition of the Fasti, iii. 362), are most confusing, and, if all were correct, could only be reconciled by the assumption that two of the same name were collated to London prebends in the same year. In both instances it is said that the successions to the prebend and archdeaconry were "per mort. Sill"; but this was clearly an error of Newcourt's, for the editor has examined the original records in the Bishop's Registry, and they both simply but distinctly say that the offices were lawfully vacant. He was instituted to the rectory of St. Augustine, with St. Faith, London, 4 Nov. 1680, and was installed a Prebendary of Westminster 22 Oct. 1681, and held both of these preferments until his death. His will, dated 16 May, was proved 7 July 1687, and he was buried in the church of St. Augustine in June of that year. In his will he commended his wife and children to his brother, Mr. Toby Sill. In his marriage license (Faculty Office), dated 3 Feb. 1682-3, he is described as Rector of St. Augustine, a bachelor, aged about 45, and his wife as Anne Smith, of Hildersham, co. Cambridge, spinster, aged about 30. This child was living at the date of his will. See the baptism of another son 7 Dec. 1686, and his burial 20 Dec. 1688.

<sup>4</sup> Rev. Samuel de L'Angle (whose real surname was De Baux), was son of Jean-Maximilien De Baux, Seigneur de L'Angle, senior pastor of the Reformed Church at Rouen, by Marie, dau. of René Bochart, Sieur de Ménillet, and sister of the learned Samuel Bochart. He was M.A. in France, and had preached for thirty-five years in the reformed churches at Rouen and Charenton before taking refuge in England from the religious persecutions of the period. He was created D.D. at Oxford 12 Feb. 1682-3, and installed Prebendary of Westminster 13 Oct. following. He appears also to have held the living of Steventon, Berks. He died the 17th, and was buried at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 21 June 1693, aged about 71. His will, signed 13 June, was proved 3 July in that year. See his wife's burial 13 Dec. 1687. This son Thomas was living at the date of his father's will. (See a burial 2 Dec. 1687.)

Northampton, by his wife Anne Christopherson, of the Isle of Ely, is described in the Heralds' Visitation of Northamptonshire as "a Gunsmith in London, now living, 26 July 1682," and as then married. There can be little doubt of his being the father of the child baptized.

<sup>5</sup> Rev. Thomas Dent, M.A., was installed Prebendary of Westminster 15 Sep. 1694. On 25 June 1695, as M.A. of Dublin, he was incorporated at Oxford in the same degree, and on 3 July following accumulated the degrees of B.D. and D.D. About 1695 he purchased Lawford Hall, and the advowson of the living of Lawford, in Essex, where he was buried 6 Feb. 1721-2. He held also the rectories of Lenton and Fiskerton, co. Lincoln, and in the register of the latter parish his death is recorded, as occurring at his own house in Westminster, 1 Feb. 1721-2. He married (Mar. Lic. Vic. Gen. 12 Nov. 1685) Alice Ayloffe, described as of St. Andrew's, Holborn, spinster, aged about 22, with her mother's consent (his own age being stated as about 28). She was buried at Lawford 16 Feb. 1739-40. This child, their youngest dau., died the 3rd and was buried 15 Aug. 1706, also at Lawford.

<sup>2</sup> Her father was consecrated Bishop of St. Asaph 6 Feb. 1714-5, installed Prebendary of Westminster 15 Feb. 1721-2, translated to Bath and Wells, and confirmed 11 Nov. 1727. He died 15 July 1743, aged 76, and was buried at Northop, co. Flint. Her mother was Anne, dau. of Robert (or Richard) Pugh of Bennanth, co. Carnarvon. She was married at St. John Evangelist, Westminster, 20 May 1742, to Henry Fane, Esq. (brother of Thomas eighth Earl of Westmoreland), of Wormsley, co. Oxford (see the burial of his first wife 7 Oct. 1739), by whom she had an only dau., who married Sir Thomas Stapleton, fifth Bart. of Grey's Court, and thus became ancestress of the present Baroness Le Despenser. She died in 1744, and was buried at Northop, with her father. (See the baptism of a brother 24 May 1727, and the burial of another 16 Oct. 1723.)

She was baptized at St. Mary Aldermary, London, 16 Nov. 1703; married, in the Bishop's Chapel at Bromley, Kent, 2 June 1724; and died at Wilmington, Kent, in 1780, aged 77. See this child's burial 5 Aug. 1725; also the baptisms of two other children, 9 Nov. 1729 and 18 Jan. 1730-1, and the burial of another 22 May 1731.

<sup>1</sup> The father was Rev. Reuben Clarke (son of Alured Clarke of Godmanchester, co. Huntingdon, Esq., by his first wife Sarah Askham) who was of Emmanuel College, Cambridge, A.B. 1709, A.M. 1713, and S.T.P. 1728, and was installed Archdeacon of Essex 1 Aug. 1737. He died at Godmanchester 9 Aug. 1746, and was buried there the 14th. (See the burial of his half-brother 5 June 1742). The mother was eldest dau. of the Rt. Rev. Samuel Bradford, Bishop of Rochester (see his burial 22 May 1731), by Jane his wife (see her burial 5 Mch. 1738-9). Her marriage settlement, dated 11 Jan. 1723-4, was advertised for sale by a bookseller in Clerkenwell in 1870. She died 8 Sep. 1761, and was buried at Godmanchester the 15th. Northampton, Gent., and was B.A. 28 April 1708, M.A. 15 Mch. 1710-11, and D.D. by diploma 19 Apl. 1733. He had a patent as Second Master of Westminster School 20 Mch. 1715-6, and one as Chief Master was ordered 5 Feb. 1733-4 (Chapter Book). He was installed Prebendary of Westminster 6 Oct. 1740, and Canon of Christ Church 30 Dec. 1751. He died the 19th and was buried 23 Sep. 1765, in Christ Church Cathedral, in his 82nd year. His relict, Alice, was also buried there, 21 June 1773. (She was previously wife of John Lewis, of London, Gent., who died in 1721, by whom she was mother of Rev. John Lewis, Dean of Ossory (see his marriage 7 Nov. 1747), and of Dr. William Lewis, an eminent physician of Oxford.) This was their only son. He matriculated at Oxford, from Christ Church (elected from St. Peter's College, Westminster), 6 June 1746, aged 18, and was B.A. 4 May 1750, and M.A. 5 July 1753. He became Rector of Meon-Stoke, Hants, and was installed Prebendary of Salisbury 9 Mch. 1757. He died 12 July 1759, in his 32nd year, and a small monument was erected to his memory in Christ Church Cathedral, but no record of his burial there occurs in the cathedral register.

<sup>2</sup> The father was Rev. George Carleton, Chanter of the Abbey, which appointment he received 4 Sep. 1728. He was sworn a Gent. of the Chapel Royal 8 Aug. 1715, and Sub-dean thereof 16 Aug. 1732. He was of St. John's College, Cambridge, where A.B. 1704, and A.M. 1708. He died 15 Dec. 1746. The mother was his second wife. (Mar. Lic. Fac. 26 Oct. 1717, for George Carleton, of St. Bride's, London, widower, aged upwards of 30, and Elizabeth Dillingham, of Hampton, Midx., spinster, aged 19 and upwards, with consent of her mother, Elizabeth Dillingham.) Sir John Hawkins (History of Music, v. 406) says that her sister married Dr. Greene, Organist and Composer to the Royal Chapel, and that they had together kept a milliner's shop in Paternoster Row, and were cousins of the wife of Mr. Charles King, Almoner of St. Paul's, who was a sister of Jerry Clark. From the names given to their children, however, it may be rather conjectured that they were immediately connected with the family of Dr. Theophilus Dillingham, Archdeacon of Bedford, whose son and grandson, both named Theophilus, were buried at Hampton, where the mother and daughter, according to the license, were both living at the time of this marriage. Theophilus Carleton, the second child of the marriage, was baptized at St. Bride's, 13 Dec. 1719. The mother was his second wife, to whom married early in the same year. She was only surviving dau. of Dr. Lawrence Brodrick, Prebendary of Westminster, and Anne his wife (see her brother's baptism 19 Nov. 1710, and note thereto). By his two wives Mr. Bathurst had thirty-six children. He died 5 Nov. 1767. His widow died about 1794, and was buried at Mixbury, co. Oxford. This daughter married William Prowett, of Adderbury, co. Oxford, Esq., and was mother of Rev. John Prowett, Rector of Catefield, co. Norfolk. and Great Tey, co. Essex. See her brother's baptism, immediately following her own.

<sup>5</sup> See the preceding entry and note.—From the imperfect dates given in the text it is probable that the record was made some time after his baptism. A recorded pedigree, however, in the College of Arms, states that he was the second child and eldest son, by Mr. Bathurst's second marriage, and that he was born in 1743. He was in the army, and died without issue.

Rev. Sir Richard Cope, ninth Bart. of Hanwell, co. Oxford, was appointed Registrar and Chapter Clerk 19 July 1763, and held those offices until his death, Sep. 1803. The mother was dau. and heiress of Benjamin Greenwood, of St. Mary Cray, Kent, Esq., and they were married Sep. 1765. She died 16 Jan. 1810, and both were buried at Bexley. This son succeeded his uncle as tenth Bart. 6 Nov. 1806, and died, without issue, 30 Dec. 1812. He married, 13 Sep. 1810, Elizabeth-Dorothea Francis, of Park Place, St. James's Street, who remarried, 30 Aug. 1820, Henry Rush, of Heckfield, Hants, Esq. She died 16 Feb. 1840, and was buried with her first husband at Eversley, Hants. See his brother's baptism 17 Aug. 1768.

<sup>1</sup> See his father's burial 11 Nov. 1807, and his mother's 3 Feb. 1814. He was fourth son, born the 1st of the same month, and was educated at Westminster School and Christ Church, Oxford. He subsequently entered the Army, became Lieut.-Colonel of the 20th Regiment of Foot, and was killed 26 Mch. 1795, whilst directing an attack against a fort near Port-au-Prince, in the island of St. Domingo. He died unmarried.

<sup>2</sup> See her mother's burial 4 Dec. 1789, and her father's 31 Mch. 1808. She married James Wake, Esq., Barrister-at-Law (son of the Rev. Dr. Charles Wake, Prebendary of Westminster), who died 10 June 1841, and was buried at Heavitree, co. Devon, where she was also buried, 16 Apl. 1849.

<sup>3</sup> The father was of Trinity College, Cambridge, A.B. 1747-8, A.M. 1751, and S.T.P. 1764. He was installed Prebendary of Westminster 16 Feb. 1765, but resigned in 1771, on becoming Bishop of Killaloe in Ireland. He became Archbishop of Dublin 22 Dec. 1778, and died 10 Oct. 1801. This his only son matriculated at Oxford, from Christ Church, 18 Jan. 1785, and was B.A. 23 Oct. 1788. He was afterwards Archdeacon of Dublin, and in 1813 became Bishop of Ossory. Of his two sisters, one became Countess of Kilkenny, and the other was mother of the fifth Earl of Mayo.

<sup>5</sup> The father matriculated at Oxford, from Exeter College, 4 Nov. 1740, aged 21, as son of Anselm Baily, of Haresfield, co. Gloucester, and was described as "Pleb. fil." He then signed his name "Baily," but appears subsequently to have changed the orthography, as he took the degree of B.C.L. 12 June 1749, then of Christ Church, as "Bayly," and proceeded D.C.L. 10 July 1764. The London Chronicle, 28 Nov. 1775, calls him Sub-dean of the Chapel Royal. From the Cheque Book he appears to have been sworn a Gent. of the Chapel 29 Jan. 1740-1, and Priest in ordinary 13 Mch. 1743-4. The mother was his second wife. See the burial of his first wife 21 Nov. 1775. Two days after, viz., 23 Nov. 1775, according to the parish register, he was married, at St. Margaret's, Westminster, to Rebecca Moore, of that parish, described in the register as a spinster, and in the London Chronicle referred to as "a lady of large fortune." See the burial of another child of this marriage 20 June 1778, and the burials of his children by his first wife, 29 Oct. 1751, 8 Oct. 1754, and 5 Nov. 1782. ## Burials in Westminster Abbey.

[There are two distinct sets of Burials recorded in the Registers, from the commencement down to the end of the year 1812, after which the entries are made indiscriminately. The first set is thus prefaced: "BURIALLS IN THE COLLEGIATE CHURCH OF ST. PETER'S, WESTMINSTER, AND THE CHAPPELLS THEREOF." The other is headed simply "BURIALS IN THE CLOISTERS." For greater convenience, both sets are here incorporated in one unbroken chronological arrangement.]

- 1606§ [Jan.] (—) The Lady Hunsdon, wife to Henry Carew, Lord Hunsdon,<sup>1</sup>
 dyed Jan. 19, 1606, and was buried in St. John Baptist's Chapel, where lyeth also the Lord Hunsdon.
 1607 Nov. 23 John Winterborne, Verger:<sup>2</sup> [Cloisters].
 Dec. 16 Mary, the daughter of King James:<sup>3</sup> in King Henry 7th's

<sup>1</sup> Anne, dau. of Sir Thomas Morgan, of Arkeston, co. Hereford, Kt., by Anne, dau. of John Whitney, of Whitney, co. Gloucester. She was the relict of Sir Henry Carey, K.G., first Lord Hunsdon, who died 23 July 1596, and was also buried in the Abbey. Her will, dated the 10th, was proved 22 Jan. 1606-7.

<sup>2</sup> He had a joint patent as Porter of the Lower Gate 4 Dec. 1598, and a patent as Verger 4 Dec. 1599 (Chapter Book). Dean Goodman mentioned him in his will, dated 2 Mch. 1600-1, as one of his nearest and most faithful servants. He married (Mar. Lic. D. and C. Westminster 8 Feb. 1593-4) Elizabeth Lodge, of Westminster, widow, whose maiden name, from his will, appears to have been Wilson. (She survived him, and remarried, at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 16 June 1608, Harsey Normanvill, of St. Clement Danes, Gent.) His will, dated 26 Aug. 1606, was proved, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, 1 Dec. 1607, and its contents indicate that he was a Yorkshireman. (See the burials of John and Richard Blackborne, 8 Jan. 1608-9 and 28 May 1610, who were his nephews.)

months, and at least have entered upon the eighth day of the next month. Howes, also, in his continuation of "Stow's Chronicle," gives the 16th of September as the date of her death, and the 23rd of the same month as that of her burial. This testimony may be safely accepted; but there is also moral evidence equally as strong. On examining the histories, and especially the correspondence of that period, it will be found that during the Christmas holidays of 1607 the court presented a scene of unusual gaiety. Masques, and theatricals, and gambling were the order of the day—the King being very anxious to have a play on Christmas night, and the Queen losing £100 at cards on Twelfth Eve. Whatever may have been the vices of that court, and the morality of the period, it is simply impossible—if for no other reasons than those of court etiquette, but, it is to be hoped, for far better ones—that these things could have taken place, if the royal child had been dead and buried only nine days, or, as would have been more probable, was then lying a corpse in the palace. As the entry in the Register and the inscription on the monument now stand, any future historian would be justified in pointing to the apparent facts as an evidence of the gross and outrageous immorality, and even inhumanity, of the royal parents, the court by which they were upheld, and the nation by which they were tolerated, and it is somewhat extraordinary that the manifest error has not before been detected and exposed. There can be little doubt that the transcriber of the old register misread December for September, and that the present inscription on the monument was cut after the new register was in use, and the date taken therefrom.

<sup>4</sup> His will, in which he is described as of Westminster, Yeoman, dated the 14th, was proved, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, 22 June 1609. It mentions his sister Ellen, and her dau. Anne, then wife of Nicholas Love; also his nephews and niece, Hugh, Thomas, Robert, and Frances Suttle (brothers and sister), and his cousins, Anne and Elizabeth Parkase (sisters), and Anne and Mary Ramsay (sisters). He does not appear, from the records, to have held any position about the Abbey, but he left legacies to several of the minor officials on condition that they were permitted to bury him in the Cloisters.

<sup>1</sup> Sir Edward Zouch, knighted at Whitehall 23 July 1603, was Knight Marshal of England in the reign of K. James I. The only wife hitherto assigned him was Elizabeth, dau. of Henry Middlemore, of Enfield, Midx., and sister of Mary Middlemore (see her burial 4 Jan. 1617-18). But he appears to have previously married. Among the marriage licenses granted by the Dean and Chapter of Westminster is one, dated 20 Dec. 1598, for Edward Zouche, of Westminster, Esq., and Elenor Brittainne, of the same parish, dau. of [blank] Brittainne, late of Cockingham, co. Norfolk, Esq., deceased, and they were married at St. Margaret's, Westminster, the following day. This was probably the lady named in the text.

<sup>2</sup> Among the records of the Dean and Chapter is the probate of the will of Thomas Middleton, late of Westminster, Gent., dated 30 Apl. 1610, but the will itself is missing. The executors named were Lancelot Peacock and Francis Middleton.—A Thomas Middleton matriculated at Oxford, from Queen's College, Apl. 1598, aged 18, "Pleb. fil." London.—One of this surname (whose Christian name has not been preserved) was Second Master of Westminster School from 1593 to 1610, and it is not improbable that this entry refers to him.

<sup>3</sup> See his brother's burial 8 Jan. 1608-9, and note thereto. He had also a patent as bell-ringer 15 May 1609. The probate of his will is among the Chapter records, the executors being Henry Blackborne and William Cooke, but the will itself is missing.

<sup>4</sup> Rightly Agard. The date in the text is probably incorrect. The inscription on the tablet to her memory and that of her husband, still on the wall of the East Cloister, has evidently been more than once recut, and is calculated only to mislead. It now states that she died Sept. 1610, in her 82nd year ; that he was then living in his 71st ; that he erected the tablet 14 Apl. 1611 ; and that he died in 1619, in his 80th year. But it is certain that he died in 1615 (see his burial 24 Aug. in that year), and it is probable that his age at his death, as stated in the inscription, was obtained by adding the difference between 1610 and 1619 to his age as stated at his wife's death. It may also be doubted that his wife was eleven years his senior, and is more probable that she died in her 62nd, instead of her 82nd year. The earliest copy of the inscription to be found is in Keepe's Monumenta Westmonasteriensia, 1682. It was then evidently almost illegible, but the year of her death is given as 1610, which is probably correct, and accords with the statement that the tablet was put up in Apl. 1611. In a pedigree at the end of the Visitation of Staffordshire, 1583, among the Gough MSS. in the Bodleian Library, she is called a daughter of George Butler, of Bedfordshire.

<sup>5</sup> He had a patent as Clerk of the Kitchen 28 Apl. 1589. He is mentioned in Dean Goodman's will, dated 2 Mch. 1600-1, as one of his nearest and most faithful servants. His will was proved 28 Oct. 1612, by his relict Margaret, but is not to be found. His widow remarried (Mar. Lic. D. and C. Westminster, 8 Jan. 1612-13) John Dyer, of St. Margaret's, Westminster, Gent. See the burial of his son 30 July 1624.

<sup>6</sup> Henry-Frederick, eldest child of King James I. (see his burial 5 May 1625) by Anne of Denmark, dau. of King Frederick II. (see her burial 13 May 1619). He was born at Stirling 19 Feb. 1593-4, and was created Prince of Wales 4 June 1610. He died at St. James's Palace, and was buried under the monument of his grandmother, Mary Queen of Scots, whose remains had been brought from Scotland the previous month.

[Alphington], co. Devon, Gent., dated 10 Sept. 1611, was proved 31 July 1613 by his son Joseph. He directed to be buried in Exeter Cathedral, wherein he was brought up in his childhood, and left £5 to the gentlemen his fellows and friends of H.M.'s Chapel, whereof he had long been a member. In his monumental inscription (preserved only in Le Neve's Mon. Ang., i. 39) he is said to have been a Gent. of the Royal Chapel seventy years, and to have died 3 July 1613, aged 96. The Cheque Book says that he died 2 July, "of the age of 97 years," and describes him as "gospeller." See his son's burial 6 June 1617.

<sup>2</sup> Dr. Isaac Causabon, the eminent scholar: son of Arnold Causabon by his wife Jane (or Johanna) née Rousseau, and born 18 Feb. 1559-60, v. Geneva. He came to England in Oct. 1610, and on the 17th Jan. following was made a Prebendary of Canterbury. He is usually said to have been also a Prebendary of Westminster, but no record of his appointment or installation appears in the Chapter Books. His will, dated 21 June, was proved 30 July 1614 by his relict (see her burial 11 Mch. 1635-6). The date in the text is probably that of his burial, as he is usually said to have died on the 1st of July, which is also the date on his monument. Camden, however, in his Annals, says that he died on the 30th of June.

<sup>5</sup> Rightly Birkhead. A bequest in Dean Goodman's will, dated 2 Mch. 1600-1, reads thus: "To Gabriel Birkhead, my godson, who hath served me ever since he was a scholar, £8:6:8." His will, which is now missing, was proved, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, 13 Jan. 1614-15, by his relict Frances (see her burial, as Frances Bush, 9 Sep. 1641). He was probably son and grandson of the persons named in the following inscription on an old monument in the Cloisters, not now in existence, preserved by Camden in his Reges, Reginae, etc., edit. 1606, p. 81, viz.:—"Heere vnder lieth Anne Birkhed, being 102 yeeres of age, who departed this life the 25 of August, Ann. Dom. 1568. And Christopher Birkhed her Sonne, being 77 yeeres of age, who departed this life the 20 of May, being Ascension day, an. do. 1595."—Christopher Byrkhed and Kath. Banyster were married at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 17 Oct. 1569.

- 1616 March 29 Two of the Earl of Arguyle's children: in St. John Baptist's Chapel.<sup>6</sup>

Anthony Catesby of Whiston, co. Northampton, Esq., and relict of John, second Lord St. John of Bletsoe, who died in 1596. She was sister of Sir Robert Dormer, Kt. and Bart., created Lord Dormer 30 June 1615. The entry is misplaced in the Register (probably in transcribing), coming after that of Francis Beaumont, 9 Mch. 1615-6. She died 23 Mch. 1614-5, according to her monument, and was buried, according to Camden's Annals, 23 Mch. 1615. Her will, dated 26 Aug. 1609, was proved 22 May 1615, by her only child, Lady Anne Howard (see her burial 8 June 1638).

<sup>2</sup> Arthur Agard, one of the Deputy Chamberlains of the Exchequer for 45 years, and one of the first and most active members of the Society of Antiquaries. He was son of Clement Agard, of Poston, co. Derby, by Eleanor, dau. of Thomas Middleborough (as is usually said, but a pedigree in one of the Gough MSS. in the Bodleian Library says Elizabeth, dau. of Thomas Middlemore) of Edgbaston, co. Warwick, and was born at Poston in 1540. His monument, as recut, makes him die in 1619, in his 80th year; but his will, dated 16 Jan. 1614-5, and sealed and delivered 22 Aug. 1615 (the day, according to Camden's Annals, of his death), was proved 28 Aug. 1615, by his nephew William Agard. See his wife's burial 6 Sep. 1611, and note thereto.

<sup>5</sup> There is an error of a year in the date. His will, dated 20 Mch. 1616-7, was proved 11 Apl. 1617, in which he is called "Yeoman, servant to the Dean and Chapter of the Collegiate Church of St. Peter of Westminster." He left his lands, etc., in Toft and Hardwick, co. Cambridge, to his brother Nicholas May, of Eversden, in the same county, with remainder to his son John. He also left legacies to the children of his deceased sister Elizabeth, wife of Richard Newman.

<sup>1</sup> Son of Sir Thomas Vaughan (who changed his name to Parry), Treasurer of the Household and Master of the Court of Wards and Liveries temp. Q. Eliz. (who died 15 Dec. 1560, and was also buried in the Abbey), by Anne, dau. of Sir William Reade, of Boarstall, Bucks, and relict, first of Sir Giles Greville, and secondly of Sir Adrian Fortescue. He was of Hampstead Marshall, Berks, of which county he was Sheriff 1576 and 1588, and Deputy Lieutenant 1596, and was M.P. for St. Alban's 1603. He was also Ambassador to France. In 1607 he became Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster and Master of the Court of Wards, but was suspended from the Chancellorship and ejected from Parliament in 1614, for some parliamentary offence. He died, without issue, in the parish of St. Mary, Savoy, on the day preceding his burial, as is usually said, but in one of the letters of George Lord Carew (Camden Soc., 1859, p. 34), he is mentioned as dead, under the date of 24 May. His wife Dorothy survived him until 1624, when she was buried at Welford, Berks.

<sup>2</sup> Eldest son of Herman Bilson (grandson of Arnold Bilson, whose wife is said to have been a dau. of the Duke of Bavaria), and born in the city of Winchester. He went from Winchester School to New College, Oxford, where B.A. 10 Oct. 1566, M.A. 25 Apl. 1570, B.D. 24 June 1579, and D.D. 24 Jan. 1580-1. He was installed a Prebendary of Winchester 12 Jan. 1576, consecrated Bishop of Worcester 13 June 1596, and translated to Winchester 13 May 1597. He is always said to have died on the day stated in the text as that of his burial. His age, according to the inscription on his monument, was 69. Letters of administration were granted to his relict Anne on the 25th of the same month. See the baptism of his grandson 5 Dec. 1616.

record of the probate now exists. Dean Goodman, in his will dated 2 Mch. 1600-1, mentioned him as one of his nearest and most faithful servants. See his wife's burial 30 Apl. 1625.

<sup>2</sup> There is probably an error in the date, as letters of administration were granted on his estate, on the 10th of the same month, to John Cobden.

<sup>3</sup> The author of A Defence of the Liturgy of the Church of England, which was not published until thirteen years after his death. He was A.M. of Trinity Coll., Cambridge, and was instituted to the rectory of Holy Trinity, Colchester, Essex, 19 Apl. 1610. He is said to have also been a tutor in the family of Dr. Gabriel Grant, Prebendary of Westminster, who administered to his estate, as a creditor, 11 Dec. 1617. He appears, from the dedication in the volume mentioned, to have been brought up in his youth among the Puritans of the period, and to have been affected with physical blindness during the most or the whole of his life.

<sup>4</sup> Eldest dau. of Henry Middlemore, of Enfield, Midx., Groom of the Privy Chamber to Q. Elizabeth, and sister of Robert Middlemore, Equerry to K. James I. She was appointed Maid of Honour in 1603. She died the day before her burial.

<sup>5</sup> Mar. Lic. D. and C. Westminster, 18 Aug. 1609, for Edward Field, of Westminster, Yeoman, and Jane Dux, of St. Andrew's, Holborn, widow. His will was proved, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, 11 Feb. 1617-18, by the relict Jane, but is now lost. Dean Goodman, in his will dated 2 Mch. 1600-1, mentioned him as one of his nearest and most faithful servants.

<sup>7</sup> Eldest son of John Ramsay, Earl of Holderness (see his burial 28 Feb. 1625-6), by his first wife, Lady Elizabeth Ratcliffe (eldest dau. of Robert, fifth Earl of Sussex), who was married 9 Feb. 1607-8 and died 6 Dec. 1618. He was baptized at the Chapel Royal, Whitehall, 11 Mch. 1616-17, the King being one of his sponsors. See also the burials of his brother and sister, 25 Mch. and 14 Sep. 1621.

<sup>8</sup> Elizabeth, second dau. of Sir John Spencer, of Althorp, co. Northampton, Kt., by Catherine, dau. of Sir Thomas Kitson, of Hengrave, co. Suffolk, Kt. She was relict, first, of Sir George Carey, second Baron Hunsdon, who died 9 Sep. 1603 and was buried in the Abbey, and, secondly, of Ralph, third Baron Eure, who is usually said to have died in 1618, but whose will was proved 8 Apl. 1617. To her Spencer dedicated his "Mother Hubbard's Tale." Letters of administration were granted on her estate, 20 Mch. 1617-8, to her only child Elizabeth, then wife of Sir Thomas Berkeley, afterwards wife of Sir Thomas Chamberlayne, Kt., Chief Justice of Chester, etc., who is often erroneously said, even in the most recent peerages, to have been the second husband of her mother.

of the Barons of the Exchequer and a Justice of the Queen's Bench. According to the record of his admission to Gray's Inn, 1 Nov. 1589, he was born at Abington, co. Northampton: He became eventually heir to the estates of his distant kinsman Lord Chancellor Hatton. He was sometime of Clay Hall, in Barking, Essex, and afterwards of Kirby, co. Northampton, and was created a Knight of the Bath at the coronation of K. James I. According to his monument he died the day before his burial, and his relict administered to his estate the 15th of the same month. His wife was Alice, eldest dau. of Thomas Fausshawe, of Ware Park, Herts, Esq., Remembrancer of the Exchequer to Q. Elizabeth, by his second wife, Joane, third dau. of Thomas Smith, of Ostenbanger, co. Kent, Esq. She was baptized at Christ Church, London, 24 Dec. 1581, and married, at Barking, Essex, 13 Mch. 1601-2. See the burials of their children 18 Aug. 1624 and 4 July 1670.

<sup>2</sup> Fourth dau. of Edward Seymour, first Duke of Somerset (the Protector), beheaded 22 Jan. 1551-2, by his second wife, Anne, dau. of Sir Edward Stanhope, of Sudbury, Suffolk, and of Rampton, Notts, Kt., who remarried Francis Newdigate, Esq., died 16 Apl. 1587, and was buried in the Abbey. She was first married, 4 June 1583, to Andrew Rogers, Esq., eldest son of Sir Richard Rogers, of Brianstone, co. Dorset, Kt., who died in his father's lifetime, and without issue, 1 Dec. 1601. She remarried, at Long Ditton, Surrey, 22 Sept. 1607 (the marriage is also recorded in the parish register of Barnes), Sir Henry Peyton, Kt. (son of Thomas Peyton, of Bury St. Edmunds, Suffolk, Esq., by Lady Cecilia Bourchier, dau. of John, second Earl of Bath), who was abroad, engaged in the Venetian wars, at the time of her death, and whose will, dated 11 Apl. 1618, was proved 20 Feb. 1623-4, the record whereof states that he died "beyond seas." The name in the Register is calculated to mislead, as she was really Lady Mary Peyton. In Camden's Annals, under the same date, her burial is thus noticed: "Maria Scimoura vidua Rogers, uxor Peiton jam in bello Veneto, soror Edw. Comitiss Hertfordiæ, nocturno funere in Ecclesia Collegiata Westm: inhumata, magnâ Nobilitum catervâ comitante."

<sup>5</sup> See her husband's burial 24 Oct. 1641. She was eldest dau. and coheir of John Le Strange, of Sedgford, co. Norfolk, Esq. She was married there 18 Apl. 1590, and died 24 July 1620.

It also added that by her were buried Mr. Roger Parker, a servant to Q. Elizabeth, Dorothy Neile one of her daughters, and Cibell Clarke her dau. Mildred's daughter. Of the first and last no record occurs in the Register. See her husband's burial 23 June 1624, and her daughter's 25 July 1622.

<sup>2</sup> Probate of his will was granted, by the Court of the Dean and Chapter, 7 Oct. 1620, to his relict Ellen Prichard alias Roberts, but the will itself is missing. Dean Goodman, in his will dated 2 Mch. 1600-1, mentioned him as one of his nearest and most faithful servants.

<sup>3</sup> His will, as of St. Martin in the Fields, Gent., dated 22 Dec. 1620, was proved 18 Jan. following, by his relict Sarah. The register of that parish calls him a chirurgion, and states that he died on the 26th. He was second son of David Allen, a surgeon of Chesterfield, co. Derby, where he was baptized 6 June 1586. His mother, Anne, appears to have remarried Godfrey Heathcote, Alderman of Chesterfield. His wife was a niece of Robert Ryce, of Preston, co. Suffolk, the famous antiquary, and was his executrix in 1638. Their issue were a son Zouch, and a posthumous dau. Sarah.

<sup>4</sup> His will describes him as of Cobham, co. Kent, Esq. It is dated in 1618, and his relict Anne administered 27 Mch. 1621. He left all his estate to her, to bring up their dau. Mary, and an unborn child, and mentioned no other relations. He referred to sums due him for services rendered to the King.

<sup>7</sup> Robert Townson, born in the parish of St. Botolph, Cambridge, where he was baptized 8 Jan. 1575-6, as son of "Renold Toulnesson"; educated at Queens' College, Cambridge, of which sometime a Fellow, and afterwards S.T.P.; installed Dean of Westminster 16 Dec. 1617, and consecrated Bishop of Salisbury 9 July 1620. He died 15 May, leaving a wife Margaret (sister of Dr. John Davenant, who succeeded him in his bishopric) and fifteen (or, as one authority says, thirteen) children. See the baptisms of two of them, 1 Apl. 1619 and 1 June 1620. The statement of his biographers that he left his family in great poverty is contradicted by the will of his widow, who bequeathed considerable property and money, and by a letter of Bishop Davenant which speaks of her giving reasonable portions with her daughters.

of Sir John Danvers, of Dauntsey, in the same county, Kt., by Elizabeth, dau. and coheir of Sir John Nevill, fourth Lord Latimer. She died in St. Martin in the Fields, and the record of her removal to be buried in the Abbey occurs, under the same date, in the register of that parish. Her will, dated 23 Nov. 1620, was proved 28 Jan. 1621-2, by her brother Sir John Danvers and her son Sir Edward Baynton.

<sup>1</sup> Rightly Edmond Hooper. He had a patent from the Dean and Chapter for life, as Master of the Children, 3 Dec. 1588, and another as Organist, 9 May 1606. He was also a Gentleman of the Chapel Royal (sworn 1 Mch. 1603-4), and "an excellent composer of Church Anthems." He died 14 July. His will, dated 20 Oct. 1620, confirmed 11 July 1621, was proved on the last day of that month. He mentioned his long services to the Abbey, of thirty-eight years or more, and directed to be buried in the Cloisters near his former wife, whose burial is not mentioned in the Register, and which probably took place before 1607. He left forty shillings yearly for twenty years to the poor of Great Stoughton, co. Huntingdon, and bequests to the poor of Halberton, co. Devon, where he was born; of Bradninch, in the same county, where he was partly brought up; and of Greenwich, where his honourable master Sir James Dyer put him to school. He also left twelpence each to sixty-seven poor men and women, which probably indicates his age at the date of his will. He left several children by his first wife, viz., James (see his burial 30 Dec. 1651), Gabriel, John the elder, and a married daughter named Lee; and by his second wife Mary, who was his executrix, eight others, all under age, of whom he named in his will John the younger, Catherine, Edmond, Peleena, and Alice.

<sup>3</sup> First wife of the Rev. George Darell, D.D., Prebendary of Westminster (see his burial 4 Nov. 1631). A pedigree in St. George's MSS., Coll. Arm., iv. 77, describes her as "Elizabeth dau. of . . . Eton." She left two daughters, Elizabeth and Anne, who were both living at the date of their father's will. Other accounts represent them as the children of Dr. Darell by his second wife, but his will confutes this statement, and Anne was baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 24 May 1616.

<sup>5</sup> Rightly Cecil. See her father's burial 10 Feb. 1622-3. She was only child by his second wife, Frances, dau. of William Brydges, fourth Lord Chandos, and relict of Sir Thomas Smith, Master of Requests. She was born the 13th, and baptized at Wimbledon, Surrey, 30 July 1616, but in the record of her baptism in the register of that parish she is called "Georgi-Anna." Queen Anne was one of the witnesses.

<sup>6</sup> His will was proved in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, 15 Oct. 1621, by his relict Mary, but is now missing. Dean Goodman, in his will dated 2 Mch. 1600-1, mentioned him as one of his nearest and most faithful servants.

<sup>3</sup> Third son of Sir John Holles, then Baron Houghton, created Earl of Clare 2 Nov. 1624, by Anne, dau. of Sir Thomas Stanhope, of Shelford, Notts, Kt. He was admitted to Gray's Inn 12 Aug. 1617. According to his monument he died 12 Aug., in his 18th year, "returning home from making a campaign in the Netherlands."

<sup>4</sup> In The Court of King James the First, by Dr. Godfrey Goodman, Bishop of Gloucester, edited by J. S. Brewer, 1839, vol. i. pp. 329-335, will be found a curious account of this person, which may be thus briefly summarized: he was a priest, and professed Jesuit; came to England from Rome with a grandson of Lord Treasurer Burleigh; became a convert to the Church of England and got the Deanery of Carlisle; tiring of this, came to London and acted as substitute for Sir Daniel Dunn, Master of Requests, whom he eventually succeeded in that office, and was knighted; married, in the expectation of preferment, the mother-in-law of the Earl of Middlesex, then Lord High Treasurer; but, failing to derive the benefit he sought by the marriage, took offence at his wife, and left his whole estate to a servant, whom he knew to be a childless man and then dying of a consumption, who, however, restored the greater portion of it to Sir Christopher's widow. Other notices of him, of the period, are usually couched in the same contemptuous language. The ascertained facts about him are few. He certainly obtained the Deanery of Carlisle about 1596, and retained it until his death. He was knighted, at Whitehall, 23 July 1603. He was admitted a Commoner of the College of Advocates 20 Mch. 1604-5, and was then described as a Doctor of Laws and Master of Requests. On the 5th Nov. 1617 he had a license from the Bishop of London to marry Anne Brett, of St. Martin in the Fields, a widow, aged about 50, whose husband had been dead about a year. He was described as a bachelor, aged about 60. She was a dau. of Anthony Beaumont, of Glenfield, co. Leicester, Esq.; sister of the Countess of Buckingham (mother of George Villiers, first Duke of Buckingham); relict of James Brett, of Hoby, co. Leicester, Esq.; and mother of Anne, second wife of Lionel Cranfield, first Earl of Middlesex. Sir Christopher, in his will, dated 30 Aug. 1620, described himself as a Knight, and one of the Masters of Requests. He mentioned no relations, except his sister's children. To his wife he bequeathed 100 marks per annum, and sundry plate, etc., provided she waived her right to her thirds. After a few unimportant bequests, he then appointed as his sole heir and executor, in consideration of his long services, Anthony Knight (or Bright), who, however, renounced the execution of the will, and the relict Lady Anne administered, 2 Sep. 1622. property bequeathed to said Knight included his manor of Paddingdean, and his house in Cannon Row, Westminster. When it is remembered that, allowing for the difference in the value of money, the annuity bequeathed to his widow amounted to about £700 per annum of our present currency, and that he was probably not a very rich man, it would seem that his memory might properly be relieved from at least a portion of the odium heretofore attached to it. It is evident from the wills and other records of the family of this name of Bunny, co. Notts, that he was nearly allied to the contemporary ancestors of the first Baronet, but the precise relationship has not yet been ascertained.

<sup>2</sup> Son of the Rev. Dr. Gabriel Grant, Prebendary and Archdeacon of Westminster, and Vicar of Walthamstow, Essex, by his first wife. Dr. Grant, who was eldest son of the Rev. Dr. Edward Grant, Prebendary and Sub-dean of Westminster, and sometime Head Master of Westminster School (who died 4 Aug. 1601 and was buried in the Abbey), died about Sep. 1638, having married a second wife 11 Feb. 1633-4. He was first married before his father's death, and against his wishes ; in consequence whereof, as he relates in his will, he made a vow to disinherit him, and did so, by preferring his younger brother John. Dr. Gabriel Grant left no will, and his relict Hannah (or Anne) administered to his estate 18 Dec. 1638.

<sup>4</sup> He is mentioned as a Gent. of the Privy Chamber to K. James I., and General of H.M.'s Forces in the Palatinate. In 1610 he was Gent. Extraordinary of the Privy Chamber to Prince Henry. He was knighted at Whitehall 2 Mch. 1606-7. He had a license from the Bishop of London, 28 May 1612, being described as of the city of London, bachelor, aged 40, to marry Mary Shute, of St. Dunstan in the West, London, widow, aged 36. His will, as of Chiswick, Midx., dated 1 June 1620, was proved 21 Mch. 1622-3, by his relict Mary. Her maiden name appears to have been Rayneberd, and she was first married to . . . . Coombes, by whom she had two daughters, Mary and Elizabeth, who were living in 1620. Her second husband was Richard Shute, of Fetter Lane, London, whose will, dated 18 Nov., was proved 18 Dec. 1611. Sir Thomas Panton left by her three young daughters, Constance, Laureola, and Margaret. The second dau., Laureola, was baptized at Willesden, Midx., 2 Jan. 1618-9, and had a license from the Bishop of London, 7 Jan. 1640-1, her mother being also then dead, to marry John Oakley, of St. Margaret's, Westminster, Gent., a bachelor, aged 41.

<sup>5</sup> Eldest son of William Cecil, first Lord Burghley, Lord High Treasurer, by Mary dau. of Peter Cheke, of Pirgo, Essex, Esq., and sister of Sir John Cheke, Kt. He was born in Great St. Mary's parish, Cambridge, 5 May 1542, succeeded as second Baron Burghley 4 Aug. 1598, and was created Earl of Exceter 4 May 1605. He died 7 Feb. His will, dated 21 Nov. 1622, was proved 11 Mch. 1622-3. His first wife, Dorothy Nevill, second dau. and coheir of John, fourth Lord Latimer, who died 22 May 1608, was, according to his own will and that of his dau. the Marchioness of Winchester, certainly buried in the Abbey, although no record of it occurs in the Register ; but his second wife, Frances Brydges, dau. of William, fourth Lord Chandos, who survived him until 1663, was as certainly buried in Winchester Cathedral, although the inscription on his monument in the Abbey states that both wives were buried with him. See the burials of his daughters, Oct. 1614 and 15 Sep. 1621, and of his son 9 July 1640.

<sup>3</sup> His will, dated 22 Sep., and proved 3 Oct. 1623, completely identifies him with the one of this name who became a Prebendary of St. Paul's 13 May 1591, and Rector of Hanwell, Midx., 20 Sep. 1596, and whose identity puzzled both Newcourt and Le Neve. It describes him as a Bachelor of Divinity, and one of the Prebendaries of Westminster. In the latter office he was installed 6 May 1606. He was a son of John Fox, citizen and goldsmith of London, who died 8 June 1597, aged 78, and was buried in the church of St. Lawrence-Jewry, and who built and founded the Free Grammar School at Dean, near Cockermouth, co. Cumberland, to the maintenance of which the son also contributed liberally. He evidently died unmarried, and left considerable legacies to the children of his brother Richard, and of his sisters, Alice wife of Edward Herne, and Ellen wife of Francis Ram, of Hornchurch, co. Essex, Esq.

<sup>4</sup> Third son of Morris Wynne, of Gwydir, Esq., by his first wife, Jane, dau. of Sir Richard Bulkeley, of Beaumaris, Kt., and younger brother of Sir John Wynne, first Bart. of Gwydir. He was one of the Clerks of the Petty Bag in the High Court of Chancery. His will, dated 25 Sep., was proved 16 Oct. 1623. His wife Anne, dau. of Alderman Gage, survived him, but he evidently left no issue. As his eldest brother was born in 1553, his age was probably about 65.

But little can be added at the present day to the personal history of this famous man, the excellent society which bears and perpetuates his name having exhausted all accessible resources of information respecting him. A few entries from the Chapter Books of Westminster may, however, not be without interest. His name first occurs 16 May 1587, among certain regulations respecting the College Library, thus: "Item, that Mr. Camden, usher for the tyme present, or the usher or a peticanon hereafter, by the apoyntment of Mr. Deane, shall be keeper of the said librarie, who shall have a care to kepe and leave, order and dispose, and safelie performe the same, and for his paynes there employd shall have yearlie twenty shillings." On 2 Dec. 1591 Mr. Camden had the lease of "a little tenement in the Close for the term of his life." Under the date of 29 Jan. 1593-4: "It is decreed that Mr. Camden, scholemaster, and Mr. George Bellott, reseaver, shall have their diett allowed them at our common table, during the tyme of

It may be added that the register of St. Augustine's, London, records the marriage in that church, 4 Sep. 1575, of "Sampson Camden and Avis Carter;" but whether this was a second marriage of the father of the great antiquary, or that of a brother or other relative, it is impossible to determine.

<sup>1</sup> Third son of Thomas Coxe, of Beamonds, Herts, Esq., by Bridget, dau. of William Lansford, of co. Sussex, and born in the parish of St. Peter, near St. Albans, in the former county. He was knighted at Whitehall 24 July 1603, had been Taster to Q. Elizabeth, and was at his death one of the Masters of the King's Household. He died unmarried, 13 Dec., in his 69th year. His will, dated 10 May, was proved 24 Dec. 1623, by his brother John Cox, of Beamonds, Esq.

<sup>2</sup> Ludovic Stuart, eldest son of Esme, first Duke of Lennox, by Catherine, youngest dau. of William de Balsac, Seigneur d'Entragues and Marcoussis, Governor of Havre de Grace. He was born 29 Sep. 1574, and succeeded as second Duke of Lennox 28 May 1583. He was created, 6 Oct. 1613, Baron Settrington and Earl of Richmond, and, 17 May 1623, Earl of Newcastle and Duke of Richmond. He married, first, Lady Sophia Ruthven, dau. of William, first Earl of Gowrie, and, secondly, Jean, dau. of Sir Matthew Campbell, of London, Kt. See his third wife's burial 12 Oct. 1639, and his brother's 6 Aug. 1624. He died without legitimate issue, and his English titles became extinct.

<sup>3</sup> His will, dated 31 Mch., was proved 16 Apl. 1624, and describes him as of Stoke-under-Hamdon, co. Somerset, Gent., and as having a house in Westminster. He mentioned his wife Joane, his daughters Bridget and Phillippa, and his son John (see his baptism 16 Sep. 1622). He was a brother of Isaac Seward, and of Henry Seward, D.D., Prebendary of Salisbury, who administered to his estate on behalf of his minor children.

<sup>4</sup> His will, dated 12 April, was proved, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, 1 June 1624, by his relict Jane and by Griffith Pritchard, M.A. He is described as of the city of Westminster, Gent. He left his estate in England and Wales to his wife and daughters, Grace, Frances, and Catharine, and mentioned his sons-in-law Reynold Conway and Robert ap Hugh Griffith, Gent.

<sup>5</sup> He was a brother of the Most Rev. Richard, Archbishop of York, being eldest son of Paul Neyle, a tallow chandler of Westminster, by his wife Sibill, and was born about 1560. He held several patents of minor offices from the Dean and Chapter, finally becoming Registrar, or Chapter Clerk, 4 May 1607. His will, dated 30 Jan. 1615-16, with a codicil 21 June 1624, was proved 25 June 1624. See the burial of his first wife 25 Aug. 1620, and of a dau. 25 July 1622.

Among other children by her, his son John became eventually Dean of Ripon, and his dau. Frances wife of the Rev. Dr. Edward Burby, Archdeacon of Winchester. He married, secondly, Joyce, dau. of William Stapleton, of Littywood, co. Stafford, Esq., who survived him and remarried the Rev. Thomas Harding, B.D., Rector of Souldern, co. Oxford, and for many years Second Master of Westminster School. She died 28 May 1650, æt. 49, and was buried in St. Mary's Church, Oxford. Paul Neile, the father of this William and of the Archbishop, was buried at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 16 June 1574, and his widow, Sibill, whose maiden name, from her first husband's will, appears to have been Tapping, was remarried there, 25 April 1575, to Robert Newell, and became mother of the Rev. Dr. Robert Newell, Prebendary of Westminster, Sub-dean of Lincoln, etc.: see the burial of his son 30 Nov. 1626, and note thereto. In Dr. Newell's will, dated 11 June, 1642, he states that she was buried in the great north porch of the Abbey, but the record of it does not occur in the Register.

<sup>3</sup> (This entry, in the portion of the Register devoted to burials within the Abbey, immediately follows that of 17 Feb. 1623-4.) He was second son of Esme Stuart, first Duke of Lennox, by Catherine, youngest dau. of William de Balsac, Seigneur d'Entragues and Marcoussis, Governor of Havre de Grace, and was created, 7 June 1619, Baron Stuart of Leighton Bromswold, and Earl of March. He succeeded his elder brother (see his burial 17 Feb. 1623-4) as third Duke of Lennox, but enjoyed the title little more than six months, dying of the spotted fever, at Kirby, co. Northampton, 30 July in the same year. See the burials, of his son 18 Apl. 1655, and of his daughters, 7 Sep. 1618 and 17 Mch. 1693-4.

<sup>6</sup> Son of Sir Robert Lane, of Horton, co. Northampton, Kt. by his first wife, Catherine, dau. of Sir Roger Copley, of Gatton, co. Surrey, Kt. He was knighted 23 July 1603, being then one of the Gentlemen Ushers to the King. He was of Ketton, co. Rutland, and of Barford, co. Warwick, and was Sheriff of Rutland in 1612 and 1622. He married, at Chelsea, Midx., 12 Aug. 1619, Dudley, dau. of Sir Arthur Gorges, Kt., by Elizabeth, dau. of Henry, Earl of Lincoln, who survived him, and was buried at Chelsea 24 Aug. 1667. His will, dated 22 Sep., was proved 2 Oct. 1624. Besides his wife's jointure, and a remission of upwards of £2,000 due to him from the King, he left his estates to his cousin, William, Lord Feilding, Earl of Denbigh. (The register of St. Martin in the Fields records his death in that parish, and his burial in the Abbey, under the same date as that in the text).

<sup>8</sup> Jane Ogle, eldest dau. and coheir of Cuthbert, seventh Baron Ogle, by Catherine, dau. and coheir of Sir Reginald Carnaby, Kt. She is usually called Joane in the books, but in the Abbey Register, on her monument, and in her will, her name is distinctly Jane. See her husband's burial 9 Feb. 1617-18. Her nuncupative will, made 20 Dec. 1625, was proved at York 1 June 1627, by her sister, Lady Katherine Cavendish.

Lemitaire, of the city of Westminster, Esq., son of Thomas Lemetayer, of co. Kent, and grandson of Nicholas Lemetayer, who came to England from Normandy. The baptisms of six children, by his wife Anne, are recorded at St. Bride's London, between 1596 and 1602, and in one of them he is described as a "gentleman belonging unto the office of the First Fruits": in the St. Bride's Register the name is always Lymitter. He had a patent from the Dean and Chapter of Westminster, 3 Dec. 1607, as Receiver-General and Solicitor, and the same was renewed, 4 May 1621, to him and his son Charles. He died intestate, but the will of his widow, Anne, dated 8 Dec. 1627, was proved in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, 22 Feb. 1627-8, by her married dau. Mary Browue.

<sup>1</sup> He is mentioned as a deputy bell-ringer in a will dated in 1609. In his own will, dated 19 Jan., and proved in the Court of the Dean and Chapter 17 Feb. 1625-6, he is described as of the city of Westminster, yeoman. It mentions only his wife Elizabeth, and his son and heir John, then a minor, to whom he bequeathed a messuage and tenement in Thames Ditton, co. Surrey.

<sup>6</sup> William Heather, born at Harmondsworth, Midx., was sworn a Gentleman of the Chapel Royal 27 Mch. 1615, and was created Doctor of Music at Oxford 18 May 1622. (See a portrait and memoir of him in Sir John Hawkins's History of Music, iv. 30.) His will, dated 21 July, was proved 16 Aug. 1627. He lived in the Almonry, Westminster, and had houses and lands at Chiselhurst and Bromley, in Kent. He mentioned his brother-in-law William Ryman, then deceased, and numerous cousins of the names of Manning, Bannister, Pearman, Pescod, and Buckridge, but left his lands and residuc of personality to his cousin William Ireland, of Westminster, Gent., who was his executor. He bequeathed £17 6s. 8d. per annum for ever for a music lecture at Oxford, and left his widow £150 per annum for life, and £300 to dispose of by will at her pleasure : see her burial 6 Sep. 1635.

<sup>8</sup> Eldest son of Richard Burgh, of Stow, co. Lincoln, Esq., by Anne, eldest dau. of Anthony Dillington, of Knighton, Isle of Wight, Esq. He was knighted at Greenwich 4 May 1623, and was colonel of one of the six regiments sent to the Palatinate in Dec. 1624. He was slain while besieging the citadel of St. Martin, in the Isle of Rhé, in the preceding month. The 20th of September is usually mentioned as the date of his death ; but a MS. in the Bodleian Library (Rawlinson B. 480), entitled "A Journal touching the Voyage to the Isle of Ree, 1627," under date of 11 Sep., says, "This night also Sir John Burgh was slain"; and a poetical account of Sir John Burgh, by Robert Markham, published in 1628, has a fine portrait of him, on which is engraved, "slayne wth a musket bullet 11 Sep. 1627." His will, dated 17 July 1620, was proved 26 Oct. 1627, by his brother, Edward Burgh, residuary legatee.

<sup>3</sup> Dau. of the Rev. Leonard Hutton, D.D., Canon of Christ Church, Oxford, and wife of the Rev. Richard Corbett, D.D., afterwards successively Bishop of Oxford and Norwich, who died 28 July 1635, and was buried in Norwich Cathedral. She was baptized at St. Aldate's, city of Oxford, 6 June 1602. See her mother's burial in 1644. "She was a very beautiful woman, and so was her mother" (Aubrey's Letters, ii. 294).

<sup>4</sup> A patent was granted by the Dean and Chapter, 3 Dec. 1610, to Roger Edwards and Thomas White, "of the office of looking to the conduit pipes and the leads of and about the church." but James Harvey, who had held the office forty years, and was then bedridden, was to have the annual fees (£6 13s. 4d.) as long as he should live.

<sup>6</sup> Eldest child of K. Charles I., by Q. Henrietta-Maria, third and youngest dau. of Henry IV. King of France ; born and died at Greenwich.—“ Mary, Q. of England, delivered of her first son, stillborn, 13 May 1629, about 3 A.M.” (Horoscope in Ashmole MS., Bod. Lib., 243, p. 185). Other accounts, probably more correct, state that he lived long enough to be baptized by Dr. Webb, and by the names of Charles-James. Archbishop Laud, in his Diary, states that he buried him on the 14th of May. From all the testimony there is little doubt that he was born about three o'clock on the morning of the 13th, and buried a little before midnight on the 14th. The date in the Register is an error. See the burials of his sisters and brothers, 8 Dec. 1640, 21 Sep. and 29 Dec. 1660, and 14 Feb. 1684-5. Another sister, the Princess Katharine, being fourth dau. and seventh child, was born and died 20 Jan. 1638-9, and was undoubtedly buried in the Abbey ; but no record of it occurs in the Register, which is especially defective about that period.

<sup>7</sup> John Hitchcock had a patent from the Dean and Chapter, 7 Dec. 1620, as second cook, and another, 7 Dec. 1621, as gardener. He is mentioned in a will dated 7 Dec. 1631 as still one of the College servants, and probably remarried, as letters of administration were granted by the Court of the Dean and Chapter, 20 Sep. 1634, to Judith, relict of John Hitchcock, late of Westminster, deceased.

<sup>8</sup> Juliana, dau. of Edward Fnsey, of London. She married, first, Sir Thomas Hesketh, Kt., and, secondly, 12 April 1607, Sir Ranulph Creve, Chief Justice of the King's Bench, to whom

[A hiatus here occurs in the Register of Burials in the Cloisters, extending from the last date to the 23rd of May, 1640. As Mr. Tynchare, the transcriber of the "imperfect bookes," continued the entries regularly, simply noting the deficiency by the expression "desunt 1630, etc.," it is evident that the records embracing this period, so far as the Cloisters are concerned, were then hopelessly lost.]

<sup>2</sup> Of Carrow Priory, co. Norfolk, Vice-Chamberlain to K. Charles I., and son of Richard May, citizen and merchant-taylor of London, by Mary Hillersden his wife. He was knighted at Newmarket Jan. 1612-13, and appointed Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster 9 Mch 1616-17. In 1629 he had a grant in reversion of the office of Master of the Rolls, but died before it fell to him, 9 June 1630, aged about 57. Letters of administration were granted, 24 June 1630, to his relict Dame Judith, his second wife (his first wife having died in May 1615), who was a dau. of Sir William Poley, of Bosted, co. Suffolk, Kt. They were married, at Bury St. Edmunds, 3 Feb. 1615-16. She died 9 June 1661, aged about 63, and was buried at Bosted. See the burial of their second son 16 Mch. 1643-4.

<sup>3</sup> In his will, dated 28 Dec. 1630, and proved 5 Feb. 1630-1, he is described as a Knight, and one of the Gentlemen of His Majesty's Bedchamber. On his monument he is called First Gentleman of the Bedchamber. He was evidently a Scottish Knight, and his arms were those of Fullerton of Craighall. The recumbent statue of his wife is placed with his own, but the tablet left for the inscription respecting her is entirely blank, and no record of her burial occurs in the Register. Although the fact has dropped out of the family history, he married at Abbots-Langley, Herts, 9 Apl. 1616, Magdalen, dau. of Sir Alexander Clerk, of Balbirnie, co. Fife, and relict of Sir Edward Bruce, first Baron Bruce of Kinloss, who died 14 Jan. 1610-11, and was buried in the Rolls Chapel, London. To her Sir James Fullerton bequeathed all his estate, real and personal, and appointed as his executor her son Thomas, third Baron of Kinloss, who was subsequently created Earl of Elgin.

<sup>4</sup> Jane, dau. of Thomas Stoteville, of Brinkley, co. Cambridge, Esq., by Cicely, dau. of Thomas Rudston, of Swaffham-Bulbeck, in the same county. She married, first, Edward Ellis, of Chesterton, co. Cambridge, Esq., who died at Cambridge 20 Nov. 1596, and, secondly, Othowell Hill, D.C.L., Chancellor of Lincoln, who was buried in Lincoln Cathedral 19 May 1616. She died 27 Apl., in her 78th year. Her will, dated 22 Mch. 1624-5, was proved 9 May 1631. See her son's burial 14 Oct. 1656.

<sup>5</sup> Fourth but third surviving son of Sir John Tufton, of Hothfield, Kent, Kt. and Bart., by Christian, dau. and coheir of Sir Humphrey Brown, Kt., one of the Judges of the Common Pleas. He died 4 Oct., and his will, dated 29 Sep., was proved 7 Oct. 1631. It describes him as of Shorne, co. Kent, Esq.; but he also had a residence in Tothill-street, and was the founder of that street, in Westminster, which still bears his name. He married Chrisogon, youngest dau. and coheir of Herbert Morley, of Glyde, co. Sussex, Esq., who, as well as a son and two daughters, survived him. He matriculated at Oxford, from New College, 25 Oct. 1589, aged 14, and was D.D., as of All Souls, 14 Jan. 1607-8. He was installed Prebendary of Westminster 8 June 1607, and became Rector of Wormley, Herts, 22 Sep. 1610, and of West Hanningfield, Essex, 23 Dec. 1611. He died 31 Oct., and his will, dated 24 Apl., was proved 31 Dec. 1631. He bequeathed £400 towards building the New Chapel of Westminster, in Tothill Fields. See his first wife's burial 31 Aug. 1621. He remarried Anne, dau. of John Darell, of Calchill, co. Kent, Esq., by Anne, dau. and coheir of the Rt. Rev. Robert Horne, Bishop of Winchester, who survived him about three years.

<sup>2</sup> Theodore Price, born at Bron-y-fael in Llanenddwn, co. Merioneth, son of Rees ap Tudor ap William Vaughan, of Glgerran, by Margery, dau. of Edward Stanley, Esq., Constable of Harleigh Castle. He entered All Souls' College, Oxford, as a chorister, and became afterwards a Fellow of Jesus College. He held for a short time the rectory of Llanvair, near Harleigh, and was installed Prebendary of Winchester 9 Sep. 1596. He became Principal of Hart Hall, Oxford, in 1604, and was created D.D. 5 July 1614. He was installed Prebendary of Lincoln 24 Jan. 1621-2, resigning his post at Hart Hall, and Prebendary of Westminster in July 1623. He held his three prebends until his death, 15 Dec. 1631. His will, dated 10 Nov., was proved 19 Dec. 1631, by his nephew and general legatee, William Lewes, D.D., Master of the Hospital of St. Cross. Ellis Wynne (see his burial 29 Sep. 1623), in his will, calls Dr. Price his cousin.

<sup>3</sup> Dudley Carleton, youngest son of Anthony Carleton, of Baldwin-Brightwell, co. Oxford, Esq., by his second wife, Joyce, dau. of Sir John Goodwin, of Winchendon, co. Bucks, Kt. He was baptized at Baldwin-Brightwell 21 Mch. 1573-4. He was created Baron Carleton, of Imbercourt, 21 May 1626, and Viscount Dorchester 25 July 1628. He died 15 Feb., and his will, dated 18 Aug. 1630, with a codicil 13 Feb. 1631-2, was proved 4 Apl. 1632. See his first wife's burial 21 Apl. 1627. He remarried Anne, widow of Paul, first Viscount Bayning, by whom he had a posthumous dau. Frances, who was baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 27 June 1632, and buried at St. Olave's, Hart Street, London, 2 Jan. following, and her mother was buried at Gosfield, Essex, 31 Jan. 1638-9. Both titles became extinct at his death.

<sup>5</sup> Mary, dau. of Anthony Beaumont, of Glenfield, co. Leicester, Esq., and second wife and relict of Sir George Villiers, Kt., who died 4 Jan. 1605-6. On the 19th June following, according to the parish register of Goadby, co. Leicester, she remarried Sir William Rayner, of Orton-Longueville, co. Huntingdon, Kt., who died about four months afterwards, and she subsequently married Sir Thomas Compton, Kt. (brother to William, first Earl of Northampton), who died early in April 1626. She was created Countess of Buckingham 1 July 1618. According to her coffin-plate, she died 19 Apl., in her sixty-second year. Her will, dated 12 Apl. 1631, with a codicil 4 Apl. 1632, was proved 7 May following. See her son's burial 18 Sep. 1628.

<sup>6</sup> A native of Wales, son of Robert Holland, who is said by Aubrey to have descended from the Earls of Kent of his name. His mother was of the family of Payne, of Denbighshire. He was elected to Cambridge from Westminster School in 1589, and became a Fellow of Trinity College. He does not appear to have ever obtained any English preferment, but was a Latin poet of considerable note. Letters of administration, in which he is described as of Westminster, widower, were granted, 31 Aug. 1633, to his son, "Arbellino" Holland, also of Westminster, gentleman.

<sup>1</sup> The Right Hon. Sir Thomas Richardson, Kt., successively Speaker of the House of Commons and Lord Chief Justice of the Common Pleas and King's Bench. He is usually stated to have been the son of Dr. Thomas Richardson, a clergyman of Mulbarton, Norfolk, and to have been born at Hardwick, in that county, 3 July 1569; but, in the entry of his baptism in the parish register of Hardwick, of that date, he is described as the son of William Richardson and Agnes his wife, and a MS. note in the margin identifies him with the Chief Justice. By his first wife, Ursula (third dau. of John Southwell, of Barham Hall, Suffolk, Esq.), who was buried at St. Andrew's, Holborn, 13 June 1624, he had twelve children, of whom only one son and four daughters survived him. He remarried, at St. Giles in the Fields, Midx., 14 Dec. 1626, Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Thomas Beaumont, of Stoughton, co. Leicester, Kt., and relict of Sir John Ashburnham, Kt., who was created Baroness Cromond in his lifetime, with remainder to his heirs male. She survived him, and was buried at St. Andrew's, Holborn, 3 Apr. 1651. He died, at his house in Chancery Lane, 4 Feb. 1634-5. His will, dated 16 Jan. 1634-5, was proved 15 Apr. following.

<sup>5</sup> Alexander Baker, son of George Baker, Esq., Chief Chirurgeon to Queen Elizabeth, by his first wife Anne, dau. of William Swayne, of Hackney, Midx. He had been also Chirurgeon to K. James I., and a J.P. for Middlesex. His will, dated 25 Sep. 1635, was proved on the day of his burial. See the burial of his first wife 2 Dec. 1624, and the marriage of his grand-daughter 3 Dec. 1662. He remarried Frances, dau. of Michael Grigg, and widow of Francis Pendleton, of London, draper, who survived him. He died 26 Sep., at his house on St. Peter's Hill in London.

he was born in Eastcheap, London, in 1599, and but one wife has been assigned to him. Even in the recorded pedigree of the family in the College of Arms his ancestry and his first two wives are completely ignored. The following results have been obtained after much research and difficulty, and may be relied upon. He was a younger son (one of sixteen children) of William Paule, citizen and butcher of London, by Joane his wife, dau. of John Harrison, beadle of the Butchers' Company, and was baptized at St. Leonard's, Eastcheap, 14 Oct. 1599. He matriculated at Oxford, from All Souls College, 15 Nov. 1616, and had the degree of D.D. before 1633. He became Rector of Baldwin-Brightwell, co. Oxford, as early as 1633, and was Chaplain in Ordinary to Kings Chas. I. and II. On the 8th of April 1661 he was installed Dean of Lichfield, and was consecrated Bishop of Oxford 20 Dec. 1663. He died 24 May, and was buried at Baldwin-Brightwell 6 June 1665. His will, dated 14 Nov. 1664, was proved 21 Feb. 1665-6. On the 12th of Nov. 1632 he had a license from the Dean and Chapter of Westminster to marry "Mary Glemham," and in 1633 (the rest of the date being illegible) the parish register of Baldwin-Brightwell records the burial of "Mary, wife of William Paul, D.D., rector of this parish." She was a dau. of Sir Henry Glemham, Kt. On the 22nd of Jan. 1634-5, he was again married, at St. Giles in the Fields, Midx., to "Alice Cutler," and the Baldwin-Brightwell register states that Alice, wife of William Paul, D.D., rector of that parish, died on the 19th and was buried in Westminster Abbey the 20th of Nov. 1635. There can, therefore, be no doubt of the identity of the person named in the text. She was second dau. of Thomas Cutler, of Ipswich, J.P. for co. Suffolk, by his first wife, Anne, dau. of Thomas Dandy, of Combes, co. Suffolk, Esq. Dr. Paule almost immediately after remarried, thirdly, Rachel, dau. of Sir Christopher Clitherow, Kt., by whom he had a numerous issue; but the male line has long since been extinct, while the female is now chiefly represented by the Baroness Le Despencer, whose ancestor Sir William Stapleton, Bart., married the heiress of Bishop Paule's only surviving grandson.

<sup>2</sup> William Griffith. In his will, dated 12 Nov. 1633 and proved 22 Feb. 1636-7, he directed to be buried in Westminster Abbey, near his kinsman Peers Griffith, Esq. (see his burial 21 Aug. 1628). He mentioned his sons Charles, Thomas, and Robert; his daughters Katherine, Bridget, and Frances (who proved the will); his son-in-law Dr. Nixon; his brother-in-law Mr. Maximilian Smythe; his brother Vacban; and his cousin Ellic Sutton. His wife Margaret appears to have been buried at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 3 Mch. 1633-4.

<sup>3</sup> See her sister's baptism 5 Mch. 1607-8, and note thereto. Her will, dated 8 Dec. 1637, was proved 12 June 1638, by her brother James Croft. She stated that she owed about £100 at the Hague, which she hoped her gracious mistress the Queen of Bohemia, in consideration of her long service, would discharge.

<sup>5</sup> See her father's burial 3 Feb. 1648-9. She was a younger dau., and was born at Crewe 27

July 1631. She died on the 4th of February, and must have been an independent heiress, as her father administered to her estate on the 24th May following.

<sup>1</sup> Second son of Andrew Aytoun, of Kinaldie, parish of Cameron, Fifeshire, Esq., by Mary Lundie his wife, and born in Kinaldie Castle about 1570. His exquisite poetry introduced him to the Court of K. James I., where, becoming first a Groom of the Privy Chamber, he was shortly promoted to be a Gentleman of the King's Bedchamber, and also private Secretary to the Queen, and was knighted at Rycot 30 Aug. 1612. On the accession of K. Charles I. he was continued in the same posts, and in 1636 was made a Privy Councillor, Master of Requests, Master of Ceremonies, and Master of St. Katharine's Hospital. He died in the Palace at Whitehall, unmarried, in his 68th year. His will, dated 25 Jan., was proved 7 Mch. 1637-8, by his nephew John Aytoun, then Gentleman Usher to Prince Charles, whom he made his heir. He appears to have written his name indifferently Aiton and Aytoun.

<sup>1</sup> Dr. John Spottiswood, eldest son of Rev. John Spottiswood, Vicar of Calder in Mid-Lothian, by Beatrix, dau. of Patrick Creychtoun, Laird of Lugton and Gilmerton, near Dalkeith. He succeeded his father as Vicar of Calder in 1583, but became Chaplain to Ludovic, Duke of Lennox, in 1601, and thus found his way to the Court. He became Archbishop of Glasgow 20 July 1603, and was translated to St. Andrews 30 May 1615. Having had the honour of crowning K. Charles I., he was made Lord Chancellor of Scotland in 1635. He died 26 Nov., in his 74th year. By his wife, Rachel Lindsay, dau. of David, Bishop of Ross, he had a numerous issue, but only two sons and one dau. survived him. See his brother's burial 31 Mch. 1645.

<sup>2</sup> Fifth son of Thomas Ogle, of Pinchbeck, co. Lincoln, Esq., by Jane, dau. of Adlard Welby, of Gedney, in the same county, Esq., and was baptized at Pinchbeck 25 Feb. 1568-9. He was knighted at Woodstock 10 Dec. 1603, and was a Lieut.-Colonel under Sir Francis de Vere. His will, dated 6 Dec. 1628, was proved 15 July 1640, by his relict Dame Elizabeth, who was a dau. of Cornelius De Vries, of Dordrecht in Holland. (His burial in the Abbey is also recorded under the same date in the parish register of St. Peter le Poor, London.) See his son's burial 26 Mch. 1663.

<sup>6</sup> William Cecil, second Earl of Exeter, eldest son of Thomas, first Earl (see his burial 10 Feb. 1622-3), by his first wife Dorothy Nevill, second dau. and coheir of John, fourth Lord Latimer. He was born in 1566. He married, first, Lady Elizabeth Mannors, only dau. and heir of Edward, third Earl of Rutland, who died 11 May 1591, and was buried in the Abbey, and, secondly, Elizabeth, dau. of Sir William Drury, of Halstead, co. Suffolk, Kt. His will, dated 9 July 1639, was proved 13 July 1640, by his relict, to whom he left his entire personal estate. He died without surviving male issue, and the title descended to his nephew.

<sup>7</sup> Third dau. and sixth child of K. Charles I. and Q. Henrietta-Maria, and born at St. James's Palace 17 Mch. 1636-7. She died at Richmond on the day stated in the text, but it may be doubted if she was buried the same day, and it is probable that the transcriber of the old Register, not finding the record among the fragments, or the date illegible, entered the burial under the known date of her death. (It was she who, according to the account of one of her attendants preserved by Fuller, could not say her long prayer (the Lord's Prayer) while in the agonies of death, but would say her short one, viz., "Lighten mine eyes, O Lord, lest I sleep the sleep of death!")

<sup>1</sup> His will, dated 16 Jan. 1640-1, was proved in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, 22 Feb. following, by his relict. Its bequests are trifling, and indicate that he occupied some humble position about the Abbey. It names his father John Blizard, his mother Christian, and his brother John.

<sup>2</sup> It has been impossible to identify this person, who must have been of some importance, or he would not have had honourable burial within the Abbey. It is quite probable that the surname was wrongly transcribed. A Charles Mac Carthy was knighted 24 Mch. 1619-20, by Lord Grandison, Lord Deputy in Ireland, and, as the place of interment was about the same, it is possible that he was a connection of Viscount Muskerry buried 27 May preceding.

<sup>4</sup> Dau. of Sir John Lambe, Kt., Dean of the Arches Court of Canterbury and Chancellor to Q. Henrietta-Maria, and second wife of Basil Feilding, afterwards second Earl of Denbigh. According to her coffin-plate, she died the preceding day.

<sup>6</sup> Eldest dau. of Sir Robert Killigrew, Kt., Vice-Chamberlain to Q. Henrietta-Maria, by Mary, dau. of Sir Henry Woodhouse, of Waxham, co. Norfolk, Kt., and baptized at Hanworth, Midx., 7 Sep. 1607. She was appointed Dresser to Q. Henrietta-Maria in 1637, and was the first wife of George Kirke, the notorious Groom of the Chambers. In Robert Heath's "Clarastella" is an "Epiciedium on the beautiful lady Mrs. A. K., unfortunately drowned by chance in the Thames in passing the Bridge." See the burials of (probably) her daughters, 23 May 1640 and 4 Aug. 1687; her sisters, 10 Nov. 1677 and 4 Jan. 1680-1; and her brother 18 Mch. 1682-3. For further particulars of her husband, see note to the burial of Diana, Countess of Oxford, 16 Apl. 1719.

<sup>3</sup> In his will, dated the 4th and proved 19 May 1642, he styled himself "Clerk," and is so called in the Cheque Book of the Chapel Royal, as also "a Base. from Salisbury." He appears to have been first sworn a Gentleman of the Chapel Royal 5 Nov. 1611, and was Chaunter of the Abbey as early as 1623. His will states that he was born at Colebrooke, co. Devon, where his brother Robert was then residing, and that he was brought up in Exeter Cathedral, of which he was still a member. See his daughter's burial 11 Oct. 1623, and his wife's 14 May 1649.

<sup>5</sup> William Hervey, son and heir of Henry Hervey, by Jane, dau. of James Thomas, Esq. For his splendid military services he was knighted in 1596, and was created a Baronet 31 May 1619, and a peer of Ireland the following year, with the title of Baron Hervey of Ross, co. Wexford. On the 7th of February 1628 he was raised to the English peerage, as Baron Hervey, of Kidbrook, co. Kent. He married, first, Mary, dau. of Anthony, Viscount Montagu, and relict of Henry, Earl of Southampton, by whom (who died in 1607) he had no issue; and, secondly, Cordell, youngest dau. of Brian Ansley, of Lee, co. Kent, Esq., Gentleman-Pensioner to Q. Elizabeth, by whom he had several children; but, all dying except Elizabeth, wife of John Hervey, of Ickworth, Esq., the titles became extinct at his death. (His second wife was buried at St. Martin in the Fields 5 May 1636.) His will, dated 16 Dec. 1637, was not proved until 1 Nov. 1648. See his daughter's burial 17 Nov. 1648.

<sup>7</sup> Probably a young son of Dr. George Aglionby, who was at this time a Prebendary of Westminster, and on the 6th of May following was constituted Dean of Canterbury, but never installed, and shortly after deprived of both preferments. He was married in 1635 (Mar. Lic. Bp. Lond. 3 July) to Sibilla Smith, who appears to have survived him, and to have been a witness to, and legatee in, the will of Godfrey Goodman, Bishop of Gloucester, dated 17 Jan. 1655-6. Dr. Aglionby died at Oxford, and was buried in Christ Church Cathedral 11 Nov. 1643, shortly after his deprivation. See the burial, of (probably) another son, 1 Dec. 1705.

<sup>8</sup> Frances, dau. of Thomas Hanchett, of Braughing, Herts, Gent., and first wife of Sir Abraham Williams, Kt., Clerk of the Signet and Agent of the Queen of Bohemia. She was married before 1634 (Visitation of Herts), and apparently died without issue. Sir Abraham, by his second wife, had four children, two of whom, Abraham and Rebecca, survived him. He was buried at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 15 Aug. 1654, and his will was proved the 22nd of that month. His relict, Dame Rebecca, remarried, about Mch. 1655, the Rev. Sampson Johnson, D.D., Rector of Fobbing, Essex, who was buried at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 25 May 1661, and she was also buried there 29 Jan. 1683-4.

<sup>3</sup> The record of the probate of his will occurs in the books of the Dean and Chapter, but the will itself is missing. It was proved 10 Nov. 1643, by the relict Kinborough. In the Cheque Book of the Chapel Royal occurs his appointment, as "Pisteler," 24 Mch. 1609-10, when he made oath that if he lived to be twenty-one years of age he would enter into Deacon's orders, and in the same volume, under date of 31 Aug. 1633, occurs his resignation, in which he is described as "Dr. of Divinity," and he is so called in the probate of his will. This document is signed "Tho : Peirs." He probably became Chanter of Westminster when he resigned from the Chapel Royal.

<sup>6</sup> Dau. of Sir William Courten, Kt. (by his second wife, Hester, dau. of Peter Tryon, Esq.), and first wife of Henry Grey, tenth Earl of Kent, to whom married, at Clapham, co. Surrey, 14 Oct. 1641. See the burial of her only child 20 June 1644. The Earl remarried, and died in 1651, his second wife and relict, the "Good Countess," surviving him nearly half a century.

<sup>7</sup> There appear to have been two eminent military men of this name, both Scotchmen and both named John, who are often confounded in contemporaneous history. Sir John Meldrum, who was knighted at Windsor 6 Aug. 1622, was undoubtedly the one who took part in the memorable actions at Newark, Hull, Scarborough, etc., 1643-5, and received his death-wound at the latter place. His will, dated 24 May 1645, was proved 2 June 1647. The one named in the text was Colonel John Meldrum, of the Parliamentary army, who is said to have been killed at Alresford, Hants. His name occurs in the List of the Parliamentary Army in 1642, as Lieutenant of the 2nd Troop of Horse, under the general command of William, Earl of Bedford, and he evidently obtained rapid promotion. As the Battle of Brandon (or Cheriton) Heath, near Alresford, took place on the 29th of March 1644, and his nuncupative will was made on the 8th of April following, it is probable that he was mortally wounded on that day ; or, the two dates may be identical, allowing for the difference between Old and New Style. The will states that he was "very much wounded." It was proved 16 Nov. 1648 by his relict Jane, to whom he left considerable legacies, as well as to his son Andrew and his dau. Jane, then a minor. His remains were included amongst those of other eminent Parliamentarians which were exhumed after the Restoration and thrown into a common pit in St. Margaret's church-yard.

<sup>2</sup> The inscription on his monument states that he was Clerk of Her Majesty's Robes, and died 8 May. Sir Roger Aston, Kt., Master of the King's Great Wardrobe, in his will, dated 15 May 1612, called him his servant, and left him £100 and his cloth of gold doublet, etc. The baptisms of eight of his children occur in the parish registers of St. Margaret's, Westminster, between 1612 and 1627, and the burials of four of them in infancy.

<sup>3</sup> Edward Hassard had a patent from the Dean and Chapter as Chief Cook, for life, 3 May 1620, and the same was renewed, 27 Jan. 1625-6, to him and to Edward Hassard Jr. See his wife's burial 14 Nov. 1643.

<sup>4</sup> (This entry occurs between those of 3 May and 20 June, in the separate list of burials within the Abbey.) She was a sister of the Rev. Dr. George Hamden, Rector of St. Luke's, Chelsea, and of Coulsdon, Surrey (who died in 1632), and was married, at St. Thomas, city of Oxford, 19 Feb. 1600-1. Her husband, Leonard Hutton, D.D., Canon of Christ Church, died 17 May 1632, in his 75th year, and was buried in the Cathedral. Her will, dated 10 Feb. 1642-3, was proved 6 Dec. 1644. See her daughter's burial 12 Apl. 1628, and note thereto.

<sup>6</sup> Eldest son of Sir Robert Anstruther, Kt. (second son of Sir John Anstruther, of Anstruther, co. Fife, Hereditary Grand Carver in Scotland), and nephew and heir of Sir William Anstruther, K.B. at the coronation of K. James I. He was a Gentleman of the Bedchamber to K. James I., privy councillor to K. Charles I., and a favourite and successful ambassador abroad during both reigns. He married Catharine, dau. of Sir Robert Swift, of Rotherham, co. York. Kt., and was ancestor of the modern baronets of his name. (See an amusing account of him in the Diary of Abraham de la Pryme, Surtees Society, 1870. p. 107.)

<sup>7</sup> Son and heir of Philip Boraston, of Aldenham, Herts, and of St. Margaret's, Westminster, Gent., by Lucy, dau. of William Poulter, Gent. See his wife's burial 4 Oct. 1691. Their only child, Philip, was baptized at Great Grimsby, co. Lincoln, 17 Jan. 1637-8, and buried there the 29th of the same month.

his estate, appears to have been Aldam, and his surname in the latter is written Freame. He had a patent from the Dean and Chapter, as Gardener, 25 May 1633. See his wife's burial 12 Aug. 1644, and a burial 24 Jan. 1661-2, perhaps of his brother, or a son by a former wife.

<sup>3</sup> Younger son of Rev. John Spottiswood, Vicar of Calder in Mid-Lothian, by Beatrix, dau. of Patrick Creychtoun, Laird of Lugton and Gilmerton, near Dalkeith. He was born at Calder 7 Sep. 1567, and educated at the University of Glasgow. He became Rector of Wells, co. Norfolk, in Dec. 1602, and Bishop of Clogher, Ireland, 22 Oct. 1621. He left a son Sir Henry, and a dau. Mary, who married Abraham Creighton, Esq., and was ancestress of the Earls of Erne. See his brother's burial 29 Nov. 1639.

<sup>7</sup> Younger son of Thomas Cranfield, citizen and mercer of London, by Martha, dau. of Vincent Randill, also citizen and mercer of London, and baptized at St. Michael, Bassishaw, 13 Mch. 1574-5. He was knighted at Outlands 4 July 1613, became Master of the Requests in 1616, and Lord Treasurer of England in Oct. 1621, but was impeached in 1624. He was created, 9 July 1621, Baron Cranfield, of Cranfield, co. Bedford, and, 16 Sept. 1622, Earl of Middlesex. He died 6 Aug. See the burials, of his second wife 12 Feb. 1669-70, and of their sons, 18 Mch. 1647-8, 13 Sep. 1651, and 6 Nov. 1674. By his first wife, Elizabeth, dau. of Richard Shepherd, citizen and grocer of London, he had issue only three daughters.

<sup>8</sup> Mar. Lic. D. and C. of Westminster, 12 June 1609, for Henry Gransden, of Gravesend, Kent, Gent., and Alice Hatcher, of Westminster, widow.—Letters of administration to the estate of Alice Gransden, late of Westminster, were granted 23 Sep. 1645, by the Court of the Dean and Chapter, to her dau. Mary Goodwyn.

<sup>9</sup> There can be little danger in identifying this person as the William Loe alias Leo, D.D., who is described in the Athen. Oxon., and of whose ultimate fate, having traced him to this very year, Wood was uncertain. On 13 Nov. in this year letters of administration were granted, by the Court of the Dean and Chapter, to the estate of "William Leo alias Loe, S.T.P., late of the city of Westminster," to a creditor, which shows that he died within their jurisdiction, and there is no record of the death of any Dr. Lee, in any of the professions using that title, at this period. He appears to have been a native of Kent, and entered public life as master of the College School at Gloucester and Vicar of Churcham in that county. He was installed Prebendary of Gloucester in 1602, and was Sub-dean of that Cathedral in 1605. In 1618 he became pastor of the English Church at Hamburg, but returned to England as early as 1624, and subsequently officiated as curate at Putney and Wandsworth, in Surrey. It is of him that the story is told that, having to preach in a church near London at a morning service, when a Mr. Adam was to preach in the same church in the afternoon, he selected for his text the words "Adam, where art thou?"; to which his colleague responded later in the day by a discourse from the words "Lo, here am I." He was a poet of considerable skill, as may be judged from the fact that he published a volume of his verses composed exclusively of monosyllables. This curious work was reprinted in 1871, by the Rev. A. B. Grosart, in his Fuller Worthies' Library, the Editor's "Memorial-Introduction" to which may be consulted for all that has been gleaned respecting his personal history.

<sup>4</sup> William Twisse, D.D., Rector of Newbury, Berks, and Prolocutor of the Assembly of Divines under the Commonwealth. He was born at Speenhamland, in the parish of Speen, co. Berks, about 1575, the son of a clothier at Newbury, whose father had emigrated from Germany. He was educated at Winchester and Oxford, and became a Fellow of New College 11 Mch. 1597-8. At the time of his death he appears to have been holding only a lectureship at St. Andrew's, Holborn, where he died on the 20th July in this year. His will, dated 9 Sep. 1645, with a codicil 30 June 1646, was proved 6 Aug. in the latter year. He would seem not to have been so reduced in circumstances as the accounts of him usually represent. for, besides other not inconsiderable legacies, he bequeathed his manor of Ashampstead, Berks, to trustees for the benefit of his younger children. He left four sons and three daughters, but his wife (Frances, dau. of Barnabas Colnett, of Combley, Isle of Wight) had predeceased him. His remains were included (but why, it is difficult to say) among those of others exhumed after the Restoration and thrown into a common pit in St. Margaret's churchyard.

<sup>1</sup> He was one of the "singing men" of the Abbey as early as 1617, and in holy orders, as on the 6th Nov. in that year he was admitted into the place of "Episteler" in the Chapel Royal, and was described as "Deacon," and "a base of the Church of Westminster." His relict administered to his estate, in the Court of the Deau and Chapter, 10 May 1647. See her burial 8 Jan. 1666-7.

The Duke, who was mortally wounded at the battle of Worcester, died 12 Sep. 1651, and was buried in Worcester Cathedral. The Duchess remarried Thomas Dalmahoy, Esq., and died in 1662.

1645), by his second wife (see her burial 12 Feb. 1669-70). He died 16 Mch., aged about twenty-three. His nuncupative will, made on the day of his death, and proved 4 July 1648, describes him as of Copt-hall, Midx, but as dying in St. Botolph, Aldgate, London.

<sup>3</sup> Francis Villiers, youngest and posthumous son of George, first Duke of Buckingham (see his burial 18 Sep. 1628), by Lady Katherine Manners, only dau. and heir of Francis, sixth Earl of Rutland. He was born the 2nd, and baptized at St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., 21 Apl. 1629. He was in the royal army, and was killed on the 7th of this month in a skirmish with the Parliamentarian forces near Kingston-on-Thames. Aubrey calls him "the beautiful Francis Villiers."

<sup>5</sup> His will, dated 20 July 1647, and proved 5 Dec. 1648, describes him as of Bettws, co. Salop, Esq., son of Hugh Lloyd, Esq., then deceased, and brother of James Lloyd. He had already conveyed his lands to his eldest son Hugh, and now made his younger son David his residuary legatee and executor. The will also mentions his dau. Anne Lloyd and her dau. Elizabeth.

<sup>6</sup> Second son of John Arundell, of Trerise, co. Cornwall, Esq., by his second wife, Gertrude, dau. of Sir Robert Dennis, of Holcomb, Kt. He married Mary, dau. of Sir Gamaliel Capel, Kt. His will, in which he is described as of Daloe, co. Cornwall, dated the 3rd, was proved 17 Nov. 1648, by his eldest son John. It also mentions his son Francis, and his dau. Gertrude Meech, widow, with daughters Mary and Grace Meech.

<sup>8</sup> Sir Clipsby Crewe, son and heir of Sir Ranulphe Crewe, Chief Justice of the King's Bench, by his first wife, Julian, dau. and coheir of John Clipsby, of Clipsby, co. Norfolk, Esq. He was born 4 Sep. 1599, and knighted at Theobald's 18 June 1620. He married, at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 7 July 1625, Jane, second dau. of Sir John Pulteney, of Misterton, co. Leicester, Kt., by Margery, daughter of Sir John Fortescue, of Salden, co. Bucks, Kt. She died 2 Dec. 1639, in her thirtieth year, and was undoubtedly buried in the Abbey, but is not mentioned in the Register. In his will, dated 13 Apl. 1647 and proved 4 Apl. 1649, he directed to be buried near his wife, "in the Abbey Church of Westminster." See the burials, of his sister 23 Apl. 1621, his step-mother 12 Aug. 1629, his dau. 6 Feb. 1637-8, and his son 22 Feb. 1683-4.

<sup>3</sup> Born at Alkmaar in 1595, and educated at Leyden, of which University a Doctor of the Civil Law. He had a Lectureship at Cambridge, but was silenced on account of his republican principles. He became afterwards Judge Advocate in the army of the Parliament, and finally a Judge of the Court of Admiralty. He was admitted a Commoner of the College of Advocates, London, in 1629, and to full membership in 1645. In May 1649 he was sent by the Parliament as Envoy to the Hague, where he was assassinated about the 13th of that month. His son Isaac administered to his estate 25 May 1649. His remains were afterwards disinterred, and buried in St. Margaret's churchyard; but not, it is said, in the common pit. He married in this country, and had at least another son, John, who was born 20 Nov. 1627, and buried at Maldon, Essex, 3 Jan. 1631-2. His son Isaac also married, and died in Sept. 1688, leaving issue Isaac, James, and Anne. In the register of Leyden University his name is Doreslaer.

<sup>4</sup> Eldest dau. of Arthur Mansell, of Briton Ferry, co. Glamorgan, Esq. Her husband administered to her estate 26 Nov. following. He was third son of Edward Prichard, of Llancafach, co. Glamorgan, Esq., and in a herald painter's work-book in the British Museum (Harl. MS. 1045, p. 20) is said to have been also buried in the Abbey, 28 Sept. 1650, but no record of his burial is in the Register.

<sup>5</sup> Her will, dated 4 Dec. 1649, was proved 25 Jan. 1649-50, by Daniel Blagrove, of Reading, Berks, the well-known regicide, and a member of the Parliament then in session, whose wife Elizabeth was her daughter by a former husband, Abraham Hull, of St. Leonard's, Shore-ditch, who died in 1622. She remarried, in Aug. 1624, Nicholas Cooper, of St. Peter's, Cornhill, Gent., whom she also survived. The will also mentions her other daughters, then wives of John Billingsley, John Pargiter, and John Lambert, and Susan unmarried, and also her sister Anna Betts.

<sup>6</sup> Younger son of George Wylde, of Droitwich, co. Worcester, Serjeant-at-Law, by Frances, dan. of Sir Edmond Huddleston, of Sawston, co. Cambridge, Kt., and brother of John Wylde, Chief Baron of the Exchequer. He matriculated at Oxford, from Balliol College, 18 Mch. 1607-8, aged fourteen. He died 15 Jan., being then a Member of Parliament.

<sup>8</sup> Dau. and coheir of Charles Howard, of Dorsetshire, Esq., by Rebecca, dau. of William Webb of Salisbury. (In a pedigree in Scgar's Baronage her father is called a natural son of Thomas, first Viscount Bindon, while the Visitation of Wilts, 1622, represents him as a brother of Viscount Bindon, and in the monumental inscription of her son Sir Henry she is distinctly called a grand-daughter of Viscount Bindon.) She was second wife of Sir Thomas Thynne, of Longleat, and mother of Sir Henry-Frederick Thynne, first Bart., and thus ancestress of the present Marquis of Bath.

<sup>5</sup> Fifth son of Sir Francis Popham, of Littlecott, Wilts, Kt. (son and heir of Sir John Popham, Lord Chief Justice of the King's Bench), by Anne, only dau. and heir of John Dudley, of Stoke Newington, Midx., Esq. He married Anne, dau. of William Carr, Groom of the Bed-chamber to K. James I., and had issue a son Alexander and a dau. Letitia. He was one of the Admirals of the (Parliament) Fleet, and died of a fever at Dover, on the 19th of August. The date of his burial in the text is manifestly incorrect, and the transcriber probably inserted what he knew to be the month of his death. Anthony Wood says that he was buried on the 24th of September, but Heath's Chronicle says the 24th of October, and states that it was on the evening of the day appointed by the Parliament as one of thanksgiving for the royalist defeat at Worcester (which occurred 3 Sept.), and which they had first fixed for the 2nd Oct., but afterwards postponed until the 24th, and that the funeral was attended by Cromwell and many of the members. These minute details appear to establish the date of burial as the 24th of October. His remains were included in the royal warrant for disinterment after the Restoration, but it has always been understood that they escaped the intended indignity of being thrown into the common pit in the churchyard, and were allowed to be carried away by his friends. His elaborate monument was also suffered to remain in the Abbey, but on condition that the inscription upon the tablet should be thoroughly defaced, which was accordingly done. The story by Dart, that the tablet was simply turned with the inscription inward, is a pure myth.

<sup>7</sup> Eldest dau. of William, fourth Lord Paget of Beaudesert, by Lettice, dau. and coheir of Henry Knollys, Esq., younger son of Sir Henry Knollys, K.G. She married, at Drayton, Midx., 8 Sep. 1625, Sir William Hiches, first Bart. of Beverstone Castle, co. Gloucester, who died 9 Oct. 1680, and was buried at Low Leyton, Essex. See her daughter's baptism 13 July 1626, and her burial, as the Countess of Donegal, 15 May, 1691.

<sup>8</sup> Son of Richard Moore, of Grantham, co. Lincoln, M.P. for Grantham in 1588, by his second wife, Goditha Green, and baptized at Grantham 18 Apl. 1585. He was installed Prebendary of Westminster 8 Mch. 1631-2, but was, of course, not now in possession of his stall. The description of him in the text was clearly an interpolation by the transcriber, and illustrates the manner in which the earlier portion of the Register was compiled, as a clause from his will amply proves. "I desire," he wrote, "to be buried in St. Peter's Church in Westminster, whereof I was some time a Prebendary, in the aisle on the backside of the stall or seat which then belonged to me." He died at his lodgings in Clement Lane, Westminster, on the 17th of October. His will, in which he is styled "Doctor of Divinity," dated 12 Oct., was proved 2 Nov. 1652, by Gabriel Moore, his nephew and residuary legatee. See the burial of Mrs. Mary Moore, 16 Feb. 1648-9, who, if not his wife, was probably a relative.

<sup>1</sup> Eldest son of Arthur Salwey, of Stanford, co. Worcester, Esq., by Mary, dau. and coheir of Thomas Searle, of London, Esq. He was at this time a member of the Long Parliament, and also held the office of "Remembrancer of the Public Exchequer." Although thus officially connected with the then Government, he appears to have refused to act as one of the Commissioners appointed to try the King, and does not seem to have deserved the indignity to which his remains were subjected after the Restoration; but his name was included among those in the royal warrant, and his bones found a final resting place in the common pit in the churchyard. He married, about 1614, Anne, second dau. of Sir Edward Littleton, of Pillaton Hall, co. Stafford, Kt., who died before him, and their descendants are still seated at Moor Park, in Shropshire. His will, dated 18 July 1648, contains the curious statement that there was then due to him from the county of Worcester his "wages for attending the present Parliament from the 3rd of November 1640, to the present time." A codicil, dated 19 July 1651, recites that the Parliament of the Commonwealth had, on the 15th inst., voted that £200 per annum for seven years should be paid to his representatives, out of the office of the Remembrancer of the Public Exchequer, towards the payment of his debts. The will was not proved until 3 Mch. 1653-4, and then by his principal creditor, the executors appointed declining to act.

admirable account of him and his career, consult his "Life" by the Rev. John-Bathurst Deane, published in 1870.) He was killed during the naval engagement with the Dutch, on the 2nd of June, being only in his forty-second year. He married, at the Temple Church, 21 May 1647, Mary, dau. of John Grimsditch, of Knottingley, co. York, Esq., who survived him and remarried, at St. Bartholomew the Great, London, 2 Jan. 1654-5, Colonel Edward Salmon, another well-known Parliamentarian. Colonel Deane's remains were ignominiously exhumed after the Restoration, and, with those of others equally eminent in maintaining the honour of the British flag, thrown into a common pit in the churchyard. His will, dated 31 Mch. 1653, was proved 20 Jan. 1653-4, by his relict. He left two daughters, Mary and Hannah. The stupid stories propagated by his political enemies as to his vulgar origin and early career have been abundantly disproved by his recent biographer, and posterity is already doing justice to his memory.

<sup>2</sup> (Erroneously "Mr. Francis Carew" in Collectanea.) Probably Frances, dau. of Hon. Thomas Carey (second son of Robert, first Earl of Monmouth), by Margaret, dau. and heir of Sir Thomas Smith, Kt., Master of the Requests. She was born in 1631, and died unmarried. Her father, who was a Groom of the Bedchamber to King Charles I., was born at Berwick-on-Tweed, and baptized there 16 Sep. 1597. He died at Whitehall, 9 Apl. 1634, and was buried on the 14th in the place indicated in the text, but no record of the fact occurs in the Register. His widow remarried Sir Edward Herbert, Kt., Attorney-General.

<sup>3</sup> Sou of John Fulham, of Hope-under-Dinmore, co. Hereford. He had a patent from the Dean and Chapter, as Clerk of the Works, 4 May 1621. His relict Dorothy administered to his estate 20 Jan. 1653-4. His son, the Rev. Edward Fulham, D.D., was the first Canon of Windsor installed after the Restoration. He died 9 Dec. 1694, and was buried at Compton, Surrey. See a pedigree of the family in Collectanea Top. et Gen. i. 18.

<sup>4</sup> His nuncupative will, as John Holmstead, of St. Margaret's, Westminster, Gent., made Feb. 1653-4, was proved 16 Dec. 1656, by his relict Margaret, who had then remarried (see her burial, as Margaret Chambers, Jan. 1677-8). The will merely bequeathed £10 to his dau. Ann, and was witnessed by Thomas Raper, who was one of the Abbey porters. He was probably a minor official.

were included amongst those disinterred after the Restoration and thrown into a common pit in the churchyard. His relict Damaris administered to his estate 22 Aug. 1654.

<sup>1</sup> See the burials of (probably) two of his wives, 17 May 1621 and 25 Oct. 1642. He appears to have married again, at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 1 Oct. 1646, Mrs. Margaret Hodges. He doubtless held some minor official position in or about the Abbey.

<sup>3</sup> He was admitted to Gray's Inn 24 Oct. 1621, as son and heir of Richard Mackworth, of Betton Grange, Shropshire. He became a Colonel in the service of the Parliament, and was appointed Governor of Shrewsbury 2 June 1646. He was a member of Cromwell's second Parliament, and also one of his council. He married, first, at St. Andrew's, Holborn, 30 Jan. 1622-3, Anne, dau. of Thomas Waller, of Beaconsfield, Bucks, Esq., and, secondly, Mary, dau. of Thomas Venables, Esq., titular Baron of Kinderton, co. Chester. His son Thomas administered to his estate 18 Jan. 1654-5. His remains were disinterred after the Restoration, and thrown into a common pit in the churchyard.

<sup>8</sup> James Stuart, eldest son of Esme, third Duke of Lennox (see his burial 6 Aug. 1624), by Catherine, dau. and heir of Sir Gervase Clifton, Lord Clifton of Leighton Bromswold. He was born in Blackfriars, London, the 6th, and baptized at the Chapel Royal, Whitehall, 29 Apl. 1612. He succeeded as fourth Duke of Lennox, and was created Duke of Richmond 8 Aug. 1641. He died 30 Mch. See his wife's burial 28 Nov. 1685, and his son's 4 Sep. 1660.

<sup>9</sup> Son and heir of Sir Robert Constable, of Flamborough, co. York, Kt., by Anne, daughter and heiress of John Hussey, of Driffield. He was knighted by the Earl of Essex, in Ireland, in 1599, and created a Bart. 29 June 1611. He had been Colonel of a Regiment of Foot, and some time Governor of Gloucester, and was one of the signers of the death-warrant of K. Charles I. His will, dated 13 Dec. 1654, was proved 18 July 1655, by his relict Dame Dorothy, who was the eldest dau. of Thomas, first Lord Fairfax. He left no issue, and the title became extinct. His relict died 9 Mch. following, and was buried in the church of St. Mary Bishophill, Senior, York. Not only were his remains exhumed after the Restoration and thrown into the common pit in the churchyard, but his estates were especially excepted in the general pardon subsequently granted by K. Charles II.

<sup>2</sup> Son of Arnold Usher, one of the Six Clerks of the Irish Chancery, by Margaret, dau. of James Stanihurst, Speaker of the Irish House of Commons. He was born in Dublin, 4 Jan. 1580-1, and educated at Trinity College in that city. He became Professor of Divinity in that College, and subsequently Chancellor of St. Patrick's Cathedral. He was elevated to the Bishopric of Meath, by patent dated 22 Feb. 1620-1, and translated to the Archbishopric of Armagh by patent dated 21 Mch. 1624-5. He also held the see of Carlisle in commendam, by patent dated 16 Feb. 1641-2, and in 1647 was appointed Preacher to the Society of Lincoln's Inn. He died in the Countess of Peterborough's house, at Reigate, Surrey, 21 Mch. 1655-6, and was buried in the Abbey, by order of Cromwell, 17 Apl. 1656. His only dau. Elizabeth, wife of Sir Timothy Tyrrell, Kt., administered to his estate 3 May following. He married, in 1614, Phoebe, only dau. of Rev. Luke Chaloner, D.D., who was buried at St. Paul's, Covent Garden, 22 Nov. 1654.

<sup>3</sup> The identification of a person of this name and rank ought not to be even difficult, but has been so far impossible, which leads to the suspicion that there is some error, either in name or date.

<sup>4</sup> Second son of Edward Ellis, of Chestertou, co. Cambridge, Esq., by Jane, dau. of Thomas Stoterville, of Brinkley, in the same county, Esq. (see her burial 6 May 1631). He was Gentleman-waiter to King James I., and Cup-bearer to King Charles I. His will, dated 15 July, was proved 21 Oct. 1656. He evidently died unmarried.

<sup>5</sup> Lady Anne Stanley, only surviving dau. of William, sixth Earl of Derby, by the Lady Elizabeth de Vere (see her burial 11 Mch. 1626-7). She was first married to Sir Henry Portman, second Bart., and secondly to Robert Kerr, first Earl of Ancrum, who died at Amsterdam in 1654. See her daughter's burial 4 Jan. 1646-7.

<sup>6</sup> Only dau. and heir of Edward Wray, Esq., by the Lady Elizabeth Norreys (see her burial 28 Nov. 1645), and born in 1627. She married, first, Edward Sackville, second son of Edward, fourth Earl of Dorset, who died in 1646, and, secondly, Montagu Bertie, second Earl of Lindsey, to whom she was second wife, who survived her and died 25 July 1666. Her eldest son (by her second marriage), James, became Baron Norreys in her right, and was created Earl of Abingdon.

dau. and heir of Sir Robert Naunton, Kt., Secretary of State to K. James I. She was baptized at St. Olave, Hart Street, London, 14 Nov. 1638, and was married at St. Martin in the Fields, Midx. 18 June 1647, before she was quite nine years old, to Hon. John Herbert, youngest son of Philip fourth Earl of Pembroke and first of Montgomery. See her husband's burial 23 Nov. 1659, and that of her only sister, the Countess of Oxford, 27 Sep. 1659, whose marriage took place on the same day as her own. Her mother had remarried Philip, fifth Earl of Pembroke, her husband's brother, and her almost unnatural marriage at her tender age was probably influenced by family considerations.

<sup>1</sup> The most famous naval commander of his own and perhaps any other age, whose name and fame are still precious to Englishmen, although his bones were subjected to the indignity of disinterment and removal to the common pit in the churchyard. Surely, an exception might have been made in his case, for he was always simply the British officer, and never the Commonwealth partizan. He was a younger son of Humphrey Blake, of Bridgewater, co. Somerset Gent., by Sarah, dau. and coheir of John Williams, of Pawlett, in that county, and was baptized at St. Mary's, Bridgewater, 27 Sep. 1599. There is a discrepancy between the date in the text and those in all the accounts of the period, the latter stating that he died on the 17th of August while his ship was entering Plymouth harbour, and that he was buried in the Abbey on the 4th of September. His will, written with his own hand, and signed and sealed on board the "Naseby," then lying in St. Helen's Roads (Isle of Wight), 13 Mch. 1655-6, was proved 20 Aug. 1657. He died unmarried, and left his property, which was considerable, chiefly to his brothers.

<sup>2</sup> Eldest dau. and coheir of Paul, second Viscount Bayning, by Penelope, dau. of Sir Robert Naunton, Kt. She was married, at St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., 18 June 1647, to Aubrey de Vere, twentieth and last Earl of Oxford (see his burial 22 Mch. 1702-3), when she could not have been more than about ten years of age, as her father was only twenty-two at his death in 1638, and her mother then only eighteen. See her sister's burial 1 May 1657, and note thereto.

<sup>3</sup> His will, as "Scipio Le Squire, Esq., Senior Chamberlain of the Court of Receipt in the Exchequer," dated 23 Sep. 1659, was not proved until 16 Jan. 1662-3. He directed to be buried in the Cloisters, near the monument of his ancient friend Mr. Arthur Agard (see his burial 24 Aug. 1615). Sir Simonds D'Ewes mentions him as Deputy Chamberlain as early as 1630, and, from his reference to Agard, he was probably brought up in that office. He was admitted to Gray's Inn 10 Aug. 1627, as of St. Martin in the Fields, Gent. His wife Elizabeth and several childreu survived him. To his son Scipio he bequeathed his lands of inheritance at Bagshot, co. Surrey, and in Middlesex and Devonshire.

<sup>4</sup> Lambert Osbaldeston, or Osbolston, as his family appear to have always written the name. He is always erroneously said to have been the son of Lambert Osbolston, Rector of St. Olave, Southwark, and to have been born in that parish. His baptism does not occur in the parish register of St. Olave, nor was his father ever Rector there. On the contrary, in the Visitation of London, 1633-4, he is described as a "haberdasher," and in that of 1664 as a "Gentleman." The baptisms of two or three of his younger children are recorded in the St. Olave's register, and he is there described as a haberdasher. Anthony Wood says that he died in 1662, but this son Lambert administered to his estate 26 Apl. 1622. His wife was Martha Bankes, of a London family. Their eldest son was the Rev. William Osbolston, Rector of East Hanningfield and Great Parndon, Essex, who died about 1645-6. Their third son, Robert, continued his father's business, and his third son, Robert, also became Rector of Great Parndon, and was buried there 3 Mch. 1679-80. They had several other sons and daughters, who appear to have all died young. The person named in the text was their second son, and was educated at Westminster School, whence he was elected to Oxford in 1612. His name, however, does not appear in the matriculation register until 20 Oct. 1615, when he is described as the son of a "gentleman," born in London, and aged twenty-one. On the 25th Oct. in this year he was admitted to Gray's Inn. He took his M.A. degree 27 Apl. 1619. On the 7th Dec. 1621 he had a joint patent (with Rev. John Wilson, D.D.), from the Dean and Chapter of Westminster, of the Head-Mastership of Westminster School, which was renewed to him alone 27 Jan. 1625-6. In July 1629 he was collated to prebends of both Lincoln and Westminster. In 1638, having expressed himself too freely respecting Archbishop Laud, he was deprived of all his preferments by the Star Chamber, fined £5,000, and sentenced to have his ears nailed to the pillory in presence of his scholars, but escaped the execution of this sentence by flight. In 1641 his livings were restored to him, but, becoming disaffected with the course of the Parliament, they were again sequestered, and he lived in retirement until his death. He died unmarried.

expended in the purchase of "the choicest pieces of the works of John Gerrardus, Vossius, and Salmatius." He was installed a Prebendary of Lincoln 8 Apl. 1632. He died 10 Nov. 1659, evidently unmarried. His will, in which he stated that he was born in the parish of St. Swithin, city of Lincoln, was dated 18 Mch. 1658-9, and was partly in hieroglyphics, which were deciphered by his nephew. It was proved 30 Apl. 1660, by his brother-in-law and residuary legatee, Rev. Henry Page, Vicar of Ledbury, co. Hereford, who had married his sister Alice.

<sup>2</sup> Anne, second dau. of Sir Nicholas Hyde, Kt., Chief Justice of the King's Bench, by Mary, dau. of Arthur Swaine, of Sarson, Hants, Esq. She died 23 Aug. 1660, in her fiftieth year, being then the widow of Sir Ross Cary, who had been made a knight-banneret for his services during the memorable expedition to the Isle of Rhé. In the parish register of St. Andrew's, Holborn, Midx., under the date of 1 Mch. 1640-1, his burial is recorded thus: "Sir Rosse Cary, an Irish Gent.: died at John Kerlye's, Rose Alley, 28 Feb." Both appear to have died intestate. The inscription on her gravestone, long hid from sight, is one of the few in the Abbey that have never been printed, and is therefore here given in full. It reads thus; "Anna Nicolai Hyde Equ. Aurati | Supremi Angliæ Justitiarij | Filia | Uxor Rossæ Rosæ Cary | Qui | Optime de patriâ | In expeditione Rheana meritis | Equitis Banneretti Titulo ornatus | Titulum ornavit | H. S. E. | Post restitutam Carolo | Britanniam Britannicæ | Post restitutum Carolum | Lubens animam Anna reddidit | X<sup>o</sup> Cal. Aug. | Anno Ætatis L. | Salutis M.D.C.LX." As a remarkable instance of the inexactness and uncertainty of burial registers and monumental inscriptions and heraldry, it may be noted that in the Abbey Register this lady's name is Carew, and on her tombstone Curey, while her husband's arms, impaled with her own, on the latter, are unmistakably those of Crewe.

<sup>3</sup> Esme Stuart, only son of James, fourth Duke of Lennox and first of Richmond (see his burial 18 Apl. 1655), by Lady Mary Villiers (see her burial 28 Nov. 1685). He was born in London 2 Nov. 1649, succeeded his father as second Duke of Richmond and fifth of Lennox, and died in Paris 10 Aug. 1660. These dates are taken from his coffin-plate, exposed in 1867. The inscription on his monument (probably inaccurately recut) erroneously states that he died 14 Aug. 1661, in his eleventh year.

<sup>4</sup> Prince Henry, fourth and youngest, but third surviving son and eighth child of K. Charles I. and Q. Henrietta-Maria. He was born at Oatlands, Surrey, 6 July 1640, and was created Earl of Cambridge and Duke of Gloucester 13 May 1644. He was confined in Carisbrook Castle after his father's death, and subsequently sent out of the kingdom by Cromwell. He returned to England on the Restoration, and died at Whitehall, of the small-pox, on the 13th of this month.

<sup>5</sup> Colonel Thomas Blagge, third but eldest surviving son of Ambrose Blagge, of Little Horningsherth, co. Suffolk, Esq., by his first wife, Martha, dau. of Roger Barber, of Bury St. Edmund's, Esq. He was baptized at Horningsherth 13 July 1613. He had been Colonel of a regiment of foot in the royal army, and particularly distinguished himself in the defence of Wallingford Castle. He had also been Governor of Yarmouth and Landguard Fort, and a Groom of the Bedchamber to K. Charles I. and II. He married, at St. Bride's, London, 20 Feb. 1640-1, Mary, dau. of Sir Roger North, of Mildenhall, co. Suffolk, Kt., who survived him, and died in 1671. Margaret, one of his daughters and coheirs, married Sidney, Earl of Godolphin, Lord High Treasurer of England (see his burial 8 Oct. 1712). Col. Blagge died 14 Nov. 1660, and was doubtless buried during that month.

<sup>1</sup> Eldest dau. and third child of K. Chas. I. and Q. Henrietta-Maria, and born at St. James's 4 Nov. 1631. She married, 2 May 1648, William of Nassau, only son of Henry-Frederick, Prince of Orange, who succeeded to that title, and died 27 Oct. 1650. Their only issue was William-Henry, afterwards K. William III. (see his burial 12 Apl. 1702). She died of the small-pox on the 24th of this month. Her will was dated on the day of her death, and proved on that of her burial.

<sup>3</sup> There can be no hesitation in identifying this lady as the wife and relief of Sir Thomas Aylesbury, Bart., mother of Frances, first Countess of Clarendon, and thus great-grandmother of Q. Mary II. and Q. Anne. It is possible that the transcriber of the old Register placed the entry too early in the series of burials in this year, but there can still be no doubt as to the person indicated. There was no other Lady Aylesbury at this period, and the place of her interment, as stated in the text, was the Hyde vault, in which all the members of Lord Clarendon's family were subsequently interred. Besides, Pepys, in his Diary, under the date of 13 Nov. 1661, states that the Duke of York was in mourning for his wife's grandmother, which, he adds, was thought "a great piece of fondness." Hitherto this expression appears to have been regarded as confirming certain mythical stories respecting the alleged humble origin of the Duchess of York's mother, the first Countess of Clarendon; but it may now be suggested whether it had not reference to the mourning being continued so long after the death of the person for whom it was worn, and especially as she must have been in a very advanced old age. It seems strange that the history of a lady who was the direct ancestress of two of the reigning sovereigns of Great Britain should have remained to this day in utter obscurity, but even Lady Theresa Lewis, so late as 1852, wrote, "it is not known from what family she sprang, or where she died." Such facts, therefore, as the Editor has been able to discover will now be presented in detail. Her name was Anne, and she was the eldest dau. and coheir of Francis Denman, of West Retford, Notts, by Anne, dau. of Robert Blount, of Eckington, co. Derby, and relief of Nicholas Towers, Esquires. Her father was only son of Nicholas Deuman, of West Retford, by Anne, dau. of Humphrey Herey, of the Grove, Notts, Esq., and second sister and coheir of Sir John Herey, Kt. The arms borne by the Denmans of West Retford, viz., Argent, three lions' heads erased gules, were those of a knightly family of the same name temp. K. Edward I. Francis Denman, the father of Lady Aylesbury, appears to have been Rector of West Retford from 26 Sep. 1578 to 21 Jan. 1595-6, when he resigned, and was afterwards described as of Old Hall, West Retford, Esquire. He died in 1599, and was buried at West Retford, his wife surviving him. Their second dau. and coheir, Barbara, married Edward Darell, Esq., son of Sir Thomas Darell, of Ingham, Sussex, Kt., and died 22 Meh. 1654-5, leaving, by their only surviving son Edward, a grandson, Dr. John Darell, who founded a well-known hospital at West Retford. The only other dau. and coheir of Francis Denman and Anne his wife was Anne, who married, first, William Darell (probably a brother or half-brother of her sister Barbara's husband), who died in 1610, and, secondly, "Thomas Aylesbury, Esq." He is thus described in the marriage allegation, at the Bishop of London's Registry, dated 3 Oct. 1611, and as of St. Andrew's, Holborn, and also as having the consent of his father, "William Aylesbury, Esq." She is described as "Anne Darell, of the city of London, widow, whose husband died about a year ago." (William Aylesbury, the father, married, first, Anne, dau. of John Poole, of Saperton, co. Gloucester, Esq., by whom he had issue Edmond, eldest son, who was living 1629-30, with two daughters, Dorothy and Anne; Gloucester, Gent., who survived her and died in 1630; and Thomas, second son, who was born in London about 1576, and was created a Baronet 19 Apl. 1627. He was sometime Master of the Requests and of the Mint, and, fleeing to the continent after the death of K. Charles I., died at Breda in 1657. His father, after the death of his first wife Anne, had a license from the Bishop of London, dated 12 July 1603, he being described as of St. Andrew's, Holborn, Gentleman, a widower, aged 67, to marry Dorothy Gwilliams, widow, aged 60, whose husband, of the same parish, Gentleman, had died about seven years before.) The children of Sir Thomas Aylesbury and Anne (Darell née Denman), besides Frances, Countess of Clarendon (see her burial 17 Aug. 1667), so far as known, were as follows: William, eldest child, who was baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 13 July 1612, and who died in Jamaica in 1657, being then secretary to the Governor of that island; Thomas, second son, baptized at St. Margaret's 15 Dec. 1613, of whom nothing further has been ascertained, and who probably died young; Anne, baptized at St. Margaret's 28 Dec. 1615, and married there, 24 Apl. 1637, to Mr. John Brigham; and Barbara, baptized at St. Margaret's 9 May 1627 (and doubtless named after her mother's only sister), who died unmarried, at Antwerp, in 1652. (The date of her baptism, it will be seen, varies exactly a year from the note in the Duchess of York's pocket-book quoted by Lady Theresa Lewis, viz., "My dear Aunt Bab was, when she died, twenty-four years old and as much as from April to August.") It appears, therefore, that the hitherto mysterious ancestress of Queens Mary and Anne was of pure gentle descent and honourable connections, and that the ridiculous traditions respecting her and her daughter had no foundation in fact. As the record of her burial is distinctly under the year 1661, it may be regarded as certain that it was after the 25th of March, and it may, as has been said, have been later in the year.

<sup>1</sup> Eldest dau. and coheir of Richard Rogers, of Bryanston, co. Dorset, Esq., by Anne, dau. of Sir Thomas Cheeke, Kt. She married, first, Hon. Charles Cavendish, son of William, first Duke of Newcastle; and, secondly, Charles Stuart, third Duke of Richmond and sixth of Lennox (see his burial 20 Sep. 1673), to whom she was first wife. She died (according to her coffin-plate, exposed in 1867) on the 21st of April, in childhood, and was barely, if quite, eighteen years of age. See her daughter's burial 28 Mch. 1662.

<sup>3</sup> First wife of Dr. William Quatermain, Physician in Ordinary to K. Charles II. He matriculated at Oxford, from Brasenose College, 10 Oct. 1634, aged sixteen, as son of Walter Quatermain, of Shabbington, Bucks, Gent. He remarried (Mar. Lic. Fac. 16 June 1662) Mary, dau. of Sir Thomas Dyke, Kt., and grand-daughter of Sir John Bramston, Chief Justice of the King's Bench, who survived him. He was buried at St. Martin in the Fields 11 June 1667. His will, dated the 4th, was proved the 15th of the same month.

<sup>4</sup> Rev. George Jay, A.M., rector of Bugbrooke, co. Northampton, was admitted a Prebendary of Lichfield 28 May 1632. He had been a great sufferer in the royal cause, and was designed to succeed Bishop Cosin as Dean of Peterborough, but died before the appointment could be carried into effect. His designation as Dean in the text was not, therefore, strictly correct. A marriage recorded at St. Bride's, London, 2 Apl. 1649, of "George Jay, Minister, and Martha Manning," probably refers to him.

<sup>2</sup> He was sworn as a Gentleman of the Chapel Royal in ordinary 29 June 1619, and succeeded to the next vacancy 20 July 1620. In the Cheque Book he is described as "a Base from St. Paul's," and as in holy orders. He was sworn Confessor to His Majesty's Household in June 1660, and died 25 Nov. 1661, being succeeded in that office by Rev. Philip Tynchare, the preserver of the old Abbey Register.

<sup>3</sup> Nicholas Monk (or, as the name appears to have been uniformly written, Moncke), third son of Sir Thomas Monk, of Potheridge, co. Devon, Kt., by Elizabeth, dau. of Sir George Smith. He was born about 1609, and appears to have been a quiet country clergyman, until the influence of his brother, the Duke of Albemarle (see his burial 29 Apl. 1670) secured his rapid advancement. He became Provost of Eton College in June 1660, and on the 1st of Aug. in that year was created D.D. at Oxford, by royal command. He was elected Bishop of Hereford 1 Dec. following, and was consecrated 13 Jan. 1660-1. He died at his lodgings in the Old Palace at Westminster 17 Dec. following. His will, dated the day before his death, was proved 13 Mch. 1661-2, by his relict Susanna, who was dau. of Thomas Payne, of Plymtree, co. Devon, Esq., by whom he left only two daughters, Mary and Elizabeth. A monument was erected in the Abbey to his memory, in 1723, by his grandson, Christopher Rawlinson, of Cark, co. Lancaster, Esq.

<sup>4</sup> Dau. of Sir Henry Carey, fourth Baron Hunsdon and first Earl of Dover, by his first wife, Judith, dau. of Sir Thomas Pelham, of Laughton, Sussex, Bart. If the date in the text is correct, she must have died the same day, or the day before, as her will, dated 11 Sep. 1657, contains a nuncupative codicil, the date of which is 26 Dec. 1661. It was proved 10 Jan. following, by her sister Lady Judith Carey. She died unmarried, aged about forty.

<sup>5</sup> Mary, dau. and heir of Edward Langford, of Trowbridge, Wilts, Esq., and relict of Henry Hyde, of Purton in the same county. They were parents of Edward Hyde, first Earl of Clarendon, then Lord Chancellor (see his burial 4 Jan. 1674-5). Her husband died 29 Sep. 1632, aged sixty-nine.

<sup>6</sup> Probably a brother, or a son by a former wife, of Aldam Frame (see his burial 3 Mch. 1644-5). He is called "gardener" in the Chapter Book 5 Oct. 1661, when he and his wife were forbidden to sell beer and pies on the premises. See his wife's burial 9 Feb. following. Letters of administration to his estate were granted, by the Court of the Dean and Chapter, 2 Feb. 1662-3, to William Hooper, curator assigned to his minor children Anne, John, Emme and Edward.

<sup>6</sup> Various errors have crept into the accounts of the personal history of this distinguished prelate, some of which may be now positively corrected. He was not born at Greenwich, and was not the son of Rev. Geoffrey Duppa, Vicar of Lewisham, Kent, by a daughter of Rev. John Bungay, LL.D., Prebendary of Canterbury. According to his own will, he was born at Lewisham, and the register of that parish records his baptism on the 18th of Mch. 1588-9. This date is confirmed by the record of his matriculation at Oxford, 9 July, 1605, in which his age is given as sixteen, i. e., at his last birthday. His father was not Vicar of Lewisham, nor a clergyman. In the Oxford matriculation register he is called a "Gentleman," and in the Bishop's deed of foundation of a charity at Pembridge, co. Hereford, dated 15 Oct. 1661, he is described as "Jeffrey Duppa, Esquire, my late father." As to his mother, Dr. Bungay's will, dated 27 Oct. 1595, names no daughter married to Duppa, and evidently mentions all his children, while the Lewisham register records the marriage there, in 1580, of "Jeffery Duppa and Lucrece Maresall," who were undoubtedly his parents; but, after the most careful search, no trace of their subsequent history and fate has been discovered. Having taken the degree of D.D. at Oxford in 1625, he was installed Dean of Christ Church 28 Nov. 1629; became a Prebendary of Salisbury 21 May 1634, and Chancellor 7 June following; Rector of Petworth, Sussex, 19 May 1638; was consecrated Bishop of Chichester 17 June 1638; confirmed Bishop of Salisbury 14 Dec. 1641, and of Winchester 4 Oct. 1660. He died at Richmond, Surrey, 26 Mch. 1662, and his will, dated the preceding 4th of Feb., was proved 16 May following. See his wife's burial 30 Oct. 1665.

<sup>1</sup> Second son of Henry Heylyn, of Burford, co. Oxford, Gent., by Elizabeth, dau. of Francis Clampard, of Wrotham, Kent, and born at Burford 29 Nov. 1599. He became a Fellow of Magdalen College, Oxford, and was B.D. 13 June 1629, and D.D. in 1633. He was installed Prebendary of Westminster 9 Nov. 1631. He had been Chaplain to K. Charles I., and his preferments, of which he had been deprived during the Commonwealth, were restored to him on the return of K. Charles II. He died 8 May, and his relict Letitia (see her burial 17 Mch. 1667-8) administered to his estate 13 June following. Only four of eleven children survived him.

<sup>2</sup> Probably the first wife of Sir George Juxon, of Canterbury, who was knighted in June 1663. (He married, first, at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 12 Apl. 1654, Dorothy, dau. of Robert Purdy of Suffolk, and widow of a Mr. Harvey, and, secondly, Anne, dau. of Sir Dudley Diggs, of Chilham Castle, Kent, Kt. Letters of administration to his estate were granted 22 Aug. 1666. By his first wife he had a dau. Frances, whose will, dated 29 June 1717, was proved 19 Mch. 1725-6. She died unmarried, and at the date of her will was of the Archbishop's palace, Canterbury.) It seems impossible to identify her with any other person in the Juxon pedigree.

<sup>3</sup> Third son of Henry Sterrill, of the Middle Temple, Esq., by Margaret his wife, and born about 1610. He was the Abbey Surveyor, or Clerk of the Works. Baptisms and burials of twelve children, by his two wives, Mary and Prudence, occur in the registers of St. Margaret's, Westminster, from 18 May 1633 to 4 July 1659, and his first wife, Mary, was buried there 17 Oct. 1646.

<sup>4</sup> There was a family of this name in Yorkshire. Stephen Weelkes, of Fountains Park, Gent., was buried in Ripon Cathedral in 1667. He was descended from a family at Sawley in that county.

<sup>6</sup> Son of William Lawes, of Dinton, Wilts, where baptized 1 Jan. 1595-6. His connection with the Chapel Royal commenced 1 Jan. 1625-6, when he was sworn "Epistler." He was sworn Gentleman of the Chapel 3 Nov. 1626, and was afterwards, and at his death, Clerk of the Cheque. He died 21 Oct. His will, dated 14 Oct., was proved 2 Dec. 1662, by his relict Elinor, who, before 1667, remarried John Trowte. He appears to have left no issue, but made a handsome provision for the dau. of his brother John (see his burial 19 Jan. 1654-5) and her children. He bequeathed to Francis Sambrooke, of Westminster, Gent., one of his executors, several of his "viols," and "certain compositions" of his "dear brother William Lawes." He lived in the Little Almonry.

John Chaundler, of the same place, vintner. She was baptized at St. Helen's, Abingdon, 29 Apl. 1604, and married, first, Robert Hovenden, of Stanton Harcourt, co. Oxford, Esq., whose will she proved 8 Apl. 1652, and, secondly, the Rev. Dr. Thomas Gorges, Prebendary of Westminster (see his burial 14 Dec. 1667).

<sup>7</sup> Son of Henry James, Gent. (of a Bristol family), by Barbara, dau. of Rev. William Sutton, rector of Blandford St. Mary, co. Dorset, and born about 1635, at Machen, co. Monmouth. He was elected from Westminster School to Oxford, and matriculated from Christ Church 27 Nov. 1650. Dr. Bushby made him Usher of Westminster School in 1658, and in 1661 he was promoted to the Second Mastership, which he held at his death.

<sup>8</sup> William Heywood (or Haywood, as he and his son indifferently wrote the name), son of a cooper in the city of Bristol, where he was born in 1600. He matriculated at Oxford, from St. John's College, 15 Nov. 1616, became a Fellow of that College, and was created D.D. in 1636. He was one of the domestic chaplains of Archbishop Laud; Chaplain in Ordinary to King Charles I.; Prebendary of St. Paul's 21 Nov. 1631; Rector of Laindon, Essex, 8 Dec. in the same year; Rector of St. Giles in the Fields, Midx., about 1636; and was installed Prebendary of Westminster 28 Sep. 1638. He suffered great hardships during the Commonwealth, having at last to fly from London, and for some time kept a private school in Wiltshire, in the name of his son; but recovered all his preferments after the Restoration. His will, dated 12 July, was proved 26 Aug. 1663, by his relict Alice (see her burial 10 Nov. 1675). He left no issue save an only son (see his burial 2 Mch. 1663-4). He left legacies to the two daughters of his brother Edmond, two sons of his brother Thomas, two sons of his brother Henry, his sister Ann Burt, and three children of his sister Mary Atty.

<sup>5</sup> He had a patent from the Dean and Chapter, 6 Dec. 1617, as Chief Baker, and still occupied that post 26 Sep. 1660, when the Chapter Book records his application for £120 arrears since 1650. His brother, Peter Chapman, had been Head Brewer. His will, in which he is described as of Westminster, Gentleman, dated 13 Oct. 1663, with codicils 26 Nov. 1663 and 9 Jan. 1663-4, was proved in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, 19 Jan. 1663-4, by his second wife and relict, Margaret. He left six daughters, all then married; the eldest, Mary, to Anthony Sturt, Esq. See his first wife's burial 13 Mch. 1625-6.

<sup>2</sup> He entered Christ Church, Oxford, 1 Apl. 1656, as a servitor, and was B.A. 1 Nov. 1659 and M.A. 15 July 1662. He was sworn a Gentleman of the Chapel Royal 14 Nov. 1662, being then in holy orders, and died (according to the Cheque Book) 27 Feb. 1663-4.

<sup>4</sup> See his father's burial 17 July 1663, and his mother's 10 Nov. 1675. He was baptized at St. Giles in the Fields, Midx., 26 Aug. 1639, and is named in his father's will as his only child. He matriculated at Oxford, from Christ Church, 28 Mch. 1655, became a Fellow of Oriel College and was M.A. 28 May 1661. He died 22 Feb.

<sup>5</sup> He is described on his monument as of Elmley-Lovett, co. Worcester, late of Christ Church Oxford, Bachelor of Arts, and said to have died 10 Mch., of the small-pox, in his 27th year. One of this name matriculated at Oxford, 31 July 1658, as son of a minister, and another 19 July 1659, as a servitor, both from Christ Church: one was B.A. 16 Jan. 1660-1, and the other 15 Mch. 1662-3.

<sup>7</sup> He was in holy orders, and his name, as George Lowe, first appears in the Cheque Book of the Chapel Royal, among those of the ministers, 23 Apl. 1661. He died, according to the Cheque Book, on the preceding day.

<sup>6</sup> James, son of Richard Lambe, of the city of Oxford, by his second wife, and baptized at All Saints, in that city, 2 Feb. 1598-9. He was a commoner of Brasenose College, Oxford, B.A. in 1615; afterwards of St. Mary Hall, and D.D. 9 Aug. 1660. He was installed Prebendary of Westminster 23 July 1660, and became Rector of St. Andrew's, Holborn, 4 Jan. 1662-3. The register of that parish records his death on the 18th of October. His will, dated the 10th, was proved 22 Oct. 1664, by his relict Elizabeth, who, according to her arms on his hatchment, tricked in a herald painter's work-book (Harl. MS. 1045, p. 52), was of the family of Bromfield, of Kent. Dr. Lambe was an eminent oriental scholar, and bequeathed a considerable number of his books to the Abbey library.

<sup>8</sup> Edward Hyde, third son of Edward, first Lord Clarendon (see his burial 4 Jan. 1674-5), by his second wife, Frances (see her burial 17 Aug. 1667). He was baptized in the chapel of All Souls' College, Oxford, 1 Apl. 1645. He matriculated at Oxford, from Christ Church, 7 Dec. 1660, aged fifteen, and was actually created M.A. 9 Sep. in the following year. He died, according to his monument, 10 Jan. 1664-5, in his nineteenth year, being then a Student of Christ Church.

<sup>9</sup> Probably the second Bart. of this name of Stoke, co. Salop, eldest son of Sir John Corbet, first Bart., who died in 1662, by Anne, dau. of Sir George Mainwaring, of Ightfield, Shropshire, Kt. He married Lettice, dau. of Sir Robert Knollys, of Grey's Court, co. Oxford, Kt., who survived him until 1670.

<sup>10</sup> Mary, fourth dau. of Sir Thomas Gardiner, Kt., Recorder of London, Attorney-General, etc., by his wife Rebecca Child, and second wife of Sir Henry Wood, Kt. and Bart., of Loudham Hall, Suffolk, Clerk of the Board of Green Cloth, one of Q. Catharine's Council, and Treasurer to Q. Henrietta-Maria, who died 25 May 1671. She was baptized at Greenford Magna, Midx., 26 Feb. 1626-7. She was a Maid of Honour to Q. Henrietta-Maria, at Paris, in 1650, and was married there in 1651. In 1662 she was one of the four Bedchamber-women of Q. Katharine. She died 17 Mch. See the burial of her son Dec. 1662, and of her dau., the Duchess of Southampton, 16 Nov. 1680.

<sup>6</sup> Charles, second son of Sir Charles Berkeley, of Bruton, co. Somerset, by Penelope, dau. of Sir William Godolphin, of Godolphin, co. Cornwall, Kt. For his services to the royal house he was knighted at Whitehall 30 May 1660, and afterwards created Baron Berkeley of Rathdown and Viscount Fitzharding, in the Irish peerage, and, 17 Mch. 1664-5, a peer of England, as Baron Botetourt, of Langport, co. Somerset, and Earl of Falmouth. He married Mary, dau. of Col. Hervey Bagot, of Pipe Hall, co. Warwick, who remarried Charles Sackville, sixth Earl of Dorset, and died in 1679. He was killed in a naval engagement with the Dutch, 3 June (see note in the text following the next entry). His will, dated 21 Apl., was proved 29 June 1665. See the marriage of his only dau. 2 May 1681, and the burials of his brothers and sisters, 2 Mch. 1663-4, Aug. 1666, 26 Dec. 1712, and 25 June 1718. His English titles expired at his death, but the Irish ones reverted, under the patent, to his father and his heirs male.

<sup>7</sup> Sir Edward Broughton, of Marchwiell, co. Denbigh, indifferently called “Knight” and “Kt. and Bart.” There is no positive evidence that he was ever either, though he may have been dubbed a Knight, and, if so, it was after 12 Apl. 1660, as on that day he called himself only "Esquire." In the record of administration to his estate, 28 July 1665, he is styled "Kt. and Bart."; but in subsequent proceedings in the Court of Probate he is described as a Knight only. His will, which appears to have been discovered later, was dated 21 Oct. 1664, and not proved until 16 Dec. 1669, and in that he called himself only a knight. (To complicate the matter further, his only surviving son, in the record of administration to his estate, 5 May 1738, is described as "Sir Edward Broughton, Bart., alias Edward Broughton, Esq.") He was mortally wounded in the sea-fight with the Dutch, 3 June, but lived to reach his home in Westminster (see the note following the entry in the text). He held, under the Dean and Chapter, the office of Keeper of the Gate-House prison (see the burial of his second wife, 19 Mch. 1694-5, for some curious details respecting his connection with that establishment). He had three sons baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, viz., Edward, 30 Jan. 1660-1; Richard, 17 Feb. 1661-2; and John, 19 July 1663. The two latter evidently died in infancy.

<sup>2</sup> A Sir Henry Carew, Kt., had a license from the Bishop of London, 16 May 1663, to marry Martha Andrews, of St. Giles in the Fields, spinster, aged 30. He was described as also of that parish, and a widower, aged forty-six. His son Edward was buried there 13 Jan. 1661-2. No will or administration is to be found of either. See a burial 16 Aug. 1667.

<sup>3</sup> Her will, as "Jane Duppa, of Richmond, Surrey, widow, relict of Bryan, late Lord Bishop of Winchester," dated 15 Oct. 1664, was proved 9 Nov. 1665, by her "cousin Henry Mallory, Esq.," her "sister Elizabeth Marsh, widow," and her "friend and cousin Sir Richard Chaworth, Kt." She bequeathed £10 to the poor of Papworth, co. Huntingdon, where she was born; the same sum to the poor of St. Dionis Backchurch, London, where she was "so happily married"; and £20 to the poor of St. Nicholas, Lynn, co. Norfolk, where many of her friends lived. The register of St. Dionis Backchurch records the marriage, 23 Nov. 1626, of "Brian Duppa and Jane Chillingeton"; but that of Papworth, although in good preservation, does not once furnish this surname: that of Willington occurs repeatedly, from 1567 to 1610, but no baptism of a Jane Willington is recorded. It is possible, therefore, that she was a widow at the time of her marriage to Dr. Duppa. There is nothing in her will, nor in that of her sister Marsh, to indicate their paternity. She made several charitable bequests, including one of £10 per annum for ever to the almshouses at Richmond founded by her husband.

<sup>1</sup> Thomas Chiffinch, Page of the Bedchamber, Keeper of the King's Private Closet, and Comptroller of the Excise. He is said to have been born at Salisbury in 1600, and brought to the Court of K. Charles I. by Bishop Dupper. He had a grant of arms in 1664. He died suddenly, according to Pepys, on the 8th of April. His relict, Dorothy (see her burial 3 Apl. 1680) administered to his estate 21 April 1666. Their son, Thomas, who was baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 25 Nov. 1637, became one of the Searchers at Gravesend, and died 31 Jan. 1680-1. (The more notorious pander to K. Charles II., William Chiffinch, was a brother of the one named in the text, and succeeded to his offices as Page and Closet Keeper.)

<sup>5</sup> Second Bart. of King's Nympton, co. Devon, son of Sir Lewis Pollard, first Bart., by Margaret, dau. of Sir Henry Berkeley, Kt. He was Comptroller of the King's Household, and had been Governor of Dartmouth. He married, first, Lady Bridget de Vere, dau. of Edward, seventeenth Earl of Oxford, and relict of Francis, first Earl of Berkshire, by whom he had an only dau.; and, secondly, the relict of Mr. Rolle, of Stevenstone, co. Devon. A creditor administered to his estate 18 Dec. 1666. Dying without issue male, his brother succeeded to the title, on whose death it became extinct.

<sup>7</sup> See her husband's burial 17 Aug. 1646. Her nuncupative will, made on the 2nd, was proved the 9th of the same month, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, by Mary Taylor, sole legatee and executrix.

<sup>1</sup> His name first occurs among the Gentlemen of the Chapel Royal at the Coronation of K. Charles II., 23 Apl. 1661. He signed his name Peniall to an allegation of marriage at the Vicar-General's Office, 23 Sep. 1662, when he was described as "of St. George's, Windsor, Gent." He died, according to the Chapel Royal Cheque Book, 12 Jan. See the remarriage of his widow, 31 Jan. 1670-1.

<sup>2</sup> According to the Cheque Book of the Chapel Royal, he died the 23rd. His estate was administered to in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, 1 May 1667, by Magdalen Williams, principal creditor, and in the margin of the record is written the word "pauper." See his son's baptism 21 Feb. 1642-3, and the burial of his daughter 15 May 1645.

<sup>4</sup> John Hill is mentioned in Dr. Busby's accounts in 1664, as being paid £4 for playing on the cornet in the church that year.

<sup>5</sup> On his monument, which states that he died 1 Mch., aged 65, he is described as John Osboldston, of Leyland, co. Lancaster, Esq., Page of the Bedchamber to K. Charles II. In his will, dated 26 Nov. 1665 and proved 3 May 1667, he is called John Osbaldeston, of Strand-on-the-Green, in Chiswick, Midx. He left his whole estate to his wife Sarah, and, after her death, £500 to the poor of Leyland, particularly specifying the township and not the whole parish. See the burial of his wife (who remarried William Allanson) 26 Dec. 1677.

<sup>6</sup> William Johnson, son of William Johnson, by Priscilla, dau. of William Leman, of Boccas, co. Suffolk, Esq. (brother of Sir John Leman, Lord Mayor of London), who were both dead in 1631. He appears to have held the family living of Warboys, in Huntingdonshire, and was created S.T.P. at Cambridge, by royal command, in 1661. According to his monument, he died 4 Mch., in his 57th year. His will, dated 20 Feb., was proved 30 Apl. 1667. He left two brothers, Thomas and Robert, each with a son William. (Collectanea erroneously calls him "Almoner," and gives the date of his burial as the 2nd of March.)

<sup>7</sup> Charles, third (but then second surviving) son and fifth child of James, Duke of York, afterwards K. James II., by his first wife, Lady Anne Hyde, dau. of Edward, first Earl of Clarendon (see her burial 5 Apl. 1671). He was born 4 July 1666, and died at St. James's Palace 22 May 1667. He was called Duke of Kendall, but no enrolment of the patent exists.

<sup>8</sup> Dr. Thomas Nurse. He matriculated at Oxford, from Lincoln College, 5 May 1615, aged 15, as of co. Leicester, "Pleb. fil.," and took the degree of Bachelor of Medicine 20 Nov. 1626, but that of M.D. not until 3 July 1641. He became a Licentiate of the Royal College of Physicians, London, 8 Feb. 1640-1, but never proceeded to a Fellowship. According to Anthony Wood, he was an eminent physician of his time, and had a large practice in Westminster, especially after the Restoration. His will, dated 1 Mch. 1661-2. with a codicil 24 Dec. 1662, was proved 25 June 1667, by his relict Susan (who survived him until 1679) and his son Walter. He left other issue. He bequeathed lands in Oadby, co. Leicester. In his will he stated that his tomb-stone, with the characteristic inscription (see Dart, ii. 126), was already prepared and paid for at a stone-cutter's in St. Andrew's, Holborn.

<sup>2</sup> The former was admitted into St. Peter's College, Westminster, in 1665, and the latter in 1666. There is no other record of them in the books of the College, except the bare statement that they were drowned.

<sup>4</sup> Abraham Cowley, the well known poet, usually said to have been the posthumous son of a grocer, and born in Fleet Street, near Chancery Lane. There are good reasons to doubt the accuracy of these statements, which comprise all that is ever said by any of the biographers of Cowley in regard to his origin. There appears to be no doubt that he was a posthumous child, and that he died in his 49th year: all accounts concur as to the former, and the latter was inscribed on his monument erected by the Duke of Buckingham. He died, at the Porch House, in Chertsey, Surrey, 28 July 1667, and consequently his birth must have occurred after the 28th of July 1618. Now there will be found among the wills in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury one of Thomas Cowley, who described himself as a citizen and stationer of London, and of the parish of St. Michael le Quern. It was dated 24 July 1618, and was proved 11 Aug. following by his relict Thomasine. In it occurs this passage: "Whereas God hath blessed me with six children, besides the child or children which my wife Thomasine now goeth withal, viz., Peter, Audrey, John, William, Katherine, and Thomas, I give to each, and to the child or children my wife now goeth withal, £140, at the age of twenty-one or marriage," etc. The date of this will, and the fact that the poet was born after that date in the same year—admitting the improbability of similar circumstances occurring in another family of this uncommon name at this precise period—seem to point conclusively to the testator as his father. But there is other evidence. This Thomas Cowley appointed, as one of the overseers of his will, his brother-in-law Humphrey Clarke. Abraham Cowley, the poet, in his will, dated 18 Sep. 1665 and proved 31 Aug. 1667, made his brother Thomas his sole heir and executor, and in the will of this Thomas Cowley, also of Chertsey, dated 20 May and proved 1 Sep. 1669, the first direction is that the legacies given by his late dear brother Abraham Cowley in his last will, and not yet paid, be at once discharged. It is certain, therefore, that the poet and this last Thomas Cowley were brothers; and that the latter was a son of the Thomas Cowley who died in 1618, the fact that he bequeathed £200 to his cousin Humphrey Clarke affords at least probable evidence, which is strengthened by the fact that he also bequeathed £100 to the Stationers' Company. And again, neither the burial of Thomas Cowley, senior, nor of any Cowley, nor the baptism of Abraham, occurs in the parish register of St. Dunstan in the West, in the year 1618, or anywhere about that time, and it is there that they should be found, if the poet's father was "a grocer in Fleet Street near Chancery Lane." The early registers of St. Michael le Quern are unfortunately lost, so that no data can be obtained from them; but it seems from the foregoing facts almost, if not quite, certain that the poet was the posthumous son of Thomas Cowley, citizen and stationer of London, and Thomasine his wife.

It is proper and just to add that Mr. Peter Cunningham, in his edition of Dr. Johnson's Lives of the Poets (Murray, 1854, i. 3, etc.), first called attention to the error, and gave Cowley's true parentage, but without any corroborative evidence, which probably has induced subsequent writers to ignore his discovery. There was also an important error in his abstract of the father's will, which gave the poet a brother Andrew, instead of a sister Audrey, and thus led to the further misstatement that he had an "only sister Katherine."

Cowley was educated at Westminster School, became a Scholar of Trinity College, Cambridge, in 1636, and was a Fellow of that house in 1642. He was created M.D., at Oxford, 2 Dec. 1657.

This entry in the text shows pointedly the necessity of a revision of that portion of the Abbey Register printed in Collectanea. In that work the date of burial is given as "the 17th of Augnst," and the place of interment as "at the foot of the steps to Henry 7th's Chapel." It will be seen that in Collectanea the entry relating to Cowley, and that respecting the Countess of Clarendon (see her burial on the 17th), were jumbled together, her name being omitted altogether. This mutilated entry misled the editor of Pepys's Diary (see his note sub 10 Aug. 1667) into making a charge of inaccuracy against Evelyn, who stated in his Diary that he attended Cowley's funeral on the 3rd of August. Evelyn was strictly correct. Pepys, however, only learned on the 10th of August that Cowley was dead, although he had been buried, in great state, a full week before!

<sup>5</sup> On her monument she was thus described: "Mistris Elizabeth Edmonds, spinster, the daughter of Walter Edmonds, of Bayley's Court, in the county of Sussex, Gent., who departed this life the eighteenth of August, in the year of our Lord 1667, aged 82." Her will, dated the 13th, was proved 23 Aug. 1667, by her nephew Thomas Edmonds.

<sup>6</sup> Infant son of Thomas Donkley (see his burial 8 Feb. 1688-9), by Elizabeth, dau. of John Fox, Esq. (see their marriage 18 May 1665). He was baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, the 15th of the same month.

Bart., and second wife and widow of Edward Carne, of Ewenny, co. Glamorgan, Esq., who survived him until 1685. He died, according to his Funeral Certificate (Coll. Arm.), in the parish of St. Clement Danes, on the 8th of September, without issue ; but see the burial of (probably) an infant dau. 8 Jan. 1663-4. His age was about twenty-eight.

<sup>2</sup> Thomas Gorges, third son of Sir Edward Gorges, of Wraxall, co. Somerset, Kt., by Dorothy, dau. of Sir George Speke, of White Lackington, in the same county, Kt. He was baptized at Wraxall 13 Feb. 1602-3. He matriculated at Oxford, from Queen's College, 1 Feb. 1621-2, was afterwards a Fellow of All Souls, and was created D.D. 19 July 1661. He was installed Arch-deacon of Winchester 19 Mch. 1660-1, Prebendary of Westminster 16 Oct. 1661, and Prebendary of Salisbury 23 Apl. 1663, and became Rector of Wraxall 12 Apl. in the latter year. He died, without issue, 12 Dec. 1667. His will, dated 17 Aug. 1667, with a nuncupative codicil on the day of his death, was proved 2 Jan. 1667-8, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, by his brother Samuel, and on 3 Mch. following, in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury, by his kinsmen Samuel Langford and Hugh Tynte. See his wife's burial 13 Dec. 1662.

<sup>6</sup> Third dau. of Thomas Highgate, of Hayes, Midx., Esq., by his wife Margery Skipwith, and widow of Rev. Dr. Peter Heylyn (see his burial 10 May 1662). They were married in Magdalen College Chapel, Oxford, 28 Oct. 1628. Her will, dated 29 Nov. 1664, was proved 18 Mch. 1667-8, by her son Thomas Heylyn.

<sup>7</sup> Poet Laureate, succeeding Ben Jonson in 1637. He was second son of John Davenant, of the city of Oxford, vintner, Alderman and once Mayor of that city, by his wife Jane Shepherd, of Durham, and was baptized at St. Martin's, Oxford, 3 Mch. 1605-6. He was knighted at the siege of Gloucester, in Sep. 1643. He died, at his house in little Lincoln's Inn Fields, 7 April, and a creditor, named John Alway, administered to his estate, 6 May 1668, the relict Dame Mary renouncing. In a pedigree in the College of Arms (4 D. 14. p. 177) she is described as "Henrietta-Maria du Tremblay, widow, of an ancient family in St. Germain Beaupré in France." By her he left several young children. His first wife, Anne, was buried at St. Andrew's, Holborn, 5 Mch. 1654-5. Aubrey, in his Lives of Eminent Men (ii. 309), says that she was the daughter of a physician, and that by her he had one son, who had been dead above twenty years when he wrote.

<sup>6</sup> John Thorndike, brother of Rev. Herbert Thorndike (see his burial 13 July 1672). He was son of Francis Thorndike, of Scambleshy, co. Lincoln, Esq., by Alice, dau. of Edward Coleman, of Walsingham, co. Suffolk. He emigrated to New England as early as 1632, and died while on a visit to England, having made his will 29 July previous, before starting on his voyage. See the baptisms, of his son 18 Apl. 1663, and his two daughters 10 Apl. 1669.

<sup>10</sup> Samuel Bolton, son of Rev. Robert Bolton, Rector of Broughton, co. Northampton, where he was born. He matriculated at Oxford, from Lincoln College, 31 Oct. 1634, aged fifteen. On the restoration of K. Charles II. he became one of his Chaplains in Ordinary, and was created D.D. at Oxford, by royal command, 12 June 1661. He was installed Prebendary of Westminster 23 Apl. 1662, and became Rector of St. Peter-le-Poor, London, 22 Dec. 1662, and of St. Leonard's, Foster Lane, London, 26 Jan. 1662-3. He died 11 Feb., and his will, dated 27 Dec. 1668, was proved 22 Feb. 1668-9, by his relict Mary. The only bequests it contained were sundry books to the Abbey Library, and £20 to his youngest sister Mrs. Sarah Simpkin.

<sup>11</sup> His will, dated 12 Jan., was proved in the Court of the Dean and Chapter 17 Feb. 1668-9, by his brother John Cox. He described himself as a gentleman, and was evidently in the service of Richard Newman, of Fifehead-Magdalen, co. Dorset, Esq., who was then in the public service at Westminster. He directed to be buried in the Cloisters near the children of his master. His mother, two brothers, and three sisters, were all living at Fifehead-Magdalen.

<sup>3</sup> Younger son of Richard Stapylton, of Carlton, co. York, Esq., by Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Henry Pierrepont, Kt. He was educated at Douay, but returned to England and became a Protestant, and was a dramatic poet of some note. He was knighted by K. Charles I., at Nottingham, 13 Sep. 1642, and was with him at the battle of Edgehill. He was also one of the Gentlemen Ushers of the Privy Chamber to K. Charles II., both when Prince of Wales and after his restoration. He died 11 July. His will, dated 11 June, was proved 29 July 1669, by Elizabeth Simpson, of Westminster, widow, to whom he left the bulk of his estate (although he had a wife living, whom he barely mentioned), in consideration, as he said, of the great care she had taken of him during his long illness. (He is said to have married a Mrs. Hammond, widow, née Mainwaring.)

<sup>4</sup> Sir Thomas Howard, second son of Thomas, first Earl of Suffolk, by his second wife, Catherine, eldest dau. and coheir of Sir Henry Knevet, of Charlton, Wilts, Kt., and widow of Richard Rich, Esq. He was created, 23 Jan. 1621-2, Baron Howard of Charlton, and Viscount Andover, installed K.G. 13 Dec. 1625, and advanced to the Earldom of Berkshire 7 Feb. 1625-6. He died 16 July, aged about ninety. See the burial of his Countess 24 Aug. 1672, and of his son 8 Sep. 1698.

<sup>5</sup> Edward, fourth son of Sir Stephen Fox, Kt., by his first wife, Elizabeth (see his brother's burial Nov. 1667, and note thereto). According to his monument, he died the preceding day, aged six years and one month.

<sup>4</sup> Anne, reputed dau. of John Clarges (or Clargis, as the name is written in his will), a farrier in the Savoy, by his wife Anne Leaver. She married, first, at St. Laurence-Pountney, London, 28 Feb. 1632-3, Thomas Radford (or Redford, as the name is written in her father's will), also said to have been a farrier, but afterwards a servant to Prince Charles, residing in the Mews, in St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., from whom she separated in 1649, but of whose death before her second marriage no evidence appears to have been obtained. (It was probably his father who, as "Thomas Redford, farrier, servant to Prince Charles," was buried at St. Martin in the Fields 20 Nov. 1624.) She married, secondly, 23 Jan. 1652-3, at St. George's, Southwark, co. Surrey, General George Monk, afterwards created Duke of Albemarle (see his burial 29 Apl. 1670). She died 29 Jan., more than three weeks after her husband (although he was not buried until three months later), said to be aged 54. (Her father, whose will was dated 20 Dec. 1648 and proved 1 Jan. following, left her £30, and made her joint executrix with her brother Thomas, who was afterwards knighted.)

<sup>7</sup> The Hon. Penelope Needham, youngest dau. of Robert, second Viscount Kilmorey, by his second wife, Helen, dau. and heir of Thomas Dutton, of Dutton, co. Chester, Esq., and relict of Gilbert, Lord Gerard of Bromley. She was the first wife of Major-General Randolph Egerton (see his burial 5 Nov. 1681), and died two days before in childbirth of a dau, Elizabeth, who was baptized at St. Giles in the Fields the day after her mother's burial, and buried there 20 July 1671. An elder dau., Christiana, was also baptized there, 25 Jan. 1668-9, who survived her father. See her son's burial 30 May 1670.

Devon, 6 Dec. 1608, and for his well known services was created Duke of Albemarle 7 July 1660. He died the preceding 3rd of January. His will, dated 8 June 1665, was proved 3 Jan. 1669-70, the very day of his death. See the burials, of his brother 20 Dec. 1661, his wife 28 Feb. 1669-70, and his son 4 July 1689.

<sup>2</sup> According to his monument, he was son of Anthony Blount, Gent., and died 6 May, aged 18 years. He was admitted into Westminster School in 1667.

<sup>4</sup> See burials 25 Feb. 1674-5 and 14 Dec. 1677, evidently of children of the same parents, probably minor officials or servants about the Abbey. The surname, according to the monument of this child, was Fitch.

<sup>5</sup> Probably a minor official or servant connected with the Abbey. See marriages 6 Nov. 1679 and 1 Jan. 1688-9, and burials 24 Apl. 1678, 14 Dec. 1682, and 4 Mch. 1685-6, probably all of members of the same family.

<sup>8</sup> Said by Anthony Wood to have been born in Oxford or its vicinity, but he matriculated from Christ Church 16 Mch. 1620-1, aged 18, as of London, and son of a gentleman. He was installed Prebendary of York 2 Sep. 1641, and of Salisbury 6 Oct. 1645, and was collated to a stall at Durham 20 Mch. 1648-9, but not then installed. During the Commonwealth he taught school at Dublin, and at Ilaves, co. Midx. After the Restoration, he was installed at Durham 2 Nov. 1660, and resumed his other stalls. He was created D.D. at Oxford 1 Apl. 1661, and 20 Jan. following installed Prebendary of Westminster, and was Sub-dean at his death. He is said to have died on the 18th of July, and the unofficial register gives that as the date of his burial. His will, dated 21 Jan. 1668-9, was proved 12 Aug. 1670. His residuary legatees were his sister, Mrs. Katharine Warne, then residing in Ireland, and her three children.

<sup>9</sup> Christopher Hatton, second of that name, and eldest surviving son of Sir Christopher Hatton, K.B. (see his burial 11 Sep. 1619), by Alice, eldest dau. of Thomas Fanshawe, of Ware Park, Herts, Esq., Remembrancer of the Exchequer to Q. Elizabeth. He was baptized at Barking, co. Essex, 11 July 1605. He was created K.B. at the Coronation of K. Charles I., and Baron Hatton, of Kirby, co. Northampton, 29 July 1643. He died at Kirby 4 July 1670, and his son Christopher administered to his estate on the 21st of the same month. See the burials, of (probably) his wife 11 Jan. 1672-3, and of his children Nov. 1638, 2 Oct. 1639, 16 Feb. 1641-2, and 3 June 1712.

<sup>5</sup> Son of Edward Thornburgh, Esq. (third son of Sir Thomas Thornburgh, of Elmley Lovett, co. Worcester. Kt.), by Mary, his second wife, eldest dau. of John Fox, Esq., Clerk of the Acatry to K. Charles II. (see his burial 23 Nov. 1691). He was baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 9 Nov. 1669. His father appears to have also died about this time, or soon after, as his mother was remarried, at St. Paul's, Covent Garden, 25 Apl. 1672, to John Rawkins, of St. Martin in the Fields, Gent. See the burial of a child of that marriage 5 Feb. 1673-4.

<sup>6</sup> The place of interment sufficiently indicates the humble rank of the father, as it appears to have been appropriated exclusively to the lower order of officials or menial servants about the Abbey.

- 1671 [Apl.] (—) *The Lady Margaret Noel, wife to Sir William Noel, Bart., and daughter to John, Lord Lovelace, Baron of Hurly, by his wife the Lady Anne, daughter to Thomas, Lord Wentworth, Baron of Nettlested and Earl of Cleveland, died the 14th of April, 1671, aged 27. <sup>1</sup> (This entry does not occur in either the official or unofficial Register, but on a loose slip of paper, of which there are several in the chirography of the period, evidently notes from which the clerk transcribed his official entries. All the others occur in their appropriate places in the Register. From the minuteness of the description, especially of the precise place of interment, there seems no doubt that the burial took place in the Abbey, but from some cause the clerk neglected to record it. The matter for wonder is that this loose slip of paper has been preserved so long that now, after a lapse of two complete centuries, its contents can be placed permanently on record.) She was third dau. of John, second Lord Lovelace, by Lady Anne, afterwards Baroness Wentworth, and was married in 1660 to Sir William Noel, second Bart. of Kirkby-Mallory, co. Leicester. Through her second son, John, she was ancestress of the late Lady Byron, wife and widow of the celebrated poet. Her husband remarried, in 1672, Frances, third dau. of Humble, Lord Ward, and died 13 Apl. 1675, in his thirty-third year.

<sup>1</sup> Sir Henry De Vye, of Guernsey. His mother appears to have been Rachel, eldest dau. of Sir Philip Carteret, of St. Owen's, Jersey (by Rachel, dau. and heir of Sir George Paulet), whose first husband was a Beauvoir. He was for twenty years resident at Brussels, and was created a Baronet 3 Sep. 1649. In Sep. 1660 he was appointed Secretary for the French tongue and Chancellor of the Order of the Garter, and in 1662 he was Comptroller of the Household to the Duke of York. According to Anthony Wood, he was created M.D. at Oxford, 28 Sep. 1663. He married his cousin, Margaret, third dau. of Sir Philip Carteret, of St. Owen's, Kt., by whom he had a son, Sir Charles, at whose death the baronetcy became extinct, and a dau., Anne-Charlotte, who married John, Lord Frescheville. He died 20 Nov. His will is dated in 1669 (the day and month omitted), and he described himself as Knight and Baronet, Chancellor of the Garter, etc., and as then aged seventy-one and upwards. It was proved, 15 Feb. 1671-2, by his son Sir Charles.

<sup>5</sup> Son of Arthur Ingram, of Temple-Newsom, co. York, Esq., by his second wife, Alice Ferrers. He suffered greatly for his loyalty, and after the Restoration was made Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, and one of the Privy Council. He died 13 Feb. His will, as Sir Thomas Ingram, Kt., of Isleworth, Middx., was dated the 9th and proved the 27th of the same month. See the burials, of his only dau. 12 June 1651, and of his wife 27 Mch. 1680.

<sup>9</sup> He was elected to Oxford from St. Peter's College, Westminster, and matriculated from Christ Church 13 July 1666, aged seventeen, as son of Humphrey Jones, of London, paying the fees of a plebeian's son. He was B.A. 17 May 1670.

 March 23 *Count* of Malbury dyed.*<sup>2</sup>
 1672 April 27 Mrs. Elizabeth, wife of Mr. Nicholas Coply:<sup>3</sup> in the North Cloister.
 May 11 Martha, wife of Mr. Adam Osgood, Clerk of the Works:<sup>4</sup> in the North Cloister.
 June 29 Sir Fretzvil Hollis,<sup>5</sup> slain in the Engagement against the Dutch: in St. Edmund's Chapel.

<sup>2</sup> (This entry is in the unofficial register only, and the Lady named was not buried in the Abbey; but, as she disappeared entirely from the histories of the noble family with which she had been connected, and was identified only after much difficulty, it seems proper that the entry should not be omitted.) She was Jane, third dau. of John, first Lord Butler of Bramfield, by Elizabeth Villiers, half-sister of George, first Duke of Buckingham, and was the third wife and relict of James Ley, first Earl of Marlborough, who died 14 Mch. 1627-8, to whom she had been married about seven years. She almost immediately remarried (being "a young, beautyfull, and rich widow," as her second husband recorded upon her monument) William Ashburnham, Esq., Cofferer of the Household to K. Charles II., second son of Sir John Ashburnham, Kt. She was buried in the family vault at Ashburnham, co. Sussex, 28 Mch. 1672, and an elaborate monument erected over her remains. Her second husband was buried with her 16 Dec. 1679. She left no issue by either husband.

<sup>5</sup> Sir Frescheville Holles, Kt., only surviving son of Gervase Holles, of Great Grimsby, co. Lincoln, Esq., the celebrated antiquary and Master of the Requests, by his second wife, Elizabeth, dau. of Lieut.-Col. William Molesworth. According to a horoscope in Ashmole MS. 243 (Bod. Lib.) p. 232, he was born 8 June 1642, at 6 o'clock p.m. He greatly distinguished himself in the sea-fight with the Dutch in 1665, and received the honour of knighthood. He finally fell in the naval battle of Southwold Bay, 28 May 1672. He married (Mar. Lie. Fac. 24 Nov. 1662) Jane, fourth dau. of Richard Lewis (son of John Lewis, of Marr, co. York, Esq.), and relict of Valentine Crome, of London, who survived him, but by whom he left no issue. In a will dated 17 May 1665, he then going to sea in command of a man-of-war, occurs the following interesting passage: "In case my body should be brought to land to be buried, I desire that some stone may be laid over me, with this inscription: 'Know, reader, whosoever thou be, if I had lived, 'twas my intent not to have owed my memory to any other monument but what my sword should raise for me of honour and of victory.' " This will was proved 5 June 1672. A later one, dated 25 Apl. 1672, with a nuncupative codicil, 23 May, then on board the "Cambridge," of which he was commander, was afterwards discovered, and proved 2 June 1673.

<sup>6</sup> Edward Montagu, only surviving son and heir of Sir Sidney Montagu (younger brother of Henry, first Earl of Manchester), by Paulina, third dau. of John Pepys, of Cottenham, co. Cambridge, Esq. He was born 27 July 1625, and married, at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 7 Nov. 1642, Jemima, eldest dau. of John, first Lord Crewe, of Stene. He was created Earl of Sandwich, etc., 12 July 1660, having been invested with the Order of the Garter the preceding 28th of May. His gallantry as a naval commander is a part of the history of the country, but his end was unnecessarily tragic. Refusing to quit his ship in the last extremity, he was blown up in her, with a few sailors who would not leave him. This occurred during the battle in Southwold Bay, 28 May 1672. His will, dated 21 Nov. 1669, was proved 7 Sep. 1672.

<sup>1</sup> The well known ecclesiastical writer. He was third son of Francis Thorndike, of Scamblesby, co. Lincoln, Esq., by Alice, dau. of Edward Coleman, of Wadingfield, Suffolk, and was born about 1598. He was educated at Cambridge, and became a Fellow of Trinity College, but never proceeded to the degrees of Divinity. He was installed Prebendary of Lincoln 12 April 1636, but resigned his stall in 1640, becoming Vicar of Claybrook, co. Leicester, and Chaplain to James, first Duke of Richmond. On 2 July 1642 he was instituted to the Rectory of Barley, Herts, from which he retired a year later. During the Commonwealth he employed himself with his books, and on 5 Sep. 1661 he was installed Prebendary of Westminster. He died at Chiswick, Midx., 11 July 1672. See his brother's burial 3 Nov. 1668.

<sup>2</sup> Eldest son of John Jones, of the city of Worcester, Gent., by Ann Dews, of Powick, co. Worcester. He matriculated at Oxford, from Christ Church, 24 Oct. 1634, aged 17, and proceeded to the degree of D.D. 19 Oct. 1660, having been installed Prebendary of Westminster 5 July in that year. He married, at Christ Church Cathedral, Oxford, 17 Dec. 1643 (being then B.D.), Philippa, dau. of Rev. Dr. Samuel Fell, Dean of Christ Church, who survived him until 3 Dec. 1683. He died at Westminster, 12 July 1672. His will, dated 1 May 1671, was proved 1 Nov. 1672. See his son's baptism 10 Dec. 1663, and the marriages of his daughters, 3 Dec. 1668 and 7 Feb. 1675-6.

<sup>3</sup> He is said to have been brought up in the Chapel, but joined the royal army and obtained a Captain's commission in 1642, retaining the title until his death. He was Master of the Children at the Coronation of K. Charles II. Anthony Wood says that he died of grief because his papil, Pelham Humphrey, excelled him on the lute. He died 13 July, apparently intestate.

<sup>5</sup> He is mentioned in the Chapter Book as Clerk of the Works as early as 26 Apl. 1662. See his wife's burial 11 May preceding, and that of his dau. 7 Sep. 1668. His brother, Richard Osgood, administered to his estate, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, 25 Sep. 1672.

<sup>6</sup> In his will, dated 11 Aug. 1672, it is stated that he was a native of the city of Limerick, in Ireland, but then sick in London. From its contents he was evidently a Spanish merchant of considerable wealth. He directed to be buried in the Abbey, and left bequests to his mother Joane Hally, his brother James White, and his sisters Margaret, Phillis, and Alson White, and also to his cousin-german Ignatius White, probably the one of that name who, as Ignatius Vitus alias White, of Limerick, was created a Baronet 29 June 1677. The will was proved, 31 Aug. 1672, by the executors, two London merchants.

<sup>2</sup> Letters of administration to his estate were granted, 28 Mch. 1673, by the Court of the Dean and Chapter, to a creditor, his daughter Honora Collins renouncing. A petition of his to the Lords of the Council, dated 5 Mch. 1628-9, shows that from having been a private in the army he rose to the office of serjeant, then became ensign at the Isle of Rhé, shortly after lieutenant, and finally, his captain being slain at Rochelle, succeeded to his post and rank. He was now asking for his arrears of pay (Pub. Rec. Office, Dom. Chas. I., Vol. 138, No. 27).

<sup>4</sup> Born at Martley, near Worcester, in 1597, and educated at Oxford, where he signed the subscription book 30 Apl. 1613. He became a Fellow of Merton College in 1619, Rector of Lapworth, co. Warwick, 11 Jan. 1633-4, and afterwards Lecturer at St. Edmund's, Salisbury. After the Restoration he became Rector of Cheam, co. Surrey, and was installed Prebendary of Westminster 5 July 1660, proceeding to his degree of D.D., at Oxford, 19 Oct. following. He died 25 Dec., and, according to Anthony Wood, "after he had lived to be twice a child." His will, dated 21 Feb. 1667-8, was proved 30 Dec. 1672, by his relict Catherine, to whom he left all his estate, and who is alone named in it. See her burial, as Lady Heath, 30 May 1694.

<sup>5</sup> There can be little or no doubt that this entry refers to the mother and wife of Christopher, second Lord Hatton of Kirby, who were killed by an explosion of the powder magazine at Cornet Castle, Guernsey, 30 Dec. 1672. The entry itself is unsatisfactory, and the unofficial register does not explain it, as it merely says, under this date, "Lady Hatton's fu: in y<sup>e</sup> Abby"; but the dates and other circumstances so thoroughly accord that the identification is rendered nearly certain. The facts of this shocking occurrence, as gathered from the various histories of Guernsey, appear to be briefly these. Towards midnight, on the 29th of December, a terrific thunder-storm broke over Cornet Castle, the residence of Lord Hatton, then Governor of Guernsey, and about one o'clock on the morning of the 30th, according to the parish register of St. Peter-Port, the powder-magazine exploded, evidently from the effects of the lightning. The buildings were almost entirely demolished, and a number of persons killed outright. The dowager Lady Hatton, who was in the upper part of the castle, was crushed by the falling in of the ceiling of her apartment. Lady Hatton, the Governor's wife, who had fled to her children in the nursery, was also killed, with her waiting-woman and nurse, the latter being found dead with his lordship's second daughter in her arms, unhurt, though holding in her hands her usual plaything, a small silver cup, which was much battered and bruised. The youngest child, who lay in a cradle almost filled with rubbish, was likewise miraculously saved without the least injury, although the faithful nurse was killed, with the elder child in one arm, and her other hand on the cradle of the infant. But the preservation of Lord Hatton himself was even more marvellous. It is said that, by the force of the explosion, he was actually carried on his bed to the battlement of a wall some yards distant, and not awakened till a shower of hailstones fell upon his face. Of the building in which he had been sleeping, so complete had been its destruction that nothing was left standing but the frame of the door.

The question arising whether the persons so suddenly destroyed were not buried where they died, the Editor obtained the following verbatim copies of the entries relating to them in the parish register of St. Peter-Port:

It is evident from these entries that the bodies of these two ladies were not buried at St. Peter-Port. Where were they carried? The entry in the text seems to answer the question conclusively. Exactly eleven days from the date in the St. Peter-Port register—just time for the journey from Guernsey and the necessary preparations in London—we find "the Lady Hatton and her daughter" interred in Westminster Abbey, and doubtless in the vault of the Hatton family, where the husband of the elder lady and several of her children were already buried. It is natural and reasonable that she should have been interred with them, and not likely, under the peculiar circumstances, that the bodies of the two who had perished together should have been separated.

The elder lady was Elizabeth, eldest dau. and coheir of Sir Charles Montagu, Kt. (younger brother of Henry, first Duke of Manchester), by his second wife, Mary, fourth dau. of William Whitmore, Esq., citizen and alderman of London (not Sir William Whitmore, Kt., as usually stated). She was married, at Hackney, Midx., 8 May 1630, to Christopher Hatton, Esq., afterwards first Lord Hatton of Kirby (see his burial Aug. 1670), who was Governor of Guernsey at the time of his death. (See also the burials of her children, Nov. 1638, 2 Oct. 1639, 16 Feb. 1641-2, and 3 June 1712.)

The younger lady was Lady Cecile Tufton, fourth but third surviving dau. of John, second Earl of Thauet, by Lady Margaret Sackville, eldest dau. and coheir of Richard, third Earl of Dorset. She was baptized at Hothfield, Kent, 7 June 1648, and was therefore only in her 25th year at her death. She married Christopher, second Lord Hatton, who succeeded his father as Governor of Guernsey. He twice remarried, and his will, dated 7 May 1695, was proved 19 Feb. 1706-7. Her only surviving dau., Anne, became the second wife of Daniel Finch, sixth Earl of Winchelsea and second of Nottingham (see the burial of her dau, 18 Apl. 1742).

It may not be deemed amiss to perpetuate here the name and memory of the faithful nurse above mentioned. She was buried at St. Peter-Port, and in the register of that parish she is described as "M<sup>e</sup> Catherine Willis, nourrice de Madame la Gouvernante." The present record is her only monument, and is made two centuries after she perished so nobly.

<sup>2</sup> Relict of Walter James, Esq. (who had a Patent from the Dean and Chapter, 5 Dec. 1612, for the Bailiwick of Westminster and the office of Escheator), to whom she was married, at All Hallows Barking, London, 5 Sep. 1615. He was buried at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 21 Nov. 1634. According to his will, dated 17 Nov. and proved 6 Dec. 1634, she was a dau. of William Boulton, Esq., then living, and he left by her twelve children, all minors. Her own will, dated 10 Oct. 1672, with codicils 15 and 17 Jan. following, was proved 25 Feb. 1672-3. See the baptisms of her children, 22 Apl. 1624 and 10 Sep. 1627, the burial of her dau., Mary Fox, 8 Apl. 1637, and (probably) of her dau., Frances Grundy, 8 Apl. 1676.

<sup>2</sup> The baptisms of children of Lawrence Swettenham occur in the parish register of St. Margaret's, Westminster, as early as 1629, and in an Act Book of the Dean and Chapter, under date of 10 July 1639, Lawrence Swetnam, Gent., is mentioned as a churchwarden of St. Margaret. Thomas Swettenham, of Swettenham, co. Chester, Esq., who married, in 1602, Mary, dau. of John Birtles, of Birtles, Esq., had a third son named Lawrence.

<sup>4</sup> The person to whom we are indebted for the preservation of the earlier portions of the Abbey Registers. The name was indifferently written Tynchare and Tinker, and with or without the alias of Littleton. In his will he called himself "Tynchare alias Littleton," while of his three sons one signed "Littleton alias Tynchare," another "Littleton alias Tinker," and the third "Tinker alias Littleton." He himself signed the subscription book at Oxford, "Philip Tinker." This was 2 Nov. 1621, and as "Philip Tinker," of New College, he was B.A. 21 June 1625, and M.A. 3 July 1628. His name, however, is not in the matriculation register, nor in the records of New College, and he was probably one of the chaplains, or Bible clerks, of whom no list has been preserved. In the record of baptism of one of his daughters, at St. Gregory's, London 18 Oct. 1632, he is called a Petty Canon of St. Paul's. He was installed Chaunter of Westminster 11 Feb. 1660-1, and first appears among the Gentlemen of the Chapel Royal at the Coronation of K. Charles II., 23 Apr. following. On the 29th of Nov. in the same year he was sworn Confessor of his Majesty's Household, and retained that office until his death. His will dated 20 Feb. 1672-3, was proved 30 May 1673. His wife Mary, who survived him, appears to have been a dau. of William Elly, brother of Rev. John Elly, Canon of Windsor. See the marriages of his children 18 June 1663, 21 Jan. 1663-4, and 17 Dec. 1672.

<sup>6</sup> James Hamilton, eldest son of Sir George Hamilton (fourth son of James, first Earl of Abercorn), Baronet of Ireland, by Mary Butler, third dau. of Walter, Viscount Thurles, and sister of the first Duke of Ormond. He was Colonel of a regiment of Foot, and was appointed Groom of the Bedchamber to K. Charles II. about Nov. 1664. He was made Ranger of Hyde Park 29 Nov. 1671, and Hamilton Place, Piccadilly, is said to have thus derived its name. He died 6 June, and his relict Elizabeth administered to his estate 4 July following. She was dau. of John, first Lord Colepeper, and by her he was father of James, sixth Earl of Abercorn (see his burial 3 Dec. 1734). She survived him until 1709. Charnock, in his Biographia Navalis, commends him with Capt. Thomas Hamilton, who was in the same battle. This Colonel Hamilton

<sup>3</sup> Sir Robert Moray (as he appears to have always signed his name), son of Sir Robert Murray (or Moray) of Craigie, by a dau. of George Halket of Pitferrian. He was an eminent mathematician and natural philosopher, and one of the originators and first President of the Royal Society. He was knighted at Oxford 10 Jan. 1642-3, and after the Restoration was Secretary of State and Privy Councillor for Scotland. He was also for some time (at least nominally) one of the Lords of Session and Lord Justice-Clerk. Bishop Burnet styled him "the wisest and worthiest man of the age." He died, suddenly, in his pavilion in the garden at Whitehall, on the 4th of July, aged about seventy. According to Douglas (Peerage of Scotland, Wood's Edit., i. 168), he married the Hon. Sophia Lindsay, eldest dau. of Sir David Lindsay, first Lord Balcarres, who died 2 Jan. 1653 and was buried at Balcarres ; but this does not accord with Anthony Wood's account of him, which says that he was "a single man—an abhorrer of women." (See a good memoir of him in Chambers' Biographical Dictionary of Eminent Scotsmen.)

<sup>6</sup> Richard Le Neve, second son of John Le Neve, of Cavendish, co. Suffolk, Esq., by his wife Catherine (see her burial 29 July 1682). He was a Lieut. in the royal navy as early as 1666, and received his Captain's commission 4 Aug. 1671. He was slain on board his own frigate, the "Edgar," during an engagement with the Dutch on the 11th of Aug., aged only twenty-seven years. His nuncupative will was proved 16 Aug. 1673, by his brother John (see his burial 2 Aug. 1693).

<sup>7</sup> Richard Perrinchief. He had the rectory of St. Mildred, Poultry, London, shortly after the Restoration, and was created S. T. P. at Cambridge, as of Magdalen College, in 1663. He was installed Prebendary of Westminster 3 Nov. 1664, and of St. Paul's 2 Aug. 1667, and Archdeacon of Huntingdon 20 Apl. 1670. On the 1st of Feb. 1671-2 he had the united rectories of St. Mildred, Poultry, and St. Mary Colechurch, and retained all his preferments until his death. He was also Sub-Almoner to K. Charles II. According to the unofficial register, he died 31 Aug. His will, dated 26 Aug., was proved 16 Oct. 1673. It mentions no relations, except his sister Anne Clayton. See his wife's burial 15 June 1671.

<sup>2</sup> The distinguished naval commander, who died Admiral of the Blue. According to his grant of arms, he was "son of Lichfield Spragge, Captain of Horse, and Governor of Roscommon, who was slain in his Majesty's service against the rebels," who was "son of John Spragge, a captain of foot in Ireland during the reign of Q. Elizabeth." His mother was Mary, second daughter of Edward Legge, Vice-President of Munster, and he was therefore own cousin of George, first Lord Dartmouth. According to Dugdale's MS. list, he was knighted on board his ship the "Triumph," 1 July 1665, but other authorities give the date 24 Sep. in that year. He was drowned, during an engagement with the Dutch off the coast of Holland, 11 Aug. 1673. His will, dated 22 May, was proved 3 Nov. 1673, and commences with the characteristic words "being now ready to engage the enemy." He is said (by Le Neve) to have married at Brussels, before 1660, but his wife is not mentioned in his will, and he left no legitimate issue. He bequeathed £300 to his sister Anne, then wife of Hugh Kelly (one of his executors, Sir Joseph Sheldon being the other), and £200 to his cousin John Spragg; but the rest of his estate, which was considerable, he left to one Dorothy Dennis and his children by her, viz. William, Edward, and Dorothy Spragg. (The latter was baptized at St. Giles in the Fields, Midx., 20 Mch. 1669-70, as "dau. of Sir Edward Spragg and Dame Dorothy"! ) The son William, according to Le Neve, was a captain of marines in 1697.

<sup>6</sup> Younger sister of John, first Lord Lucas, of Shenfield, and second wife of William Cavendish, first Duke of Newcastle, to whom married, at Paris, in 1645 (see his burial 22 Jan. 1676-7). According to her funeral certificate, she died at Welbeck, 15 Dec. 1673, in her fifty-seventh year. She was a prolific authoress of considerable note in her day, as the catalogue of her plays, poems, orations, and philosophical discourses abundantly testifies; but few of them are to be found in modern libraries. She had no issue.

According to his monument he died 9 Feb., aged one year, five months, and fifteen days. See the burials of his brothers and sisters, 6 Dec. 1679, 5 Sep. 1683, 13 Aug. 1685, and 19 Mch. 1704-5.

<sup>4</sup> John Wilson, the celebrated Doctor of Music, believed to have been the "Jack Wilson" of Shakespeare's stage. He was born at Faversham in Kent, and appears to have been connected with the Chapel Royal in the reign of K. Charles I. He was created Mus. Doc. at Oxford in 1644, and resided there and in the vicinity many years. In 1656 he was constituted Professor of Music in the University, but succeeded Henry Lawes as Gentleman of the Chapel 22 Oct. 1662, or, more probably, was then reinstated in his old position, and returned to London. According to his monument he died 22 Feb., aged seventy-eight years, ten months, and seventeen days. His will, dated 30 Apl. 1671, was proved 18 Mch. 1673-4, by his relict Anne, to whom he left all his estate, except a trifling legacy to his dau. Mrs. Rebecca Bowerman, probably by his first wife. See his second marriage 31 Jan. 1670-1.

<sup>5</sup> He was admitted Gentleman of the Chapel Royal 25 Nov. 1661, and, according to the Cheque Book, was in holy orders. He died 2 Mch. See the burial (probably) of his wife, 27 Apl. 1685.

him, and he also appears to have incurred the hostility of the Cromwellians, so that it is said his life was in danger. Giving out that he had fled to the continent, he retired to an obscure house in Lambeth Marsh, where he lived in secrecy until the Restoration. He was in high favour with K. Charles II., who assisted him in various ways, made him Farmer of the Welsh mines, and, in 1670, a Gentleman of the Privy Chamber. His ill fortune, however, elung to him, and, according to Aubrey, he died £120,000 in debt. The same authority states that he died "at Capt. Norton's, in the gate at Scotland Yard" (Letters, ii. 261), but errs as to the precise period of his decease. His nuncupative will, made "immediately before he departed this life," on the 21st of April 1674, was proved 23 May following, by Col. Thomas Colepeper, of St. Stephen's, in Kent, whom he named as his executor. No other person is mentioned in it. In the probate act he is described as late of Enstone, co. Oxford, but as dying in the parish of St. Martin in the Fields, Midx. It is not generally known that he married Dame Anne, widow of Sir William Waad, Lieutenant of the Tower and Clerk of the Privy Council, who died in 1623; but in a petition at the Public Record office (Dom. Cal. Chas. II), dated in 1660, in which he prayed for a renewal of the lease of Belsize manor, Hampstead, the fact is distinctly stated. She died in 1645. It also appears, from the parish register of Enstone, that he had a former wife, named Isabell, by whom he had a son Francis (evidently named after Lord Chancellor Bacon, in whose service he had been), who was baptized and buried at Enstone in 1626.

<sup>1</sup> Pelham Humphrey, as he signed his will. He was educated as a chorister, and admitted a Gentleman of the Chapel Royal 24 Jan. 1666-7. On the death of his old master, Capt. Henry Cooke, 13 July 1672, he succeeded him as Master of the children. On the 8th of Aug. following he had a joint patent, with Thomas Purcell, as Composer in Ordinary for the Violins to his Majesty. He died, at Windsor, 14 July 1674, aged only twenty-seven. His will, dated 23 Apl., was proved in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, 30 July 1674, by his relict Catherine. It mentions no relations, except his "cousin Betty Jelfe;" but he is said to have been a nephew of Col. John Humphrey, a noted Cromwellian and Bradshaw's sword-bearer. See the burial of his dau. 23 Feb. 1673-4.

<sup>2</sup> The unofficial register calls him Clement Coke, and says that he was buried 10 Aug. According to his monument he was son of Robert Coke, Esq., who was son of Clement Coke of Langford, co. Derby, and of the Inner Temple, Esq., who was younger son of Sir Edward Coke, Kt., Lord Chief Justice, etc., and died 8 Aug., in his eighteenth year. He was admitted to Westminster School in 1673.

<sup>3</sup> The unofficial register says "Mrs. Frances Trevor." From the place of interment, and manner in which the entry is recorded, it is not likely that she belonged to any of the noble or gentle families of the name, but was more probably a domestic, or the wife of some minor official about the Abbey.

<sup>5</sup> The unofficial register says "Madam Stanhop." There can be little hesitation in identifying this lady as one of the well-known Maids of Honour to the Queen often mentioned in the annals of the Court of K. Charles II., viz. Henrietta-Maria Price. She was one of the daus. of Sir Herbert Price (see his burial 3 Feb. 1677-8) by Goditha, second dau. and coheir of Sir Henry Arden, of Park Hall, co. Warwick, Kt., Lady of the Privy Chamber to the Queen Mother. She appears to have been a Maid of Honour from 1662 until her marriage, which took place at St. Andrew's, Holborn, 4 Dec. 1673. Her husband was Alexander Stanhope, of the Inner Temple, Esq., a younger son of Sir John Stanhope, of Elvaston, co. Derby, Kt., and was then a widower. In the marriage allegation (Vic. Gen. 2 Dec. 1673) her age is stated as "about twenty-five;" but she was probably somewhat older, unless she became a Maid of Honour when only fourteen. It is proper to state that her husband did not administer to her estate until 2 June 1677, nearly three years after the date in the text; but, as she disappears from the Court annals after the latter date, and no record of her burial is to be found near the former, there seems no doubt of her identity, and it is probable that she died in childbirth.

<sup>5</sup> Her will, dated 23 Nov., was proved 14 Dec. 1674, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, by her cousin "Mr. William Gawen the younger, dwelling in the Bowling Alley" (the same who is mentioned in the notes to burials 8 Nov. 1669 and 30 Nov. 1674), to whom she left £200; and to his wife Margaret, also called her "cousin," sundry bequests. In the probate act she is styled "Beatrice Buckland," but she signed the will "Beatrice Bockland," and was described as of St. Margaret's, Westminster, spinster. To her mother, Mrs. Ellen Bockland, she left all her plate, and to her brother, Maurice Bockland, Esq., £500. The will contains no other bequests, and affords no further clew to her identity.

<sup>6</sup> Edward Hyde, third son of Henry Hyde, of Purton and Dinton, Wilts, by Mary, dau. and heir of Edward Langford, of Trowbridge, in the same county, and born at Dinton 18 Feb. 1605-9. He was knighted at Oxford 22 Feb. 1642-3, and declared Lord High Chancellor, at Bruges, 29 Jan. 1657-8, entering fully upon the duties of the post 1 June 1660. He was created Baron Hyde, of Hindon, 3 Nov. 1660, and Viscount Cornbury and Earl of Clarendon 20 Apl. 1661. Removed from his high office, impeached, and banished, in 1667, he died in exile at Rouen, in France, 19 Dec. 1674. His will, dated on the 11th of that month, was not proved in England

<sup>2</sup> He was of Trinity College, Cambridge, where A.B. 1667 and A.M. 1671, and, according to his monument, died 25 Mch. See his father's burial 17 June 1681, and his mother's 10 Jul. 1707.

<sup>3</sup> In Granger's Biographical History, iii. 394, is mentioned a portrait of him, on the second impressions of which an inscription stated that he was, or had been, "Commissary for the Emperor of all Russia and Muscovia," and that he was created a Baronet of England, 31 Mar. 1660, by K. Charles II., at Igravenhaag. In his will, dated 18 Feb. 1674-5, he described himself as a Baronet, and of Kirby, co. Norfolk. The will was proved 16 Apl. 1675, by his niece, Mary Betton to whom he left his house in Norwich and his estate generally. He mentioned having long before purchased a house in Borrowe [? Burgh], co. Norfolk, in the name of his dau. Mary Webster, which was then occupied by his nephew Henry Gouldsworth, to whom he bequeathed it. The will also mentions his sister in Holland, Mrs. Catharine Lucasz ; his cousin Mr. John Webster, of London, draper, and his two brothers, all then in Barbadoes ; and his cousin Mr. John Webster, and his brother Mr. Jacob Webster, both in Cheapside. He appealed to several eminent personages to aid his executrix in obtaining divers and great sums of money due to him from their late and present Majesties. At the date of his will he appears to have been residing in lodgings in Durham Yard. His name is not recognized in any of the lists of baronets although there seems to be no doubt of his creation.

<sup>4</sup> The unofficial register gives the name as Gilbert. He appears to have been a child of or Abraham Gilbert, citizen and joyner of London, and grandchild of Sebastian Currall (see his burial 1 June 1684), then one of the twelve privileged almsmen of the Abbey.

<sup>7</sup> The unofficial register says "Mr. Rich : Johnson." He was probably some minor official or servant about the Abbey.

<sup>8</sup> Infant son of Sir Samuel Morland, Bart., by his second wife, Carola (see her burial 14 Oct. 1674). He appears to have been born the 4th, and baptized 16 Oct. 1674, at St. Margaret's Westminster, although in the record of his baptism he is called Edward.

thereto. The unofficial register gives the date of burial as "July 7," and the entry precedes that of Lewis Templer. He was admitted to Gray's Inn 12 July 1641, and became a Gentleman of the Privy Chamber in 1660. He is said in the books to have married a dau. of Sir Henry Clerke, Bart., but this is an error. He married, at St. Giles in the Fields, Midx., 10 July 1642, Anne, dau. of Sir Robert Clerke, Att. of Pleshey, co. Essex, by his wife Dame Judith, dau. of Sir William Daniel, of London, Kt. The marriage allegation (Bp. Lond.), dated 27 June 1642, describes her as a spinster, aged about twenty, and distinctly gives her parentage as above, while the wills of both her father and mother confirm it. His own age was stated in the allegation as about nineteen, and he was therefore about fifty-two at his death. Both he and his wife appear to have died intestate. See the burials of their sons, 13 Aug. 1687 and 11 May 1689. Their dau. Judith was principal legatee, and named executrix, in the will of her grandmother, Dame Judith Clerke, in 1655. Their dau. Mary became the wife, first, of Richard Wiseman, Esq., the eminent Serjeant Surgeon to the King, and secondly, of Thomas Harrison, Esq., and was buried at St. Paul's, Covent Garden, 13 Aug. 1680.

<sup>1</sup> Letters of administration were granted, 20 Jan. 1675-6, to the estate of Sir Alexander Hume, Kt., of the city of Westminster, to his nephew and next of kin, Alexander Hume, Esq. He became a Gentleman of the Privy Chamber to K. Charles II. in 1660.

<sup>4</sup> In the Cheque Book of the Chapel Royal he is called Captain Owen Phillips, and it is said that he was sworn a Groom of the Vestry in Aug. 1665, and died at Richmond, in Surrey, 26 Aug. 1675. In his will, without date, he is described as of St. Margaret's, Westminster, Gent., and it was proved 11 Sep. 1675, by his kinsman Hugh Howell, of Presteigne, co. Radnor, mercer; power being reserved to another kinsman, Rice Lewis, of London, clothdrawer. The only legacies in the will are £50 to his nephew, John James, of Blethnaugh, co. Radnor, and £100 to his son Owen James, the testator's godson; £10 to the poor of Blethnaugh; and the furniture, etc., at his lodgings, to his cousin Joane Long, widow.

<sup>5</sup> Eldest child of James, Duke of York (afterwards K. James II.), by his second wife, Mary-Beatrix-Eleanora D'Este, dau. of Alphonso, Duke of Modena, to whom married, at Dover, 21 Nov. 1673, and who died 8 May 1718. She was born 10 Jan. 1674-5, and died at St. James's Palace 3 Oct. 1675. See the burials of her brother and sisters, 13 Dec. 1677, 4 Mch. 1680-1, and 8 Oct. 1682.

<sup>6</sup> Seventh son by the first wife, and not named in the accounts of the family. See his brother's burial Nov. 1667, and note thereto.

<sup>7</sup> The unofficial register says "Mrs. Alice Haywood." See her husband's burial 17 July 1663. She was his executrix by the name of Alice, and her brother Richard Manning was an overseer named in his will, which also mentioned her niece Alice Goodson.

<sup>8</sup> Dr. Thomas Willis, the most celebrated physician of his day, and grandfather of Browne Willis, the well-known antiquary. He was son of Thomas Willis, of Great Bedwyn, Wilts, by Rachel Howell, of an ancient family at North Hinksey, Berks, and was born 27 Jan., and baptized at Great Bedwyn, 14 Feb. 1620-1. He matriculated at Oxford, from Christ Church, 3 Mch. 1636-7, and was B.A. 19 June 1639, M.A. 18 June 1642, M.B. 8 Dec. 1646, and M.D. 30 Oct. 1660, being then Sedley Professor of Natural Philosophy. He was one of the first Fellows of the Royal Society, and was elected Hon. Fellow of the Royal College of Physicians, London, Dec. 1664. He died 11 Nov., and his will, dated the 10th, was proved on the 24th of the same month. See the burial of his first wife 3 Nov. 1670, and his second marriage 1 Sep. 1672.

<sup>1</sup> Rightly Edward Woodroffe, as his name thus appears on his monument and in his will. He was appointed Surveyor to the Abbey 22 Oct. 1662. According to his monument, he died 16 Nov., in his fifty-fourth year. In his will, dated 11 Mch. 1673-4, he described himself as of St. Andrew's, Holborn, Gent., and appointed as his executors Mr. John Needham, Receiver General of the Abbey, and Mr. Walter Lapp, High Constable of St. Martin's le Grand. The latter alone proved the will 23 Dec. 1675. The will mentions only his dau, Lydia Dallow, his daughters Sarah and Margaret, minors, and his dau, Hall. See his wife's burial 14 Feb. 1665-6.

<sup>4</sup> According to her monument, she was dau. and coheir of John Partridge, of London, Gent., and second wife and widow of Andrew Palmer, Esq., Assay Master of England to Q. Elizabeth, and Kings James I. and Charles I., and died 4 Jan. in her seventy-sixth year. Her will, dated 24 Dec. 1675, was proved 14 Jan. 1675-6, by Charles Francklin, of Lincoln's Inn, Gent., who was her residuary legatee, and apparently a near relative.

<sup>5</sup> According to her monument, she was third dau. of Dr. Thomas Waldron, Physician in Ordinary to K. Charles II., and died 5 Feb., aged nineteen years, four months, and four days. See her father's burial 14 Feb. 1676-7, and her mother's 24 Jan. 1686-7.

<sup>6</sup> Dau. of Henry Braine, Esq., and relict of Sir Thomas Byron, who commanded the Prince of Wales's regiment under the Earl of Northampton in the fight at Hopton Heath, near Stafford, 19 Mch. 1642-3, when the Earl was killed and he severely wounded. Sir Thomas was buried in Christ Church Cathedral, Oxford, 9 Feb. 1643-4. Her will, as Dame Katherine Byron, of St. Martin in the Fields, widow, dated 11 Nov. 1675, was proved 18 Feb. 1675-6, by her two maid-servants, Elizabeth Hannah and Elizabeth Barry, to whom she left her pension of £21 per annum as an indigent officer's widow, and contains no other legacies.

afterwards Sir Roger Harsnett, was Sergeant at Arms to the House of Lords (see his burial 27 Oct. 1692). See also the burials of her daughters, 14 Oct. 1674 and 8 Nov. 1680, and probably of her son 20 Aug. 1675. The unofficial register gives the date of her burial as "May 17."

<sup>1</sup> Second wife of Edmund Pipes, Gent., Clerk of the Kitchen to the Abbey (see his third marriage 31 Aug. 1676, and note thereto). She was married at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 9 Jan. 1665-6, as "Dorothy Murry." In the marriage allegation (Vic. Gen.), dated the preceding day, she is described as "Dorothy Morey," of St. Clement Danes, Midx., widow, aged about thirty-three. According to her monument she died 16 June, and the unofficial register gives the date of her burial as "June 18." See the baptism of her dau. 11 Dec. 1666, and burials 7 Aug. 1667, 11 Mch. 1678-9, and 20 Feb. 1680-1.

<sup>2</sup> The unofficial register says "Mr. James Anderton," and gives the date as "July 10." The will of Ann Anderton, of St. Margaret's, Westminster, widow, dated 11 Apl. 1685, was proved in the Court of the Dean and Chapter 5 Oct. 1687, by her dau. Elizabeth Critchlew. She mentioned her sons Major Anderton and Silvester Anderton, and her daughters Wells and Medford (see the burial of Dr. Medford 20 Sep. 1668).

Orlando Gibbons, also Doctor of Music and Organist of the Abbey and the Chapel Royal, by Elizabeth, dau. of John Patten, one of the Yeomen of the Vestry of the Chapel Royal, and was baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 22 Aug. 1615. He was sometime Organist of Winchester Cathedral, but joined a garrison during the Civil War. After the Restoration he was appointed principal Organist of the Chapel Royal, private Organist to the King, and Organist of the Abbey. He was created Mus. Doc. at Oxford 7 July 1664. He died 20 Oct., and his nuncupative will, made on the 17th of that month, was proved 6 Nov. following, by his second wife and widow, Elizabeth, whose own will, dated 19 Mch. 1677-8, was proved 22 Jan. 1682-3. See the burial of his first wife 15 Apl. 1662; also a burial 27 Dec. 1682, and note thereto.

<sup>5</sup> William Cavendish, K.G., first Lord of the Bedchamber to the King, only surviving son of Sir Charles Cavendish, of Welbeck Abbey, Notts, Kt., by his second wife, Catherine, dau. of Cuthbert, seventh Baron Ogle. He was created Duke of Newcastle 16 Mch. 1664, and was known as the "loyal Duke." According to his funeral certificate in the College of Arms, he died at Welbeck 25 Dec. 1676, aged 83. His will, dated 4 Oct. 1676, was proved 24 Feb. 1676-7, by his son and successor, Henry, Duke of Newcastle. See the burial of his Duchess 7 Jan. 1673-4.

<sup>6</sup> According to his monument he was Gentleman-Sewer to the King, and died 21 Jan., aged fifty-five. His will, as of St. Margaret's, Westminster, Esq., dated on the day of his death, was simply a memorandum that certain monies in various hands in his name were really the property of Mrs. Cicely Hammond, who administered to his estate 7 Mch. 1676-7.

<sup>8</sup> He matriculated at Oxford, from Balliol College, 14 Nov. 1634, aged fifteen, as son of Thomas Waldron, of Tenbury, co. Worcester, and had his degree of M.D. there 9 Apl. 1655. He became a Fellow of the Royal College of Physicians of London 26 June 1665, and was Physician in Ordinary to King Charles II. He died 5 Feb. 1676-7, and his estate was administered to in the Court of the Dean and Chapter 9 Mch. following. See the burials, of his wife 24 Jan. 1686-7, and of his daughters, 9 Feb. 1675-6 and 17 Apl. 1686.

<sup>2</sup> This eminent mathematician and divine was the son of Thomas Barrow, citizen and linen-draper of London, by Anne, dau. of William Buggin, of North Cray, co. Kent, Esq., and was born in London about 1630. His family was an ancient one in Suffolk, and his father's brother was Isaac Barrow, Bishop of St. Asaph. He became successively Greek Professor at Cambridge in 1660, Geometry Professor at Gresham College in 1662, F.R.S. in 1663, Lucasian Professor of Mathematics at Cambridge in 1664, Prebendary of Salisbury in 1669, and Master of Trinity College, Cambridge, in 1672. He was also Chaplain to K. Charles II., and was created D.D., by Royal mandate, in 1670. His Life and Works were published by Archbishop Tillotson. He died intestate, 4 May 1677.

<sup>3</sup> The unofficial register says "Mrs. Le Neve," which is correct, as is confirmed by the MSS. of Peter Le Neve. She was Frances, dau. of Thomas Monk, of Potheridge, co. Devon, Esq. (eldest brother of George, the famous Duke of Albemarle), and the first wife of John Le Neve, Esq. (see his burial 2 Aug. 1693). She died, of small-pox, on the 12th of this month, and was buried in the North Aisle of the Abbey. Her only child, a dau. Mary, lived only twenty-four hours.

<sup>4</sup> See his mother's burial 5 Sep. 1691, and note thereto. This was, probably, either Thomas, who was born the 25th and baptized 27 Nov. 1661, at St. Paul's, Covent Garden, or Henry, who was born the 4th and baptized 18 Jan. 1667-8, at St. Martin in the Fields.

<sup>7</sup> Sir John Carey K.B., eldest son of Henry, fourth Baron Hunsdon and first Viscount Rochford and Earl of Dover, by his first wife, Judith, dau. of Sir Thomas Pelham, succeeded his father in April 1666. He died 26 May, aged about sixty-nine, leaving only one dau., Mary, married to William Heveningham, of Heveningham, co. Suffolk, Esq., when the Viscounty and Earldom became extinct, and the Barony reverted to his cousin Robert. See his second wife's burial 16 Feb. 1687-8. The unofficial register says that he was buried on the 1st of June. His estate was administered to on the 9th of that month by a creditor.

ment he died 6 Oct., in his fifty-sixth year. His will, dated 8 Sep. 1670, was proved 28 Nov. 1677 by his relict Sarah, to whom he left lands in Doncaster, co. York. He mentioned his brother Thomas and John Thornburgh, and his sisters Jane West, Anne Painter, and Elizabeth Bayley Dr. William Johnson (see his burial 12 Mch. 1666-7) in his will called him his cousin.

<sup>2</sup> Mary, youngest dau. of Sir Robert Killigrew, Kt., Vice-Chamberlain to Q. Henrietta Maria, by Mary, dau. of Sir Henry Woodhouse, of Waxham, co. Norfolk, Kt. She was baptized at St. Margaret's, Lothbury, London, 24 June 1623, and married, after 1656, Sir John James, Kt. who, according to her monument, was descended from the ancient lords of Haestricht, in Holland. She died 6 Nov., without surviving issue, her only son John and only dau. Elizabeth having died in infancy.

<sup>3</sup> See his brother's burial Nov. 1667, and note thereto. According to his monument he was the fifth son by Sir Stephen's first wife, and died 19 Nov., aged twelve years and six months.

<sup>5</sup> Dau. of Sir William Killigrew, Kt., Gentleman Usher to Kings Charles I. and II., and Vice-Chamberlain to Queen Catherine, by Mary, dau. of John Hill, of Honiley, co. Warwick, Esq. She was the first wife of Sir Francis Clinton, Kt., then Gentleman of the Privy Chamber in Ordinary to K. Charles II., who became Earl of Lincoln in 1672, and died the following year. She was Dresser to the Queen at her death.

<sup>6</sup> Charles, eldest son and third child of James, Duke of York (afterwards K. James II.), by his second wife Mary-Beatrix-Eleanora D'Este, dau. of Alphonso, Duke of Modena. He was born at St. James's 7 Nov., and died 12 Dec., in the same year. He was called Duke of Cambridge but no enrolment of the patent has been found. <sup>1</sup> In the unofficial register only. His will, as Solomon Shorter, of St. Margaret's, Westminster, Gent., dated 30 June 1674, was proved in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, 4 Feb. 1677-8, by his second wife and relict, Ann Shorter. On the 18th of Jan. 1639-40, he had a license from the Bishop of London, in which he was described as of St. Mary's, Islington, Midx., Gent., a bachelor, aged twenty-two, to marry Jane Townsend, of the same parish, a spinster, aged twenty-seven, who was probably mother of his son Thomas (see his burial 19 Mch. 1672-3). See also the baptism of his dau, 6 June 1666, her marriage 22 Dec. 1687, and the burial of another dau. 15 Sep. 1663.

<sup>2</sup> He is usually styled "Knight," but in the letters of administration to his estate, dated 6 Nov. 1679, he was called "Baronct." as was also his son, Sir Thomas-Arden Price, in similar letters dated 23 Dec. 1689, while in the marriage license of this son, from the Vicar-General's office, dated 16 June 1675, the father was described as "Knight Baronett." His baronetcy is not recognized at the College of Arms, and no patent for it has been discovered. He was son of Thomas Price, of Herefordshire, Esq., by Anne, sister and heir of John Rudhall, of Rudhall, Esq., and was himself of the Priory, Brecon. He was a Colonel in the army, and Master of the Household to Q. Henrietta-Maria and K. Charles II. He was also M.P. for Brecon in 1640, and again from 1661 until his death. He married Goditha, second dau. and coheir of Sir Henry Arden, of Park Hall, co. Warwick, Kt., by Dorothea, dau. of Basil Feilding, of Newnham, Esq. She was a Lady of the Privy Chamber to the Queen-Mother, and survived her husband. See the burial of his dau., Mrs. Stanhope, 23 Oct. 1674.

<sup>5</sup> According to her monument she was Martha, wife of Gervase Price, Esq., Serjeant of the Office of Trumpets and Gentleman of the Bows to K. Charles II. (see his burial 15 Sep. 1687), and died 7 Apl., in her thirty-eighth year. She was eldest dau. of John Mayer, of the city of London, Gent., by his wife Martha, and was married about Dec. 1660, the Mar. Lic. Fac. being dated on the 7th of that month. See the burial of her sister, Mary Lucy, 15 Jan. 1708-9.

<sup>8</sup> Francis Cottington, younger son of Philip Cottington, of Godmanston, co. Somerset, was Clerk of the Council in the reign of K. James I., and was created a Baronet 16 Feb. 1622-3. Under K. Charles I. he was Chancellor of the Exchequer and Ambassador to Madrid, and was elevated to the peerage, 10 July 1631, as Baron Cottington, of Hanworth, co. Midx. He was subsequently Lord Treasurer and Master of the Wards, but went into exile with K. Charles II., and never returned. He died at Valladolid 19 June 1652, and was buried in the Jesuits' church there. His will, dated three days before his death, was not proved in England until 15 Aug. 1666. Robert Brett, Kt., and, according to a funeral certificate in the College of Arms, she died at her house near Charing Cross the 22nd, and was buried 23 Feb. 1633-4, in Westminster Abbey, but there is no record of her burial in the Register, which is defective at that period. Only a son, Charles and a dau. Anne survived her, and both died in their father's lifetime. The monument erected by Lord Cottington's nephew and heir states that his remains were brought to this country in 1679, but the date of interment, in both the official and unofficial registers, is distinctly 1678. The inscription also states that he died in his seventy-fourth year.

<sup>2</sup> Fourth son of Sir William Howard, of Naworth Castle, co. Cumberland, by Mary, eldest dau. of William, fourth Lord Eure, and younger brother of Charles, first Earl of Carlisle. He was Lieutenant of the Yeomen of the Guard, and was noted for his gallantry and duels. He died without legitimate issue. See the burials, of his wife (the Duchess of Richmond) 28 Nov. 1685, and of his brother 15 Apl. 1686.

<sup>3</sup> Henry O'Brien, Lord Ibrackan, only son of Henry, seventh Earl of Thomond, by Anne, dau. and coheir of Henry, fifth Earl of Thomond. He died 1 Sep. in his father's lifetime, and according to the unofficial register, was buried in the Richmond vault. His will, dated 6 Apr. 1672, was proved 26 Sep. 1678. It closes with the following extraordinary and somewhat unnatural paragraph:—"I conjure my son, Donatus O'Brien, to honour and obey his King in whatever he commands that is not contradictory to the Holy Scripture and Protestant religion in which I conjure him (upon pain of my curse) not only to continue himself, but to advise his brothers and sisters to do the same; and that he never marry a Papist; and that he take great care, if ever God bless him with children (which I trust he will many), to breed them strictly in the Protestant religion: . . . I advise him to cherish the English upon his estate, and drive out the Irish, and especially those of them who go under the name of gentlemen." See the burials of his wife 11 Nov. 1702, his son 8 May 1679, and his daughter 28 Nov. 1683.

<sup>4</sup> Younger brother of Thomas, the famous tragedian (see his burial 2 May 1710, and note thereto). He was baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 10 June 1647. His father, in his will dated 10 June 1663, stated that he had obtained a place for him in his Majesty's kitchen, the profits of which his mother was to enjoy until he reached full age. His relict Anne administered to his estate, 3 June 1679, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter. Their son Thomas and daughter Anne were baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, the former 4 Sep. 1676, and the latter 11 Oct. 1677.

<sup>6</sup> His will, in which he is described as of Berkhamstead St. Peter, Herts (but on which it is endorsed that at the time of his death he was dwelling at Westminster), notary public, dated 8 June 1677, was proved in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, 5 Feb. 1678-9, by his relict Mary, whom it states was the dau. of Mr. Jonathan Bradley the elder. He left his manor of Combe, at Berkhamstead, and other lands in Coxwold, co. York, given him by K. Charles II. for his faithful services to him and his father, to be sold to pay his debts, and small legacies to his brothers Robert and Thomas Bulmer, and his sisters Mary and Anne. On the 27th March 1675 he had a license from the Vicar-General's office, in which he was described as of Ashridge, Bucks, Gent., a widower, aged about sixty-eight, to marry Mrs. Mary Bradley, of Bridgewater House, London, spinster, aged about twenty-four. According to a monumental inscription preserved by Dart (ii. 137), and another by Kepp (edit. 1682, p. 360), both of which were long since destroyed, his first wife and their only son were also buried in the Cloisters, but no record of either occurs in either of the registers. She is described as Mary, dau. of William Greene, of Lannorth, co. York, Esq., and is said to have died 31 Jan. 1661-2. The son, William, who matriculated at Oxford, from Christ Church, 28 Mch. 1655, and was designed for the medical profession, died while on a visit to his parents in London, apparently in 1658, in which year they erected the monument to his memory.

<sup>9</sup> Son of Robert, first Viscount Cholmondeley, of the second creation, by Elizabeth, dau. and coheir of George Cradock, of Caverswell Castle, co. Stafford, Esq. He was admitted into St. Peter's College, Westminster, in 1678, and died 2 Feb. following, in his 14th year. See his brother's burial 7 June 1680.

 March 27 Stephen Baber:<sup>9</sup> [Cloisters].
 April 5 Thomas Raggett:<sup>10</sup> [Cloisters].
 April 9 George Kirk:<sup>11</sup> [Cloisters].
 April 12 Arthur Thomson, a child:<sup>12</sup> [Cloisters].

Carr was appointed one of the Gentlemen of the Privy Chamber to K. Charles II. in 1670. One of this name, son of Sir Robert Carr, was knighted, at Newmarket, 6 Mch. 1626-7.

<sup>1</sup> His will, as Henry Symmons, of St. Margaret's, Westminster, Gent., dated 20 Jan. 1678-9, was proved in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, 12 Mch. following, by his cousins Charles and William Wren, Esqrs., to whom he bequeathed his estate in trust for his wife Mary and his minor children. He appears to have held some official position under the Bishop of Lincoln (Barlow), whom, as his "honoured lord and master," he appointed overseer of his will. See his wife's burial 25 Feb. 1731-2. According to her will, he was buried in about the middle of the West Cloister.

<sup>2</sup> The unofficial register says Thompson, as does also his monument, according to which he was born 5 July 1676, and died 21 Feb. 1678-9. See his mother's burial 12 Nov. 1685, and his father's 20 Dec. 1700.

<sup>3</sup> Sixth son of Sir Palmes Fairborne, Kt., and Dame Margery his wife (see her burial 9 Jan. 1694). According to his monument, his age was two months and two weeks.

<sup>4</sup> A Minor Canon of the Abbey, and a junior priest of the Chapel Royal at the time of the Coronation of K. Charles II. Burney says that he was Precentor, or Chanter, of the Abbey. He died 28 Feb., and his relict Elizabeth administered to his estate, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, 29 May following. See the baptisms of his children, 17 Nov. 1662, 19 Mch. 1664-5, and 23 Feb. 1667-8, and burials 26 Nov. 1662, 18 Feb. 1663-4, and 13 Aug. 1670.

<sup>7</sup> The unofficial register says "Mrs. Anne Godolphin." In the absence of any positive identification, it may be suggested that she was a young child of the Rt. Hon. Sidney, afterward Earl of Godolphin (see his burial 8 Oct. 1712), whose marriage took place in 1675.

<sup>9</sup> According to his monument, he was the only child of Benjamin Baber, Gent., Alderman of Bath, by Elizabeth his wife, and was born 19 Oct. 1663, and died 23 Mch. 1678-9. His father was third son of Richard Baber, of Twerton, co. Somerset, and was thrice Mayor of Bath, where he died 22 May 1705, in his seventy-eighth year, and was buried in the Abbey Church. The mother, Elizabeth, was dau. of William Fox, of Farley, co. Wilts, Esq., apparently a brother of Sir Stephen Fox (although not mentioned in the accounts of the family), after whom this child was probably named. She died 22 Feb. 1704-5, in her seventy-sixth year, and was also buried in the Abbey Church of Bath.

<sup>10</sup> Doubtless a servant or minor official about the Abbey. See his second marriage 14 Apr. 1668, and the burials, of his first wife 15 Jan. 1667-8, his dau. 29 July 1668, his son 7 May 1686, and his second wife 17 Mch. 1689-90.

<sup>3</sup> Dau. of Sir Justinian Isham, second Bart. of Lamport, co. Northampton, by his first wife, Jane, dau. of Sir John Garrard, first Bart. of Lamer, Herts. She died 18 May. See the burial of her twin sister, Lady L'Estrange, 6 Aug. 1689. They were born 27 Aug. 1636. Her will, dated 15 May 1678, was proved 21 May 1679, by her sister L'Estrange.

<sup>4</sup> The will of Thomas Knollys, of Grove Place, Nursling, co. Southampton, Esq., dated 5 Nov. 1678, was proved 1 July 1679, by his son Robert Knollys, and his friend John Speed, M.D. He left his daughters, Anne and Elizabeth, each £40 per annum for life, and the proceeds of certain leases in Oxfordshire to his unmarried daughters, Dorothy and Philadelphia, equally, his son Robert being residuary legatee.

<sup>5</sup> Dau. of Sir Richard Tufton, of Westminster, who was knighted 7 Mch. 1680-1, and whose will, dated 8 Sep., was proved 12 Oct. 1682, by his second wife, Margaret, dau. of Thomas Lewis of Westminster, who remarried, secondly, Seymour Tredenham, Esq., second son of Sir Joseph Tredenham of Tregony, co. Cornwall, Kt., who died in 1697, and was buried at Ware, Herts.; thirdly (Mar. Lic. Fac. 12 Aug. 1701), the Rev. Alexander Mills, Vicar of St. Clement's, Sandwich, Kent; and, fourthly, Philip Farwell, Esq., who was buried at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 5 Sep. 1719. She died 4 Aug. 1722, aged about sixty, and was buried at Ware. Her will, dated 5 July, was proved 6 Aug. 1722, by her niece Anne Lewis, dau. of her brother, Capt. Charles Lewis.

<sup>9</sup> William Owtram, a native of Derbyshire, sometime Fellow of Trinity and Christ's Colleges, Cambridge, where S. T. P. in 1662. After preaching some time in Lincolnshire he became Rector of St. Mary Woolnoth, London, and in 1664 Minister at St. Margaret's, Westminster. He was installed Archdeacon of Leicester 30 July 1669, and Prebendary of Westminster 30 July 1670. He died 23 Aug., in his fifty-fifth year. His will, dated 5 Nov. 1677, was proved 3 Sep. 1679. He bequeathed lands in Derbyshire and Lincolnshire, and left legacies to the children of his brother, Francis Owtram, deceased, and of his sisters, Barbara Burley and Mary Sprentall, both deceased, and Jane Stanley, then living. See his wife's burial 12 Oct. 1721.

<sup>11</sup> On the monument his name is Banister, but in the record of administration to his estate, 20 Oct. 1679, it is Bannister. He was son of one of the Waits of St. Giles in the Fields, and at first himself a Wait. He is said to have been the first Englishman who became distinguished as a violinist, and as such entered the service of K. Charles II., who patronized him greatly, but finally dismissed him for some impertinence, after which he maintained himself by teaching and playing. In the letters of administration he is described as of Lambeth, Surrey. He died 3 Oct., leaving a wife Mary, and a son John, who also became an eminent violinist.

fourthly, at Knightsbridge Chapel, Midx., 1 Feb. 1686-7, one Mary Aylif, a woman of low origin and infamous character, from whom, however, he obtained a divorce 16 July following. and she subsequently became the second wife of Sir Gilbert-Cosins Gerard (see his first marriage 2 May 1681, and note thereto). Sir Samuel died 26 Dec. 1695, and was buried at Hammersmith, Midx., 6 Jan. following, and the baronetcy became extinct on the death of his son in 1716. See his second marriage 26 Oct. 1670, and the burials, of his second wife 14 Oct. 1674, and of his children, 19 Dec. 1671 and 11 June 1675.

<sup>4</sup> Second but eldest surviving son of Sir Stephen Fox, by his first wife, Elizabeth Whittle. He died 17 Apl., in his twenty-second year. He was a Captain in the army. See his brother's burial Nov. 1667, and note thereto.

<sup>5</sup> Elizabeth, eldest dau. of Simon Bennet, of Beachampton, Bucks, Esq., by Grace, dau. of Gilbert Morewood, of London, merchant, who were married at St. Bartholomew the Less, London, 20 Oct. 1649. She was wife of Edward Osborne, commonly called Lord Latimer, eldest son of Thomas, first Duke of Leeds, who survived her. She died 1 May. See the burial of her son 29 Dec. 1676.

<sup>9</sup> In the unofficial register only. Thomas Butler, Earl of Ossory, eldest surviving son of James, twelfth Earl and first Duke of Ormond (see his burial 4 Aug. 1688), by Elizabeth his wife (see her burial 24 July 1684). He was born at Kilkenny, Ireland, 8 July 1634, and died 30 July 1680. His relict Æmilia administered to his estate 14 Sep. 1680 (see her burial 12 Dec. 1688). His remains are said to have been removed to the family vault in Kilkenny Cathedral, but there is no confirmation of this in any of the Abbey records, and it certainly had not been done at the date of his father's will in 1688. See a further entry respecting him 13 Nov. following. See also the burials, of his dau. 12 July 1717, and his son 22 May 1746.

<sup>5</sup> See his marriage 6 Jan. 1675-6, and note thereto. He was admitted to the Inner Temple 12 May 1670, as of South Tawton, co. Devon, Gent. He died, according to his monument, 14 Oct., aged nearly thirty years. His relict Frances administered to his estate 8 June 1681, but his nuncupative will was proved 12 Aug. 1682, by his father, William Oxenham, then of St. Margaret's, Westminster. See his son's burial 28 June 1699.

<sup>3</sup> Charles Fitz-Charles, illegitimate son of K. Charles II., by Catherine, dau. of Thomas Pegge, of Yeldersley, co. Derby, Esq. He was created, 28 July 1675, Baron of Dartmouth, Viscount Totness, and Earl of Plymouth. He married, at Wimbledon, Surrey, 19 Sep. 1678, Lady Bridget Osborne, third dau. of Thomas, first Duke of Leeds, who remarried, about Aug. 1706, the Rt. Rev. Philip Bisse, Bishop of Hereford, and died 9 May 1718. He died at Tangier, 17 Oct. 1680, aged twenty-three, leaving no issue.

<sup>4</sup> Nicholas Leke, second but eldest surviving son of Francis, first Earl of Scarsdale, by Anne, dau. of Sir Edward Cary, of Aldenham and Berkhamstead, Herts, Kt., succeeded his father as second Earl in 1655. He died 27 Jan., and his son and successor, Robert, third Earl of Scarsdale, administered to his estate 10 Feb. 1680-1. See his wife's burial 21 Nov. 1692, his sister's 29 Jan. 1692-3, and that of his grand-daughter 15 March 1680-1. The unofficial register says that he was buried in the Hunsdon vault.

<sup>5</sup> He was sworn "youngest Yeoman of the Vestry" of the Chapel Royal 8 Nov. 1660, and died "Eldest Yeoman" 4 Feb. 1680-1. By his will, dated 17 Nov. 1680, and proved 7 Mch. 1680-1, he provided for founding and endowing alms-houses in Westminster for six poor men. He bequeathed £300 to his sister Susan Spurling, and £200 to her daughter Margaret Harris, and £10 each to his cousins Kersey and Minshaw, of Deptford, co. Kent. He also left rings and other legacies to numerous persons, evidently not his relations, among whom were many of the nobility.

<sup>3</sup> This entry affords a serious instance of inaccuracy, both in the official and unofficial registers, the latter of which gives the same Christian and surnames, and also states that he was "buried from Mr. Hender's." His will, as Edmond Power, was dated 22 Mch. 1680-1, and proved 2 Apl. following, and his identity is established by the fact that he directed to be buried in the Abbey, and by the perfect accordance of dates. He was evidently a guest at the Robin Hood tavern, where he died. He bequeathed all his possessions to his cousin Robert Power, of London Gent., who was his executor, naming particularly a bond for £150, and other goods, jewels, etc. in his chamber at the Robin Hood; also his mare in Woodstock Park, and his two fowling guns in the manor house in the custody of the under bailiff. There are other indications in his will that he came from the vicinity of Woodstock, in Oxfordshire, and it is probable that he was of the family of his name at Bletchington in that county.

<sup>5</sup> One John Birchensha published in 1655 a quarto volume entitled "Divine Verities." Another John Birkensha was a musician and teacher of the viol in London, and published in 1664 a work called "Templum Musicum;" he was living as late as 1672.

<sup>7</sup> According to his monument, he was born 7 Sep. 1657, and died 18 May 1681. See the burial, probably of his father, 14 Feb. 1703-4. The unofficial register says that he was buried "att y<sup>e</sup> feet of Long Megg."

<sup>9</sup> See her mother's burial 11 Jan. 1681-2, and her father's 16 Aug. 1704. The unofficial register says that she was buried in the South Cloister.

<sup>10</sup> He was son of Peter Chapman, who had been "head brewer" to the College, and himself had a patent from the Dean and Chapter, 9 June 1638, as "chief brewer." In the will of James Chapman (see his burial 15 Jan. 1663-4) he was called "cousin," and was named as one of its overseers. His own will, as of Westminster, brewer, dated 29 May, was proved in the Court of the Dean and Chapter 28 July 1681. He bequeathed freehold lands in Iver and Langley, Bucks, which, if his dau. Anne died without issue, were to go to the authorities of Colnbrook, in that county, for binding out poor children apprentices, the children of his own relations in that place.

Her husband died the 10th, and was buried at Iver, Bucks, 13 Jan. 1691-2, having remarried, in 1687, Catherine, dau. of Samuel Fortrey, of St. James, Westminster, by whom he had a dau. Catharine, who married Allen, afterwards Earl Bathurst.

canons of St. Paul's, London, dated 12 Feb. 1680-1, was proved 16 Dec. 1681, by his relict Catharine. He directed to be buried in the churchyard of St. George, in Canterbury, near his father and mother. He mentioned his daughters Catherine Knib and Elizabeth Brooksbend his dau. Thompson, and his grandchild Judith Thompson. He bequeathed lands in Grantchester co. Cambridge.

<sup>2</sup> Nicholas Oudart, a native of Mechlin, and supposed son of Nicholas Oudart of Brussels who was Official of Mechlin and died in 1608. He was brought to England by Sir Henry Wotton and was created M.A., at Oxford, 13 Aug. 1636. He again went abroad, as secretary to Sir William Boswell, studied medicine, and on his return had the degree of M.B., at Oxford, 31 Jan. 1642. He was secretary to Sir Edward Nicholas while Secretary of State at Oxford; attended K. Charles I. in the Isle of Wight; afterwards became secretary to Mary, Princess of Orange (whose will, of which he was an executor, bears high testimony to his abilities and faithfulness); then Latin Secretary to William, Prince of Orange, and of his Council; and finally Latin Secretary to K. Charles II., which post he held at his death. He died in Little Dean's Yard, and was buried according to the unofficial register, in the West Cloister. His will, dated 5 Mch. 1671-2, was proved 13 July 1682, by his relict Eva, whom he described as "daughter of John-Francois Tortarolia, deceased." Letters of administration to her estate were granted 3 Nov. 1688. They left three daughters: Barbara, the eldest, "born in Holland, but naturalized in England," who was married at the Temple Church, London, 29 Oct. 1677, to William Foster; Amelia-Isabella who married, in 1689, Bartholomew Van Sittert, to whose estate she administered 23 Oct. 1718; and Dorothy, who was unmarried at the date of her father's will.

<sup>6</sup> (This entry is strangely omitted in Collectanea, although it refers to the well-known "Tom of Ten Thousand," who was so barbarously murdered 12 Feb. preceding.) He was so of Sir Thomas Thynne, of Richmond, co. Surrey, Kt., by Stuart, dau. and coheir of Rev. Dr. Walter Balquand, Dean of Durham and Master of the Savoy. His unhappy marriage with Elizabeth, Countess of Ogle, took place on or about 2 Dec. 1681, and the circumstances of his cruel murder are matters of history. His will, dated 9 Mch. 1680-1, was proved 21 Feb. 1681-2 by his sister Elizabeth, wife of John Hall, of Bradford, co. Wilts, Esq., who was his sole legatee

She was born 29 July, and baptized at St. James, Clerkenwell, Midx., 6 Aug. 1662, and died unmarried. (Her burial is erroneously stated in Brydges' edition of Collins' Peerage to have taken place 11 Oct. 1684). See the burials of her brothers, 4 Apl. 1670 and 11 Oct. 1684.

<sup>3</sup> He was appointed, about Dec. 1679, jointly with William Fox, son of Sir Stephen Fox, Receiver and Paymaster to the Army, and was such at his death, which occurred the day before. He appears to have been thrice married. For his first wife see the note to his son's burial, 29 May 1673. See his second marriage 27 Jan. 1673-4, and note thereto, and his third wife's burial 3 Sep. 1710; also the burial of another son 1 June 1722. In his first Mar. Lic. (Vic. Gen.), dated 29 Mch. 1670, his age was given as "about 29." His will, dated the 16th, was proved 24 Apl. 1682, by Richard Kent, Esq., whom he called his brother, and by Sir Stephen Fox. He mentioned as then living his mother Susan Johnson, his brother William, and his sisters Mary and Jane Johnson; also his sister Mary Dalton's three children, and his niece Margaret Smith.

<sup>7</sup> Uncle of the famous composer Henry Purcell. He had the appointment, by royal warrant dated 29 Nov. 1662, as "Musician in Ordinary for the lute and voice," in the place of Henry Lawes, deceased, and had been appointed, in the preceding August, in conjunction with Pelham Humphreys, "Composer in ordinary for the Violins." He died 31 July. His will, dated 4 June 1681, was proved 8 Nov. 1682, by his relict Catharine, to whom he left all his goods, except £5 to each of his children. See his brother's burial 13 Aug. 1664.

<sup>5</sup> Third son and fourth child of Frederic V., Duke of Bavaria and Elector Palatine of the Rhine, sometime King of Bohemia, who died at Mayence 29 Nov. 1632, by the Princess Elizabeth, eldest and only surviving dau. of K. James I., the unfortunate Queen of Bohemia (see her burial 17 Feb. 1661-2). He was born at Prague 17 Dec. 1619, and was Prince Palatine of the Rhine and Duke of Bavaria, and was created Earl of Holderness and Duke of Cumberland, in the English peerage. 24 Jan. 1643-4. As the gallant but somewhat rash cavalier leader, his history is a part of that of the country. He died unmarried, at his house in Spring Gardens, 29 Nov., and by his will, dated two days before and proved 1 Dec. following, left all his possessions to his illegitimate son and daughter, and the mother of the latter.

<sup>8</sup> There are good reasons for believing this surname to be an error in the Register, and that the entry refers to the widow of Christopher Gibbons, Dr. of Music and Organist of the Abbey (see his burial 24 Oct. 1676). Elizabeth, the second wife and relict of Dr. Gibbons, proved his will 6 Nov. 1676, and, on the 19th of Mch. 1677-8, she made her own will, and directed to be buried near her late husband. This will was proved 22 Jan. 1682-3, within a month from the date in the text. Her burial does not occur in the parish register of St. Margaret's, Westminster, where she lived, nor is it elsewhere in the Abbey Register, and it is reasonable to suppose that her wishes as to the place of her interment were carried out. From her will, her name before marriage with Dr. Gibbons, but whether her maiden name or that of a former husband is uncertain, appears to have been Ball, from which the transition to Bull by the Abbey scribe is intelligible. There is, of course, a doubt; but it seems proper to suggest the probable error, and endeavour to explain it. From other instances hereafter noted, it would seem that just at this period the Register was rather negligently kept.

Bedford Street, St. Martin in the Fields, known as the "Red Bible," with remainder to the younger children of his said son-in-law William Fryer and his wife Elizabeth. He also left legacies, varying from £5 to £30, to his cousins, Thomas Morgan and his sisters, one of whom was wife to Mr. Prewde, Clerk of St. Clement Danes. No other relationships are mentioned. The unofficial register says that he was buried in the East Cloister. See the burial, probably of his sister, 23 May 1671.

<sup>2</sup> The notorious Groom of the Bedchamber to K. Charles II. Fourth son of Sir Robert Killigrew, Kt., Vice-Chamberlain to Q. Henrietta-Maria, by Mary, dau. of Sir Henry Woodhouse, of Waxham, co. Norfolk, Kt., by Anne his wife, dau. of Sir Nicholas Bacon, Lord Keeper of the Great Seal. He has hitherto erroneously been called a native of Hanworth, Midx., but he appears to have been born in the parish of St. Margaret, Lothbury, London, where his father resided, on the 7th of Feb. 1611-12, and where he was certainly baptized on the 20th of that month. He became a Page to K. Charles I. in 1633, and was sometime Resident at Venice, but is chiefly known from his intimate relations with K. Charles II. See his first wife's burial 5 Jan. 1637-8. By her he had only one son, Henry, born the 9th and baptized at St. Martin in the Fields 16 Apl. 1637, who also became a Groom of the Bedchamber, was his father's executor, and was finally buried at St. Martin in the Fields 16 Dec. 1705. He married, secondly, at the Hague, 28 Jan. 1654-5, Charlotte, dau. of John de Hesse, of Holland, by whom he had four sons and two daughters. She survived him, and letters of administration to her estate were granted 15 May 1716, when she must have been in her eighty-seventh year, as she was born 16 July 1629 (see Dr. Howard's Monthly Miscellanea, i. 370). His will, dated the 15th, was proved 19 Mch. 1682-3. See the burials of his sisters, 9 July 1641, 10 Nov. 1677, and 4 Jan. 1680-1.

<sup>3</sup> First wife of Giles Hooper, of Clement's Inn, Gent. (see his burial 5 Aug. 1699). Dau. of Simon Brittiffe, of Cley, co. Norfolk, Esq., by his first wife, Hester, dau. of Sir Charles Harbord, Kt. She was married about 7 Feb. 1680-1 (Mar. Lic. Fac.), and, according to her monument, died 3 Apl. 1683, in her twenty-third year. See the burial of her only son 18 June 1727.

<sup>1</sup> Eldest son of Sir Allen Apsley, Kt., Lieut. of the Tower of London, by his third wife, Lucy, younger dau. of Sir John St. John, of Lydiard Tregoz, co. Wilts, Kt., who were married at St. Anne, Blackfriars, London, 23 Oct. 1615. He was baptized at All Hallows Barking, London, 5 Sep. 1616, his mother being then in her seventeenth year. He was Falconer to K. Charles II., and Treasurer of the Household to James, Duke of York, and in the long parliament of K. Charles II. was member for Thetford, co. Norfolk. He died, in St. James's Square, 15 Oct. See his wife's burial 26 Sep. 1698, and his grandson's 7 Aug. 1691.

<sup>3</sup> Eldest dau. of Henry O'Brien, Lord Ibrackan (see his burial 9 Sep. 1678), by Lady Catharine his wife (see her burial 11 Nov. 1702). She was born the 7th, and baptized at St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., 11 May 1662, and became the first wife of John Fitzgerald, eighteenth Earl of Kildare (see his burial 4 Dec. 1707). She died 24 Nov. See her son's burial 21 Feb. 1683-4.

<sup>7</sup> (In the unofficial register only.) His will, as Nicholas Copley, of St. Margaret's, Westminster, widower, dated 25 Sep. 1681, was proved 18 Feb. 1683-4, by his son Charles, principal legatee. The will also mentions his sister Sarah Glascock, his son Henry Copley, and his daughters Lucy Copley and Jane Ringrose. He directed to be buried in the Cloisters, near his wife Elizabeth (see her burial 27 Apl. 1672).

See, probably, her second husband's burial, 8 Nov. 1690.

<sup>1</sup> (In the unofficial register only.) Second and last Baronet of this name, of Knowlton, Kent, son of Sir Samuel Peyton, first Bart., by Mary, eldest surviving dau. and coheir of Sir Roger Aston, of Cranford, Midx., Kt. He died 11 Feb., aged about seventy. He married, first, at St. Brides's, London, 21 May 1636, Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Peter Osborne, Kt., by whom he had two daughters (see their burials 7 and 21 Jan. 1715-16); secondly (Mar. Lic. Bp. Lond. 18 Jan. 1647-8), Cecilia, widow of Sir William Swan, Kt., who was buried at Southfleet, Kent, 30 Oct. 1661; and thirdly (Mar. Lic. Fac. 28 Feb. 1666-7), Jane, dau. of Sir William Monias, first Bart. of Waldershare, and widow of Sir Timothy Thornhill, Kt., and of two subsequent husbands, named Matthews and Swift, who was buried at St. Bride's, London, 8 Feb. 1671-2. Dying without surviving male issue, the title became extinct.

<sup>1</sup> (In the unofficial register only). His will, as of St. Margaret's, Westminster, "cook," was dated 27 May, and proved, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, 17 June 1684, by his son-in-law Abraham Gilbert, citizen and joiner of London. It mentions his son Sebastian Currall and his children, and his grandchildren Sebastian and Elizabeth Gilbert. See his will and burial 23 Nov. 1678.

<sup>4</sup> The unofficial register says that she was buried in the South Cloister.—Mar. Lic. Vie. G. 5 Oct. 1687, for Thomas Page, of St. Alban's, Wood Street, London, clothworker, bachelor, aged about twenty-four, and Mrs. Catherine Willan, of St. Margaret's, Westminster, spinster, about nineteen, with consent of her father, Mr. John Willan, of the same parish, Gent.

<sup>6</sup> Charlotte-Jemima-Henrietta-Maria, illegitimate dau. of K. Charles II., by Elizabeth, the dau. of Sir Robert Killigrew, afterwards Viscountess Shannon (see her burial 4 Jan. 1680). She married, first, James Howard, Esq. (only son of Thomas Howard, Esq., second son of Theophilus, second Earl of Suffolk), who died in his twentieth year, and was buried at Chiswick, Midx., 6 July 1669, by whom she had a dau., Stuart-Walbrough, who became Maid of Honour to Q. Anne, and, dying unmarried the 28th, was buried at St. James, Westminster, 31 May 1717. She married, secondly, about 1673, the Hon. William Paston, afterwards second Earl of Yarmouth, who survived her, and remarried. She died 28 July. (In the record of the baptisms of all her children by her second husband, at St. Martin in the Fields, she is called "Charlotte Henrietta-Maria-Jaïnæ.") servants, each £2; and to his friends Mr. Thomas Robson, Mr. Thomas Lloyd, Mr. John Lockwood, Mr. George Talbot, Mr. Williams, Mr. Samuel Medwell, Mr. Theophilus Tyrrell, and Mr. Edward Lorrimore, each a guinea ring and mourning to the value of £10.

<sup>8</sup> The unofficial register says: "Mr. Walter Mortemer." On his monument he is called "Walter Mortimore, Gent.," and is said to have died 8 Aug., in his thirty-eighth year. His will, as Walter Mortimer, of St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., was dated the 7th, and proved 8 Aug. 1684, by his friends Mr. George Man and Mr. John Powell. He stated that he had two brothers John and Richard, one of whom was dead, but which he knew not, and gave to the survivor £300, or, if both were dead, that sum to their children. His other bequests were as follows: towards building the new college near Chelsea, £200; to Mrs. Jane Jobber, £800; to Mrs. Hay and Mrs. Margaret Lloyd, each £10; to Mrs. Margaret Dye, £5; to all the Lady Warwicks.

<sup>4</sup> The unofficial register says: "Mrs. Sydney Bagenall bu: in y<sup>e</sup> Abby, by Esq<sup>r</sup> Thynne." This is probably correct, and there can scarcely be a doubt that she was the first wife of Nicholas Bagenall, of Newry, in Ireland, and of Plas-Newydd, Anglesey, Esq., M.P. for Anglesey in 1661 (see the burial of his second wife 13 Mch. 1712-13, and of a son by her 9 Mch. 1687-8). The proof of this appears to be furnished by a record of the baptism, in the parish register of St. Paul's, Covent Garden, 10 Sep. 1674, of Mary, dau. of Nicholas Bagenall, Esq., and Dame Sydney his wife, and by the fact that, shortly after the date of this burial, Mr. Bagenall married Lady Anne-Charlotte Bruce. Her identity is unknown, as she is not mentioned in the accounts of the family. This is a pertinent illustration of the value of the unofficial register.

<sup>7</sup> In the official Register is written, in pencil, "a singing man." He was one of the "Musicians for the Violins" in the royal band of K. Charles I. as early as 20 Dec. 1625, and was sworn a Gentleman of the Chapel Royal in 1638. He is mentioned as one of the choir of the Abbey in Dr. Busby's accounts. The unofficial register says that he died 7 Nov. His will, as of St. Margaret's, Westminster, Gent., dated 23 Sep. and proved 27 Nov. 1684, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, gives no clew to his family. He left his portrait to Viscount Newport, and appointed Mr. Thomas Fordiam and Mr. Thomas Morgan residuary legatees and executors.

second wife of, Sir Charles Coote, second Bart., who was created Earl of Mountrath, in the peerage of Ireland, 6 Sep. 1661, and died 18 Dec. following, having had issue by her two sons and three daughters. She married, secondly, Sir Robert Reading, of Dublin, who was created a Baronet of Ireland, 27 Aug. 1675, and who was buried at Newark, co. Notts, 25 Mch. 1689, by whom she had an only child, Elizabeth, who married James Hamilton, sixth Earl of Abercorn (see her burial 22 Mch. 1754). Lodge, in his Peerage of Ireland, says that the Countess of Mountrath "died 18 November 1684, and was buried at St. Michan's Church the 22nd;" but she was undoubtedly buried in the Abbey on the very day he states that she died. The unofficial register repeats the entry, and gives the place of her burial as "neare Henry y<sup>e</sup> 3ds monument," and there is no record of the removal of her remains, which, indeed, at that period, could hardly have been accomplished in four days.

<sup>1</sup> Eldest son of Bussey Mansell, of Briton Ferry, co. Glamorgan, Esq. He matriculated at Oxford, from Jesus College, 10 Apl. 1663, aged fifteen. He married Elizabeth, dau. and heir of Richard Game, of Penderin, co. Brecon, Esq., who survived him, and by whom he had a son Thomas (see his burial 15 Jan. 1705-6), and two daughters, Mary and Elizabeth. He died 13 Dec.

<sup>5</sup> Apparently, from his father's will, third and youngest son of Edward Laurence, citizen and alderman of Chichester, by his wife Susan. He was baptized at St. Peter the Great (or sub-deanery parish), Chichester, 18 July 1619, and was sometime Secretary to the Chancellor of the Exchequer. He died 1 Feb. See the burials, of his wife 10 Sep. 1687, his son 23 July 1677, and his dau. (Lady Anne Robinson) 13 Dec. 1690.

<sup>6</sup> Second but eldest surviving son of K. Chas. I. and Q. Married, at Portsmouth, Hants, 22 May 1662 (not the 21st as is usually said), Catherine, dau. of John IV., King of Portugal, who survived him and died at Lisbon 31 Dec. 1705. He died at Whitehall, 6 Feb., leaving no legitimate issue. The unofficial register says, under date of 6 Feb., "King Charles y<sup>e</sup> 2nd Dyed

She was probably the second wife of Anthony Wrightson therein mentioned, as, on 16 Dec. 1683, "Anthony Wrightson and Ann Burges" were married in the Temple Church.

<sup>6</sup> The unofficial registers says that he was buried 6 May, and "in Exeter Chappell." As this is evidently identical with the Chapel of St. John the Baptist, in which John Vaughan, third Earl of Carbery, was buried (see 28 Jan. 1712-13), it is most probable that this was his son George (by his second wife Lady Anne Savile, dau. of George, first Marquis of Halifax), who was born the 6th, and baptized at St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., 30 Oct. 1683, and who certainly died young, as the Earl left only a daughter at his death.

<sup>7</sup> Probably a sister of Rev. Dr. Knipe, Head Master of Westminster School (see his burial 9 Ang. 1711), and of Christopher Knipe (see his burial 28 Apl. 1673). According to the unofficial register, she was buried in the North Cloister, where Dr. Knipe and his family were all buried. A Mary, dau. of Thomas Knipe, was baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 25 Feb. 1635-6, about two years before the birth of Dr. Knipe.

<sup>8</sup> Eldest son of Sir Richard Graham, third Bart. of Esk and Netherby, created Baron Graham and Viscount Preston 12 May 1681, by his wife Lady Anne Howard, second dau. of Charles, first Earl of Carlisle. He was born in 1672. The unofficial register says that he was buried in "Exeter [i.e., St. John the Baptist's] Chapel."

<sup>3</sup> Second dau. of James, Duke of Monmouth, by Lady Anne Scott, and born 17 Sep. 1675. She died in the Tower of London. See her brother's burial 10 Feb. 1673-4, and note thereto, and the burials, of another brother 6 Dec. 1679, and of her sister 5 Sep. 1683. The unofficial register says that she was buried "in Monmouth's vault, privately."

<sup>5</sup> The unofficial register says: "Mrs. Anne Knipe junior." She was the first wife of Rev. Dr. Thomas Knipe, Prebendary of Westminster and Head-Master of Westminster School (see his burial 9 Aug. 1711). She died 24 Aug. From the wills of her husband and her son Richard, she appears to have been a sister, either of Bishop Sprat (see his burial 25 May 1713), or, more probably, of his wife (see her burial 3 Mch. 1725-6). See the baptism of her son 24 Mch. 1668-9, and the burials of her sons, 24 Feb. 1670-1, 4 Nov. 1674, 26 Jan. 1677-8, and 22 Feb. 1702-3, and of her daughter, Anne Arnold, 30 Sep. 1703.

<sup>6</sup> Letters of administration were granted to her brother Matthew Madgett, 2 Oct. 1683, when she was described as of St. Margaret's, Westminster, spinster. The unofficial register says she was buried in the South Cloister.

<sup>7</sup> Probably wife of James Amos, the College gardener (see his burial 14 Mch. 1699-1700). The unofficial register says she was buried in the West Cloister, where he was also buried.

<sup>8</sup> The unofficial register says that he was buried "neare y<sup>e</sup> Earle of Essex." He has come down to us in history as the almost solitary instance of a successful gamester who suddenly abandoned his profession, and became a worthy gentleman and useful citizen. It is related that, having in one night won a sum sufficient to ensure him an estate worth £1500 a year, he never tempted fortune again, but acquired a positive aversion to both cards and dice. His name has been preserved in the well-known Panton Street, Haymarket. His son Thomas became a Lieut.-General in 1735, and his dau. Elizabeth married Henry, fifth Lord Arundel of Wardour,

Another dau., Dorothy, in 1675, married William Stanley, of Chelsea, Esq., and, if the marriage allegation can be trusted, she was then of the ripe age of nine years, exactly half the age of her husband ! Colonel Panton, in his will, bequeathed the manor of Coxhall, in Bucknall, and other lands in Herefordshire and Shropshire. See his wife's burial 5 Apl. 1725.

<sup>4</sup> Letters of administration were granted, 25 Jan. 1685-6, by the Court of the Dean and Chapter, to the estate of Jarvis Sutton, of St. Margaret's, Westminster, to the relict Mary. The unofficial register says that he was buried in the South Cloister.

<sup>7</sup> See marriages, 6 Nov. 1679 and 1 Jan. 1688-9, and burials, 7 June 1670, 24 Apl. 1678, and 14 Dec. 1682, probably of members of her family. The unofficial register gives her name "Monday," and says that she was buried in the North Cloister.

<sup>8</sup> Eldest son and heir of Robert Wynne, and nephew and heir of Maurice Wynne, of Pen-y-brin, co. Carnarvon, Esq. (see his burial 19 Oct. 1682). His will, as of Pen-y-brin, dated 14 Mch. 1685-6, then residing in St. Martin in the Fields, was finally proved 13 Oct. 1687, by his brother John, but his brother Owen was named his heir. He also mentioned his brother Richard, and his sisters Margaret, Sidney, Catharine, and Dorothy. The unofficial register says that he was buried "by St. Lumly Robinson."

<sup>9</sup> His will, as John Strode, of St. Margaret's, Westminster, Esq., dated 25 Mch. 1686, was proved 18 June following. by his relict Mary, who is alone named in it, and to whom he left all his estate in England and Ireland.—Mary, dau. of Colonel John Stroud and Mary his wife, was baptized, at St. Paul's, Covent Garden, 5 May 1671, and buried there 2 June following : in the latter entry he is called "Governor of Dover."—Civillia, dau. of Colonel Stroud, was baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 7 Apl. 1680.—John Strode, Esq., was one of the Gentlemen of the Privy Chamber to K. Charles II. in 1682.—Luttrell, in his Diary, under date of 3 May 1686, says: "Col. Strode, governour of Dover, is lately dead."

<sup>2</sup> Third son of Sir William Howard, of Naworth Castle, co. Cumberland, Kt., by Mary, eldest dau. of William, fourth Lord Eure, and younger brother of Charles, first Earl of Carlisle. He was knighted at Canterbury 26 May 1660, and was admitted to Gray's Inn 7 Aug. 1662. He married, at St. Martin in the Fields, 23 Apl. 1668, Elizabeth, dau. and heir of Sir Robert Newton, of London, Bart., and widow of Sir John Baker, third Bart. of Sissinghurst, Kent, who survived him, and was buried at Cranbrook, Kent, 29 Nov. 1693. He and his brother Thomas (see his burial 21 July 1678) were actors in the affair in 1653, which resulted in the execution of the Portuguese Ambassador's brother, Don Pantaleo de Sà. He left a son Philip surviving.

<sup>6</sup> (In the unofficial register only). See his marriage 17 Dec. 1672, and his father's burial 12 May 1673. There is no record of his burial.

<sup>9</sup> Mar. Lic. Bp. Lond. 28 Jan. 1674-5, for Richard Dalton, jun., of St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., Gent., bachelor, aged twenty-five, and Margaret Johnson, of the same parish, spinster, aged twenty-two, with the consent of her parents. They were married, at St. Martin in the Fields, 4 Feb. following. She was buried, according to the unofficial register, in the North Cloister, at the head of Mr. Nicholas Johnson (see his burial 21 Apl. 1682), whose sister she appears to have been. Her husband was son of Richard Dalton, Esq., Serjeant of the Wine Cellar to K. Charles II., and he was himself Yeoman of the Cellar. He married a second wife, and lived until 24 Nov. 1731, when he died, and was buried at Leatherhead, in Surrey. <sup>2</sup> The unofficial register gives the same name, and says that he was buried in the West Cloister. He does not occur in any of the known lists of knights or baronets, and no will or record of administration of his estate has been discovered.

<sup>3</sup> See a marriage 1 July 1680, and burials 17 Sep. 1682 and 4 Mch. 1684-5, and notes thereto. The unofficial register says that she was buried in the South Cloister.

<sup>6</sup> See the burials, of her husband 14 Feb. 1676-7, and of her daughters, 9 Feb. 1675-6 and 17 Apl. 1686. Her will, dated 4 Jan., was proved, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, 15 Feb. 1686-7, by her son Timothy Waldron. Her other surviving children were Henry, Thomas, and Agnes. She also mentioned her sister Ingram.

<sup>7</sup> Third but second living child of Prince George of Denmark (see his burial 13 Nov. 1708), by the Princess, afterwards Queen Anne (see her burial 24 Aug. 1714). She was born at Windsor 12 May 1686. She died 2 Feb., and was buried in the royal vault. See a burial 13 May 1684.

<sup>8</sup> Second but eldest living child of Prince George of Denmark (see his burial 13 Nov. 1708), by the Princess, afterwards Queen Anne (see her burial 24 Aug. 1714). She was born at Whitehall 2 June 1685. She died 8 Feb., and was buried in the royal vault. See a burial 13 May 1684.

<sup>9</sup> Eldest child of Walter James, Esq., by his wife Anne (see her burial 13 Feb. 1672-3, and note thereto), in whose will she is mentioned. She was baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 12 Oct. 1616, and married a Mr. Fox, by whom she had surviving issue two sons, James and Daniel. Her will, dated 28 Mch. 1687, was proved the following day, by James St. Amand, of London, Esq., and Thomas Grundy, of Westminster, Gent., whom she called her nephews, and whom her mother, in her will, named as grandchildren. This identification is the more important because Brydges, in his edition of Collins's Peerage (iv. 537), strangely confounded her with Margaret, an unmarried daughter of Sir Stephen Fox.

<sup>2</sup> Only son of Major-General Randolph Egerton (see his burial 5 Nov. 1681), by his second wife, Elizabeth, dau. of Henry Murray, Esq. (see her burial 13 Feb. 1712-13). He was born the 3rd, and baptized at St. Giles in the Fields, Midx., 17 Oct. 1677. He died 13 Apl.

<sup>3</sup> See her father's burial 27 Jan. 1685-6. Her mother administered to her estate, as an infant, 19 Dec. 1688. The unofficial register says that she was buried near her brother, Lord Tullogh (see his burial 10 Oct. 1676).

<sup>4</sup> George Villiers, only surviving son of George, first Duke of Buckingham (see his burial 18 Sep. 1628), by Lady Catherine Manners, only dau. and heir of Francis, sixth Earl of Rutland. He was born 30 Jan., and baptized at Wallingford House 14 Feb. 1627-8, and a few months later succeeded as second Duke. He died at a tenant's house in Kirkby-Moorside, co. York, 16 Apl. in this year, and was buried the next day in the parish church there, his remains being subsequently removed to the Abbey. The unofficial register says that he was buried in his own vault. Dying without legitimate issue, the title became extinct. See the burials, of his Duchess 30 Oct. 1704, his brothers 17 Mch. 1626-7 and 10 July 1648, and his sister 28 Nov. 1685.

<sup>6</sup> Evidently one of the fashionable courtizans of her time, whose identity it is difficult to determine, or even whether she had any right to the names she bore. There seems, however, good reason to suppose that she was a dau. of George Kirke, the notorious Groom of the Bed-chamber to K. Charles II. (for particulars of whom see the note to the burial of Diana, Countess of Oxford, 16 Apl. 1719), by his wife Anne, dau. of Sir Robert Killigrew (see her burial 9 July 1641). Mrs. Kirke's mother, then Dame Mary Stafford, in her will dated 22 Sep. 1656, left £100 to "the Ladie Lucie Saunders," without naming any relationship; but the Viscountess Shannon (see her burial 4 Jan. 1680-1), who was a sister of Mrs. Kirke, in her will dated 27 July 1680, left £300 to her "niece Lady Lucy Sandys." Besides, she was buried "near the font," the precise description in the Register of the burial place of Mrs. Kirke. She was the first witness to Nell Gwyn's will, and signed her name "Lucy Hamilton Sandys." In one of Nell Gwyn's bills for sedan chairs, dated 13 Oct. 1675, there is this item: "For caring one Lady Sanes to y<sup>e</sup> play at Whitehall, and wayting, 0. 3. 6." The Earl of Rochester mentioned "the good Lady Sands" in one of his most filthy poems, in 1678. Letters of administration were granted, 15 Aug. 1687, to the estate of "Lady Lucy Sandys," late of St. James, Westminster, to Frances, Countess Dowager of Portland, as principal creditor. This is all that has been discovered respecting her history, and is, perhaps, quite as much as is necessary, or would be profitable.

<sup>3</sup> Her name is erroneously "Anne" in both registers, and should be Amev. She is so called in the records of her baptism and marriage, and in her husband's will, and she so signed her own will. She was dau. of Richard Williams, Esq., by Emily, dau. of William Till, Esq., all of the city of Chichester, and was baptized at St. Peter the Great (or sub-deanery parish) in that city, 19 Sep. 1626. She married, at St. Olave's, Old Jewry, London, 27 May 1653, John Laurence, Esq. (see his burial 3 Feb. 1684-5). See the burials, of her son 23 July 1677, and her dau. (Lady Anne Robinsou) 13 Dec. 1690. Another dau., Amev, was baptized at St. Olave's, Chichester, 13 May 1660.

<sup>4</sup> In Ashmolean MS. (Bod. Lib.) 856, p. 371, is a copy of his patent, dated 24 Jan. 1661-2, as "Serjeant Trumpeter," or "Serjeant of all Trumpeters, Drummers, and Fifes." He is elsewhere called "Serjeant of the Office of Trumpets and Gentleman of the Bows to K. Chas. II." It was said, on his monument, that he died 11 Sep., in his 59th year, but in his marriage allegation, 7 Dec. 1660, his age was then given as 30, and he was described as of the city of Westminster, Gent. In his will, dated 5 June 1686, with a codicil 11 Sep. 1687, he is called of St. Martin in the Fields, Esq. It was proved, 22 Dec. 1687, by his sister-in-law Mary Lucy (see her burial 15 Jan. 1708-9), and his brother-in-law John Cooke, Esq. (see his burial 21 Sep. 1691), and again, 18 Sep. 1689, by his eldest son Gervase Price, who had then attained his majority. See his wife's burial 11 Apl. 1678, his daughter's marriage 21 Jan. 1685-6, and her burial 27 Nov. 1695.

<sup>5</sup> See her baptism 21 Dec. 1685, and that of her brother 3 Oct. 1680, and notes thereto.—"God bestowed on me, in the year 1685, another child, a daughter of very great beauty . . . but she died of small-pox, 20 Sep. 1687, at 3 a.m.—the saddest day my wife and I ever saw" (Bishop Patrick's Autobiography). She was buried near Dean Goodman's monument.

<sup>6</sup> See his father's burial 26 Nov. 1695, and his mother's 14 Feb. 1705-6. He was baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 9 June 1687. The unofficial register says that he was buried in the East Cloister.

<sup>8</sup> He entered St. Peter's College, Westminster, in 1686, and was perhaps a brother of George Merrill, who was admitted the following year, and who matriculated at Oxford, in 1690, as son of Rev. Joseph Merrill, Rector of Magdalen-Laver, co. Essex.

<sup>4</sup> Fifth dau. of Sir William Cokayne, Kt., Alderman of London, and Lord Mayor in 1619, by Mary, dau. of Richard Morris, of St. Leonard's, Eastcheap, London, merchant, who remarried Henry, first Earl of Dover. She was baptized at St. Peter-le-Poor, London, 26 Aug. 1610, and married there, 2 Dec. 1630, to John Cary, second Earl of Dover, to whom she was second wife. She died in Chapel Street, Westminster, 10 Feb. Her only surviving child, Mary, married William Heveningham, of Heveningham, co. Suffolk, Esq., one of the judges of K. Chas. I.

<sup>6</sup> Son of Nicholas Bagenall, of Newry, in Ireland, and of Plas-Newydd, Anglesey, Esq., M.P. for Anglesey in 1661, by his second wife, Lady Anne-Charlotte Bruce (see her burial 13 Mch. 1712-13). He was born and baptized, at St. Giles in the Fields, Midx., 31 Dec. 1687. A monumental inscription states that he died 7 Mch., having been unfortunately overlaid by his nurse. (One Frances Dobbs, in her will dated 26 Sep. 1692, then of Greenford Magna, Midx., left all her possessions to Lady Anne-Charlotte, the mother of this child, and requested that she might be buried as near him as possible. It seems probable that she was the unhappy nurse mentioned on the monument.) See the burial of his father's first wife 5 Sep. 1684.

St. Donat's, by Elizabeth, dau. of Edward Gage, of Firle, co. Sussex, Esq. He was born at St. Donat's Castle, co. Glamorgan, and matriculated at Oxford, from Jesus College, 27 Apl. 1638, aged sixteen. He is said to have entered the army as cornet of a troop of horse, but abandoned it after the Restoration (James Harrington's Preface to Stradling's Sermons, 1692). He appears to have been a Fellow of All Souls' College, Oxford, and was created D.D. there 6 Nov. 1661. He became successively Prebendary of St. Paul's 19 Dec. 1660; Rector of Fulham, Midx., 11 Jan. 1660-1; Rector of Hanwell and Brentford, Midx., 25 Feb. 1661-2; Prebendary of Westminster, installed 30 July 1663; Precentor of Chichester 22 July 1671; Vicar of St. Bride's, London, 23 Apl. 1672; and Dean of Chichester 21 Dec. 1672. He died 18 Apl. See the burials, of his wife 1 Oct. 1681, his dau. 1 July 1670, and his son 5 Dec. 1671.

<sup>2</sup> James Butler, eldest son of Thomas, Viscount Thurles, by Elizabeth, dau. of Sir John Poyntz, of Iron-Aeton, co. Gloucester, Kt. He was born in London in 1610, and succeeded his grandfather, as twelfth Earl of Ormond, on his death in 1632. In 1642 he was created Marquis of Ormond, and in 1661 Duke of Ormond, in the Irish peerage. He was advanced to the same title in the peerage of England, 9 Nov. 1682, and was a Knight of the Garter. He was Lord-Lieutenant of Ireland from 1661 to 1668. He died, at Kingston Hall, in Dorsetshire, 21 July, having directed in his will to be buried with his wife and two sons. See the burials, of his Duchess 24 July 1684, of his sons 31 July 1680 and 27 Jan. 1685-6, and of his dau. 6 Aug. 1710.

<sup>7</sup> Dan. of Dr. Martin Lister, the eminent physician and naturalist, by his first wife Hannah (as always called by her husband), or Anna (as she appears to have been called by her own family), dau. of Thomas Parkinson, of Carlton in Craven, co. York. She was baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 26 Dec. 1683. She died 7 Oct., according to her monument, which also records the burial, in St. Helen's church, city of York, of her brother Michael, who died in Aug. 1676. Her mother died 1 Aug. 1695, and was buried the 5th at Clapham, co. Surrey. Dr. Lister, who remarried in 1698, died 2 Feb. 1711-12, and was buried the 8th, with his first wife, at Clapham.

<sup>8</sup> His will, as John Standbrooke, junior, of St. James, Westminster, Gent., dated 4 Oct. 1688, was proved on the 27th of the same month, by his father John Standbrooke, senior (see his burial 5 Dec. 1695). On 25 Jan. 1687-8, he had a license from the Vicar-General—he being described as of St. Margaret's, Westminster, Esq., bachelor, aged about twenty-four—to marry

<sup>7</sup> Son of William Whittle, of Lancashire, and brother of Dame Elizabeth, first wife of Sir Stephen Fox, Kt., and of Sackville Whittle (see his burial 22 Feb. 1680-1). His will, as of St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., Gent., dated 8 Jan. 1688-9, was proved the 29th of the same month by his daughters, Elizabeth and Anne Whittle, between whom and his wife he divided his estate equally. The unofficial register says that he was buried in the East Cloister.

<sup>8</sup> Rightly Donckley. According to the Cheque Book of the Chapel Royal, he was sworn, 21 Mch. 1663. "Yeoman of his Majesties Vestry extraordinary, to waite closett keeper in ordinarye," and he appears to have been again sworn into the same office 23 Mch. 1684-5. His will, as of the city of Westminster, Gent., dated 25 Jan. 1688-9, was proved 21 Mch. following, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, by the relict Elizabeth (see their marriage 18 May 1665, and note thereto). See also his daughter's marriage 10 Apl. 1683, and the burials of his children, 20 Sep. 1667, 7 Jan. 1668-9, 8 June 1671, 24 Feb. 1671-2, 19 Aug. 1675, 14 and 24 Aug. 1676, 9 Mch. 1678-9, 11 Sep. 1679, 1 Oct. 1681, 10 Aug. 1686, and 12 Oct. 1730. He died 5 Feb., and was buried in the North Cloister.

<sup>10</sup> See the marriage of his parents 22 Dec. 1687, his mother's baptism 6 June 1666, and the burials, of his father 15 July 1690, and his sister 5 Jan. 1689-90. The unofficial register says that he was buried in the West Cloister.

<sup>5</sup> His will, as of St. Margaret's, Westminster, Esq., dated 5 June 1689, was proved the 29th of the same month, by the relict Dame Catherine Heath alias Croone (see her burial 30 May 1694). In his marriage license (Faculty Office), dated 27 June 1681, he was called a bachelor, aged about fifty-seven. The unofficial register says that he was buried in the West Cloister.

<sup>6</sup> See a marriage 6 Nov. 1679, and burials 16 May 1690, 26 June 1726, and 11 May 1729. The unofficial register says that she was buried in the North Cloister.

<sup>9</sup> See his baptism 15 Apl. 1620. He was youngest son of Sir Edward Villiers, Kt., by Barbara, eldest dau. of Sir John St. John, of Lydiard-Tregoz, Wilts, Kt. (see her burial 16 Sep. 1672). and younger brother of the Viscounts Grandison. He was a colonel in the army, knighted 7 Apl. 1680, and the following year became Knight-Marshal of the Royal Household. The Funeral Book says that he was buried in the North aisle, over against the Chapel of St. John the Baptist. <sup>1</sup> Only surviving son of George Monk, first Duke of Albemarle (see his burial 29 Apl. 1670), by Anne, dau. of John Clarges (see her burial 28 Feb. 1699-70), and is said to have been born in 1653. He was appointed Governor of Jamaica in 1687, and died there 6 Oct. 1688, without surviving issue, and the title became extinct. See his wife's burial 11 Sep. 1734. (See a curious account of his origin in Burke's Extinct Peerage, edit. 1866, p. 371.)

<sup>4</sup> Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Justinian Isham, second Bart. of Lamport, co. Northampton, by his first wife, Jane, dau. of Sir John Garrard, first Bart. of Lamer, Herts. She became the second wife of Sir Nicholas L'Estrange, second Bart. of Hunstanton, co. Norfolk, who died in 1669. See the burial of her sister 22 May 1679. They were twins, and were born 27 Aug. 1636. The unofficial register says that she was buried "by her sister."

<sup>5</sup> On her monument, as preserved by Dart (ii. 129), she is called dau. of Gabriel and Ann Jones, and is said to have died 11 Aug., aged thirteen years and eight months. The unofficial register says that she was buried in the South Cloister.

<sup>9</sup> Sister of Gervase Price (see his burial 15 Sep. 1687) and of Mary Lucy (see her burial 15 Jan. 1708-9), and wife of John Cooke, Esq. (see his burial 21 Sep. 1691). See also the burials of her daughters, 22 Feb. 1711-12, 23 Feb. 1731-2, and 23 Dec. 1754, and the marriage of one 10 Feb. 1699-1700. The unofficial register says that she was buried in the South Cloister.

the College of Arms (I. ix. 139) describes her as dau. of Thomas Clarvoz, of Parson's Green, Midx. Her will, dated 5 Feb. 1688-9, was proved 17 Oct. following, by her "nephew" John Goodwin (see his burial 10 July 1693), and her "niece" Frances Frost (see her burial, as Frances Goodall, 20 Feb. 1705-6): but they appear rather to have been nephew and niece of her husband. She left all her estate, including a house and land in Teddington, Midx., and several houses in Westminster, to her husband's relations, and did not mention one of her own. The unofficial register says that she was buried in the North Cloister.

<sup>4</sup> See the marriage of her parents 22 Dec. 1687, her mother's baptism 6 June 1666, and the burials, of her father 15 July 1690, and of her brother 3 Mch. 1688-9.

<sup>5</sup> He was sworn a Gentleman of the Chapel Royal 26 Apl. 1671, and was also one of the choir of the Abbey. See his marriage 18 Nov. 1683. He died 8 Feb., and was buried in the East Cloister, near the Library door. See the burial, perhaps of his brother, 15 May 1718.

<sup>6</sup> Rightly Annesley. See his father's burial, as Lord Altham, 25 Nov. 1701. He was the first child of this name, but his baptism is not recorded in the Abbey Register. He was buried in St. Benedict's Chapel.

<sup>7</sup> The unofficial register says that she was buried "by her husband." See his burial 5 Apl. 1679; also her marriage 14 Apl. 1668 (where called "Elionor"), and the burial of, probably, her son 7 May 1686.

<sup>2</sup> The unofficial register says that she was buried 19 May, and in the North Cloister. See a marriage 6 Nov. 1679, and burials 17 June 1689, 26 June 1726, and 11 May 1729. (The probability is that the marriage was her own, and the first burial that of her daughter.)

<sup>6</sup> The inscription on his monument states that he was one of the Gentlemen Usbers and Daily Waiter to Kings Charles II. and James II.; that he descended from the ancient family of the Earls of Ancrum; that he married Venetia, sole dau. and heir of Edward Carew, Esq., by whom he had issue one son, Henry, and four daughters, viz., Elizabeth, Anna-Sophia, Alena-Maria, and Carew; and that he died 25 Aug. 1690, in his thirty-eighth year. The family name of the Earls of Ancrum was Ker, or Kerr; but wherever his name is found it is written Carr, as in the Abbey Register and on his monument. His wife Venetia was the only child of Edward Carew, of Newbold-Pacey, co. Warwick, Esq., and is mentioned in his will, dated 29 Oct. 1668, as then unmarried, and not eighteen years of age. She administered to her husband's estate 9 Sep. 1690, when he was described as of St. Giles in the Fields, Midx., Esq. See the burial of their son 30 Mch. 1699. Their daughters Elizabeth and Ann-Sophia were baptized, at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 17 Sep. 1682; Alena-Maria was baptized there 7 Jan. 1688-9; and another dau., Venetia, was baptized there 7 July 1680, but is not named on the monument. The youngest dau. was baptized, at St. Giles in the Fields, 8 Feb. 1689-90 (born the day before), and was buried at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 28 Nov. 1692.

<sup>7</sup> Her will, as Sarah Hughes, servant to Mr. Thomas Knipe, of St. Margaret's, Westminster, dated 12 Aug. 1690, was proved 25 Nov. following, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, by Mr. Knipe, who was then Under-Master of Westminster School (see his burial 9 Aug. 1711). Having bequeathed her apparel, etc., to her elder sister Jane Smith, she left £80 to Mrs. Knipe and Dr. Pelling (one of the Prebendaries), to be expended in plate for the use of the Abbey. See a burial 10 Nov. 1668.

<sup>8</sup> Fourth dau. and sixth child of Prince George of Denmark (see his burial 13 Nov. 1708), by the Princess, afterwards Queen Anne (see her burial 24 Aug. 1714). Luttrell, in his Diary (ii. 116), says that she was born the same day, lived about two hours, was christened, and buried privately in the Abbey. The unofficial register says that she was buried in the royal vault.

<sup>2</sup> (In the unofficial register only.) See, probably, his wife's burial 4 Feb. 1683-4, and note thereto. The will of Robert Hall, of the city of London, Gent., dated 24 July 1690, was proved 30 May 1691, by his mother Elizabeth, wife of Robert Hall, of Rye, co. Sussex, Gent. He bequeathed to them his houses, etc., in St. James, Westminster, and his lease of the tithes of Bishopstone, co. Sussex.

<sup>5</sup> Only surviving child and heir of John Laurence, Esq. (see his burial 3 Feb. 1684-5), by Amey his wife (see her burial 10 Sep. 1687). She married, first (Mar. Lic. Vic. Gen. 26 July 1680), then aged about twenty-two, Lumley Robinson, Esq., afterwards second Bart. of Kentwell Hall, Suffolk (see his burial 10 June 1684), and secondly, at St. Mary Aldermary, London, 2 Aug. 1688, William Foulis, Esq., who succeeded, after her death, as fourth Bart. of Ingleby, co. York. See the baptisms of her children by her first husband, 14 July 1681 and 5 Oct. 1682, and her brother's burial 23 July 1677. Her only son by her second husband succeeded his father, in Oct. 1741, as fifth Bart. of Ingleby.

<sup>8</sup> The unofficial register gives the same surname, but on his monument he was called John Jennings, Esq., and said to have died 2 Mch., aged seventy-three. His relict Susanna administered to his estate 2 Apl. 1691, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, and in the record the name is also Jennings. See his wife's burial 21 May 1695.

<sup>9</sup> Perhaps related to Richard Smalbroke, Bishop of Lichfield and Coventry (see his widow's burial 15 Mch. 1765), who was at this date about twenty years old. A John Smalbroke matriculated at Oxford, from Exeter College, 16 July 1664, aged seventeen, as son of Richard Smalbroke, of Droitwich, co. Worcester, Gent., but appears not to have taken a degree.

<sup>10</sup> On his gravestone, which was before the Library door, he was called "Master of Music," and said to have died 23 Mch., aged sixty-three. His will, as of St. Andrew's, Holborn, Midx., Gent., dated 25 Feb. 1690-1, then residing in the house of John Yarling, in Baldwin's Gardens, was proved 24 Mch. following, by his friend and residuary legatee, John Harwood, of St. Dunstan in the West. He left legacies to several friends, but mentioned no relations.

<sup>9</sup> Eldest son of Sir Peter Apsley, of Apsley, co. Sussex, Kt., Cofferer to K. James II., by his first wife (see her burial 7 Sep. 1681, and note thereto). According to the inscription on his monument, he died 5 Aug., in his eleventh year.

<sup>10</sup> (Collectanea erroneously says "Mr. Ste. Fox.") The inscription on his monument describes him as "Thomas Fox, Esq., Receiver-General of their Majesties Customs," and states that he died 18 Aug., in his twenty-seventh year. According to a pedigree in Hoare's History of Wiltshire, he was son of John Fox, only surviving son of John Fox, Clerk of the Acatry to K. Charles II. (see his burial 23 Nov. 1691), and consequently great nephew of Sir Stephen Fox. The arms, as differenced on his monument, represent him as a fourth son. Luttrell, in his Diary (ii. 274), in noticing his death, as "treasurer of the custome house," says that he "advanced £50,000 to come into that place."

<sup>2</sup> Relict of Col. Robert Phillips, probably the one mentioned in Luttrell's Diary (i. 367), under the date of 18 Dec. 1685, thus: "His majestie hath appointed the lord Tiviot, col. Robert Phillips, and John Evelyn of Deptford, esq., commissioners to execute the office of lord privy seal during the absence of the earl of Clarendon, lord lieutenant of Ireland." According to a herald painter's work-book in the College of Arms (5 l. B., p. 28), his arms, on a hatchment ordered after her death, were those of Phillips of Iver, co. Bucks, and hers were those of Dallender of Sussex. The unofficial register says that she was buried "before y<sup>e</sup> Quire dore." See the burials of her children 16 and 29 May 1677, and notes thereto. Another dau., Elizabeth, was baptized at St. Paul's, Covent Garden, 7 Dec. 1662, and two daughters, whose names are not given in the parish register, one of whom was perhaps this Elizabeth, were buried at Acton, Midx., 13 Mch. 1666-7 and 11 Mch. 1670-1. In the record of the baptism of the dau. Frances, at Acton, 8 Aug. 1664, the father is described as the "Right Hon. Col. Robert Phillips."

<sup>6</sup> The inscription on her gravestone, as preserved by Dart (ii. 131), was as follows: "Here lies the body of Bridget Holmes, widow, who died October 23, 1691, aged 100 years on St. Luke's Eve last, and served King Charles I. and II., King James II., and King William." If true, she lived six days over a century.

<sup>7</sup> Elder brother of Sir Stephen Fox, Kt., and eldest surviving son of William Fox, of Farley, Wilts, by Margaret (or Elizabeth), dau. of Thomas Pavey, of Plaitford, Wilts. He was "Clerk of the Acatry" to K. Chas. II., and, according to the inscription on his gravestone, died 19 Nov., in his eightieth year. He married Elizabeth, dau. of Heury Smart, of Plymouth, co. Devon (see, probably, her burial 2 Jan. 1706-7). See his daughter's marriage 18 May 1665, and the burial of another 22 June 1729; also his sister's burial 3 Sep. 1710.

<sup>4</sup> (This entry is chronologically misplaced in Collectanea, and the date erroneously given as 25 Apl.) The Funeral Book, quoting her coffin-plate exposed in 1713, says that she was second dau. of the Hon. James Herbert, Esq., and grand-daughter to the most noble Thomas, Marquis of Carmarthen, and died 13 Apl. 1692, in her eleventh year. Her parents were James Herbert, Esq. (son of James Herbert of co. Bucks, Esq.), and Lady Catherine Osborne, dau. of Thomas, first Duke of Leeds, who were married, at St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., 1 July 1674. She was born 27 Oct. 1681, and baptized 24 Jan. following, at St. Andrew's, Holborn.

<sup>5</sup> Third son and seventh child of Prince George of Denmark (see his burial 13 Nov. 1708), by the Princess, afterwards Queen Anne (see her burial 24 Aug. 1714). Luttrell, in his Diary (ii. 424), says that he was born at Sion House the day before, and died an hour after his baptism.

<sup>6</sup> According to the lists in the Chapter Book, Warren Hill had the reversion of an almsman's place 29 Jan. 1685-6, and was awaiting his turn 5 June 1688. See a burial, in about the same locality, 27 Apl. 1685.

<sup>7</sup> His will, as of St. Margaret's, Westminster, Gent., dated 2 May 1692, was proved the 6th of the same month, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, by his friend and residuary legatee, Robert Styles, of St. Margaret's, Westminster. He bequeathed £12 per annum to his mother, Mary Draper, widow, then dwelling at Newmarket, co. Cambridge, but mentioned no other relations. The unofficial register says that he was buried at the upper end of the West Cloister.

<sup>8</sup> (Collectanea erroneously gives the date as 16 Sep.) Luttrell, in his Diary (ii. 602), mentions his death, and describes him as the "king's eldest serjeant at arms, and who used to attend the house of lords." See the burials, of his wife 17 May 1676, his son 20 Aug. 1675, and his daughters, 14 Oct. 1674 and 8 Nov. 1680; also the marriage of his dau. 26 Oct. 1670. His will, dated 25 Oct. 1692, was proved 7 Nov. following, by his son-in-law William Lownds, Esq. He made his apparently only son, Rev. Robert Harsnett, D.D., his residuary legatee.

President of the Royal College of Physicians of London, by Susan, dau. of Christopher Hudson, of the city of Norwich, Esq. She married, first, George Grimston, Esq., eldest son of Sir Harbottle Grimston, second Bart., who died 5 June 1655, in his father's lifetime, and without issue; secondly, John Seymour, fourth Duke of Somerset, who died in 1675, and was buried in Salisbury Cathedral; and thirdly, Henry, second Lord Coleraine, from whom, however, she is said to have lived apart during the last years of her life. The unofficial register says that she was buried near the monument of Lord Norris, which is in the Chapel of St. Andrew.

<sup>9</sup> Fifth daughter and eighth child of Prince George of Denmark (see his burial 13 Nov. 1708), by the Princess, afterwards Queen Anne (see her burial 24 Aug. 1714). The birth took place at Berkeley House the day before. The unofficial register says that the burial was in the royal vault.

<sup>10</sup> Third and youngest son of Sir Edward Mansell, Kt., and third Bart. of Margam, co. Glamorgan, by Martha, dau. of Edward Carne, of Wenny, in the same county, Esq. He died unmarried. See his brother's burial 22 June 1681, and the marriage of another brother 18 May 1686.

	Oct. 24	Mrs. Anne Morris: <sup>10</sup> in the East Cloister.

<sup>1</sup> Sixth and youngest dau. of Sir Thomas Mainwaring, first Bart. of Over Peovcr, co. Chester, by Mary, dau. of Sir Henry Delves, second Bart. of Dodington, in the same county. She was born 21 Apl. 1664, and died unmarried. See her sister's burial 2 Dec. 1724. The unofficial register says that she was buried "neare Sr Ed: Spragg's Head," i. e. in the North aisle.

<sup>2</sup> The unofficial register says that she was buried "under Mr. Richard Whittle's stone," i. e. in the East Cloister (see his burial 15 Jan. 1688-9). She was probably dau. of Thomas Fruen, to whom, in his will, Mr. Whittle bequeathed all his "physic-books" and "a new milled serge suit," and who was apparently in his service.

<sup>3</sup> Son of Charles, third Lord Cornwallis (see his first marriage 27 Dec. 1673, and note thereto), by his second wife, the Lady Anne Scott, Duchess of Monmouth and Buccleuch, widow of the unfortunate James, Duke of Monmouth, to whom he was married, at St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., 6 May 1688, and who died 6 Feb. 1731-2. This child was born 23 Sep., and baptized 6 Oct. 1692, at St. Martin in the Fields. The unofficial register says that he was buried in "Monmouth's Vault." See his sister's burial 25 July 1690.

<sup>6</sup> His will, as of Westminster, Gent., dated 3 July 1693, was proved the 20th of the same month, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, by his cousin, Mrs. Frances Frost (see her burial, as Frances Goodall, 20 Feb. 1705-6), whom he made his residuary legatee. He left legacies to his brother Ambrose Searle and his children, and to his uncle Anthony Blaggrave, of the city of Norwich, Gent., and his children, but named no other relations. He was evidently a nephew of Mr. Thomas Blaggrave (see his burial 24 Nov. 1688), and was named in his will. According to the inscription on his gravestone, he died 7 July, in his thirty-first year. In some of the printed copies of the inscription it is said that he died in his twenty-first year, but this seems impossible, as he proved the will of his aunt Margaret Blaggrave (see her burial 12 Oct. 1689), which he was not likely to have done at the age of seventeen.

<sup>7</sup> Fourth and youngest son of John Le Neve, of Cavendish, co. Suffolk, and of St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., who died in 1654, by his wife Catherine (see her burial, as Mrs. Catherine Hope, 29 July 1682). He was born 10 Jan. 1649-50, and was twice married. See the burial of his first wife 15 May 1677, and of his second 17 Dec. 1687. By the latter he was father of John Le Neve, the author of Fasti Ecclesiae Anglicanae. See also his brother's burial 29 Aug. 1673. He died 26 July, and was buried in the North aisle, behind the organ.

<sup>8</sup> He was appointed to the first vacant "Almsroom," by the King, in Aug. 1660 (Signet Book, Public Record Office), and his name occurs in the list of the then existing almsmen, in the Chapter Book, dated 5 June 1688. See his son's baptism 16 Meh. 1666-7.

by her first husband, 11 Apl. 1690 and 8 Nov. 1714, and by her second husband, 30 Mch. 1709 and 28 Aug. 1747.

<sup>3</sup> Rightly Clerke. Son of Sir George Clerke, of Watford, co. Northampton, Kt., by Barbara, dau. of Robert Palmer, of Hill, co. Beds, Esq. He was appointed Gentleman of the Privy Chamber to K. Charles II. in 1661, and was created a Baronet 18 June in that year, as of Launde Abbey, co. Leicester. See his wife's burial 13 Nov. preceding, and that of his great-grandson 25 Nov. 1732.

<sup>4</sup> The surname is the same in the unofficial register, but it may be questioned if it should not be Elers, or, as the name appears to have been written at this time, "Ellers." It seems probable that she was a dau. of Peter Elers, by his first wife Anne Price, and sister of Anne Elers (see her burial 26 Oct. 1717, and note thereto), and of Peter Elers, Esq. (see his burial 20 Mch. 1753), both of whom were buried in the same vicinity.

<sup>5</sup> Mary, dau. of Edward Stafford (only son of Edward, fourth Baron Stafford of the creation of 1547, but who died in his father's lifetime), by Anne, dau. of James Wilford, of Newnham Hall, co. Essex, Esq., and sister and heir of Henry, fifth Baron Stafford. She married (Mar. Lic. Bp. Lond. 11 Oct. 1637), at the age of eighteen, Sir William Howard, K.B., then aged twenty-two, third but second surviving son of Thomas, Earl of Arundel and Surrey. They were created, 12 Sep. 1640, Baron and Baroness of Stafford, and 11 Nov. following he was elevated in the peerage as Viscount of Stafford. He was attainted in 1678, when all his honours were forfeited, and was beheaded 29 Dec. 1680. She was created, 5 Oct. 1688, Countess of Stafford for life, her eldest son (see his burial 12 May 1719) being the same day created Earl of Stafford. According to her monument, she died 13 Jan., in her seventy-fourth year. She was buried in the Chapel of St. Edmund. (The day of her burial is also omitted in the unofficial register, but the entry there follows, instead of preceding, that of the Earl of Macclesfield.)

<sup>3</sup> His paternity has long been a matter of doubt, he having been called nephew, and even son, of Bishop Duppa (see his burial 24 Apl. 1662). The former he possibly was, but the latter he certainly was not. He appears to have been the only son of John Duppa, of Eardisley, co. Hereford, by his wife Dorothy, and was born (as he stated in his will) 2 Apl. 1619. He was created D.C.L. at Oxford, 20 Dec. 1670, on the occasion of the reception of the Prince of Orange, being evidently one of his retinue, and Anthony Wood then described him (MS. E. 7, Bod. Lib.) as belonging to the Court of K. Chas. II., and "nepos Briani nuper Winton Episcopi." He had served K. Chas. II, when Prince of Wales, and subsequently was made Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod (which post he appears to have held at his death), being knighted 6 May 1683. By his wife Joan (buried at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 1 July 1667), dau. of William Wheeler, of St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., goldsmith, he had two sons and seven daughters, all baptized at Eardisley, except the only surviving son, Thomas, second of that name, who was baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 1 Nov. 1663, and who died, without issue, 17 July 1704. Sir Thomas died 25 Apl., and was buried in the North aisle of the Choir.

<sup>4</sup> The unofficial register says : "Will : Godolphin." William, son of Charles Godolphin, Esq., M.P. for Helston, etc. (see his burial 28 July 1720), by his wife Elizabeth (see her burial 16 Aug. 1726). He was born 25 Mch., and baptized at St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., 8 Apl. 1694, thus living only about seven weeks. See his sister's burial 12 Dec. 1690.

<sup>5</sup> Rightly Ker. On her monument she is described as Mrs. Christian Ker, wife of William Ker, of Chatto, in Teviotdale, and dau. of Sir William Scott, of Harden, Bart., and is said to have died 16 May, in her forty-first year. Her mother appears to have been Christian, sixth and youngest dau. of Robert, sixth Lord Boyd.

<sup>6</sup> (The word "for" is inexplicable. The unofficial register simply says "The Lady Elland.") Esther, dau. of Charles de la Tour, Marquis de Gouvernet, in France, a distinguished Protestant, who died before the revocation of the Edict of Nantes, by Esther, dau. of Bartholomew Hervart (see her burial 10 July 1722). She was born in France in 1666, and married, about April 1684, Henry Savile, commonly called Lord Elland, eldest son of George, first Marquis of Halifax (see his burial 11 Apl. 1695), who died without issue, in his father's lifetime, in 1688, she proving his will 8 June in that year. She had been naturalized in England 26 Feb. preceding. Her own will, which contains nothing of interest, was dated 5 Jan. 1688-9, but was not proved, by her mother, until 13 Dec. 1709. See her grandmother's burial 7 Dec. 1697.

<sup>7</sup> Anthony Cary, son of Henry, fourth Viscount Falkland, by Rachel, dau. of Anthony Hungerford, of Blackbourn, co. Oxford, and of Farley Castle, co. Somerset. He was born at Farley Castle 15 Feb. 1656, and succeeded, as fifth Viscount Falkland, 9 Apl. 1663. He was a Paymaster of the Navy in the reign of K. James II., and of the Privy Council to K. William III. He married Rebecca, dau. of Sir Rowland Lytton, of Knebworth, Herts, Kt., but left no surviving issue. He died, of the small-pox, 24 Feb.

<sup>2</sup> Rightly Dame Margery Fairborne. It is said that her maiden name was Devereux, and that she first married a Mr. Mansell, who must have died before 1666. She married, secondly, Sir Palmes Fairborne, Kt., Governor of Tangier, where he was slain 24 Oct. 1680. He has an honorary monument in the Abbey. She married, thirdly, at St. Marylebone, Midx., 1 Apl. 1683, Jasper Paston, Esq., third son of Robert, first Earl of Yarmonth, whom she survived. See the burials of her children by her second husband, 24 Feb. 1678-9, 26 Sep. 1680, and 18 Nov. 1742, and of a son by her third husband, 23 Aug. 1684.

(No date of the burial is given in the Abbey Register; but, in a herald painter's work-book in the College of Arms (5 O., p. 106), an entry concerning her funeral says that she was buried 7 Feb.) As the next four entries are chronologically misplaced in the Register, it is probable that the officials were so occupied with the preparations for the burial of Queen Mary (see the next entry) that they neglected them in due course, and recorded them subsequently together, without regard to their proper order. It has been thought best to place them here as the evidence obtained shews that they should stand.)

<sup>6</sup> Eldest dau. and second child of K. James II., by his first wife, Lady Anne Hyde, eldest dau. of Edward, first Earl of Clarendon (see her burial 5 Apl. 1671). She was born at St. James's Palace 30 Apl. 1662, and baptized 9 May following. She was married at St. James's 4 Nov. 1677, to William-Henry, Prince of Orange, afterwards King William III. (see his burial 12 Apl. 1702). They began to reign 13 Feb. 1688-9, and were crowned together 11 Apl. following, but had no issue. She died of the small-pox, at Kensington, 28 Dec. 1694.

(This entry is misplaced in the Abbey Register, and stands under the year 1695, immediately following that of Dr. Busby. See the end of the preceding note.)

April 11 The Marquess of Halifax :<sup>3</sup> in Munk's vault : [in the Abbey].

1664. He was Rector of Chartham and Vicar of Miuster, co. Kent, and Chaplain to Archbishop Sancroft. Of his voluminous works his Anglia Sacra is best remembered. His early death was regarded as a great loss to literature. He died 5 Mch., a victim to his excessive intellectual labours.

<sup>1</sup> Mary, dau. of William Knightley, of Kingston-on-Thames, co. Surrey, Esq., by Susan, dau. of John Price, of the same place, Gent. She was baptized at Kingston 13 Apl. 1630. She married, first, as early as 1654, Aquila Wyke, of the city of Westminster, Gent., who appears to have succeeded his father, of the same name, as keeper of the Gate-House prison there, and had by him two sons and one daughter. He was buried at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 9 Apl. 1659. She remarried, in 1660, Sir Edward Broughton, of Marchwiell, co. Denbigh (see his burial 26 June 1665, and note thereto), to whom she was second wife. The circumstances of their marriage appear to have been peculiar and extraordinary. Pennant, in his Tours in Wales (edit. 1810, i. 413), mentioning Marchwiell as long in possession of the Broughton family, says : "Just before the Restoration, Edward Broughton, Esq., happened to be confined in the Gate-House, for his loyalty. He fell in love with the daughter of the keeper, one Wike, and bound himself to her by a bond of the most uncommon imprecations. He married her, and, dying without issue, bequeathed his estates to his wife's brother, etc." A copy of the "Imprecation of Edward Broughton, Esq." is given by Pennant, in the same work, at page 307 in Vol. iii. It is too long to quote, but is well worth consulting as a marvellous curiosity of literature. It was dated 12 Apl. 1660, and the writer bound himself not only to abstain from all the common vices of the period, but, in substance, to allow his intended wife to have her own way in all matters, great and small, and the terrible penalties he invoked upon himself, in case he should violate his bond, remind one of the famous curse in one of "Tom Ingoldsby's" poems, or, rather, of the original by which that was inspired. There is probably a basis of truth in Pennant's statement; but it was the widow, and not the daughter, of the keeper of the Gate-House, whom Sir Edward Broughton married. He did not bequeath his estates to his wife's brother, but she left them to his eldest of three sons by her, who succeeded nominally as second Bart., and died without issue in 1738, and they then reverted, under her will, to Aquila Wyke, her second son by her first husband.

(No date of her burial is given in the Abbey Register; but, in a herald painter's work-book in the College of Arms (5 O., p. 106), an entry concerning her funeral says that she was buried 19 Mch. In the Register the entry follows that of Lady Temple, and precedes that of Queen Mary. See the end of Note 5 on page 235.)

<sup>2</sup> Dr. Richard Busby, the well-known Head-Master of Westminster School. He was second son of Richard Busby, of Westminster, Gent., and is said on his monument to have been born at Lutton (otherwise Sutton St. Nicholas), co. Lincoln, 22 Sep. 1606. He was educated at Westminster School, and is said to have been elected to Oxford in 1624, but his name in the matriculation register, as from Christ Church, is under the date of 10 Feb. 1625-6, and his age was then given as eighteen. He was B.A. 21 Oct. 1628, and M.A. 18 June 1631. He is said to have been appointed provisionally to the Head-Mastership in 1638, but his patent was not ordered until 25 Jan. 1640-1, when he was to have "the office and room of Schoolmaster, with his house and lodgings thereunto belonging," and a fee of £20 a year (Chapter Book). He had the rectory of Cudworth, co. Somerset, and became Prebendary of Wells 1 July 1633, but was deprived of these preferments during the civil war, though allowed to retain his position in Westminster School. He was installed Prebendary of Westminster 5 July 1660, Treasurer of Wells 11 Aug. following, and was created D.D., at Oxford, 19 Oct. in the same year. He died 5 Apl., according to his monument and other testimony of the period, and it may therefore be doubted if the date of his burial is correctly given in the text. The Marquis of Halifax, who died the same day, was not buried until the 11th. (See the end of Note 5 on page 235.)

<sup>3</sup> Sir George Savile, fourth Bart. of Thornhill, co. York, eldest son of Sir William Savile, third Bart., by Anne, dau. of Thomas, Lord Coventry (Lord Keeper). He was born 11 Nov. 1633, and, on account of his own and his father's eminent services during the civil war, he was created, 13 Jan. 1667-8, Baron Savile, of Eland, co. York, and Viscount Halifax; Earl of Halifax

16 July 1679; and Marquis of Halifax 17 Aug. 1682. He was a distinguished statesman of his day, and had been Lord Keeper of the Privy Seal in three reigns, and Lord President of the Council. He died 5 Apl. See the burials, of his second wife 5 Oct. 1727, of his dau, by her 11 Sep. 1708, and of the widow of his son, by his first wife, 26 May 1694.

<sup>3</sup> He was knighted by K. Charles II., at Whitehall, 14 June 1660, as of Ireland. In 1667 he was appointed Gentleman of the Privy Chamber, and subsequently Gentleman Usher of the same, which post he held until his death. His death is noticed in the Post-Boy, 1 Aug. 1695, as having occurred on Monday, 29 July, and in Luttrell's Diary (iii. 506) as on Tuesday afternoon, 30 July, and both authorities state that his age was nearly one hundred years. He is mentioned in the State Poems (i. 132, "Cullen with his Flock of Misses") as "The silly knight that rhimes to mutton." Luttrell also states, under date of 1 Aug. 1695, that Lord Lucas got £400 a year by his death. He married Anne, dau. of Sir John Byron, Kt., and widow of Sir Thomas Lucas, Kt. (illegitimate brother of John, first Lord Lucas, of Shenfield, but who was included in his baronial patent), who died about 1650, she then being about thirty-eight years of age. She was living as late as 1670, but died before him. Letters of administration to his estate were granted, 16 Aug. 1695, to Ignatius Berford, as next of kin; but a will, dated 22 Oct. 1670, in which he left all his estate to his wife Anne, and his son-in-law Mr. Robert Lucas, was proved 25 May 1696, by Robert, Lord Lucas, Baron of Shenfield, as surviving universal legatee. In the record of administration he is called "Kt. and Bart.," and he so styled himself in his will, but no evidence has been discovered that he was ever created a baronet.

<sup>5</sup> Clement Saunders, Esq., son of Sir William Saunders, of East Haddon and Cottesbrook, co. Northampton. He was Carver in Ordinary to Kings Charles II., James II., and William III., and died 10 Aug., aged eighty-four. In his will he directed these facts to be stated on his monument, and expressed great anxiety to be buried in the Abbey, leaving several bequests solely on that condition. The will was proved, 22 Aug. 1695, by his cousin William Whaley, of Norton, co. Leicester, Esq. He left bequests to his brother William Saunders, and his cousins Mr. Robert Dormer, of Lincoln's Inn, Mr. Robert Fisher, and Mrs. Pinckney. The Post-Boy, of 13 Aug. 1695, says that he died at his lodgings in Suffolk Street, and that he was "well known and beloved by many of the nobility and gentry."

<sup>1</sup> According to the inscription on his gravestone, given in the earlier printed volumes, he died 25 Aug., in his thirty-seventh year, and the arms on the stone were "Chequé, on a bend three escallops," which appear to be those of families of the name in Gloucestershire and Suffolk. His will, dated 20 Aug. 1695, was proved on the 28th of the same month, by his kinsman Thomas Robinson, whom he also called son of his aunt Margaret Robinson. He described himself as a citizen and haberdasher of London, and left other legacies to his aunt Cope; his uncle Ignatius Robinson; his cousin Mr. Edward Morgan; his kinsman Mr. Henry Partridge; and his kinswomen, Mrs. Joane Beaumont, Mrs. Anne Oliver, Mrs. Frances Jones, and Mrs. Anne Crompton. To his apprentice, Francis Wright, he bequeathed the lease of his dwelling-house and his book-binding tools, etc., and to his friend Mr. Matthew Gilliflower, bookseller, all his interest in the books called The Compleat Gardiner, The Ladies' New Year's Gift, etc.

<sup>3</sup> He was a woollen draper in St. Paul's Churchyard, Alderman of London, and Colonel of a city regiment, and was knighted at Whitehall 16 Apl. 1680. He married (Mar. Lic. Vic. Gen. 26 Nov. 1667, then called of St. Mary Savoy, citizen and draper of London, bachelor, aged about twenty-eight) Elizabeth, dau. of William Brewer, and widow of John Briscoe, of St. Mary-at-Hill, citizen and fishmonger of London (by whom she had a dau. Elizabeth, who married John Sherman: see his burial 30 Dec. 1705), by whom he appears to have had no issue, and who survived him and was buried at Kensington, Midx., 2 Feb. 1696-7. According to his gravestone, which gave only his name and title, he died 9 Oct. His will, then of Kensington, dated 6 Oct. 1695, was proved 12 Mch. 1695-6, by his relict Dame Elizabeth. He bequeathed all his estate to his brother John Dodson, subject to an annuity of £200 to his wife for life.

<sup>4</sup> The eminent musical composer. Younger son of Henry Purcell, one of the Gentlemen of the Chapel Royal (see his burial 13 Aug. 1664), by his wife Elizabeth, who was buried at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 26 Aug. 1699. He is said to have been born in Old Pye Street, Westminster, about 1658, and was probably baptized in the Abbey (as was his sister four years later), though no record of it occurs in the Register, which is defective at that period. He became Organist of the Abbey, on the resignation of Dr. John Blow in 1680, and of the Chapel Royal 14 July 1682. He died, from the effects of a cold, 21 Nov., and was buried in the North aisle. His will, dated on the day of his death, merely left all his estate to his wife Frances, who proved it 7 Dec. following (see her burial 14 Feb. 1705-6). See the baptisms of his children, 9 Aug. 1682, 30 May 1688, 6 Sep. 1689, and 10 Dec. 1693, and the burials of his sons, 17 Oct. 1682, 3 Aug. 1686, and 23 Sep. 1687. See also the burial of his uncle, another member of this eminently musical family, 2 Aug. 1682, and the baptism of his sister 13 Mch. 1661-2.

<sup>6</sup> His will, as John Standbrooke, citizen and barber-chirurgeon of London, dated 20 Sep., was proved 3 Dec. 1695, by his sons-in-law Richard Sayer and John Cholmley. To his wife Sarah he left an annuity of £78 for life, and the furniture, plate, etc., in his house at Swanscombe, co. Kent. To his nephew Francis Mackreth he left the goods in his dwelling-house at Millbauk, Westminster, and small legacies to his brother Thomas Savage and his cousin Sarah Townsend. The rest of his estate, consisting of numerous houses and lands in Westminster, in Bishopsgate Street, London, in Hampstead, Midx., and in Swanscombe and Northfleet, co. Kent, he left to his said two sons-in-law and their children, viz., Richard Sayer, of St. Giles, Cripplegate, London, soapmaker, who married his dau. Sarah (Mar. Lic. Vic. Gen. 18 Apl. 1677), and John Cholmley, of St. Olave's, Southwark, co. Surrey, brewer, who married his dau. Alice (Mar. Lic. Vic. Gen.

<sup>2</sup> Capt. George Slaughter, born in Gloucestershire, and had been a cornet to the first Duke of Ormond: he directed these facts to be stated on his gravestone, in his will dated 19 Jan. 1693-4. In a later will, dated 24 Dec. 1695, he called himself of Shanbally, co. Tipperary, Ireland, Gent. He bequeathed his estate in Shanbally to his nephew George-Slaughter Batty, son of his nephew Thomas Batty, Gent., on condition that he used the surname of Slaughter only; and other considerable legacies to other children of said Thomas Batty (who had apparently married his niece), but the dau. Elizabeth Batty was to have only five shillings, instead of £400, if she married any "Irish papist." To his sister Amy (afterwards Amy Lawrence) he left an annuity of £20 for life, and other legacies to the son of his niece Thawyts, his cousin Matthews, and his nephew John Hanbury and his wife. The will was proved, 2 Mch. 1695-6, by his sister Mary Pomeroy (see her burial 10 Oct. 1707), to whom he left £1,200. He died 1 Jan.

<sup>5</sup> See, probably, the burial of her husband 1 Aug. 1700, and the marriage of her dau. 17 Dec. 1685.

Chapel, between the Earl of Bridgewater's tomb and the North wall.

Wrenthorpe, in the same county, Esq., by whom she was mother of Robert, Lord Bingley (see his burial 14 Apl. 1731). She married, secondly (Mar. Lie. Fac. 3 Mch. 1679-80), Sir Henry Belasyse (see his burial 21 Dec. 1717), to whom she was first wife. See the burial of her dau. 14 Feb. 1695-6.

<sup>5</sup> He appears, from the best accounts, to have been a native of Bacharach, in the Lower Palatinate in Germany, and to have been educated at the University of Wittenberg, where he had the degree corresponding to that of our Master of Arts. His father seems to have held the respectable position of recorder, or secretary, of his native town, and he was probably nurtured in Protestantism. He is said to have come to England in 1661, and probably made his way at once to Oxford, where he was incorporated M.A., as of Queen's College, 15 Mch. 1663-4. For some little time he was one of the Chaplains of that College, and also curate of All Saints, Oxford. He then became Chaplain to Christopher, Duke of Albemarle, and tutor to his son, and obtained, through the Duke, the rectory of Dolton, co. Devon. He also became a Prebendary of Exeter, 13 June 1670. Shortly after, resigning Dolton, he became minister of St. Mary-le-Strand, Westminster, being licensed 29 July 1671, and a few months later was married. In 1681 he had the degree of S. T. P. at Cambridge, and subsequently became Chaplain in Ordinary to K. William and Q. Mary. He was installed Prebendary of Westminster 1 July 1693, and of Wells 28 Sep.

1694. His will, dated 18 June 1695, was proved by his relict Jane 21 May 1697, but contains nothing of special interest. He died, of the stone, 31 Jan., in his fifty-sixth year. See the burials, of his wife 21 Apl. 1703, of his dau. 8 Jan. 1734-5, and of his son 27 Apl. 1746. Besides these children, he had four sons who died young. His eldest son, Philip Horneck, was LL.B. of Cambridge in 1698, and the next year Chaplain to Lord Guildford. He wrote at least one play, called the "High German Doctor," and in January 1715-16 was appointed Solicitor to the Treasury. He died, still holding that office, 13 Oct. 1728. Dr. Horneck was a voluminous theological writer, and some of his works were greatly praised by the best Biblical critics, while a few have been reprinted in more modern times.

<sup>1</sup> The inscription on his gravestone stated that he had been mason to the Abbey for twenty-three years, and that he died 18 Feb., in his fifty-fourth year. He was very probably a son of Edward Tufnell and Catharine Moorecocke, both described as of Christ Church, London, who were married at St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., 8 Oct. 1638. See the burial of his wife, as Dorothy Noble, 20 Oct. 1720. The baptisms of ten of his children occur in the parish registers of St. Margaret's, Westminster. See the burials of his children, 14 Dec. 1707, 11 Sep. 1719, 3 Apl. 1723, and 24 Dec. 1733, and his son's marriage 27 Oct. 1697.

<sup>2</sup> One of this name matriculated at Oxford, from Christ Church, 27 June 1690, as son of John Flower, of Chippenham, co. Wilts, and then aged seventeen years. He does not appear to have taken any degree.

<sup>3</sup> The inscription on her monument stated that she was born in the county of Anglesey, and served the royal family in England, France, and Holland, above fifty years, being at her death eldest Bedchamber-woman to the Princess Anne of Denmark; that she had two uncles, viz., Richard Griffith, who was Harbinger to K. James I., and Maurice Griffith, who was Chirurgion to Prince Charles; and that she died 24 Apl., aged seventy-five. Her maiden name, therefore, appears to have been Griffith. Her will, dated 2 May 1693, was proved 7 May 1697, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, by her niece Elizabeth Atkinson, widow (see her burial 15 Mch. 1725-6), to whom she bequeathed the most of her possessions. She left to her brother's widow £10, and to his son and dau, each £50, and to her niece Mrs. Lawson £10, but named no other relations.

1690-1, was proved 12 Nov. 1697, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, by the relict Ursula, who is alone named in it. He died 2 Nov.

<sup>2</sup> Her maiden name was Vimart or Vimar, and she was the widow of Bartholomew Hervart, a native of Augsburg. He and his brother were bankers in Paris, and, at an important crisis, placed their large fortune at the disposal of King Louis XIII., which enabled him to resist successfully the invasion of Alsace. In return he bestowed upon them sundry estates, which were, however, confiscated at the revocation of the Edict of Nantes. He was also appointed, by Mazarin, Comptroller-General of the Finances, and held that post at his death in 1676. She probably came to England with her daughter, the Marchioness de Gouvernet (see her burial 10 July 1722), who administered to her estate 23 Sep. 1698, when she was described as Hester Vimar alias Hervart, late of St. James, Westminster, widow. Her son, Philibert Hervart, also a refugee in England, was ambassador at Geneva during the reign of K. William, and died, at Southampton, 30 Apl. 1721. See the burial of her grand-daughter, Lady Eland, 26 May 1694.

<sup>3</sup> Only dau. of Sir Thomas Gower, second Bart. of Stittenham, co. York, by his second wife, Frances, dau. and coheir of Sir John Leveson, of Haling, co. Kent, and of Lilleshall, co. Salop, Kt. She died unmarried. Her will, as of Trentham, co. Stafford, dated 15 Oct. 1697, was proved 26 May, 1698, by her nephew, Sir John Leveson Gower, fifth Bart., afterwards Baron Gower, and ancestor of the present Duke of Sutherland.

proved 14 Nov. following, by his uncle John Morgan, of the city of London, merchant, whom he made residuary legatee. He bequeathed to his brother Thomas Morgan, of Tredegar, £1,000, to his brother John Morgan, Jun., of Mahen, co. Monmouth, Gent., £500, and smaller sums to his uncle Lewis Morgan, of Mahen, and his aunt Catherine Morgan, of Tredegar, spinster. One of this name was a "Yeoman in the Accompting House" in 1692.

<sup>4</sup> Only son of Sir John Lort, second Bart. of Stackpool Court, co. Pembroke, by Lady Susanna Holles, dau. of John, second Earl of Clare. He succeeded as third Bart. in 1673. He died, unmarried, 19 Sep., in his twenty-eighth year, and the title became extinct. His will, dated 9 Aug. 1698, was proved 3 Dec. following, by his mother Dame Susanna Lort. He bequeathed his estates to his only sister (see her burial 6 Oct. 1714), and they are now in possession of her descendant, Earl Cawdor.

<sup>5</sup> His monument states that he was Commander of H.M.'s ship the "Colchester," and died 3 Oct., aged thirty-three. He obtained his first commission as Captain 10 June 1692, when he was appointed to the "Chester," and passed most of his time on the West India station. He is usually said to have died there, but, from the dates of his death and burial, and his will, this is impossible. His will was dated the day before his death, and proved the day before his burial, by his friend Archibald Hutchinson, of the Middle Temple, Esq. He provided for the maintenance of his illegitimate son William Julius, of the island of St. Christopher, and his illegitimate dau. Jemima Julius, of the island of Nevis, until they should be eighteen years of age, when each was to have £200, and gave £500 to Elizabeth Hibbals, his half-sister. The residue of his estate he left to his own sister Elizabeth, wife of Thomas Westcott, of the island of St. Christopher.

<sup>2</sup> Eldest surviving son of Sir John Temple, Kt., Master of the Rolls in Ireland, by Mary, dau. of John Hammond, of Chertsey, co. Surrey, M.D. He was created a Baronet 31 Jan. 1665-6, and succeeded his father as Master of the Rolls. He was of the Privy Council, a distinguished statesman and man of letters, and his memory is well preserved in his "Memoirs" and various writings. He died in his seventieth year, leaving no surviving male issue, and the title became extinct. See the burials, of his wife 7 Feb. 1694-5, of his dau. 27 Mch. 1679, and of his sister 5 Jan. 1722-3. His younger brother was ancestor of the Viscounts Palmerston.

<sup>7</sup> His will, as of St. Margaret's, Westminster, Gent., dated 14 Apl. 1699, was proved 13 May following. He mentioned no relations, but left his house and other property to his friend Mrs. Susanna Standish, widow, who with two other friends were his executors. To his servants then living with him he bequeathed his interest in his school at Westminster, and left rings to dancing and singing masters, etc. He directed to be buried in the Abbey Cloisters.

<sup>8</sup> They were half-brothers. See the marriage of their mother 6 Jan. 1675-6, and note thereto, and the burial of her first husband 18 Oct. 1680. John Oxenham had been admitted to the Inner Temple 12 Feb. 1695-6, as his father's eldest son and heir, and was in his twenty-third year at his death. Francis Scott was evidently his mother's eldest son by her second marriage, and was in his thirteenth year. They were drowned 19 June, coming from Chelsea to Westminster, owing, according to Luttrell, to "the waterman being drunk."

<sup>4</sup> He is mentioned in the Chapter Book, 9 Jan. 1692-3, as the Dean's butler. According to his gravestone, he died 6 Aug., aged thirty-three. See the burials, of his wife 17 June 1731, of his dau. 7 Aug. 1734, and of his son 28 Mch. 1741. Probably the child buried 20 Nov. 1716 was also connected with his family.

<sup>7</sup> He is just mentioned in the Chapter Book 1 Oct. 1660, as porter of the Abbey, and 11 Dec. following was appointed groom of the stable, barber of the College, and keeper of the Chapter door. He married, first, at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 18 Dec. 1655, Ann Roper, of that parish, spinster, by whom he appears to have had no children. See the burial of his second wife 4 Nov. 1671, the baptisms of his children by her, 7 Dec. 1663, 11 July 1665, 22 Mch. 1668-9, and 1 Sep. 1671, and the burials of two of them, 14 Feb. 1663-4 and 17 May 1703; also the burial, probably of his brother, 14 Dec. 1680.

<sup>1</sup> Youngest dau. of Charles, first Earl of Macclesfield (see his burial 18 Jan. 1693-4), by Jane, dau. of Peter de Civell, a Frenchman, though she was born in England. She married Digby, fifth Lord Gerard of Bromley, who died 8 Nov. 1684. Their dau. Elizabeth married James, Duke of Hamilton, who was slain in the noted duel with Charles, Lord Mohun, 15 Nov. 1712. Lady Gerard died 11 Mch. See her brother's burial 14 Nov. 1701.

<sup>4</sup> THE GLORIOUS. Eldest son of Erasmus Dryden, of Tichmarsh, co. Northampton, Esq. (third son of Sir Erasmus Dryden, first Bart.), by Mary, dau. of Rev. Henry Pickering, D.D., Rector of Aldwinckle, in the same county, and sister of Sir Henry Pickering, first Bart. of Whaddon. According to a horoscope in Ashmole MS. 243, p. 209, Bod. Lib., he was born thirty-three minutes and sixteen seconds after 5 o'clock p.m., 19 Aug. 1631 (the usual date given is 9 Aug.). He married (Mar. Lic. Vic. Gen. 30 Nov. 1663) Lady Elizabeth Howard, dau. of Thomas, first Earl of Berkshire, who survived him some years, but in a state of lunacy, and their younger son, Erasmus, succeeded as fifth Bart., but left no issue. Their two elder sons also died unmarried, and by the end of the year 1710 the poet's line was extinct. He died 1 May, and, as will be seen by the text, his remains found an appropriate burial-place.

<sup>6</sup> In her will, as of St. Martin in the Fields, widow, dated 30 Oct. 1699, she directed to be buried in the Abbey Cloisters, near her late husband, Robert Nott, Esq. (see his burial 26 May 1695). She bequeathed to her dau. Mary, wife of Mr. Thomas Wise, ten shares in the Bank of England, with remainder to her children, and all other residue and remainders to her cousin Elizabeth Murray, whose husband, William Murray, Gent., proved the will 13 July 1700. See the burials, probably of her children, 6 Mch. 1669-70 and 30 Nov. 1685.

<sup>7</sup> According to a list in the Chapter Book, he was an almsman as early as 5 June 1688. See, probably, his wife's burial 10 Apr. 1696, and the marriage of his dau. 17 Dec. 1685.

<sup>3</sup> His will, as of St. Giles in the Fields, Midx., Gent., dated 17 Oct. 1700, with a codicil 11 Dec. following, was proved 14 Jan. 1700-1, by his second wife and relict, Catharine (see her burial 5 Jan. 1713-14), to whom he gave his lands, etc., in Furnaux-Pelham and Brent-Pelham, Herts, with remainder to his dau. Catharine, evidently his only child by her (see her burial 6 July 1708); but, if his said dau. Catharine should die unmarried, then the poor of Kirkbradden, including the town of Douglas, in the Isle of Man, were to have £300, to be laid out for them by the Bishop and Governor of that island, and by Mr. William Thompson, merchant, also of that island, and his heirs. He also bequeathed to Mr. Robert Fletcher, and Mr. John Fletcher, sons of his uncle Mr. Thomas Fletcher, deceased, and to the three sons of Mr. John Thompson, of co. Cavan in Ireland, but formerly of the Isle of Man, each £100, and to the children of his aunt, Mrs. Jane Moore, each £50, all in case his dau. Catharine should die unmarried; and he appointed as guardians of his dau. (then only a few months old) his wife and his friend George Stanlake, of the Inner Temple, Gent. In the codicil he left £10 for mourning to his "good friend and kinsman, Matthew Pryor, Esq." See the burial of his first wife 12 Nov. 1685, and the burials of his children by her, 22 Feb. 1678-9 and 7 Aug. 1700, certainly, and probably (so probable as to be almost certain), 20 Dec. 1678, 12 Apl. 1679, 27 Feb. 1680-1, 11 Sep. 1682, and 13 Sep. 1688.

<sup>5</sup> The Christian name in the Register is wrong, and should be Sarah. In the original affidavit of her burial in woollen, curiously preserved among the Abbey muniments, dated 22 Jan. 1700-1, she is called "Mrs. Sarath Milmay, of the parish of Crist Church in the City of London." In her will, dated 2 Jan. 1700-1, she was described as "Sarah Mildmay, widow, relict of Humphrey Mildmay, of Queen-Camel, co. Somerset. Esq.," and she directed to be buried in the Abbey Church of St. Peter in Westminster, while an affidavit to her handwriting states that the will was written on that day, "at her lodgings in the house of Mr. Dewe, in Warwick Lane," which is in the parish of Christ Church. There can be, therefore, no doubt as to her identity, or that there was an inadvertent error in the Abbey Register. She left £100 for her funeral expenses, and £10 to the poor of Plympton St. Mary, co. Devon, where she was born. She also left legacies to her nieces Mrs. Mary Lamb, Mrs. Dorothy Davy, Mrs. Judith Joyner and her sister Amy, and Sarah Parker. All her plate on which the arms of the family of Parker were engraved, and all her books, she bequeathed to her nephew Thomas Parker and his three daughters. The will was proved, 14 Mch. 1700-1, by her trustee and executor, Francis Nixon, of Doctors' Commons, Gent. It is evident, therefore, that she was the youngest dau. of Edmund Parker, of North Molton, co. Devon, ancestor of the Earls of Morley, by Amy, youngest dau. of Sir Edward Seymour, first Bart. of Berry-Pomeroy. She was unmarried at the date of her father's will, in 1642, and was probably upwards of seventy years of age at her death.

<sup>2</sup> Only son of Lewis Aowill, of Park, co. Merioneth, Esq., by Catharine, dau. of William Griffith, of Len, who remarried Sir Hugh Owen, second Bart. of Orielton, co. Pembroke. He married Elizabeth Owen, dau. of his step-father by his first wife. His will, as of Park, co. Merioneth, Esq., dated 25 July 1699, with codicils 29 Jan. and 1 Feb. 1700-1, was not proved until 25 June 1705, and then by certain trustees to whom he had conveyed such of his estates as were not already settled on his wife. He named numerous relations, but apparently had no children.

<sup>3</sup> Eldest dau. of William-Henry de Nassau, Lord of Zuglestein, created Earl of Rochford 10 May 1695, by Jane, dau. and heiress of Sir Henry Wroth, of Durants, in Enfield, co. Midx. She died unmarried.

<sup>4</sup> See a baptism 17 Sep. 1693. On her gravestone she was called Mrs. Anne Carter, and said to have died 4 April. William Carter, bachelor, and Anne Wells, widow, both of St. Margaret's, Westminster, had a license to marry, from the Dean and Chapter, 28 Oct. 1663. See burials 22 Mch. 1712-13 and 29 Aug. 1714, both in the same place.

<sup>5</sup> His will, as Edward Siston, of Whitehall, Midx., Yeoman of his Majesty's Wood-Yard, dated 25 Mch. 1701, was proved 14 July following, by his friend Mr. Richard Miller, steward to Sir Stephen Fox, and by his servant Thomas Beard, son of his servant Mary Beard. He directed to be buried in the Cloisters of Westminster Abbey. He bequeathed to Temperance Siston, widow of his late brother John Siston, £150, to her dau. Jane £100, and to the other children of his said brother, viz., Elizabeth, Mary, Patience, Sarah, and Rebecca, each £50, and similar sums to Edward, Anne, and Mary, children of his late brother William Siston. To his sister Mary, wife of William Chaplin, he gave £200, and to her children William, Robert, Michael, Mary, and Jane, each £30. To his said servant Mary Beard he gave £250, and his goods and furniture in his rooms in the Wood-Yard in Whitehall, and to said Thomas Beard her son £50 and all his apparel.

<sup>6</sup> Third but second surviving son of Edward, second Earl of Carlisle, by Elizabeth, dau. and coheir of Sir William Uvedale, of Wickham, Hants, Kt. He was M.P. for Carlisle in 1695 and 1698, and Luttrell says that at his death he was knight of the shire for Northumberland. He died at Northampton, unmarried. See the burials of his sisters, 26 Aug. 1685 and 3 Nov. 1694.

<sup>7</sup> Probably a second son of the same name of Thomas Jenings, Gentleman of the Chapel Royal (see his burial 29 Mch. 1734), by his first wife Elizabeth (see her burial 16 July 1720). See also the burial of another son of the same name 24 Nov. 1693.

<sup>3</sup> Her will, as of St. Margaret's, Westminster, spinster, dated 28 Sep. 1701, was proved on the 30th of the same month, by her brother John Draper, residuary legatee. She directed to be buried in the place indicated in the text. She bequeathed a large diamond ring to the Countess of Tankerville, and other jewels, etc., to persons some of whom were evidently in the service of the nobility. The will furnishes no clew to her family.

<sup>4</sup> Son of Rev. Joseph Williamson, Vicar of Bridekirk, co. Cumberland, and said to have come to London while young, as clerk or secretary to a member of Parliament. He matriculated at Oxford, from Queen's College, 18 Nov. 1650, as a servitor, and was B.A. 2 Feb. 1653-4, and M.A. 11 Nov. 1657. After holding various public positions he was appointed Clerk of the Council, and was knighted 24 Jan. 1671-2. He was Principal Secretary of State from 11 Sep. 1674 until 20 Feb. 1678-9, M.P. for Thetford in several Parliaments, and President of the Royal Society. See his wife's burial 11 Nov. 1702. He left no issue.

<sup>5</sup> His patent as a vergers was ordered 19 Jan. 1663-4 (Chapter Book). His will, as of St. Margaret's, Westminster, Gent., dated 14 June 1701, was proved 20 Apl. 1702, and states that he was of a very great age. He bequeathed his freehold estate at Chilton, in the parish of Atcham, co. Salop, to his nephew Richard Cocks, of Shrewsbury, with remainder successively to numerous nephews, nieces, and cousins, of the names of Cocks and Jones. He mentioned also his late brother Richard Cocks, his cousin Susanna, wife of Paul Mansfield, and his cousins Richard and Catherine Calcott. His executors were his cousins William Jones, of Chilton, Gent., and Joseph Jones, Gent.

<sup>6</sup> According to his gravestone, he died 10 Nov., in his thirty-sixth year. See his wife's burial 2 Nov. 1705, the baptisms of his children, 7 Sep. 1693, 16 Jan. 1695-6, and 20 May, 1698, and the burial of his son 29 May 1698.

<sup>7</sup> Charles Gerard, eldest son of Charles, first Earl of Maclesfield (see his burial 18 Jan. 1693-4) by Jane, dau. of Peter de Civell. He succeeded as second Earl, and was twice married, but left no issue. He was a colonel in the army, and had been ambassador to Hanover on the subject of the royal succession. He died 5 Nov., according to Luttrell, shortly after his return from that mission. See his sister's burial 19 March 1699-1700.

coheir of Sir James Altham, of Oxhey, Herts, Kt., one of the Barons of the Exchequer. He matriculated at Oxford, from Magdalen College, 15 Sep. 1669, aged fourteen, and was actually created M.A. 1 Feb. 1670-1. He took the degrees of B.D. 23 June 1677, and D.D. 5 July 1689. He was installed Prebendary of Westminster 20 Sep. 1679, and of Exeter 23 Mch. 1680-1, and Dean of Exeter 7 Apl. 1681. He succeeded his young nephew as third Baron Altham, in the Irish peerage, shortly before his death. He died 19 Nov. He married Dorothy, dau. of John Davey, of Ruxford, co. Devon, Esq., who remarried William Vesey, Esq. Her will was proved 18 Feb. 1717-18. See the baptisms of his children, 31 Oct. 1689, 6 Jan. 1695-6, 8 Dec. 1698, and 17 Jan. 1699-1700, and the burials, of his sons, 23 Feb. 1689-90, 18 Nov. 1690, and 31 Aug. 1696, and of his daughter 7 Aug. 1699.

<sup>3</sup> Son of William of Nassau, only son of Henry-Frederick, Prince of Orange, who succeeded to that title and died 27 Oct. 1650, by the Princess Royal, Mary, eldest dau. of K. Charles I. (see her burial 29 Dec. 1660). He was born at the Hague, as is usually said, 14 Nov. 1650. (A horoscope in Ashmole MS., Bod. Lib., 243, p. 158<sup>b</sup>, says that he was born 4 Nov., at 8.30 p.m..) He ascended the throne 13 Feb. 1688-9, and was crowned with Queen Mary 11 Apl. 1689 (see her burial 5 Mch. 1694-5). He died 8 Mch., at Kensington, without issue.

<sup>5</sup> Third but eldest surviving son of Ernestus Carey, of Great Shelford, co. Cambridge, Esq., by his first wife, St. John, dau. of Thomas Salveyn, of Croxdale, co. Durham. He succeeded his cousin Robert, as seventh Baron Hunsdon, 26 Sep. 1692. He died 11 Sep., unmarried.

<sup>6</sup> Eldest dau. of Walter Stuart, Esq., third son of Walter, first Lord Blantyre, and third wife of Charles, third Duke of Richmond and sixth of Lennox (see his burial 20 Sep. 1673). It is said that she was the most beautiful woman of the period, and that K. Charles II. contemplated divorcing his Queen in order to marry her, and was exceedingly angry at her marriage with the Duke of Richmond, which must have taken place very shortly after the death of his second Duchess (see her burial 6 Jan. 1666-7), if, as is stated, it was publicly acknowledged in April, 1667. She died 15 Oct. In a codicil to her will, dated 7 Oct. 1702, occurs the following passage: "It is my will to have my Effigie as well done in wax as can bee, and sett up neare the old Duke Lodowicke and Duchesse Frances of Richmond and Lenox, but in a presse by itsclfe distinct from the other, with cleare crowne glasse before it, and dressed in my Coronation Robes and Coronett." Visitors to the Abbey may, by special favour, still see the "effigy" produced by the artist in wax under these instructions.

<sup>4</sup> He was sworn a Gentleman of the Chapel Royal extraordinary 17 Dec. 1689, and in ordinary 8 Apl. 1692, and "advanced to the place of Epistler" 24 Feb. 1693-4. He died 20 Dec. His will, dated 12 Dec. 1702, was proved 11 Feb. following, by his brother George Snow and his sister Sarah Gibbons.

<sup>5</sup> See his baptism 24 Mch. 1668-9, and the burial of his brother 4 Nov. 1674, and the notes thereto, for an explanation of an undoubted double error in the Register. He matriculated at Oxford, from Christ Church (elected from St. Peter's College, Westminster), 17 Dec. 1686. He was appointed High Bailiff of Westminster 23 Aug. 1692, and is styled in the Chapter Book "M.A." and "Clerk." but in his will he is described as a "Gentleman." He and his son Richard were in succession godsons of Dr. Busby. See the burials, of his father 9 Aug. 1711, his mother 26 Aug. 1685, his wife 5 May 1704, his sons 3 Aug. 1700 and 23 Nov. 1705, and his dau. 5 March 1723-4.

<sup>2</sup> His will, as John Millward, of St. Margaret's, Westminster, Clerk, dated 3 Apl. 1703, was proved on the 29th of the same month, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, by his nephew John Millward, on behalf of George Millward, son and residuary legatee of the deceased, who was named as executor, but was then in the West Indies. To his dau. Susanna Millward he left £100, and to his brother-in-law Captain William Freeman a ring. No other relations are mentioned. He bequeathed the interest of £100 to the Dean and Chapter for perpetual charities.—One of this name, son of Thomas Millward, of Old Swinerton, co. Worcester, matriculated at Oxford, from Pembroke College, 24 Mch. 1670-1, aged sixteen, but his name is not in the printed list of graduates. One John Milward was A.B., as of Catherine Hall, Cambridge, in 1674, and another, as of St. John's College, in 1690.

<sup>3</sup> Dau. of Thomas Bolton, of St. Christopher-le-Stocks, citizen and grocer of London, by his wife Jane Downes. She was baptized at St. Christopher's aforesaid 27 Nov. 1649, and was married to Dr. Horneck about 19 Feb. 1671-2 (Mar. Lic. Vic. Gen.). Her will, dated 14 Apl. 1703, was proved on the 22nd of the same month, by Bartholomew Dutton, of St. Clement Danes, Midx., Gent., husband of her sister Honoria. See the burials, of her husband 4 Feb. 1696-7, of her dau. 8 Jan. 1734-5, and of her son 27 April 1746.

<sup>4</sup> One of the Gentlemen Ushers of the Privy Chamber to Q. Anne, and had been one of her Gentlemen Waiters when Princess. He died, according to his monument, 19 Apl., in his fortieth year. See his wife's burial 9 July 1718, and the burials 6 Jan. 1700-1 and 30 Apl. 1708, probably of members of his family, as they were all in the same locality. His son George was baptized 31 Jan. 1688-9, and his son John 29 Jan. 1690-1, both at St. Margaret's, Westminster.

<sup>5</sup> See his baptism 22 Mch. 1668-9, and the burials, of his mother 4 Nov. 1671, and his father 5 Mch. 1699-1700. His will, as of St. Margaret's, Westminster, Gentleman, dated in May 1703, was proved on the 15th of the same month, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, by his nurse, Elizabeth Paine, widow, to whom he left all his possessions.

<sup>6</sup> Dau. of Samuel Vyner, of London, Esq. She married, first, at St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., 21 May 1667, Francis Millington, of London, merchant, one of the Commissioners of the Customs to K. Charles II., whose will, dated 6 July 1692, was proved 1 Dec. 1693, and who was buried at Wandsworth, co. Surrey. (See the marriage of their only child 18 May 1686, and her burial 17 June 1718). See her second marriage, to Dr. Birch. 24 Nov. 1697, and his burial 4 July 1710. She was his second wife, and they appear to have had no issue. She died, according to her monument, 25 May, aged fifty. Her husband administered to her estate 9 June following, and in the record she is said to have died at Epsom, co. Surrey.

<sup>5</sup> Charles, third son of Charles de St. Denis, Lord of St. Evremond. He was born at St. Denis le Gast, in Normandy, 1 Apl. 1613, and succeeded to the estate of St. Evremond on the death of his father. He passed his latter years in England, and occupied a certain rank among the literary men of his day. A complete edition of his works was published in England in 1728. He died 9 Sep., and his will, dated 24 Aug. 1703, was proved 17 Sep. following, by Henry, Earl of Galway. It contains nothing of interest, except the statement that the Duchess of Mazarin owed him £400 at her death.

<sup>8</sup> See his marriage 10 Feb. 1699-1700, as Captain Kirke, and his wife's burial 23 Dec. 1754. While the Abbey Register calls him Colonel Kirk, Luttrell, in his Diary (v. 379), under the date of 13 Jan. 1703-4, seems to mention his death, and describes him as "Major Kirk, of the Duke of Northumberland's regiment of horse." His gravestone merely stated that George Kirk, Esquire, died 10 Jan., and he is so also described in the record, when letters of administration were granted to his relict, 6 Mch. following. It is difficult to determine his identity, by reason of the mystery that surrounds the most of those of his name of this period. Luttrell gives an account of a Captain Kirk who was found guilty of the manslaughter of Conway Seymour, Esq., and sentenced to be burned in the hand 29 Jan. 1699-1700, but that was only twelve days before this Capt. Kirk was married. Sir David Kirke, Kt., who died in 1653-4, left an eldest son George, but he would have been about sixty-five years of age in 1700.

<sup>1</sup> Catharine Greville, eldest dau. of Fulke, fifth Lord Brooke, by Sarah, dau. of Sir Samuel Dashwood, Kt., Alderman of London. She married, first, Wriothesley-Baptist, second Earl of Gainsborough, who died 21 Sep. 1690, and secondly, John Sheffield, first Duke of the County of Buckingham (see his burial 25 Mch. 1721), to whom she was second wife. She died 7 Feb., aged thirty-eight, leaving no issue by her second husband, but two daughters by her first, viz., Elizabeth, who married Henry Bentinck, first Duke of Portland (see his burial 3 Nov. 1726), and Rachel, who married Henry, second Duke of Beaufort.

<sup>2</sup> The Chapter Book, under the date of 16 Jan. 1687-8, recites that Collins, the bricklayer, was dismissed from his employment, and he and his family were ordered to quit the singing-man's house in the Cloisters which they occupied. A creditor administered to his estate, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, 7 Mch. 1703-4. See his wife's burial 21 Oct. 1704, and probably his son's 20 May 1681.

<sup>3</sup> According to his gravestone, he died 20 Feb., in his forty-seventh year. His will, dated 16 Feb. 1703-4, was proved on the 29th of the same month, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, by his relict Elizabeth : see her burial 10 Dec. 1719, and the burials of his sons, 26 Nov. 1718 and 8 Dec. 1724.

<sup>5</sup> Second son of Henry Hyde, afterwards second Earl of Rochester and fourth Earl of Clarendon, by Jane his wife (see her burial 1 June 1725). He was born the 6th, and baptized 21 Oct. 1703, at St. Martin in the Fields, Midx. See the burials of his brothers and sisters, 17 Nov. 1702, 2 Nov. 1709, 5 July 1710, 24 Mch. 1739-40, and 12 June 1753.

<sup>7</sup> Addison's "Tom Brown of facetious memory." He is usually said to have been the son of a farmer, and born at Shiffnal, co. Salop. He matriculated at Oxford, from Christ Church, 4 July 1678, aged fifteen, as son of William Brown, of Newport, co. Salop, and was B.A. 20 Mch. 1683-4. His writings were of a character not greatly to his credit, and his early death may be said to have closed a wasted life. He died 16 June, and was buried, perhaps not inappropriately, near Mrs. Behn (see her burial 20 Apl. 1689), with whom he had been intimate during his early life in London.

<sup>8</sup> Fifth but fourth surviving son of Sir Francis Windebank, Kt., the well known Secretary of State to K. Chas. 1. He was baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 11 June 1618, and matriculated at Oxford, from New College, 23 Sep. 1634. He became a Fellow of his College, and was created M.D., by order of Cromwell, 5 Apl. 1654. He afterwards studied abroad, and eventually practised at Guildford, co. Surrey. He was admitted Honorary Fellow of the Royal College of Physicians of London, 30 Sep. 1680. His will, as of St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., Doctor of Physic, dated 17 Feb. 1703-4, was proved 15 Aug. following, by his dau. Frances Loveday, widow (see her burial 14 Jan. 1736-7), whom he made his residuary legatee. The only other bequests in his will were £100 each to his grandchildren Susanna, Mary, Charlotte, John, and Charles, children of his son Richard Windebank, all then in their minority. See the burial of another of his daughters, and apparently his only other child, 7 June 1681.

<sup>1</sup> See his father's burial 15 Mch. 1719-20, and the baptism of another son of this name 13 Nov. 1704.

<sup>4</sup> Third son of Charles Somersset, Marquis of Worcester (eldest son of Henry, first Duke of Beaufort, but died before his father), by Rebecca, dau. of Sir Josiah Child, first Bart. of Wanstead, co. Essex. He died young. His mother, then Baroness-Dowager Granville, of Potheridge, co. Devon, administered to his estate, as a minor, 14 Apl. 1709. He died 31 Dec. 1704, and Dart (ii. 55) says that his remains were removed 31 July 1712. If so, it was probably that they might be interred with those of his mother, who died on the 27th of that month.

<sup>2</sup> See the marriage of his parents 27 Oct. 1697, and note thereto, and his father's burial 11 Sep. 1719. He was third son, and was baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 13 June 1705.

<sup>6</sup> See the burial of (probably) his brother 6 Apl. 1643, and note thereto. According to his monument, he died 28 Nov., aged sixty-three, having served K. William III. and Q. Anne as Envoy Extraordinary. According to Luttrell, who invariably calls him "Dr. Aglionby," he went as Envoy to Spain in Jan. 1691-2, to Savoy in May 1693, to Spain again in Feb. 1700-1, and to Switzerland in Sep. 1702, where he appears to have remained until May 1705. He married (Mar. Lic. Bp. Lond. 9 July 1702) Catherine Hildyard, then aged twenty-four, whose parents were dead, by whom he had a son William, and an evidently posthumous dau. Sybilla (see her burial 11 June 1706). His will, as of Chelsea, Midx., Gentleman, dated 24 Nov. 1705, was proved 12 Jan. 1705-6, by the relict Catherine. He bequeathed to his son William £2,000 when of age, to his unborn child £500, and to his sister-in-law, Mrs. Anne Hildyard, spinster, his gold watch. No other relations are mentioned in the will. He was probably the one of this name inquired about in the Gentleman's Magazine, 1794, p. 685, and then supposed to be a native of Cumberland.

<sup>7</sup> See the marriage of his parents 27 Oct. 1697, and the note thereto, and his father's burial 11 Sep. 1719. He was fourth son, the second of this name, and was baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 13 June in the same year.

minster, were granted 24 May 1706, limited to a certain bond, to his wife's sister, Anne Longueville, of Shidlington Bury Park, Midx., widow, his wife renouncing. He married Elizabeth, dau. of John Briscoe, of St. Mary-at-Hill, citizen and fishmonger of London, by his wife Elizabeth Brewer, who remarried Sir William Dodson, Kt. (see his burial 16 Oct. 1695, and note thereto). Their dau. Hannah was living 6 Oct. 1695, and their son John Sherman administered to the estate of his sister Susanna 28 June 1736, their mother being then dead.

<sup>2</sup> He was appointed Receiver-General and Solicitor to the Abbey by patent dated 5 Mch. 1680-1, but appears to have been connected with the Abbey as early as 13 Nov. 1662, when he had the reversion of this patent. His will, dated 4 Feb. 1705-6, was proved 8 Mch. following, by his relict Jane, and his son-in-law the Rev. William Needham. He had estates at Bacton and Wyverstone, co. Suffolk. Besides his own family, he left legacies to his kinsmen Robert Cropley, of Cambridge, Gent. and Mr. William Smith. See his wife's burial 7 Apl. 1708; the baptisms of his children, 15 Mch. 1663-4, 5 Sep. 1666, 31 Mch. 1668, 13 Apl. 1670, and 21 Jan. 1672-3; the marriages of his daughters, 5 Dec. 1682, 5 July 1691, and 8 July 1702; and the burials of his daughters, 13 Feb. 1679-80 and 27 June 1681. He died 10 Feb., aged about seventy-five, as in an affidavit to Dr. Busby's writing, dated 17 Feb. 1697-8, he stated his age to be then sixty-seven. The name appears to have been indifferently written "Nedham" and "Needham."

<sup>3</sup> Frances Purcell, widow of the eminent musical composer (see his burial 26 Nov. 1695). She made a nuncupative will 7 Feb. 1705-6, "as she sat in a chair in the parlour of her dwelling house at Richmond," co. Surrey. She appointed Mr. Thomas Tovey her executor, until her dau. Frances Purcell should reach the age of eighteen, when she was to be her executrix, and she proved the will 4 July 1706. The will states that "according to her husband's desire, she had given her deare son [Edward] good education, and she alsoe did give him all the Bookes of Musick in generall, the Organ, the double spinett, the single spinett, a silver tankard, a silver watch, two pair of gold buttons, a hair ring, a mourning ring of Dr. Busby's, a Larum clock, Mr. Edward Purcell's picture, handsome furniture for a room, and he was to be maintained until provided for." All the residue of her property she gave to her said daughter Frances, and she and her brother Edward were evidently her only surviving children. No other person was named in the will. See the baptisms of her children, 9 Aug. 1682, 30 May 1688, 6 Sep. 1689, and 10 Dec. 1693, and the burials of her sons, 17 Oct. 1682, 3 Aug. 1686, and 23 Sep. 1687.

<sup>4</sup> She appears to have been a niece of Thomas Blagrove (see his burial 24 Nov. 1688), and is so called in his will, and in that of his wife (see her burial 12 Oct. 1689), and she was cousin, residuary legatee, and executrix of John Goodwin (see his burial 10 July 1693). She married, first, John Frost, Gent. (see his burial 26 Dec. 1696), to whom she seems to have been second wife, and was his executrix. She remarried (Mar. Lic. Fac.) about 12 July 1697, Dr. Charles Goodall, Physician of the Charterhouse, afterwards President of the Royal College of Physicians of London. Her age was then stated to be about fifty, and she was Dr. Goodall's third wife. She died 17 Feb., and her will, dated 8 Jan. 1705-6, with codicils 13, 14, and 15 Feb., was proved 10 Apl. following. Dr. Goodall, having married a fourth wife, died 23 Aug. 1712, and was buried in the parish church of Kensington, Midx., his relict surviving until Dec. 1732.

<sup>7</sup> Her nuncupative will was made on or about 26 Sep. 1706, she being then sick in the house of Dr. Thomas Knipe, within the precincts of the College of St. Peter, Westminster, where she had lived for several years. She gave all she possessed to her sister Margaret Oram (see her burial 26 Aug. 1707), who proved the will. 6 Dec. 1706, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, and their sister, Mary Bolton, widow, administered de bonis non 18 Nov. 1707. She died unmarried.

<sup>8</sup> In his will, dated 4 June 1705, he described himself as "Agent for prizes on board the Fleet for the West Indies." He gave to his brothers, Anthony, James, and John Burnaby, each one shilling, and the residue of his property to his good friend Mrs. Mary Holmes, of St. Margaret's, Westminster, who proved the will 8 Nov. 1706. According to his tombstone, he died 8 Nov., in his thirty-third year. The arms on the stone are those, either of Burnaby of Watford, co. Northampton, or those of the family of Baronets, of Broughton, co. Oxford; but, being un-tinctured, it is impossible to determine which.

<sup>10</sup> Eldest son of William Delaval (sixth son of Sir Ralph Delaval, of Seaton-Delaval, co. Northumberland, Kt.), by Mary, dau. and heir of Sir Peter Riddell, of Newcastle-on-Tyne, Kt. He attained his seniority in the Navy 9 Apl. 1679, was Admiral of the Blue in 1690, and knighted 31 May in that year, and was one of the Lords of the Admiralty 15 Apl. 1693. By his wife Hester (said by Le Neve to have been a dau. of one Major, of London), who survived him, he had two sons and three daughters, four of whom were born and baptized at St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., between the years 1670 and 1676. <sup>1</sup> Dau. of Robert Hyde, Esq. by Anne, dau. of Edward Rogers, of Cannington, co. Somerset, Esq. (by his wife Catharine, dau. of Sir John Popham, Kt., Lord Chief Justice), who were married before 1638. She is named in the will of her mother's brother, Henry Rogers, Esq., the great benefactor to the church of St. Mary Aldermary, London, dated 8 May 1672, as daughter of his sister Anne Hyde, then deceased. Her father was living in 1643. She died 22 Feb., unmarried, and her will, dated 5 Dec. 1705, with codicils 20 Jan. 1705-6 and 18 Dec. 1706, was proved 25 Feb. 1706-7, by her cousin Robert Hyde, whom she made her residuary legatee. She left legacies to her cousin Thomas Warre and his sisters Anne and Elizabeth, and her cousins Richard, Henry, Frederick, and Anne Coleman. In 1715 there was a banner over her grave containing, if correctly described, the arms of Hyde of Norbury and Hyde, co. Chester, with the difference of a third son.

He was one of the Comptrollers of the Army Accounts, and M.P. for St. Mawes. He married about 9 May 1666 (Mar. Lic. Fac.), then aged twenty-four, and already knighted, Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Edward Seymour, third Bart. of Berry Pomeroy, co. Devon. According to his gravestone, he died 25 Apl., in his sixty-fifth year. His will, as of Tregonan, co. Cornwall, dated 13 Oct. 1704, was proved 29 May 1707, by his relict Dame Elizabeth, his son John renouncing. He mentioned also his dau. Elizabeth, and her husband John Nicholls, Esq.; his dau. Mary Tredenham; his grand-daughter Elizabeth, dau. of his only son John; and his late son Seymour Tredenham, deceased.

From his will it is evident that he was a grandson of Sir Thomas Stepney, Kt., by his second wife, Mary, eldest dau. and coheir of Sir Bernard Whetstone, of Woodford, co. Essex, Kt., whose son Bernard Stepney, Esq., as his uncle, was one of his legatees, and this assumption is confirmed by the will of his sister Dorothy. His will, dated at Brussels 13 Aug. 1707, was proved 1 Dec. following, by his sister Frances (see her burial 24 Mch. 1718-19) and his sister Dorothy (see her burial 6 Nov. 1724). Besides his uncle Bernard Stepney, he left legacies to his cousin Erasmus Lewis (see his burial 15 Jan. 1754), his uncle Capt. James Partridge, and his cousins Charles Whitworth, Esq., and Mrs. Anne Baker.

<sup>1</sup> According to his gravestone, he died 21 Sept., in his forty-third year. Letters of administration to his estate were granted, 6 Oct. 1707, to William Warren, father of his niece Frances Warren, a minor, evidently his sister's child. He was described as a bachelor.

<sup>4</sup> Anne, dau. of Alexander Weld, of Ware, co. Herts, Esq., who was buried there 1 Mch. 1703-4, as of Widbery Hill, J.P., in his seventy-ninth year, by his first wife Anne, also buried there 6 July 1664. She was baptized at Ware 24 Feb. 1647-8, and married, first, about 21 July 1668 (Mar. Lic. Fac.), Francis Plevy, of Allhallows, London Wall, grocer, by whom she had one dau., Anne, who, according to her second husband's will, subsequently married her own uncle. She married, secondly, after 1683, Giles Hooper, of Clement's Inn, Gent. (see his burial 5 Aug. 1699), by whom she appears to have had no issue. Her dau. Anne, wife of Edward Thompson, administered to her estate 11 Feb. 1707-8.

<sup>1</sup> The doubts about the parentage and place of birth of Sir Cloudesley Shovell have not yet been set at rest. He is usually said to have been born in the county of Norfolk, in or about the year 1650, and a modern writer positively names his birth-place as Cley, in that county, and states that he was brought up in the trade of a shoemaker (Cust's Warriors of the Seventeenth Century). It is also said that the record of his baptism, 25 Nov. 1650, occurs in the parish register of Cockthorpe, in Norfolk. On the other hand, Abraham De la Pryme, in his contemporaneous Diary (Surtees Society, 1869, p. 169), as positively asserts that he was "a poor lad, born in Yorkshire, who was first ostler at an inn at Redford, in Nottinghamshire; after that, being weary of his place, he went to Stockwith in Lincolnshire, where he turned tarpaulin, and from thence, getting acquainted with the sea, he grew up to what he now is." The minuteness of this description, and the manner in which he is traced from place to place, gives this statement an air of accuracy. Against it, however, is to be set the counter-statement of the Rev. Gilbert Crockatt, Rector of Crayford, co. Kent, who, in 1708, published a "Consolatory Letter" addressed to Lady Shovell, then residing in his parish, and afterwards buried there. He says: "As to the admiral, he was born in the year 1650, in the county of Norfolk, of an ancient family, chiefly considerable for loyalty and plain downright honesty, which was therefore natural and hereditary to Sir Cloudesley. Nor was it inconsiderable for estate; though that was lessened by their faithful adherence to King Charles the First, of ever blessed memory. However, the good old gentlewoman, Sir Cloudesley's mother, being still alive, enjoys no contemptible competency; which has been transmitted for many years from father to son in the family, and, being by her son redeemed from some incumbrances, was by his natural affection continued entire to his mother." Against this passage, in the margin, the writer placed this sentence: "The great design of this is to correct some mistakes and false stories concerning Sir Cloudesley's birth and education." It is possible that De la Pryme may have been misled by the "false stories" mentioned, but he wrote his statement eleven years before, viz., in 1697, and apparently with a knowledge of the facts. It is also not unlikely that the rector of Crayford was anxious to say as much in favour of the deceased husband of his patroness as possible. It seems inconceivable, if his statement is correct, that the utmost vigilance of Norfolk antiquaries has failed to discover any trace of his "ancient family," or that of the "gentlewoman" his mother, or of the "estate" they held for so many generations in that county. It is probably safe to assume that his origin was humble. His career, and the circumstances of his death, are matters of history. His monument says that he was shipwrecked on the Scilly rocks, 22 Oct. 1707, in his fifty-seventh year. He appears to have been knighted, on board his ship in Bantry Bay, 1 May 1689. He married, at Allhallows-Staining, London, 10 Mch. 1690-1, Elizabeth, dau. of John Hill, Esq., Commissioner of the Navy, and widow of Admiral Sir John Narborough, Kt., and his marriage allegation (Vic. Gen.) gives his age as above thirty. Of his two daughters, the eldest, Elizabeth, married Sir Robert Marsham, Bart., afterwards Lord Romney. Lady Shovell died 15 Apl. 1732. His will, dated 29 Apl. 1701, was proved by his relict 13 Jan. 1707-8. He left to his mother, then Mrs. Anne Flaxman, all his lands and tenements in Morston, co. Norfolk, for her life, with remainder to his sister Mrs. Anne Shorton, or Shorten, and at her death they were to go to his cousin John Thurston, and his heirs and assigns for ever. The children of his said sister were named; and he also left legacies to his aunt Ringstead and her dau. Mary; his cousin Elizabeth Thurston, dau. of his aunt Thurston deceased; and William, Anne, and Abigail Jenkinson, children of his uncle Cloudesley Jenkinson. From these relationships, it would seem an easy task for antiquaries of Norfolk or Yorkshire to settle the disputed question of his ancestry, provided that they represented families at all above the lowest rank.

<sup>2</sup> Robert Leke, eldest son of Nicholas, second Earl of Scarsdale (see his burial 4 Feb. 1680-1), by Lady Frances Rich (see her burial 21 Nov. 1692). He was born 9 Mch. 1653-4, and baptized at St. Giles in the Fields, Midx., on the 15th of the same month. He succeeded as third Earl, and died without surviving issue. According to one of Le Neve's MS. Diaries, he died on Saturday night, 27 Dec. 1707, at his house in Duke Street. See his wife's burial 20 Feb. 1683-4, and that of his only child 15 Mch. 1680-1. His will, dated 9 Jan. 1702-3, was proved 2 Jan. 1707-8, and contains but one bequest of special interest, viz. : "to Mrs Anne Bracegirdle I give and bequeath £1000, and desire that this legacy may be the first money paid" (see her burial 18 Sep. 1748).

Her mother, also mother of the first Lord Holland and of the first Earl of Ilchester, has come down in the peerages, in the most extraordinary manner, as "Christian, dau. of the Rev. Charles Hope, of Nasely, co. Lincoln." How the error originally occurred it is impossible to say, but it has been perpetuated from the earliest to the latest period, and even Sir Stephen Fox himself signed a pedigree in the College of Arms, in which the mistake distinctly appears. There never was such a place as "Nasely" in Lincolnshire, nor, so far as is known, a clergyman of the name of "Charles Hope" at that period. She was the dau. and coheir of the Rev. Francis Hopes, of St. John's College, Cambridge, A.B. 1663, and A.M. 1667, Rector first of Haceby, and afterwards for twenty-three years of Aswarby, both in co. Lincoln. He died, "in his grand climacteric," 13 Mch. 1704-5, and was buried at Aswarby, where a monument was erected to his memory by his dau. Lady Fox, stating these facts, which are also otherwise confirmed. His wife was Christian Palfreyman, and they were married at Haceby 25 Apl. 1670, where their dau. Christian, afterwards Lady Fox, was baptized 12 Oct. 1677. According to the monument, the mother died in 1687, aged forty. The dau. Christian, being then in her twenty-sixth year, was married, at Chiswick, Midx., 11 July 1703, to Sir Stephen Fox, then in his seventy-seventh, and had by him the issue already named, and another dau., Charlotte, who married Hon. Edward Digby, son of William, fifth Lord Digby. Lady Fox died, at Bath, 17 Feb. 1718-19, and was buried with her husband at Farley, co. Wilts. In her will, dated 16 Aug. 1718, she left an annuity to her brother Francis Hopes and her sister Jane Burslem jointly, and considerable legacies to Thomas and Christian Burslem, children of the latter. As the grandmother of the celebrated statesman Charles-James Fox (see his burial 10 Oct. 1806), it is well that her true parentage should at last be put upon record.

<sup>4</sup> The Rev. Francis-Durant de Bréval, according to Evelyn, "had been a Capuchin, but much better learned than most of that order." It is not exactly known when he became a Protestant, or when he came to England, but he preached in London as early as October 1669, and his dau. Mary-Ann was buried at St. Paul's, Covent Garden, 14 Dec. in that year. He became rapidly popular, for he was instituted Prebendary of Rochester in May 1671, installed Prebendary of Westminster 21 Nov. 1675, and in the latter year created S.T.P., at Cambridge, by the royal command. He was instituted rector of Milton, next Gravesend, co. Kent, 12 July 1680, and held the living until his death. See his wife's burial in July 1719 ; the baptisms of his children 6 Apl. 1687, 3 Dec. 1688, and 4 Jan. 1690-1 ; and the burials, of his son 22 Aug. 1691, and of his daugh-

<sup>2</sup> According to his gravestone, he died 3 Feb., aged sixty-five (Dart, ii. 130), but other books containing the inscription, now lost, say aged sixty-one.

<sup>4</sup> Eldest son of James Ravenscroft, Esq., descended from the family of this name at Bretton, co. Chester, who died 10 Dec. 1680, aged eighty-five, and was buried at Chipping-Barnett, Herts, by Mary, dau. of William Peck, of Spixworth, co. Norfolk, Esq. He married, first, before 1664, Magdalen, dau. of John Paris, of Pudding-Norton, co. Norfolk, Esq., by whom he had an only child, John, who was living in 1680, but evidently died before his father. He died, according to his gravestone, 20 Apl., in his eightieth year. The stone also contained the well-known inscription : "What I gave, I have ; what I spent, I had ; what I left, I lost by not giving it." In his will, as of St. Giles in the Fields, Midx., Esq., dated 23 Sep. 1707, he left an annuity of £60 to his then wife Frances, and appointed his servant Martha Richardson executrix.

<sup>6</sup> He was sworn a gentleman of the Chapel Royal in 1660, and chosen Clerk of the Cheque in 1688. He was one of the Abbey choir as early as 1664, and master of the children in 1670. He died 12 June. His will, as Edward Braddock, of St. Margaret's, Westminster, Gent., dated 21 May 1708, was proved 28 June following, by his son, Edward Braddock, who, with his grandchildren, the children of his only dau. Elizabeth, wife of Dr. John Blow (see her burial 31 Oct. 1683), and a dau. of his said son, were his only legatees. See his wife's burial 6 Nov. 1690.

<sup>1</sup> His monument states that he was first chosen M.P. in 1684, and was in most of the succeeding Parliaments until his death; that he was five years Governor of Barbados, and afterwards one of the Commissioners of the Admiralty; and that he died at Carshalton, co. Surrey, 10 July 1708, in his sixty-first year. In his will, as of St. Margaret's, Westminster, dated 2 July 1702, he left small legacies to his cousin John Kendall, late of Treworgy [co. Cornwall], and his cousin Agnes, dau. of his aunt Burbidge; but bequeathed his entire real and personal estate in England, and his estate in Barbados called Kendall Plantation, with all the slaves, etc., and all monies due to him there, to Mrs. Walker Colleton, eldest dau. of Col. Thomas Colleton, late of Barbados, deceased, her heirs and assigns for ever, and appointed her, and her uncle John Meade, of the city of Westminster, Gent., his executors. The latter proved the will 13 July 1708. See the burial of his niece 13 Mch. 1709-10.

<sup>4</sup> John Methuen, eldest son of Paul Methuen, of Bradford, co. Wilts (who in his will called himself a "clothier"), by Grace, dau. of John Ashe, of Freshford, co. Somerset, Esq., and niece of Sir Joseph Ashe, first Bart. of Twickenham, Midx. He matriculated at Oxford, from Edmund Hall, 21 Apl. 1665, aged fifteen, but appears to have taken no degree. He subsequently entered the Inner Temple, became a barrister-at-law, and was appointed a Master in Chancery 20 June 1685. Engaging in diplomatic pursuits, he became Envoy to Portugal in the early part of the reign of K. William III., and early in 1697 was appointed Lord Chancellor of Ireland, first taking his seat on the woolsack 15 June in that year. He held this latter position until July or August 1703, when he was again appointed Ambassador to Lisbon, and died there in that capacity, suddenly, of gout and rheumatism, 13 July 1706, his remains being two years later brought to this country. He was the author of the celebrated Treaty with Portugal which is still known by his name, and was also of the Privy Council, and M.P. for Devizes. His will, dated 30 June 1702, was proved 11 Mch. 1706-7. See the burials, of his dau. 29 Apl. 1711, and of his son 19 Apl. 1757.

<sup>1</sup> The celebrated musical composer. He is always said to have been born, in 1648, at North Collingham, co. Notts, but neither his name nor the names of any of his family are to be found in the register of that parish at that period. His age at his marriage, as stated in the allegation, 23 Sep. 1674, was twenty-six, which accords with the above date. He was brought up in the Chapel Royal, and became Organist of the Abbey in 1669, but resigned the position in 1680 in favour of Henry Purcell, and resumed it on his death in 1695. He was sworn a Gentleman of the Chapel Royal 16 Mch. 1673-4, and became Master of the Children July 1674, Organist Oct. 1676, and Composer in 1699. He was also Almoner and Master of the Choristers at St. Paul's from 1687 to 1693. His degree of Doctor of Music was conferred upon him by Archbishop Sancroft. In 1685 he became a member of the Royal Band, and was appointed "Composer in Ordinary to His Majesty." He died 1 Oct., and his will, dated 3 Jan. 1707-8, was proved 14 Oct. following, by his three daughters. See the burials, of his wife 31 Oct. 1683; of his sons, 1 Sep. 1676 and 8 June 1693; and of his daughters, 9 Sep. 1719, 25 May 1730, and 22 Nov. 1738.

<sup>2</sup> Youngest son of Frederick III., King of Denmark, by Sophia-Amalia, dau. of George, Duke of Lunenburg. The date of his birth was variously given in the journals of the day, and has since been by various authorities, as 29 Feb., and 11 and 21 Apl. 1653; but the inscription on his coffin-plate, as preserved in one of the Funeral Books of the Abbey, states that he was born at Copenhagen 2 Apl. 1653. He married the Princess Anne, second dau. of K. James II. (see her burial, as Queen Anne, 24 Aug. 1714), 28 July 1683, and was created, 9 Apl. 1689, Baron Wokingham, of co. Berks; Earl of Kendal, co. Westmoreland; and Duke of Cumberland. He was Lord High Admiral of England from 20 May 1702, and of Great Britain from 28 June 1707. He died at Kensington 28 Oct., without surviving issue. See the burials of his children, 13 May 1684, 4 and 10 Feb. 1686-7, 22 Oct. 1687, 14 Oct. 1690, 18 Apl. 1692, 24 Mch. 1692-3, and 9 Aug. 1700.

<sup>4</sup> Son of Charles, first Duke of Southampton, and afterwards Duke of Cleveland (see his burial 3 Nov. 1730), by his second wife, Anne, dau. of Sir William Pulteney (see her burial 28 Feb. 1745-6). He was baptized at St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., 27 Aug. 1701.

Fermanagh, in Ireland, by Susanna, youngest dau. of Sir William Balfour, of Pitcullo, co. Fife, Scotland, Kt. She was baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 7 Feb. 1666-7, and married, first, 3 June 1683, Sir John Magill, Bart. (of Ireland), who died without issue, and secondly, about May 1700, Marcus Trevor, second Viscount Dungannon, who died in Spain 8 Nov. 1706, when the title became extinct. She married, thirdly, in July 1708, Henry Bertie, Esq., third son of James, first Earl of Abingdon, who survived her, and administered to her estate 24 Dec. 1708. She died 10 Dec.

Sir Denner Strutt, of Little Warley, co. Essex, Kt. and Bart.). She appears to have been the second wife of Edward Lucy, who is described on the monument to her dau. in the Abbey as of the ancient family of that name in co. Warwick, and who died before 13 Nov. 1678. Their son, Joseph Lucy, was baptized at St. Bride's, London, 11 Sep. 1664, and evidently died young. Her will, dated 29 Sep. 1708, was proved 19 Feb. 1708-9. Her bequests were chiefly to the children and grandchildren of her sister Martha Price (see her burial 11 Apl. 1678), and of her sister Dorothy Lovell, but she mentioned her son-in-law Charles Lucy, his wife, and his son James. See the burial of her only daughter 21 June 1681.

<sup>5</sup> According to his monument, he was born in Kilconnel, co. Galway, Ireland, served Kings Chas. II. and James II. "with approved fidelity" upwards of fifty years, and died 2 June 1709, in his eighty-fourth year. His wife died before him, and he must have married after he had passed his sixtieth year, as his only son John (see his burial 10 Oct. 1715) was not born until 1688 or 1689. His will, as of St. James, Westminster, Esq., dated 11 Sep. 1707, with a codicil 29 Jan. 1708-9, was proved 16 June 1709, by Lancelot Burton, Esq., one of five persons named as his trustees and executors in England. Denis Daly, of "Carowne Kelly," Esq., and James Daly, of "Dunsandle," Esq., both in co. Galway, were his executors in Ireland. Between the dates of the will and codicil, his daughter Mary had married Thomas Daly, Esq., and she administered de bonis non to her father's estate, 6 Aug. 1753, as Mary-Power Daly, widow. He left to his dau. "Anne alias Ursula Coleman" £10 per annum for life, and small bequests to his sister Managhan and her children, his sister Helena (or Ellen) Kelly and her children, and his sister Mary, whose heirs were to be heirs to half his estate if his own children died without issue, and the other half was to go to his relations of the surname of Coleman. See a burial 1 Jan. 1736-7.

12 Sep. 1709, by Thomas Jett, Esq., husband of her grand-daughter Anne (see her burial 29 Apl. 1721). See the burial of her daughter, Mrs. Jane Lownds, 10 July 1685.

<sup>5</sup> William Bentinck, son of Henry Bentinck, of Overysseel in the Netherlands. For his faithful services to K. William III., when Prince of Orange, whom he accompanied to England, he was created, 9 Apl. 1689, Baron Cirencester, Viscount Woodstock, and Earl of Portland. He died 23 Nov., in his sixty-second year. See his son's burial 3 Nov. 1726.

<sup>8</sup> According to her monument, she was dau. of Thomas Kendall, of Killigarh, co. Cornwall, Esq., and Mrs. Mary Hallet, his wife, and was born in Westminster 8 Nov. 1677, and died at Epsom, co. Surrey, 4 Mch. 1709-10. She was an intimate friend of Lady Catharine Jones, and desired to be buried in this Chapel, where she knew her ladyship intended to be buried. Her will, dated 28 July, with a codicil 23 Dec. 1709, was proved 7 Apl. 1710, by her cousin Rev. Nicholas Kendall, Canon of Exeter, to whom she devised all her manors, lands, etc., in Cornwall. She left considerable legacies to several distant relations, and named as residuary legatee her cousin Capt. Charles Kendall, son of her cousin Nicholas Kendall, merchant, deceased. See her uncle's burial 16 July 1708.

	May	12	The Hon. George Churchill, Esq. : <sup>2</sup> at the upper end of the middle aisle, on the right hand going into the Choir.
	May	31	Reynolds Ramsey, a youth: <sup>3</sup> under the arch leading into the Little Cloister.
	June	22	The Hon. Carolina, daughter of his Grace the Duke of Schomberg: <sup>4</sup> in the vault at the East end of K. H. 7th's Chapel.
	July	4	Peter Birch, D.D., Prebendary of this Church; <sup>5</sup> died the 2 <sup>d</sup> : in the South Cross, near St. Benedict's Chapel.

<sup>1</sup> The celebrated tragedian. He was a younger but eldest surviving son of Matthew Betterton, of Westminster (said to have been an under-cook to K. Charles I., but who described himself in his will as a "gentleman," and bequeathed, among other things, his "grandfather's seal ring"), by his second wife, Frances, dau. of Thomas Flowerdew, of St. Margaret's, Westminster, vintner, who, in his will, dated 2 Apl. 1636 and proved, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, 18 Sep. 1637, bequeathed to them the house in Totlill Street, Westminster, which he had bought for them, and in which they were then living. He was their second child, they having been married about 14 Oct. 1630 (Mar. Lic. Bp. Lond.), and was baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 12 Aug. 1635. The dramatic histories of his period furnish a full account of his personal career. He died 28 Apl., without issue, and apparently intestate. See his wife's burial 13 Apl. 1712, and his brother's 23 Dec. 1678.

<sup>2</sup> Third but second surviving son of Sir Winston Churchill, of Great Minterne, co. Dorset, Kt., by Elizabeth, dau. of Sir John Drake, of Ashe, co. Devon, Kt., and born 29 Feb. 1652-3. He was a brother of the famous Duke of Marlborough (see his burial 9 Aug. 1722), and of the notorious Arabella Churchill, afterwards Mrs. Godfrey (see her burial 10 May 1730). He entered the Navy at an early age, attained his seniority 10 Apl. 1678, was subsequently one of the Lords of the Admiralty, and in 1701 an Admiral of Great Britain. He died 8 May, unmarried. By his will, dated 27 Apl. and proved 10 May 1710, he left all his real and personal estate equally to his illegitimate son George Churchill and his nephew Francis Godfrey, subject only to an annuity of £27 to be paid to one Mary Cooke for life.

<sup>5</sup> Fourth surviving son of Thomas Birch, of Birch Hall, Manchester, co. Lancaster, Esq., the celebrated colonel in the Parliamentary army, and M.P. for Liverpool, by Alice, eldest dau. of Thomas Brooke, of Norton, co. Chester, Esq. He matriculated at Oxford, from Christ Church, 12 May 1673, aged twenty-one, having recently conformed to the established Church, and was B.A. 23 Mch. 1673-4, M.A. 23 June 1674, B.D. 4 Feb. 1683-4, and D.D. 7 July 1688. He was at various times a chaplain and pettecanon of Christ Church, curate of St. Thomas, lecturer of Carfax, and Rector of St. Ebbe's, all in the city of Oxford, chaplain to James, Duke of Ormond, and minister of St. James, Westminster. He became chaplain to the House of Commons in 1689, and was installed Prebendary of Westminster 17 Oct. in that year, afterwards becoming Sub-dean and Archdeacon. He was Rector of St. James, Westminster, from 11 July 1692 until 24 Jan. 1693-4, and became Vicar of St. Bride's, London, 19 Mch. in the latter year. He married, first (Mar. Lic. Vic. Gen. 17 Nov. 1686), Mary, dau. of Edmund Waller, Esq. (the poet), who died in 1688, and by whom he appears to have had no issue. He married, secondly, Martha, dau. of Samuel Vyncer, Esq., and relict of Francis Millington, merchant (see the marriage 24 Nov. 1697, and her burial 28 May 1703), by whom also he had no issue. He married, thirdly, Sibyll, dau. of Humphrey Wyrley, Esq. (see her burial 12 Aug. 1708), by whom he had surviving issue. See the marriage of one of his sons 14 Feb. 1736-7, and the burial of another, 18 Nov. 1747.

<sup>2</sup> See the burials, 4 Oct. 1679 and 6 Oct. 1681, both in the same place. She was the administratrix of Mrs. Mary Boraston (see her burial 4 Oct. 1691), as her next of kin.

<sup>3</sup> See her husband's burial 30 May 1703. She appears to have been his second wife. In her will, dated 27 Mch. 1708, she left small legacies to her brother Thomas Slater, and her sisters Margaret Hammond and Grace Day, and made her son-in-law John Sherwin residuary legatee and executor. The will was proved, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, 25 Nov. 1710, by curators assigned to said John Sherwin, then a lunatic.

<sup>4</sup> In his will, dated 18 June 1696, being the usual seaman's power of attorney, he was described as "Armorer on board H. M.'s ship Newark, Capt. Robert Fairfax, Commander." It was proved, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, 8 Aug. 1710, by the relict Elizabeth (see her burial 7 Apl. 1730). An endorsement on the will stated that he was of St. Margaret's, Westminster, and died 23 July 1710.

<sup>6</sup> Eldest son of Sir Francis Godolphin, K.B., by Dorothy, second dau. of Sir Henry Berkeley, of Yarlington, co. Somerset, Kt. He was created a Bart., as of Godolphin co. Cornwall, 29 Apl. 1661, but died unmarried, 17 Aug. 1710, and the title became extinct. See the burials of his brothers, 8 Oct. 1712 and 28 July 1720.

 Dec. 21 James, son of Mr. James and Sarah Broughton:<sup>7</sup> in the East Cloister.
 Dec. 25 Mrs. Dorothy Thomas:<sup>8</sup> in the East Cloister.

<sup>2</sup> Eldest son of the Rev. Dr. Frederick Spanheim, Divinity Professor, first at Geneva and afterwards at Leyden, by Charlotte, dau. of Peter du Port, Lord of Mouillepie and Boismasson. He was born at Geneva in Dec. 1629, and entered Leyden University 27 July 1643. An account of him will be found in Biog. Brit. first edit., vol. vii., App. 163-5. See the burials, of his wife 19 Jan. 1707-8, and of his daughter 18 Feb. 1772.

<sup>5</sup> Dau. of a Mr. Stow, of the city of Canterbury, and sister of Joane Meggs (see her marriage 7 Aug. 1673, and note thereto). She was the relict of Rev. Dr. Charles Gibbes (sixth son of Sir Ralph Gibbes, of Honington, co. Warwick, Kt.), who was born at Honington 4 Nov. 1604, matriculated at Oxford, from Magdalen Hall, 26 June 1621, was Rector of Gamlingay, co. Cambridge, from 1638 to 1647, and afterwards taught a school at Canterbury. He became rector of Stanford-Rivers, co. Essex, 30 Apl. 1661, was created D.D. at Oxford 7 May 1662, and on the 21st of the same month installed Prebendary of Westminster. He died 16 Sept. 1681, aged seventy-seven, and was buried at Stanford-Rivers. Her will, as of Westminster, dated 8 Apl. 1707, with a codicil 3 Aug. 1710, was proved 4 Jan. 1710-11, by her nephew Henry Hawker, Esq., her residuary legatee.

 Sept. 4 The Right Hon. Edward, Earl of Jersey :<sup>6</sup> in the North aisle of the Tombs, against St. John Baptist's Chapel.

<sup>2</sup> Second son of Sir Edward Hyde, first Earl of Clarendon, Lord High Chancellor, &c. (see his burial 4 Jan. 1674-5), by Frances, dau. of Sir Thomas Aylesbury, Kt. and Bart. (see her burial 17 Aug. 1667). He was baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster. 15 Mch. 1641-2. He was Master of the Robes to K. Charles II., and was created, 24 Apl. 1681. Baron Hyde of Wotton Bassett, co. Wilts, and Viscount Hyde of Kenilworth, co. Warwick, and, 29 Nov. 1682, Earl of Rochester. He died 2 May. See his wife's burial 16 Apl. 1687, and the burials of his daughters, 3 June 1730 and 24 July 1737.

<sup>3</sup> Only child of Charles Granville, second Earl of Bath, by his second wife, Isabella, eldest dau. of Henry de Nassau, Lord of Auverquerque (see her mother's burial 27 Jan. 1719-20). He was born 30 Jan. 1691-2, and succeeded as third Earl of Bath in 1701, on the deaths of his father and grandfather in that year. He died 17 May, unmarried, and the title became extinct.

<sup>5</sup> He appears to have been the son of the Rev. Thomas Knipe, by his wife Anne. In the record of his matriculation at Oxford, from Christ Church, 31 July 1658, he is called a clergyman's son, and his sister Mary (see her burial 7 June 1685) was baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, as the dau. of Thomas Knipe ; while in the unofficial Abbey register, his own first wife, Anne (see her burial 26 Aug. 1685), is described as Anne Knipe, junior. It is therefore probable that these were the names of his parents. He was B.A. of Oxford 22 Feb. 1660, M.A. 1 Dec. 1663, and B.D. and D.D. 3 July 1695. He became an Usher of Westminster School in 1661, Second Master in 1663, and succeeded Dr. Bushy as Head Master, by patent dated 6 Apl. 1695. He was installed a Prebendary of Westminster 17 Oct. 1707. According to his monument, he died at Hampstead, Midx., 6 Aug., in his seventy-third year. See the burials, of his second wife 8 Mch. 1722-3, and of his brother 28 Apl. 1673 ; also the baptism of his son 24 Mch. 1668-9, and the burials of his children, 24 Feb. 1670-1, 4 Nov. 1674, 26 Jan. 1677-8, 22 Feb. 1702-3, and 30 Sep. 1703.

wife, Lady Frances Howard (see her burial 27 Nov. 1677). He succeeded his father as Knight-Marshal, and was frequently an ambassador abroad, one of the principal Secretaries of State, and Lord Chamberlain. He was created Earl of Jersey 13 Oct. 1697. He married (Mar. Lic. Fac. 8 Dec. 1681) Barbara, dau. of William Chiffinch, Esq., Closet-Keeper to K. Charles II., who survived him. He died 26 Aug., in his fifty-sixth year.

<sup>1</sup> Son of Germain Crespion, of St. Giles in the Fields, Midx., Gent., by Cornelia, eldest dau. of Stephen Nau, both evidently French emigrants. He matriculated at Oxford, from Christ Church (elected from St. Peter's College, Westminster), 13 July 1666, aged seventeen, and was B.A. 17 May 1670 and M.A. 22 Mch. 1672-3. He was sworn a Gentleman of the Chapel Royal 13 May 1673, and Confessor to the Royal Household 1 Nov. 1675, and became a Prebendary of Bristol 3 Aug. 1683. He had a patent as a sacrist of the Abbey 25 July 1683, and is mentioned in the Chapter Book as Chaunter 16 Jan. 1683-4. He died 25 Nov. See the burials, of his first wife 22 Mch. 1687-8, and of his second 1 Jan. 1759; the baptisms of his children, 4 Apl. 1675, 1 Aug. 1676, 8 July 1677, and 23 Jan. 1693-4; and their burials, 22 May 1675, 22 Aug. 1676, 11 Oct. 1679, and 22 Sept. 1715.

<sup>2</sup> He had a patent as a sacrist 25 July 1683. The will of Mark Bagg, of St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., Gent., dated 24 Sep. 1699, was proved 14 July 1712, by William Taylor, of St. James, Westminster, to whom he bequeathed his house and lands in the parish of St. Mary, in Pembroke. His personality he gave equally to Anne, wife of said William Taylor; Anne Diggory, of St. James, Westminster, widow; and Frances, wife of John Winton, of St. Martin in the Fields.

<sup>4</sup> Only son of Arthur, second Viscount Ranelagh, by Lady Catharine Boyle, dau. of Richard, first Earl of Cork. He succeeded as third Viscount 17 Jan. 1669-70, and was created Earl of Ranelagh in 1674. He was vice-treasurer of Ireland, and governor of the Castle of Athlone. He married, first, Elizabeth, dau. of Francis, fifth Lord Willoughby of Parham (see her burial. 3 Aug. 1695), and, secondly, 10 Jan. 1695-6, Lady Margaret Cecil, dau. of James, third Earl of Salisbury, and relict of John, Lord Stawell. He died 5 Jan., in his seventy-first year. See the burials, of his son 29 Mch. 1678, and of his daughters, 23 Apl. 1740 and 22 Apl. 1758.

<sup>4</sup> Relict of Thomas Betterton, the celebrated tragedian (see his burial 2 May 1710), and herself an equally celebrated actress. The dates of her marriage and death, and place of her burial appear to have been hitherto alike unknown to the biographers of her husband. In the marriage allegation, on which was based the license from the Vicar-General, dated 24 Dec. 1662, she was described as Mary Saunderson, of St. Giles Cripplegate, London, spinster, aged about twenty-five, and the consent of her mother, [blank] Saunderson, widow, was attested by Enoch Darrack, of St. Paneras, Soper Lane, London, grocer. They were to marry at Islington, Midx. Her private character appears from universal testimony to have been without reproach, an instance almost miraculous in her profession at the period in which she lived. After her husband's death the Queen bestowed upon her a handsome pension. She is said to have lost her reason, from the violence of her grief, and to have continued in that condition until shortly before her death; but this statement must be taken with some degree of allowance, as her will, dated 10 Mch. 1711-12, was accepted by the authorities as that of a sane person, and was proved 16 Apl. 1712, by her niece Frances, wife of her nephew Mr. John Williamson. She left to her sister Mrs. Mary Head, and to Mrs. Margaret Robinson and Mrs. Hannah Long, each £20 out of the arrears of her pension, and to her nieces Mrs. Mary Kelly and Mrs. Anne Harrison each £5; but there is reason to believe that they were relations of her husband, instead of her own. She bequeathed rings to Mrs. Bracegirdle, Mrs. Barry, and a few other friends, and made her niece Frances Williamson residuary legatee.

<sup>5</sup> See her father's burial, Aug. 1670, and her mother's 11 Jan. 1672-3. She was born 11 Jan. 1639-40, and died unmarried. Letters of administration to her estate were granted 17 July 1712. She died 25 May.

<sup>7</sup> The celebrated Lord High Treasurer and Prime Minister. Third son of Sir Francis Godolphin, K.B., by Dorothy, second dau. of Sir Henry Berkeley, of Yarlington, co. Somerset, Kt. He was created Baron Godolphin 8 Sep. 1684, and Earl of Godolphin 29 Dec. 1706. He died at the Duke of Marlborough's house, at St. Alban's, Herts, 15 Sep., aged sixty-seven. He married, at the Temple Church, London, 16 May 1675, Margaret, fourth dau. and coheir of Thomas Blagge, Esq. (see his burial Nov. 1660), Maid of Honour to Q. Catharine, who was buried at Breage, co. Cornwall, 16 Sep. 1678. See the burials of his brothers, 3 Sep. 1710 and 28 July 1720.

- Feb. 13 Mrs. Elizabeth Egerton :<sup>6</sup> at the West end of the North long aisle.

<sup>2</sup> The well-known writer, contemporaneously called "King of the Commons." He matriculated at Oxford, from Christ Church (elected from St. Peter's College, Westminster), 16 Dec. 1681, aged eighteen, as son of Ezekiel King, of London, Gent., and was B.A. 8 Dec. 1685, M.A. 6 July 1688, and D.C.L. 7 July 1692. He held several public positions, but does not appear to have made the best use of his powers and opportunities. Some sad stories are told of him, but Dr. Johnson has perhaps furnished his most charitable epitaph: "Though his life had not been without irregularity, his principles were pure and orthodox, and his death was pious." He died 25 Dec., and his will, dated the day before, was proved 21 Jan. following, by his sister Elizabeth King, sole legatee and executrix.

<sup>3</sup> See her mother's burial 27 Mch. 1752, and note thereto. She was born the 12th, and baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 28 May 1712.

<sup>4</sup> According to his monument, he died 17 Jan., in his ninety-third year, and the arms engraved thereon appear to be those of a Danish family of Günther, conferred, according to Rietstap's Armorial Général, in 1638. His will, as of St. Margaret's, Westminster, Esq., dated 27 July 1708, was proved 14 Feb. 1712-13, by William Atwell, goldsmith, and John Cookes, draper, both of London, whom he called his friends. His bequests, which were considerable, were to Elizabeth, wife of Mr. Anthony Skinner, and her dau. Elizabeth, then wife of Mr. Phineas Dabitot and formerly wife of Edward Cookes, and to her children by both husbands, viz., Elizabeth Seward, John Cookes, Mascall Cookes, Edward Cookes, Jane Cookes, Mary Cookes, and Henrietta-Maria Dabitot.

<sup>6</sup> Eldest dau. and coheir of Henry Murray, Esq., Groom of the Bedchamber to K. Charles II., by Lady Anne Bayning, second dau. of Paul, first Viscount Bayning, who was created Viscountess Bayning 17 Mch. 1673-4, and married, secondly (Mar. Lic. Fac. 1 Aug. 1674), Sir John Baber, Kt., M.D. She married, first (settlement dated 1 May 1673), Major-General Randolph Egerton (see his burial 5 Nov. 1681), to whom she was second wife; and, secondly, at St. Giles in the Fields, Midx., 30 Apl. 1691, Hon. Charles Egerton, fourth son of John, second Earl of Bridgewater (see his burial 15 Dec. 1717). She died 30 Jan. See the burials of her children by her first husband, 17 Apl. 1687 and 27 Jan. 1739-40.

<sup>8</sup> It seems strange that the ancestry of one who occupied so prominent a position as Bishop Sprat was never ascertained. He is usually said to have been a native of Talaton, co. Devon, but the inscription on his monument distinctly states that he was the son of a clergyman, and born in Dorsetshire. It has been recently claimed that Beaminster was his place of birth, but of this there seems no sufficient proof. (One of his names matriculated at Oxford, from Lincoln College, 16 Meh. 1626-7, aged eighteen, as son of John Sprat, of Bedwin, co. Wilts, who, from his date and age, might have been his father.) He matriculated at Oxford, from Wadham College, 12 Nov. 1651, was afterwards a Fellow of that College, and had the degree of D.D. 3 July 1669. He was installed a Prebendary of Lincoln 20 Oct. 1660, and of Westminster 22 Feb. 1668-9, and Canon of Windsor 14 Jan. 1680-1. He was at various times Chaplain in Ordinary to the King, Minister of St. Margaret's, Westminster, and Rector of Uffington, co. Lincoln. He was installed

Dean of Westminster 21 Sep. 1683, and Bishop of Rochester 27 Nov. 1684. He was also a distinguished Fellow of the Royal Society. He died, of apoplexy, at Bromley, co. Kent, in his seventy-seventh year. See his wife's burial 3 Mch. 1725-6, the baptisms of his sons, 12 Apl. 1679 and 12 Oct. 1682, and their burials 4 Oct. 1683 and 15 May 1720.

<sup>7</sup> A native of Montpelier, and graduate of the University of Puy-laurens, in France. His diploma as M.A., signed by Andrew Martel, Rector, dated 20 Aug. 1669, is preserved among the records of the Dean and Chapter, as is also his certificate of ordination by the Bishop of London, dated 1 Aug. 1684. He was naturalized in England 21 Jan. 1684-5, and was incorporated M.A. at Oxford 14 May 1688. He was installed Prebendary of Westminster 17 May 1688, and had the rectory of Mixbury, co. Oxford, in 1710. He married, in 1704, the sister of the celebrated Addison (see her burial 10 Mch. 1749-50), and died 3 Sep. 1713, aged sixty-four. His will, dated 19 Apl. 1711, with a codicil 28 Aug. 1712, was proved by his relict Dorothy, 26 Sep. 1713. He left an annuity of £20 to his brother Francis Sartre for life, and directed the payment of £170 which he owed to the heirs or executors of his nephew Joseph Planchut, giving all the residue of his estate to his wife.

<sup>8</sup> A John Shaw was Groom of the Accompting House in 1692, and Yeoman of the same in 1707. According to her monument, she died 7 Sep., in her forty-eighth year. See the burials of her children, 18 Apl. 1706 and 9 Nov. 1709.

burial 4 Aug. 1719), by Caroline-Elizabeth his wife (see her burial 11 July 1696). He was a Colonel of Horse, and commonly called by his father's second title. He died, unmarried, 5 Oct., and, according to the Funeral Book, aged twenty-four; but he is usually said to have been born 15 Dec. 1683.

<sup>1</sup> Child of Ralph Sims, Clerk of the Works (see his burial 5 Feb. 1720-1), by Dorothy his wife (see her burial 14 Jan. 1729-30). She was born 28 Sep. and baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 18 Oct. 1713. She is distinctly described in the Funeral Book, at that time kept by her father.

<sup>2</sup> He is said to have been born in the City of Lichfield 7 Oct. 1636. He was elected to Cambridge, from St. Peter's College, Westminster, in 1656, and had the degree of A.B. there, but was subsequently incorporated B.A. at Oxford, where M.A. 10 July 1661, as of Lincoln College, when his name appears as Withnoll, and B.D. 25 May 1669. After various minor preferments at Exeter and Dublin, he was consecrated Bishop of Cork and Ross 23 Mch. 1678-9, and translated to Kilmore and Ardagh 18 Apl. 1699. He died in London 12 Nov. See the burial of his second wife 18 Apl. 1717, and of his son 29 Aug. 1733.

<sup>3</sup> Called the "Father of English Watchmakers." He is said to have been originally a blacksmith, and was evidently a native of, or resided in early life at, Northill, co. Beds. A James Tompion, described as a watchmaker from London, was buried there 24 Jan. 1742-3, and one of the name has the credit of constructing the clock of that church. Unfortunately the parish registers of Northill, from 1598 to 1672, are lost. The name, however, was long common there. He was made free of the Clockmakers' Company, of London, 4 Sep. 1671, and, after serving in the minor offices, became master of his Company 29 Sep. 1704. According to his monument, he died 20 Nov. in his seventy-fifth year. His will, dated 21 Oct. 1713, was proved 27 Nov. following, by George Graham (see his burial 23 Nov. 1751).. He bequeathed his tenements and lands in Ickwell, in the parish of Northill aforesaid, to his nephew Thomas, son of his late brother James Tompion, and the use of £500 for life to his niece Margaret, wife of Edward Bangor, citizen and clockmaker of London, and dau. of his late sister Margaret Kent, with remainder to his niece Elizabeth, wife of said George Graham, and dau. of his said late brother James Tompion. He also left £400 to Rebecca Nodes, dau. of his late niece Eleanor Nodes, who was the eldest dau. of his said sister Margaret Kent, and £50 to his cousin Thomas Finch. The residue of his estate he gave to his executor.

<sup>4</sup> Son of William Hickman, of Barnack, co. Northampton, Gent. He matriculated at Oxford, from Christ Church, 13 July 1667, aged eighteen, and was B.A. 7 June 1671, M.A. 7 Apl. 1674, B.D. 9 July 1684, and D.D. 6 Feb. 1684-5. He was at various times chaplain to several distinguished personages, and incumbent or lecturer of various parishes, and was consecrated Bishop of Derry 11 June 1703. He married, at the Chapel of Chelsea Hospital, in Apl. 1703, Anne, younger dau. of Sir Roger Burgoyne, second Bart. of Sutton, co. Beds, who died before him, leaving one dau. named Anne. In the marriage license (Faculty Office), dated 2 Apl., he was described as Rector of Farnham-Royal, co. Bucks. He died at Fulham, Midx., 28 Nov.

<sup>2</sup> A child, according to the Funeral Book, aged eleven months. See the burial, probably of her brother, 12 Aug. 1716.

<sup>3</sup> Dau. of the Head Master of Westminster School, by Jane, dau. of Rev. Dr. Samuel De L'Angle (see the note to the baptism of her brother 16 Feb. 1684-5). She was born 12 Feb., and baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 4 Mch. 1713-14. See the note to the baptism of her brother 10 Mch. 1714-15, and the burial of another brother 16 Jan. 1722-3.

<sup>4</sup> Son of Richard Richbell, of the island of Madeira, Esq., by Mary his wife, who, being then his widow, died on board H.M.'s ship "The Bonadventure," and letters of administration to her estate were granted 8 June 1713. He matriculated at Oxford, from Christ Church, 17 Dec. 1713, aged eighteen, and died in St. Paul's, Covent Garden, Mdx., 4 Apl. following. His sister Mary administered to his estate 4 May 1714 (see her burial 16 Nov. 1721). His father was evidently a son of Robert Richbell, Alderman of Southampton, by his wife Frances Baker, of the same place.

<sup>5</sup> The Funeral Book gives his age as seventy. See his wife's burial 14 Mch. 1706-7. The name of "W. West" is cut in various chapels and vaults, once, in the south aisle of Henry Seventh's Chapel, with the addition of "Tomb-shower."

<sup>7</sup> Dau. of Ralph Freke, of Hannington, co. Wilts, Esq., by Cecilia, dau. of Sir Thomas Colepeper, of Hollingbourne, co. Kent. She married her kinsman, Percy Freke, of West Bilney, co. Norfolk, and of the Middle Temple, Esq., apparently under some difficulties. They had a license from the Vicar-General 23 June 1669, she then being described as of St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., aged about twenty-two, but no marriage appears to have taken place. They obtained another license from the same official 7 Aug. 1672, she being described as of the same age, and they were married at St. Paul's, Covent Garden, Midx., 14 Nov. in that year. They were again married at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 26 June 1673. Their son Ralph was created a Baronet 4 June 1713. Her husband's will, dated 3 Feb. 1705-6, was proved 1 July following. According to her monument, she died 7 Apl., aged sixty-nine; but the Funeral Book, evidently quoting the inscription on her coffin-plate, gives her age as seventy-three. See the burials of her sisters, 24 May 1716 and 9 Mch. 1730-1.

Elizabeth Butler, dau. of Thomas, Earl of Ossory (see her burial 12 July 1717). She died, according to her coffin-plate (exposed in 1868), 23 Apl., aged seventeen years.

<sup>2</sup> Dau. of Robert Wheatley, of Brocknol, co. Berks. She married, first, Thomas Lucy, of Charlecote, co. Warwick, Esq., Captain in the Earl of Oxford's regiment, and secondly, early in 1685-6, George Fitzroy, Duke of Northumberland (see his burial 11 July 1716), to whom she was first wife. The common report of the period, repeated by Luttrell on two occasions (i. 373 and iii. 39), was that she was "a poulterer's daughter." If true, it is curious that the "poulterer" found what would be called good matches for his three daughters. This one married, first, a gentleman of an old family, and then a Duke; her sister Anne married Lord George Douglas, first Earl of Dumbarton; and their sister Elizabeth, according to Luttrell, married a brother of the Duke of Berwick. All three were inmates of the Convent at Hammersmith, at different periods, and in a copy of an official list (penes the Editor), carefully annotated by the Lady Abbess, two of these marriages are noted. Certainly the social position of the inmates of that institution was not usually such as is indicated by the alleged parentage of the Duchess of Northumberland. She died 25 May, apparently without issue.

<sup>6</sup> "Ordered, that Mr. Jackson, the College Baker, be turned out of his place, for evident proof of several frauds confessed by him," &c. (Chapter Book, 20 Jan. 1712-13). On 4 Feb. following he was allowed to remain in the baker's house until Michaelmas. See his wife's burial 16 May 1718, the baptism of his dau. 27 Dec. 1675, and the burials of his children, 18 Jan. 1676-7, 7 Nov. 1678, 14 Nov. 1679, and 18 July 1691.

<sup>7</sup> Widow of Thomas Kettlewell, one of the vergers (see his burial 6 Mch. 1676-7). She was ordered to Emery Hill's Alms-houses 4 Oct. 1708 (Chapter Book). See the baptisms of her children, 7 Mch. 1666-7, 14 June 1668, and 6 July 1673, and the burial of her dau. 12 June 1673. She appears, from the Funeral Book, to have been a sister of Martha Webster (see her burial 15 Dec. 1715).

<sup>2</sup> He is said to have been bred a chorister at Lincoln, and to have served afterwards at Durham, and also to have failed as an actor in London, owing to his "ungainly figure and clumsy actions." He was sworn a Gentleman of the Chapel Royal 2 Aug. 1702, an additional place, according to the Cheque Book, having been created for him. He appears to have been a very popular member of the choir, and is said to have died in his thirty-eighth year. Letters of administration to his estate were granted, 9 Nov. 1714, to John Peachey, curator assigned to his minor children, Anne and Bridget, his relict Catherine renouncing (see her burial 15 Dec. 1715). An unaccountable error in the date of his burial occurs in the text. The newspapers of the day, the Cheque Book of the Chapel Royal, and every other authority that mentions him, all say that he died 29 Oct., and the Funeral Book gives the date of his burial as 1 Nov. There can be no doubt that this latter date is correct.

<sup>3</sup> He is called the College beadle in the Funeral Book, and is mentioned as such in the Chapter Book 6 May 1710. See his wife's burial 3 Dec. 1728, and burials 6 Sep. 1769 and 1 July 1771.

<sup>7</sup> Son of Evan Lloyd, Esq., by his wife Ann Vaughan, who remarried Thomas Morice, Esq. (see her burial 24 Oct. 1693). According to his monument, he was of the family of his name at Yale, co. Denbigh, and died 2 Nov., in his sixty-seventh year. His will, as of St. Margaret's, Westminster, dated 28 June 1714, was proved 25 Nov. following, by his kinswoman Ann Lloyd, relict of Capt. Thomas Lloyd, to whom he left most of his estate (see her burial 23 Feb. 1721-2). He bequeathed small legacies to his half-sister Anne Horden (see her burial 28 Aug. 1747), the widow of his half-brother Thomas Morice, his niece Mrs. Ann Porter, and his kinsman Capt. Macdolf Lloyd, then in Ireland. See his sister's burial 11 Apl. 1690.

<sup>8</sup> Second but eldest surviving son of John, second Viscount of Dunbar, by Lady Mary Brudenell, only dan. of Thomas, first Earl of Cardigan. He succeeded as third Viscount in 1666, and married, first, Mary, eldest dau. of John, first Lord Belasyse, of Worlaby, co. Lincoln, and, secondly, Lady Dorothy Brudenell, dau. of Robert, second Earl of Cardigan, and relict of Charles Fane, third Earl of Westmoreland (see her burial 6 Feb. 1739-40). He died, according to his monument and the Funeral Book, 23 Nov., in his sixty-fourth year. His only child, Mary, by his first wife, was baptized at St. Giles in the Fields, Midx., 1 Sep. 1672.

<sup>1</sup> He was admitted to St. Peter's College, Westminster, in 1697, and elected to Cambridge in 1702, where A.B. 1795 and A.M. 1709, and became a Fellow of Trinity College. He was appointed second master of Westminster School in 1711. He died 30 Nov., aged thirty-one. (Perhaps a son of George Tollett, Esq., one of the Commissioners of the Navy, whose wife Elizabeth died 6 Feb. 1702-3, aged forty-one, and was buried at St. Martin in the Fields, Midx.)

<sup>5</sup> The difficulty in identifying this lady is increased by the fact that in the Funeral Book she is called "Viscountess," and her age stated to be forty-six. The word "Viscountess" appears to be a misnomer. After the death of James, third and last Earl of Tyrone, in 1704, one John Power, calling himself Lord Power, probably claiming the old Barony as heir male, petitioned Q. Anne, mentioning that his son was being educated a Protestant, and in 1715 a pension was granted to "Lord Power, a person of suspected principles in Loudon." He died 21 Aug. 1725, aged eighty, leaving a son Henry, and a dau. Clare, who was his executrix. He was a widower at the date of his will, 10 July 1717, and had then another dau., Charlotte, who died before him. The lady named in the text may have been another of his daughters, or, possibly, his wife. There seems no other place for her in the pedigree of the noble family of this name.

<sup>6</sup> Dau. of Sir Dudley Carleton, Kt., some time H.M.'s Resident in Holland and afterwards Clerk of the Council in Ordinary, who was buried at St. James, Clerkenwell, Midx., 9 Mch. 1653-4, by his first wife. She married, at St. Bartholomew the Less, London, 3 Mch. 1648-9, John Ferrers, of Tamworth Castle, co. Warwick, Esq. (only son of Sir Humphrey Ferrers, Kt., by Anne, dau. of Sir John Pakington), who died 14 Aug. 1680. She died, according to the Funeral Book, at the age of ninety. Her will, dated 9 July 1712, was proved 10 May 1715, by her dau. Dorothy, Countess Dowager of Arran (see her husband's burial 27 Jan. 1685-6). She directed to be buried in the Abbey, near her great-uncle Dudley, Viscount Dorchester (see his burial 19 Feb. 1631-2).

<sup>2</sup> Fourth son of Hon. George Montagu (younger son of Henry, first Earl of Manchester), by Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Anthony Irby, Kt. He is said to have been born at Horton, co. Northampton, 16 Apl. 1661, but was baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 12 May following. He was created Baron Halifax 13 Dec. 1700, and Viscount Sunbury and Earl of Halifax 19 Oct. 1714, and was a Knight of the Garter. His literary and political career are well known, but he is chiefly remembered as a statesman and minister of finance. He died 19 May, without issue, when his superior titles expired, and the barony reverted to his nephew.

<sup>3</sup> Only son of Sir Philip Carteret, second Bart. of St. Ouen, by Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Edward Carteret, Kt. (see her burial 29 Mch. 1717). He was baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 4 June 1679, K. Chas. II. and the Duke of Monmouth being his godfathers. He was a Gentleman of the Privy Chamber to Q. Anne, and High Bailiff of Jersey. He succeeded as third Bart. in 1693, and by his wife Mary, dau. of Amias Carteret, Esq., he had a son James, baptized at Isleworth, Midx., 15 June 1694; but no issue survived at his death, and the title became extinct. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 6 June.

<sup>5</sup> He matriculated at Oxford, from Jesus College, 3 Mch. 1664-5, aged sixteen, as son of Richard Lucas, of Presteigne, co. Radnor, ranking as a poor scholar, and was B.A. 22 Oct. 1668, M.A. 28 Mch. 1672, and B.D. and D.D. 11 July 1691. He was for some time Master of the free school at Abergavenny, but became Vicar of St. Stephen, Coleman Street, London, 19 Dec. 1678, and was also lecturer at St. Olave, Southwark, in Surrey. He was installed Prebendary of Westminster 5 Mch. 1696-7, according to the usual authorities, but the Chapter Book gives the date as 13 Feb. in that year. During the latter part of his life he was totally blind, but was the author of several theological works which were much respected in their day. He died 29 June, and his will, dated 2 Mch. 1713-14, was proved 20 July 1715, by his eldest son Robert. He left two other sons, Richard and William, the latter being in holy orders. See his wife's burial 11 Aug. 1727.

<sup>6</sup> Son of Rev. John Barton, of Harrietsham, co. Kent, who died before 1679, by his wife Jane, who died 20 Aug. 1679, and was buried in Bunhill Fields. He matriculated at Oxford, from Magdalen Hall, 23 Oct. 1665, aged seventeen, as a poor scholar, and was B.A. 26 Oct. 1669, M.A. 4 Mch. 1672-3, B.D. 2 Mch. 1681-2, and D.D. 3 July 1697. He was some time chaplain to the House of Commons, and also one of the chaplains of St. Saviour's, Southwark, and was installed Prebendary of Westminster 13 Feb. 1696-7. He died 15 Aug., in his sixty-eighth year. He married, first, 18 Feb. 1685-6, Sarah, third and youngest dau. of Edmond Trench, of All Hallows Staining, London, Doctor of Physic, who was buried at All Hallows Staining 18 Sep. 1708, and, secondly, Amy, sister of Andrew Osborne, Esq., and relict of George Cooke, of Eltham, Kent, citizen and merchant of London, who survived him, and was buried at Eltham in Jan. 1737-8. By her he had no issue. See the burial of Jane Woven, his dau. by his first wife, 16 Dec. 1758, and of her husband, his sister's son, 9 June 1760.

<sup>3</sup> According to his monument, he was of Swansea, co. Glamorgan, lineally descended from Sir George Herbert, of that place, Kt., the first Sheriff of that county in 1541-2, and died 18 Sep., in his twenty-third year. He left an only son, Thomas, who was born the 13th, and baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 27 Oct. 1713. See his wife's burial, as Elizabeth Jefferys, 9 Nov. 1718. Letters of administration to his estate were granted 3 Dec. 1715, when he was described as late of Fryers, near Cardiff, co. Glamorgan, but died at Clapham, co. Surrey.

<sup>4</sup> Young child of Massey Gardner, of St. Margaret's, Westminster, brazier, by Sarah, dau. of Ralph Sims, Clerk of the Works (see his burial 5 Feb. 1720-1). See her brother's burial 29 Nov. 1720. This entry is not in the Register, but in the Funeral Book, then kept by the child's grandfather Ralph Sims.

<sup>5</sup> Her gravestone simply stated that she died 30 Sep. In Neale and Brayley's History of the Abbey (ii. 288) she is wrongly identified as the mother of the celebrated Addison. His father died in 1703, and it was his first wife whose name was Jane. This person died intestate, and was probably of the household of one of the Prebendaries or other officials.

<sup>6</sup> (In the Funeral Book only.) Son of Rev. Humphrey Perschonse, minor canon (see his burial 2 Feb. 1762), by Deborah his wife, dau. of John Rawlins, of the city of Oxford, apothecary. He was born 30 Mch., and baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 1 Apl. 1713.

<sup>7</sup> The Funeral Book gives his age as twenty-six, and says that he was buried in his father's grave : see his burial 6 June 1709. See also a burial 1 Jan. 1736-7, probably of his wife, as she was buried by him, and their ages were about equal.

aged twenty-seven, and Mrs. Catherine London, of St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., spinster, aged twenty-one, with consent of her father Mr. George London; to marry in the Chapel of London House, in Aldersgate Street. Her age, according to the Funeral Book, was twenty-six, and she was buried in her husband's grave: see his burial 1 Sep. 1714. Her will, as of St. Faith's, London, dated 22 Oct. 1715, was proved 24 Dec. following, by her brother George London and Mr. John Peachey, of Paternoster Row, silkman (husband of her sister Henrietta), whom she appointed guardians of her two children, Anne and Bridget. She mentioned also her brother John London.

<sup>1</sup> Son of John Bolte (or Boulte, as the name was more often written), of St. Margaret's, Westminster, whose will he proved, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, 6 Dec. 1700. He was some time one of the Clerks in the Annuity Office of the Exchequer, and at his death Deputy-Teller of the Exchequer. He died 19 Dec., aged, according to the Funeral Book, thirty-nine years, three months, and fifteen days. He married Elizabeth, dau. of John Clayton, Gent. (see his burial 11 June 1713), who survived him, and remarried Rev. Richard Russell, LL.D., Rector of Ash, co. Hants. See the baptisms of his children, 2 June 1702 and 6 July 1705, and his son's burial 25 Dec. 1717.

<sup>3</sup> Second dau. and coheir of Sir Thomas Peyton, second Bart. of Knowlton, co. Kent (see his burial 15 Feb. 1683-4), by his first wife, Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Peter Osborne, Kt. She was baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 19 July 1641, and was unmarried 14 May 1684, when she renounced administration to her father's estate; but married, late in that year, or early in 1685, as his second wife, Sir Thomas Longueville, second Bart. of Wolverton, co. Bucks, who died 25 June 1685, and, according to his monument, a few months after his second marriage. She died 30 Dec. 1715, without issue, and both the Funeral Book and her monument give her age as seventy, which is an error, unless the child baptized in 1641 died in infancy, and she were a second one of her name. See her sister's burial immediately following her own.

<sup>4</sup> Third dau. and coheir of Sir Thomas Peyton, second Bart. of Knowlton, co. Kent, by his first wife, Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Peter Osborne, Kt. She married William Longueville, of the Inner Temple, Esq. (see his burial 30 Mch. 1721). According to both her monument and the Funeral Book, she died 21 Jan., aged sixty-nine. See the marriage of her dau. 17 Aug. 1703, the burial of her son 31 Aug. 1750, and that of her sister immediately preceding her own.

<sup>5</sup> Aged forty-four, according to the Funeral Book, and buried in the grave of Mrs. Grace Kirpatrick (see her burial 14 Dec. 1707). See the note to the burial of Mrs. Dorothy Noble, 20 Oct. 1720.

<sup>1</sup> Younger son of Hon. James Herbert (sixth son, and second of that name, of Philip, fourth Earl of Pembroke), by Jane, dau. of Sir Robert Spiller, of Laleham, Midx., Kt., who were married, at St. Peter's, Paul's Wharf, London, 3 Aug. 1646. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 12 Mch. aged fifty-one. See the burials, of his wife 2 Mch. 1717-18, of his daughters 9 Nov. 1718 and 13 Jan. 1722-3, and of his sister 28 Feb. 1654-5.

<sup>2</sup> Son of Sir Edward Herbert, Attorney-General to K. Charles I. He was created, 29 May 1689, Baron Torbay and Earl of Torrington, co. Devon. He was in the naval service, and several times in command of a fleet, but passed his latter days under a cloud of popular displeasure which he does not seem to have deserved. He married twice, but left no issue, and his titles became extinct. He died 14 Apl., and the Funeral Book gives his age as sixty-seven. His will, dated 30 Mch. 1716, was proved 19 Apl. (three days before his burial), by four trustees to whom he bequeathed all his personalty. His freehold manors, lands, etc., he left to Henry Clinton, Earl of Lincoln, for life, with remainder to Greenwich Hospital for ever. The only relation he mentioned was his sister Agar, to whom he left an annuity of £100 for life.

<sup>3</sup> See the marriage of her parents 5 Dec. 1682, and note thereto. The Funeral Book gives her age as thirty, and says that she was buried in the same grave with her sister, grandfather, and grandmother. See her sister's burial 15 Dec. 1705, her grandfather's 13 Feb. 1705-6, and her grandmother's 7 Apl. 1708. She died unmarried.

<sup>6</sup> Third son of K. Charles II., by Barbara Villiers, afterwards Duchess of Cleveland. He was born at Oxford, in a Fellow's chamber in Merton College, 28 Dec. 1665, and privately baptized 1 Jan. following. He was created, 1 Oct. 1674, Baron of Pontefract, Viscount Falmouth, and Earl of Northumberland, and, 6 Apl. 1683, Duke of Northumberland. According to the Funeral Book, he died 3 July. He left no legitimate issue, and his titles became extinct. See the burial of his first wife 3 June 1714, and of his second 11 Sep. 1738.

<sup>7</sup> The eminent divine. Son of Robert South, of London, merchant, by his second wife, Elizabeth, eldest dau. of Captain John Berry, of Lydd, co. Kent. He was born 4 Sep. 1634, at eight o'clock, p.m. and baptized at Hackney, Midx., on the 18th of the same month. In the parish register of Hackney his father is described as a "gentleman," and is usually said to have been of the heraldic family of his name in Lincolnshire. Dr. South, in his will, bequeathed a ring engraved with his father's arms, which gives colour to this presumption. He matriculated at Oxford, from Christ Church (elected from St. Peter's College, Westminster), 11 Dec. 1651, and was B.A. 24 Feb. 1654-5, M.A. 12 June 1657, and B.D. and D.D. 1 Oct. 1663. He became Chaplain in Ordinary to K. Charles II., and was installed Prebendary of Westminster 30 Mch. 1663, and Canon of Christ Church 29 Dec. 1670. He had the rectory of Islip, co. Oxford, in 1678, and became Archdeacon of Westminster 24 Oct. 1713. He died at Caversham, near Reading, 8 July. His will, dated 30 Mch., with a codicil 2 June 1714, was proved 24 July 1716. Hearne's annotations upon this will, as well as upon the testator and his executrix (see Reliquiæ Hernianæ, 2nd edit., ii. 38-9), are simply unfounded, cruel, and abominable, as the will itself abundantly proves. Dr. South's nearest relations were the children and grand-children of his half-brother and sister, and for them, although they had treated him unkindly, he provided in the most ample manner, leaving the moderate residue of his estate to the widow of a clergyman, who, he stated, had been his faithful housekeeper for thirty-five years.

<sup>2</sup> The date is not given in the Register, but is supplied by the Funeral Book, which also gives her age as sixty-two. See her husband's burial 5 Feb. 1725-6.

<sup>3</sup> Youngest daughter, born 6 Mch. 1699-1700, and baptized in the Chapel of Bridewell Hospital, London, on the 24th of the same month. She died, according to the Funeral Books, 29 Sep. See her mother's burial 2 May 1722, and her father's 12 May 1732.

<sup>6</sup> Rightly Radcliffe. He was of St. John's College, Cambridge, A.B. 1691 and A.M. 1695, and shortly after became a Gentleman of the Chapel Royal, and Confessor to the Royal Household. He married, at the Temple Church, London, 5 Mch. 1694-5, Ann Morse, who appears to have died before him. He died 29 Oct., aged about forty-seven, and his will, dated six days before, was proved 6 Nov. following, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, by his eldest dau. Ann, who was baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 27 Dec. 1695. He left also a son William, and a dau. Mary, and mentioned his brother William Radcliffe, of Mill Bridge, Huddersfield, co. York, Gent. See his son's burial 27 Mch. 1700.

<sup>2</sup> Dau. and sole heir of John Fairholm, of Craigie Hall, co. Stirling, by Sophia, dau. of Joseph Johnston, of Hilton. She was the first wife of William Johnstone, third Earl of Annandale and Hartfell, created Marquis of Annandale 4 June 1701, who remarried, and died in 1721. She died, according to her monument, 13 Dec., aged forty-nine. See the burials of her sons, 31 Dec. 1721 and 25 Sep. 1730.

<sup>4</sup> Eldest child of William Morice, Esq., afterwards High Bailiff of Westminster, by his first wife, Mary, eldest dau. of Bishop Atterbury (see her burial 21 Feb. 1729-30). He was born 28 Apl., and baptized at St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., 7 May 1716.

<sup>5</sup> The Funeral Book says that he was buried in his wife's grave: see her burial 15 May 1713. His will, dated 13 Feb. 1716-17, was proved 19 Mch. following, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, by his second wife and relict Mary, besides whom he mentioned only his brother Alexander Parr, of Latham, co. Lancaster.

<sup>6</sup> Her will, as Lucy Butler, widow, relict of John Butler, late of Lincoln's Inn, Midx., Esq., dated 8 Feb. 1716-17, was proved 9 Mch. following, by her nephew Thomas Wright, of Longston, co. Derby, Esq., to whom, and to Mrs. Ursula Taylor (mother of the late Lady Ashburnham), she bequeathed her lands in Eyham, co. Derby, and her other lands, mines, etc., in England and Wales, in trust for the use of her dau. Frances Butler and her heirs, with remainder successively to said Thomas Wright, her niece Matilde (wife of Henry Vernon, of Sudbury, co. Derby, Esq.), her nephew Captain William Wright (brother of said Thomas Wright), and her nephew Henry Wright. All her personalty, including large investments in Paris, she bequeathed on the same trust, and directed that sundry debts due by her sister, Gobert-Mary-Anna Wright, should be paid, although outlawed.

<sup>7</sup> His first commission in the Navy was as lieutenant, 14 Nov. 1688, and he attained his seniority 12 Oct. 1691. On the 26th of January 1707-8, he was promoted to be Rear-Admiral of the White, advanced to be Vice-Admiral of the Blue 12 Nov. 1709, and Vice-Admiral of the White 16 June 1716. He died at Port Mahon, as is usually said, 10 Nov. 1716, but the Funeral Book, quoting his coffin-plate, says the 11th, aged fifty-six. The journals of the day say that he had just been relieved of the command of the squadron, and was about returning home. His will, dated 16 May 1715, with a codicil dated at Port Mahon 9 Nov. 1716, was proved 21 Dec. following, by Capt. Hercules Baker, whom he called his kinsman and cousin, and to whom he left all his real estate and the residue of his personalty. He bequeathed annuities and other legacies to his mother, Elizabeth Brett, widow; his brother James Baker, Gent., and his son (called his kinsman and cousin) Edward Baker, who was also to have the reversion of his estates; his sister Mary, wife of William Mumrey, of Deal, co. Kent, and her husband and children; and his sister Susanna, wife of John Friend. No other relationships are mentioned, but he left handsome remembrances to numerous associates and friends. Capt. Hercules Baker, his heir and executor, appears to have been the eldest son of his brother James. He attained his seniority 1 Jan. 1712-13, but is said to have quitted the service on inheriting his uncle's estate. He became treasurer of Greenwich Hospital, and died 27 Oct. 1744.

<sup>2</sup> The place of interment sufficiently indicates that she was in some very humble position.

<sup>4</sup> Dau. of Sir Edward Carteret, Kt., Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod in the reign of K. Chas. II., by Elizabeth, dau. of Robert Johnson, Esq., Alderman of London. She was born 30 Dec. 1663, and baptized at St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., 12 Jan. following. She married (Mar. Lic. Vic. Gen. 25 Apl. 1676), in her thirteenth year, with her father's consent, her kinsman Sir Philip Carteret, second Bart. of St. Owen, who died in 1693, and their only son was born about three years later: see his burial 8 June 1715. She died 26 Mch. See her brother's burial 1 Nov. 1677.

<sup>5</sup> Philippa, sixth dau. of Sir William D'Oyly, first Bart. of Shottisham, co. Norfolk, by Margaret Randall his wife, and second wife and relict of Edward Wetenhall, Bishop of Kilmore and Ardagh (see his burial 18 Nov. 1713). The Funeral Book says that she was buried in his grave. Her will, dated 19 Nov. 1715, was proved 2 May 1717, by her nephew and residuary legatee, Rev. Samuel D'Oyly, of Rochester, co. Kent.

<sup>6</sup> See the mother's burial 15 Mch. 1736-7, and the father's 23 Nov. 1773. The monumental inscription says that it was their first child, and a daughter. She was born the 14th, and baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 23 Apl. 1717, but is called in the parish register a son. See, however, the burial of another dau. of this name 28 Nov. 1736.

<sup>8</sup> Dau. of George Kighley, of the city of York, Esq., and relict of Samuel Tyreman, of the same city, Gent. The Funeral Book gives her age as thirty-five years, two months, and one day. Her will, as of St. Giles in the Fields, Midx., dated 22 Sep. 1712, then a widow, was proved 27 July 1717, by her servant Mary Agar, spinster, her residuary legatee. She mentioned her father as then dead, and bequeathed an annuity of £20 to her sister Anna, wife of Thomas Williamson. She directed to be buried in the Abbey, near her sister Jane Kighley (see her burial 6 Oct. 1707).

<sup>3</sup> Dau. of Peter Elers, who is usually said to have been of an ancient baronial family in Germany, and to have emigrated to this country at the time of the accession of K. George I. He was here, however, at least thirty years before, as he married, at St. Bride's, London, 20 May 1684, Anne, third dau. of Gervase Price, Serjeant of the Trumpets, etc. (see his burial 15 Sep. 1687), and this dau. was baptized at St. Margaret's Westminster, 3 Apl. 1690. He appears to have married, secondly (Mar. Lic. Bp. Lond. 9 Sep. 1699), Elizabeth Harvey, of St. Andrew's, Holborn, Midx. This dau. died, according to her gravestone, 21 Oct. See her brother's burial 20 Mch. 1753, and probably her sister's 1 Jan. 1693-4.

<sup>4</sup> The Funeral Book says "My father James Sims, aged 99." This book was then kept by Ralph Sims (see his burial 5 Feb. 1720-1). An entry occurs in the Chapter Book, 4 Oct. 1708, ordering his admission to Emery Hill's almshouses, and a similar one, 15 June 1719, for Ann Sims, probably his widow.

<sup>5</sup> Fourth son of John, second Earl of Bridgewater, by Lady Elizabeth Cavendish, second dau. of William, first Duke of Newcastle. He was born 12 Mch. 1654-5, and married, at St. Giles in the Fields, Midx., 30 Apl. 1691, Elizabeth, eldest dau. and coheir of Henry Murray, Esq., and widow of Major-General Randolph Egerton (see her burial 13 Feb. 1712-13). He was M.P. for Brackley in eight Parliaments. He died 11 Dec., and his will, dated 28 Feb. 1715-16, was proved 2 May 1718, by his step-daughter Jane Egerton (see her burial 27 Jan. 1739-40).

<sup>6</sup> The Funeral Book says "Ann Sims, a child of mine, aged twelve days." This book was then kept by Ralph Sims (see his burial 5 Feb. 1720-1). She was born the 1st, and baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 8 Dec. 1717, and therefore died on the 13th.

<sup>7</sup> Son of Sir Richard Belasyse, of Ludworth and Owton, co. Durham, Kt., by his second wife, Margaret, dau. of Sir William Lambton, of Lambton, co. Durham, Kt. He was of Brancepeth Castle, co. Durham, and, according to his monument, was made Lieut.-general of H.M.'s forces in Flanders in 1695, and was sometime governor of Galway, and afterwards of Berwick-upon-Tweed. He was also M.P. for the city of Durham in several Parliaments. He died 16 Dec., in his seventieth

<sup>1</sup> Edward, posthumous son of Simon Bolt (or Boulte) (see his burial 23 Dec. 1715), by Elizabeth his wife. He was born and baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 6 Jan. 1715-16. The Funeral Book identifies him by calling him a child of Mrs. Boulte, and giving his age as one year, eleven months, and fourteen days, which will also indicate the day of his death as 20 Dec. The Funeral Book also states that he was buried in his father's grave.

<sup>2</sup> See the marriage of his parents 27 Oct. 1697, and his father's burial 11 Sep. 1719. He was born 23 Dec. 1717, and baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 2 Jan. following.

<sup>3</sup> Second son and fifth child of K. George II. (see his burial 11 Nov. 1760) and Q. Caroline (see her burial 17 Dec. 1737). He was born the 2nd, and baptized 28 Nov. 1717, according to the parish register of St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., but the Funeral Book says that he was born 3 Nov. He died, at Kensington Palace, 6 Feb.

<sup>4</sup> Relict of Col. Philip Herbert (see his burial 18 Mch. 1715-16). The Funeral Book gives her age as forty-seven. The baptisms of several of their children occur in the parish registers of St. Margaret's, Westminster. See the burials of her daughters, 9 Nov. 1718 and 13 Jan. 1722-3. She died intestate, but a creditor administered to her estate 2 June 1719.

<sup>5</sup> See his mother's burial 27 Mch. 1752, and note thereto. He was born the 8th, and baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 22 Aug. 1717.

<sup>6</sup> The Funeral Book says "aged ten years." See the burial in the same place, probably of a brother, 31 May 1710. This "dark arch" appears to have been appropriated exclusively to the burials of persons in the humblest circumstances.

<sup>8</sup> He was sworn a Gentleman of the Chapel Royal 7 Nov. 1670, being described as "a base from York." He died 8 May, and the Funeral Book gives his age as seventy-one. His relict Ann administered to his estate 23 May 1718 (see her burial 10 Apl. 1722).—"Thursday last the body of Mr. James Hart, one of the Gentlemen belonging to the King's Chapel and to Westminster Abbey, was carried from Founders' Hall to be buried in Westminster Abbey. He was father to the ingenious Mr. Philip Hart, who is Organist of those two most excellent and admired organs of this city, St. Michael and St. Mary-Axe" (Weekly Journal, 17 May 1718).—See the burial, perhaps of his brother. 11 Feb. 1689-90.

<sup>9</sup> Relict of William Jackson, the College baker (see his burial 23 July 1714). She died 13 May, aged, according to the Funeral Book, ninety years. Her will, dated 1 Mch. 1716-17, was proved 26 May 1718, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, by her niece Mary Othershaw and her nephew John Holmes, of St. Margaret's, Westminster, baker. See the baptism of her dau. 27 Dec. 1675, and the burials of her children, 18 Jan. 1676-7, 7 Nov. 1678, 14 Nov. 1679, and 18 July 1691.

<sup>10</sup> According to her monument, she was a native of Antigua, West Indies, wife of Rev. James Field, and died in Westminster 26 May.—Theophilus Field matriculated at Oxford, from St. John's College, 21 Oct. 1724, aged seventeen, as son of Rev. James Field, of Antigua.

<sup>1</sup> Only dau. and heir of Francis Millington, of London, merchant, one of the Commissioners of Customs to K. Chas. II., by Martha, dau. of Samuel Vyner, of London, Esq. (see her re-marriage to Rev. Dr. Peter Birch 24 Nov. 1697, and her burial 28 May 1703). See her own marriage 18 May 1686, then aged about seventeen, to Thomas Mansell, afterwards Baron Mansell of Margam, who died 10 Dec. 1723. According to the Funeral Book, she died 10 June, aged forty-nine, and was buried in the Duke of Ormond's vault.

<sup>3</sup> The Funeral Book says "aged sixty years." He was baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 9 July 1637, as son of Humphrey Drew and Lydia his wife. His father was buried there 18 Nov. 1670, and his mother 10 Feb. 1696-7. His will, as of St. Margaret's, Westminster, dated 1 July 1718, was proved on the 11th of the same month, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, by his friend Capt. George Mortimer. He left all his lands and houses to his wife Sarah for life, with remainder to his only son William, except as to one house in Peter Street, which was to go to Thomasine Drew, natural dau. of his son Thomas deceased.

<sup>4</sup> Relict of Roger Cooper, Gentleman Usher to Q. Anne (see his burial 22 Apl. 1703).—Mar. Lic. Vie. Gen. 18 Feb. 1687-8, for Roger Cooper, of St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., Gent., bachelor, aged about twenty-eight, and Mrs. Agneta Jones, of the same parish, spinster, aged about twenty-eight, and at her own disposal : alleged by Rev. Charles Elstob, Chaplain to Her Highness Princess Anne of Denmark : to marry in the Church or Chapel of St. James, Westminster.—According to the Funeral Book, she was Bedchamber-woman to Q. Anne, and she had been Dresser and Mother of the Maids to her when Princess of Denmark. Her will, dated 4 July 1718, was proved on the 15th of the same month, by her son John Cooper, to whom she left all her possessions, except her apparel, a muff and tippet, and a ring with the late Queen's hair, which she bequeathed to her maid Judy and Mrs. Wilson.

<sup>5</sup> According to his monument, he was of the heraldic family of his name in Lincolnshire, and the arms painted thereon were, Argent, a chevron sable between three roses barbed and seeded proper. The inscription also states that he was of Beaufort Buildings, London, and left surviving two daughters, of whom the eldest, Anne, married, first, Hugh Parker, Esq., eldest son of Sir Henry Parker, of Honington, co. Warwick, Bart., and, secondly, Michael, Lord Dunkellin, eldest son of the Earl of Clanricarde (see her burial 7 Jan. 1732-3). The Funeral Book gives his age as sixty-seven. His will, as of St. Clement Danes, Midx., Esq., dated 7 July 1718, was proved on the 24th of the same month, by his cousin John Smith, Esq., John Orlebar, Esq., one of the Masters in Chancery, and Mr. Conrade de Gols, executors in trust for his two daughters (evidently his only children), Anne, Lady Dunkellin, and Mary, who was about to marry Sir Edward DesBouverie, Bart. To these two daughters and their children he left his house in Beaufort Buildings, and all his personalty. No other relations are named in the will, except his sister Sarah Bassett, his brother Thomas Mulso, and his cousin Mr. William Wright, to each of whom he left a handsome sum for mourning. He has hitherto been confounded in the accounts of the Clanricarde peerage with one of his name, of this period, who was Speaker of the House of Commons, but who survived him some years. The person named in the text was appointed one of the commissioners of the excise in Aug. 1698, and is described in Luttrell's Diary (iv. 410) as "John Smith, of Beauford buildings, Esq." Luttrell also notices his re-appointment in June 1700 (iv. 658). The Historical Register for 1718 contains the two following entries, which clearly establish his identity:—"July 8th: Mr. Desbouverie, son of Sir Edward Desbouverie, marry'd to Mrs. Smyth, daughter of John Smyth, Esq., formerly one of the Commissioners of Excise;" and, "July 10: 'Dy'd John Smyth, Esq., formerly one of the Commissioners of Excise." It is evident that he made his will the day before his daughter's marriage, and died two days after that event.

<sup>5</sup> See the marriage of his parents 21 Nov. 1699, and note tereto. He was their eldest son, and is said to have died while at Westminster School. He died 9 Nov., according to the Funeral Book, aged seventeen years.

<sup>8</sup> Son of Robert Cornwall, of Berington, in the parish of Eye, co. Hereford, Esq., by Edith, dau. of Sir Francis Cornwallis, of Abermarlais, co. Carmarthen, Kt. He entered the Navy at an early age, attaining his seniority 19 Sep. 1692, when he had command of the "Portsmouth" sloop-of-war, and reached the rank of Vice-Admiral of the White 15 Mch. 1716-17. He died, according to the Funeral Book, at Lisbon, 7 Oct., in his forty-ninth year. His will, dated 22 Dec. 1716, was proved 26 Jan. 1718-19, by his eldest surviving son Robert. He appears to have been twice married, his second wife being Dorothy, dau. of Thomas Hammer, of Hammer, co. Flint, Esq. (See a pedigree of his family in Rev. C. J. Robinson's Mansions and Manors of Herefordshire, p. 118).

<sup>9</sup> The celebrated poet. Only son of John Rowe, of Lamerton, co. Devon, Esq., serjeant-at-law, by Elizabeth, dau. of Jasper Edwards, of Little Barford, co. Beds, Esq. He was born at Little Barford 30 June 1674, and partly educated at Westminster school. He became poet-laureate in 1714, and was, at various periods of his life, Clerk of the Council to the Prince of Wales, under-secretary to the Duke of Queensborough and Dover when Principal Secretary of State, one of the Land Surveyors of the Customs, and Secretary of the Presentations in Chancery. He was twice married. By his first wife, a dau. of Auditor Parsons, he left a son John, and by his second wife, Anne Devenish (see her burial 12 Dec. 1747), an only dau. Charlotte (see her burial 7 Oct. 1739).

<sup>5</sup> Third but second surviving son of James Scott, Earl of Dalkeith (see his burial 19 Mch. 1704-5), by Lady Henrietta Hyde, second dau. of Lawrence, first Earl of Rochester (see her burial 3 June 1730). According to the parish register of St. Margaret's, Westminster, he was "borne and baptized in the Cockpitt in Whitehall, att the Earle of Rochester's house," 14 Jan. 1702-3. According to the Funeral Book, he died 25 Feb.

<sup>6</sup> See the note to her brother's burial, 22 Sep. 1707. She died, unmarried, 13 Mch., according to the Funeral Book, in her fifty-ninth year. In her will, dated 28 May 1718, her only bequest was £1500 to Mrs. Charlotte Whetstone, who then lived with her. Her sister Dorothy administered to her estate 2 Apl. 1719, and, according to the newspapers of the day, succeeded to her property, worth £30,000 : see her burial 6 Nov. 1724.

<sup>7</sup> Hon. Archibald Hamilton, commonly called Lord Archibald Hamilton, was the youngest son of Anne, Duchess of Hamilton, by Lord William Douglas, who was created, 12 Oct. 1660, Duke of Hamilton for life. He was baptized at Hamilton 17 Feb. 1672-3, entered the navy, and had a captain's commission in 1693. He was Governor of Jamaica in 1710, commanded a man-of-war in 1718, and was a Lord of the Admiralty from 1729 to 1738, and again in 1742. He was M.P. in several Parliaments, and Governor of Greenwich Hospital. He married, first, Anne, eldest dau. and coheir of Charles, second Lord Lucas, of Shenfield, Essex, and widow of Edward Cary, Esq., who died in 1692. She was buried at Taplow, co. Bucks, in 1709. He married, secondly, the lady named in the text, who is only described in the peerages as "an Irish lady," but in the newspapers of the day as the "widow of Sir Francis Hamilton, of the kingdom of Ireland." The marriage took place, according to the same authorities, 17 Dec. 1718, evidently in Ireland, and she died 29 Mch. following. Before the end of the year, viz., 29 Sep. 1719, Lord Archibald married, thirdly, Lady Jane Hamilton, fifth dau. of James, sixth Earl of Abercorn. This marriage was by special license, dated 26 Sept., and appears to have been solemnized at Taplow. By his first and second marriages Lord Archibald had no issue, but by his third he had several children. See the burial of their son 5 June 1744, and of their dau. 6 Mch. 1800. Their mother died at Paris 6 Dec. 1753, and was buried at Montmartre. Lord Archibald died in Pall Mall, Westminster, 5 Apl. 1754, being then senior captain in the royal navy, and was buried at Taplow.

<sup>3</sup> Eldest son of Sir William Howard, K.B. (who was created Baron of Stafford 12 Sept. and Viscount of Stafford 11 Nov. 1640, but beheaded 29 Dec. 1680, when the honours were forfeited), by Mary, dau. of Edward Stafford (see her burial Jan. 1693-4). The attainder having been reversed, 3 June 1685, he succeeded to his father's titles, and was created Earl of Stafford 5 Oct. 1688. He followed K. James II. into France in the same year, and there married, at St. Germain-en-Laye, 3 Apl. 1694, Claude-Charlotta, eldest dau. of Pbilibert, Count de Grammont. The marriage does not seem to have proved a happy one, as in his will, dated 2 Feb. 1699-1700, occurs the following extraordinary passage:—"I give to the worst of women, except being a . . . , who is guilty of all Ills, the daughter of M<sup>r</sup> Grammont, a Frenchman, who I have unfortunately

There were two codicils to this will, dated 3 Sep. 1712 and 22 Mch. 1715-16, but his wife was not again mentioned, and it was proved 2 July 1719, by Hon. Henry-Charles Howard, surviving executor. The Earl died without issue 27 Apl., according to his coffin-plate, in his seventy-second year. Le Neve, in one of his MSS., says that his wife died the same night, at Paris; but her will, dated in London 13 May 1739, was proved three days later, by Charles, Earl of Arran, to whom she left all her possessions.

<sup>1</sup> According to the Chapter Book, he had the reversion of an almsman's place 23 Feb. 1686-7. See his son's burial 4 May 1720.

<sup>2</sup> The Funeral Book gives his age as seventy-two. His son Joseph administered to his estate, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, on the 30th of the same month, and in the record he was described as of St. Margaret's, Westminster, widower.—"On Tuesday night died Dr. Birch, an eminent Physician, at his house in King Street, Westminster. He was aged ninety-six [sic], and was in perfect health till a day or two before he died. He has left a small pittance of about £30,000 to his son" (Original Weekly Journal, Saturday, 20 June 1719).—It will probably be safer to accept the evidence of his coffin-plate, as preserved in the Funeral Book, as to his age.

<sup>3</sup> Son of Rev. Dr. Lancelot Addison, Dean of Lichfield, by his first wife, Jane, dau. of Nathaniel Gulston, Esq., and sister of William, Bishop of Bristol. He was born at Milston, Wilts, 1 May 1672, and his subsequent career is too well known to require any account of it. As the author of the Spectator he will probably be remembered when it has been forgotten that he was a Secretary of State. By his wife, the Countess Dowager of Warwick, he left an only dau., Charlotte, who was born 30 Jan., and baptized at St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., 26 Feb. 1718-19. He died, at Holland House, 17 June. See his sister's burial 10 Mch. 1749-50.

<sup>7</sup> Meinhardt Schomberg, second son of Frederic-Armand, Count de Schomberg, Duke and Marshal of France, who came to England in 1673, became a General in the army, was created, 9 Mch. 1689-90, Baron Teyes, Earl of Brentford, Marquis of Harwich, and Duke of Schomberg, at Cologne the 30th of June 1641; died at Hillingdon, in the county of Middlesex, on Sunday, the 5th of July 1719, in the 79th year of his age; and was buried in the East end of King Henry the 7th's Chappell.

was killed in the battle of the Boyne, 1 July 1690, and buried in St. Patrick's Cathedral, Dublin, by his second wife, Susaune, dau. of Daniel D'Aumale, Sieur D'Haucourt. He also entered the British army, and attained the rank of General 16 Aug. 1703. In 1690-1 he was created Baron of Tarragh, Earl of Bangor, and Duke of Leinster, all in the Irish peerage, and succeeded to his father's English titles, under special limitations in the patents, on the death of his younger brother Charles, 16 Oct. 1693. See the burials of his children, 22 June 1710 and 14 Oct. 1713.

<sup>1</sup> The Funeral Book says "aged fifty years." Her will, as of St. Margaret's, Westminster, spinster, dated 20 Aug. 1719, was proved 2 Sep. following, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, by her "good friend" Mrs. Mary Crespion, widow (see her burial 1 Jan. 1759). She bequeathed £50 to Mr. William Trelawny, son of the late Brigadier Trelawny, then a Lieutenant in H.M.'s service, and the residue of her estate equally to her two sisters, viz., Honour Penrose, of St. Ives, co. Cornwall, widow, and Mary, wife of (blank) Thorne, of the city of Exeter, clothier; the latter being her youngest sister.

<sup>2</sup> He was in holy orders, and appears to have signed his name Linaker. He was sworn a Gentleman of the Chapel Royal extraordinary 27 Dec. 1689, admitted in ordinary 8 Apl. 1692, and advanced to a full place 2 Mch. 1699-1700. He died 26 Aug., and, according to the Funeral Book, in his seventy-ninth year. See the burials, of his first wife 23 Jan. 1683-4, and of his children by her, 22 May 1682 and 4 Sep. 1683, his second marriage 5 Aug. 1684, and the baptism of a son 28 July 1687.

<sup>5</sup> Son of John Tufnell, also Abbey mason (see his burial 23 Feb. 1696-7), by Dorothy his wife (see her burial 20 Oct. 1720), and baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 21 Feb. 1677-8. According to his monument, he was mason to the Abbey for twenty-two years, and restored and decorated the South and East sides of the Church. He died 2 Sep. See his marriage 27 Oct. 1697, and note thereto. The baptisms of ten of his children occur in the parish registers of St. Margaret's, Westminster. See the burials of eight, 17 May 1700, 23 July 1703, 30 June and 11 Dec. 1705, 4 Sep. 1713, 20 Mch. 1716-17, 1717-18, and 14 Jan. 1736-7.

Mar. Lic. Vic. Gen., 21 Dec. 1687, she was described as Elizabeth Gray, of St. Margaret's, Westminster, spinster, aged above twenty-one years, and was to marry with her mother's consent, her father being dead. According to the Funeral Book, she died 2 Dec., aged fifty-five. Her will, dated 11 Feb. 1718-19, was proved 18 Dec. 1719, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, by her son Timothy Gregory. See the burials of her sons, 26 Nov. 1718 and 8 Dec. 1724.

<sup>2</sup> Frederic-William, Baron of Schulenberg, brother of the favourite mistress of K. George I., whom he created Duchess of Kendal. He was Chamberlain to the King at Hanover. According to his coffin-plate, he died in the Palace 3 Jan., in his thirty-seventh year. The St. James's Weekly Journal or Hanover Post-Man, of 9 Jan. 1719-20, says that he supped and went to bed about 12 o'clock, in perfect health, and was found dead about two hours after.—Letters of administration to the estate of Hon. Sophia-Anna de Melville, Baroness of Schulenberg, were granted, 17 Sep. 1725, to James Payzant, of St. Margaret's, Westminster, Esq., to the use of her children, Nympha-Ehrengarde de Schulenberg, Ernest-Augustus de Schulenberg, Alexander-Frederic-William de Schulenberg, and George-Ernest de Schulenberg.

<sup>4</sup> This lady is always described in the peerages as "Isabella Van Aersen, dau. of Cornelius, Lord of Sommelsdyck," but in her will, dated 20 Sep. 1712, she described herself as "Frances Aersen Van Sommelsdyck, Countess Van Nassau, Lady Van Auverquerque, etc., widow of my late deceased husband Henry, Earle Van Nassau, Lord Van Auverquerque, in his lifetime Marshall-Generall of the United Netherland Provinces, etc., etc." In the codicil, dated 18 Oct. 1712, she is described as "Frances Van Aersen Van Sommelsdyck, Countess of Nassau D'Auverquerque," and she signed the will "Fr. Countess Dowager Van Nassau D'Auverquerque." She constituted her universal heirs her three children then living, viz., her eldest son Henry de Nassau, then Earl of Grantham, her son Count William-Mauritz (usually called Maurice only) Van Nassau D'Auverquerque, and her dau. Lucia-Anna (called in the peerages Frances) de Nassau, then Countess Dowager of Bellamont. She also mentioned her deceased dau. Isabella, who was married to the late Lord Lansdowne. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 21 Jan., aged eighty-two. See the burials, of her grandson 24 May 1711, her son's wife 9 Dec. 1714, and her grand-daughter 5 Sep. 1717.

<sup>5</sup> The Funeral Book gives his age as seventy-eight. His will, as of St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., Gent., dated 2 May 1719, was proved 15 Mch. 1719-20, by his relict Mary (see her burial 23 Mch. 1728-9). He left certain government securities to his eldest son Henry and his youngest son John, and the residue of his estate to his wife. The eldest son was the Rev. Dr. Henry Felton, Principal of Edmund Hall, Oxford, from 1722 to 1740.

<sup>2</sup> Almericus de Courcy, younger son of John, twenty-first Lord Kingsale, by Ellena, dau. of Charles-MacCarty Reigh. He succeeded his elder brother Patrick, as twenty-third Lord Kingsale, in 1669, when about five years of age. He died, without issue, 9 Feb. aged fifty-seven. His will, dated 20 Oct. 1699, with codicils 22 Dec. 1703 and 3 June and 16 Oct. 1713, was proved 21 July 1720, by his relict Anne, Lady Kingsale (see her burial 5 May 1724). It is on record that he asserted the hereditary privilege of the Lords Kingsale, and wore his hat in the presence of K. William III. This privilege, if it be one, still exists, but is manifestly one to be more honoured in its breach than its observance.

<sup>5</sup> The Funeral Book gives his age as fifty-two. He was sworn a Gentleman of the Chapel Royal extraordinary 16 Dec. 1692, and in ordinary 1 Apl. 1697, and was chosen Clerk of the Cheque 12 June 1708. He died, according to the Cheque Book, 12 Mch. His relict Anne administered to his estate, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, 8 Apl. 1720. See the baptisms of his children, 14 Sep. 1703, 13 Nov. 1701, 21 Sep. 1707, and 2 Sep. 1709, and their burials, 15 Oct. 1704, 5 June 1713, 21 Aug. 1714, and perhaps 29 Jan. 1726-7.

<sup>6</sup> The Funeral Book gives his age as thirty-eight. He married Melior, dau. of John Clayton, Gent. (see his burial 11 June 1713), and in 1706-7 was living in Charterhouse Yard. Several of their children were baptized at St. Sepulchre's, London. His relict Melior administered to his estate the day before his burial, and her will, dated 6 June 1737, was proved 1 Aug. 1741, by their son, Rev. Dr. James King.

<sup>8</sup> The Funeral Book gives his age as fifty-two, and says that he was buried in his father's grave (see his burial 9 June 1719). See his son's baptism 19 Jan. 1700-1.

<sup>9</sup> See his baptism 12 Apl. 1679. He was only surviving son of the Right Rev. Thomas Sprat, Bishop of Rochester and Deau of Westminster (see his burial 25 May 1713), by his wife Helen (see her burial 3 Mch. 1725-6). He matriculated at Oxford, from Christ Church, 10 July 1697, and was B.A. 6 May 1701 and M.A. 1 Apl. 1704. He became Prebendary and Archdeacon of Rochester 4 Dec. 1704, and was installed Prebendary of Winchester 18 Nov. 1712, and of Westminster 29 Sep. 1713. See his marriage 9 Apl. 1716, and the burial of his wife (who remarried) 29 Nov. 1734. He evidently left no issue.

<sup>2</sup> First wife of Thomas Jennings, Gentleman of the Chapel Royal, etc. (see his burial 29 Mch. 1734). In their marriage allegation at the Vicar-General's office, dated 21 Feb. 1687-8, she was described as Elizabeth Loton, of St. Margaret's, Westminster, spinster, aged about twenty-five, and at her own disposal. According to her monument, she died 12 July, in her fifty-seventh year. See the baptisms of her children, 1 May 1689, 12 Feb. 1690-1, and 13 May 1693, and the burials of two others, 15 Oct. 1697 and 29 July 1701.

<sup>3</sup> Fifth son of Sir Francis Godolphin, K.B., by Dorothy, second dau. of Sir Henry Berkeley, of Yarlinton, co. Somerset, Kt., and younger brother of Sidney, Earl of Godolphin, Lord High Treasurer, etc. He was M.P. for Helston, and one of the Commissioners of the Customs. According to his monument, he died 10 July, aged sixty-nine. See the burials, of his wife 16 Aug. 1726, his son 16 May 1694, his daughter 12 Dec. 1690, and his brothers, 3 Sep. 1710 and 8 Oct. 1712.

<sup>5</sup> According to the Funeral Book, he died in his sixty-first year. His will, as of St. Margaret's, Westminster, Gent., was dated the 5th and proved the 26th of the same month, by Mr. William Skelton and Mr. James Swift, with whom no relationship is mentioned. He left £50 to his cousin Hannah Jennings, and £20 to his cousin John Joyce, butcher. To his brother Thomas Manton he bequeathed £100. His annuities in the Exchequer and elsewhere he left to his wife Elizabeth, for life or widowhood, with remainder to the children of his said brother Thomas. He also left £20 to the poor of Oakham, co. Rutland. See his wife's burial 9 Aug. 1724.

<sup>6</sup> Her monument states that she died 8 Aug., in her forty-second year, and describes her as "the dear Wife, Fellow-travellour, and Constant Companion of Major Alexander Hardine above twenty-seven years." The arms on the monument are, in base a dexter arm embowed and in chief two mullets, impaling a buck trippant.

<sup>7</sup> His monument describes him as of Cacrlon, co. Monmouth, and says that he died 29 Aug., in his eighty-seventh year. The newspapers of the day state that he died at his lodgings in Bow Street, Covent-Garden, leaving a large fortune. In his will, dated 7 Aug. 1717, with several codicils, he stated that he was born at Carleon, and bequeathed £4000 for founding a school there. He left considerable annuities to his niece Elizabeth Seys, widow of William Seys, of Swansea, co. Glamorgan, Esq., and her son Evan Seys; but his entire real estate he bequeathed to John Hanbury, of Poutypool, co. Monmouth, Esq., with remainder to his sons in succession, the latter to assume the surname of Williams (see the burial of Sir Charles Hanbury-Williams 10 Nov. 1759).

<sup>8</sup> The Funeral Book says "a child of mine, died 28 Sep., in his ninth year, and buried in the same grave with my father Sims." This book was then kept by Ralph Sims (see his burial 5 Feb. 1720-1). He was born the 10th, and baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 11 Feb. 1711-12.

<sup>9</sup> Wife of William Tufnell (see his burial 24 Dec. 1733). In their marriage allegation at the Faculty Office, dated 27 Oct. 1699, she was described as Elizabeth Browne, of St. Margaret's, Westminster, spinster, aged twenty-two, and at her own disposal. The Funeral Book says that she died 5 Oct., in her thirty-ninth year, which does not accord with her age as stated in the marriage allegation. See the burials of her children, 26 Mch. 1724, 10 Nov. 1734, and 4 Mch. 1739-40.

<sup>2</sup> The Funeral Book says "in her sixty-seventh year: she lies in the same grave with her former husband Tufnell and two of her daughters." She was married at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 19 Jan. 1672-3, as "Dorothy Smythe," to John Tufnell, the Abbey mason (see his burial 23 Feb. 1696-7), and her son Edward Tufnell (see his burial 11 Sep. 1719) called her in his will his mother "Dorothy Noble." Her second husband probably survived her, as she appears to have died intestate. One of her daughters, with whom she is said to have been buried, was Mrs. Grace Kirpatrick (see her burial 14 Dec. 1707); but the burial of no other known daughter by her husband Tufnell occurs in the Abbey Register, and the reference is probably to Mrs. Anne Rash (see her burial 9 Feb. 1715-16), who, according to her age, as given in the Funeral Book, was too old to have been the daughter of Tufnell, while Mrs. Noble appears to have been too young to have had a former husband when married as Dorothy Smythe. Probably Mrs. Rash, who is not mentioned in any of the Tufnell wills, was a married daughter of her second husband Noble by a former wife.

<sup>3</sup> His coffin-plate, which accords with the text, adds that he was also colonel of a regiment of the King of Portugal's Horse Guard, and died 4 Nov., aged forty-three. The newspapers of the day call him "Don Hyacinth Borges Pereira & Castro," and say that he had his first private audience of the King 7 May 1719. He was buried privately, the funeral ceremonies having been performed, in the chapel in his house in Great Queen Street, according to the custom of the Church of Rome.

<sup>4</sup> The Funeral Book, then kept by Ralph Sims (see his burial 5 Feb. 1720-1), says "a grandchild of mine, aged two years and [blank] days." He was a son of Massey Gardner, of Westminster, brazier, by Sarah, dau. of said Ralph Sims. See his sister's burial 24 Sep. 1715.

<sup>5</sup> The Funeral Book says that he was servant to the Dean, and died in his twenty-first year. Perhaps a brother of Thomas Grant, afterwards College butler (see his burial 15 Aug. 1748).

<sup>7</sup> Second dau. of Charles, Lord Crichton, by the Hon. Sarah Dalrymple, third dau. of James, first Viscount of Stair. She was sister of William, third Earl of Dumfries, and of Penelope, Countess of Dumfries, who successively succeeded to the title, their father having died in the lifetime of their grandfather, William, second Earl of Dumfries. The Funeral Book gives her age as thirty-three, and the newspapers of the day say that she died 29 Dec., at the Earl of Loudoun's house in Privy Gardens, one adding that she was said to have "broke her heart by the loss of her fortune in South Sea stock." She died unmarried.

<sup>9</sup> In his official capacity he kept the Funeral Books so often quoted in these notes, which have proved of so much value in identifying the persons named in the Register. In his will, dated 1 Feb. 1720-1, he called himself of St. Margaret's, Westminster, glazier, and left all his possessions to his wife Dorothy, expressing the hope that she would be as good a mother as she had been a wife. She proved the will, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, on the 23rd of the same month (see her burial 14 Jan. 1729-30). See the burials, of his father 10 Dec. 1717, of his children 21 Oct. 1713, 24 June 1715, 16 Dec. 1717, 1 Oct. 1720, and 6 June 1726, and of his grand-children 24 Sep. 1715, 29 Nov. 1720, 21 May 1725, and 12 Sep. 1730.

<sup>2</sup> He died, according to the Funeral Book, 19 Feb., and his monument calls him Master of Arts. One of his name graduated at the University of Edinburgh 27 May 1680, and is believed to have been a brother of John Craig, the celebrated Scotch mathematician. He was, according to the newspapers of the day, sometime tutor and chaplain to the Duke of Roxburgh. He was installed Prebendary of Salisbury 24 Mch. 1697-8, and was Rector of Upwey, co. Dorset. He was installed Prebendary of Westminster 9 June 1720. His will, dated 14 Feb. 1720-1, was proved 16 Mch. following, by his relict Mary (see her burial 7 Jan. 1745-6). He left all his books to his brother John Craig, and made him his residuary legatee. He mentioned no other relations, except his niece Agnes Craig, to whom he bequeathed £200.

<sup>4</sup> Only son of Edmund Sheffield, fourth Baron Sheffield, of Butterick, co. Lincoln, and second Earl of Mulgrave, by Lady Elizabeth Cranfield, dau. of Lionel, first Earl of Middlesex. He was baptized at St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., 12 Apl. 1648, and succeeded to his father's titles in 1658. He was created Marquis of Normanby 10 May 1694, Duke of Normanby 9 Mch. 1702-3, and, on the 24th of the same month, Duke of the county of Buckingham. He died, according to his coffin-plate, 21 Feb., in his seventy-third year. (The London Journal, of 18 Mch. 1720-1, gives a long account of his burial in the Abbey on the preceding Saturday, the 11th, a discrepancy which is unaccountable, as the Funeral Book accords with the Register in giving the date of burial 25 Mch.) In his will, dated 9 Aug. 1716, with codicils 23 Nov. and 30 Dec. 1717, and proved 28 Mch. 1721, he made ample provision for his illegitimate children by Mrs. Lambart (see her burial 11 Jan. 1750-1). See the burials, of his second wife 11 Feb. 1703-4, his third wife 8 Apl. 1743, and his only surviving son 31 Jan. 1735-6.

The Funeral Book alone records, at the date of his burial, 25 Mch. 1721, the interment in the Abbey of "three children of the Duke of Bucks which were removed out of St. Margaret's church." The following are the only three whose burials are recorded in the parish register of St. Margaret's, Westminster, and were all by his third wife: Sophia, buried 17 Dec. 1706 (Le Neve, in one of his MSS., says, "the Duchess of Bucks brought to bed of a girl, Wednesday, 11 of Dec. 1706, which died the week after"); John, buried 18 Oct. 1710 (Le Neve says, "the Duchess of Bucks brought to bed of a son named John, Tuesday, 26 Sep. 1710, christened 3 Oct.," and the Funeral Book says that one of the three children died 16 Oct. 1710, aged three weeks); and Henrietta-Maria, buried 23 Dec. 1717, who was born 23 Feb., and baptized at St. Margaret's 5 Mch. 1713-14, and whom the Funeral Book identifies by giving the date of the death of one of the three children as 20 Dec. 1717, and its age as three years and ten months. Another son, Robert, second son by the Duke's third wife, was born and baptized 11 Dec. 1711, according to the register of St. Margaret, but his burial is not recorded. Yet the Funeral Book seems to refer to him as one of the three children removed from St. Margaret's, by giving the date of his death as 1 Feb. 1714-15, and his age as three years and seven weeks.

<sup>1</sup> Only son of Sir Thomas Longueville, of Bradwell Abbey, co. Bucks, Kt., by Anne, dau. and coheir of Sir William Ashcombe, of Alvescott, co. Oxford, Kt. He was of the Inner Temple, an eminent Counsellor at Law, and well remembered as the patron and literary executor of Butler, the author of Hudibras. He died, according to his coffin-plate, 21 Mch., aged eighty-two. Why, considering his position and his descent, he should have been described in modern times as "a conveyancer, who raised himself from humble circumstances," it is difficult to conceive. See the burials, of his wife 21 Jan. 1715-16, and of his son 31 Aug. 1750, and the marriage of his daughter 17 Aug. 1703.

<sup>2</sup> Richard Ingram, second son of Arthur, third Viscount of Irvine, by Isabel, eldest dau. of John Machel, of Hills, co. Sussex, Esq., M.P. for Horsham. He succeeded his elder brother, as fifth Viscount, 18 May 1714. He had been governor of Hull, and a colonel in the guards, and had been recently appointed governor of Barbados. He was about sailing thither, when he was taken ill with the small-pox, and died 10 Apl., in his thirty-fourth year. He married Lady Anne Howard, third dau. of Charles, third Earl of Carlisle, but left no issue, and she remarried, in 1737, Col. James Douglas. See his brother's marriage 9 Mch. 1725-6.

<sup>7</sup> According to the Funeral Book, he died 4 July, aged ninety. It is stated in the newspapers of the day that he died "at his apartment, near St. James's House," and that he "had served in the Courts of K. Chas. I., K. Chas. II., and K. James II., in which last reign he was Cup-bearer to that Prince, and had a pension from the Crown at the time of his decease." His will, which he signed Theodoric Salomon De Balisy, dated 8 Dec. 1718, was proved 18 July 1721, by his son Joseph Balisy. He stated that he owed nothing to any person, that his late wife Catharine brought him no portion, that Mrs. Watkins had no other relation to him than as half-sister to his said wife, that he had already provided for his dau. Elizabeth, wife of Mr. Thomas Harper, and for his dau. Mary Balisy, and therefore gave all his personal estate to his said son Joseph and his other dau. Katharine Balisy. See his wife's burial 22 Nov. 1715.

<sup>2</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died the same day, in her fifty-second year, and her monument, erected by her cousin, Mrs. Arabella Thompson, says in her fifty-third year, and that she was one of the daughters of Sir Edward Barnard, of Beverley, co. York, Kt. Her father was knighted 6 Dec. 1669, then of North Dalton, in that county. Her will, dated 7 Sep. 1721, mentions numerous relations, and was proved 31 Oct. following, by her sisters, Mary, wife of Charles Hosier, of Wicken, co. Northampton, and Elizabeth Avery, of Oake, co. Somerset.

<sup>3</sup> According to the Funeral Book, he died 12 Sep., in his fifty-seventh year. "Mr. Hester" is mentioned in the Chapter Book, 16 Feb. 1712-13, as the College bricklayer. His relict Abigail administered to his estate 23 Sep. 1721. See his son's burial 7 Dec. 1715.

<sup>4</sup> The celebrated poet and statesman. He was son of George Prior, and, although there has always been, and still is, some difficulty in determining the place of his birth, the weight of evidence appears to be in favour of Wimborne, co. Dorset. He is said to have been born 2 July 1664, and, losing his father when very young, was sent to Westminster School by his uncle Samuel Prior, a publican near Charing Cross. His subsequent career, under distinguished patronage, will be found detailed by his various biographers. He died at Wimpole, co. Cambridge, a seat of the Earl of Oxford's, 18 Sep., according to his monument, in his fifty-seventh year, but, if the date of his birth has been correctly given, really in his fifty-eighth. His will, dated 9 Aug. 1721, was proved 19 Sep. following (the day after his death), by his friend and secretary Adrian Drift (see his burial 5 Mch. 1736-7), but it mentions no relations except his "dear cousin Katharine Harrison," to whom he left £100 for mourning.

<sup>5</sup> Relict of Rev. Dr. William Owtram (see his burial 25 Aug. 1679). She died 4 Oct., according to both the Funeral Book and her monument. Her will, dated 17 July 1721, was proved 16 Oct. following, by her niece Isabella Smithson, residuary legatee. Her other bequests were to her niece Ann Smithson, and her cousins Goodwin, Mary Smithson, Jane Johnson, and Ellen Hardy.

<sup>6</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 8 Nov., aged thirty, and was buried in her brother's grave (see his burial 8 Apl. 1714, and note thereto). The newspapers of the day say that she was a native of the West Indies, and that she died suddenly, in her chariot, near Fleet Bridge. Her will, dated 6 Apl. 1721, was proved 24 Nov. following. Her bequests were to her aunt Anne, widow of her late uncle Edward Richbell, and her son Edward and dau. Frances, her uncle Richard Miles, merchant in Madeira, and Frances his wife, her cousin Samuel Strode and Anne his wife, and the children of her uncle John Wright.

<sup>1</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died the 17th, and was buried the 20th of November. See the burial, probably of her sister, 18 Jan. 1733-4. Samuel Chittle, probably their father or brother, was admitted a Gentleman of the Chapel Royal in ordinary 8 Aug. 1715, and was living 23 Apl. 1720.

<sup>2</sup> Second son of John, second Duke of Rutland, by his second wife, Lucy, dau. of Bennet, Lord Sherard, and sister of Beunet, first Earl of Harborough. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 16 Dec., in his seventh year.

<sup>3</sup> Third but second surviving son of William Johnstone, third Earl, and created Marquis of Annandale 4 June 1701, by his first wife, Sophia, dau. and heir of John Fairholm, of Craigie Hall, co. Stirling (see her burial 18 Dec. 1716). According to the Funeral Book, he died 25 Dec., in his twenty-fifth year. He died unmarried. See his brother's burial 25 Sep. 1730.

<sup>4</sup> Third son of Martin French, of Bromley, co. Kent, described in his marriage license as a gentleman, by Judith, dau. of Henry Shoyswell, of Etchingham, co. Sussex, Gent., and baptized at Bromley 15 Dec. 1673. According to the Chapter Book, he had patents, 15 Apl. 1700 (being then "my Lord's coachman," i. e. of Dean Sprat, Bishop of Rochester), as a bell-ringer and College porter, and he appears to have been previously College butler. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 3 Feb. His will, as of St. Margaret's, Westminster, Gent., dated 16 Jan. 1721-2, was proved 26 Feb. following, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, by his relict Elizabeth (see their marriage 14 Jan. 1702-3). He mentioned his brother John French (see his burial 21 June 1725), his brother Robert French, and his sisters Anne Bythell and Elinor Bayley. See the baptisms of his children, 14 Sep. 1704, 19 Aug. 1707, 1 Aug. 1709, and 9 May 1714, and their burials, 20 Aug. 1707, 17 Dec. 1709, 1 Nov. 1710, 17 June 1714, and 29 Oct. 1718.

<sup>5</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 16 Feb., and was buried under the same stone with Mr. Evan Lloyd (see his burial 8 Nov. 1714). She was his executrix, and was described in his will as "my kinswoman Ann Lloyd, relict of Captain Tom Lloyd."

<sup>1</sup> He was of King's College, Cambridge, A.B. 1685, A.M. 1689, S.T.B. 1702, and S.T.P. 1707. He was admitted Archdeacon of Norfolk 11 Mch. 1707-8, installed Prebendary of Ely 7 Mch. 1708-9, and of Westminster 8 July 1715, collated Prebendary of Lincoln 21 Nov. 1721, and confirmed Dean of Lincoln 9 Dec. following. He died, according to his monument, 28 Mch., in his fifty-ninth year. His will, dated 21 Apl. 1720, was proved 25 May 1722, by his relict Elizabeth. He mentioned that his mother, Mary Cannon, had died since his marriage. See the baptisms, of his dau. 23 Aug. 1716, and of his son 29 Mch. 1720. Another son, Charles, was baptized at St. Andrew's, Holborn, Midx., 15 Jan. 1712-13.

<sup>3</sup> Wife of Bishop Atterbury (see his burial 12 May 1732). Her name was Catherine, and it is generally supposed that she was an illegitimate dau. of Sir Thomas Osborne, but some accounts say that she was a distant relation of the Duke of Leeds, and that her father was a clergyman. According to the Funeral Book, she died 26 Apl., aged fifty-six, and the remains of her dau. Elizabeth (see her burial 4 Oct. 1716) were removed from the South aisle and interred with her. See the burial of another daughter 21 Feb. 1729-30.

<sup>5</sup> Dau. of Bartholomew Hervart, by Hester his wife (see her burial 7 Dec. 1697, and note thereto), and relict of Charles de la Tour, Marquis de Gouvernet, in France, who died before the revocation of the Edict of Nantes. She was permitted, in 1685, to join her dau. Lady Eland (see her burial 26 May 1694) in England, on condition of leaving her other children in France, and a few years later was naturalized by royal letters patent. She occupied to the end of her life a distinguished position in society, and appears to have been a universal favourite. Lady Cowper wrote in her diary, 12 Mch. 1715-16, "This day poor Madame Gouvernet was taken ill of a Palsy. 'Tis a thousand Pities. She is the most charming, agreeable Woman in the World, without any of the ill Humours of Eighty, though of those Years." She died, according to the Funeral Book, 4 July, aged eighty-six. Her will, dated 20 Oct. 1718, in her house in St. James's Square, where she had lived above thirty years, was proved 3 Aug. 1722, by William, first Earl Cowper, and names her relations in France.

<sup>6</sup> The Great Duke. Eldest surviving son of Sir Winston Churchill, Kt., by Elizabeth, dau. of Sir John Drake, of Ashe, co. Devon, Kt. He was born at Ashe the 24th, and baptized there 28 June 1650, according to the record in the parish register of Axminster, in that county. For his already splendid military services he was created Duke of Marlborough 14 Dec. 1702, but his great victory at Blenheim was not won until nearly two years later. He died, at Cranbourn Lodge near Windsor, 16 June. His remains appear to have been removed to Blenheim in 1744, after 11 Aug., the date of his widow's will, and before her burial there in Oct. following, but there is no record of the fact in any of the Abbey registers. See the burials, of his brother 12 May 1710, his sister 10 May 1730, and his daughter 24 Oct. 1733.

<sup>1</sup> Dau. of Edward Hyde, third Earl of Clarendon (see his burial 5 April 1723), by Catharine, dau. of Henry O'Brien, Lord Ibrackan. She was born 9 Nov., and baptized 6 Dec. 1695, at St. Martin in the Fields, Midx. She married John Bligh, Esq., afterwards Earl of Darley (see their marriage 24 Aug. 1713, and his burial 25 Sep. 1728). She was Baroness Clifton, of Leighton Bromswold, in the English peerage, in her own right, having succeeded to the title on the death of her brother Edward (see his burial 20 Feb. 1712-13), and had the same title in the Irish peerage, her husband having been created, 14 Sep. 1721, Baron Clifton, of Rathmore. She died 30 July, according to the Funeral Book, and in childbed of her eighth child, according to the newspapers of the day. See her son's burial 1 Aug. 1747.

<sup>3</sup> He died, according to the Funeral Book, 18 Aug., in his thirty-ninth year.

<sup>4</sup> He died, according to the Funeral Book, 23 Aug., aged sixty-six. His relict Martha administered to his estate, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, 7 Sep. following. See his son's burial 12 Sep. 1758.

<sup>7</sup> Dau. of Col. Philip Herbert (see his burial 18 Mch. 1715-16), by Mariamne his wife (see her burial 2 Mch. 1717-18). She married, at St. Bride's, London, 31 Mch. 1718, Robert Garrard, who was described, in the marriage allegation in the Vicar-General's office, as of St. Bride's, druggist, a bachelor, aged twenty-four, and she as of St. Giles in the Fields, Midx., spinster, aged above twenty, and as having the assent of Ralph Barsham, of St. Dunstan in the West, London, ironmonger, her guardian lawfully assigned, her parents being dead, and no guardian assigned to her. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 8 Jan., in her twenty-sixth year. Her husband administered to her estate 8 Feb. following.

<sup>1</sup> Son of the Head-Master of Westminster School. See his brother's baptism 10 Mch. 1714-15, and note thereto. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 14 Jan., in his fourth year. See his sister's burial 8 Apl. 1714.

<sup>2</sup> The Funeral Book says that she was grandchild of Dr. Turner (see his burial 16 Jan. 1739-40), and died 13 Feb., aged two years. See the marriage of her parents 6 Sep. 1716, her mother's burial 8 Jan. 1740-1, and her father's 13 May 1762.

<sup>3</sup> Second wife of Rev. Dr. Thomas Knipe, Prebendary of Westminster and Head-Master of Westminster School (see his burial 9 Aug. 1711). In their marriage allegation at the Vicar-General's office, dated 1 Feb. 1693-4, she was described as Mrs. Alice Talbot, of St. Margaret's, Westminster, widow, aged thirty-five and upwards. According to the Funeral Book, she died 2 Mch., aged seventy-eight. Her will, dated 23 Feb. 1722-3, and proved 9 Mch. following, mentions only the family of her second husband.

<sup>4</sup> Son of John Tuffnell, the Abbey mason (see his burial 23 Feb. 1696-7), by Dorothy his wife (see her burial, as Dorothy Noble, 20 Oct. 1720). He was baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 3 Jan. 1681-2, and was joiner to the Abbey. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 26 Mch., in his forty-second year. His will, dated 6 Oct. 1722, was proved 4 Apl. 1723. His wife Elizabeth, by whom he appears to have had no issue, survived him, and her will, dated 22 Oct. 1737, was proved 14 Mch. 1742-3. She directed to be buried in the chancel of the parish church of Biddenden, co. Kent.

<sup>5</sup> Edward Hyde, only son of Henry, second Earl of Clarendon (see his burial 4 Nov. 1709), by his first wife, Theodosia, dau. of Arthur, first Lord Capel. He was born in December 1661, and succeeded as third Earl of Clarendon. As Viscount Cornbury, he was Governor of New York from 1702 to 1708, and earned a most unenviable reputation, which he appears to have fully deserved, and his character and conduct were equally abhorred in both hemispheres. He married, clandestinely, at Totteridge, Herts. 10 July 1688. Catharine, dau. of Henry O'Brien, Lord Ibrackan (see his burial 9 Sep. 1678). He died 31 Mch., in obscurity, and deeply in debt, but had honourable burial in the vault of his ancestors, whose good name he had so sadly disgraced. See the marriage of his dau. 24 Aug. 1713, her burial 15 Aug. 1722, and that of his son 20 Feb. 1712-13.

<sup>6</sup> Only child of James, Lord Paisley, by his wife Catherine Lenthall. She married, first, her cousin William Lenthall, of Burford, co. Oxford, Esq., who died about 1686, and, secondly, her cousin, Charles, fifth Earl of Abercorn, who died in June 1701, by whom she had an only dau., who died young. She died 24 May, aged about seventy. The peerages usually say that she died in 1713.

Querouaille, in France, created by him Duchess of Portsmouth. He was born 29 July 1672, and was created, 9 Aug. 1675, Baron of Settrington, Earl of March, and Duke of Richmond, in Yorkshire, in the English peerage, and, 9 Nov. following, Baron Methuen, Earl of Darnley, and Duke of Lennox, in the peerage of Scotland. He married, Jan. 1692-3, Anne, second dau. of Francis, Lord Brudenell, and widow of Henry, second Lord Belasyse, of Worlaby, and was ancestor of the present Duke of Richmond. He died, at Goodwood, 27 May. According to the Funeral Book, his remains were removed, 16 Aug. 1750, to Chichester Cathedral.

<sup>1</sup> According to the Funeral Book, she died 23 July, aged seventy-seven. The place of interment indicates that she occupied some humble position.

<sup>2</sup> According to the Funeral Book, she died 5 Aug. She was probably the wife of Thomas Burnham, one of the almsmen (see his burial 29 Apl. 1746), or, perhaps, his daughter.

<sup>3</sup> The Funeral Book says "Almsman : died 15 Sep. aged ninety." According to a list in the Chapter Book, he was one of the almsmen as early as 5 June 1688. His relict Elizabeth administered to his estate 3 Oct. 1723, and in the record he was described as a "Chatham pensioner." See the burial of his first wife 25 Jan. 1691-2.

<sup>4</sup> According to the Funeral Book, she died 16 Sep. See her baptism 12 Dec. 1717, and her mother's burial 5 Mch. 1723-4.

<sup>5</sup> Second son of Charles, Duke of Cleveland and Southampton (see his burial 3 Nov. 1730), by his second wife, Anne, dau. of Sir William Pulteney (see her burial 28 Feb. 1745-6). The Funeral Book says that he died, at Paris, 10 Aug., in his twenty-first year; but Anderson, in his Royal Genealogies, states that he was born 13 Feb. 1698-9, which would make him in his twenty-fourth.

<sup>6</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 1 Oct., in his sixth month. He was born the 13th, and baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 22 Mch. 1722-3, as son of Christopher and Helen Shrider. See his mother's burial 27 Meh. 1752, and note thereto.

<sup>7</sup> The Funeral Book says that he was a son of the Bishop of St. Asaph, and died 13 Oct., aged ten weeks. See the baptism of his sister in 1722, and note thereto, and of his brother 24 May 1727.

<sup>8</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 21 Nov., aged forty-seven. She appears to have been a sister of Baron Geminghen, whom the newspapers of the day mention as having arrived from Hanover on the day of her death. She is said to have attended the then Princess of Wales from her infancy, and was at her death one of the Ladies of her Bedchamber, and Governess to her young children, Prince William-Augustus and Princess Mary. She died at Leicester House.

<sup>9</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 21 Nov. The place of burial was that appropriated exclusively to persons of humble rank.

<sup>10</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 20 Jan., in his seventieth year. He held the office of Harbinger, which, by order of the Chapter, 23 Dec. 1723, was to be extinguished at his death. His will, as of St. Margaret's, Westminster, Gent., dated 31 Aug. 1714, was proved 20 Jan. 1723-4, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, by his relict Lucy (see her burial, as Lucy Renton, 30 May 1726), whom he designated as his "only dear wife," solemnly asseverating that one Margaret Melsom, who called herself Margaret Hobbs, and claimed to be his wife, was not so, although he recognized her children as "Henry Hobbs, John Hobbs, and Elizabeth, wife of (blank) Holland," cutting her and them off, however, each with the conventional shilling. He mentioned no children by his "only dear wife Lucy," and further mysteries in regard to his marital relations will be found in the note to her burial.

<sup>2</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 12 Feb., aged sixty-two. See the burial (probably) of his son 24 Jan. 1729-30. The name appears to have been Tibstall, or Tipstall, and he evidently occupied some menial position.

<sup>3</sup> Dau. of Richard Knipe (see his burial 22 Feb. 1702-3), by Elizabeth his wife (see her burial 5 May 1704), and wife of Thomas Done, of Bexley, co. Kent, and of Great Queen Street, Lincoln's Inn Fields, Esq., to whom married about 1716. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 26 Feb., aged thirty-three. Her husband, who remarried, died 8 Nov. 1732, and was buried the 12th at St. Giles in the Fields, Midx. See the baptisms of her daughters, 12 Dec. 1717 and 6 Aug. 1719, and the burial of one of them 19 Sep. 1723.

<sup>4</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 4 Mch., aged seventy-eight. Her will, as of St. James, Westminster, spinster, dated 16 Feb. 1723-4, was proved 5 Mch. following. She left legacies to her sister Dorothy Hancock, mother of Captain Rupert Hancock, and her nieces Billingsley, Mace, and Childers, and their children. She was evidently an aunt of Captain Rupert Billingsley (see the burial of his dau., Bridget Belasyse, 3 Aug. 1735, and note thereto).

<sup>7</sup> Dau. of Francis Luttrell, of Gray's Inn, Esq., and sister of Narcissus Luttrell, of Little Chelsea, Midx., Esq. She married (settlement dated 17 Dec. 1688, cited in her husband's will) Owen Wynne, Esq., Dr. of Laws, Under-Secretary of State to Kings Chas. II. and James II., and Warden of the Mint in the reign of the latter King, who died in his fiftieth year, and was buried at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 27 Nov. 1700. The baptisms of six, and burials of two of their children occur in the parish register of St. Margaret. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 24 Mch., aged sixty-five. See the burials, of her son 23 May 1765, her daughters 8 Dec. 1734 and 3 Apl. 1735, and her son-in-law 2 July 1729.

<sup>9</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 12 July, aged one year, and was buried in the grave of Dorothy Jackson (see her burial 16 May 1718). Evidently a child of Robert Jackson, College baker (see his burial 7 Mch. 1729-30), by his wife Diana (see her burial 11 Apl. 1735). See the baptism of another daughter of this name 20 Jan. 1728-9.

<sup>4</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 29 Oct., aged seventy-five. See her husband's burial 11 Dec. 1695, probably her son's 21 Apl. 1685, and the baptism of her daughter 20 Jan. 1686-7.

<sup>5</sup> Sister of the well-known George Stepney (see his burial 22 Sep. 1707, and note thereto), and of Frances Stepney (see her burial 23 Mch. 1718-19). According to the Funeral Book, she died 29 Oct., in her sixty-third year. Her will, dated 13 July 1724, was proved 17 Nov. following, by Mrs. Charlotte Whetstone, evidently her kinswoman, who had long lived with her and her sister. She left considerable legacies to numerous "cousins," but the bulk of her estate to her executrix.

<sup>6</sup> Son of David Gregory, M.D., Savilian Professor of Astronomy at Oxford (who died 10 Oct. 1708), by Elizabeth his wife. He was admitted into Westminster School in 1720, and died, according to the Funeral Book, 2 Nov., in his nineteenth year. He was called third son in his father's will.

<sup>7</sup> First wife of Francis Winckles, porter and bell-ringer (see their marriage 13 May 1721, and his burial 4 Oct. 1738). The Funeral Book says that she died 4 Nov., aged thirty-two. See the baptism of her daughter 18 Jan. 1723-4.

<sup>8</sup> Eldest son of Patrick Crawford, merchant in Edinburgh (third son of David Crawford, sixth laird of Drumsoy, in Ayrshire), by his first wife, a dau. of Gordon of Turnberry. He was some time Secretary to the British Embassy at Paris, and was appointed resident Envoy at the French Court 3 July 1722. He died in that capacity, according to Le Neve (MS. in Coll. Arm.), at Fontainebleau. The Funeral Book says that he died 1 Oct., aged thirty-eight. He died unmarried, and letters of administration to his estate were granted, 9 Jan. 1724-5, to his brother Robert Crawford, the well-known author of "Tweedside" and other popular Scottish ballads.

<sup>9</sup> Fifth dau. of Sir Thomas Mainwaring, first Bart. of Over-Peover, co. Chester, by Mary, dau. of Sir Henry Delves, second Bart. of Dodington, in the same county. She was born 21 Sep. 1662, and died unmarried, at Hampton Court, 23 Nov. 1724. Her will, dated 29 Oct. 1720, was proved 22 Dec. 1724, by her nephew Henry Mainwaring, Esq. See her sister's burial 27 Apl. 1693.

<sup>1</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 3 Dec., aged eighty. According to a list in the Chapter Book, he was one of the almsmen as early as 5 June 1638. His will, as of St. Margaret's, Westminster, waterman, dated 22 Nov. 1717, was proved on the day of his death, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, by his relict Elizabeth, to whom he left all his possessions, except a shilling each to his dau. Mary and her husband John Russell. See the baptism of his son, by a former wife, 21 Oct. 1688.

<sup>2</sup> Son of John Gregory, the College carpenter (see his burial 24 Feb. 1703-4), by Elizabeth his wife (see her burial 10 Dec. 1719). According to his father's will, he was third and youngest son, and the Funeral Book says that he died 3 Dec., in his twenty-eighth year, and was buried with his father, mother, and brother (see his burial 26 Nov. 1718). His sister Elizabeth, wife of Francis Webb, administered to his estate, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, 17 Dec. 1724.

<sup>3</sup> Only dau. of Hon. Thomas Verney (eldest son of Rev. George Verney, fourth Baron Willoughby de Broke, but died in his father's lifetime), by Eleanor, youngest dau. of Thomas, second Lord Leigh, of Stoneleigh. She was married, at Isleworth, Midx., only on the preceding 1st of October, to George Bowes, of Streatham Castle and Gibside Park, co. Durham, Esq. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 14 Dec., in her fifteenth year. Her husband remarried, and died in 1760 (see the burial of his only dau. by his second wife 10 May 1800).

<sup>4</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 24 Jan., aged fifty-four. He is mentioned in the Chapter Book, as surveyor, 30 Feb. 1710-11. The Whitehall Evening Post, of 28 Jan. 1724-5, says : "Last Sunday morning died William Dickinson, Esq., a celebrated Architect, and Surveyor of Westminster Abbey. He was, in the reign of Q. Anne, Clerk of the Works." His will, as of St. Margaret's, Westminster, Gent., dated 9 June 1724, was proved 3 Mch. 1724-5, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, by his relict Elizabeth, to whom he left all his estate, except £150 to his son William. The Chapter Book records the payment, 17 May 1732, of fifteen guineas to his widow for some of his drawings.

<sup>5</sup> The Funeral Book says "died Feb. 18th, aged eight months," and intimates that the child was a son instead of a daughter. The father was Rev. Samuel Wesley, elder brother of the more celebrated John and Charles Wesley, and eldest son of Rev. Samuel Wesley, Rector of Epworth, co. Lincoln. He was at this time an usher of Westminster School, which post he occupied for nearly twenty years, and was elected, in 1734, head-master of the school at Tiverton, co. Devon, where he died 6 Nov. 1739. The mother was Ursula, dau. of Rev. John Berry, Rector of Watton, co. Norfolk, by Ursula his wife, half-sister of the Rev. Samuel Bentham, minor canon of Westminster (see his burial 5 Mch. 1729-30). She survived her husband, and was his executrix. See the burials of three other children, 8 Jan. 1725-6, 15 Aug. 1727, and 1 June 1731.

<sup>1</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 1 Apl., aged eighty-four. The title "Dame" in the text was misapplied to her, and probably only used in deference to her venerable age. She was the relict of Col. Thomas Panton (see his burial 26 Oct. 1685, and note thereto). Her will, dated 1 June 1722, was proved 8 Apl. 1725, by her son, Brigadier-General Thomas Panton.

<sup>2</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 5 Apl., aged forty-five. He was of Cambridge University, A.B. as of Clare College 1699, A.M. as of Corpus Christi College 1703, and S.T.P., by royal command, 1717. He is said to have been chaplain to Archbishop Tenison, and one of the Chaplains in ordinary to the King. He was installed treasurer of Wells 13 Nov. 1708, and Prebendary of Westminster 26 Nov. 1724, and was Rector of St. Paul's, Shadwell, co. Midx., at his death. He married, at St. Martin Outwich, London, 29 July 1714, Susanna Powell, of St. Mary Woolnoth, London. His will, dated 31 Mch. 1721, was proved 4 May 1725, by his relict, who is alone named in it. She died 26 Aug. 1764, in her seventy-eighth year, and was buried in the churchyard of Broxbourne, co. Herts.

<sup>3</sup> In her will, dated 3 Dec. 1723, with a codicil  $\frac{1}{2}$  9 Apl. 1725, she described herself as "Sophia-Charlotta, Countess of Darlington and Leinster, Baroness of Brentford, born Countess of the Empire and Lady von Platen and Hallermund, widow, dowager of the late John-Adolph, Baron von Kielmansegge, Master of Horse and Lord Chamberlain to his Majesty of Great Britain and Electoral Highness of Brunswick-Luneburg." She also described her deceased father as "Frantz-Ernest, Imperial Count von Platen and Hallermund, late Chief Privy Counsellor to his Electoral Highness of Brunswick-Luneburgh, and hereditary Postmaster-General of the Dominion of Brunswick-Luneburgh, the Bishoprick of Osnabrugg, and of the Duchies of Bremen and Verden." The will was proved 10 Mch. 1725-6, by her eldest son George-Lewis, Count von Kielmansegge. Her husband was buried at St. James, Westminster, 17 Nov. 1717, and she was created by K. Geo. I., 6 Apl. 1722, Baroness of Brentford, co. Midx., and Countess of Darlington, co. Durham, for life. She died 20 Apl. Her eldest dau., Sophia-Charlotte-Mary, whose paternity was imputed to K. George I., married Emanuel Scrope, second Viscount Howe. She made her, with her younger sister Caroline, her eldest brother above named, and her younger brothers, Charles-August and Ernest-August, her general heirs.

<sup>4</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 28 Apl. See the burial (probably) of her sister 15 Feb. 1722-3, the marriage of her parents 6 Sep. 1716, and the burials, of her mother 8 Jan. 1740-1, and her father 13 May 1762.

<sup>5</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 19 May, aged seven weeks, and was buried in the grave of his grandfather Sims (see his burial 5 Feb. 1720-1). He was son of Henry Sims and Anne his wife, and was born 29 Mch., and baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 15 Apl. 1725. See his sister's burial 16 Sep. 1730.

<sup>6</sup> Younger son of Matthew Johnson, of Withcote, co. Leicester, Esq., Clerk of the House of Lords, who died in Dec. 1723, by Margaret, dau. of Edward Palmer, of Stoke-Doyle, co. Northampton, Esq., and Elizabeth his wife (see her burial 3 July 1706). He was Clerk-assistant of the House of Lords, and died, according to his coffin-plate, 22 May, in his forty-third year. He appears to have died unmarried, and by his will, dated 24 Aug. 1722, left his estate to his two sisters, Frances and Elizabeth, who proved the will 1 June 1725, both being then unmarried (see the burial of one of them, as Frances Merest, 17 Nov. 1727).

Lady Jane Granville, eldest dau. of John, first Earl of Bath. She was sister of John, first Baron Gower. She married (Mar. Lic. Fac. 2 Mch. 1691-2) Hon. Henry Hyde, who succeeded his father (see his burial 10 May 1711) as second Earl of Rochester, and his cousin (see his burial 5 Apl. 1723) as fourth Earl of Clarendon, at whose death in Nov. 1753 the titles became extinct. According to her coffin-plate, she died 24 May, aged fifty-five. See the burials of her children, 17 Nov. 1702, 27 May 1704, 2 Nov. 1709, 5 July 1710, 24 Mch. 1739-40, and 12 June 1753.

<sup>1</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 6 June, aged thirty-one. He was, according to the College books, son of John Jewell, of Battersea, co. Surrey, but his father, in his will dated 24 Nov. 1724, called himself of St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., gardener. He was admitted into St. Peter's College, Westminster, in 1711, and elected to Cambridge in 1715, where A.B. in 1718, and A.M. 1722. His will, dated 31 May 1725, was proved 8 July following, by his relict Lucia, who remarried the celebrated Latin poet, Vincent Bourne (see her burial 16 Mch. 1767). He bequeathed to his wife the freehold estate in Lewisham, Kent, left him by his father, and his moiety of two houses in Battersea devised to him and his brother John by the will of their late grandfather George Iver. In his father's will he was called eldest son. He appears to have left no issue.

<sup>3</sup> Fifth son of Martin French, of Bromley, co. Kent, described in his marriage license as a gentleman, by Judith, dau. of Henry Shoyswell, of Etchingham, co. Sussex, Gent., and baptized at Bromley 4 Aug. 1680. He had a patent from the Dean and Chapter, 15 Apl. 1700, as College butler, in the place of his brother Thomas (see his burial Feb. 1721-2), and was then described as one of Dean Sprat's servants. He was also one of the vergers for many years, and was appointed College brewer 3 July 1723. The Funeral Book says that he died 13 June. His will, as of Stable Yard, near Dean's Yard, Westminster, Gent., was dated 7 June and proved 12 July 1725. See his wife's burial 6 Feb. 1758, the baptisms of his children, 24 May 1704, 17 Jan. 1705-6, 11 Jan. 1707-8, 4 Aug. 1710, 9 Dec. 1712, 30 May 1714, and 29 Dec. 1717, and their burials, 6 Nov. 1710, 11 Aug. and 17 Dec. 1713, 2 Mch. 1719-20, 15 July 1735, 5 Jan. 1736-7, and 21 July and 14 Aug. 1744.

<sup>4</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 19 July, aged eighty. See the burial, perhaps of her husband, 14 May 1726.

<sup>5</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 4 Aug., aged three weeks. See his baptism 1 Aug. 1725, and note thereto.

<sup>7</sup> Wife of Thomas Gethin, one of the Abbey choir, and a Gentleman in ordinary of the Chapel Royal. The Funeral Book says that she died 10 Oct., in her thirty-fifth year. See her child's burial 15 June 1721.

<sup>1</sup> Infant son of Edward Harley, second Earl of Oxford (see his burial 25 June 1741), by Lady Henrietta-Cavendish Holles, only dau. and heir of John, fourth Earl of Clare (see her burial 26 Dec. 1755). According to the Funeral Book, he was born on the 18th and died on the 22nd of the same month.

<sup>2</sup> Eldest son of Richard Whitworth, of Adbaston, co. Stafford, Esq., by Anne, dau. of Rev. Francis Mosley, uncle of Sir Oswald Mosley, first Bart. of Rolleston, co. Stafford. He was educated at Westminster School, and elected to Cambridge in 1694. He became a distinguished diplomatist and successful ambassador to various courts, and was created, 10 Oct. 1720, Baron Whitworth, of Galway, in Ireland. The Funeral Book says that he died 23 Oct., aged fifty. His will, dated at Berlin  $\frac{2}{13}$  Mch. 1722-3, was proved 1 Dec. 1725, by his brother Francis Whitworth, Esq. His wife, Lady Magdalene, survived him, but he left no issue, and the title became extinct.

<sup>3</sup> Probably son and eldest child of Rev. Dr. Peter Waldo and Emma his wife (see their marriage 29 Jan. 1712-13). The Funeral Book says that he died 19 Nov., aged twelve years.

<sup>4</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 13 Dec., in his sixty-third year, and his monument described him as President of H.M.'s Council of the Island of St. Christopher. His will, as late of St. Christopher's, but then of London, Esq., dated 4 Dec. 1725, was proved on the 17th of the same month. He directed that a tombstone should be placed over his wife's grave, but without stating where she was buried. He left sundry negroes, etc., to Mrs. Bridget Davis and her son, his nephew, Joseph Davis; his daughter-in-law Anne, wife of Joseph Estridge, Esq., and Henry Sharp, her son by her former husband Lieut. William Sharp; his niece Mary Sherman, and the dau. of his niece Cornelia Brozett deceased; and various legacies to other persons not named as relations. He confirmed the manumission of certain slaves, and named others who were to have their freedom after his death, among whom was one Stephen Davis, whom he declared to be his natural son, and to whom he bequeathed a plantation and several slaves, when he should reach the age of twenty-one.

<sup>7</sup> Only dau. and heir of John Fitzgerald, of Dromana, co. Waterford, Ireland, Esq., by Catherine, second dau. of John, Lord Le Poer. She married, first, Hon. Edward Villiers, eldest son of George, fourth Viscount Grandison, who died in 1693, in his father's life-time. She obtained a royal patent, in 1699, to enjoy the same title and precedence that she would have been entitled to if her husband had survived his father. She remarried the Right Hon. William Steuart (see his burial 10 June 1726). She died, according to her coffin-plate, 26 Dec. 1725, aged sixty-three. She appears to have been insane for some time previous to her death, but, according to the newspapers of the day, her funeral was conducted "in the most magnificent manner that any funeral had been performed for many years."

<sup>1</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 31 Jan., aged eighty-eight. He had been porter of the Little Cloisters for many years, and was buried in the place specially reserved for persons of the lowest rank. His will, dated 13 Sep. 1721, was proved 14 Feb. 1725-6, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, by his friend William Tipstall, labourer. What he possessed he left to his niece Ann Higgons, then about five years old. See his wife's burial 25 Aug. 1716.

<sup>3</sup> Lady Charlotte Lane, eldest dau. of George, first Viscount Lanesborough, in the peerage of Ireland, and second English Baronet of that name, by his first wife, Dorcas, second dau. of Sir Anthony Brabazon, of co. Louth, Ireland, Kt. She married, at St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., 8 June 1676, Henry Beaufoy, Esq., who was described in the marriage allegation (Vic. Gen.) as of St. Bride's, London, a bachelor, aged nineteen, and as having the consent of his grandmother Dame Mary Walker, his parents being dead. Her age was also given as nineteen. According to Le Neve's Knights, he was knighted at Whitehall, either the 6th or the 12th of June 1676, two days before or four days after his marriage. The latter is probably correct, as he was called "Esquire" both in the marriage license and record of the marriage. He was of Guy's Cliff, co. Warwick, and his will, dated 13 June 1678, was proved by her 8 Jan. 1678-9. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 19 Feb., aged seventy. Her nephew and next of kin, George Fox, Esq., administered to her estate 8 Mch. 1725-6. Le Neve says that she was born 28 Aug. 1658, which does not quite agree with her age as stated in the marriage allegation or the Funeral Book. See the burial of her only child 17 July 1705.

<sup>4</sup> Relict of the Right Rev. Thomas Sprat, Bishop of Rochester and Dean of Westminster (see his burial 25 May 1713). She died, according to the Funeral Book, 26 Feb., aged seventy-eight. In the affidavit of her burial in woollen she was called of Bromley, co. Kent, where she probably died. Her monument states that she was descended from the ancient family of Wolseley, of Staffordshire. Dr. Gorges (see his burial 14 Dec. 1667) in his will left £100 to "Mrs. Hellena Wolesly, whom I used to call wife." She was married, as appears by a statement in her husband's will, in 1676, and evidently on the 30th of October, as she dated a codicil to her will on that day, adding, "it being the happy day of my life so long as my good husband and son lived." She appears to have been a sister of Anne, first wife of Rev. Dr. Thomas Knipe (see her burial 26 Aug. 1685). Her will, signed 10 Oct. 1724, with several codicils, the last being 7 Jan. 1725-6, was proved 13 May 1726, by her own great-nephew Richard Knipe and her husband's great-nephew Rev. Thomas Glover. Among other legacies she bequeathed the wedding ring of her grandmother Lady Wolseley, her coat-of-arms, and the pedigree of her grandfather Sir John Zouch.

<sup>5</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 9 Mch., aged fifty-one. He was appointed scavenger, according to the Chapter Book, 5 Feb. in the same year. Letters of administration to his estate were granted 1 Apl. 1726, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, to his relict Mary, and his eldest son Charles (see his burial 28 May 1734). His name is given in the record as Chittam. According to an entry in the Chapter Book, 18 Dec. 1733, his widow Mary was to be placed in Emery Hill's almshouses.—Charles Chitham, of St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., goldsmith, bachelor, aged about twenty-three, and Margaret Barrett, of the same parish, spinster, about eighteen, had a license to marry, from the Vicar-General's office, 25 Apl. 1668. They were probably his parents, as the date is appropriate, and he named his eldest son Charles.

<sup>6</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 10 Mch., aged sixty-six, and her monument adds that she had been body-laundress to Q. Anne during the whole of her reign. Mrs. Ellen Bust (see her burial 28 Apl. 1697) in her will, dated 2 May 1693, called her her niece, and she was then a widow. Her will, dated 1 Aug. 1722, was proved 18 Mch. 1725-6, by Elizabeth, wife of Bernard Gates (see her burial 15 Mch. 1736-7), to whom she left the most of her estate. She bequeathed small legacies to her cousin Mr. Matthew Moody, and her cousin Mrs. Dorothy Wynne, widow (see her burial 27 Mch. 1724).

<sup>1</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 21 Mch., aged thirty-nine. See her daughter's burial 21 Oct. 1731. A still-born child of Mrs. Handford was buried at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 20 May 1721.

<sup>2</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 26 Apl., aged twenty-one. The Whitehall Evening Post, of 28 Apl. 1726, says: "A person of a rare genius for music. Having been educated under Dr. Croft, he was his Deputy and Organist at Whitehall Chapel."

<sup>3</sup> Relict of Henry Spoor, Clerk of the Works to the Abbey (see his burial 29 June 1703). The Funeral Book says that he died 8 May, aged ninety-four. Her will, dated 14 Apl. 1726, was proved 19 May following, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, by her dau. Dorothy Sims (see her burial 14 Jan. 1729-30).

<sup>4</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 12 May, aged seventy-six. He had the reversion of an almsman's place, according to the Chapter Book, as early as 28 Feb. 1687-8. See the burial (probably) of his wife 23 July 1725.

<sup>5</sup> Illegitimate son of K. Charles II., by Ellen Gwynne, and his eldest son by her. He was born in Lincoln's Inn Fields 8 May 1670, and was created, 27 Dec. 1676, Baron of Headington, and Earl of Burford, both in co. Oxford, and, 10 Jan. 1683-4, Duke of St. Albans. He married, 13 Apl. 1694, Lady Diana de Vere, eldest dau. and eventually sole heir of Aubrey, twentieth and last Earl of Oxford, who survived him, and died 15 Jan. 1741-2. The Funeral Book says that he died 10 May, aged fifty-five, but the newspapers of the day say that he died at Bath on the 9th, and some of the peerages say on the 11th. It is remarkable that his will, dated 19 July 1694, shortly after his marriage, in which he left all his estate to his wife, was never altered or added to, and it was proved by her 25 Aug. 1726. It is possible, however, that it had been forgotten or mislaid, as she had taken out letters of administration the preceding 2nd of June. See the burials of his sons, 2 Mch. 1732-3 and 3 Aug. 1751.

<sup>6</sup> The Funeral Book says "Mrs. Lucy Renton (late Hobbs)," and that she died 28 May, aged fifty, and was buried in her husband's grave (see his burial 22 Jan. 1723-4, and note thereto). In her will, dated 20 May 1726, she called herself "Lucy Hobbs" only, and "widow," and left all her estate to her son Henry Hobbs, who proved the will, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, 2 June following. It is difficult to comprehend her husband's marital relations, as was said in the note to his burial, for in his will he declared that Henry Hobbs was his son by one Margaret Melsom, who claimed to be his wife, and cut him off with a shilling. He also described the person named in the text as "my only dear wife, late Lucy Owen, now Lucy Hobbs," stating that the greater part of his worldly substance came to him by his marriage with her, and again mentioned her as "my dearly beloved wife Lucy Hobbs, with whom I now live, before called Lucy Owen." She proved the will as "Lucy Hobbs alias Owen, widow, relict and executrix" of the testator. If she remarried Renton after the death of Hobbs, she was herself no longer Hobbs, but Renton; yet the Court of the Dean and Chapter recognized her, not as Lucy Renton, but as "Lucy Hobbs, widow."

<sup>7</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 3 June, in her eighteenth year, and was buried in the grave of Mrs. Spoor (her grandmother, see her burial 12 May 1726). She was a dau. of Ralph

Sims, Clerk of the Works to the Abbey (see his burial 5 Feb. 1720-1), by Dorothy his wife (see her burial 14 Jan. 1729-30), and was baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 21 Nov. 1708.

<sup>3</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 23 June, in her forty-third year. Letters of administration to her estate, as of St. James, Westminster, spinster, were granted, 2 Aug. 1726, to her mother Priscilla Forster (see her burial 11 May 1729). See a marriage 6 Nov. 1679, and a burial 17 June 1689.

<sup>4</sup> Son of Henry Cadogan, of Liscarton, co. Meath, Ireland, Esq., barrister-at-law, by Bridget, dau. of Sir Hardress Waller, Kt. For his distinguished military services he was created, 30 June 1716, Baron Cadogan of Reading, co. Berks, and, 8 May 1718, Baron Cadogan of Oakley, co. Bucks (with remainder to his brother Charles), Viscount Caversham, and Earl Cadogan. He married Margaretta-Cecilia, dau. of William Munter, Counsellor of the Court of Holland, but left issue only two daughters. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 17 July, in his fifty-seventh year, and all his titles became extinct, except the second barony.

<sup>5</sup> Dau. of Francis Godolphin, of Coulston, co. Wilts, Esq., by his first wife, Elizabeth, dau. of Sir John Gayer, Kt., Lord Mayor of London. She married, about 27 June 1687 (Mar. Lic. Vic. Gen.), Charles Godolphin, Esq., M.P. for Helston, etc. (see his burial 28 July, 1720). She died, according to her monument, 29 July, aged sixty-three. They provided, among other charities, for founding an establishment at Salisbury, or elsewhere in Wiltshire, for eight orphans of gentle birth. See the burials of their children, 12 Dec. 1690 and 16 May 1694.

<sup>2</sup> Eldest surviving son of William, first Earl of Portland (see his burial 3 Dec. 1709), by his first wife, Frances (wrongly called Anne in the peerages), dau. of Sir Edward Villiers, Knight-Marshal, and sister of Edward, first Earl of Jersey. He succeeded as second Earl, and was created, 6 July 1716, Marquis of Titchfield and Duke of Portland. He married, at Chiswick, Midx., 9 June 1704, Lady Elizabeth Noel, eldest dau. and coheir of Wriothsley-Baptist, second Earl of Gainsborough, who survived him, and was his executrix. In his marriage license and the record of his marriage he is called William-Henry. He was Governor of Jamaica, and died there, according to the Funeral Book, 4 July 1726, in his forty-fifth year. See his son's burial 8 May 1762.

<sup>3</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 25 Dec., aged forty.—William Glannister, of St. Clement Danes, widower, and Jane Thompson, of the precinct of Whitefriars, spinster, aged thirty-six, had a marriage license from the Faculty Office, 27 July 1727.

<sup>6</sup> THE IMMORTAL. Posthumous and only child of Isaac Newton, by Hannah, dau. of James Ayscough, of Market-Overton, co. Rutland, Gent. He was born 25 Dec. 1642, and baptized at Colsterworth, co. Lincoln, 1 Jan. following. He was knighted by Q. Anne, at Trinity College, Cambridge, 16 Apl. 1705. He died, unmarried, 20 Mch., and intestate. His father was buried at Colsterworth 6 Oct. 1642, and his mother remarried, in 1645. Rev. Barnabas Smith, Rector of North Witham, co. Lincoln, by whom, among other children, she had a dau. Hannah, who married Robert Barton, of Brigstock, co. Northampton, and their dau. Catherine was one of Sir Isaac's coheirs: see her burial, as Mrs. Catharine Conduit, 29 Jan. 1739-40.

<sup>7</sup> According to the newspapers of the day, he had been for many years secretary to the Duke of Ormond, and some time Judge Advocate to the army in Flanders. The Evening Post, of 30 Mch. 1727, states that he died at his house in Duke Street, Westminster, on the 25th, and adds: "He was an upright, honest man." His will, in which he described himself as "M.A., Student of Christ Church, Oxford," dated 16 Dec. 1725, was proved 27 Mch. 1727, by his brother Fleetwood Watkins, residuary legatee. He left considerable legacies to the children of his deceased brother Charles Watkins, his sister Elizabeth Haywood, and his best beloved sister, the wife of Sir Matthew Decker. An endorsement on the will states that he was a son of Rev. Richard Watkins, some time Vicar of Ambrosden, co. Oxford, and afterwards Rector of Whichford, co. Warwick, and of Bourton-on-the-Hill, co. Gloucester. He matriculated at Oxford, from Christ Church, 16 Dec. 1684, aged eighteen, as son of Rev. Richard Watkins, of Whichford, and was, therefore, at his death, about sixty-one years of age. He appears to have died unmarried.

<sup>2</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 10 Apl., aged seventy. He had been a merchant of London, and is said to have been a partner of Sir William Hussey, Kt., whose widow he married, at St. Giles in the Fields, Midx., 7 Jan. 1694-5 (see her burial 16 June 1731). He was a brother of Rev. Michael Evans, Prebendary of Westminster (see his burial 25 Aug. 1732), and son of Maurice Evans, of Westminster, Gent. His will, as of Chelsea, Midx., dated 25 Aug. 1726, was proved 2 May 1727, by his relict Dame Mary Hussey. Besides her and his said brother, he only named his sister Mrs. Susan Glover (see her burial 25 Feb. 1739-40).

<sup>3</sup> Second wife and relict of James Broughton, surveyor to the Abbey (see his burial 3 Feb. 1710-11). She was married at St. Augustine's, London, 22 Oct. 1700, and then described as Sarah Taylor, of St. Margaret's, Westminster. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 13 Apl., aged fifty-seven. Her will, dated 27 Mch. 1727, was proved 20 Apl. following, by her sister Elizabeth Crouch, widow, and her nephew Thomas Crouch, to whom she bequeathed all her estate, and the latter was to pay his sister, Sarah Crouch, £10 per annum for life. See the baptisms of her children, 25 July 1707 and Dec. 1710, and their burials, 6 Aug. 1707 and 21 Dec. 1710.

<sup>4</sup> Youngest dau. of Thomas Carew, of Carew Castle, co. Pembroke, citizen and merchant taylor of London, who died in 1692, and sister of Thomas Carew, of Crowcombe Court, co. Somerset. She married, in 1715, Peter Elers, of Chelsea, Midx., Esq. (see his burial 20 Mch. 1753). According to the Funeral Book, she died 7 June, aged thirty-nine; but either she, or an elder sister of the same name, was baptized 2 Oct. 1684, at St. Martin Orgar, London, where her father was then a merchant. See the burial of her daughter, Mrs. Ann Poston, 11 Aug. 1759.

<sup>5</sup> Only child of Giles Hooper (see his burial 5 Aug. 1699), by Mary his first wife (see her burial 5 Apl. 1683). The Evening Post, of 3 Mch. 1714-15, describes him as having been recently removed from the offices of "Solicitor of H.M.'s Duties on Hides, Skins, etc., as also for the Affairs of Taxes and Duties on Houses, and Clerk of the Securities." The Funeral Book says that he died 14 June, aged fifty-four, which must be an error, as his parents were not married until after 7 Feb. 1680-1, and his mother died in her twenty-third year. It should doubtless be forty-four, or forty-five. His will, as of Clement's Inn, Midx., Gent., dated 13 May 1727, was proved 21 June following, by his relict Susanna, whom he described as a sister of John Walker.

<sup>6</sup> Her will, as of St. Margaret's, Westminster, dated 15 June 1727, was proved 17 July following, by Elizabeth Fisher. She bequeathed to Benjamin Jones, Mary Jones, and Catharine Whaley, each £20 then in the hands of Mrs. Trubshaw, and £5 each to Richard Pack and Mrs. Bradshaw. The residue of her possessions she gave equally to said Elizabeth Fisher, "Margarch Ares," and Rachel Breame. She was probably a servant.

<sup>2</sup> William Croft, the celebrated organist and musical composer. He is said to have been a native of Nether-Eatington, co. Warwick, and to have been a pupil of Dr. John Blow. He was sworn a Gentleman extraordinary of the Chapel Royal 7 July 1700, and the same year was elected organist of St. Anne's, Westminster, being only twenty-three years of age. On 25 May 1704 he was sworn joint organist of the Chapel Royal, and 5 Nov. 1707 full organist. In Oct. 1708 he succeeded Dr. Blow as master of the children and composer to the Chapel Royal, and also as organist to the Abbey. He was created Doctor of Music, at Oxford, 9 July 1713. According to the Funeral Book and his monument, he died 14 Aug., aged fifty. In the record of administration to his estate, after his wife's death, he was described as late of St. Margaret's, Westminster, and of Kensington, Midx., but died at the city of Bath. He married, at the Chapel Royal, 7 Feb. 1704-5, Mary, dau. of Robert Georges, of Kensington, who survived him, and her father administered to the estates of both, 28 July 1733.

<sup>4</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 11 Oct., aged thirty-five. See her marriage 1 Aug. 1725, her husband's burial 18 June 1732, and her son's 15 June 1726.

<sup>5</sup> He was sworn a Gentleman of the Chapel Royal in Dec. 1715, and reader in the Chapel of Whitehall 9 July 1719, being described as from Worcester. According to an entry in the Chapter Book, 11 May 1725, fifteen guineas were to be paid towards his release from prison, where he was confined for debt. He died 3 Nov., and a creditor administered to his estate, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, on the 23rd of the same month.

<sup>6</sup> Eldest dau. of Matthew Johnson, Esq., Clerk of the House of Lords, by Margaret his wife, dau. of Edward Palmer, of Stoke Doyle, co. Northampton, Esq. See the burial of her brother 25 May 1725, and note thereto. She married, at St. Giles Cripplegate, London, 13 July 1725, James Merest, Esq., Clerk-Assistant of the House of Lords, but appears to have had no issue. He remarried, and died 27 Dec. 1752 (see the baptism of his second wife 16 Mch. 1706-7, and note thereto). She died, according to the Funeral Book, 14 Nov., aged forty.

<sup>7</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 19 Nov., in his fifty-first year. His relict Anne administered to his estate, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, 10 Apl. 1728, when he was described as of St. Margaret's, Westminster.

<sup>3</sup> Second son of Sir Edward Seymour, fourth Bart. of Berry Pomeroy, co. Devon, by his first wife, Margaret, eldest dau. and coheir of Sir William Wale, Kt., Alderman of London, and was baptized at St. Peter-le-Poor, London, 8 Feb. 1664-5. He distinguished himself at the siege of Namur in 1695, when he commanded a regiment of foot, and attained the rank of Lieut.-General 1 Jan. 1706-7. The Funeral Book says that he died 10 Feb., in his sixty-third year. He appears to have died unmarried.

<sup>4</sup> Eldest son of Thomas Forbes, Esq., an Advocate in Edinburgh, and nephew and heir of Sir Alexander Forbes, of Tolquhoun, Aberdeenshire, Kt. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 4 Apl., in his forty-second year. He was ancestor of the present family of Forbes-Leith, of Whitehaugh, in that county. See his wife's burial 17 Nov. 1738.

<sup>5</sup> The Funeral Book describes him as Professor of Physic in Gresham College, and Fellow of the Royal Society, and says that he died 25 Apl., aged sixty-two. His monument adds that he was born 1 May 1665. He is said to have been of a Gloucestershire family, but born in Derbyshire, and his mother a Burdett, and to have been apprenticed to a linendraper in London. Soon abandoning this pursuit, he became a pupil of Dr. Peter Barwick, and, Archbishop Tenison having conferred upon him the degree of Dr. of Physic, he was incorporated in that degree, at Cambridge, in 1695. He became a Fellow of the Royal College of Physicians of London 22 Mch. 1702-3, and founded the Geological lectureship at Cambridge which bears his name. He died unmarried.

<sup>7</sup> Son of Rev. Reuben Clarke, Archdeacon of Essex, and Jane his wife. See his brother's baptism 12 Oct. 1725, and note thereto, and his burial 31 Mch. 1727. The Funeral Book says that he died 6 May, and was buried in his brother's grave.

<sup>8</sup> She died, according to the Funeral Book, 5 July, aged sixty-four. The newspapers of the day describe her as the wife of Dr. William Cockburn, an eminent physician (see his burial 24 Nov. 1739). She was his first wife, and evidently a foreigner. In their marriage allegation at the Faculty Office, dated 9 Sep. 1698, he was described as William Cockburn, Dr. of Physic, of St. James, Westminster, bachelor, aged twenty-eight, and she as Mary De Banddissin, of the same parish, widow.

<sup>2</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 25 Aug., aged six years and a half. See her brother's burial 20 Nov. following.

<sup>3</sup> Eldest son of Thomas Bligh, of Rathmore, co. Meath, Ireland, Esq., by Elizabeth, dau. of Col. James Napier, of Loughcrew, in the same county. He was created Baron Clifton of Rathmore 14 Sep. 1721, Viscount Darnley of Athboy 7 Mch. 1722-3, and Earl of Darnley 29 June 1725. He died at Epsom, co. Surrey, 12 Sep., according to the Funeral Book, in his forty-first year. See his marriage 24 Aug. 1713, his wife's burial 15 Aug. 1722, and his son's 1 Aug. 1747. (Archdall's edition of Lodge's Peerage of Ireland, ii. 212, erroneously says that he was buried at Trim).

<sup>4</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 25 Oct., aged fifty-two. She was evidently the wife of James Burges, one of the bell-ringers, whose will, dated 18 Feb. 1732-3, was proved 15 Mch. following, by his sister Sarah Preston, widow (see her burial 9 Apl. 1747), to whom and to his dau. Anne Burges he left his possessions equally. See the burials, probably, of her children, 19 Mch. 1711-12 and 25 Feb. 1715-16.

<sup>5</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 17 Nov., aged sixteen years, and was buried in his sister's grave : see her burial 28 Aug. preceding.

<sup>6</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 1 Dec., aged seventy-four. She was the relict of Charles Caldwell, College beadle (see his burial 16 Sep. 1714). Her son Jeremiah Caldwell administered to her estate, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, 16 Dec. 1728. See burials 6 Sep. 1769 and 1 July 1771.

<sup>7</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 21 Dec., aged two years. She was a dau. of Rev. George Carleton, Chanter of the Abbey, and Elizabeth his wife (see the note to a baptism 4 Dec. 1732). See the burials, of her brother 24 Mch. 1729-30, and of her sisters, 10 Mch. 1735-6 and 11 Mch. 1738-9.

<sup>8</sup> The Funeral Book says "aged sixty-three." His will, as of St. Margaret's, Westminster, carpenter, dated 23 Dec. 1728, was proved 2 Jan. following, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, by his relict Elizabeth, and by Edward Ayres, of Westminster, patten-maker. He bequeathed ten shillings each to his three daughters, Sarah wife of Robert Fisher, Mary wife of Stephen Whitaker, and Elizabeth wife of Daniel Chandler, and one shilling each to their said husbands. The residue of his estate he left to his wife (see her burial 22 June 1739).

<sup>9</sup> Wife of Rev. Samuel Bentham, minor canon, etc. (see his burial 5 Mch. 1729-30). She was married, as Ruth Allestry, at St. Sepulchre's, London, 30 May, 1678, and in the marriage allegation at the Vicar-General's office, dated the day before, she was described as of St. Mary-le-Bow

London, a spinster, aged about twenty-four, and at her own disposal. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 20 Jan., aged seventy-six. See the burial of her daughter, Elizabeth Smith, 3 June 1730.

<sup>2</sup> Son of Nicholas Lowe (see his burial 30 Sep. 1706), by Millicent his wife (see her burial 16 Sep. 1715). He had a patent from the Dean and Chapter, as Coroner and Clerk of the Market of Westminster, 7 Oct. 1706, which offices he resigned 13 Jan. 1717-18. He signed the Chapter Book, as deputy Chapter Clerk, 16 June 1713, and appears afterwards to have been Registrar and Chapter Clerk. He was appointed Auditor 21 Nov. 1728, and held a patent as Sacrist at his death. He appears to have been also secretary to the Bishop of Rochester, and J.P. for Westminster. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 3 Feb., aged fifty-one. The newspapers of the day say that he was found drowned in his cistern; one stating that he died in a fit of apoplexy, another that while regulating a cock he fell in and was accidentally drowned before assistance arrived, and a third intimating that the coroner's jury rendered a verdict of suicide during temporary insanity. His relict Mary administered to his estate in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, 24 Feb. 1728-9 (see her burial 20 Feb. 1732-3). See the baptisms of his children, 21 Jan. 1716-17, 3 Aug. 1718, 14 Oct. 1724, and 3 June 1727, and the burials of his sons, 17 May 1720 and 9 Oct. 1739, and of his daughter, 8 Feb. 1728-9.

<sup>4</sup> The Funeral Book states that she died 13 Feb., aged ninety-one. Her will, as of Charles Street, St. Margaret's, Westminster, spinster, dated 26 Sep. 1726, was proved 3 Apl. 1729, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, by her "loving friend" John Aubrey, Esq., of the Exchequer (see his burial 11 Nov. 1758). She stated that her true and lawful parents were Mr. John Arthington and Mrs. Margaret his wife, who educated her in the principles and practice of the Church of Rome; but that, having been converted to the Church of England, and fearing the efforts of her kindred and others to restore her to her former errors, she had, in order to conceal herself, assumed and long been known by the name of Margaret Lookwood, and that she now made her will under her real name. She directed to be buried in the South aisle of the Abbey, between the West door and the door of the choir, and left £80 for her funeral expenses. To Mrs. Joanna Arthington, living in or near Fenchurch Street, London, she bequeathed her coat-of-arms, and forty shillings for a ring. To Mrs. Unton English, living near St. Dunstan's in Fleet Street, and her sister Dorothy English, she left £25 each. Her apparel she gave to Susanna London and Susanna wife of Robert Young. Except a few small bequests to her attendants, tradesmen, etc., she bequeathed the residue of her estate to her executor.

<sup>3</sup> In the Funeral Book only. Evidently a sister of Elizabeth Clark (see her burial 19 May 1730). The place of burial indicates that their parents occupied some humble position.

<sup>4</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 8 May, aged seventy-two. Her will, as of St. James, Westminster, widow, dated 17 Mch. 1728-9, with a codicil 20 Apl. 1729, was proved 14 May following, by Elizabeth Walker, of the same parish, spinster, residuary legatee. She mentioned no relations, but left legacies varying from £5 to £50 to several friends. She bequeathed £300 to the parish of Llanerfyl, co. Montgomery, for educating poor children, and the school founded therewith is still in operation. See the burial of her dau. 26 June 1726, a marriage 6 Nov. 1679, and another burial 17 June 1689.

<sup>5</sup> The Funeral Book gives his age as thirty-three. According to the Chapter Book, he was appointed Receiver pro tem. 7 May 1722, and on 27 Apl. 1723 had a patent as Receiver and Solicitor, and Steward of the Courts of the Dean and Chapter. He married, at the Chapel Royal, Whitehall, 9 Feb. 1726-7, Elizabeth Frecker, called in his will a daughter of Mark Frecker, Esq. He was called "cousin," evidently in the sense of nephew, in the will of Charles Battely, Esq., his predecessor in the office of Receiver (see the note to the baptism of Elizabeth Needham 31 Mch. 1668), and was clearly of the family of his name in co. Suffolk. His will, dated 3 June 1729, was proved 19 Aug. following, by his relict Elizabeth, the sole legatee. Among other bequests to her was the reversion of certain lands in Suffolk on the death of the widow of his uncle Samuel Battely.

<sup>6</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 20 June, aged eighty-five, and was buried "under a black marble stone of her husband's." She was third dau. of John Fox, Esq. (see his burial 23 Nov. 1691), by his wife Elizabeth (see her burial 2 Jan. 1706-7), and relict of Sackville Whittle, Esq. (see his burial 22 Feb. 1680-1), to whom married about 9 Nov. 1667 (Mar. Lic. Vic. Gen.). Her will, dated 16 Apl. 1729, was proved 21 June following, by her niece Margaret Thornburgh (see her burial 12 Oct. 1730), whom she made her residuary legatee. She left legacies to her sister Jane Pestle, her nephew William Donkley and his daughter Elizabeth, and her niece Catherine Bowerbank.

<sup>7</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 28 June, aged forty-seven. His will, as of King Street, St. Margaret's, Westminster, dated 4 Mch. 1726-7, with a codicil 27 June 1729, was proved 10 July following, by his relict Catharine, who was a dau. of Owen Wynne, LL.D., by his wife Dorothy (see her burial 27 Mch. 1724). He left legacies to his father, and to his brothers John, Thomas, and Henry Miles, and the wife and children of the latter.

The Funeral Book says that she died 27 Aug., aged forty.

<sup>2</sup> John Finch, youngest son of Heneage, second Earl of Winchelsea, by his fourth wife, Elizabeth, only dau. and heir of John Ayres, of the city of London, Esq. He was born 24 Feb. 1682-3, and succeeded as fifth Earl, on the death of his half-brother, 30 Sep. 1726. He died unmarried, at his house in Queen Square, Westminster, 9 Sep., when the title of Baron Fitzherbert became extinct, and the Earldom and Viscounty reverted to his distant kinsman. His will, dated 8 Feb. 1728-9, was proved 23 Sep. 1729, by his mother, Elizabeth, Countess Dowager of Winchelsea, to whom he left his entire estate.

<sup>3</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 25 Sep., in her eighty-sixth year. See a burial 26 Feb. 1729-30, and note thereto.

<sup>4</sup> He was baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 28 July 1685, as son of Edward Herbert and Susanna his wife. He matriculated at Oxford, from Christ Church, 23 June, 1704, as son of Edward Herbert, of Westminster, Gent., and was B.A. 28 Apl. 1708, M.A. 15 Mch. 1710-11, and B.D. and D.D. 2 May 1723. He was installed Prebendary of Westminster 14 June 1723, and became Treasurer to the Dean and Chapter. The Funeral Book says that he died 26 Oct., in his forty-fifth year, and his mother, Susanna Herbert, widow, administered to his estate 12 May 1730. See his wife's burial, as Dame Mary Bromsall, 9 Apl. 1730, and his sister's 24 Aug. 1688. The newspapers of the day say that he was a "near relation of the Earl of Pembroke."

<sup>5</sup> His monument states that he died 11 Nov., aged seventy-eight, that he descended from a military stock, and was bred in arms in Britain, Dunkirk, Tangier, etc. His will, dated 23 Oct. 1729, was proved 18 Nov. following, by his friend Colonel Henry Disney (see his burial 25 Nov. 1731), whom he made his residuary legatee. He bequeathed £2000 South Sea annuities to his sister Mrs. Elizabeth Luttley, and considerable legacies to several servants, male and female, but the will furnishes no other clew to his family. He attained the rank of Lieut.-General 1 Jan. 1706-7.

<sup>7</sup> Dau. of Henry Spoores, Clerk of the Works (see his burial 29 June 1703), by Sarah his wife (see her burial 12 May 1726), and relict of Ralph Sims, Clerk of the Works (see his burial 5 Feb. 1720-1). According to the Funeral Book, she died 10 Jan., aged fifty-seven. Her will, dated 14 Dec. 1729, was proved 12 Jan. following, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, by her dau. Sarah Gardner, and her friend Peter Haines, of St. Margaret's, Westminster, Gent. See the burials of her children, 21 Oct. 1713, 24 June 1715, 16 Dec. 1717, 1 Oct. 1720, and 6 June 1726.

<sup>1</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 24 Jan., and was buried the 28th, aged thirty-eight. He was appointed "laborer" to the Abbey 29 Mch. 1729, at nine shillings per week. His name occurs in the Chapter records as "Dipstall," "Tibstall," and "Tipstall." See the burial, probably of his father, 14 Feb. 1723-4.

<sup>5</sup> Eldest dau. of the Right Rev. Francis Atterbury, Bishop of Rochester and Dean of Westminster (see his burial 12 May 1732), by Catharine his wife (see her burial 2 May 1722), and first wife of William Morice, Esq. (eldest son of Thomas Morice, Esq., Paymaster of the British forces in Portugal, and grandson of Thomas Morice, Esq., M.P. for Haslemere—see his burial 1 June 1675), High Bailiff of Westminster from 1719 to 1730-1. She was baptized at the Chapel of Bridewell Hospital, London, where her father was then Lecturer, 23 Oct. 1698, and married at Bromley, co. Kent, 21 May 1715. Having gone to France to visit her father in his exile, she died at Toulouse, 8 Nov. 1729, a few hours after they met. See her son's baptism 25 April 1721, and the burials of her children, 4 Feb. 1716-17, and 1 and 11 Feb. 1718-19. Her husband remarried, and was living at Lishon in 1747. See the burial of his second wife 14 July 1743.

<sup>6</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 20 Feb., aged fifty-six, and was buried in the same grave with Mrs. Pope (see her burial 28 Sep. 1729). His relict Sarah administered to his estate, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, 11 Mch. 1729-30.

<sup>7</sup> Eldest son of Rev. Samuel Bentham, Rector of Knebworth, Herts. by his first wife, Edith, and baptized at Knebworth 19 Jan. 1653-4. He was of St. John's College, Cambridge, A.B. 1674, and A.M. 1678. On a monument in Ely Cathedral he is said to have been a minor canon of Ely for thirty-six years. He was sworn a Gentleman extraordinary of the Chapel Royal 24 July 1683, and to a full place 24 Feb. 1693-4, and Confessor to the Royal Household 9 Nov. 1716. He is mentioned in the Chapter Book, 10 June 1725, as a minor canon of Westminster, but probably occupied that position long before. He died 27 Feb., in his seventy-seventh year. See the burials, of his wife 22 Jan. 1728-9, and his dau., Elizabeth Smith, 3 June 1730. He was grandfather of the Rev. Dr. Edward Bentham, Regius Professor of Divinity at Oxford, and of Rev. James Bentham, the Historian of Ely Cathedral. On the monument of the former, in Christ Church Cathedral, it is stated that his father, grandfather, great-grandfather, and great-great-grandfather were all clergymen of the Church of England. The enumeration might have continued two generations further, until it reached the Right Rev. Thomas Bentham, Bishop of Lichfield and Coventry, from whom he was in direct descent.

<sup>8</sup> He was born at Manchester, co. Lancaster, son of George Gee, shoemaker, and was admitted to St. John's College, Cambridge, 9 May 1676, aged seventeen. He was A.B. 1679, and A.M. 1683, and was incorporated in the latter degree, at Oxford, 4 Mch. 1683-4. It is not known where he had his degree of D.D., but he was in possession of it at the date of his installation as Prebendary of Westminster, 6 Dec. 1701. He was Rector of St. Benet's, Paul's Wharf, London, 28 May 1688, and was Chaplain in ordinary to K. William and Q. Mary. He was instituted Dean of Peterborough 9 Dec. 1721, but afterwards resigned, and was admitted Dean of Lincoln 21 May 1722. At his death he was also Incumbent of St. Margaret's, Westminster, and Rector of Chevening, co. Kent. He died on the 1st of March. See his wife's burial 23 Apl. 1733, the baptisms of his children, 14 Dec. 1705, 10 Dec. 1709, and 22 May 1712, their burials, 19 Aug. 1706, 9 Apl. 1710, and 31 July 1731, and the marriage of his daughter 2 Mch. 1730-1.

<sup>1</sup> Son of Joseph Jackson, and nephew of William Jackson, the College baker (see his burial 23 July 1714). According to the Chapter Book, he was appointed College baker 23 Dec. 1723, and dismissed 28 Nov. 1726. The Funeral Book says that he died 4 Mch., aged thirty-seven, and was buried in the grave of his uncle Jackson. See his wife's burial 11 Apl. 1735, the baptisms of his children 26 Jan. 1724-5, 17 Oct. 1727, and 20 Jan. 1728-9, and the burials of others 14 July 1724 and 10 Oct. 1726.

<sup>2</sup> Son of Rev. George Carleton, Chanter of the Abbey, by Elizabeth his wife (see the note to the baptism of their dau. 4 Dec. 1732). The Funeral Book says that he died 17 Mch., aged one year and nine months, and was buried in the grave of his sister (see her burial 26 Dec. 1728). He was born 10 May, and baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 21 June 1728, but is called in the register "Dillingham" only, as he was in the affidavit of his burial in woollen. There can, however, be no doubt as to his identity.

<sup>5</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 30 Apl., aged forty-five.

<sup>6</sup> Eldest dau. of Sir Winston Churchill, Kt., by Elizabeth, dau. of Sir John Drake, of Ashe, co. Devon, Kt. According to the parish register of Axminster, she was baptized at Ashe Hall 28 Feb. 1648-9, but in the peerages she is said to have been born 16 Mch. 1647-8. After having been one of the mistresses of K. James II., when Duke of York, by whom she had four children, she married Colonel Charles Godfrey, Master of the Jewel Office, whose will, dated 21 May 1714, she proved 9 Mch. following. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 4 May, aged eighty-two, and was buried in the grave of her brother George Churchill, Esq. (see his burial 12 May 1710, and that of her other brother, the great Duke of Marlborough, 9 Aug. 1722). See the marriage of her dau. 23 Apl. 1700.

<sup>7</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 15 May, aged five months. See, evidently, her sister's burial 4 Apl. 1729.

<sup>8</sup> Dau. of the celebrated John Blow, Dr. of Music (see his burial 8 Oct. 1708), by Elizabeth his wife (see her burial 31 Oct. 1683). The Funeral Book says that she died 19 May, and was buried on the left hand of her sister Elizabeth Edgeworth (see her burial 9 Sep. 1719). She died unmarried, and her will, dated 8 July 1728, was proved 1 June 1730, by her sister Mary (see her burial 22 Nov. 1738).

<sup>9</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 26 May, aged two years and five months. See the burials, probably, of his father 12 Apl. 1731, and his brother 19 June 1773.

<sup>3</sup> He became one of the Gentlemen of the Chapel Royal 2 Mch. 1699-1700, and was admitted to the place of "Epistler," and is described in the newspapers of the day as also one of the singing-men of the Abbey and of St. Paul's. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 18 Aug., in his seventy-first year. His will, as of St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., Gent., dated 18 June 1724, was proved 28 Aug. 1730, by his relict Mary (see her burial 30 June 1738). He left considerable legacies to his son Thomas and dau. Mary (see her burial 29 Aug. 1741). See also a burial 20 Sep. 1697, perhaps of his son, or brother.

<sup>4</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 11 Sep., aged eighty-four. His will, as of St. Margaret's, Westminster, Esq., dated 5 June 1728, was proved 17 Oct. 1730, by his nephew Mr. Edward Chaloner, and his friend Mr. Jabez Collier, of Symond's Inn, to the former of whom he left four-fifths, and to the latter one-fifth of the residue of his estate. He mentioned no other relations, but the friends to whom he bequeathed rings, etc., seem to indicate that he had held some official position in the House of Lords.

<sup>5</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 14 Sep., aged nine months. She was a child of Henry Sims and Anne his wife, and grandchild of Ralph Sims, Clerk of the Works (see his burial 5 Feb. 1720-1). She was born 27 Dec. 1729, and baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 20 Jan. following. See her brother's burial 21 May 1725.

<sup>6</sup> James Johnstone, eldest son of William, third Earl and first Marquis of Annandale, by Sophia, dau. and sole heir of John Fairholm, of Craigie Hall, co. Stirling (see her burial 18 Dec. 1716). He succeeded as second Marquis in 1721, and died at Naples, unmarried. The Funeral Book gives his age as forty-two. See his brother's burial 31 Dec. 1721.

<sup>8</sup> Fourth dau. of Thomas Donkley, Closet-Keeper to K. Charles II. (see his burial 8 Feb. 1688-9), by Elizabeth his wife (see their marriage 18 May 1665). She married, about 24 Jan. 1688-9 (Mar. Lic. Fac.), Gilbert Thornburgh, of St. Margaret's, Westminster, then a bachelor, aged about twenty-four, to whose estate she administered 29 Jan. 1705-6. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 9 Oct., aged sixty, and was buried under her father's grave-stone. Her will, as of St. Clement Daues, Midx., dated 18 Sep. 1730, was proved 10 Oct. following, by Mrs. Mary Lee, of Somerset House, whom she made her residuary legatee. Although the name is "Thornburgh" throughout the will, she signed it "Margaret Thornborough."

<sup>1</sup> The celebrated actress. She died 23 Oct., aged, according to the Funeral Book, forty-seven. Her origin has never been definitely settled. It is said that she was born in Pall Mall, and that her grandfather was a vintner, her father an officer in the Guards, and her mother of a respectable family. Her will, as of St. George's, Hanover Square, Midx., dated 27 June, with a codicil 15 Sep. 1730, was proved 2 Nov. following, by the Hon. John Hervey, commonly called Lord Hervey, John Hedges, of Finchley, co. Midx., Esq., and Brigadier-General Charles Churchill. She bequeathed to her mother, Mrs. Anne Oldfield, an annuity of £60 for life, and one of £30, after her mother's death, to her aunt, Jane Gourlaw (or Courlaw, the orthography varying in the will). The rest of her estate she left to her illegitimate sons, Arthur Manwaring and Charles Churchill, with remainder to said Brigadier-General Churchill, father of the latter. Although, for reasons that were doubtless potential, her remains were allowed honourable burial within the walls of the Abbey, the records of the Chapter shew that the reigning Dean and his successor, Bishops Bradford and Wilcocks, resolutely drew the line there, and peremptorily refused permission to her paramour, General Churchill, to erect a monument to her memory.

<sup>2</sup> Eldest illegitimate son of K. Chas. II. (see his burial 14 Feb. 1684-5), by Barbara Villiers, dau. and heir of William, second Viscount Grandison, who was created, 3 Aug. 1670, Baroness Nonsuch, Countess of Southampton, and Duchess of Cleveland, and was buried at Chiswick, Midx., 13 Oct. 1709, having married, first, at St. Gregory's, London, 14 Apl. 1659, Roger Palmer, who was created, 11 Dec. 1661, Baron of Limerick and Earl of Castlemaine, in the peerage of Ireland, and died 21 July 1705, and secondly, 25 Nov. in the same year, four months after her first husband's death, Major-General Robert Feilding, known as "Beau Feilding," from whom she was divorced, 23 May 1707, it being proved that his former wife was living. This son was baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 18 June 1662, as "Charles Palmer, L<sup>d</sup> Limbricke, s. to y<sup>e</sup> right honor<sup>ble</sup> Roger, Earle of Castle-Maine, by Barbara." He was created, 10 Sep. 1675, Baron of Newbury, co. Berks, Earl of Chichester, and Duke of Southampton, and succeeded to his mother's titles at her death. According to his coffin-plate, exposed in 1868, he died 9 Sep., in his sixty-ninth year. See the burials, of his first wife 16 Nov. 1680, his second wife 28 Feb. 1745-6, his sons 29 Nov. 1708 and 29 Sep. 1723, and his brother 11 July 1716.

<sup>3</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 5 Nov., aged eighty-eight. His will, dated 7 Mch. 1729-30, was proved 5 Dec. 1730, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, by his grand-daughter, Anna-Maria Smith, sole legatee. He described himself as "belonging to the Abbey of Westminster."

<sup>4</sup> Dau. of Rev. Francis-Durant de Bréval (see his burial 29 Jan. 1707-8), by Susanna Samoline, his wife (see her burial July 1719). She was baptized at St. Paul's, Covent Garden, Midx., 3 May 1670, and married, about 17 Apl. 1695 (Mar. Lic. Fac.), Stephen-Monginot Dampierre, then described as of St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., a bachelor, aged about twenty-nine. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 28 Dec., and the affidavit of her burial in woollen described her as of St. George's in the Fields, Midx. See her son's baptism 20 Sep. 1700.

<sup>5</sup> The Funeral Book says "Thomas Garth, Esq.," and that he died 7 Jan., aged sixty-six. The newspapers of the day call him "Major Garth, of the fourth troop of foot guards." He was a younger son of William Garth and Mary his wife, of Gainford, co. Durham, where he was baptized 29 Sep. 1664, and was a brother of Sir Samuel Garth, Kt., the celebrated physician, and author of The Dispensary. His will, as of New Bond Street, St. George's, Hanover Square, Midx., Esq., dated 15 June 1728, was proved 1 Feb. 1730-1, by his relict Elizabeth (see her burial 28 July 1746). He bequeathed his freehold estates at Harold, Odell, etc., co. Beds, to his sons John and James in succession, and their heirs male, with remainder to his nephew Bowes Garth, son of his brother William Garth, of Bolam, co. Durham, and, failing their issue, then to more distant relations. He mentioned his grand-daughters Anne, Elizabeth, and Mary Evelyn, his nephews John and Samuel Cowling, and the children of his niece Beaufoy Boyle. He also had estates at Graffham and Great Staughton, co. Huntingdon. See the burials of his sons, 31 May 1714 and 28 July 1746.

<sup>2</sup> Third dau. of Ralph Freke, of Hannington, Wilts, Esq., by Cecilia, dau. of Sir Thomas Colepeper, of Hollingbourne, Kent, Kt. She married, first, about 1672, Sir George Norton, of Abbots-Leigh, co. Somerset, Kt., from whom, in 1697, she had been living apart for some years, who died 26 Apl. 1715, aged sixty-seven; secondly, at the Chapel Royal, Whitehall, 23 Apl. 1718, Col. Ambrose Norton, cousin-german of her first husband, to whom she was third wife (see his first marriage 8 June 1685, and note thereto), who died 10 Sep. 1723, in his seventy-seventh year; and thirdly, at Somerset House Chapel, 24 Sep. 1724, then aged eighty-four, William Jones, Esq., whom she also survived. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 20 Feb., aged ninety, and was therefore considerably the senior of her first and second husbands, and probably of her third. Her will, as Dame Frances Norton alias Jones, widow, dated 25 Jan. 1730-1, was proved 20 Feb. following, the very day of her death, by her kinswoman Sarah Munn, of St. Giles in the Fields, Midx., widow, whom she made her residuary legatee, having disposed of her estate by deed previous to her third marriage. She occupied a certain position among the literary ladies of her day, and her writings have been much commended, but they do not appear to have demanded modern reproduction. See the burials of her sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Freke 12 Apl. 1714, and Mrs. Judith Austen 24 May 1716. It has always been erroneously stated that her dau. Grace, who married Sir Richard Gethin, of Ireland, was buried in the Abbey, and the inscription on the monument erected to her memory leads to the inference that her only other two children, George and Elizabeth, were also buried there. But a precise duplicate of this inscription is to be found in the Abbey Church at Bath, and probably another was put up in Ireland, or wherever Dame Grace Gethin was buried. Neither of the three children were interred in the Abbey, unless unaccountably omitted from both the Register and Funeral Book, and the son George, who was baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 30 Aug. 1673, was certainly also buried there 10 Sep. following.

<sup>3</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 9 Apl., aged thirty-seven. He was mentioned in the Chapter Book, as the College paviour, 4 May 1728 and 7 Jan. 1730-1. His relict Bridget administered to his estate, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, 1 May 1731, when he was described as of St. John the Evangelist, Westminster. See the burials, probably of his sons, 28 May 1730 and 19 June 1733.

<sup>4</sup> Robert, son of Robert Benson, of Wrenthorpe, co. York, Esq., by Dorothy, dau. of Tobias Jenkins, of Grimston, in the same county, Esq., who remarried Sir Henry Belasyse (see her burial 20 July 1696). He had been M.P. for the city of York, and commissioner, chancellor, and under treasurer of the exchequer, and was created Baron Bingley, of Bingley, co. York, 21 July 1713. He was subsequently ambassador to the Court of Spain. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 9 Apl., aged fifty-five, and was buried on the left side of his mother. Leaving no male issue, the title became extinct. See the burials, of his wife 11 Mch. 1757, his only legitimate dau. 13 Apl. 1771, and probably of his sister, or some other member of his family, 15 Feb. 1698-9. His will, dated 27 June 1729, with a codicil 9 Mch. 1729-30, was proved 13 Apl. 1731. After bequeathing his house in Queen Street, Westminster, to his wife, he left £7000 to trustees for the use of his illegitimate dau. Mary Johnson, then at the boarding-school of Elizabeth Lewis, at Stoke Newington, Midx., who was to take the name of Benson after his death, and whom he particularly recommended to the protection of his dear dau. Harriet. His next bequest was to Anna-Maria, wife of John Burgoyne, of Park Prospect, Westminster, Esq., to whom he gave £400 per annum, his house in Park Prospect, and his house called "The Nunnery," at Cheshunt, Herts, with all its plate, jewels, and other contents, for her separate use for life, forgiving her husband what he owed him. The residue of his estate, except small annuities to two or three widows, was to be invested in lands in Yorkshire, to the use of his dau. Harriet and the heirs of her body, with remainder to said Mary Johnson and her heirs male, then to his godson John Burgoyne, son of said John and Anna-Maria, who, if the estate came to him, was to take the name of "Robert Benson," then to his godson Robert, son of his cousin Samuel Benson, then to other godsons in succession, and finally to his right heirs.

<sup>1</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 5 May, aged twenty-seven. Her history appears to have been a melancholy one. One Thomas Judge, of Wells, co. Somerset, Gent., made his will 12 Apl. 1731, leaving to his brother Joseph only his watch and his best suit of clothes, and the residue of his property to Margaret Bowker, spinster, then living with the Right Rev. John Wynne, Bishop of Bath and Wells. On the 2nd of May following, Margaret Bowker, of St. Clement Danes, Midx., spinster, made her will, bequeathing to Joseph Judge, citizen and brushmaker of London, all the estate, real and personal, which had been devised to her by the will of his brother Thomas. Three days later she died, and both were buried within the month. The simple facts naturally suggest the history of this unfortunate couple. She bequeathed to her two eldest sisters, Ann Parsonage and Deborah Warren, all that she was entitled to under the will of her late father William Bowker, and to her two youngest sisters, Elizabeth and Frances Bowker, all that had been devised to her by her late uncle Joseph Bowker. She left £5 to the poor of Malpas, co. Chester, and the residue of her estate to her brother John Bowker, who proved the will 22 May 1731.

<sup>3</sup> He is said to have been a son of William Bradford, citizen of London, and a parish officer, and to have been born 20 Dec. 1652, in Blackfriars, but no record of his baptism occurs in the registers of St. Anne or St. Andrew-by-the-Wardrobe. He was of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, A.M. by royal letters 1681, and S.T.P. by royal command 1705. He was Rector of St. Mary-le-Bow, London, 21 Nov. 1693, installed Prebendary of Westminster 23 Feb. 1707-8, elected Master of his College 17 May 1716 (resigned 1724), consecrated Bishop of Carlisle 1 June 1718, installed Dean of Westminster 7 June 1723, translated to the see of Rochester and confirmed 19 July 1723. He died, according to his monument, 17 May, in his seventy-ninth year. See the burials, of his wife 5 Mch. 1738-9, and his son 19 July 1728.

<sup>4</sup> Dau. of Rev. John Denne, Archdeacon of Rochester, by Susanna, youngest dau. of the Rt. Rev. Samuel Bradford, Bishop of Rochester and Dean of Westminster (see his burial in the preceding entry). The Funeral Book says that she died 15 May, in her third year. See her brother's baptism 1 Aug. 1725, and note thereto.

<sup>5</sup> Son of Rev. Samuel Westley and Ursula his wife (see the burial 20 Feb. 1724-5, and note thereto). According to the Funeral Book, he died 30 May, aged seven months. He was born the 24th, and baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 31 Oct. 1730. See the burials of his sisters 8 Jan. 1625-6 and 15 Aug. 1727.

<sup>6</sup> Third and youngest dau. of Sir John Buckworth, Kt., merchant and alderman of London, by Dame Hester his wife (widow of Moses Goodyear, of London, merchant), and sister of Sir John Buckworth, first Bart. of Sheen, co. Surrey (see his marriage 27 Oct. 1687). She was baptized at St. Olave's, Hart Street, London, 1 June 1665, and married, first, at St. Peter-le-Poor, London, 24 Aug. 1682, William Hussey, Esq. (younger brother of Sir Thomas Hussey, second Bart. of Honington, co. Lincoln), merchant of London, who was appointed ambassador to Turkey, and knighted 17 Apl. 1690, and who died while on his mission, at Adrianople, 13 Sep. 1691. She married, secondly, at St. Giles in the Fields, Midx., 7 Jan. 1694-5, John Evans, Esq., also a merchant of London, and partner of her former husband (see his burial 13 Apl. 1727). She appears to have had no issue by either husband. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 10 June, and was buried in the grave of her second husband. Her will, as of Chelsea, Midx., dated 23 Mch. 1729-30, was proved 22 July 1731, by her nephews, Sir John Buckworth, Bart. and his brother Everard Buckworth, Esq.

<sup>1</sup> Relict of Thomas Warren, College butler, etc. (see his burial 7 Aug. 1699). According to the Chapter Book, she was the College laundress at her death. The Funeral Book says that she died 12 June, aged sixty-seven, and was buried in her husband's grave. Her will, dated 8 Mch. 1730-1, was proved 19 June 1731, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, by her son Thomas Warren (see his burial 28 Mch. 1741). See the burial of her dau. 7 Aug. 1734, and the burial of a child, probably of her family, 20 Nov. 1716.

<sup>3</sup> Only dau. of Edmund Morris, of Stratford, co. Essex, Esq., and wife of Aaron Hill, Esq., the celebrated dramatic author (see his burial 18 Feb. 1749-50), to whom married about 1710. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 25 June, aged thirty-seven.

<sup>4</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 24 July, aged twenty-seven. See the burial of his mother, Mrs. Catherine Lauron, 7 Sep. 1754. Her executor administered to his estate 17 Mch. 1755, when he was described as of St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., bachelor.

and baptized at Kensington 1 Aug. 1674. He succeeded as fourth Earl of Orrery and Baron of Broghill, in the peerage of Ireland, in 1703, and was created, 5 Sep. 1711, Baron Boyle of Marston, in the English peerage. He attained the rank of Major-General in the army 1 Jan. 1709-10, and was the same year Envoy-extraordinary to Flanders. The well-known astronomical instrument called "Orrery" derived its name from his title, and he occupies a place in history by reason of his literary contest with Dr. Bentley. He married, 29 Mch. 1706, Lady Elizabeth Cecil, youngest and only surviving dau. of John, fifth Earl of Exeter, who lived little more than two years, being buried at St. James, Westminster, 21 June 1708. Their only son John succeeded to the titles.

<sup>2</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 15 Oct., aged fourteen years, and was buried in the grave with her mother (see her burial 27 Mch. 1726).

<sup>3</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 26 Oct., aged seventy, and that the fees were paid by Mrs. Mary Walker (see her burial 21 Oct. 1741).

<sup>4</sup> The newspapers of the day say that he had the command of a regiment of foot on the Irish establishment. He was well-known in society, and had the nickname of "Duke," from, it is said, his habit of using that word as an ejaculation. He was an intimate friend of Lieut.-General Henry Withers (see his burial 14 Nov. 1729), who made him his residuary legatee and executor. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 21 Nov., aged fifty-six. His will, as Henry Disney, of St. James, Westminster, Esq., dated 3 June 1731, was proved 1 Dec. following, by James Pearse, of Arundel Street, Esq., and Capt. Alexander Wilson. Having given to Major-General John Hill, Samuel Masham, Esq. (afterwards second Lord Masham), and Percy Wyndham, Esq. (afterwards Earl of Thomond), considerable legacies, he finally made them his residuary legatees. His other bequests were exclusively to members of the nobility, military friends, and servants, and the will furnishes no clue to his family. His name, on his own tablet and on that which he erected to the memory of General Withers, is given as "Desney," but he signed his will "Henry Disney."

<sup>5</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 12 Feb., aged eighty. Her will, as Elizabeth Witherly, of St. Margaret's, Westminster, widow, without date, but with codicils 6 Mch. 1726-7, 8 July 1729, and 21 Dec. 1731, was proved 23 Mch. 1731-2, by her niece Elianor Gough, spinster, to whom she bequeathed her lands at "Thrupenden," co. Gloucester, and the most of her personality. She desired her cousin Thomas Wylde, of Lincoln's Inn Fields, Esq., to bury her in the Abbey Cloisters, in the grave of her husband (see his burial 4 Oct. 1717). She left legacies to her niece Mrs. Mary Jones and her dau., her cousin John Evans, and to Mrs. Rebecca Witherley and her brother Edward Bromfield. An affidavit to her handwriting was made by George Gough, of Pastor's Hill, in Newland, co. Gloucester.

<sup>6</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 22 Feb., in her eighty-seventh year. Her will, as of St. Margaret's, Westminster, widow, relict of Henry Symmons, Gent., dated 2 Feb. 1729-30, was proved 28 Feb. 1731-2, by Richard Nurse, pastry cook, in whose house she lodged. She directed to be buried in about the middle of the West Cloister, near her husband (see his burial 21 Feb. 1678-9). She mentioned her grandson Henry Symmons and his wife, and their son Henry, leaving £300 to the latter when of age, and gave her cousin Elizabeth Rugge, widow, £50. To her grandson Edmund Bateman she gave £300, and the residue of her estate, on condition that he paid his sister Jane-Ann Hay £20 per annum for life.

<sup>1</sup> Second son of Rev. Dr. Lewis Atterbury, Rector of Great Rissington, co. Gloucester, and of Middleton Keynes, co. Bucks, by Elizabeth, dau. of Francis Giffard, of North Crawley, co. Bucks, Esq. He was born at the rectory in Newport Pagnell, co. Bucks, the 6th, and baptized 17 Mch. 1662-3. He matriculated at Oxford, from Christ Church, 17 Dec. 1680, and was B.A. 13 June 1684, M.A. 20 Apl. 1687, and D.D. 5 May 1701. He was some time Chaplain to K. William and Q. Mary, and Lecturer at St. Bride's Hospital, London, Archdeacon of Totnes 18 Jan. 1700-1, Prebendary of Exeter 6 May 1704, installed Dean of Westminster 16 June 1713, and consecrated Bishop of Rochester 5 July following. He was deprived in June 1723, on account of his alleged complicity with treasonable projects of the day, and passed the rest of his life in exile. He died at Paris 22 Feb. preceding. His will, dated at Paris 31 Dec. 1725, was proved 10 May 1732, by his son-in-law William Morice, Esq. See the burials, of his wife 2 May 1722, and his daughters, 4 Oct. 1716 and 21 Feb. 1729-30.

<sup>2</sup> Eldest son and only surviving child of John Pulteney, Esq., one of the Commissioners of the Customs, by his wife Lucy Colville, and grandson of Sir William Pulteney, of Misterton, co. Leicester, Kt. He was Envoy to Denmark in the reign of Q. Anne, and subsequently one of the Commissioners of Trade and of the Admiralty, M.P. for Preston, etc. The Funeral Book says that he died 7 Sep. 1731, aged forty-eight, and the journals of the day say that he died at Harefield, Midx. He was buried at St. James, Westminster, 14 Sep. 1731, and removed to the Cloisters on the day named in the text. See the burials, of his wife 29 Apl. 1763, and of his daughter 8 June 1782.

<sup>3</sup> One of the sacristis of the Abbey. See his first marriage 1 Aug. 1725, and his second 18 Dec. 1728, and the burials, of his first wife 14 Oct. 1727, and of his son 15 June 1726. The Funeral Book says that he died 14 June, aged thirty-six.

<sup>4</sup> He was sworn a Gentleman of the Chapel Royal 1 Jan. 1711-12, and Sub-Dean 20 Mch. 1717-18, having been created A.M. at Cambridge, by royal command, in the latter year, and in 1728 had the degree of S.T.P. He was installed Prebendary of Westminster 13 Nov. 1729. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 3 Aug., aged fifty-four. His will, dated 17 Aug. 1731, was proved 5 Aug. 1732, by his relict Elizabeth-Margaret (see her burial 8 Jan. 1741-2). The only other person named in the will was his niece Bridget Aspinwall, dau. of his brother Francis Aspinwall, deceased, who was to have the reversion of his estate at his wife's death. He appears to have been, in 1718, Chaplain to the Earl of Radnor.

<sup>5</sup> His monument says that he was born in the island of Jersey, and was descended from Clement le Hardy, who emigrated from France in 1381. He attained a captaincy in the Navy 6 Jan. 1692-3, and was knighted by Q. Anne in Oct. 1702, on bringing to Windsor the news of the burning of the French fleet in the Bay of Vigo. In January, 1710-11, he was promoted to the rank of rear-admiral. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 16 Aug., aged sixty-seven, and was buried on the left side of his wife (see her burial 3 May 1720). His will, dated 9 June 1732, was proved 28 Aug. following, by his "good friend and relation" Charles Hardy, Esq. (whom he described as son of Charles Hardy), and by his good friend Hugh Correy, Esq., formerly secretary to Sir George Rooke. After bequeathing liberal legacies to his two sisters, Mary Coste and Elizabeth Jeanvrin, his dau. Constance, who had married, on the preceding 27th of May, George Chamberlaine, of Wardington, co. Oxford, Esq., and his dau. Charlotte, born 27 Aug. 1716, and then unmarried, he left his estates to his son Thomas Hardy and his heirs, with remainder to his said two daughters in succession, and, their issue failing, then to his nephew John Hardy, of St. Lawrence, Isle of Jersey, Esq., and finally to the children of his said two sisters, and of his other sister Rachael Hughes, except her son Charles Hughes, whom he expressly excluded.

<sup>1</sup> He matriculated at Oxford, from Christ Church, 27 June 1671, aged nineteen, as son of Maurice Evans, of Westminster, Gent., and was B.A. 18 May 1675, and M.A. 18 Mch. 1677-8. He was installed Prebendary of Westminster 16 June 1702, became Sub-dean, and also held the Abbey living of St. Bride's, London. He died 21 Aug., aged about eighty, and was buried, at his own request, according to the journals of the day, near the grave of Bishop Atterbury. His will, dated 5 Nov. 1730, was proved 6 Sep. 1732, by his nephew Thomas Glover (see his burial 22 Nov. 1733), to whom he bequeathed his estates in the counties of Radnor and Salop, which he had purchased of his cousins Mr. James Davies and Dr. John Davies. His leases in the Poultry, London, he left equally to his sister Susan Glover (see her burial 25 Feb. 1739-40), and her other son, John Glover (see his burial 16 May 1740). He bequeathed considerable legacies to his niece Mary Wright (dau. of his sister Susan Glover, who was married, at St. Bride's, London, 12 June 1718, to Richard Wright, of the Inner Temple, Esq.), and to his cousins, Benjamin Pickering, Ann Milbourne, and Catherine Morgan, widow. The residue of his estate, which was said to be considerable, he left to his said nephews, Thomas and John Glover, two-thirds to the former, and one-third to the latter. To John Glover he gave his library of books and sermons, intimating his wish that the same should go eventually to the library of the Abbey. See his brother's burial 13 Apl. 1727.

<sup>2</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 3 Sep., aged eighty, and the journals of the day describe him as "Usher of the Long Room in the Custom-House." His will, as of St. Clement Danes, Midx., Esq., dated 1 Aug. 1732, was proved 4 Sep. following (three days before his burial), by his nephew, Rev. John Taylour, LL.D., whom he described as a native of Dublin, son of his brother Charles Taylour, of Golden Lane, in the city of Dublin, Gent., and as then or late curate of St. Peter's, in that city. To his brother John Taylour, of Pall Mall Court, in Pall Mall, Esq., he bequeathed £100, and to him and to John Isted, of St. Dunstan in the West, London, bookseller, £4000 (out of his £6000 South Sea annuities and £8500 South Sea stock) in trust for the use of his said brother Charles Taylour for his life. To Rachel Hall, widow, his housekeeper when he lived in Leicester Fields, he left £500, and all the residue of his estate to his said nephew and executor, absolutely.

<sup>3</sup> Dau. and coheir of Simon Bennet, of Beachampton, co. Bucks, Esq., by Grace, dau. of Gilbert Morewood, of London, merchant (she was brutally murdered in 1694). She was born 27 Sep. 1664, and married John Bennett, of Abington, co. Cambridge, Esq. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 5 Sep., aged sixty-eight. Her will, as of St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., widow, dated 24 June 1730, was proved 7 Sep. 1732. Her principal heirs and legatees were the descendants of her sister Frances, who married James Cecil, fourth Earl of Salisbury.

<sup>5</sup> He was one of the organ-blowers, and died, according to the Funeral Book, 20 Nov., aged seventy-nine. See his son's burial 4 Oct. 1738.

<sup>6</sup> Only son of Sir Talbot Clerke, fourth Bart. of Launde Abbey, co. Leicester, by Barbara, dau. and coheir of Thomas Gladiu, of Durrent Hall, Chesterfield, co. Derby, Esq. He succeeded as fifth Bart. on the death of his father in his infancy, and died while at Westminster School, <sup>1</sup> Wife of John Church, master of the choristers (see his burial 10 Jan. 1740-1). The Funeral Book says that she died 19 Dec. See the baptisms of her children 28 Dec. 1701, 5 Jan. 1703-4, 14 Feb. 1705-6, and 3 June 1709, and burials 9 Feb. 1701-2, 19 June 1708, 13 Dec. 1711, and 4 July 1719.

<sup>2</sup> The celebrated poet. Said to have been the second son of John Gay, of Frithelstock, near Great Torrington, co. Devon, Esq., and to have been born there in 1688. He commenced his London career as apprentice to a silk mercer, but was persuaded, in 1712, to become secretary to the Duchess of Monmouth, and two years later was appointed secretary to the Earl of Clarendon, ambassador to Hanover. He appears, however, to have been generally unfortunate in his Court life. The Duke and Duchess of Queensberry were his real and his best friends, but could not always secure for him that respect and attention which they and he seemed to think he deserved. He died at their house, according to the Funeral Book, 4 Dec., aged forty-five, and was buried "on the right side of Old Parr." His sisters, Catherine Baller and Joane Fortescue, both widows, administered to his estate 2 Jan. 1732-3.

<sup>3</sup> Eldest dau. and coheir of John Smith, Esq., one of the Commissioners of the Excise (see his burial 20 July 1718, and note thereto), and not dau. of the Rt. Hon. John Smith, Speaker of the House of Commons, as is usually stated in the accounts of the Clanricarde peerage, and in modern ones of the baronetcy of Parker of London. She married, first, Hugh Parker, Esq. (eldest son of Sir Henry Parker, second Bart. of London, but died 2 Feb. 1712-13, in his father's lifetime), and secondly, 19 Sep. 1714, Michael De Burgh, Lord Dunkellin, afterwards tenth Earl of Clanricarde, who died 29 Nov. 1726. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 1 Jan., aged forty-six. Her will, dated 2 Aug. 1732, was proved 16 Feb. following, by her brother-in-law, Sir Edward Des Bouverie, of Longford, Wilts, Bart., and two others, whom she appointed trustees and guardians of her children by the Earl of Clanricarde, to whom she left her entire estate, adding that she gave nothing to any of her children by her former husband, Hugh Parker, Esq., on account of their undutiful and disobliging behaviour towards her. She directed to be buried in the Abbey, near her late dear father. See the burial of her son 24 Jan. 1719-20.

<sup>4</sup> According to the Funeral Book and his monument, he was a son of Mr. John Collier, of Hastings, Sussex, and died 31 Dec. 1732, aged thirteen. He appears to have been in Westminster School. See a burial, perhaps of his brother, 6 June 1747.

<sup>5</sup> Eldest dau. and coheir of John Glynne, of Glynllifon, co. Carnarvon, Esq., by Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Hugh Owen, first Bart. of Orielton, co. Pembroke. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 21 Jan., aged seventy-eight. Her will, as of "Eldrinen," co. Carnarvon, spinster, dated 31 Mch. 1727, with codicils 12 Nov. 1728 and 21 Jan. 1732-3, was proved 17 Apl. 1733, by Hugh Lloyd, of Trallwyn, co. Carnarvon, Gent., to whom she bequeathed certain mansions and lands, among them her capital mansion called Plas Newydd, in co. Anglesey, in trust to build almshouses for twelve decayed maiden gentlewomen above fifty years of age, preference to be given to her own poor relations. Her other bequests were to Lady Gertrude Hotham, Mrs. Catharine Jones, and Margaret Lloyd, consisting chiefly of bonds of Sir Charles Hotham, and a certain annuity for the lives of Ann Glynne and Jane Glynne. Her only sister, Frances, married Sir Thomas Wynn, first Bart., ancestor of the present Lord Newborough.

<sup>6</sup> The journals of the period and other authorities say that he was an illegitimate son of the Duke of Schomberg (see his burial 4 Aug. 1719). He was Colonel of one of his father's regiments for many years, and attained the rank of Major-General 23 Jan. 1709-10. The newspapers of December 1720 announce his marriage during that month to "a gentlewoman of a very considerable fortune." As still Major-General he was appointed Governor of Fort William in April 1725, but he evidently attained the rank of Lieut.-General before his death, as he so styled himself in his will, dated 9 Mch. 1731-2, and proved 26 Jan. 1732-3, by his relict Mary. He appears to have left two illegitimate daughters, whom he called Mary Sibourg and Amey Cardonel, to each of whom he gave £10. The rest of his estate he bequeathed to his wife Mary, and their children Charles and Catharine. The latter, as wife of Richard Reade, Esq., proved her mother's will 27 Apl. 1758. General Sibourg, according to the Funeral Book, died 25 Jan., aged sixty-four. His wife, whose maiden name appears, from her will, dated 3 Mch. 1757, to have been Palmer, died in Dublin.

<sup>1</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 25 Jan., aged seventy. "Jones, the beadle" is mentioned in the Chapter Book 4 Oct. 1727. See burials in the same place, 19 Feb. 1739-40, 4 Jan. 1750-1, and 19 May 1764, probably of his family.

<sup>3</sup> Relict of Charles Lowe, Esq. (see his burial 7 Feb. 1728-9). She died, according to the Funeral Book, 16 Feb., aged forty. Her will, dated 14 Feb. 1732-3, was proved the day before her burial, by her nephew Morgan Graves, of Mickleton, co. Gloucester, Esq., and Henry Prude, of St. Mary-le-Strand, Midx., apothecary, executors in trust, for the benefit of her five children, Mary, Charles, Elizabeth, Morgan, and Nicholas, all in their minority. To her niece Mary Graves she gave £10 for mourning, and to her son Morgan Lowe the mourning ring given to her at the funeral of Richard Graves, Esq. See the baptisms of her children 21 Jan. 1716-17, 3 Aug. 1718, 14 Oct. 1724, and 3 June 1727, and the burials, of her sons 17 May 1720 and 9 Oct. 1739, and of her daughter 8 Feb. 1728-9.

<sup>7</sup> Dau. and sole heir of John Burrough, of Ipswich, co. Suffolk, Esq., by Amy, dau. of Richard Phillips, of Edwardstone, in the same county, Esq. (who remarried Sir Robert Kemp, third Bart. of Gissing, co. Norfolk), and relict of Robert Blois, Esq. (eldest son of Sir Charles Blois, first Bart. of Grundisburgh Hall, co. Suffolk), who died in 1728, in his father's lifetime. Their only child, Mary, died in infancy. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 3 Apl., aged thirty-four, and the journals of the day say at her lodgings in Southampton Row, Holborn. Her will, as of Grundisburgh, dated 8 Mch. 1732-3, was proved 17 Apl. following, by her mother Dame Amy Kemp.

<sup>2</sup> The Funeral Book says "William-Wavill Smith, and that he died 20 Aug., aged twelve years. He was probably in Westminster School.—"Wavell Smith, Esq., appointed Secretary and Clerk of the Crown for Life, to the Leeward Caribbee Islands" (Hist. Reg., 15 Oct. 1722).—A new commissioner for licensing and regulating hackney-coaches and chairs appointed, "in the room of Wavel Smith, Esq., who hath a considerable post given him abroad" (British Journal, 27 Apl. 1723).

<sup>3</sup> Eldest son of the Right Rev. Edward Wetenhall, Bishop of Kilmore and Ardagh (see his burial 18 Nov. 1713), by his first wife, who was buried in the cathedral at Cork. He was an eminent physician, and married Anne Sneyd, of Staffordshire. He died, according to his monument, 29 Aug., in his seventy-first year, and the newspapers of the day all say that he was hurried on Sunday night, 2 Sep., which is probably correct, and the date in the text an error. His will, as of the city of Cork, Esq., dated 4 Sep. 1723, was proved 17 Dec. 1733, by his dau. Anne, wife of John Hawkins. He mentioned his other daughters, Mary Wetenhall, and Phillippa-Maria, wife of Rev. Thomas Russell. See his step-mother's burial 18 Apl. 1717.

<sup>4</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 12 Sep., aged eight years. He was probably a son of David Patton, Esq., who, according to the Chapter Book, was appointed, 7 July 1731, High Bailiff of Westminster and Bailiff of the Sanctuary.

<sup>5</sup> Wife of Sir Richard Lane, Kt., then M.P. for Worcester (see his burial 4 Apl. 1756). She died, according to the Funeral Book, 4 Oct., aged sixty-five. See the burials of her daughters, 18 May 1748, 3 Apl. 1773, and 16 Dec. 1780.

<sup>6</sup> Lady Henrietta Churchill, eldest dau. and coheir of John, the great Duke of Marlborough (see his burial 9 Aug. 1722), by his little less famous Duchess, Sarah, dau. and coheir of Richard Jennings, of Sandridge, co. Herts, Esq. She was born the 20th, and baptized at St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., 29 July 1681, as dau. of Colonel John Churchill and Sarah his wife, and married Francis, second Earl of Godolphin, who survived her, and died 17 Jan. 1766. She succeeded to her father's titles under a special act of Parliament. The date in the text is an error. The Funeral Book says that she died 24 Oct., in her fifty-third year, and was buried 9 Nov. In her will, dated 11 July 1732, but not proved until 19 May 1736, she declared that it was her desire and express will that her remains should never, on any pretence whatsoever, be carried to Blenheim. She was the patroness and chief legatee of the poet Congreve.

1714. She died, according to the Funeral Book and her monument, 12 Nov., aged nineteen, and the journals of the day say that she was buried on the 14th, which is probably correct.

<sup>4</sup> He is mentioned in the Chapter Book as early as 14 Jan. 1690-1, as then Librarian and Clerk of the Kitchen to the Abbey. He was appointed Auditor 29 Mch. 1729, when he resigned the office of Clerk of the Kitchen, and it was abolished altogether. He appears to have been also Registrar of the diocese of Rochester. The journals of the day say that he had been secretary to Bishop Sprat, and was instrumental in saving his life, and the lives of Archbishop Sancroft, the Duke of Marlborough, and other distinguished personages, by detecting the falsity of evidence given by certain witnesses in respect to an alleged plot for assassinating K. William. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 20 Dec., aged seventy-one. His will, dated 6 Mch. 1730-1, with codicils 6 Dec. 1732 and 28 Mch. 1733, was proved 16 Jan. 1733-4, by his nephew Rev. Thomas Moore, D.D., and his niece Mary, wife of Robert Berkeley, whom he described as a silver-laceman. He left considerable legacies to his nephew Rev. Charles Sear, son of his sister Anne Sear, his niece Rebecca, wife of Colonel Evans, and the children of his sister-in-law Mrs. Mary Baldwyn, widow. See his wife's burial 5 Aug. 1720.

<sup>5</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 26 Dec., aged thirty-nine. The place of burial indicates her humble position.

<sup>6</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 14 Jan., aged twenty-three. See the burial, probably of her sister, 17 Nov. 1721, and note thereto.

<sup>7</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 2 Feb., aged forty. Doubtless, from the place of burial, a servant, or minor official.

<sup>1</sup> He was sworn "Gospeller" of the Chapel Royal 8 Nov. 1697, and advanced to the full place of Gentleman 2 Mch. 1699-1700, and was also one of the Abbey choir. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 26 Mch., aged seventy-four. See his first wife's burial 16 July 1720. His will, dated 11 Feb. 1725-6, was proved 27 Mch. 1734, by his second wife and relict Elizabeth, to whom he left his house in Dean's Yard for life, with remainder to his son John and his dau. Elinor Shrider equally. He always signed his name in the Cheque Book of the Chapel Royal, as he did his will, "Thomas Jennings." See the baptisms, of his dau. 1 May 1689, and of his sons 12 Feb. 1690-1 and 13 May 1693, and the burials of his children 24 Nov. 1693, 15 Oct. 1697, 29 July 1701, and 27 Mch. 1752.

<sup>2</sup> The Funeral Book says "Eleanor Horden," and that she died 17 Apl., aged thirteen years. See the burial, probably of her sister, 19 May 1721, and note thereto.

<sup>3</sup> Eldest son of John Chittam (see his burial 13 Mch. 1725-6), whom he succeeded as scavenger of the Great Cloisters. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 26 May, aged thirty-five. His will, dated 25 Mch. 1733, was proved the day before his burial, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, by his relict Margaret, who was alone named in it. In that record his name is given as "Chetham."

<sup>5</sup> Dau. of Thomas Warren. College butler (see his burial 7 Aug. 1699), by Elizabeth his wife (see her burial 17 June 1731). The Funeral Book says that she died 5 Aug., aged forty-five, and was buried on the right side of her father. See her brother's burial 28 Mch. 1741.

<sup>7</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 31 Aug., aged twenty-two, and gives her the same surname; but in the St. James's Evening Post, of Thursday, 5 Sep. 1734, the following paragraph occurs, and is substantially repeated in other journals of the same date: "On Saturday died in the Great Ambury [Almonry], Westminster, of the small-pox, Mrs. Elizabeth Fairfax, wife of James Fairfax, Esq., and on Tuesday night her corpse, having lain in state in the Jerusalem Chamber, was afterwards interred in the Cloisters of Westminster Abbey." It is inconceivable that the scribes of both the Register and Funeral Book could have thus blundered over this simple name, especially as in the latter the copy was made from the coffin-plate. The only reasonable solution of the mystery seems to be that the lady was not really a wife, and was buried under her proper name.

Frances, dau. of William Pierrepont, second son of Robert, first Earl of Kingston-upon-Hull. She married, first, 30 Dec. 1669, Christopher Monk, second Duke of Albemarle (see his burial 4 July 1689), by whom she had only one child that barely survived its birth. She married secondly, 8 Sep. 1692, as his second wife, Ralph, first Duke of Montagu, who died in 1709, and by him had no issue. She died, according to the Funeral Book, at Newcastle House, Clerkenwell, Midx., 28 Aug., aged eighty; but the journals of the day, still quoted, stated her age to be ninety-six. She was known as the "mad Duchess," and her history is too familiar and too painful to require rehearsing.

<sup>1</sup> First wife of Edmund Meyrick (see his burial 27 June 1742). She died, according to the Funeral Book and her monument, 22 Sep., aged forty-nine. Her maiden name was Smith. See the burials, of her brothers 12 Sep. 1738 and 1 Oct. 1755, and of her sister 27 May 1760.

<sup>2</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 20 Oct., aged seven months, and was buried in the grave of his grandfather William Tufnell (see his burial 24 Dec. 1733). He was born 22 Mch. 1733-4, and baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 3 Apl. following. He was the eldest child of Alexander Haselar, by Elizabeth, dau. of said William Tufnell, who were married at St. Bartholomew-by-the-Exchange, London, 19 May 1733, and buried at St. Margaret's, Westminster, he 24 Dec. 1747, and she 5 Apl. 1748.

<sup>3</sup> Dau. of William Tufnell (see his burial 24 Dec. 1733), by Elizabeth his wife (see her burial 11 Oct. 1720). The Funeral Book says that she died 5 Nov., in her twentieth year, and was buried in her father's grave. She was born and baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 21 Mch. 1714-15.

<sup>5</sup> Eldest son of Colonel James Hamilton (eldest son of Sir George Hamilton, of Donalong, co. Tyrone, Baronet of Ireland, but died in his father's lifetime), by Elizabeth, eldest dau. of John, first Lord Colepeper. He succeeded in 1701 as sixth Earl of Abercorn, and to the other Scotch honours, and was created, 2 Dec. in that year, Baron Mountcastle and Viscount Strabane in the peerage of Ireland. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 28 Nov., aged seventy-three. See the burials, of his father 7 June 1673, of his wife 22 Mch. 1754, and of his son 16 Jan. 1743-4.

<sup>6</sup> Dau. of Owen Wynne, LL.D., by Dorothy his wife (see her burial 27 Mch. 1724, and note thereto). She was baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 11 Mch. 1695-6. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 3 Dec. See the burials, of her sister 3 Apl. 1735, and of her brother 23 May 1765.

three of whom survived her. The youngest surviving son, Robert Barnevelt, died 27 Jan. 1786, being then the oldest member of the Common-Council of London, and was buried at Enfield, Midx. The eldest son, Charles, was buried at Chiswick, Midx., 4 June 1739, and the second son, Philip, died 14 Dec. 1736. The father was buried at St. James, Westminster, 22 Nov. 1717. She married, secondly, in June 1731 (Marr. Sett. dated the 4th, quoted in her will), Capt. Jonathan Warr, of Isleworth, Midx, who survived her, and by whom she appears to have had no issue. Her will, dated 15 Feb. 1733-4, with a codicil 7 Nov. 1734, was proved 3 Jan. 1734-5, by her son Robert Barnevelt. See her brother's burial 27 Apl. 1746.

<sup>1</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 7 Jan., aged thirty-four, and her monument describes her as of the city of Lichfield, but as having resided for the last nine years of her life at Madeira, with her brother, William Rider, Esq., late consul there, who erected the tablet.

<sup>2</sup> Eldest son of Richard, second Earl of Bradford, by Mary, third and youngest dau. and coheir of Sir Thomas Wilbraham, third and last Bart. of Woodhey, co. Chester. He succeeded as third Earl in 1723. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 25 Dec. 1734, in his fifty-second year. He appears to have died unmarried, and certainly left no legitimate issue. His will, dated 8 May 1730, with codicils 16 May 1730 and 17 Apl. 1733, was proved 21 Jan. 1724-5. He bequeathed £10,000 to Mrs. Anne Smyth (see her burial 7 Nov. 1742), and the entire residue of his estate to his illegitimate son by her, then called John Harrison (see his burial, as John Newport, 9 May 1783), with remainder to his said mother. His will does not mention his own relations.

<sup>3</sup> Anne, second and youngest surviving daughter of Henry Peck, of St. Margaret's, Westminster, Esq., by Anne, dau. of Abraham Delaune, of Sharsted, in Dodington, co. Kent, Esq., who administered to her husband's estate 10 Nov. 1680, and was buried at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 21 Feb. 1686-7. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 14 Jan. Her will, as of St. Margaret's, Westminster, spinster, dated 28 Aug. 1733, was proved 30 Apl. 1735, by her sister Martha Harsnett, widow of Rev. Robert Harsnett, D.D., some time Prebendary of Wells, but deprived in 1694 (see his father's burial 27 Oct. 1692). She bequeathed to her said sister all her real and personal estate, including "the rectory or parsonage impropriate of Ifield, co. Sussex, and the advowson of the vicarage thereof." See a pedigree of her family in Berry's County Genealogies, Sussex, p. 97.

<sup>4</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 17 Jan., aged fifty-two.—"Yesterday morning died of a tedious Indisposition, at his lodgings in Pall-Mall, Francis Coghlan, Esq., a Barrister-at-Law of the kingdom of Ireland: He no sooner appeared at that Bar than he distinguished himself in a very eminent degree, and shortly became the Darling of the Irish Courts: his conduct in life was so amiable that he was as universally esteemed as known, and, as Humanity and good nature influenced all his actions, he may justly be deemed a general loss to his country" (General Evening Post, 18 Jan. 1734-5).—A special marriage license was granted by the Vicar-General, 29 Dec. 1709, for Francis Coghlan, of the Inner Temple, Esq., bachelor, and Martha Price, of St. Clement Dances, Midx., widow.

<sup>5</sup> The Funeral Book says "Mrs. Elizabeth Cotes," and that she died 10 Feb., and was buried in the same grave with Mrs. Catharine Hyde (see her burial 28 Feb. 1706-7). In Mrs. Hyde's will, she was called her maid-servant. In the newspapers of the day she was described as a "maiden gentlewoman," and it was said that she died at her house in the Cloisters, and that her body "lay in state in the Jerusalem Chamber." Her will, as Elizabeth Cotes, of St. Margaret's, Westminster, spinster, dated 31 Dec. 1733, was proved 17 Feb. 1734-5, by Mr. Michael Spateman, residuary legatee. She directed to be buried in linen, in the same grave with her late dear mistress, Mrs. Catherine Hyde. She left bequests to her cousin John Jennings, one of the Clerks of the House of Lords (see his baptism 12 Feb. 1690-1), her cousin Elizabeth Brugh, her cousin Helen Shridder (see her burial 27 Mch. 1752), and her cousin Parnell Parker.

<sup>2</sup> The Funeral Book says she died 21 Mch., aged seventy-two. The place of burial sufficiently indicates her humble position.

<sup>3</sup> Dau. of Owen Wynne, LL.D., by Dorothy his wife (see her burial 27 Mch. 1724, and note thereto). She was baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 14 Oct. 1697. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 30 Mch., and was buried on the right side of her mother. See her sister's burial 8 Dec. 1734, and her brother's 23 May 1765.

<sup>4</sup> Relict of Robert Jackson, College baker (see his burial 7 Mch. 1729-30). She died, according to the Funeral Book, 7 Apl., aged forty-two, and was buried in her husband's grave. According to the will of Margaret Bowker (see her burial 12 May 1731), who left to her and her sister Hawkins each a mourning ring, she appears to have continued her husband's business. See the baptisms of her children, 26 Jan. 1724-5, 17 Oct. 1727, and 20 Jan. 1728-9, and the burials of two others, 14 July 1724 and 10 Oct. 1726.

<sup>5</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 6 Apl., aged twenty-three.

<sup>6</sup> Son of Rev. Dr. Edward Willes, then Dean of Lincoln and Prebendary of Westminster, afterwards Bishop of Bath and Wells (see his burial 1 Dec. 1773), by Jane his wife (see her burial 18 Oct. 1771). See his baptism 29 June 1727. The Funeral Book says that he died 7 July, aged eight years.

<sup>7</sup> Dau. of John French (see his burial 21 June 1725), by Mary his wife (see her burial 6 Feb. 1758). See her baptism 4 Aug. 1710. The Funeral Book says that she died 5 July, aged twenty-four.

<sup>8</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 20 July, aged forty-seven. His will, as of St. Margaret's, Westminster, cordwainer, dated 23 Nov. 1734, was proved 21 July 1735, three days before his burial, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, by his relict Mary (see her burial 23 Aug. 1762), when the value of his effects was sworn to be under £20. The same date of his death is given in the record. He probably occupied some menial position about the Abbey.

<sup>9</sup> Only dau. and eventually sole heir of Captain Rupert Billingsley, R.N., Commander of the "Royal George" in 1715, who died 14 Dec. 1720, by Mary his wife, dau. of Richard Dalton, Gent., by his first wife Margaret (see her burial 25 Aug. 1686), who died 5 Aug. 1727, both being buried at West Drayton, Midx. She was born the 15th, and baptized at St. James, Westminster, 21 Apl. 1715. She married, at the Royal Chapel, St. James's, 17 Aug. 1732, William Belasyse, Esq. (see his burial 23 Feb. 1769). She died, according to her monument, 28 July, in her twenty-first year. See the burial of her only daughter 16 Apl. 1774.

<sup>2</sup> Reputed illegitimate son of Frederick Louis, Prince of Wales (see his burial 13 Apl. 1751), although two other noble personages appear to have claimed the honour of his paternity, by the Hon. Anne Vane, eldest dau. of Gilbert, second Lord Barnard, Maid of Honour to Q. Caroline when Princess of Wales, who died at Bath 27 Mch. in the same year. His baptism is thus recorded in the parish register of St. James, Westminster, under the date of 17 June 1732: "Cornwall Fitz-Frederick, son of the Hon. Mrs. Vane, p' J. Snowe, Chaplain to His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales." The newspapers of the day state that the ceremony was performed at her house in St. James Street, by the Rev. Dr. Snowe, soon after the child's birth, and that the godfathers were the Hon. Henry Vane (the lady's brother) and Lord Baltimore. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 23 Feb., in his fourth year. The mother was known in the peculiar literature of the day as "Beautiful Vanelia." Another child of the same parents, according to the weekly journals of the period, named Amelia, was born and baptized about midnight, 21 and 22 Apl. 1733, but lived only two hours.

<sup>3</sup> One of the deputy-tellers of the Exchequer. He had a grant of arms, as engraved on his monument, 16 July 1716, when it was stated that his family had not before borne arms. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 29 Feb., aged seventy-five. Letters of administration to his estate were granted, 18 Mch. 1735-6, to William Thompson, Esq., his sister's son, as next of kin. See his wife's burial 18 July 1734.

<sup>4</sup> The Funeral Book calls her Mary, and says that she died 6 Mch. She was probably a child of Rev. George Carleton, Chanter of the Abbey, by Elizabeth his wife. See her sister's baptism 4 Dec. 1732, and note thereto, and the burials, of her brother 24 Mch. 1729-30, and of her sisters, 26 Dec. 1728 and 11 Mch. 1738-9.

<sup>7</sup> He died, according to the Funeral Book, 7 July, aged fifty-eight. The newspapers of the day describe him as one of the Readers at Whitehall Chapel. He died intestate, and was buried in the place reserved for persons in the most humble circumstances.

<sup>1</sup> Dau. of Rev. Richard Powell, minor canon (see his burial 4 Feb. 1738-9). The Funeral Book says that she died 11 Aug., aged three years and six months. See her baptism 12 Apl. 1733.

<sup>3</sup> Dau. of Thomas Baker, of the city of Oxford, Gent., by Anne, dau. of John Skingley, of the same city. She was baptized at All Saints, Oxford, 13 Apl. 1683, and married Henry Glynn, of London, merchant, and of Woodford, co. Essex. He died at Gambia, in Africa, of which colony he was Governor, and his will, dated 20 Jan. 1720-1, was proved by her 31 Aug. 1723. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 30 Oct., aged fifty-one, leaving no issue. Her will, dated 24 Mch. 1734-5, was proved 22 Dec. 1736, by her sister Anne Playford, widow (see her burial 6 July 1743). See the burial of another sister, Rachel Taylor, 2 June 1740.

<sup>6</sup> Youngest dau. of Bernard Gates, Esq. (see his burial 23 Nov. 1773), by Elizabeth his wife (see her burial 15 Mch. 1736-7). She was born 23 June 1718, and baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 1 July following. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 24 Nov.

<sup>7</sup> He was sworn a Gentleman extraordinary of the Chapel Royal 6 Dec. 1700, and to a full place 23 Dec. 1702, and was also a member of the choirs of the Abbey and of St. Paul's. According to the Funeral Book, he died 10 Dec., aged seventy, and was buried in his wife's grave (see her burial 6 Nov. 1732). His dau. Elizabeth Freeman, spinster, administered to his estate 19 Jan. 1736-7.

<sup>8</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 25 Sep., aged fifty, and was buried on the left side of John Coleman, Esq. (see burials 6 June 1709 and 10 Oct. 1715). She does not appear to have been a dau. of the former, and was probably the widow of the latter, who only is called "Esquire" in the Register.

<sup>9</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 28 Dec. 1736, aged thirty-seven. He was appointed Abbey carpenter 18 Dec. 1733. His will, as of St. John the Evangelist, Westminster, carpenter, dated 24 Dec. 1736, was proved 26 Feb. following, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, by his relict Jane (see her burial 22 Dec. 1744), and by Mr. William Ayres. He mentioned his brothers Thomas, Edward, and Jonathan Willis, and his sisters Anne Ward, and Grace, wife of John Bacchus. He bequeathed to his son William, his daughters Elizabeth and Ayres, and to his child expectant, each £1400. See the burial of his posthumous son 14 July 1780. Some of the journals of the day say that he was chief carpenter to the King, and died worth £10,000.

<sup>1</sup> Dau. of John French (see his burial 21 June 1725), by his wife Mary (see her burial 6 Feb. 1758). See her baptism 17 Jan. 1705-6. The Funeral Book says that she died 29 Dec. 1736, aged thirty, and was buried in her father's grave. Her will, as of Stable Yard, St. Margaret's, Westminster, spinster, dated 17 Dec. 1736, was proved 24 Jan. following, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, by her mother, who was sole legatee.

<sup>2</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 4 Jan., aged seventy-two.—Letters of administration to the estate of Ann Jackson, of St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., widow, were granted, 21 Jan. 1736-7, to her son Stephen Jackson.—“On Tuesday last, about six in the afternoon, died at the Gore, near Kensington, in an advanced age, Mrs. Jackson, mother to Mr. Jackson at the Half-Moon tavern in the Strand. Her substance, which it is believed is very considerable, she has left between her two sons, Mr. Jackson before mentioned, and his brother, who is an officer in Kirk's regiment at Gibraltar” (London Evening Post, 8 Jan. 1736-7).

<sup>3</sup> Dau. of John Windebank, M.D. (see his burial 16 Aug. 1704), by his wife Susanna (see her burial 11 Jan. 1681-2), and widow of Matthew Loveday, of North Leigh, co. Oxford, Gent., to whom she was married about 24 Nov. 1666 (Mar. Lic. Vic. Gen.), and who was buried at St. Aldate's, in the city of Oxford, 25 Feb. 1681-2. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 10 Jan., aged eighty-seven. Her will, as of St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., widow, dated 3 Dec. 1706 (sic), was proved 18 Jan. 1736-7, by her dau. Ann Loveday, spinster (see her burial 19 Nov. 1739), to whom she left all her estate, except £10 for mourning to her dau. Susanna and her husband Mr. Samuel Blundell. She directed to be buried, if she died in London, in the Abbey cloisters near her father and mother, or, if at Oxford, in St. Aldate's Church, by her husband. Her only son, Matthew, died while at Christ Church, Oxford, in 1687, aged about twenty, and she survived her only other dau., Frances, who was living at the date of her father's will, 5 Sep. 1671.

<sup>4</sup> Third son of this name of Edward Tufnell, the Abbey mason (see his burial 11 Sep. 1719), by Anne his wife (see their marriage 27 Oct. 1697). He was born 21 Mch. 1706-7, and baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, on the 25th of the same month. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 9 Jan., aged thirty. The newspapers of the day described him as “an eminent attorney-at-law, of Lyon's Inn,” and say that he died at Ickenham, near Uxbridge, Midx. His will, as of Hillingdon, Midx., Esq., dated 29 July 1736, was proved 3 Feb. 1736-7, by his brother-in-law Robert Scott, of Hillingdon, Gent., who married his sister Dorothy, to whom he left half the residue of his estate, bequeathing the other half to his brother-in-law Henry Roberts, of Standen, Isle of Wight, Esq., who married his sister Elizabeth. He evidently died unmarried.

<sup>5</sup> Wife of John Kettlewell, almsman (see his burial 14 Apl. 1757). She died, according to the Funeral Book, 6 Feb., aged forty-eight. See her son's burial 23 Mch. 1793.

<sup>6</sup> Dau. and coheir of Robert Rodd, of Foxley, co. Hereford, Esq., by Anna-Sophia, dau. and heir of Thomas Neale, of Warnford, Hants. She married, at St. Bride's, London, 10 Sep. 1685, William Wardour, of Whitney Court, co. Hereford, Esq., Clerk of Appeals, to whose estate she administered 2 May 1699. She died, according to her monument, 17 Feb., aged seventy-one. See the burials of her sons, 26 July 1746 and 22 Feb. 1752. The former administered to her estate 4 Mch. 1736-7. The newspapers of the day say that she died at Bath.

by Grace his wife (see her burial 27 Nov. 1779). The Funeral Book says that he died 22 Feb., and that the burial fees were paid by William Wynne, Esq.

<sup>1</sup> Youngest son of Matthew Drift, of St. Paul's, Covent Garden, Midx., tailor, by Catharine his wife, whom he married, at St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., 11 June 1666, as Catharine Hutton, widow. He was the personal friend of Matthew Prior, the poet (see his burial 25 Sep. 1721), who bequeathed to him £1000 and appointed him one of his executors, and had been his secretary when he was abroad in public employments. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 28 Feb., aged sixty-two. He died unmarried, and was buried, as he desired, near Mr. Prior. Letters of administration to his estate were granted, 27 Jan. 1737-8, to Edward Bower and Anne his wife, described as his cousins-german and two of his next of kin.

<sup>2</sup> Wife of Bernard Gates, master of the choristers, etc. (see his burial 23 Nov. 1773). She died, according to the Funeral Book, 10 Mch., aged forty-eight. Her monument states that she was brought up from her childhood by her friend Mrs. Elizabeth Atkinson (see her burial 15 Mch. 1725-6), but there is nothing in Mrs. Atkinson's will to indicate that any other relationship existed between them. See the burials of her children, 6 June 1717, 11 July 1719, and 28 Nov. 1736.

<sup>3</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 24 Mch., aged sixty-six. Her will, as of Froxfield Almshouse, co. Wilts, dated 24 Mch. 1734-5, was proved 4 June 1737, by her dau. Catherine Powell, spinster, to whom she left all her possessions. She was probably a relation, perhaps mother, of Rev. Richard Powell, minor canon (see his burial 4 Feb. 1738-9). Froxfield Almshouse was founded in 1686, by Sarah, Duchess-dowager of Somerset, for the reception of thirty widows of clergymen from any part of England, and twenty widows of laymen exclusively of Wiltshire, whose incomes were not more than £20 per annum, and is still a highly respectable institution.

<sup>4</sup> He was educated under the celebrated Dr. Croft, and appointed organist of the Chapel Royal 21 June 1736, being then organist of St. George's, Hanover Square. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 4 Apl., aged twenty-two. The newspapers of the day say that he died of consumption, and was "a young gentleman as much esteemed for his amiable personal qualities as he was admired for his great excellency in his profession."

<sup>5</sup> Son of Edmund Burt and Anne Tylour his wife, who were married at St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., 6 Dec. 1705. He was baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 27 Sep. 1720, and was admitted into Westminster School in 1735. The Funeral Book says that he died 27 Apl., aged seventeen.

<sup>6</sup> The Funeral Book and his monument say that he died 23 May, aged forty-nine. One of his name was baptized at St. Paul's, Covent Garden, Midx., 8 Mch. 1687-8, as son of Leonard Conduit and Sarah his wife, whose age would exactly agree with his. He succeeded Sir Isaac Newton (whose niece he married) as Master of the Mint, and was M.P. for Whitechurch 1722 and 1729, and for Southampton 1735. His will, as John Conduitt, of Cranbury, co. Southampton, Esq., dated 29 May 1732, was proved 25 May 1737, by his relict Catharine (see her burial 29 Jan. 1739-40). His only dau., Catharine, married John, Viscount Lynton (see her burial 4 May 1750). One of his name had a grant of arms, 16 Aug. 1717, when it was said that he had served as Judge-Advocate of the British forces in Portugal in 1711, and was the next year constituted Captain in the regiment of Dragoons there commanded by Brigadier Hunt Wither.

Henrietta Boyle (see her burial 16 Apl. 1687). She had been Lady of the Bedchamber to Q. Anne. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 19 July, aged fifty-five. Her will, dated 22 June 1737, was proved 26 July following, by her niece Lady Charlotte Hyde, to whom she left her entire estate. She died unmarried.

<sup>2</sup> Wilhelmina-Charlotte-Caroline, dau. of John-Frederic, Margrave of Brandenburg-Anspach, by his second wife, Eleanor-Erdmuth-Louisa, dau. of John-George, Duke of Saxe-Eisenach. She was born 1 Mch. 1682-3, and married, at Hanover, 22 Aug. (O.S.) 1705, George-Augustus, only son of K. George I., who succeeded to the throne, as King George II., 11 June 1727 (see his burial 11 Nov. 1760). She died, according to the Funeral Book, 20 Nov., aged fifty-four years, eight months, and nineteen days. See the burials of her sons, 12 Feb. 1717-18, 13 Apl. 1751, and 10 Nov. 1765, and of her daughters, 5 Jan. 1758 and 11 Nov. 1786.

<sup>3</sup> She died, according to the Funeral Book, 22 Feb., aged seventy-seven. She administered to the estate of Col. Edward Leigh (see his burial 24 Jan. 1703-4), as his sister, and was then a widow. Her will, as of Chute, co. Wilts, dated 10 Mch. 1730-1, with codicils 3 Aug. and 17 Sep. 1735, was proved 13 Mch. 1737-8, by her "cousin," Lora Pitt, of Arlington Street, St. George's, Hanover Square, Midx., with whom she appears to have been living at her death, and to whom she left her pictures, etc., "with millions of thanks for her very long and true friendship." She mentioned no other relation, except her nephew George Foyle, to whom she left a diamond ring. Her other bequests were diamond rings, jewels, pictures, etc., chiefly to titled ladies evidently not related to her.

<sup>4</sup> Evidently a child of Mr. David Cheriton, one of the choir (see his burial 11 Jan. 1758), by his first wife, Frances (see her burial 19 Apl. 1739). The Funeral Book says that she died 4 Mch., aged eight months.

<sup>5</sup> Oliver Lambart, fourth but second surviving son of Charles, third Earl of Cavan, in the Irish peerage, by Castiliana, dau. of Henry Gilbert, of Kilmichy, Queen's county, Ireland, Esq. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 18 Apl., aged fifty-five. See the burials, of his wife 11 Jan. 1750-1, of his daughters 18 May 1749 and 4 Nov. 1758, and of his great-great-grandfather 10 June 1618. He was a J.P. for Westminster and Middlesex.

<sup>7</sup> Evidently a child of John Luckett, sacrist (see his burial 10 Apl. 1748), by Elizabeth his wife (see her burial 26 Sep. 1743). The Funeral Book says that she died 23 June, aged six weeks.

<sup>8</sup> Relict of Thomas Edwards, one of the choir (see his burial 22 Aug. 1730). She died, according to the Funeral Book, 26 June, aged sixty-seven, and was buried in her husband's grave, the fees being paid by the Company of Upholders. Her son Thomas Edwards administered to her estate, 31 July 1738, when she was described as formerly of St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., but afterwards of Greenwich, co. Kent. See the burial of her dau. 29 Aug. 1741.

<sup>9</sup> He died, according to the Funeral Book, 1 Sep., aged seventy-five, but his monument gives his age as eighty-two. The former is more likely to be correct, as the latter was erected by his executrix, who appears to have been only his servant. His will, as of St. James, co. Midx., dated 22 Sep. 1737, was proved 14 Sep. 1738, by Mary Faver, spinster, whom he made his residuary legatee. He disposed of considerable property, but evidently to persons not his relations, and the will gives no clew to his family.

<sup>2</sup> Dau. of Henry Dutton, Esq., sister of Capt. Mark Dutton and of Dame Frances, wife of Sir William Parsons, third Bart. of Langley, co. Bucks, and second wife and relict of George Fitzroy, Duke of Northumberland (see his burial 11 July 1716). The precise date of their marriage has never been ascertained, but his first Duchess died 25 May 1714 (see her burial 3 June in that year), and in his will, dated 12 Mch. 1714-15, he declared that the lady named in the text was then his wife, and Duchess of Northumberland. Even Le Neve, who, with all his great love for the scandal of his day, noting the Duke's death in his MS. diary, then mentioned her as "Mrs. Dutton, his mistress, said to be his wife, and called Duchess," had the grace afterwards to add to his note "the marriage proved and owned." She died at Frogmore, near Windsor, 27 Aug. Her will, dated 1 Mch. 1737-8, was proved 1 Sep. 1738, ten days before her burial, by her friend Capt. John-Merrick Cole, and, 25 Oct. following, by her brother Mark Dutton. She left no issue.

<sup>3</sup> Letters of administration to his estate, as of St. Mary's, Lambeth, co. Surrey, bachelor, were granted 22 Nov. 1738, to his sister Elizabeth Smith, spinster (see her burial 27 May 1760). He died, according to the Funeral Book, 5 Sep., aged forty-nine, and was buried on the right side of his sister Frances Meyrick (see her burial 24 Sep. 1734). See also the burial of his brother 1 Oct. 1755.

<sup>4</sup> Son of Benjamin Winkles, organ-blower (see his burial 23 Nov. 1732). He was appointed, 23 Dec. 1723, porter of the Great Cloister and Back Gate, clock-keeper, and keeper of the College water, and, 1 Mch. 1732-3, a bell-ringer. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 1 Oct., in his forty-third year. See his first marriage 13 May 1721, the baptisms of his children 18 Jan. 1723-4, 12 June 1729 (and note thereto), 18 Jan. 1731-2, and 16 Oct. 1734, and the burial of his first wife 7 Nov. 1724.

<sup>5</sup> Letters of administration to his estate, as John Kempe, of St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., Esq., were granted, 25 May 1739, to John, Earl of Orrery, curator or guardian assigned to Boyle-Staunton Kempe and Henrietta Kempe, minors, his only children, his relict Elizabeth having died without administering (see her burial 6 May 1739). The Funeral Book says that he died 11 Oct., aged thirty-eight. The journals of the day described him as of the Middle Temple, Counsellor-at-Law, and stated that he died at his house in Downing Street.

<sup>6</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 19 Oct., aged sixty-three. The journals of the day describe him as one of the Gentlemen of the Honourable Band of Pensioners, and say that he died at his house in Prince's Court, Westminster. His will, as of St. Margaret's, Westminster, Gent., dated 26 Mch. 1738, with a codicil 13 Oct. in the same year, was proved 27 Oct. following, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, by two of his friends. His bequests to his relations were as follows: to his nephew Lieut. Leonard Bellamy £500, and £200 more in trust for his sister Mary, wife of John Moor, of Hedon, in Holderness, co. York, and her children; to his niece Frances, wife of James Carlile, of Kingston-upon-Hull, grocer, £500; to his nephew John Baron, York, a portion of the residue of his estate. He also bequeathed £80 to the poor of Skeffling, those of his own name or kindred to be preferred. After a few other bequests to friends, the residue was to be divided among his said nephews and nieces.

<sup>1</sup> Dau. and sole heir of John Leith, of Whitehaugh, Aberdeenshire, Esq., by Elizabeth, dau. of William, eleventh Lord Forbes, and relict of William Forbes, Esq. (see his burial 10 Apl. 1728), to whom married in 1706. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 11 Nov., aged fifty-nine.

<sup>4</sup> Relict of the Right Rev. Samuel Bradford, Bishop of Rochester and Dean of Westminster (see his burial 22 May 1731). She died, according to the Funeral Book, 26 Feb., aged eighty. Letters of administration to her estate, as of Lambeth, co. Surrey, were granted 14 Mch. 1738-9, to her daughters and only surviving children, Jane, wife of Rev. Renben Clarke, D.D. (see the note to a baptism 12 Oct. 1725), and Susanna, wife of Rev. John Denne, D.D. (see the note to a baptism 1 Aug. 1725). See her son's burial 19 July 1728.

<sup>5</sup> Evidently a child of Rev. George Carleton, Chanter of the Abbey, by his wife Elizabeth. See her sister's baptism 4 Dec. 1732, and note thereto, and the burials, of her brother 24 Mch. 1729-30, and of her sisters, 26 Dec. 1728 and 10 Mch. 1735-6. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 8 Mch., aged one year and six months.

<sup>3</sup> Relict of John Biggs (see his burial 28 Dec. 1728). She died, according to the Funeral Book, 19 June, in her seventy-first year, and was buried in her husband's grave.

<sup>4</sup> Francis de la Rochefoucauld, second but eldest surviving son of Charles-Louis, second Marquess de Montandre, by Madeline-Anne Pithou, dau. of Pierre, Seigneur De Luyères. He was born in September 1672, and appears to have been bred a canon in the Abbey of St. Victor at Paris, but fled to England on account of the change in his religious sentiments, and was in the army as early as 1693. He rose rapidly, and attained the rank of Major-General in 1706, that of Lieut.-General 1709-10, and finally that of Field-Marshal 2 July 1739. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 8 Aug., aged sixty-six years and eleven months. See his wife's burial 18 Feb. 1772.

<sup>6</sup> Second son and fourth surviving child of Charles Lowe, Esq. (see his burial 7 Feb. 1728-9), by Mary his wife (see her burial 20 Feb. 1732-3), and so described in his mother's will. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 6 Oct., aged seventeen, and was buried in his father's grave. Although under age, he left a will, dated 5 Oct. 1739, which was admitted to probate, and proved on the 19th of the same month, by his brother Charles Lowe (see his baptism 3 Aug. 1718). He described himself as "apprentice of Mr. John Freke, surgeon," and left small legacies to his master's daughters and servants, and his wearing apparel to his brother Nicholas Lowe (see his baptism 14 Oct. 1724). He also bequeathed £21 to his fellow-apprentice, Mr. Jones, in trust to pay the same to a certain person to whom he knew the sum was due, and desired him to conceal the knowledge from all others. Why a will of so little importance, made by a minor, should have been admitted to probate, it is impossible to conceive.

<sup>7</sup> Youngest dau. of Matthew Loveday, of North Leigh, co. Oxford, Gent., by Frances, dau. of John Windebank, M.D. (see her burial 14 Jan. 1736-7, and note thereto). She was baptized at St. Mary-Magdalen, city of Oxford, 29 Oct. 1678, and died unmarried. Her will, as of Wyddiall, Herts, dated 2 Nov. 1738, was proved 21 Nov. 1739, by Mr. Thomas Wroughton. She directed to be buried near her mother. She bequeathed £50 to her sister Susanna Blundell, of Codford

St. Mary, Wilts, and £300 to her dau. Susanna Mitchell. To Francis Goulston, Esq., she gave the pictures of her great-grandfather Sir Francis Windebank and his wife, and of her aunt Mrs. Turner (i. e. her great-aunt Margaret Windebank, who married Rev. Thomas Turner, D.D., Dean of Canterbury). The residue of her estate she gave to her said sister's son, John Blundell, who was to pay to his brother Francis Blundell £10 per annum for life.

<sup>1</sup> He died, according to the Funeral Book, 19 Nov., aged seventy. See the burial of his first wife 12 July 1728. He married, secondly, 15 Apl. 1729, Lady Mary Feilding, eldest dau. of Basil, fourth Earl of Denbigh, who died 1 Oct. 1732. The journals of the day described him as "an eminent physician, immensely rich," but he appears to have been estimated differently in social life. In the Autobiography and Correspondence of Mary Granville, Mrs. Delany, edited by Lady Llanover, 1st Ser. i. 209, he is bluntly called "an old, very rich quack," and his second wife unkindly stigmatized as "very ugly." Mrs. Delany gives the following account of his second courtship: "He went one morning to make a visit, and found Lady Mary weeping. He asked her what was the matter. She said her circumstances were so bad she could no longer live in town but must retire into the country: she was not anxious about leaving London, but regretted some friends she must leave behind. He said, 'Madam, may I hope I am one of those?' 'Certainly,' says she, 'doctor, for you have always showed us great friendship.' 'Then, madam (says he), if an old man and £50,000 can be acceptable to you, you may put off your journey whenever you please.' She did not long demur, and, after ten days' courtship, they were married. Nobody blames the lady; the man is called 'an old fool.'" His will, as of St. George's, Hanover Square, Midx., dated 4 Dec. 1738, was proved 12 Dec. 1739, by his friends Richard Shelley, Esq., and James Cockburn, Esq., secretary to the Duke of Argyll. He directed to be buried in the Abbey, near his wife. To his "cousin Helen Cockburn, Lady Allanbank, widow of the late Sir Robert Stuart, of Allanbank" [Sir Robert Stuart, created a Baronet (of Nova Scotia) 15 Aug. 1687, married, as his second wife, Helen, dau. of Sir Archibald Cockburn, of Langton], he bequeathed one hundred guineas, and a diamond girdle and six diamond stay-buckles which had belonged to his two wives. To John Cockburn, of Ormiston, Esq., and to the widow of the late Captain John Cockburn, a commander in the navy, he gave the debts they owed him. To his cousin Mrs. Ann Cant, and her niece Amelia White, he gave £100 equally. His estate at Stockton, co. Durham, and the residue of his personalty, he bequeathed to Alexander Cockburn, of Langton, in Scotland, Esq., but without stating their relationship.

<sup>2</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 23 Nov., aged twenty-three. From the place of burial it is evident that he was a servant, or occupied some minor position about the Abbey.

<sup>3</sup> Son of Thomas Grant, College butler, etc. (see his burial 15 Aug. 1748), by his wife Susanna (see her burial 8 May 1743). The Funeral Book says that he died 6 Dec., in his seventh year. See his baptism 15 Apl. 1733.

<sup>4</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 9 Jan., aged eighty-five, and he 13 Jan., aged eighty-eight. He appears to have been a son of Charles Turner, cook of Pembroke College, Oxford, and to have been educated as a chorister at Christ Church. He was sworn a Gentleman of the Chapel Royal 11 Oct. 1669, as "a counter-tenor from Lincoln," and afterwards became a vicar-choral of St. Paul's, and a lay vicar of the Abbey. He had the degree of Doctor of Music, at Cambridge, in 1696. They are said to have lived together nearly seventy years. His will, dated 4 Jan. 1727-8, was proved 14 Feb. 1739-40, by his dau. Anne Robinson (see her burial 8 Jan. 1740-1). He merely bequeathed a shilling each to his five children, William-Partheriche Turner, Edward Turner, Elizabeth Jenkins, Catharine Gardiner, and Anne Robinson, and the residue of his estate to his wife.

Thomas Fitzgerald, one of the ushers of Westminster School for upwards of twenty years, who had become Rector of Wotton, co. Surrey, 24 Dec. preceding her death. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 13 Jan., in her forty-fifth year. See the burial of her dau. 5 Apl. 1740. Her husband married, secondly, at St. John the Evangelist, Westminster, 25 Aug. 1741, Frances Weston, of St. George's, Hanover Square, Midx., spinster, and became also Rector of Abinger, co. Surrey, 11 June 1743. He died 15 Aug. 1752, aged fifty-seven, and was buried in the churchyard at Wotton.

The scandal of the day stigmatized this lady as the mistress of Charles Montagu, Earl of Halifax (see his burial 26 May 1716), and the imputation was flippantly asserted as a fact so lately as 1854, by the annotator of the edition of Dr. Johnson's Lives of the Poets published in that year. The whole subject was thoroughly discussed by the late Professor De Morgan, in Notes and Queries, 1st Ser. viii. p. 429, etc., etc., but is still open to great doubt and difficulty. Professor De Morgan, with such facts as could be ascertained before him, the strongest of which, perhaps, were the large bequest to her by the Earl in his will, and the peculiar character of the language in which that bequest was couched, could find no escape from that conclusion except by assuming that there had been a private marriage between her and the Earl, unacknowledged lest it might affect his advancement. Indeed, he declared that, from the evidence, she must have been his wife or his mistress. That she was not the former is very evident. No proof has ever been discovered of such marriage, and, if there were good reasons for concealment during his life, there could have been none when he came to die, knowing that the very language he caused to be put into his will, if he did not recognize her as his wife, would infallibly cause her to be regarded as his mistress. Besides, in the allegation at the Faculty Office of her intended marriage with Mr. Conduitt, after the Earl's death, it was distinctly sworn that she was then a spinster. The only other alternatives left are almost equally difficult to believe: either the extraordinary intimacy between her and the Earl of Halifax was purely platonic, or else her uncle, Sir Isaac Newton, whose character has been supposed almost immaculate, not only consented to her debasement, but actually pandered to it, for the facts render it impossible that such an intimacy could have been maintained without his knowledge.

<sup>3</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 30 Jan., aged eighteen. See her father's burial 16 Aug. 1750, and her brother's 16 Oct. 1800.

<sup>1</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 15 Feb., aged seventy-four. See the burials 29 Jan. 1732-3, 4 Jan. 1750-1, and 19 May 1764, probably, from the place of burial, all members of his family.

<sup>3</sup> Son of William Tuffnell, bricklayer (see his burial 24 Dec. 1733), by Elizabeth his wife (see her burial 11 Oct. 1720), and baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 8 Sep. 1702. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 27 Feb., in his thirty-eighth year, and was buried at the foot of his father's gravestone. He married, at St. George's, Bloomsbury, Midx., 20 Dec. 1739, shortly before his death, Rebecca Austin, of St. Olave's, Southwark, co. Surrey, spinster, by whom he appears to have had a son before their marriage. His will, as of St. John the Evangelist, Westminster, bricklayer, dated 19 Feb. 1739-40, was proved 15 Mch. following, by his brother-in-law Alexander Haselar (see the note to a burial 23 Oct. 1734). He left moderate legacies to his sister Elizabeth, wife of said Alexander Haselar, his sister Dorothy, wife of Mr. Thomas Clapham, his aunt Mary Brown, and his nephew Robert Haselar, but the bulk of his freehold estate to trustees for the use of his natural son Thomas Tuffnell alias Austin. The residue of his estate he bequeathed to his wife Rebecca.

<sup>4</sup> The Funeral Book gives her name as "Alderson," and says that she died 10 Mch., aged seventy. She was probably the wife of Shadrach Alderson, one of the almsmen (see his burial 23 Oct. 1744).

<sup>5</sup> Louis de Durfort, youngest son of Guy-Alphonso, Marquis de Duras, by Elizabeth de la Tour D'Auvergne, and brother of the Duke de Duras and de Lorge, in France. He was in attendance on the Duke of York in 1665, and was naturalized in that year. He was created, 19 Jan. 1672-3, Baron Duras, of Holdenby. He had a command at the battle of Sedgemoor, and occupied several other distinguished military positions. He married Mary, eldest dau. and coheir of Sir George Sondes, of Lees Court, Kent, Bart., who was created Earl of Feversham 8 Apl. 1676, and succeeded to that title, under the patent, on the death of his father-in-law in 1677. He was Master of the Hospital of St. Catharine, near the Tower of London. He died 8 Apl. 1709, and was buried on the 28th in the vault of the French Chapel in the Savoy. His will, dated 18 July 1701, with a codicil 6 Apl. 1709, was proved 3 May 1709, by George Sayer, of St. Clement Danes, Midx., Esq. He left rings to his sister the Countess de Roze, and his nieces the Lady Charlotte de Ronci and the Lady Stafford, and the residue of his estate equally to his niece Charlotte de Bourbon and her brother Armand de Bourbon (see their burials in the same entry), and his nephew the Earl of Lifford. In his will he had directed to be buried in the Abbey, but revoked that direction in the codicil.

<sup>6</sup> Second son of Louis de Bourbon, second Marquis de Malauze, by his second wife Henriette de Durfort, sister of the Earl of Feversham named in the first part of this entry (see preceding note). He also engaged in the military service, and attained the rank of Lieut.-General 1 Jan. 1703-4. He was also buried in the French Chapel in the Savoy, 22 Feb. 1731-2. (The words in brackets in the text occur only in the Funeral Book.)

<sup>1</sup> Youngest sister of Armand de Bourbon (see preceding note). She died unmarried, and was also buried in the French Chapel in the Savoy, 21 Oct. 1732. It was in accordance with instructions in her will that her remains, and those of her brother and uncle, were removed to the Abbey, she evidently foreseeing that the time would arrive when that chapel would cease to exist. See an excellent résumé of their history in Rev. David C. A. Agnew's Protestant Exiles from France, 1871, ii. pp. 42-54.

<sup>2</sup> Youngest dau. of Henry, second Earl of Rochester and fourth Earl of Clarendon, by Jane his Countess (see her burial 1 June 1725). She died unmarried, 17 Mch., according to the Funeral Book, in her thirty-third year.

<sup>3</sup> Dau. of Rev. Thomas Fitzgerald, usher of Westminster School, etc., by Anne his wife (see her burial 18 Jan. 1739-40, and note thereto). She was born 27 Oct., and baptized at St. John the Evangelist, Westminster, 17 Nov. 1735. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 1 Apl., aged four years and five months, and was buried on the left side of her mother.

<sup>5</sup> Son of Mrs. Susan Glover (see her burial 25 Feb. 1739-40), brother of Thomas Glover (see his burial 22 Nov. 1733), and nephew, by the mother's side, of John Evans, Esq. (see his burial 13 Apl. 1727), and of Rev. Michael Evans, Prebendary of Westminster (see his burial 25 Aug. 1732). He died, according to the Funeral Book, 7 May, in his fifty-first year, and was buried in the grave of his last-named uncle. His will, as of St. George's, Bloomsbury, Midx., Gent., dated 17 Mch. 1739-40, was proved 22 May following, by his sister Mary Wright, widow, to whom and to her sons, George and Richard Wright, he left the most of his estate, which appears to have been considerable. His other bequests were £2200 South Sea stock to his niece Mary, wife of Mr. James Baden, junior (evidently a dau. of his executrix), £50 to his cousin Mr. Robert Thompson, and an annuity of £20 for life to his cousin Mrs. Rebecca Owen.

London as an apprentice to a mechanic. He became a Fellow of the Royal Society, and produced the first edition of his great work in 1728, when he was only thirty-two years of age. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 15 May, aged forty-four. His will, as of Gray's Inn, Gent., but dated at Canonbury House, Islington, Midx., 9 Apl. 1740, was proved 23 May following, by his brothers Nathaniel and Zachary Chambers, to whom and to his sisters Casson and Wood he left the residue of his estate equally. To the two daughters of his brother Nathaniel, the two daughters of his sister Casson, and the son of his sister Wood, he gave £100 each, when they should reach the age of twenty-one. Such books as immediately related to the use and service of his Dictionary, and which were indexed or abbreviated in some of the twenty-five volumes in folio of Indexes in his custody, he gave to the booksellers who were proprietors of the copyright of that work, to be employed by them in correcting, improving, and continuing the same. He expressed the desire, if he died in Canonbury House, to be buried in Islington churchyard, but left his executors to select another place if they saw fit.

<sup>1</sup> Dan. of Thomas Baker, of the city of Oxford, Gent., by Anne, dau. of John Skingley, of the same city, and relict of Rev. Edward Taylor, Rector of Finningley, co. Notts. who died 6 Nov. 1699. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 30 May, aged sixty-five. See the burial of her only dau., Anne Ludford, 18 May 1748, and the burials of her sisters, Maria Glynn, 4 Nov. 1736, and Anne Playford, 6 July 1743.

<sup>2</sup> His will, as William Warwick, of St. Margaret's, Westminster, dated 14 July 1740, was proved 16 Sep. following, by his mother, Alice Warwick, widow (see her burial 16 May 1758), to whom he left all his possessions. The Funeral Book says that he died 1 Aug., aged forty-five. See the burials, probably of his daughters, 25 June 1731 and 17 Oct. 1745. He was doubtless a servant or minor official about the Abbey.

<sup>4</sup> Son of Rev. Joseph Barker, Vicar of Sherborne, co. Dorset. He matriculated at Oxford, from Trinity College, 6 Mch. 1672-3, aged sixteen, and was B.A. 26 Oct. 1676. M.A. 30 Oct. 1679, B.D. 12 Dec. 1689, and D.D. 16 June 1713. He was installed Prebendary of Westminster 21 July 1716. The Funeral Book says that he died 5 Sep., aged eighty-seven. His will, dated 24 May, 1739, signed "Harry Barker," was proved 4 Nov. 1740, by his servant Lake Chapman, widow, to whom he left all his estate, except £10 to another servant, one-third for herself absolutely, one-third for her dau. Anne Chapman, and one-third for son John Chapman when he should reach the age of twenty-one.

<sup>1</sup> Master of the choristers of the Abbey. He is said to have been born at Windsor. He was sworn a Gentleman extraordinary of the Chapel Royal 31 Jan. 1696-7, and to a full place 1 Aug. following, and was the author of certain musical works still held in considerable esteem. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 6 Jan., aged sixty-six. See his wife's burial 22 Dec. 1732, the baptisms of his children, 28 Dec. 1701, 5 Jan. 1703-4, 14 Feb. 1705-6, and 3 June 1709, and their burials, 9 Feb. 1701-2, 19 June 1708, 13 Dec. 1711, and 4 July 1719. His will, dated 3 July 1734, was proved 13 Jan. 1740-1, by his youngest surviving son, Rev. Ralph Church (afterwards Vicar of Pyrton and Shirburn, co. Oxford, who edited an edition of Spenser's Fairy Queen in 1738, and died in Apl. 1787, aged seventy-nine), to whom and to his eldest and only other surviving son and child, Rev. John Church (afterwards Rector of Boxford, co. Suffolk, who died at the city of Norwich 27 Oct. 1785, aged eighty), he bequeathed his entire estate equally.

<sup>3</sup> Son of Thomas Warren, College butler, etc. (see his burial 7 Aug. 1699), by Elizabeth his wife (see her burial 17 June 1731). He is mentioned in the Chapter Book, as one of the vergers, 23 June 1725, and died, according to the Funeral Book, 25 Mch., aged forty-five.

<sup>4</sup> Dan. of Philip Hawkins, of Pennans, co. Cornwall, Esq., and second wife and relict of Sir Edmund Prideaux, fifth Bart. of Netherton, co. Devon, to whom married about 6 May 1714 (see his burial 2 Mch. 1728-9). She died, according to the Funeral Book, 10 May, aged fifty-five. Her will, dated 20 Feb. 1738-9, with a codicil 21 Mch. 1740-1, was proved 14 Jan. 1741-2, by her only surviving child, Anne Basset, widow of John-Pendarves Basset, of Tehidy, co. Cornwall, Esq.

<sup>5</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 20 June. See his father's burial 10 Apl. 1748, and his mother's 26 Sep. 1743.

<sup>6</sup> Only son of Robert, first Earl, by his first wife, Elizabeth, dan. of Thomas Foley, of Whitley Court, co. Worcester, Esq. According to the Funeral Book, quoting his coffin-plate, he was born 2 June 1689, and died 16 June 1741. He succeeded as second Earl 21 May 1724. He was the collector of the celebrated and invaluable "Harleian MSS." now in the British Museum, and thereby furnished a name for the Society under whose auspices the Abbey Registers are now given to the world. See the burials, of his wife 26 Dec. 1755, of his son 4 Oct. 1725, and of his daughter 30 July 1785.

<sup>7</sup> His will, as of London, merchant, dated 18 Aug. 1711, was proved on the 22nd of the same month—the same day, according to the Funeral Book, on which he died—by his mother, Mary Veale, widow. He bequeathed £1500 to his mother, and £1000 each to his brother Samuel Veale, and his sister Anna-Maria, wife of John Score.

<sup>9</sup> Child of Thomas Grant, College butler, etc. (see his burial 15 Aug. 1748), by Susanna his wife (see her burial 8 May 1743). See his baptism 7 Oct. 1740. He was the second son of this name. The Funeral Book says that he died 30 Sep., and was buried at the feet of his brother (see his burial 9 Dec. 1739).

<sup>1</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 18 Oct., aged seventy, and that the fees were paid by Mrs. Mary Wintell. See the burial of Elizabeth Arnold, 30 Oct. 1731, the fees for which she paid.

<sup>2</sup> The Funeral Book, quoting his coffin-plate, describes him as " Knight of the Bath, one of H.M.'s Most Hon. Privy Council, General of Foot, Lieut.-General in the service of the Empire, Lieut.-General of the Ordnance, Colonel of H.M.'s 1st regiment of Foot Guards, and M.P. for Totnes, co. Devon," and states that he died 25 Dec. 1741, aged seventy-six. He especially distinguished himself at the battle of Preston, in Nov. 1715, when he was second in command, and rendered other important military services. He was installed a Knight of the Bath 17 June 1725, and attained the rank of General 2 July 1730. Le Neve, in one of his MSS., says that he was the son of a shoemaker ; but Le Neve's rare passion for scandal and gossip, especially when relating to men of lowly birth who had raised themselves to rank and station, renders his testimony of little value. His will, dated 6 Dec. 1741, was proved 19 May 1742, after a contest in the Probate Court between his executor, of the one part, and his nephew Richard Wills, to whom he had bequeathed an annuity of £200 for life, and his cousin-german Mary Wills, spinster, who was not named in the will, of the other part. He bequeathed to Lord George Beauclerk, Colonel Carr, of his regiment, and Mr. Alexander Small, of York Buildings, surgeon, each £500, and to Capt. Robert Rich, his aide-de-camp, £5000. His farm, called Claxton, in co. Norfolk, and all his bank stock and other personalty, he gave to Sir Robert Rich, of Rosehall, co. Suffolk, Bart., absolutely, and made him his executor.

<sup>3</sup> Relict of Rev. Edward Aspinwall, D.D., Prebendary of Westminster (see his burial 8 Aug. 1732). She died, according to the Funeral Book, 2 Jan., aged sixty-seven, and was buried in her husband's grave. Her will, as Elizabeth-Margaret Aspinwall, dated 22 Feb. 1738-9, with a codicil 5 Dec. 1741, was proved 4 Jan. 1741-2, by Sarah Smith, spinster, whom she described as her "maid since her childhood," and to whom she left £300 and all the residue of her estate. She bequeathed to the widow of Francis Aspinwall, her late husband's brother, certain plate on which were engraved the arms of herself and her husband, and to their dau. Bridget Finch £400. She left small legacies to her grand-nephew Aaron Hill, her cousin Margaret Aston, and to several friends. To her grand-niece Anne Cook she bequeathed "the four small pictures of her great-grandfather Sir Ralph Freeman and his Lady, and of her grandfather and grand-mother Hunt."

<sup>6</sup> Thomas-Catesby Paget, commonly called Lord Paget, eldest son of Henry, first Earl of Uxbridge, by Mary, dau. and coheir of Thomas Catesby, of Whiston, co. Northampton, Esq. He married, at Gray's Inn Chapel, 6 May 1718, Lady Elizabeth Egerton, youngest dau. of John, third Earl of Bridgewater, whom he survived. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 4 Feb., aged fifty-three. He was Colonel of a regiment of foot. Dying in his father's lifetime, his son Henry succeeded as second Earl of Uxbridge.

<sup>2</sup> First wife of Francis Jeffreys, one of the bell-ringers (see their marriage 7 Oct. 1735, and his burial 20 Nov. 1744). She died, according to the Funeral Book, 18 Apl., aged forty-two.

<sup>4</sup> Son of Allen Cliffe, of Mathon, co. Worcester, Esq., by Elizabeth his wife, and baptized at Mathon 9 Dec. 1716. He matriculated at Oxford, from Christ Church, 10 Oct. 1734, and was B.A. 1 June 1738, and M.A. 8 June 1741. According to both the Funeral Book and his monument, he was a Student of Christ Church, and died 19 Apl., in his twenty-sixth year. His will, dated 17 Oct. 1741, was proved 26 Apl. 1742, by his brother Robert Cliffe, to whom he bequeathed his lands in Hauley Castle, co. Worcester, and Colwall, co. Hereford. He left an annuity of £30 to his mother, for her life, and considerable bequests to his brothers, Allen Cliffe and Henry Cliffe ; his sisters, Mrs. Morton, Mrs. Batson, and Mrs. Davies ; his brothers-in-law, Mr. Francis Morton and Mr. Owen Davies ; his nephews and nieces, children of his said three sisters ; and his cousin, Mrs. Mary Bright, widow. See the burial of his sister, Mrs. Mary Davies, 11 May 1778.

<sup>6</sup> This entry, like the one preceding and the one following it, is in the Funeral Book only. Their omission from the official Register, probably from carelessness, shews the great value of the secondary series of books kept by the sexton, or Clerk of the Works, which have been so extensively quoted, as without them the place of burial of these persons could never have been positively ascertained.—Dr. Clarke, was the son of Alured Clarke, of Godmanchester, co. Huntingdon, Esq., by his second wife, Anne, fourth dau. of Rev. Charles Trimmell, Rector of Abbot's-Ripton, co. Huntingdon, and sister of the Right Rev. Charles Trimmell, Bishop of Winchester. He was of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, A.B. 1716, A.M. 1720, and S.T.P., by royal command, 25 Apl. 1728. He became Rector of Chilton, Hants, Prebendary of Winchester 13 May 1723, and was installed Prebendary of Westminster 7 July 1731, and Dean of Exeter 16 Jan. 1740-1. He died unmarried.

<sup>1</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 25 June, aged sixty-three, and was buried in his wife's grave (see her burial 24 Sep. 1734). In the newspapers of the day he was called "Captain." He remarried, as his will, dated 5 Mch. 1740-1, was proved 28 June 1742, by his relict Anne, to whom he left all his estate, and who alone is named in it. He had, however, a daughter by his first wife, named Frances, who was mentioned in the will of her uncle Nathaniel Smith (see his burial 1 Oct. 1755).

<sup>2</sup> He died, according to the Funeral Book, 22 Aug., aged eighty-two. The journals of the day described him as an old experienced officer, and Colonel of a regiment of foot in Ireland. He was called an Ensign in the record of the burial of his son Andrew, at Chiswick, Midx., 7 July 1702, and attained the rank of Lieut.-General 27 Oct. 1735. His dau. Constance was baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 8 July 1705, and his wife Constance was buried there 18 Sep. 1720. His will, as Andrew Bisset, of Twickenham, Midx., Esq., dated 28 Jan. 1741-2, was proved 25 Aug. 1742, by a trustee for his niece Dame Margery, wife of Sir Robert Innes, Bart., to whom he left all his estate, real and personal, with remainder to her infant son Andrew Innes, his godson, and, failing his issue, to her other sons in succession. [Sir Robert Innes, fifth (Nova Scotia) Bart. of Balveny, married Margery, dau. of Colonel Winram.]

<sup>3</sup> Reimerd, only son of Reimerd Watkins (see his burial 7 Sep. 1719), by Mary his wife (see her burial 1 Nov. 1743). He married, about 11 Mch. 1726-7 (Mar. Lic. Fac.), Anne Faussett, of St. Dunstan in the West, London, spinster, whom he survived. He was admitted to Gray's Inn 27 May 1727, as of St. Andrew's, Holborn, Gent. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 2 Oct., aged forty-two, and his mother administered to his estate 4 Nov. following. See the burials, of his sisters 7 Sep. 1738 and 13 Sep. 1751, and of his son 30 July 1770.

<sup>4</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 8 Oct., aged forty-eight. From the place of her burial it is evident that she occupied some humble position.

<sup>5</sup> According to the Funeral Book, she died 31 Oct., aged forty-nine. Her will as "Ann Smyth, late of Berkeley Square, and now of Chelsea, co. Midx., wife of Ralph Smyth, Esq.," dated 19 June 1742, and made with the consent of her husband, with codicils 4 Aug. and 21 Sep. following, was proved 2 Nov. in the same year, by William, Earl of Bath, George Wilson, of Symond's Inn, Gent., and Alexander Small, of York Buildings, St. Martin in the Fields, surgeon. She bequeathed to her brother Thomas Smyth £3000, to Mary, wife of Charles Smyth, £50, sums varying from £10 to £200 to several friends and servants, and to the first two of her executors £500 each. To said Alexander Small she gave £12,000, and made him her residuary legatee (see his burial 15 Apl. 1752). The estate left to her in trust by the late Henry, Earl of Bradford (see his burial 20 Jan. 1734-5) was to go, as he directed, to the benefit of her illegitimate son by the said Earl, formerly called John Harrison, but who had changed his name to Newport, and was then a lunatic (see his burial 9 May 1783). Some little light may be thrown upon her history by a marriage allegation in the Bishop of London's Registry, dated 26 June 1704, in which the parties were described as Ralph Smyth, Esq., bachelor, aged twenty-six, and Mrs. Anne Smyth, spinster, aged "about thirteen," with the consent of her mother Mrs. Margaret Smyth, widow, all of St. James, Westminster. The marriage was probably one of family convenience, and, if her age was correctly given on her coffin-plate, she could have been only about eleven years of age, instead of thirteen.

administering to her estate 5 Oct. 1710. He was born, according to his monument, 4 Jan. 1671-2. He matriculated at Oxford, from Christ Church, 28 Feb. 1686-7, aged fifteen, and was B.A. 8 July 1690, M.A. 12 May 1693, B.D. 28 Mch. 1705, and D.D. 1 July 1708. He became Rector of St. Olave, Southwark, co. Surrey, in 1708, Archdeacon of Surrey 25 Feb. 1715-16, Dean of Christ Church 15 Oct. 1719, was consecrated Bishop of Bristol 15 Nov. 1719, enthroned Archbishop of Armagh 13 Nov. 1724, and "translated" (using the words on his monument) "from thence to Heaven" 27 Sep. 1742. His will, dated 19 Nov. 1729, was proved 23 Dec. 1742, by Charles Savage, Esq., his wife's brother (see her burial 8 Mch. 1754). His only other relation mentioned was his uncle John Rusden, to whom an annuity of £7 was to continue to be paid, as charged by his father on his houses in Bermoudsey.

<sup>1</sup> Sir Stafford Fairborne, eldest son of Sir Palmes Fairborne, Kt., Governor of Tangier, where he was slain 24 Oct. 1680, by Dame Margery his wife (see her burial 9 June 1694, and note thereto). He attained his captaincy in the navy as early as 30 Aug. 1688, and subsequently all the other ranks in succession, reaching that of Admiral of the Fleet 21 Dec. 1708. He was knighted on board his ship 3 Nov. 1701, and was one of the Council to Prince George of Denmark. By his first wife, Dorothy, who was buried at St. Anne's, Westminster, 25 May 1707, he had several children, whose baptisms and burials occur in the registers of that parish. He married, secondly, at St. Giles in the Fields, Midx., 20 Oct. 1708, Rebecca, dau. of Col. Thomas Paston, fourth son of Robert, first Earl of Yarmouth, whom he also survived, she being buried at St. James, Westminster. 27 Sep. 1724. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 11 Nov., aged seventy-six. His dau. Armine, wife of John Treadway, Esq., administered to his estate 18 Dec. 1742, and on the same day to that of his son George Fairborne, to which he had administered on the preceding 12th of July. See his brother's burial 24 Feb. 1678-9, and his sister's 26 Sep. 1680.

<sup>2</sup> Fourth son of Legh Master, Esq., M.P. for Newton, co. Lancaster, from 1727 to 1741, by his first wife, Margaret, dau. and coheir of Thomas Lauder, of New Hall, in Ashton-in-Makerfield, in the same county, Esq. He was born the 3rd, and baptized at Ashton aforesaid 21 Dec. 1723, and was admitted into Westminster School in 1739. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 14 Dec., in his twentieth year. The Chapter Book, under date of 26 Apl. 1743, records permission for his monument to be erected in the South Cloister, "without paying any fees, he dying a King's Scholar."

<sup>3</sup> Dau. of John Dormer, of Rousham, co. Oxford, Esq., by Diana, dau. of Lieut.-General Piercy Kirke (see the note to the burial of his son 9 Jan. 1740-1). She was born 17 Apl., and baptized at St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., 10 May 1710. She died, according to her monument, 22 Feb. Her will, dated 18 Dec. 1742, was proved 23 Feb. 1742-3, by Mildred Harris, spinster, her servant or companion, whom she made her residuary legatee. She directed to be buried near her uncle (see his burial as above), who had made her his sole heiress.

<sup>4</sup> Younger son of Col. Charles Douglas, who was slain at Carthage in 1741, by Jacobina his wife (see her burial 3 Mch. 1761, and note thereto). He died, according to the Funeral Book, 8 Mch., in his seventeenth year.

<sup>5</sup> Catharine Darnley, illegitimate dau. of K. James II., by Catharine, dau. of Sir Charles Sidley, of Aylesford, Kent, Bart., whom he created, 20 Jan. 1685-6, Baroness of Darlington and Countess of Dorchester, for life, and who subsequently married David Colyear, first Earl of Portmore, in the peerage of Scotland, and died at Bath 26 Oct. 1717. See her first marriage to James, third Earl of Anglesey, 28 Oct. 1699, and note thereto. She married, secondly, at St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., 16 Mch. 1705-6 (not 1 Nov. 1705, as stated in the peerages : the

She died, according to the Funeral Book, 14 Mch., aged sixty-one. See her son's burial 31 Jan. 1735-6, and probably that of her brother 26 Apl. 1685.

<sup>2</sup> Third son of Theophilus, ninth Earl of Huntingdon, by Lady Selina Shirley, second dau. and coheir of Washington, second Earl Ferrers. He was born, according to his monument, 23 Jan. 1732-3, and died 21 Apl. 1743. See his brother's burial 24 Dec. 1743.

<sup>3</sup> Wife of Thomas Grant, College butler, etc. (see his burial 15 Aug. 1748). She died, according to the Funeral Book, 5 May, aged thirty-nine. They were married, according to the marriage settlement cited in her husband's will, about 22 Nov. 1726. See the baptisms of her children, 20 Apl. 1729, 17 Jan. 1730-1, 15 Apl. 1733, 7 Nov. 1735, and 7 Oct. 1740, and the burials of her two sons, 9 Dec. 1739 and 4 Oct. 1741.

<sup>4</sup> One of those distinguished commanders whose career added fresh glory to the British navy, but whom, their family history and antecedents being unknown, because uninvestigated, it has been customary to relegate to an origin obscure if not humiliating. No part of the Editor's labours has been more gratifying than that of rescuing Sir Charles Wager's ancestors from the oblivion to which they had been consigned. Whatever may have been their social position at an earlier period, the Admiral's father, Charles Wager, was a naval officer of high standing, and at his death Commander of one of His Majesty's frigates. He appears to have been the son of another sailor, whether commercial or naval is not certain, John Wager, of St. Margaret's, near Rochester, co. Kent, who died on the high seas, and to whose estate his relict Elizabeth administered 23 July 1636. Charles Wager, the elder, born about 1630, was appointed to the command of the "Yarmouth" in 1660, and promoted to the "Crown" in 1664. He died at Deal, co. Kent, 24 Feb. 1665-6. His will, as Charles Wager, of the liberties of the Tower of London, Gentleman, Commander of His Majesty's ship or frigate called the "Crown," dated 13 Aug. 1664, was proved 26 Mch. 1666, by his relict Prudence, to whom he bequeathed his entire estate. On the 29th of Jan. 1662-3, he had a license from the Faculty Office, as Charles Wager, of the city of Rochester, bachelor, aged thirty-two, to marry Prudence, dau. of William Goodson, of Ratcliffe, co. Midx., Gentleman, a spinster, aged twenty-two. They had two children, viz., the Admiral, and Prudence, whose son, Charles Bolton, was the admiral's heir. Their mother remarried Alexander Parker, a merchant of London, by whom she had two sons and four daughters. Of the latter, one married Rev. Dr. John Watson, and was mother of Admiral Charles Watson, who died in 1757: another married Rev. Dr. Peter Allix, Dean of Ely, and a third became the wife of Rev. Dr. George Stanhope, Dean of Canterbury. It will be seen, therefore, that there was nothing to be ashamed of, and no occasion for reticence, concerning the antecedents or contemporaneous relations of the admiral. He was born, if his age was correctly given on his monument, about 1666, and was possibly a posthumous child. At the date of his marriage license, 8 Dec. 1691, his age was stated to be twenty-five, which would also establish his birth in 1666. He attained his captaincy 7 June 1692, became Rear-Admiral of the Blue in 1707, and of the Red in 1709, and was knighted 8 Dec. in the latter year, for his gallantry in the West Indies. He subsequently attained the rank of Admiral of the White, became a lord of the Admiralty, and finally Treasurer of the Navy. He died, according to his monument, 24 May, aged seventy-seven. His will, dated 8 May 1743, was proved on the 25th of the same month, by his relict Dame Martha (see her burial 12 Apl. 1748). He bequeathed to his sister Mary Parker £100 per annum for life, and to his niece Martha Watson £1000 at her marriage, leaving the residue of his personalty to his wife. Having no issue, his nephew Charles Bolton, as the son of his only sister of the full blood, inherited his real estate as next heir. It has been said that he was educated a Quaker, and the statement has probably grown out of the fact that his stepfather, and apparently his grandfather Goodson, were members of that community. Le Neve, in one of his MSS., says, with his usual recklessness, that he married the dau. of Sir Neal O'Neal, who was killed at the battle of the Boyne, and that she died in Apl. 1720; but in his own marriage allegation, in 1691, he was sworn to be a bachelor, and the wife he then married survived him.

<sup>2</sup> Dau. of Captain John Philpot, of Rotherhithe, co. Surrey, and second wife of William Morice, Esq.; High Bailiff of Westminster from 1719 to 1730-1 (see the burial of his first wife, the dau. of Bishop Atterbury, 21 Feb. 1729-30, and note thereto), to whom married about 1 Mch. 1731-2. The Funeral Book says that she died 10 July, "aged thirty-seven years, ten months, and twenty days, being born the 20th August 1705."

<sup>3</sup> One of the choir of the Abbey and of St. Paul's. He was sworn a Gentleman of the Chapel Royal in 1718. He was married, at the Chapel Royal, Whitehall, 21 June 1731, to Mary Ward. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 3 Aug., aged forty-three, and his relict Mary administered to his estate on the 18th of the same month. See the baptism of one of his sons 15 May 1738, and the burial of another 26 Sep. 1744.

<sup>4</sup> Wife of Mr. John Luckett, one of the sacrists (see his burial 10 Apl. 1748). She died, according to the Funeral Book, 23 Sep., aged twenty-six. See the burials, of her dau. 25 June 1738, her son 21 June 1741, and her daughter, Mrs. Alice Samuda, 9 Jan. 1786.

<sup>5</sup> The distinguished military commander and statesman. John Campbell, eldest son of Archibald, first Duke of Argyll, by Elizabeth dau. of Sir Lionel Tollemache, third Bart. of Helmingham, co. Suffolk. He succeeded as second Duke of Argyll 28 Sep. 1703, and was created, 29 Nov. 1705, Baron Chatham and Earl of Greenwich, in the English peerage, and, 27 Apl. 1719, Duke of Greenwich. According to the Funeral Book and his monument, he was born 10 Oct. 1680, and died 4 Oct. 1743. See the burials, of his first wife 19 Jan. 1716-17, of his second wife 23 Apl. 1767, and of his daughters, 25 Jan. 1794 and 11 Oct. 1811. Leaving no male issue, his English titles became extinct.

<sup>6</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 17 Oct., aged thirty. He matriculated at Oxford, from Wadham College, 14 Jan. 1731-2, aged seventeen, as son of Thomas Tims, of Chalcombe, co. Northampton, and was B.A. 25 Nov. 1735.

Her will, dated 22 Jan. 1738-9, was proved 24 Oct. 1743, by her only surviving dau, Philippa Watkins (see her burial 13 Sep. 1751), to whom she left all her estate. See the burials, of her son 8 Oct. 1742, and of her other daughter, Anne Molloy, 7 Sep. 1738.

<sup>2</sup> Only dau. of Sir Robert Worsley, fourth Bart. of Appuldercombe, Isle of Wight, by Lady Frances Thynne, only dau. of Thomas, first Viscount Weymouth, and first wife of John, second Baron Carteret, who succeeded in 1744 as Earl Granville (see his burial 11 Jan. 1763), to whom married, at Longleat, Wilts, 17 Oct. 1710. She was born 6 Mch. 1693-4, and died, according to the Funeral Book, at Hanover, 20 June 1743, aged forty-nine. Her son Robert succeeded to his father's titles, and died without issue in 1776.

<sup>4</sup> He appears to have descended from, or to have been connected with, the family of his name at Dudleston, in Shropshire. He entered the navy at an early age, and attained his captaincy 16 Nov. 1689. He was knighted 24 Oct. 1704, for his gallantry in the battle off Malaga against the French, being then Commander of the "St. George." He subsequently became Ranger of Greenwich Park, and Governor of Greenwich Hospital. He married, at St. Giles in the Fields, Midx., 6 May 1717, Mrs. Alice Breton, who died suddenly, at Greenwich, 2 Oct. 1723. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 23 Dec., aged seventy-nine. His will, dated 18 Nov. 1742, with a codicil 15 Dec. 1743, was proved 30 Dec. 1743, by his son George Jennings, Esq., apparently his only child. He left legacies to the five daughters of his sister Lecount, deceased, viz., Hester and Ruth Lecount living at Philadelphia, Anne and Elizabeth Lecount living at Bangor, in Wales, and one married to William Bully, with a son William, then a lieutenant in the navy; to Dorothy, widow of his deceased nephew Philip Jennings, Esq., and her eldest son Philip; his nephew William Jennings, Esq., and his wife, son, and dau.; his nephew George Jennings, Esq.; his nephew George Cook, Esq., and his wife; his niece Anne East, and her children; and his niece Elizabeth Church.

<sup>5</sup> Seventh Earl, second but eldest surviving son of James, sixth Earl of Abercorn (see his burial 3 Dec. 1734), by Elizabeth, dau. and heir of Sir Robert Reading, of Dublin, Bart. (see her burial 22 Mch. 1754). He died, according to the Funeral Book, 11 Jan., aged fifty-eight. See his wife's burial 13 Aug. 1776.

<sup>6</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 6 Feb., aged forty-two. "Mr. Booth, the mason," is mentioned in the Chapter Book, 25 May 1741. The place of burial sufficiently indicates his humble position.

<sup>7</sup> One of the minor canons of the Abbey, and a priest in ordinary of the Chapel Royal. He matriculated at Oxford, from New College, 15 Feb. 1725-6, aged twenty, as son of Thomas Abbott, of Christ-Church, London. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 18 Feb., in his thirty-ninth year. The Chapter Book records a gratuity of five guineas to his mother, 2 June 1744.

	Sept. 26	Mr Robert Chelsum : <sup>9</sup> in the West Cloister.

<sup>1</sup> He was sworn a Gentleman of the Chapel Royal in 1708, and appears before that to have been an opera singer of some note. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 16 Mch., aged seventy-seven. His will, dated 5 June 1740, was proved 24 Mch. 1743-4. His residuary legatees were Theophilus Hughes, and Susan, Jane, and Mary Vaughan, daughters of his sister Margaret Vaughan. The only other relation mentioned was his nephew William Hughes.

<sup>2</sup> According to the Chapter Book, Edward Ayres was ordered a place in Emery Hill's almshouses 6 July 1723, appointed porter of the Little Cloisters 5 Feb. 1725-6, organ-blower 1 Mch. 1732-3, and clock-keeper 4 Nov. 1738. The Funeral Book says that he died 28 Apl., aged seventy-five. See his wife's burial 30 Jan. 1746-7, and a burial 6 Feb. 1729-30.

<sup>6</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 26 Aug., aged sixty-seven. Mrs. Priscilla Forster (see her burial 11 May 1729) left her a legacy of £10, and described her as living in the Broadway in Westminster.

<sup>7</sup> Younger son of Charles, third Earl of Mounrath, by Lady Arabella Dormer, second dau. and coheir of Charles, second Earl of Carnarvon. He was baptized at St. James, Westminster, 8 June 1689, and succeeded his elder brother, as sixth Earl, 27 Mch. 1720. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 27 Aug., and another entry states that his remains were removed, in 1766, into a new vault in the Holles Chapel. See his wife's burial 25 July 1766.

<sup>8</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 12 Sep., aged fifty-five. The place of burial sufficiently indicates his humble position.

<sup>9</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 22 Sep., aged four years and three months, and was buried in his father's grave, and his gravestone described him as the youngest son of Mr. James Chelsum (see his burial 10 Aug. 1743). He was born 19 June, and baptized at St. John the Evangelist, Westminster, as son of James Chelsum and Mary his wife. His mother administered to his estate, as an infant, 18 Aug. 1748.

<sup>2</sup> Lady Grace Granville, youngest dau. of John, first Earl of Bath, by Jane, dau. of Sir Peter Wyche, Kt. She was married (Mar. Lic. Fac. 15 Mch. 1674-5), when a mere child, to Sir George Carteret, second Bart. of Metesches, then also a child, created, 19 Oct. 1681, Baron Carteret, of Hawnes, co. Beds, who died 22 Sep. 1695, aged twenty-six, and was buried at Hawnes. She was created, 1 Jan. 1714-15, Viscountess Carteret and Countess Granville, having become one of the coheirs to the great Bath estates. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 18 Oct., aged seventy-seven. See the burials of her sons, 25 Mch. 1711 and 11 Jan. 1763.

<sup>3</sup> Wife of George Suckling, one of the vergers (see his burial 3 Mch. 1745-6). She was the College landress at her death. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 1 Nov., aged forty-seven.

<sup>4</sup> Rightly Jeffreys. He was appointed one of the bell-ringers 23 Nov. 1736. See his first marriage 7 Oct. 1735, and his first wife's burial 22 Apl. 1742. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 16 Nov., aged thirty-nine. His will, dated 24 June 1743, was proved 23 Nov. 1744, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, by his relict Ann, to whom he left all his possessions (see her burial 28 Oct. 1748).

<sup>5</sup> He died, according to the Funeral Book, 22 Nov., aged fifty-nine. See burials in the same place, 23 June 1773 and 5 July 1793.

<sup>6</sup> Relict of John Willis, College carpenter (see his burial 2 Jan. 1736-7). The Funeral Book says that she died 13 Nov., aged forty-eight, and was buried in her husband's grave "in the West Cloister." Her will, as of Tufton Street, Westminster, dated 24 Aug. 1744, was proved 28 Mch. 1745. She stated that her son William was dead, and that the portions of her daughters, Elizabeth and Ayres Willis, would be settled by the Court of Chancery. She bequeathed all her effects to her posthumous son Edward Willis (see his burial 14 July 1780), and, in case of his death in his minority, to her brother Mr. Edward Hayward. She appointed as her executors Samuel Carte, of St. George's, Bloomsbury, Midx., Esq., and Rev. George Cardale, Rector of Swithland, co. Leicester. The former only proved the will, the latter renouncing.

<sup>7</sup> He died, according to the Funeral Book, 9 Mch., aged seventy-five. His will, as formerly of Jermyn Street, St. James, Westminster, grocer, but then of College Street, Westminster, dated 21 Jan. 1744-5, was proved 19 Mch. following, by his nephew John Green, of Winterton, co. Lincoln, his niece Elizabeth Dunkin, of the same place, and his old friend Thomas Ayres, of the Bear Tavern, London Bridge. The second was the dau. of his sister, second wife of Michael Dunkin, of Winterton, and the first had married her other dau., Sarah Dunkin, and he left £4000 to each. He also bequeathed £4000 to his sister Joan, wife of Thomas Manners, of Alkborough, co. Lincoln, and considerable legacies to his nieces, Ann Richardson and Mary, wife of Thomas Martin, daughters of Robert Richardson, of Hull, and Mary his wife; his niece Welder, a schoolmistress at Kensington, and the six children of her late brother Thomas Hudson, of Hampstead, merchant; his cousin Rebecca, dau. of his aunt Holland, formerly of Winterton; and his cousin Hibbert, of Winterton, farmer.

<sup>3</sup> Dau. of Mrs. Dorothy Ireland (see her burial 18 Mch. 1711-12), and sister of Mrs. Frances Ireland (see her burial 7 Jan. 1725-6). She died, according to the Funeral Book, 19 Sep., aged eighty-one. Her will, as of Somerset House, Midx., spinster, dated 8 Feb. 1743-4, was proved 1 Oct. 1745, by her kinsman John Manley, of Hatton Garden, Midx., Esq. She directed to be buried in the Cloisters, near her said mother and sister. She left small legacies to her kinsmen, Samuel Holt, of Trinity College, Dublin, and Lucius-Henry Hibbins, and the residue of her estate to her nephew and niece, William Gore, of Barrow Mount, co. Kilkenny, Ireland, and Dorothy his wife, stipulating that all her silver plate should go to their children, Charles and Jane Gore.

<sup>4</sup> Probably wife of Thomas Coston (see his burial 25 Nov. 1753). She died, according to the Funeral Book, 12 Oct., aged fifty-three.

<sup>8</sup> Dau. of Peter De Bert, of London, merchant, by Elizabeth, dau. of William Bathurst, of Eltham, co. Kent, also a merchant of London, and relict of Rev. William Craig, Prebendary of Westminster (see his burial 25 Feb. 1720-1). She died, according to the Funeral Book, 1 Jan., aged eighty-one. Her will, as of St. Andrew's, Holborn, Midx., dated 2 Mch. 1743-4, with a codicil 9 July 1744, was proved 8 Jan. 1745-6, by her sister Elizabeth De Bert, spinster. She left considerable legacies to her cousin Mrs. Sarah Maudit, her niece Elizabeth Pattle, widow, her niece Magdalen Craig, and to Ann and James Smith, children of Henry Smith, of Shire Lane, London, Gent. The residue of her estate she bequeathed to her niece (really her great-great-niece) Elizabeth, dau. of said Henry Smith (whose wife Elizabeth was her great-niece).

<sup>4</sup> Youngest surviving son of Rev. Dr. Anthony Horneck, Prebendary of Westminster (see his burial 4 Feb. 1696-7), by Jane his wife (see her burial 21 Apl. 1703). He had his first commission in the army, as a lieutenant of foot, 6 Apl. 1708, and joined the Royal Engineers in 1711, attaining the rank of Director, which he held at his death. He died, according to the Funeral Book and his monument, 23 Apl., in his sixty-second year. See the burial of his sister, Elizabeth Warr, 8 Jan. 1734-5. He died unmarried. His will, as Director of Engineers, dated at Plymouth 23 Sep. 1745, was proved 5 May 1746. He bequeathed to Mrs. Ann Butters, of Milton, near Gravesend, Kent, his freehold house and land in that place; to Mrs. Elizabeth Hulke, widow of George Hulke, of Portsmouth, Hants, and Mrs. Elizabeth Cooper, wife of Robert Cooper, surgeon, and dau. of John Curtis, of Tan Chapel, near Plymouth, each £600; and to Mrs. Grace Henley, of Gravesend, widow, and his nephew Robert Barnevelt, each £100. The residue of his estate he left to trustees for the benefit of Kane-William Horneck alias Butters, then an engineer in the office of Ordnance, whom he described as the "son of my most dearly beloved Mary Butters, of Gravesend, by me." This son, afterwards known as Capt. Kane-William Horneck only, died in 1752, leaving a son and two daughters. The latter were immortalized by Goldsmith as "Jessamy Bride" and "Little Comedy."

<sup>5</sup> One of the almsmen. An order in the Chapter Book, 14 Oct. 1726, directed that his house should be repaired. See the burial, probably of his first wife, 7 Aug. 1723. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 26 Apl., aged eighty-one. His will, as of St. Margaret's, Westminster, waterman, dated 6 Jan. 1739-40, was proved 3 May 1746, by his relict Eleanor, to whom he left all the goods to which he had any right in the house in which he dwelt, "commonly called one of the almshouses belonging to St. Peter's, Westminster."

	May	22	The most noble and puissant Prince, James, Duke of Ormond : <sup>2</sup> in the Ormond vault.

<sup>3</sup> Son of William Wardour, of Whitney Court, co. Hereford, Esq., by Anna-Sophia his wife (see her burial 25 Feb. 1736-7). He was born the 12th, and baptized at St. Giles in the Fields, Midx., 15 July 1686. He was M.P. for Fowey, and died unmarried 17 July, according to the Funeral Book, aged sixty. His will, dated 28 June 1746, was proved 29 July following, by his brother Tomkyns Wardour, Esq. (see his burial 22 Feb. 1752), to whom he left all his estate, subject to a few legacies to his "cousins," viz., John Wardour, of the Excise Office, and his dan. Virtue Wardour; Mrs. Margaret Pitches; Mrs. Jane Gillmore, widow; Mrs. Silet Dew, widow, and her son Tomkyns Dew; and Mrs. Mary Fleetwood, spinster.

<sup>5</sup> Son of Col. Thomas Garth (see his burial 11 Jan. 1730-1), by Elizabeth his wife (see her burial in the preceding entry). He was their second son of this name (see his brother's burial 31 May 1714). The Funeral Book says: "Son of the last mentioned Elizabeth Garth: died October 10th, 1734, in the sixth year of his age, and was buried in Godstone, in Surrey, and afterwards removed from thence and deposited, July 28th, 1746, in the same grave with his mother." According to the parish register of Godstone, he was buried there 14 Oct. 1734.

<sup>6</sup> According to the Chapter Book, he was appointed Under-Surveyor 12 June 1733, and Surveyor to the College 29 May 1746. The Funeral Book says that he died 12 Aug., aged fifty-seven. His will, as of St. John the Evangelist, Westminster, Gent., dated 10 Feb. 1743-4, was proved 19 Aug. 1746, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, by his relict Hannah, residuary legatee. He left small legacies to his mother Joan Hinton, his brother Hercules Hinton, and his sisters, Mary Hinton, Elizabeth Tarver, and Jane, wife of Thomas Chase.

- 1746 Nov. 16 Mrs. Henrietta-Maria Garth [rightly Kelynge]:<sup>1</sup> in the North Cloister.
- Nov. 22 Mrs. Margaret Ilsley:<sup>2</sup> in the Dark Cloister.
- 1746<sup>7</sup> Jan. 30 Mrs. Margaret Ayres:<sup>3</sup> in the Dark Cloister.

- June 13 Mrs. Elizabeth Heylyn:<sup>6</sup> in the South Cross.

that he died 19 Sep., aged fifty-one. He was baptized at St. Paul's, Covent Garden, Midx., 4 Aug. 1695, as son of Edmund Stagg and Artemisia his wife, and his mother (or one of her name) was buried at Greenwich, Kent, 14 Sep. 1735. His will, dated 21 Oct. 1745, was proved 19 Sep. 1746, by his relict Elizabeth (see her burial 22 Nov. 1750). He bequeathed to his sister Susanna Stagg £100, and a silver tankard formerly belonging to his aunt Hawkins, and smaller legacies to his sister-in-law Mrs. Dorothy Bowers, and his nephew John, son of his brother Samuel Stagg.

<sup>1</sup> The surname in the Register is an error. In the Funeral Book it is Kelynge, with a subsequent reference to the burial of John Kelynge, Esq., 9 July 1753 (which see), who was her son. She was the first wife of William Kelynge, of the Inner Temple, Esq. (evidently the well-known reporter of law cases in the reign of K. George II.), who was buried at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 7 July 1774. He mentioned her in his will, dated 24 Dec. 1773 and proved 14 July 1774, as the daughter of Michael Hickie, Esq., deceased, certain of whose estates in Ireland had come to him through her. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 8 Nov., aged forty-seven. Her husband married, secondly, according to his will, Jane, dau. of John Pace, of Coleman Street, London, and Elizabeth his wife, who survived him and remarried Charles Matthews. He appears to have had no other issue, and bequeathed all his estate to the only child of his son John, viz., Louisa, then the wife of Mr. Henry Perfect, junior.

<sup>2</sup> Second wife of John Ilsley, College beadle (see his burial 28 June 1750). He had a license from the Faculty Office, 16 Apl. 1733, then a widower (see his first wife's burial 14 Mch. 1732-3, only a month previous), to marry Margaret Owen, of St. Margaret's, Westminster, widow. It is possible, however, that the marriage did not take place immediately, as her first child, Margaret, was baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 1 Aug. 1734. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 19 Nov., aged forty-five. See her son's burial 9 June 1738.

<sup>3</sup> Relict of Edward Ayres (see his burial 2 May 1744). She died, according to the Funeral Book, 28 Jan., aged sixty-seven, and was buried in her husband's grave. See a burial 6 Feb. 1729-30.

<sup>4</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 7 Apl., aged fifty-six. Her will, as of St. John the Evangelist, Westminster, widow, dated the day before her death, was proved on the sixth of the same month, by her niece Ann Burges, spinster. She left legacies to her sister Frances Hawkins and her niece Mary Hawkins. She was a sister of James Burges, one of the bell-ringers (see his wife's burial 28 Oct. 1728), and proved his will 15 Mch. 1732-3, being then a widow.

<sup>5</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 30 May, aged twenty-seven. See a burial, perhaps of his brother, 15 Jan. 1732-3.—Letters of administration to the estate of James Collier, of the Middle Temple, Esq., bachelor, were granted, 21 May 1753, to his father, John Collier, Esq., and, 26 Feb. 1754, letters were granted to James Collier, nephew and next of kin of John Collier, of Kensington, Midx., deceased, the relict Hannah having died before administering.

<sup>6</sup> Dau. of Mrs. Elizabeth Ebbutt (see her burial 16 Mch. 1752), and second wife of Rev. Dr. John Heylyn, Prebendary of Westminster (see his burial 17 Aug. 1759). She died, according to the Funeral Book, 9 June, aged forty-eight. See her daughter's burial 2 Apl. 1759.

<sup>7</sup> One of the Abbey choir. He was sworn a Gentleman of the Chapel Royal 10 May 1743. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 15 June, aged thirty-two. His mother, Sarah Richardson, widow, administered to his estate 27 July following, when he was described as of New Windsor, Berks, a bachelor. He probably died at Windsor, while in attendance at the royal chapel there.

- 1747 Aug. 1 The Right Hon. Edward Bligh, Earl of Darnley, Viscount Arthboy, Baron of Rathmore in Ireland, and Baron Clifton in England:<sup>1</sup> in the vault in the North aisle of the Tombs.
 Aug. 28 Mrs. Anne Horden:<sup>2</sup> in the East Cloister.
 Aug. 28 Mr. James Spring:<sup>3</sup> in the West Cloister.
 Sept. 5 Mrs. Magdalen Walsh:<sup>4</sup> in the East Cloister.

<sup>2</sup> Dau. of Thomas Morice, Esq. (see his burial 1 June 1675), by Anne his wife (see her burial 24 Oct. 1693), and relict of Rev. John Horden, D.D., Rector of St. Michael, Queenhithe, London, and Vicar of Isleworth, Midx., whose will, dated 6 Mch. 1689-90, she proved 21 Aug. following, in the Consistory Court of the Bishop of London. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 25 Aug., aged eighty-seven. Her will, as of St. John the Evangelist, Westminster, dated 8 Apl. 1743, was proved 23 Sep. 1747, by her son-in-law Richard Wiat, Esq. Except a bequest of certain apparel to her niece Mary, wife of Mordaunt Cracherode, Esq. (see her burial 3 Jan. 1785), she bequeathed all her estate to her grand-daughter Cornelia, wife of William Percival, Esq., for life, with remainder to William and Richard Percival her sons. See the marriage of her dau. 9 Apl. 1716, and her burial, as Frances Wiat, 29 Nov. 1734, and the burials, probably of her grandchildren, 19 May 1721 and 21 Apl. 1734.

<sup>3</sup> Son of Mr. William Spring (see his burial 29 June 1757), by Dorcas his wife (see her burial 18 Mch. 1755). He died, according to the Funeral Book and his monument, 24 Aug., aged twenty years.

<sup>4</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 1 Sep., aged sixty-three. Her monument states that "she was a dau. of Robert Walsh, of the Walsh mountains, in Ireland, Esq., that she was born in Ireland in 1684, and that she and her sister Margaret Daly were the only coheirresses of Edmund Sheffield, late Duke of Buckinghamshire and Normanby." On his death, without issue (see his burial 31 Jan. 1735-6), the family estates reverted to the descendants of his great-great aunt, dau. of Edmund, first Earl of Mulgrave, who married Walter Walsh, of Castle Hoel, in Ireland, Esq., through whom they appear to have descended to the two sisters named on the monument. Her will, as of Gloucester Street, St. George the Martyr, Midx., spinster, dated 25 Aug. 1747, was proved 30 Apl. 1748, by George Fitzgerald, of London, merchant, and, 14 Feb. 1748-9, by her sister Margaret Daly, widow. She left numerous bequests, varying from £10 to £1000, to friends and servants, but, besides her said sister Margaret Daly, to whom she left all her real estate, and the residue of her personalty, the only relations she named were her cousin Lettice Grace, widow of John Grace, Esq., and her children.

<sup>5</sup> His will, as "Antonio Lucera, otherwise Abraham-De Jacob Lucera" (so signed, and in the margin is added "otherwise Abraham Mora"), dated 15 June 1736, was proved 16 Sep. 1747, by his relict "Jane Lucera, otherwise Jeney Lucera, otherwise Jeney Chanell," by which names he had described her in the will, to whom he left all his estate, she bringing up their dau. "Stella otherwise Ister Lucera," and, if she died before her mother, then two-thirds were to go to the heirs of Giuseppe-Maria Gustigiano, of Genoa. An affidavit to his writing described him as of St. James, Westminster, merchant. The probate of this will was subsequently declared void, and another will, in which he described himself as of Air Street, Piccadilly, dated 1 June 1743, was proved 12 Nov. 1747, by his relict Jane, and his dau. Esther Lucera, to whom he left his estate equally, and either to be the other's heir. He then described his wife as "Jane Lucera, before called Jane Cianell, whom I married in 1721 in foreign countries" (see her burial 5 Mch. 1755), and his dau. Esther as then about sixteen years old (see her burial, as Esther Hinton, 11 Oct. 1762).

- 1747 Oct. 16 The Hon. Lient.-General Guest :<sup>1</sup> in the East Cloister.

From the results of researches kindly made and communicated to the Editor by friends in Yorkshire, there seems no reason any longer to leave the parentage of the General in obscurity. Of his father no trace whatever can be found, but it seems impossible to escape the conclusion that his mother was Mary Guest, dau. of Samuel Guest and Mary his wife, of North Owsram, who was baptized at Halifax, Yorkshire, in April 1640. Her parents, as Samuel Guest and Mary Greenwood, appear to have been married at Halifax in February preceding. She eventually married a Mr. Smith, by whom she had a son Joshua Smith. The inscription on her tombstone in the churchyard of Lightcliffe, near Halifax, reads thus: "Here lies the body of Mary, the mother of Colonel Guest, of Lydgate in Lightcliffe, who departed this life the 10th day of September, 1729, aged 88 years: also of Joshua, y<sup>e</sup> son of the abovesaid, died August 1750, aged 63: Mary, his wife, died August, 1761, aged 63: also of Sammy, son of Joshua Smith, died July, 1777, aged 42." The corresponding entries in the parish register of Lightcliffe identify the first two persons named as "Mary Smith, widow," and "Joshua Smith, of Hove Edge." As Mary Smith could have been the mother of General (then Colonel) Guest only as "Mary Guest," it follows conclusively that she must have married some one of her own name before she married Mr. Smith, who was the father of the General, or else that the General was born before she was married at all; and, as it has been impossible to find any evidence of the former, the latter seems to be the safest theory to adopt. That there can be no doubt of the General's intimate connection with this particular family of Smith, it is only necessary to state that his widow, in her will, and evidently carrying out the instructions of her husband, bequeathed her freehold farms, lands, tenements, etc., at "Cassley" in the West Riding of Yorkshire, to "Mr. Joshua Smith, of Lightcliffe, near Halifax," undoubtedly the one who died in 1750, whose name appears on the tombstone, with remainder to his eldest son John, and his other sons and their heirs male in succession, besides leaving £500 to said John Smith, the eldest son, and £1000 among the other children of said Joshua Smith. On inquiry, it appears that Sammy Smith, named on the monument, who died in 1777, in whose possession this property then was, by his will directed that it should be sold, and the proceeds invested for the use of his poor relations. Probably it was a pardonable pride that induced Mr. Joshua Smith to have recorded on his mother's tombstone that she was the mother of the already distinguished Colonel Guest; but it is also fair and reasonable to presume that Colonel Guest himself would have seen that his father's name was similarly honoured, if it had been possible to place his name in conjunction with hers.

<sup>2</sup> The Funeral Book gives his name correctly, as Wyrley, and says that he died 2 Nov., aged thirty-nine, which is incorrect, as he was very nearly forty-one. He was the eldest son of Rev. Peter Birch, D.D. (see his burial 4 July 1710), by his third wife, Sibyll, dau. and coheir of Humphrey Wyrley, of Hampstead Hall, co. Stafford, Esq. (see her burial 12 Aug. 1708). He was born the 5th, and baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 16 Dec. 1706, by the double names of Humphrey-Wyrley. As Humphrey-Wyrley Birch he matriculated at Oxford, from Christ Church,

5 Mch. 1722-3, aged sixteen, but appears to have taken no degree. He became a counsellor-at-law, and, on inheriting Hampstead Hall, assumed the surname of Wyrley, by act of Parliament. He was, however, when only four years old, in certain proceedings in the Court of Probate concerning his father's will, described as "Humphrey-Wyrley Wyrley alias Birch," but he appears to have been known, and to have signed his name, in after life, as "Humphrey Wyrley" only. He died unmarried. The journals of the day give the date of his death as the 13th, instead of the 2nd of November, probably using the modern instead of the old style.

<sup>1</sup> The second wife and widow of Nicholas Rowe, poet-laureate. She was a gentlewoman whose ancestry and ultimate fate, except that she was of a good family named Devenish, in Dorsetshire, and remarried "Colonel Deane," appear to have baffled the biographers and annotators of her first husband and his writings. She was the dau., and apparently only surviving child, by his first wife, of Joseph Devenish, Gent. (third son of Francis Devenish, of Gillingham, co. Dorset, Gent., by Anne his wife), who was buried at St. Paul's, Covent Garden, Midx., 7 Oct. 1733, and whose will she proved on the 10th of that month. She married, first, as early as 1717, as her only dau. was born before 1 July in the following year, Nicholas Rowe, Esq. (see his burial 19 Dec. 1718), to whom she was second wife. She married, secondly, at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 31 Jan. 1723-4, Col. Alexander Deanes, who was buried at St. James, Westminster, 7 Nov. 1731. His will, as of Arlington Street, St. George's, Hanover Square, Midx., Esq., dated 8 Oct. 1731, was proved by her 13 Jan. 1731-2, she being his sole legatee. If, as is asserted by the editor of Johnson's Lives of the Poets (edit. 1854, ii. 113), she was the "widow" of Pope's "Dialogue II.," published in 1738, an admirable illustration is furnished of the manner in which that poet nursed his wrath, for her second marriage had taken place fourteen years before, and her second husband had been dead half that period, quite long enough to have been forgotten. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 6 Dec., aged sixty-five. Her will, as of Bruton Street, St. George's, Hanover Square, dated 20 Aug. 1747, was proved 20 Jan. 1747-8. Owing to some extraordinary fatality among her father's brothers and their issue, she had come into the possession of the manors of Backhorn-Weston and Lydlinch, in co. Dorset, and other lands in that county and in co. Somerset, all of which she bequeathed in trust for her grand-daughter Charlotte Fane (see the burial of her mother 7 Oct. 1739, and note thereto). Her house in Bruton Street, with its contents, and an annuity of £100, she left to Sarah Peele, spinster, whom she called her "sister," but who was evidently, from her father's will, the only dau. of his second wife and relict, by a former husband. She mentioned no other relations, and appears to have been the last survivor of her family, although her grandfather, at his death in 1689, left surviving no fewer than five sons and two daughters.

<sup>3</sup> Distinguished not only as a gallant soldier and brilliant commander, but especially for the military roads which he constructed through the highlands of Scotland. He entered the army as a cornet of dragoons 25 Dec. 1690, and attained the rank of Field-Marshal 14 Dec. 1743, and that of Commander-in-Chief in Mch. 1745. He appears to have been the third son of William Wade, a major of dragoons in the army of Cromwell, who is said to have married a dau. of Rev. Henry Stonestreet, Rector of South Heighton, co. Sussex. His elder brother, Rev. William Wade, was a Canon of Windsor, and died 1 Feb. 1732-3. He died, according to the Funeral Book and his monument, 14 Mch., aged seventy-five. He died unmarried, and his will, dated 1 June 1747, was proved 24 Mch. 1747-8, by his illegitimate sons, Capt. George Wade and Capt. John Wade, to whom, with his illegitimate dau. Mrs. Jane Erle, he left the most of his estate, although providing generously for the widow and children of his brother William.

<sup>4</sup> According to the Chapter Book, he was appointed one of the sacrists 11 Feb. 1728-9. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 8 Apl., aged forty-six. Letters of administration to his estate were granted, 7 July 1749, when he was described as a widower, and his only surviving children, James and Alice, as minors, under the guardianship of Elizabeth, wife of John Dupree. See the burials, of his wife 26 Sep. 1743, his dau. 25 June 1738, his son 21 June 1741, and his only surviving daughter, Mrs. Alice Samuda, 9 Jan. 1786.

<sup>2</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 11 Apl., in her fortieth year, and she was described on her gravestone as the wife of Rev. Henry Evans, A.M. Her will, as "wife of Henry Evans, of Garden Row, in Chelsea, co. Midx., Clerk," dated 13 Nov. 1745, was proved by him 16 Apl. 1748. She merely bequeathed to him, in case she left no issue, £3000 South Sea annuities named in her marriage settlement. He appears to have been sworn a priest in ordinary of the Chapel Royal, 13 Mch. 1743-4.

<sup>3</sup> Dan. of Sir Richard Lane, Kt. (see his burial 4 Apl. 1756), by Dame Sarah his wife (see her burial 4 Oct. 1733). She died, according to the Funeral Book, 14 May, aged forty-nine. See the burials of her sisters, 3 Apl. 1773 and 16 Dec. 1780.

<sup>4</sup> Only dau. of Rev. Edward Taylor, Rector of Finningley, co. Notts, by Rachel his wife (see her burial 2 June 1740, and note thereto). She married, first, Thomas Bold, citizen and distiller of London, of Thames Street, St. Michael Queenhithe, whose will, dated 1 Oct. 1727, was proved 19 Mch. 1727-8, by whom she had an only dau., Anne Bold, who appears to have been living at the date of her step-father's will, 12 Jan. 1776, an inmate of Bethlehem Hospital. She married, secondly, at St. John the Evangelist, Westminster, 29 May 1731, Thomas Ludford (formerly Bracebridge), Esq. (see his burial 9 Mch. 1776), by whom she appears to have had only one son, Edward-Taylor Ludford, who was living in 1743, but was not named in his father's will. She died, according to the Funeral Book and her tombstone, 15 May, aged fifty.

<sup>5</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 20 May, aged seventy-seven. See the burial, probably of his wife, 17 Feb. 1748-9.

<sup>6</sup> According to the Chapter Book, he was appointed "Scholars' butler" 23 June 1725, and at his death was "College butler and brewer, and Clerk of the Works." He died, according to the Funeral Book, 10 Aug., aged fifty-nine. His will, dated 12 May 1743, was proved 14 Sep. 1748. He left his possessions among his children, William, Thomas, and Susanna. See his wife's burial 8 May 1743; the baptisms of his children, 20 April 1729, 17 Jan. 1730-1, 15 Apl. 1733, 7 Nov. 1735, and 7 Oct. 1740; and the burials, of his sons, 9 Dec. 1739 and 4 Oct. 1741, and perhaps of his brother 19 Dec. 1720.

<sup>7</sup> The celebrated actress in the reigns of Kings Charles II. and James II. She is said to have been a dau. of Justinian Bracegirdle, of co. Northampton, Esq., and to have been brought up in the family of Thomas Betterton, the tragedian, with whom she was placed in her infancy. She is usually said to have been born in 1674, but the Funeral Book says that she died 12 Sep., aged eighty-five, which would make her eleven years older. Her will, as of St. Clement Danes, Midx., spinster, dated 28 Nov. 1747, was proved 12 Sep. 1748, by her niece Martha Bracegirdle, residuary legatee. Her only other bequests were £400 to her nephew Justinian Bracegirdle, and £100 to Anne Hodge, of St. Clement's, spinster. See the note to the burial of Robert, Earl of Scarsdale, 4 Jan. 1707-8.

<sup>2</sup> Second wife and relict of Francis Jeffreys, one of the bell-ringers (see his burial 20 Nov. 1744). She was appointed College laundress 23 Nov. 1744. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 25 Oct., aged sixty-two. Her will, dated 23 Mch. 1746-7, was not proved until 31 Jan. 1754, and then in the Court of the Dean and Chapter. She bequeathed her diamond ring and sundry china to the children of the Bishop of Rochester, and pictures, articles of plate, etc., to several friends. To her niece Elizabeth Keys, then living with her (see her burial 21 Jan. 1754), she left two freehold houses in Newent, near Gloucester, and £100 to trustees for her use till she attained her majority. Other bequests were to her brother Joseph Stone, her niece Margaret, wife of Mr. John Burchell, one of the yeomen of the guard, who was one of her executors, and David Jeffreys (see his burial 29 July 1755), whom she called her "cousin," but who was evidently her late husband's nephew.

<sup>4</sup> She appears to have been the eldest dau. of Claydon Jolly, of West Deeping, co. Lincoln, Gent., by Catharine his wife, and to have married, first, Christopher Clapham (son of Sheffield Clapham, eldest surviving son of Sir Christopher Clapham, of Uffington, co. Lincoln, Kt.), heir and administrator to his grandfather, who was living in London, in 1705, by whom she had several children, all of whom evidently died young. She also appears to have married, secondly, at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 31 Aug. 1712, another Christopher Clapham (probably her first husband's cousin, only son of Christopher Clapham, second son of Sir Christopher Clapham aforesaid), whom she also survived. In their marriage allegation, at the Bishop of London's Registry, they are described as both of St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., he a bachelor and she a widow, and both aged about thirty. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 25 Oct., aged seventy-six. Her will, dated 25 Aug. 1747, was proved 29 Oct. 1748, by her "friend and companion" Mrs. Rose Turnall (see her burial 25 May 1750), whom she made her residuary legatee. She directed to be buried in the Cloisters, and the body of her dau. to be removed and buried with her (see the preceding entry and note). She mentioned her late nephew Mr. Jolly Clapham, deceased, and her niece Judith Graham, but no other relations.

<sup>6</sup> Probably relict of Thomas Smith (see his burial 23 May 1748). The Funeral Book says that she died 14 Feb., aged sixty-seven.

<sup>7</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 12 Mch., aged sixty. See the burial, probably of her daughter, 10 Nov. 1781. The place of burial sufficiently indicates her humble position.

<sup>8</sup> Probably the first wife of Mr. John Hadlow (see his burial 24 Apl. 1755). She died, according to the Funeral Book, 11 May, aged thirty-seven.

 Feb. 24 The most high, puissant and noble Prince, Algernon Seymour, Duke of Somerset, Marquis and Earl of Hartford, Earl of Northumberland and Egremont, etc. :<sup>7</sup> in St. Nicholas's

<sup>2</sup> His monument describes him as of an ancient Herefordshire family, governor of Pendennis Castle, and Colonel of the King's Own regiment of foot, and as having served his country, with great honour, upwards of fifty years, being engaged in most of the memorable actions and sieges in Flanders and Germany during the whole of Q. Anne's wars. He attained the rank of Lieut.-General 2 July 1739. The monument, erected by his only son and executor, Savage Barrell, Esq., was renovated in 1855 by his great-grandson, Captain Justinian Barrell, R.N. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 8 Aug., aged seventy-seven. His will, dated 15 May 1739, with codicils 5 Apl. 1743 and 9 May 1746, was proved 10 Aug. 1749, by his said son Savage, residuary legatee. To his wife Mary he left the use of his houses in York Buildings and in Croydon, co. Surrey, and an annuity of £200 for life, giving her also £400 by the first codicil. To his dau. Ann. unmarried at the date of his will, and then aged about thirty-one, he gave the dividends of £3400 South Sea capital stock, but in the first codicil stated that she had married Captain Charles Rainsford, and gave her £600, and in the second codicil £1000 more. His other bequests were to his niece Anne Forster and her husband Richard Forster, and their children William and Anne, his god-children. The latter, as stated in the first codicil, having married Joseph Higginson, Lieut. and Quartermaster in his regiment, he gave her £600.

<sup>3</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 20 Aug., aged sixty-four. Evidently, from the place of burial, a servant, or minor official about the Abbey.

<sup>5</sup> Dau. of John Catling, bell-ringer, etc. (see his burial 29 May 1762), by Mary his wife (see her burial 2 Feb. 1788). She died, according to the Funeral Book, 8 Dec., aged seven weeks. See her baptism 27 Oct. 1749.

<sup>6</sup> Eldest son of George Hill, of Malmesbury Abbey, Wilts, Esq., and born in Beaufort Buildings, in the Strand, Midx., 10 Feb. 1684-5. He was a dramatic writer of some note, and manager of the Opera house in the Haymarket. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 8 Feb., aged sixty-five, and his son Julius administered to his estate 10 Mch. following. See his wife's burial 30 June 1731. The baptisms of several of his children occur in the parish registers of St. Margaret, Westminster.

<sup>3</sup> Only dau. and heir of John Conduitt, Esq. (see his burial 29 May 1737), by Catharine his wife (see her burial 29 Jan. 1739-40). She married, at St. Andrew's, Holborn, Midx., 8 July 1740, Hon. John Wallop, commonly called Viscount Lyvington, eldest son of John, first Earl of Portsmouth, who died in his father's lifetime, 19 Nov. 1749. Their eldest son John succeeded as second Earl of Portsmouth. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 15 Apl., in her twenty-ninth year, and was buried in her father's grave.

<sup>4</sup> The surname is an error in the Register. The Funeral Book calls her "Turnell," and says that she died 20 May, aged fifty-four. Her will as Rose Turnall, of St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., spinster, dated 21 Apl. 1750, was proved 25 May following, by her "kinsman" Mr. Matthew Turnall, of Thornhaugh, co. Northampton, residuary legatee, and the only relation named in it. She directed to be buried near her late "worthy friend" Mrs. Eleanor Clapham (see her burial 29 Oct. 1748), whose "friend and companion," residuary legatee and executrix, she was.

<sup>5</sup> He was appointed College beadle 29 Mch. 1729. The Funeral Book says that he died 26 June, aged fifty-one. His will, as of St. Margaret's, Westminster, labourer, dated 29 May 1750, was proved 27 June following, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, by Mr. Richard Sayes, of the same parish, to whom he left all his possessions in trust for his four daughters equally, viz., Ann, wife of William Browning, and Martha, Mary, and Alice Ilsley. See the burials of his first wife 14 Mch. 1732-3, his second wife 22 Nov. 1746, and his son by the latter 9 June 1738.

<sup>6</sup> One of the almsmen. According to the Chapter Book, his house was to be repaired, 20 Feb. 1727-8. The Funeral Book says that he died 31 July, aged seventy-eight. In his will, dated 12 June and proved 1 Aug. 1750, he called himself a "clothworker," cut off his disobedient grandson, John Swaseldin, with a shilling, and left all his possessions to Hannah Lucas, widow, who was his executrix.

<sup>7</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 11 Aug., aged fifty-six. One of his name was baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 3 July 1692, as son of Matthew Cotton and Sarah his wife. The place of burial sufficiently indicates his humble position. See the burials, of his dau. 1 Feb. 1739-40, and of his son 16 Oct. 1800.

<sup>3</sup> Relict of Mr. John Stagg, bookseller (see his burial 26 Sep. 1746). She died, according to the Funeral Book, 15 Nov. Her will, dated 6 Nov. 1750, was proved on the 16th of the same month, by Anne, wife of Rev. George Jordan, of Burwash, co. Sussex. Chancellor of Chichester, whom she called her niece and nephew (see the burial of their son 3 Oct. 1736). She bequeathed handsome legacies to her sister Mrs. Susanna Stagg, her nephew John Stagg, her cousin Mrs. Elizabeth Gibbon, and her twelve nieces, daughters of said Rev. George Jordan. The residue of her estate she left to her executrix.

<sup>4</sup> She died, according to the Funeral Book, 19 Nov., aged thirty-seven. Her will, as late of the island of Jamaica, but then of Little Ormond Street, Midx., widow, dated 15 Feb. 1748-9, was proved 1 Dec. 1750, by her friend Elizabeth Calendar, late of Jamaica, but then also of Little Ormond Street, widow, whom she made her residuary legatee. Her only other bequests were an annuity of £70 to her honoured father-in-law Arthur Hassall, of London, and Mary his wife, and £200 to Francis Weaver, of London, Gent., for mourning.

<sup>5</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 25 Dec., in his twenty-first year. See the burial of another of the same name, in the same locality, 17 Aug. 1769.

<sup>6</sup> He died, according to the Funeral Book, 29 Dec. 1750, aged thirty-seven. See the burials in the same locality, 29 Jan. 1732-3, 19 Feb. 1739-40, and 19 May 1764.

<sup>7</sup> One of the minor canons of the Abbey. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 4 Jan., aged twenty-eight. He appears to have matriculated at Oxford, from Christ Church, 11 July 1741, aged eighteen, as son of Edward Jones, of Westminster.

<sup>8</sup> Relict of Hon. Oliver Lambart (see his burial 23 Apl. 1738). She died, according to the Funeral Book, 3 Jan., in her sixty-seventh year. She is usually called in the peerages a "natural daughter" of John Sheffield, first Duke of the county of Buckingham (see his burial 25 Mch. 1721), but had really been, at least before her marriage, his mistress. In his will he provided liberally for his son and two daughters by her, committing the latter to the custody of his own wife. The son, then known as Charles Herbert, subsequently assumed the name of Sheffield, and was created a Baronet. The two daughters, Sophia and Charlotte, appear to have been living 15 Feb. 1742-3, the former having been the wife of Dr. Hunt, and being then wife of Joseph Cox, Esq., when the Duchess of Buckinghamshire, in her will, left her an annuity of £120 for life, in return for her respectful behaviour to her and her deceased son, and for not taking part with the other natural children of the Duke in their suits against her, etc. Mrs. Lambart's will, dated 30 Mch. 1748, was proved 10 Jan. 1750-1 by her dau. Castiliana-Ann Lambart (see her burial 4 Nov. 1758), to whom she left all her estate, except her best diamond ring and a picture of the Duke of Buckingham, which she gave to her son Charles Sheffield, Esq. See the burial of her only other daughter 18 May 1749.

<sup>1</sup> William Hargrave. According to the Funeral Book and his monument, he was Colonel of the Royal English Fusileers, and Governor of Gibraltar, and died 21 Jan., aged seventy-nine, having been fifty-seven years a commissioned officer. He attained the rank of Lieut.-General 1 Feb. 1742-3. The journals of the day say that he died at Bath. He appears to have been baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 26 Dec. 1672, as son of Captain William Hargrave and Ann his wife. His will, dated at Gibraltar 29 June 1749, was proved 6 May 1751, by John Fleming, Esq., whom he described only as a Captain in his regiment, but whom he made his residuary legatee (see his burial 21 Feb. 1764). The will was not proved until after legal proceedings between the executor, of one part, and Richard Hargrave, Esq., nephew by brother and one of the next of kin of the testator, and Martha Rounds, then or late wife of William Rounds, Ann Laurence, widow, Elizabeth Hargrave, spinster, and Charles Hargrave, nieces and nephew by another brother and the four other next of kin of the testator, of the other part, neither of whom was named in the will. He bequeathed to Mrs. Jane Hargrave, relict of his "relation" John Hargrave, £2000, and to Richard Hargrave, brother to John Hargrave, a lieutenant in Pulteney's regiment, £3000. His other bequests were as follows: to Mary Willett, sister of Francis Willett, hosier, late in York Buildings, £300; to Elizabeth Redburn, formerly his servant, £300; to Hannah Clenahan, dau. of Mr. Clenahan, town-major of Gibraltar, £500; to James, son of James Montresor, engineer at Gibraltar, £500; to his godson William, son of Colonel Adlaiorn, £500; to John Donaldson, captain in his regiment, £1000; and to the Foundling Hospital £1000. He appears never to have been married. The journals of the day announce the death, 16 Nov. 1763, of the "relict of the late General Hargrave;" but that lady was Jane, widow of Major John Hargrave, chief engineer of the Island of Minorca, the same to whom the General bequeathed £2000, as the relict of his "relation."

<sup>3</sup> According to the Funeral Book and his monument, he died 17 Mch., aged sixty-seven, being Colonel of the 36th regiment of foot, and having served as a commissioned officer forty-four years. He attained the rank of Major-General in Sep. 1747. The journals of the day say that he died at Bath. His will, as "Colonel of one of H.M.'s regiments of foot late commanded by the Hon. Col. Humphrey Bland," dated 6 Mch. 1741-2, was proved 22 Mch. 1750-1, by his nephew John Fleming, Esq. (see his burial 21 Feb. 1764), son of his brother Robert Fleming, whom he also appointed an executor, but who died before him. He left handsome legacies to numerous friends and brother officers, and to his own relations as follows: to his three brothers, Robert, John, and Richard Fleming, each £350; to his three sisters, Margaret Bennett, widow, Dorothy Knott, widow, and Catharine, wife of Adam Guthrey, each £200; to his nephew Phibbs, son of his late sister Susanna Phibbs, deceased, £50; to his nephews Matthew and Fleming Phibbs, sons of his late sister Anna Phibbs, deceased, each £40, and to their eldest sister £50; to the children of his late brother Francis Fleming, deceased, £150; to the widow of his late brother Archibald Fleming £30; to the children of his late niece Elizabeth Jennings, dau. of his sister Margaret Bennett £50; to the dau. of his late brother William Fleming, deceased, £50; to his nephew Robert Bennett, son of his said sister Margaret, £50; to his niece, wife of Lieut. Fleury, and her sister, late Mr. Everard's widow, each £25; and £350, and the residue of his estate, to his said nephew and executor, Lieut. John Fleming, of the Royal regiment of English

Fusileers commanded by Major-General Hargrave, then at Gibraltar. He appears to have died unmarried.

<sup>1</sup> Eldest child of K. George II. (see his burial 11 Nov. 1760), by Q. Caroline (see her burial 17 Dec. 1737). He was born at Hanover 20 Jan. 1706-7, and created Prince of Wales 8 Jan. 1728-9. By his wife, the Princess Augusta (see her burial 15 Feb. 1772), he was father of K. George III. See the burials of his other children, 14 Sep. 1759, 4 Jan. 1766, 3 Nov. 1767, 21 May 1768, and 28 Sep. 1790, and of his illegitimate son 26 Feb. 1735-6. He died 31 Mch., according to modern chronology, the date in the text being O.S.

<sup>2</sup> The Funeral Book gives his age as thirty. He was born the 9th, and baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 16 Oct. 1720, as son of Richard and Mary Kettlewell. From the place of burial it is evident that he occupied some humble position about the Abbey.

<sup>3</sup> The Funeral Book gives her age as fifty-six, and says that she was "a servant maid of Mr. John Rice, the porter" (see his burial 5 Feb. 1768).

<sup>5</sup> Dau. of Thomas Yates, Esq., M.P. for Chichester from 1734 to 1741, and relict of Rev. Thomas Manningham, D.D., Prebendary of Westminster, and Rector of Slinfold and Selsey, co. Sussex (eldest son of Thomas, Bishop of Chichester), who was buried at Slinfold 5 May 1750. They were married at Warnham, Sussex, 13 July 1713. The Funeral Book gives her age as sixty-two, and says that she was buried in her daughter's grave (see her burial 12 Nov. 1733). Her will, dated 27 Apl. 1751, was proved 6 July following, by her son Rev. Thomas Manningham, of Green, co. Sussex, to whom she left all her estate.

<sup>6</sup> Relict of Lieut.-General Joshua Guest (see his burial 16 Oct. 1747). The Funeral Book gives her age as sixty-four, and the journals of the day say that she died at Acton, Midx. Her will, dated 3 Nov. 1749, with codicils 17 Nov. 1749 and 26 Mch. 1750, was proved 26 Sep. 1751, by Gwyn Vaughan, Esq., Mr. John Mayer, and Mrs. Sarah Kendall. Besides the bequests to her husband's relations (see the note to his burial), her legacies to her own relations were as follows: to her cousin Magdalen Leigh, of Brindle, co. Lancaster, £200, and to her eldest son Richard £200; to Rev. Edward Leigh £400, and to Cornet John Leigh, in General Howard's regiment, what he owed her; to the children of her cousin Sarah Blacklidge, dau. of Mr. Thomas Garrard, of Brindle, £500; to her cousin Sarah, widow of Thomas Leivesley, living near Brindle, or to her children if she were dead, £400; to her cousin Sarah, wife of Mr. Robert Winstanley, of Preston, co. Lancaster, £1200, and to said Mr. Winstanley £400 in trust for his said wife's sister, formerly Ann Garrard. Her other bequests to friends, godchildren, various charities, etc., were numerous and considerable, and the residue of her estate she gave to her executrix, Mrs. Sarah Kendall.

<sup>1</sup> Grandson of K. Chas. II. and Ellen Gwynne, and eldest son of Charles Beauclerk, first Duke of St. Albans (see his burial 20 May 1726), by Lady Diana de Vere, eldest dau. and eventually sole heir of Aubrey, twentieth and last Earl of Oxford. He was born 6 Apl. 1696, and succeeded as second Duke of St. Albans. He was also Governor of Windsor Castle, Lord Warden of the Forests, Master Falconer of England, a Lord of the Bedchamber, etc. See the burials, of his wife Nov. 1752, of his brother 2 Mch. 1732-3, and of his only son 11 Mch. 1786.

<sup>4</sup> The celebrated clock and watch maker, and also distinguished for various mechanical inventions, among which is said to be the Orrery. He appears to have been born, at Rigg, in the parish of Kirkcubright, co. Cumberland, 7 July 1673, of parents who were members of the Society of Friends, and was apprenticed in London, 2 July 1688, to Thomas Aske, clockmaker. He was admitted freeman of the city 30 Sep. 1695, and became Master of the Clockmakers' Company 24 Sep. 1722. He married Elizabeth, dau. of James Tompion, brother of the celebrated Thomas Tompion (see his burial 25 Nov. 1713), whose executor he was. His will, dated 23 June 1747, was proved 18 Nov. 1751, by Samuel Barkley and Thomas Colley, whom he merely described as living in the house with him. His bequests was as follows : to his wife Elizabeth, one half of his personal estate ; to his nephews Christopher and Richard Pearson, sons of his late sister Isabella Mitchelson, deceased, each £100 ; to Mary Puckeridge, whose maiden name was Hall, twenty guineas ; to his servant maid Elizabeth Morris twenty guineas ; to the poor of the Clockmakers' Company £20 ; to each of his executors thirty guineas : and the residue of his estate to his niece Ann Graham, dau. of his late brother Richard Graham, deceased. He appears to have left no issue.

<sup>5</sup> Third but second surviving son of Sir John Temple, Kt., by Jane, dau. of Sir Abraham Yarnor, of Dublin, Kt., and brother of Henry Temple, first Baron Temple and Viscount Palmerston. He was baptized 28 Mch. 1680, and therefore aged about seventy-two at his death. His will, as of St. James, Westminster, dated 7 Feb. 1742-3, with a codicil 6 Mch. 1745-6, was proved 22 Feb. 1752, by his relict Elizabeth (see her burial 9 May 1772). The peerages usually state that he had eleven children, and that four daughters survived him ; but, according to his will, only one dau., Mary, was living at its date, and she appears to have been buried at St. James, Westminster, 18 Apl. 1745. He evidently survived all his children, and directed that his estate should go, after his wife's death, to his nephews.

- 1752 Feb. 24 Deborah Southey;<sup>1</sup> died the 19th: in the South Cloister, near Mrs. Waldron's monument.
- Feb. 27 The Hon. John Wineyard, Lieut.-General of H. M.'s Forces;<sup>2</sup> died the 20th: in the middle aisle.
- March 16 Mrs. Elizabeth Ebbutt,<sup>3</sup> died the 12th: in the East Cloister.
- March 27 Mrs. Hellen Shrider;<sup>4</sup> died the 21st: in the South Cloister.
- April 15 Alexander Small, Esq.;<sup>5</sup> died the 7th: in the North Cross.

(see her burial 25 Feb. 1736-7). The Funeral Book and his monument give his age as sixty-four. In the journals of the period he was called, in 1746, Lieut.-Colonel in the Guards, and at his death Colonel of the regiment of Invalids. His will, as Tomkyns Wardour, of St. George's, Hanover Square, Esq., dated 12 Feb. 1750-1, was proved 16 Mch. 1752, by his relict Elizabeth (see her burial 30 June 1767). See his brother's burial 26 July 1746.

<sup>2</sup> Son of John Wynyard, Esq. (see his first marriage 14 Aug. 1655, and note thereto), by Ann, probably his third wife, and baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 28 Mch. 1682. He was sometime Colonel of a regiment of foot, and many years Commander-in-chief at Gibraltar and Fort Mahon, and attained the rank of Lieut.-General in Sep. 1747. The Funeral Book and his monument give his age as sixty-nine. His will, as of St. Margaret's, Westminster, Esq., dated 27 May 1751, was proved 25 Feb. 1752, by his kinsman John Wenham, Esq., and Col. Thomas Forth. He bequeathed all his real and personal estate to his son William, then about nineteen years of age, subject to a payment of £5000 to his dau. Mary when twenty-one or married, and of £200 per annum to his wife Mary, with a suitable provision for a child then unborn. If all his children should die without issue, his estate was to go to his said kinsman John Wenham. The son William (who also became a Lieut.-General, and died Jan. 1789) administered to the estate of his said mother, Mary Wynyard (whose maiden name was Maxwell), 13 Aug. 1779, but she appears to have been buried at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 6 Dec. 1776. The dau. Mary married, 8 Aug. 1756, John West, second Earl Delawarr, and died 27 Oct. 1784. The unborn child named in the will was baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 28 Nov. 1751, as Amelia-Elizabeth. Queen Charlotte appointed her, 27 Jan. 1816, a sister of St. Katherine's Hospital, and she died 17 Apl. 1832. On her monument in the Chapel in Regent's Park she is called Emily-Elizabeth, and her age erroneously given as seventy-nine, she being in her eighty first year.

<sup>3</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died in her seventy-seventh year. Letters of administration to her estate, as of St. Margaret's, Westminster, widow, were granted, 9 Apl. 1752, to Elizabeth Heylyn, spinster, her grand-daughter and next of kin (see her burial 2 Apl. 1759). She was mother of Elizabeth, second wife of Rev. John Heylin, D.D., Prebendary of Westminster (see her burial 13 June 1747).

<sup>4</sup> Eldest child of Thomas Jenings, one of the choir of the Abbey (see his burial 29 Mch. 1734), by Elizabeth, his first wife (see her burial 16 July 1720). See her own baptism 1 May 1689. She married, at the Chapel Royal, Whitehall, 6 Apl. 1708, Christopher Shrider, the celebrated organ-maker, to whom she was second wife, he having previously married a dau. of his master, the still more celebrated Bernard Schmidt. He was buried at St. Anne's, Westminster, 31 May 1751. Their son Christopher, who administered to his estate 4 Sep. 1754, succeeded to his father's business, and died 16 Oct. 1763. See the burials of her other children, 3 June 1709. 12 Dec. 1710, 18 Jan. 1712-13, 15 Mch. 1717-18, and 3 Oct. 1723.

<sup>5</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died in his seventy-eighth year, and the journals of the day describe him as formerly an eminent surgeon in York Buildings. See the note to the burial of Mrs. Anne Smyth, 7 Nov. 1742, whose residuary legatee and executor he was. His will, as of Chelsea, Midx., Esq., dated 2 Apl. 1751, was proved 9 Apl. 1752, by Robert Ord, of Lincoln's Inn, Esq., Joshua Geekie, of the Inner Temple, Gent., and Alexander Small, of York Buildings, Westminster, Gent., to whom he bequeathed his manors of Clifton and Hardmead, co. Bucks, and his real and personal estate generally, in trust for the purposes of his will. To his wife Martha he gave the use of his house, etc., at Chelsea, and £600 per annum, which was to be reduced to £200 if she married again. Other considerable bequests were to his daughters, Mary Adair and Sophia Churchill, his brother Thomas Small, his sister Agnes Smith, of Dundee, and her dau. Euphania Chesholme, and their children. If his son Alexander, then not twelve years of age, died without issue, his estates were to revert to his dau. Sophia Churchill and her issue, with remainder to his dau. Mary Adair, her sons William and Alexander Adair, William Chesholme, son of his said niece Euphania Chesholme, of Dundee, and said Alexander Small, of York Buildings, surgeon, as tenants in common. To the last named he left all his chirurgical instruments, medicines, etc., in his house in York Buildings, but did not state any relationship between them.

<sup>2</sup> His monument gave his age as three years and seven months, and the Funeral Book says that the fees were paid by "Philip-Jacob, Baron de Soesdyk van Cloon, Lord of Rhywnick." See his sister's burial 30 June 1754.

<sup>4</sup> Son of Rev. Joseph Gascoigne, Vicar of Enfield, Midx., by Anne, dau. and heir of Francis Theobald, of Barking, co. Suffolk, by Anne, dau. of Robert Nightingale, eldest son of Sir Thomas Nightingale, first Bart. of Newport Pond, co. Essex. He assumed the name of Nightingale on becoming heir to his kinsman Sir Robert Nightingale, fifth Bart. The Funeral Book, quoting his coffin-plate, says that he was baptized 19 Dec. 1695, and died 16 July 1752, as in the text, but the latter date is given on his monument as 20 July. The inscription contains other errors, due probably to the fact that the monument was not erected until many years after, in obedience to the will of his son, when accuracy was not obtained, even if sought. He died at Enfield. His will, dated 25 Oct. 1731, shortly after the death of his wife, was proved 3 Aug. 1752, by his eldest son Washington Gascoigne-Nightingale, Esq. See his wife's burial 26 Aug. 1731, and note thereto.

<sup>5</sup> Dau. of John Catling, one of the sacristis (see his burial 29 May 1762), by Mary his wife (see her burial 2 Feb. 1788). The Funeral Book gives her age as eleven months, and says that she died 28 July, and was buried near her sister Anne (see her burial 9 Dec. 1749). See her own baptism 21 Aug. 1751.

November 1st, 1752, and was buried in the grave of her husband, the late most noble Charles, Duke of St. Albans: in St. John's, otherwise Norris's Chapel.

- 1754 Jan. 15 Erasmus Lewis, Esq., of Abercothy in Carmarthenshire;<sup>6</sup> died the 10th: in the East Cloister.

Elizabeth, dau. of Robert Breton, of Norton, co. Northampton, Esq. She was born, according to the Funeral Book, 6 July 1707. She married, about 10 Dec. 1722 (Spec. Mar. Lic. Fac.), Charles Beaucherk, who succeeded as second Duke of St. Albans (see his burial 3 Aug. 1751). Her younger sister, Charlotte, had a special license the same day to marry her husband's younger brother, William Beaucherk (see his burial 2 Mch. 1732-3, and note thereto). See the burial of her only son 11 Mch. 1786.

<sup>1</sup> Only son of Peter Eilers, Esq., by Anne, dau. of Gervas Price, Esq. (see his burial 15 Sep. 1687). See his sister's burial 26 Oct. 1717, and note thereto. He was a J.P. for Middlesex, and at one time possessor of a large property in Chelsea, but is said to have been ruined by his connection with the South Sea Company. The Funeral Book gives his age as sixty-five. His will, dated 30 June 1746, was proved 10 Apl. 1753, by his son George Eilers. See the burials, of his wife 13 June 1727, of his daughter, Ann Poston, 11 Aug. 1759, and probably of his sister 1 Jan. 1693-4.

<sup>2</sup> Third but only surviving son of Henry, fourth Earl of Clarendon and second Earl of Rochester, by Jane his wife (see her burial 1 June 1725). The Funeral Book, quoting his coffin-plate, says that he was born 28 Nov. 1710, and that he was buried "with his Bowels and Heart in two different cases, his heart in a 3 square Box." He died at Paris, from the effects of a fall from his horse. His father died later in the same year, when the titles became extinct.

<sup>3</sup> The Funeral Book calls him the son of William Kelynge and Henrietta-Maria his wife, and says that he died 7 July, in his thirtieth year, and was buried in his mother's grave (see her burial 16 Nov. 1746, and note thereto). His relict Elizabeth administered to his estate 23 July 1753. Her will, dated 20 Feb. 1757, was proved 22 Mch. following, by his father, as executor in trust for his only child, Louisa.

<sup>4</sup> The Funeral Book gives his age as fifty-nine. See the burial, probably of his wife, 17 Oct. 1745. He proved the will of his son Thomas, a mariner, 5 Apl. 1746, and was then described as of Westminster, waterman.

<sup>6</sup> The Funeral Book gives his age as eighty-three. See his wife's burial 25 Nov. 1736. George Stepney (see his burial 22 Sep. 1707), and Dorothy Stepney (see her burial 6 Nov. 1724), called him their cousin. The journals of the period say that he was secretary to the Earl of Oxford, when he was Secretary of State to Q. Anne. His will, as of Abercothy, co. Carmarthen, dated in "Cork Street, London." 28 Feb. 1742-3, was proved 17 Jan. 1754, by Elizabeth Lewis, spinster, whom he called his cousin, then living with him, and to whom he bequeathed £200 per annum for life (see her burial 10 Nov. 1762). His bequests to his relations were as follows:—to his brother George Lewis, and his six sons and three daughters, each £500, and subsequently to George, one of the sons, £1000 more; to his brother Bernard £200; to his sister Griflies £200, to her only dau. £500, to her son John Griffies his estate in Lan y Piensant, and to his cousin Anne Lewis, who lived with her, £200; to his cousin Juliana Sowersby £20 per annum for life; and to his kinswoman Mary Lewis, then widow of John Bartlett, and living at Tenby, £100. His estates in various Welsh parishes he left to trustees to the use of James Morgan, of Lincoln's Inn, Esq., for life, with remainder to his sons Charles, George, James, and William, and their heirs male, in succession, and, failing their issue, then to all his nephews and nieces equally. Among other bequests to his personal friends, including several of the nobility, was one of £100 to Mr. Pope, another of the same amount to Dr. Richard Mead, and an annuity of £40 for life to Mrs. Lucy Cleland, widow of William Cleland, then living in a court near St. James's Place.

<sup>3</sup> Eldest dau. of Charles Savage, of St. Olave's, Hart Street, London, merchant (buried there 13 Jan. 1729-30), by Ellen his wife (also buried there 23 Oct. 1745). She married, at St. Peter-le-Poor, London, 12 Nov. 1719, Rev. Hugh Boulter, D.D., then Dean of Christ Church, three days later consecrated Bishop of Bristol, and enthroned Archbishop of Armagh 18 Nov. 1724 (see his burial 12 Nov. 1742). Her monument gives her age as sixty. Her will, dated 20 May 1743, was proved 2 Mch. 1754, by her brothers Charles and Samuel Savage. Her bequests were as follows: to her mother Ellen Savage, her brothers Charles and Samuel Savage, her sisters Ellen Norris and Rebecca Merrett, and her niece Ellen Nerrett, each £100; to her nephews, Charles-Savage Norris, Robert Norris, and John Norris, each £1000; to her cousins, Elizabeth Mitchell, Ellen Marshall, Elizabeth Bradbury, Elizabeth Farrar, and Elinor Marshall, each £300; and the residue of her estate equally to her said two brothers Charles and Samuel, appointing them joint executors. She left no issue.

<sup>5</sup> Dau. of Thomas Wright, one of the bell-ringers (see his burial 29 May 1762), by Mary his wife (see her burial 4 June 1759). The Funeral Book gives her age as nineteen months, and says that she was buried in her sister's grave (see her burial 11 May 1752). See her own baptism 5 Oct. 1752.

<sup>2</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 26 June, aged two years and seven months, and was buried with her brother (see his burial 19 May 1752). The fees were paid by the same person.

<sup>3</sup> Eldest dau. and coheir of Hon. Henry Thynne (only son of Thomas, first Viscount Weymouth, but died in his father's lifetime), by Grace, dau. and heir of Sir George Strode, of Lewston, co. Dorset. She married, about 1713, Algernon, afterwards seventh Duke of Somerset (see his burial 24 Feb. 1749-50). She died, according to the Funeral Book, at Percy Lodge, near Colnbrook, Bucks, aged fifty-five. See the burials, of her only son 6 July 1745, and of her only daughter, the Duchess of Northumberland, 18 Dec. 1776.

<sup>4</sup> The Funeral Book gives her age as seventy-five. See the burial of Lewis Richard 28 July 1731, who, according to his monument, was her son. Her will, as of St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., widow, dated 28 Oct. 1751, was proved 4 Sept. 1754, by her nephew Daniel Payan, residuary legatee. Her bequests were as follows: to each of her nephews and nieces residing in France, or elsewhere out of England, one shilling; to her cousin Andrew Lagrange, of Lincoln's Inn, £10 for mourning: to Elizabeth Sigalas, widow, or her dau. Jane, £10; to the poor of the French church in Leicester Fields £10; and to the French charity school belonging to the church in Spring Gardens £10. She signed the will "Kat Lauron."

<sup>8</sup> Relict of Antonio Lucera (see his burial 13 Sep. 1747, and the note thereto). The Funeral Book gives her age as fifty-eight, and says that she was buried in her husband's grave. See the burial of her daughter, Mrs. Esther Hinton, 11 Oct. 1762.

<sup>9</sup> Wife of Mr. William Spring (see his burial 29 June 1757). The Funeral Book says that she died 14 Mch., in her sixty-ninth year, and was buried in her son's grave (see his burial 28 Aug. 1747). See also the burials of her daughters, Mrs. Elizabeth Mountain 27 Sep. 1757, and Mrs. Sarah West 26 Jan. 1784.

<sup>2</sup> He was also one of the sacristis of the Abbey, having been appointed, according to the Chapter Book, 20 June 1732. The Funeral Book gives his age as forty-three. His will, as of St. John the Evangelist, Westminster, Gent., dated 28 Mch. 1754, was proved 10 May 1755, by his relict Mary, to whom he gave all his estate, including his house in Marsham Street, in that parish. See the burial, probably of his first wife, 14 May 1749.

<sup>3</sup> He was sworn a Gentleman of the Chapel Royal 15 Dec. 1736. The Funeral Book gives his age as sixty-six, and says that he was buried on the right hand of his wife (see her burial 6 Feb. preceding). His will, as of Smith Square, Westminster, Esq., dated 23 Jan. 1755, shortly before his wife's death, was proved 6 May following, by Richard Buck, of Lincoln's Inn, Esq., to whom he gave the reversion of all his real and personal estate, after his wife's death, including his lands at Simondsbury, in co. Dorset. The only relation he named was his sister-in-law Jane [blank], dau. of Robert May, formerly of Exeter, bookseller, deceased (who was perhaps also his wife's father), to whom he bequeathed £50, or to her children if she were dead. He left £50 each to the Westminster Infirmary and the Foundling Hospital.

<sup>4</sup> Son and heir of Sir John Chardin, a French émigré, and celebrated traveller, who was knighted by K. Charles II. 17 Mch. 1681-2 (Le Neve calls him a "merchant and jeweller"), by Esther, dau. of M. de Lardinière Peigné, counsellor in the parliament of Rouen. He was baptized at Greenwich, Kent, 6 Oct. 1687. Evelyn says, under this date: "I was godfather to Sir John Chardin's son, christened at Greenwich Church, named John: the Earl of Bath and Countess of Carlisle the other sponsors." He was of the Inner Temple, and was created a Baronet 28 May 1720, but died unmarried, and the title became extinct. The Funeral Book gives his age as sixty-seven. His will, as of Kempton Park, Midx., dated 18 July 1747, with several codicils, the last in 1753, when he described himself as of St. George's, Hanover Square, was proved 28 Apl. 1755, by his nephew Sir Philip Musgrave, sixth Bart. of Edenhall, co. Cumberland, son of his sister Julia, who was his principal heir. The only other relations he named were his cousin Henry Chere (afterwards created a Baronet), his nephew James Morgan, of Lincoln's Inn, Esq., his wife Catharine (whom he called his niece), and their sons, James and Chardin Morgan.

<sup>5</sup> According to the Chapter Book, he was appointed a bell-ringer 3 May 1748, but shortly after resigned, and was appointed a verger 9 Nov. in the same year. The Funeral Book says that he was buried in his aunt's grave (see her burial 28 Oct. 1748). In her will she called him "cousin," and described him as a servant of the Bishop of Rochester. He was evidently a nephew of her husband (see his burial 20 Nov. 1744).

<sup>6</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 26 Sep., in his sixty-fifth year, and was buried with his brother Mr. William Smith (see his burial 12 Sep. 1738). His will, as of the parish of Holy Trinity, Kingston-upon-Hull, co. York, dated 30 Jan. 1755, was proved 20 Oct. following, by his sister Elizabeth Smith, spinster (see her burial 27 May 1760), to whom he bequeathed £2000, and the residue of his estate. His other bequests were £1000 to his niece Frances Meyrick, dau. of Mr. Edmund Meyrick, deceased (see his burial 27 June 1742), £1000 to Captain Stephen Smith, and £500 to Mrs. Elizabeth Blake. See the burial of his other sister, Frances Meyrick, 24 Sep. 1734.

<sup>1</sup> He was appointed Chanter in Feb. 1746-7. The Funeral Book says that he died 9 Nov. aged forty-seven. He appears to have been also connected with St. Paul's Cathedral. His will, as of St. Paul's College, London, clerk, dated 3 July 1753, was proved 21 Nov. 1755, by his relict Sarah, to whom he gave all his estate for her life, with remainder to his daughter Sarah Lloyd.

<sup>3</sup> Son of Joseph Wilcocks, who matriculated at Oxford, from Merton College, as a servitor, 11 Apl. 1600, was B.A. 4 Dec. 1663, M.A. 15 June 1666, was licensed to practise medicine 14 July 1668, and was of the city of Bristol in 1691-2. He matriculated at Oxford, from St. John's College, 25 Feb. 1691-2, aged eighteen, and was B.A., as of Magdalen College, 31 Oct. 1695, M.A. 28 June 1698, and B.D. and D.D. 16 May 1709. He was sometime Chaplain to the English Factory at Lisbon, and was installed Prebendary of Westminster 4 Mch. 1720-1, Bishop of Gloucester 22 Dec. 1721, Dean of Westminster 2 July 1731, and was translated to the see of Rochester, being confirmed 20 Aug. 1731. He died, according to the Funeral Book and his monument, 8 Feb., aged eighty-three. His will, dated 20 Apl. 1753, was proved 16 Mch. 1756, by his apparently only surviving child, Joseph Wilcocks (see his burial 31 Dec. 1791), to whom he left his entire estate, except certain sums to various charities. See the burials, of his wife 1 Apl. 1725, and of his daughter 16 Dec. 1729, and the baptism of another son 19 Mch. 1724-5.

<sup>4</sup> He was once Mayor of Worcester, and M.P. for that city from 1727 to 1734. The Funeral Book gives his age as eighty-eight. See the burials, of his wife 4 Oct. 1733, and of his daughters, 11 May 1748, 3 Apl. 1773, and 16 Dec. 1780.—“ Sir Richard Lane, M.P. for the city of Worcester, having lately presented her Majesty with a piece of superfine scarlet cloth, her Majesty was graciously pleased to accept the same, and hath since given him in return five large medals of very great value, besides their weight in gold, amounting to £100” (Whitehall Evening Post, 15 June 1732). These medals passed into the possession of one of his daughters, who gave them at her death to Edward Willes, Esq., one of the Judges of the King's Bench.

<sup>5</sup> The celebrated engraver. He was born in the parish of St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., in the latter part of the year 1684, or early in 1685, being, according to the Funeral Book, in his seventy-third year at his death, which occurred 24 July. His father, who is said to have been a tailor, was a Roman Catholic, and he himself adhered rigidly to the faith of that sect. His will, dated 11 Jan. 1755, was proved 26 July 1756, by his relict Margaret (see her burial 23 Mch. 1776). He left legacies to his brothers Anthony and James Vertue (the latter died in 1765); the children of his brother Peter Vertue, late of Chelmsford, co. Essex, dancing-master, deceased; his wife's sisters, Philippa Evans and Mrs. Ann Nugent, widow; and to numerous friends. He also mentioned his late sister, Ann Chandler, deceased. The residue of his estate he left to his wife, directing that his collection of books, pictures, curiosities, etc., should be sold.

descended from the Kings of Ireland. One Arthur O'Kyffe, of "Ballyingurke," co. Cork, Gent. (perhaps his father), was admitted to Gray's Inn 21 Feb. 1682-3, and he himself appears to have been admitted to Lincoln's Inn 20 Oct. 1738, and to Gray's Inn 24 Oct. 1740. His will as Arthur O'Keefe (so signed, but he was described as "Arthur O'Kyffe otherwise O'Keefe"), of Bedford Row, London, dated 7 Jan. 1742-3, and signed and declared 24 June following, was proved 25 Nov. 1756, by his relict Isabella (see her burial 5 Oct. 1762), to whom he gave his mansion-house, park, lands, etc., in Heathfield, co. Sussex, and all his other real and personal estate absolutely. In a subsequent record of administration he was described as formerly of Bedford Row, but late of Bailey Park, co. Sussex. See his mother's burial 12 Nov. 1763.

<sup>3</sup> An almsman, whose house was to be repaired, 6 Mch. 1730-1, according to an order in the Chapter Book. He was baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 21 Feb. 1678-9, as son of John and Mary Kettlewell. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 9 Apl., in his seventy-eighth year. His will, as of St. Margaret's, Westminster, waterman, dated 21 Jan. 1754, was proved 26 Apl. 1757, by his dau. Elizabeth, wife of John Hunt (see her burial 2 Oct. 1793), to whom he left all his effects, except one shilling each to his sons Richard and John Kettlewell, and his daughter Mary Sharlock. See the burials, of his wife 8 Feb. 1736-7, and his son 23 Mch. 1793.

<sup>4</sup> Eldest and only surviving son of John Methuen, Esq. (see his burial 17 Sep. 1708), by Mary, dau. of Seacole Chevers, of Cumerford, Wilts, Esq. He was at various times ambassador to Portugal, Spain, and Savoy, a lord of the Admiralty and of the Treasury, Principal Secretary of State, Comptroller and Treasurer of the Household, etc., and was created a Knight of the Bath in 1725. He died unmarried, 11 Apl., according to his monument, in his eighty-fifth year. The newspapers of the day say that he died worth £250,000, of which £50,000 in guineas were found at his house, "tied up in different bags, and sealed, which had lain so, without any interest, many years." See his sister's burial 29 Apl. 1711.

<sup>5</sup> He appears to have been a son of Alexander Walker, Esq., one of the Judges of the island of Barbados. The Funeral Book says that he died 23 May, aged sixty. His will, as of the parish of St. Thomas, Barbados, dated 19 May 1742, was proved 21 Feb. 1758, by his dau. Newton, whom he described as his only child, and a minor, but who was then the wife of John Walter, Esq., to whom he bequeathed his entire estate, with remainder in succession to his brother William Walker, of St. Peter's, Barbados, his brother-in-law Capt. Thomas Walker, and his cousin George Walker. He also mentioned his brother-in-law Capt. John Yeamans, who appears to have married his sister Mary.

<sup>6</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 25 June, aged eighty-six, and was buried with his wife (see her burial 18 Mch. 1755). His will, in which he described himself as a citizen and goldsmith of London, and an ancient freeman of that city, dated 25 Mch. 1755, was proved 25 June 1757, by his son-in-law George West (see his burial 28 Aug. 1773). He gave half his personal estate equally to his two daughters, Sarah West (see her burial 26 Jan. 1784) and Elizabeth Mountain (see her burial 29 Sep. 1757), stating that he had given each £500 on their respective marriages with Mr. George West and Mr. Thomas Mountain (see his burial 12 May 1762). The other half he gave absolutely to his said dau. Sarah and her husband, they paying his sister Mary Creswell, of Nottingham, widow, five guineas per annum during her life. See his son's burial 28 Aug. 1747.

<sup>1</sup> Dau. of Mr. William Spring (see the preceding entry, and note thereto), by Dorcas his wife (see her burial 18 Mch. 1755), and wife of Mr. Thomas Mountain (see his burial 12 May 1762). The Funeral Book says that she died 23 Sep., aged thirty-three, and was buried on the right hand of her said father.

<sup>2</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 25 Dec., aged sixty. The place of burial sufficiently indicates his humble position.—John Beebe and Elizabeth Bennett were married at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 19 May 1729.

<sup>3</sup> Third dau. and fourth child of K. George II. (see his burial 11 Nov. 1760), by Q. Caroline (see her burial 17 Dec. 1737). She was born at Hanover 10 June 1713, and died at St. James's Palace, unmarried. Her will, dated 18 Apl. 1741, was proved 2 Jan. 1758, by her sister the Princess Amelia. She merely bequeathed her jewels, etc., to her brother and sisters.

<sup>4</sup> One of the choir of the Abbey and of St. Paul's, and a Gentleman of the Chapel Royal. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 6 Jan., aged fifty-one. His relict Elizabeth, to whom he left all his estate, proved his will two days after his burial. See the burials, of his first wife 19 Apl. 1739, and of his dau. by her 6 Mch. 1737-8. One of his name, perhaps his father, was buried at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 28 Jan. 1749-50.

<sup>5</sup> Relict of John French, verger, etc. (see his burial 21 June 1725), to whom she was married, at Christ Church, London, 12 Sep. 1700, as Mary English, of Bromley, co. Kent. In the marriage allegation at the Faculty Office, dated the same day, she was described as a spinster, and was to marry with the consent of Thomas English, of St. Margaret's, Westminster. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 30 Jan., aged eighty-five, and was buried in her husband's grave. Her will, as of St. John the Evangelist, Westminster, dated 13 May 1749, was proved 31 Jan. 1758, by her nephew John English, of Woolwich, Kent, whom she made her residuary legatee. She bequeathed £300 to her brother Roger English, £100 to his dau. Mrs. Elizabeth Gatcomb, and £100 to her nephew Mr. Richard Ashe. See the baptisms of her children 24 May 1704, 17 Jan. 1705-6, 11 Jan. 1707-8, 4 Aug. 1710, 9 Dec. 1712, 30 May 1714, and 29 Dec. 1717, and their burials, 6 Nov. 1710, 11 Aug. and 17 Dec 1713, 2 Mch. 1719-20, 15 July 1735, 5 Jan. 1736-7, and 21 July and 14 Aug. 1744. She survived all her children.

<sup>6</sup> Wife of Richard Parsons, College beadle (see his burial 27 Jan. 1761). She died, according to the Funeral Book, 16 Feb., aged sixty-six.

<sup>7</sup> Dau. of Thomas Jett, of Gray's Inn, Esq., one of the Auditors of the Exchequer, by his first wife, Anne (see her burial 29 Apl. 1721, and note thereto). She was baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 23 June 1704. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 5 Apl. aged fifty-three. Her will, as of St. Margaret's, Westminster, spinster, dated 20 July 1757, was proved 10 Apl. 1758, by her uncle William Lowndes, Esq., to whom and to his family she left all her estate. The will contains the following curious direction: "I do also desire that I may have no shroud on, only the shift that I have on and the sheet which covers me to be put into my coffin."

<sup>8</sup> Wife of Thomas Grant, son of Thomas Grant, College butler, etc. (see his burial 15 Aug. 1748). The Funeral Book says that she died 14 Apl, aged twenty-nine, and was buried on the left hand of her said father-in-law. Her husband was baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 20 Apl. 1729.

<sup>3</sup> Mother of William Warick (see his burial 4 Aug. 1740). She died, according to the Funeral Book, 13 May, aged eighty-six. Her will, as Alice Warick, of St. Margaret's, Westminster, widow, dated 10 Oct. 1749, was proved 18 May 1758, by Alice Bull, spinster, sole legatee, whom she described as dau. of her brother Richard Bull, of Stoke-Albany, co. Northampton, millwright. See the burials, probably of her grandchildren, 25 June 1731 and 17 Oct. 1745.

<sup>4</sup> Dau. of Mrs. Elizabeth Illingworth (see her burial 6 Feb. 1760). The Funeral Book says that she died 4 June. Her will, as of Queen Square, Westminster, spinster, dated 14 Nov. 1757, was proved 21 June 1758, by her said mother, a widow, and by her sister Zenoby-Ann Bowker, widow, to the latter of whom she bequeathed all her real estate, and half the residue of her personalty. Except certain jewels, etc., to her nieces Ann, Elizabeth, and Maria Bowker, she gave the other half of her personalty to her mother.

<sup>5</sup> Wife of John Lacam, Esq. (see his burial 8 Mch. 1759). She died, according to the Funeral Book, 21 Aug., in her forty-fifth year, and was buried in a lead coffin.

<sup>6</sup> Son of Samuel Hayward, of the city of Gloucester, by Deborah, dau. of Thomas Pengry, of the same city. He matriculated at Oxford, from Brasenose College, 24 Mch. 1701-2, aged sixteen, and was B.A. 16 Oct. 1705 and M.A. 10 July 1708. The journals of the day say that he was for many years treasurer of the Infirmary in James Street, Westminster. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 27 Aug.

<sup>7</sup> Son of Edward Brooman, College baker (see his burial 27 Aug. 1722), by Martha his wife. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 8 Sep., aged sixty, and was buried in his father's grave. His will, as of St. Margaret's, Westminster, baker, dated 21 July 1751, was proved 14 Sep. 1758, by his dau. Martha Marsh, widow, to whom he left all his estate, but who was unmarried at the date of the will.

<sup>8</sup> Eldest dau. of Hon. Oliver Lambart (see his burial 23 Apl. 1738), by Frances his wife (see her burial 11 Jan. 1750-1). She died, according to the Funeral Book, 1 Nov., aged fifty. Her will, as of St. James, Westminster, spinster, dated 15 June 1758, with a codicil 26 Oct., was proved 2 Nov. following, by David Nisbett, M.D. She bequeathed her mother's diamond ring to Sir Charles Sheffield, Bart. (her illegitimate half-brother), and to Colonel Lambart, of the Guards, her cousin and brother-in-law, half a-crown when called for. Except a few legacies to servants, she left the residue of her estate to her executor in trust to pay £20 per annum to Alexander Hamilton, Esq., Lieutenant in Colonel Brudenell's regiment.

<sup>9</sup> One of the officers of the Exchequer. In 1707 he was described as "Chief Clerk of the Pells," and in 1759 his successor was said to have his office of "Clerk of the Introitus in the Tally Court at the Exchequer" (London Chronicle, 16 Jan. 1759). He died, according to the Funeral Book, 4 Nov., aged eighty-four, and was buried in his wife's grave (see her burial 22 Apl. 1742). The journals of the day say that he died at his house in Barton Street, Westminster, from the effects of a broken leg, having fallen down an area of one of the houses then building near Dean's Yard some three weeks before. His will, as of St. John the Evangelist, Westminster, Gent., dated 14 July, 1758, was proved 7 Nov. following, by his nephew Albert Davids, Esq., to whom he left his closes in the borough of Carmarthen, and the residue of his personalty, with remainder to his niece Mrs. Martha Baylis. His other bequests, varying from £100 to £500, were to the widow of his brother Mr. Thomas Aubrey, his nephews George Oakley and Vincent Oakley, and the children of his nephew Thomas Oakley.

<sup>3</sup> Second wife and relict of Rev. Stephen Crespion (see his burial 2 Dec. 1711). She died, according to the Funeral Book, 27 Dec. 1758, aged ninety-six. Her will, dated 20 Oct. 1755, with codicils 25 Nov. 1755, and 17 Dec. 1756, was proved 29 Dec. 1758. The only relations she named were her sister Catharine Orris, of Truro, co. Cornwall; her niece Mary, wife of John Hearle, of Penryn, co. Cornwall, Esq. (his widow at the date of the last codicil); her niece Margaret, wife of John Seagrave, of Westminster; and her nephew John Bolitho. See the baptism of her only daughter 23 Jan. 1693-4, and her burial 22 Sep. 1715.

<sup>4</sup> Son of William Seymore, one of the vergers of the Abbey (see his burial 18 Apl. 1768), by Esther his wife (see her burial 13 Mch. 1793). He was born 13 Jan., and baptized at St. John the Evangelist, Westminster, 1 Feb. 1757. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 7 Jan.

<sup>5</sup> Dan. of William Pearce, Esq. (see his burial 2 Jan. 1783), and niece of the Right Rev. Zachary Pearce, then Bishop of Rochester and Dean of Westminster, at whose house, in Dean's Yard, she died, according to the Funeral Book and her monument, 17 Jan., aged eighteen years.

<sup>6</sup> He died, according to the Funeral Book, 4 Mch., in his thirty-third year, and was buried in his wife's grave (see her burial 26 Aug. 1758). If the ages of both were correctly given in the Funeral Book, which there is no good reason to doubt, he was about thirteen years his wife's junior. He was one of the sons of John Lacam, of St. Clement Danes, Midx., jeweller, by Louisa-Henrietta, dau. of Francis Betcilhe, of St. Anne's, Westminster, who had a license from the Faculty Office, 13 Nov. 1723, to marry at the French Chapel in Hog Lane, Midx. His father's will, dated 3 June 1748, was proved by his mother 7 July following. In an affidavit which he then made, identifying his father's writing, he called himself "John Peter Lacam," but he signed his own will "John Lacam" only. It was dated 14 Feb. 1759, with a codicil 20 Feb., and was proved 7 Mch. following, by his said mother (called "Henrietta" only), and his brother Andrew Lacam. He directed to be buried in his wife's grave, and that "the large picture of her, painted in enamel by Mr. Nathaniel Hone," should be laid on his breast. His bequests to his relations were to his said mother; his brothers Andrew, Benjamin, Francis, and William Lacam; and his sisters Priscilla Lacam and Henrietta Garbrand, and the two children of the latter. He bequeathed numerous pictures, jewels, etc., to various friends, among whom were Mr. Reynolds and Samuel Foote, Esq., and to Nathaniel Hone, portrait-painter, he gave the use of his "share of Covent Garden" for two years. His jeweller's tools he left to his brother Benjamin Lacam. He called himself, in his will, of St. James, Westminster, and the journals of the day, noticing his death, described him as of Pall Mall. He evidently left no issue.

<sup>2</sup> The illustrious Master of Music. He was born at Halle, in Saxony, 23 Feb. 1683-4, his father being a physician of that place, and his mother his second wife. He died, at his house in Brook Street, Grosvenor Square, according to the Funeral Book, 14 Apl., in his seventy-sixth year. He signed his will "George Frideric Handel." It was dated 1 June 1750, and, with several codicils, was proved 26 Apl. 1759, by George Amyand, Esq., whom he described as of Laurence-Pountney Hill, London, merchant. His bequests to his relations were as follows: to his cousin Christian-Gottlieb Handel, of Copenhagen, £100; to his cousin Magister Christian-August Roth, of Halle, £100; to his cousin, the widow of George Tanst, pastor of Iibichenstein, near Halle, in Saxony, £300, and to her six children each £200; and the residue of his estate to his niece Johanna-Friderica Floerehen (born Michaelsen, in Halle), of Gotha, in Saxony, appointing her sole executrix. By a codicil, dated 6 Aug. 1756, he gave his cousin Christian-Gottlieb Handel £200 more, the surviving five children of the widow Tanst each £100 more, and the widow of said Christian-August Roth £200, and appointed said George Amyand co-executor with his niece. A codicil, dated 22 Mch. 1757, related exclusively to his servants. In another codicil, dated 4 Aug. 1757, he stated that his said cousin Christian-Gottlieb Handel was dead, and he therefore gave his sister Christiana-Susanna Handelin, at Goslar, and his sister living at Pless, near Tessen, in Silesia, each £300. In this codicil occurs this bequest: "I give a fair copy of the score and all the parts of my Oratorio, called the Messiah, to the Foundling Hospital;" and also the bequest to John Rich, Esq., of his "great organ that stands at the Theatre Royal in Covent Garden." A further codicil, dated 11 April 1759, names no relations, but gives considerable legacies to numerous friends, servants, etc., and one of £1000 to the Society for the support of decayed musicians. He directed that a monument should be erected to his memory in the Abbey, at a cost of not exceeding £600.

<sup>3</sup> Only surviving son of Leoline Davies, of Clunfyn, in the parish of Manordeifi, co. Pembroke, Gent., by Anne his wife, who, after a union of about fifty-two years, both died in the month of April 1747, he the 10th and she the 13th, each aged about eighty years, and were buried the 14th in the church of that parish, where he erected a monument to their memory. He was appointed Receiver-General of the Abbey 31 Oct. 1729, and is said, by the journals of the day, to have been also connected with the Augmentation Office. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 24 Apl., in his sixtieth year. His will, dated 27 Jan. 1756, was proved 21 May 1759, by his relief Mary (see her burial 11 May 1778). He bequeathed £1000 each to his eldest dau. Anne (see her baptism 14 Sep. 1736, and her burial 2 Apl. 1791) and his second dau. Mary (see her baptism 13 Jan. 1739-40, and her burial 6 Feb. 1786), and, if both should die without issue, then his three sisters, Esther Harries, Lettice Bowen, and Sarah Thomas, then or lately living at Clunfyn aforesaid, were each to have £500. The residue of his estate he gave to his wife.

Wife of Thomas Wright, one of the bell-ringers (see his burial 29 May 1762). She died, according to the Funeral Book, 1 June, aged forty-eight. See the baptisms of her children, 4 Sep. 1747 and 5 Oct. 1752, and their burials, 11 May 1752 and 11 Apl. 1754.

<sup>2</sup> Only surviving dau. of Peter Elers, Esq. (see his burial 20 Mch. 1753), by Dorothy his wife (see her burial 13 June 1727). She was baptized at St. Luke's, Chelsea, Midx., 30 May 1717, and married, about Oct. 1745 (Marr. Sett. dated the 18th of that month), William Poston, merchant, citizen and haberdasher of London, to whom she was second wife. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 4 Aug., aged forty-two, and, according to the journals of the day, at her husband's house in Manor Street, Chelsea. His will, dated 11 Oct. 1749, was proved 29 July 1762. He directed to be buried near his mother, Elizabeth, and his first wife, Mary, in the churchyard of Edmonton, Midx. They left no issue.

<sup>3</sup> Eldest son of John Heylyn, citizen and saddler of London, who died at Chelsea, Midx., 24 Sep. 1736, and was buried the 27th at St. Mary-le-Strand, Westminster (he was said, by the journals of the day, to have acquired a large fortune by army contracts), by his wife, Susanna Sherman (sister of Thomas Sherman, of St. Andrew's, Holborn, Midx., Gent.), whose will, dated 21 Oct. 1741, was proved 19 Dec. following. He was admitted into St. Peter's College, Westminster, in 1700, and elected to Trinity College, Cambridge, in 1705, where A.B. 1708, A.M. 1714, and S.T.P. 25 Apl. 1728. He became the first Rector of St. Mary-le-Strand, 1 Jan. 1723-4, and held that living until his death. He was a Prebendary of St. Paul's in Oct. 1736, and was installed Prebendary of Westminster 21 Mch. 1742-3. He died, according to the Funeral Book and his monument, 11 Aug., aged seventy-four, and was buried with his second wife and only daughter by her (see their burials, 13 June 1747 and 2 Apl. 1759). His will, as of Hampstead, Midx., dated 28 Mch. 1759, was proved on the day of his burial, by his son John Heylyn, then of the city of Bristol, merchant (evidently his only surviving child), and by Balthazar Burman, of Lincoln's Inn, whom he called his cousin, and to whom he gave £200. His only other relations named were the sons and daughters of his brother Edward Heylyn, to each of whom he gave £200. He bequeathed £1000 to the Lying-in Hospital in Brownlow Street, and the residue of his real and personal estate to his said son John, who was apparently his eldest son by his first wife, and was baptized at Chiswick, Midx., 10 July 1712. Another son by her, named Charles-Master, was baptized at Chiswick 10 July 1714, who appears to have died young.

<sup>5</sup> First wife of Daniel Gell, Esq., Chapter Clerk (see his burial 18 June 1763). She died, according to the Funeral Book, 13 Oct. aged sixty-six. See her son's burial 4 Feb. 1817.

<sup>6</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died the 5th, and was buried the 9th of November.

dau. and coheir of Sir Edward Ayseough, of Stallingborough, co. Lincoln, Kt. He was born 8 Dec. 1708. He assumed the surname of Williams in accordance with the will of his godfather Charles Williams, of Caerleon, co. Monmouth, Esq. (see his burial 2 Sep. 1720). He was an ambassador at various courts, and was installed a Knight of the Bath 20 Oct. 1744. He died, according to his coffin-plate, 2 Nov., aged fifty. His will, as of Cold Brook (near Abergavenny), co. Monmouth, dated 30 Jan. 1746-7, was proved 12 Nov. 1759, by his brother George Hanbury, Esq. He left his estate in trust for his daughters Frances and Charlotte, and did not so much as name his wife (see her burial 29 Dec. 1781).

<sup>2</sup> She died, according to the Funeral Book, 28 Jan., aged eighty, and was buried under her daughter, Mrs. Mary Illingworth (see her burial 12 June 1758). Her will, as of Queen Square, Westminster, widow, dated 14 Dec. 1759, was proved 11 Mch. 1760, by her dau. Zenoby-Ann Bowker, and by the Rev. Edward Woodcock, of Watford, Herts. The only relations she named were her said daughter and her children, Elizabeth, Ann, and Maria Bowker; her cousin Mary Rigby, of Cockermouth, co. Cumberland, and her dau. Mary Rigby; and her cousin Mr. William Lightboun, of Twickenham, Mdx., and Ann his wife. To her said dau. she left her estates in Manchester, Blackley, etc., in co. Lancaster, and to Thomas, son of Thomas Illingworth, late postmaster of Lancaster, deceased, ten shillings monthly for his life. Her estate appears to have been considerable, and she provided liberally for several old servants.

<sup>3</sup> He died, according to the Funeral Book, 9 Feb., aged sixty.—“On Saturday died Mr. Griffith, master of the Bear Tavern at Westminster Bridge” (London Chronicle, Tuesday, 12 Feb. 1760).—Letters of administration to the estate of Hugh Griffith, of St. Margaret's, Westminster, were granted 31 Oct. 1760, to his relict Ann Griffith.

<sup>4</sup> She died, according to the Funeral Book, 21 May, aged sixty-seven, and was buried on her brother, Nathaniel Smith, Esq. (see his burial 1 Oct. 1755). Her will, as of St. John the Evangelist, Westminster, spinster, dated 6 Oct. 1759, was proved 5 June 1760, by Frances, wife of Francis Smalley, her niece and only next of kin. See the burials, of her other brother 12 Sep. 1738, and of her sister, Frances Meyrick, 24 Sep. 1734, near whom she directed to be buried.

<sup>5</sup> The Funeral Book says “Master Foster March,” and that he died 28 May, aged seventeen years, adding “the undertaker from Clapham.” It is quite probable that the name should be Marsh. See a burial 28 Jan. 1812.

<sup>6</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 1 June, in his seventy-third year, and was buried in the grave of his wife, Mrs. Jane Wowen (see her burial 16 Dec. 1758). The journals of the day call him “an eminent sugar refiner,” and say that he died at Hackney, Mdx. He was the apparently only son of Rev. John Wowen, of Trinity College, Cambridge, who was silenced under the Act of Uniformity in 1662, and who afterwards became minister of an Independent Chapel in Deadman's Place, Southwark, co. Surrey, and finally of a congregation assembled in Pewterers' Hall, Lime Street, London. Wilson, in his Dissenting Churches (iv. 143-7), appears to confound him with another dissenting minister named “Jonathan Owen,” who lived somewhat later. Mr. Wowen was buried at St. John's, Hackney, 16 Nov. 1713. His wife, mother of the person named in the text, was Elizabeth, dau. of Rev. John Barton, and sister of Rev. Samuel Barton, D.D., Prebendary of Westminster (see his burial 23 Aug. 1715), and was also buried at Hackney, 14 Sep. 1724. Letters of administration to the estate of John Wowen, Esq., late of St. John's, Hackney, widower, were granted, 16 June 1760, to his children, John Wowen, Esq., and Jane Wowen. They were his only surviving issue by his marriage with his cousin Jane Barton, and both died before 17 Apl. 1812, when further letters of administration to his estate were granted. The dau. Jane was married, at St. Andrew's, Holborn, Mdx., 12 Feb. 1763, to Paul Field, of Lincoln's Inn, Esq.

<sup>2</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 27 Oct., aged sixty-six. His will, as John Farlow, of St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., waterman, dated 29 May 1760, was proved 29 Oct. following, by his sons John and Richard Farlow, to whom he left all his possessions equally. See his wife's burial 26 Apl. 1754.

<sup>3</sup> George-Augustus, only son of K. George I., by Sophia-Dorothea, only dau. and heir of George-William, Duke of Brunswick and Zelle. He was born at Hanover 30 Oct. 1683, succeeded to the throne 11 June 1727, and was crowned 11 Oct. following. He died at Kensington. See the burials, of his Queen-Consort 17 Dec. 1737, and of his children, 12 Feb. 1717-18, 13 Apl. 1751, 5 Jan. 1758, 10 Nov. 1765, and 11 Nov. 1786.

<sup>4</sup> Son of Thomas Fisher, College cook (see his burial 30 July 1777), by Mary his wife (see her burial 13 Nov. 1761). He died, according to the Funeral Book and his gravestone, 19 Nov. aged eight years.

<sup>5</sup> Dau. of William Seymore, one of the vergers (see his burial 18 Apl. 1768), by Esther his wife (see her burial 13 Mch. 1793). According to the Funeral Book, she died 2 Dec., aged six years and two months, and was buried on the right hand of her brother (see his burial 10 Jan. 1759).

<sup>6</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 8 Dec. aged forty-four. His will, as of St. John the Evangelist, Westminster, Gent., dated 6 Dec. 1760, was proved on the 17th of the same month, by his sister Martha Hiller, spinster, sole legatee.

<sup>7</sup> The Funeral Book says "he was y<sup>e</sup> College Beadle," and that he died 22 Jan., aged sixty-eight, and was buried on his wife (see her burial 21 Feb. 1758). He appears to have re-married, as his relict Ann administered to his estate, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, 6 Feb. 1761.

<sup>8</sup> Only son of Andrew Stone, Esq. (see his burial 24 Dec. 1773), by Hannah his wife (see her burial 13 June 1782). He died, according to the Funeral Book, 7 Feb., aged eleven years, two months, and nine days.

<sup>9</sup> The Funeral Book says, "Widow of the late Coll. Douglas killd at Couthagine," and that she died 24 Feb., and was buried on her son (see his burial 19 Mch. 1742-3), under the next gravestone on the right of Mrs. Aphara Behn. The will of her husband, as Colonel Charles Douglas, of Brentford Butts, in the parish of Hanwell, co. Midx. dated 24 Jan. 1739-40, with a codicil dated on board the "Lichfield" 18 Nov. 1740, was proved 22 May 1741, by his relict Jacobina. In an affidavit to his writing, which she made the same day, he was described as late of St. George's, Hanover Square, Midx., but died at Carthagena, in the West Indies. She dying intestate, letters of administration de bonis non were granted, 2 Apl. 1772, to his eldest dau. Anne, then wife of George Mackenzie, Esq., and in that record he was described as Colonel of a regiment of marines. He mentioned his sons Robert, Charles, John, William, and Archibald, and his daughters Anne, Carteret, and Jane. He bequeathed his estate called "Dyers," in Stansted-Mountfitchet, co. Essex, and other lands in that county.

<sup>1</sup> He died, according to the Funeral Book and his monument, 11 May, aged sixty-one. His will, as of Curzon Street, St. George's, Hanover Square, Midx., Gent., dated 8 and 12 June 1759, was proved 15 May 1761, by Hon. John Campbell, of Stackpool Court, co. Pembroke, and David Morice, of Langley, co. Bucks, Gent., whom he made his residuary legatees, but without naming any relationship. He directed that about £11,000 of his securities should be invested in lands in Cardiganshire, or some county adjacent, to the use of his friend and companion Mr. John Lear for his life, with remainder to his sons and their heirs male in succession, and, failing their issue, then to his kinsman Jeremiah Jenkin, son of Evan Jenkin, of "Cnwceyndoior," in the parish of Llanbadarn-Trevelgwys, co. Cardigan, and grandson of his late sister Ann Lewis, deceased, his sons, etc., with remainder to John Davies, of Llanprise, in the parish of Llansanffraid, in the same county, yeoman. The only other relations named were his kinswomen Margaret and Anna Jenkin, sisters of said Jeremiah Jenkin, and his kinsman Rev. John Lloyd, Vicar of Rotherham, co. York.

<sup>2</sup> Lady Elizabeth-Anne-Frances Percy, only legitimate dau, of Hugh, first Duke of Northumberland (see his burial 21 June 1786), by Elizabeth his Duchess (see her burial 18 Dec. 1776). She was born 6 Apl. 1744. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 27 May, in her eighteenth year.

<sup>3</sup> Her maiden name has not been ascertained. She was first the wife of a Mr. Jackson, who died before 1754, by whom she had a son, Charles Jackson, Esq., who was long connected with the General Post Office, and was living, as late as 1793, at Tooting, co. Surrey, and a dau. Mary, who married Dr. Benjamin Cooke, Organist of the Abbey (see her burial 26 Mch. 1784). She married, secondly, at Greenwich, Kent, 26 May 1758, George Shelvocke, Esq., Secretary to the General Post Office, who died suddenly, in one of the official apartments, 12 Mch. 1760. He was a son of the celebrated Capt. George Shelvocke, who sailed round the world during the reign of Q. Anne, and who died in 1743. In his will, dated 28 Apl. 1754, he described his wife as "my loving cousin Mary Jackson, widow, now living with me." She died, according to her monument, 24 July, aged fifty-four, and the journals of the day say that she died at her house at Knightsbridge, Midx. Her will, dated 28 June 1761, was proved 6 Aug. following, by her said son Charles Jackson, Esq., and her said son-in-law Benjamin Cooke. The only other relation she named was her kinsman William Roberts, one of the clerks of the Foreign Office in the General Post Office, to whom she bequeathed the interest of £1,000 for his life. The rest of her estate she left to her said son and daughter equally.

<sup>4</sup> Eldest son of William Blakeney, of Thomastown, co. Limerick, Esq., whose family emigrated to Ireland, from co. Norfolk, in the sixteenth century. He became a distinguished military officer, and attained the rank of Lieut.-General in Sept. 1747. He is especially remembered for his gallant defence of Stirling Castle in 1746, and of Fort St. Philip in 1756. He was created a Knight of the Bath 27 Nov., in the latter year, and the next month raised to the peerage of Ireland, as Baron Blakeney. He died, without issue, 20 Sep., aged ninety-one, and the title became extinct. By his will, dated 4 Jan. 1759, and proved 7 Oct. 1761, he made his brother Robert Blakeney, of Mount Blakeney, co. Limerick, his sole heir.

<sup>5</sup> The Funeral Book, quoting his coffin-plate, gives the same initials, the first two being placed over the last two, and adds that he died 18 Oct., aged forty-three. In another book he is called "Kenneth Mackenzie, Esq.," with a statement that the fees were paid by Henry Dagge and John Mackenzie, Esquires. The journals of the day notice the peculiarity of his coffin-plate. He was Kenneth Mackenzie, commonly called Lord Fortrose, only son of William, fifth Earl of Seaforth in the peerage of Scotland, who was attainted on account of his connection with the rising of 1715, by Mary, only dau. and heir of Nicholas Keunet, of Coxhow, co.

Northumberland, Esq. He married, 11 Sep. 1741, Lady Mary Stewart, eldest dau. of Alexander, sixth Earl of Galloway. Their only son, Kenneth Mackenzie, was subsequently created Viscount Fortrose and Earl of Seaforth, in the peerage of Ireland, but died without male issue in 1781, when the titles became extinct. Their youngest dau., Euphemia, married William Stewart, Esq. (see the burial of their son 2 Nov. 1811). Lord Fortrose had been M.P. for co. Ross in 1747 and 1754.

<sup>1</sup> Fourth and youngest son of Richard Walsh, of Ardagh House, co. Louth, Ireland, Esq., by Mary, dau. of Rev. Joseph Bury, of Drogheda. After a long military career, he attained the rank of Major-General 14 May 1759, and was Colonel of the 49th regiment of foot at his death. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 23 Oct., in his seventy-third year. His name does not occur in the lists of Lieutenant-Generals, although he was assigned that rank in the Abbey Register, on his monument, and in the journals of the day. He called himself Major-General in his will, which was dated 10 May 1760, and proved 31 Oct. 1761, so that, if advanced to the higher rank, it must have been shortly before his death. He died unmarried, and named as his residuary legatees his five nieces, daughters of his late brother Anthony Walsh, of Ardagh, Esq., deceased, and his kinsman and godson Blaney Townley, junior. To his nephews, Captain Anthony Walsh and Captain Ralph Walsh, he left £20 each, for mourning, and mentioned no other relations except his kinsman Blaney-Townley Balfour, Esq.

<sup>2</sup> Wife of Thomas Fisher, College cook (see his burial 30 July 1777). She died, according to the Funeral Book, 8 Nov., aged forty-eight. See the burials of her children, 8 Aug. 1740, 23 Jan. 1741-2, 16 Nov. 1745, 30 Oct. 1748, 28 June 1752, 24 Nov. 1760, 7 Feb. 1780, and 17 Oct. 1804.

<sup>3</sup> The Funeral Book calls him "the famous Dr. Ward," and says that he died 21 Dec., aged seventy-six. He was celebrated for his various chemical preparations, and became more so from being satirized by Pope in his "Imitations of Horace." His will, as of Whitehall, dated 1 Mch. 1760, was proved 8 Jan. 1762, by Ralph and Thomas Ward, sons of his nephew Knox Ward, whom he made his residuary legatees. His other bequests were to his sisters Margaret Gancel and Ann Manly, Rebecca Ward, dau. of his said nephew Knox Ward, and his nephew Colonel William Gancel.

<sup>4</sup> Son of Thomas Persehowse, Esq. (see his burial 7 Jan. 1719-20), by his second wife, Mary, dau. of William Style, of Beckenham, co. Kent, Esq. He matriculated at Oxford, from Christ Church, 11 May 1702, aged sixteen, and was B.A. there 28 Mch. 1707, but appears to have taken the degree of A.M. at Cambridge, in 1713. He became the minister at Knightsbridge Chapel, Midx., in 1719, and is mentioned in the Chapter Book as a minor canon of the Abbey, as early as 9 Oct. 1724. He married Deborah, dau. of John Rawlins, of the city of Oxford, apothecary, who appears to have died long before him. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 26 Jan., in his seventy-seventh year, and was said, in the journals of the day, to have been at his death senior minor canon and the oldest member of the Abbey Church. His will, dated 16 Feb. 1760, in which he mentioned that he had been preserved through a life of seventy-five years, was proved 27 Jan. 1762, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, by his son Clare Persehowse (see his burial 23 Aug. 1779), to whom he left all his estate. He mentioned no other relations, except his disobedient daughter, who had twice married without his consent, and to whom his son was to pay five shillings weekly, if it should become necessary, as he had no doubt it would. See the burials of his other children, 22 Aug. 1712, 9 Oct. and 17 Nov. 1715, and 23 Apl. 1719.

<sup>5</sup> He died, according to the Funeral Book, 17 Mch., aged seventy-eight, and was buried on his wife (see her burial 10 Dec. 1758). The journals of the day describe him as one of the door-keepers of the House of Lords, and as having formerly been a domestic servant of the first Duke of Marlborough, whom he attended through all his campaigns. His will, as of St. Margaret's, Westminster, Gent., dated 1 Jan. 1762, was proved 31 Mch. following, by Elizabeth Forth, spinster, whom he called his servant, and to whom he gave all his stock in the Bank of England, directing her to transfer £100 thereof to Martha Bancroft, of St. Andrew's, Holborn, Midx., £50 to Alice Cavell, of or near Kendal, co. Westmoreland, widow, £50 to Elizabeth Beck, of Paradise

Oxford, he gave two guineas, to the widow of Benjamin Hucks one guinea, and to each doorkeeper of the House of Lords twenty shillings for a ring. The residue of his estate he gave to his executrix absolutely.

<sup>3</sup> Second son of Hon. John Stafford-Howard, by his first wife, Mary, dau. of Sir John Southcote, of Merstham, co. Surrey, Kt., and nephew of Henry, first Earl of Stafford, of the creation of 1688 (see his burial 12 May 1719). He succeeded his nephew, as fourth Earl of Stafford, Feb. 1750-1. He died, according to his monument, 1 Apl., aged sixty-one years, nine months, and six days, and the Funeral Book, quoting his coffin-plate, says that he was born 26 June 1700. She left no issue, and the earldom became extinct. See the burial of his Countess 23 Jan. 1783.

<sup>4</sup> She died, according to the Funeral Book, 12 Apl., aged sixty-four. Letters of administration to her estate were granted, by the Court of the Dean and Chapter, 20 May 1762, she being described as late of St. Margaret's, Westminster, widow, to Nicholas Crisp, a creditor, her only child, Elizabeth, wife of Peter Wirgman, having declined to administer.

<sup>5</sup> She died, according to the Funeral Book, 15 Apl., in her sixty-fourth year. See the burial, 19 Sep. 1763, probably of her husband or brother.

<sup>6</sup> Second Duke of Portland, son of Henry, first Duke (see his burial 3 Nov. 1726), by Lady Elizabeth Noel, eldest dau. and coheir of Wriothsley-Baptist, second Earl of Gainsborough. He died, according to his coffin-plate, 1 May, in his fifty-fourth year. See the burial of his Duchess 30 July 1785.

<sup>7</sup> He died, according to the Funeral Book, 10 May, aged thirty-two, and was buried on his wife (see her burial 29 Sep. 1757). "Yesterday died, at his house at Charing Cross, Mr. Mountain, silk-mercier" (London Chronicle, 11 May 1762). His will, as of Charing Cross, St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., mercer, dated 5 May 1762, was proved 21 June following, by his sister Jane Mountain, spinster, his residuary legatee. His only other bequests were £400 each to his other sisters, Sarah Darley and Ann Mountain.

<sup>8</sup> He died, according to the Funeral Book, 30 Apl., aged eighty. The journals of the day say that he had been organist of the Abbey for thirty-five years, and that he had also been organist of St. Lawrence, Old Jewry, and St. Magnus, London. See his marriage 6 Sep. 1716, his wife's burial 8 Jan. 1740-1, and the burials of his children by her, 15 Feb. 1722-3 and 29 Apl. 1725.—Letters of administration to the estate of John Robinson, of St. Margaret's, Westminster, were granted to a creditor 14 June 1762, his relict Mary renouncing for herself and as guardian of his only son, John-Daniel Robinson, a minor. This record seems to refer to him, and he therefore probably married a second time.

<sup>1</sup> He was appointed porter of the Little Cloisters 23 Nov. 1744, and advanced to be a sacrist 2 June 1755. He was also College gardener and one of the bell-ringers. He died, according to his coffin-plate, 25 May, aged fifty-one. See his marriage 27 Jan. 1744-5, the baptisms of his children 12 Nov. 1745, 12 Nov. 1747, 27 Oct. 1749, 21 Aug. 1751, and 5 June 1755, and the burials, of his wife 2 Feb. 1788, of his son 20 Aug. 1776, and of his daughters 9 Dec. 1749, 29 July 1752, and 6 Aug. 1765.

<sup>2</sup> He had been coachman to Dean Wilcocks, Bishop of Rochester, and was appointed a bell-ringer 20 Oct. 1749 (Chapter Book). The Funeral Book says that he died 26 May, aged forty-five, and was buried on his wife (see her burial 4 June 1759). See the baptisms of his children 4 Sep. 1747 and 5 Oct. 1752, and their burials 11 May 1752 and 11 Apl. 1754.

<sup>3</sup> The Funeral Book says that he was coachman to the Dean (then the Right Rev. Zachary Pearce, Bishop of Rochester), and that he died 13 June, aged fifty.

<sup>4</sup> Dau. of Rev. Dr. David-Walter Morgan, minor canon, etc. (see his burial Mch. 1795). The Funeral Book says that she died 17 Aug., aged four months and two weeks.

<sup>5</sup> Relict of Samuel Bates (see his burial 24 July 1735). The Chapter Book mentions gratuities to her 5 Feb. 1746-7 and 7 Jan. 1747-8. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 20 Aug., aged eighty-four.

<sup>6</sup> Relict of Arthur O'Keefe, Esq. (see his burial 3 Oct. 1756). They were married at her house in Piccadilly, 4 Apl. 1738, by a special license granted the day before by the Vicar-General, in which she was described as Isabella Casburne, of St. James, Westminster, widow, and the marriage was recorded in the parish register of St. James. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 26 Sep., aged seventy. Her will, dated 9 Aug. 1760, with a codicil, in the form of a letter, 15 July 1761, was proved 6 Oct. 1762, by her husband's sister, Mary-Anne O'Keefe, spinster, to whom she gave her estate called Bailey Park, in Sussex, and the residue of her personalty. To her mother-in-law Mrs. Anstis O'Keefe (see her burial 12 Nov. 1763) she gave £1000. To her nephews and nieces, John Burrell, Charles Burrell, Eleanor Gillingwater, and Isabella Bain, being the four children of her half-brother John Burrell, she bequeathed £1000 each, and to her nephew John Burrell, of Hadleigh, attorney, her farms at Shimpling (co. Norfolk) and Stanningfield (co. Suffolk). Other bequests of pictures, jewels, etc., were to her cousin James Calthroe, Esq., Rev. Mr. Casburne, and her good friend Counsellor Maire. In the codicil occurs the following passage: "Let me be buried as near as possible to my late dearest husband, Arthur O'Keefe, Esq., and let this be put on his monument for me: 'Near this place lieth the body of Isabella, relict of Arthur O'Keefe, of Bailee Park, Esq.; she was his sincere friend and most affectionate wife:' put my dear love's letters in a bag under my head in my coffin, and put mine to him under my feet." She appears to have left no issue by either husband.

<sup>7</sup> Dau. and evidently only child of Antonio Lucera (see his burial 13 Sep. 1747, and note thereto), by Jane his wife (see her burial 5 Mch. 1755). She married after her father's death. The Funeral Book says that she died 6 Oct., aged thirty-seven.

<sup>8</sup> Cousin and executrix of Erasmus Lewis, Esq. (see his burial 15 Jan. 1754). She died, according to the Funeral Book, 3 Nov., aged sixty-five. Her will, as of Cork Street, St. James, Westminster, spinster, dated 17 May 1760, was proved 9 Nov. 1762. She bequeathed all her estates in Carmarthenshire to her nephew Henry Price, son of her sister Frances, wife of Mr. Henry Price. To her brother Mr. Herbert Lewis, then residing in the Island of Barbados, she left the interest of £1500 for his life. Her other bequests, which were considerable, were to her cousin Mary, wife of Rev. Henry Hemington, of Leigh, co. Kent, Rev. George Lewis, of Westerham, Kent, and several friends. The residue of her estate was to go equally to her said sister Frances Price and her six children, viz., Mary, Dorothy, Anna-Maria, Frances, Augusta, and Henry Price.

<sup>3</sup> Dau. of John Gumley, of Isleworth, co. Midx., said to have been a wealthy glass manufacturer and army contractor, and wife of William Pulteney, Earl of Bath (see his burial 17 July 1764), to whom married about 20 Dec. 1714 (Mar. Lic. Bp. Lond.), then aged seventeen. (Pointer's Chronology says that they were married 27 Dec.). She died the 14th, and was buried at St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., 21 Sep. 1758, aged sixty-four, according to the register of that parish and the Funeral Book of the Abbey. See the burials of her three children in the text, and the preceding and two following notes.

<sup>4</sup> Son of William, Earl of Bath (see his burial 17 July 1764), by Anna-Maria his wife (see the text and the preceding note). He died, according to the Funeral Book, quoting his coffin-plate, in Jan. 1726-7, in his second year, but his burial at St. Martin in the Fields was not recorded until 13 Mch. 1741-2, when his remains were probably removed from their original place of burial, and interred with those of his sister, buried that day (see the following note). This child is not mentioned in the printed accounts of the family.

<sup>5</sup> Dau. of William, Earl of Bath (see his burial 17 July 1764), by Anna-Maria his wife (see the text and the last note but one). The accounts of the family say that she was born 22 Aug. 1727. She died, according to the Funeral Book, the 9th, and was buried at St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., 13 Mch. 1741-2, in her fifteenth year.

<sup>6</sup> Dau. and coheir of Benjamin Tichborne (second son of Sir William Tichborne, of Beaulieu, co. Louth, Kt., and younger brother of Henry, Baron Ferrard), who was killed at the battle of Blenheim, in 1704, by Elizabeth, dau. of Major Edward Gibbs, of the city of Gloucester. She married, 14 Dec. 1717, Daniel Pulteney, Esq. (see his burial 17 May 1732, and note thereto). She died, according to her coffin-plate, 22 Apl., aged sixty-four. See the burial of her only surviving child 8 June 1782.

<sup>7</sup> He died, according to the Funeral Book and his monument, 6 May, aged sixty-six. His wife Ann appears to have been buried at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 5 Feb. 1757, and the baptisms of several of their children occur in the registers of that parish.

<sup>8</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died the 14th, and was buried 19 May, aged fifty-nine. The place of burial sufficiently indicates his humble position,

<sup>2</sup> He was appointed Chapter Clerk 11 Feb. 1728-9 (Chapter Book). The journals of the day say that he had been also secretary to the Bishops of Peterborough and Gloucester, and Registrar of the diocese of Llandaff. He had a grant of arms 6 Mch. 1731-2, when he was described as eldest son and heir of Ralph Gell, who was the third son of Anthony Gell. The grant also included the descendants of his uncle Thomas Gell. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 13 June, aged seventy-seven, and was buried on his first wife (see her burial 20 Oct. 1759). His will, dated 24 Dec. 1762, with a codicil Apl. 1763, was proved 2 July following, by his second wife and relict (see her burial 26 Aug. 1783). He mentioned his brothers Thomas, George, and Benjamin Gell, and numerous nephews and cousins, among whom was his cousin and clerk, Anthony Gell (see, probably, his burial 4 Feb. 1817). He evidently left no issue.

<sup>3</sup> She died, according to the Funeral Book, 10 July. Her will, as Fanny Triggs, of St. Margaret's, Westminster, widow, dated 27 Apl. 1762, was proved 11 July 1763, by Mr. John Wight, clerk in his Majesty's Victualling Office, London, whom she made her residuary legatee, but without stating any relationship. Her only other bequests were £100 each to her nephew Mr. Simon Beverton, of Christ Church, Oxford (probably a college servant), and Mr. John Catling, of the Little Cloisters, Westminster.

<sup>4</sup> Son of Rev. Dr. David-Walter Morgan, minor canon (see his burial Mch. 1795). The Funeral Book says that he died 15 July, aged three months, and was buried in his sister's grave (see her burial 19 Aug. 1762).

<sup>5</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 13 Sep., aged sixty-one. The place of burial sufficiently indicates his humble position. See the burial, probably of his wife or sister, 20 Apl. 1762.

<sup>6</sup> She died, according to the Funeral Book, 5 Nov., aged eighty-four. Her dau. Mary-Ann O'Keeffe, spinster, administered to her estate 14 Mch. 1764, when she was described as late of Bailey Park, in the parish of Heathfield, co. Sussex, widow. See her son's burial 3 Oct. 1756, and note thereto.

<sup>7</sup> He died, according to the Funeral Book, 14 Nov., aged thirty. The journals of the day say that he was a Gentleman of the Chapel Royal and of Windsor Chapel. He had the degree of Bachelor of Music at Cambridge in 1757, and that of Doctor of Music in 1758. His will, as of New Windsor, Berks, dated 25 Nov. 1758, was proved 17 Dec. 1763, by his relict Elizabeth, to whom he had bequeathed all his goods, before their marriage, as Elizabeth Fullerton, of St. Botolph's, Aldgate, London, spinster.

<sup>8</sup> One of the Abbey choir, and also, according to the journals of the day, one of the Gentlemen of the Chapel Royal. The Funeral Book says that he died 16 Dec., aged thirty-two. His will, as of St. Margaret's, Westminster, Gent., dated 15 Apl. 1763, was proved 29 Dec. following, by his relict Dorothy, to whom he bequeathed all his real and personal estate, and appointed her guardian of his son Hugh.

<sup>9</sup> Son of Robert Fleming, brother of Major-General James Fleming (see his burial 30 Mch. 1751). Letters of administration to the estate of Robert Fleming, Lieutenant in Major-General Fleming's regiment of foot at Gravesend, were granted, 20 May 1749, to his relict Anne. As he was living at the date of General Fleming's will, 6 Mch. 1741-2, and named joint executor with his son John, and as the son John proved the will, 22 Mch. 1750-1, as surviving executor, there can be little doubt that they were the parents of Sir John, named in the text. He was not only executor, but residuary legatee of his uncle General Fleming, and was also residuary legatee and executor of Lieut.-General William Hargrave (see his burial 2 Feb. 1750-1), in whose regiment he had been a Lieutenant. He was created a Baronet, as of Brompton Park, Midx., 22 Apl. 1763, but died without surviving male issue, a few months later, and the title became extinct. See the burials, of his wife (as Jane, Baroness Harewood) 19 Apl. 1813, of his only son (see the text and the following note), and of his daughters, 13 July 1767, 24 Apl. 1769, and 12 Feb. 1824. His other daughter, Seymour-Dorothy, married, in 1775, Sir Richard Worsley, seventh Bart. of Apuldercombe, Isle of Wight.

<sup>3</sup> The Funeral Book says that she was a servant of Mr. Fidoe (see his burial 20 Nov. 1780), and that she died 7 Mch., aged sixty-six. Her will, as of Westminster Abbey, widow, dated 6 Mch. 1764, was proved on the 26th of the same month, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, by the said Benjamin Fidoe, Gent. She left her apparel to her fellow-servant Elizabeth Gover, and the rest of her possessions to Jane and Samuel, children of Mr. William Hawkins, apothecary, and Susanna his wife.

<sup>4</sup> Dau. of Dr. Benjamin Cooke, organist of the Abbey (see his burial 21 Sep. 1793), by Mary his wife (see her burial 26 Mch. 1784). The Funeral Book says that she died 13 Apl., in her eighth month, and was buried under the gravestone of Mrs. Mary Shelvocke, her grandmother (see her burial 1 Aug. 1761), and adds that "her brother George and her sister Mary-Elizabeth were at the same time removed to the same stone" (see their burials 19 June 1759 and 11 Oct. 1760).

<sup>5</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 15 May, aged seventy-six. His will, as of St. Margaret's, Westminster, fishmonger, dated 2 May 1764, was proved on the 16th of the same month, by his relict Mary, to whom he left all his estate, real and personal, and who was alone named in it. The London Chronicle of Thursday, 17 May 1764, says: "On Tuesday died, at his house in the Fish Market, Westminster, aged seventy-five, Mr. Samuel Jones, the oldest fishmonger in Westminster." See the burials 29 Jan. 1732-3, 19 Feb. 1739-40, and 4 Jan. 1750-1, probably of members of his family.

<sup>6</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 21 June, aged seven years. See the burials, of her father 12 Sep. 1775, and of her mother 16 July 1771.

<sup>7</sup> He died, according to the Funeral Book, 30 June, aged fifty-seven. His will, as of College Street, Westminster, bookseller, dated 10 May 1757, was proved 9 July 1764, by William Ginger, whom he called his faithful servant, and his friend Thomas Churchill, of Millbank, bricklayer. The only relations he mentioned were his brothers John Barker and William Sherlock, both of Harlington, co. Beds, and both tailors. To the latter he gave £200, and made the former and said William Ginger his equal residuary legatees.

<sup>8</sup> The celebrated statesman. He was the eldest son of Colonel William Pulteney (eldest son of Sir William Pulteney, of Misterton, co. Leicester, Kt.), by his first wife, Mary Floyd. He was created, 14 July 1742, Baron of Hedon, co. York, Viscount Pulteney, of Wrington, co. Somerset, and Earl of Bath, but, dying without surviving issue, all his titles became extinct. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 7 July, aged eighty years, three months, and five days. See the burials, of his wife, two sons, and daughter, under the date of 21 Apl. 1763, and of his brother 5 Nov. 1767.

<sup>2</sup> Younger son of Andrew Stone, of London, Gent., an eminent banker in Lombard Street, by his wife Anne Holbrooke. He matriculated at Oxford, from Christ Church, 2 June 1725, aged seventeen, and was B.A. 7 May 1729, M.A. 10 May 1732, and D.D. 20 May 1740. He became Dean of Ferns and Leighlin, in Ireland, by patent dated 22 Aug. 1733, and was installed Dean of Derry 3 Apl. 1734. He was consecrated Bishop of Ferns and Leighlin 3 Aug. 1740, translated to Kildare by patent dated 19 Mch. 1742-3, and translated to Derry, being enthroned 22 July 1745. His patent as Archbishop of Armagh was dated 13 Mch. 1746-7, but he was not enthroned until 26 Sep. 1752. He died at his brother's house in Privy Garden, according to the Funeral Book, 19 Dec., in his fifty-seventh year. See his brother's marriage 17 Feb. 1736-7, and the burial of another brother 24 Dec. 1773.

<sup>3</sup> Dau. of Dr. Benjamin Cooke, organist of the Abbey (see his burial 21 Sep. 1793), by Mary his wife (see her burial 26 Mch. 1784). She died, according to the Funeral Book, 9 Mch., aged seven months.

<sup>4</sup> Relict of the Right Rev. Richard Smalbroke, D.D., Bishop of Lichfield and Coventry, who died 22 Dec. 1749. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 9 Mch., aged eighty. Her will, dated 31 Dec. 1754, was proved 21 Mch. 1765, by her son Richard Smalbroke, Doctor of Laws (see his burial 14 May 1805). Her will furnishes no clew to her own family. See the burial of another son 17 June 1797.

<sup>5</sup> Second and youngest son of Francis Duroure (or Du Roure, as the name was originally written), a refugee French officer in Ireland, by Catherine Rieutort (or de Rieutort), who died at Southampton in 1731. He entered the army at the age of sixteen, and finally attained the rank of Lieut.-General 6 Dec. 1760. His monument describes him as Colonel of the fourth or King's Own regiment of foot, and Captain of the Castle of St. Mawes, in Cornwall, and states that he died at Toulouse, in France, 2 Jan. 1765, aged seventy-three, after fifty-seven years' service. His promotion does not appear to have been very rapid, as he only attained the colonelcy of the 38th Foot 27 Feb. 1752, when he was sixty years of age. He was transferred to the King's Own 12 May 1756, and promoted to be a Major-General 24 Jan. 1758. He married, about 3 Nov. 1748, (Mar. Lic. Fac.), Louisa Bruchell, of Hammersmith, Midx., spinster, aged above thirty-five, according to the marriage allegation, which also gives his age as above forty-eight. As he was really then fifty-six, it is probable that her age was also understated. They appear to have had no issue. She survived him, and died at Mortlake, Surrey, 10 Oct. 1780. Peter Bruchell, of Hammersmith, Esq. (perhaps her brother), was one of her husband's executors. Scipio Duroure, Adjutant-General of the British Forces, who died 10 May 1745, from the effects of wounds received at the battle of Fontenoy, was his elder and only brother, and his son Francis erected a monument to their memory in the Abbey Cloisters, on which they were eloquently and appropriately described as "two affectionate Brothers, valiant Soldiers, and sincere Christians."

lated at Oxford, from Jesus College, 23 Jan. 1708-9, and was B.A. 14 Oct. 1712, and M.A. 24 May 1723. He became a barrister-at-law, of the Middle Temple, and was advanced to the dignity of a Serjeant-at-law 17 May 1735. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 16 May, aged seventy-two. See the burials, of his wife 27 Nov. 1779, of his sons 25 Feb. 1736-7, 3 Jan. 1785, and 7 Dec. 1814, and of his sisters, 8 Dec. 1734 and 3 Apl. 1735.

<sup>1</sup> Wife of Benjamin Cottrill (see his burial 20 Feb. 1766). She died, according to the Funeral Book, 14 June, aged seventy-nine.

<sup>2</sup> He died 16 July, aged eight years, according to the Funeral Book, which adds : " He was a Practiseing Boy in the Choir, and had the misfortune to be drowned."

<sup>4</sup> Son of William Levinz, of the Inner Temple, Esq., M.P. for co. Notts (son of Sir Creswell Levinz, Kt., one of the Justices of the Court of Common Pleas), by Anne, dau. of Samuel Buck, of Gray's Inn, Midx., Esq., who were married at St. Andrew's, Holborn, Midx., 4 June 1693. He was M.P. for co. Notts from 1734 to 1747, when he was appointed a Commissioner of the Customs, and in 1763 was made Receiver-General and Cashier of the same. He died, according to his monument, 17 Aug., aged fifty-two. His will, as of Kensington Gore, Midx., Esq., dated 3 Aug. 1765, was proved on the 23rd of the same month. He mentioned no relations except his sister Mary, wife of Robert Sutton, of East Retford, co. Notts, Esq. He evidently died unmarried.

<sup>5</sup> Third son and sixth child of K. George II. (see his burial 11 Nov. 1760), by Q. Caroline (see her burial 17 Dec. 1737), and born at St. James's Palace 15 Apl. 1721. He was created Duke of Cumberland, etc., 27 July 1726. He was Field-Marshal and Commander-in-Chief of the Forces, and commanded the English army at Fontenoy and Culloden. He was also F.R.S., and Chancellor of the Universities of Dublin and St. Andrew. He died unmarried.

<sup>6</sup> Second wife and relict of Robert Southey, College gardener (see his burial 31 Aug. 1722). She was appointed College gardener 23 Dec. 1723, and held that post, and also that of scavenger of the Little Cloisters, until her death. The journals of the day say that she had reached the age of one-hundred-and-two, but the Funeral Book, quoting her coffin-plate, says that she died 25 Nov., aged ninety-three. See her daughter's burial 24 Feb. 1752.

<sup>8</sup> Fifth son and eighth child of Frederick-Louis, Prince of Wales (see his burial 13 Apl. 1751), by the Princess Augusta (see her burial 15 Feb. 1772). According to the parish register of St. Anne, Westminster, he was born 13 May, and baptized 17 June 1750, but he is given the name of Frederick only in that register.

<sup>2</sup> Younger dau. of Thomas Arne, of St. Paul's, Covent Garden, Midx., upholsterer, by his second wife, Anne Wheeler, who were married at the Chapel of the Mercers' Company, London, in April 1707, and sister of Dr. Thomas-Augustine Arne, the celebrated musical composer. She was baptized at St. Paul's, Covent Garden, 28 Feb. 1713-4, and married, 21 Apl. 1734, Theophilus Cibber, the well-known actor and dramatist, to whom she was second wife, and who was drowned, on his passage to Dublin, in October 1758. They appear to have had two children, viz., Susanna, who was buried at St. Paul's, Covent Garden, 14 Feb. 1734-5, and Caius-Gabriel, who was buried there 17 Apl. 1736, both dying in infancy. In December 1738, she figured in one of the remarkable crim. con. cases of the period, her husband being the plaintiff, and William Sloper, of Woodhay, co. Berks, Esq., the defendant. The decision was against the latter, but the jury, instead of giving £5000 damages, as claimed by the plaintiff, gave him only £10, on the ground that he had connived at and consented to his own dishonour. The result was a separation, she retaining the name of Cibber, and, by a formal deed, being entitled to such estate as she had already acquired, or should thereafter acquire by her profession as an actress. She referred to this deed in her will. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 31 Jan., in her fifty-first year, which is an error, as from the date of her baptism she was quite, or very nearly, fifty-two. Her will, dated 16 June 1757, was proved 15 Feb. 1766, by the said William Sloper, to whom she gave her entire real and personal estate, in trust for her two children, Charles and Susanna-Maria, when they should attain their majority, or at their marriages. She was undoubtedly the most successful tragic actress of her day, and it is but fair and just to add that the profligate and otherwise infamous character of her husband readily induced the public to condone the social offence with which she had been charged, and of which, her own will being the evidence, she was confessedly guilty.

<sup>3</sup> "Yesterday died at his house in the Almonry, Westminster, Mr. Cotterell, upwards of one hundred years old, a man of an enormous bulk" (London Chronicle, 18 Feb. 1766). The Funeral Book, however, says that he died 17 Feb., aged eighty-seven, and was buried on his wife (see her burial 17 June 1765). As the latter quoted his coffin-plate, his age as there given is the most likely to have been correct. His will, dated 6 Jan. 1766, was proved on the day of his death, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, by George Williams, of St. Margaret's, Westminster, to whom and to Elizabeth Strutton he gave all his possessions equally, but without mentioning any relationship. His name, in the will, is Cottrell.

<sup>4</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 20 Feb., in his eighty-fifth year. See the burial 27 Jan. 1730-1, probably of his wife or sister.

<sup>5</sup> Child of Dr. Benjamin Cooke, organist of the Abbey (see his burial 21 Sep. 1793), by Mary his wife (see her burial 26 Mch. 1784). The Funeral Book gives his age as six months and three weeks, and says that he was buried at the feet of his grandmother, Mrs. Mary Shelvocke (see her burial 1 Aug. 1761).

<sup>6</sup> The Funeral Book says "a child of the beadle's," and that she died 21 Mch., aged seventeen months. See her father's burial 24 Mch. 1796, and her mother's 4 Nov. 1788.

<sup>7</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 4 May. Her will, as of Petty France, St. Margaret's, Westminster, dated 2 May 1766, was proved on the 6th of the same month, by her friends, Mr. Joseph Newcombe, and Mr. Robert Tomlinson, of Throgmorton Street, London, Gent., to whom she gave all her real and personal estate, in trust, except her house and meadow adjoining, called "Penponteraro," in the Island of Anglesey, the yearly revenue from which was to go to six poor widows in that island. Her only other bequests were £50 to her friend Owen Meyrick, Esq., M.P. for Anglesey, and £20 to Mrs. Sarah Alexander.

<sup>1</sup> Lady Diana Newport, youngest dau. of Richard, second Earl of Bradford, by Mary, dau. of Sir Thomas Wilbraham, third Bart. of Woodhey, co. Chester, and relict of Algernon Coote, sixth Earl of Mountrath (see his burial 7 Sep. 1744), to whom married 28 Nov. 1721. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 14 July, aged seventy. In her will, dated 9 June and proved 27 Nov. 1766, she directed the removal of her husband's remains, as stated in the text, bequeathing £2500 for the expenses of the new vault and a monument.

<sup>2</sup> He died, according to the Funeral Book, 10 Sep., aged fifty-seven. The journals of the day describe him as an officer on half-pay. He appears to have died intestate.

<sup>3</sup> The Funeral Book describes her as the wife of Joseph-Gaetan Sciacaluga, merchant, and says that she died 27 Oct., aged sixteen years, adding the words "Requiescat in pace," evidently from her coffin-plate. A marriage license was granted by the Vicar-General, 4 Apl. 1766, for Joseph-Gaetan Sciacalugga, of St. Peter-le-Poor, London, bachelor, aged twenty-one and upwards, and Maria-Teresa Valle, of St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., spinster, aged fifteen years and upwards, with the consent of her father Bartolomco Valle, of the same parish, merchant.

<sup>5</sup> Relict of Vincent Bourne, the well-known Latin poet, and Usher of Westminster School. The Funeral Book says that she died 7 Mch., aged seventy-six, and was buried in the grave of Mr. George Jewell (see his burial 9 June 1725), who was her first husband, and she was his executrix. They do not appear to have been long married, and she evidently had no issue by him. After remaining a widow nearly two years, she was married to Vincent Bourne, at the Chapel Royal, Whitehall, 25 Mch. 1727. In the marriage allegation, at the Faculty Office, dated 14 Mch., he was described as of St. Margaret's, Westminster, Gent., a bachelor, aged thirty-two, and she as of the same parish, a widow, aged above thirty. She was, however, according to her age as stated on her coffin-plate, four years his senior. They evidently had only two children, viz., Thomas, who was born 28 Jan., and baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 2 Feb., 1727-8, and Lucia, who was born the 7th. and baptized at St. John the Evangelist, Westminster, 20 Nov., 1729, and who eventually became a sister of St. Katharine's Hospital, London (see her burial 11 Mch. 1807). Vincent Bourne died 2 Dec. 1747, and was buried on the 5th of the same month in the churchyard of Fulham, Midx. He made his will 25 Dec. 1727, the year of his marriage, simply giving all his goods to his wife Lucia, appointing her his executrix, and directing to be buried, "with privacy, in some neighbouring churchyard." In a codicil, dated 24 Feb. 1745-6, he stated that God had blessed him with two children, Thomas and Lucia, both by his wife Lucia, and gave each an Exchequer order of £500; also bequeathing to his wife his right to a farm in St. Andrew's parish, near Bungay, co. Suffolk, the house he had built at Millbank, Westminster, and another house in Barton Street, as well as all the rest of his personalty. By another codicil, dated 12 Mch. 1746-7, in which he stated that his son Thomas had been provided with a second-lieutenancy in the Marine service, and fitted out for an East Indian voyage, he revoked the former bequest of £500 to him, and added it to the portion of his daughter Lucia, giving him instead the reversion of the farm in Suffolk and the house at Millbank, after his mother's death. The will was proved 22 Dec. 1747, by the relict Lucia, who appears to have died intestate, and no trace of her family history has been obtained. The son Thomas evidently died before his sister, as he was not named in her will, and she bequeathed the house in Millbank, which had been occupied by Admiral Ommaney and was then in the tenancy of his widow.

<sup>1</sup> Dau. of Thomas Warburton, of Winnington, co. Chester, Esq., and second wife and relict of John Campbell, second Duke of Argyll and created Duke of Greenwich (see his burial 15 Oct. 1743), to whom married 6 June 1717. She had been one of the Maids of Honour to Q. Anne. She died, according to her coffin-plate (exposed in 1869), 16 Apl., aged eighty-four. See the burials of her daughters, 25 Jan. 1794 and 11 Oct. 1811.

<sup>3</sup> See her husband's burial 22 Feb. 1752. They were married at St. James, Westminster, 14 Apl. 1730. In the marriage allegation, at the Faculty office, dated 14 Apl., she was described as Elizabeth Jones, of St. George's, Hanover Square, Midx., widow. Her maiden name appears to have been Bourne. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 23 June, aged seventy-nine. Her will, dated 27 Feb. 1752, with a codicil 21 Feb. 1757, was proved 7 July 1767, by her sister, Mary Bourne, spinster, residuary legatee.

<sup>5</sup> The Funeral Book calls her "a servant of Mr. Rice," and says that she died 17 Oct., aged seventy-two. See the burial of John Rice, 5 Feb. 1768. In his will, dated before her death, he had named her as one of his residuary legatees, but without stating any relationship. Her will, dated 26 May 1762, then of St. Marylebone, Midx., was proved 27 Oct. 1767, by her sister Mary, wife of Daniel Bowls, of Saffron Hill, St. Andrew's, Holborn, to whom she bequeathed £100 and the residue of her goods. Her only other bequests were £50 each to her nieces Elizabeth Bonner and Mary Bonner, when of full age.

<sup>6</sup> Second son and third child of Frederick-Louis, Prince of Wales (see his burial 13 Apl. 1751), by the Princess Augusta (see her burial 15 Feb. 1772). He was born 14 Mch. 1738-9, and baptized at Norfolk House, St. James's Square, 11 Apl. following. He was created Duke of York, etc., 1 Apl. 1760. He died, unmarried, at Monaco, of a malignant fever. His remains reached the Nore 30 Oct., and were brought to the Jerusalem Chamber 2 Nov. His age is erroneously stated in the text, as he was really in his twenty-ninth year.

<sup>3</sup> Son of John Barnard, of the Middle Temple, Esq., and of Clapham, co. Surrey, where he was buried 19 Mch. 1710-11, by Isabella his wife, also buried there 5 May 1736. He was of Trinity College, Cambridge, A.B. 1720, A.M. 1724, and S.T.P. 1740. He became Rector of Esher, co. Surrey, in 1726, was installed Prebendary of Westminster 4 Oct. 1732, became Vicar of St. Bride's, London, in 1739, Dean of Rochester 5 May 1743, and was consecrated Bishop of Raphoe, in Ireland, 19 Aug. 1744, and translated to Derry by patent dated 19 Mch. 1746-7. He married Anne, dau. of Andrew Stone, of London, the eminent banker, and sister of the Most Rev. George, Archbishop of Armagh (see his burial 28 Dec. 1764), and of Andrew Stone, Esq. (see his burial 24 Dec. 1773), who survived him.

<sup>4</sup> He was appointed a bell-ringer 23 Nov. 1736, and porter of the Great Cloister and back gate, and keeper of the water, 4 Nov. 1738 (Chapter Book). The Funeral Book calls him "first porter," and says that he died 1 Feb., aged seventy. His will, as of Dean's Yard, dated 10 Mch. 1764, was proved 30 Mch. 1768, by William Boyce, Dr. of Music, and John Bacon, as attornies for his son and only next of kin, John Rice, then residing at New York, in North America (see his burial 24 Mch. 1808). He stated that his wife Ann was then abroad, and he did not know if she were alive, but that, if she should return to England within seven years after his death, she was to have £50. His other bequests were £200 to his son John, £50 to his sister Nast Griffith, widow, £20 to her eldest daughter Mary Griffith, £10 to her daughter Elizabeth Griffith, and £10 to his nephew Thomas Griffith.

<sup>5</sup> She died, according to the Funeral Book, 7 March. Her will, as of Christ Church, in the parish of St. Margaret, Ipswich, co. Suffolk, spinster, dated 19 June 1767, was proved 4 May 1768. She bequeathed £50 to Capt. John Sandys (see his burial 28 Mch. 1774), and to his wife Elizabeth-Mary £50, her watch, plate, Japan and China ware, etc.; to her godchild Hannibal, son of Mr. William Sandys, £10 when fourteen years of age; to Mr. Joseph Man, of Christ Church aforesaid, £20; and the residue of her estate to Thomas Fonnereau, of Christ Church aforesaid, Esq., Zachary-Philip Fonnereau, of London, Esq., and his sons Mr. Martin Fonnereau and Mr. Thomas Fonnereau, in trust for the separate use of said Elizabeth-Mary Sandys, for her life, with remainder to her children; but, if she should have no issue, then to her said trustees in succession. No relationships are named in the will.

<sup>6</sup> The Funeral Book says "Mrs. Perry was the wife of the College gardener," and that she died 16 Mch., in her thirty-second year. See her husband's burial 21 Dec. 1804. She was evidently his first wife.

<sup>7</sup> According to the Chapter Book, he was appointed a bell-ringer 8 Jan. 1744-5, a sacrist 3 May 1748, and a verger 22 Dec. 1755, and held the two latter posts at his death. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 14 Apl., in his fifty-second year. His relict Esther administered

<sup>1</sup> Third dau. and seventh child of Frederick-Louis, Prince of Wales (see his burial 13 Apl. 1751), by the Princess Augusta (see her burial 15 Feb. 1772). According to the parish register of St. Anne, Westminster, she was born 8 Mch. 1748-9, and baptized 1 Apl. following. She died at Carlton House, according to the journals of the day, "of a decline."

<sup>2</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 10 Aug., aged fourteen years and nine months, and adds : "was one of the choristers, and had the misfortune to be drowned." The London Chronicle, of 11 Aug. 1768, says : "Last night, as Master Taylor, one of the Singing Boys belonging to the Choir at Westminster, was washing, off the wooden bridge at Westminster, in the Thames, he was drowned."

<sup>6</sup> Son of James Oswald, the younger, of Dunnikier, co. Fife, Esq., by Anne his wife (see her burial 5 Apl. 1762). He was born in 1715, and christened, according to the Kirkcaldy register, 12 Sep. in that year. He was M.P. for the Kirkcaldy Burghs, and co. Fife, from 1741 to 1768, and was successively Lord of the Treasury, Treasurer of Ireland, and Commissioner of the Navy, in the reigns of Kings George II. and III. See the burials, of his wife 28 Sep. 1779, and of his grandson 12 June 1819, and the marriage of his great-grand-daughter, Lady Augusta Bruce, 22 Dec. 1863.

<sup>7</sup> Fourth and youngest dau. of Sir John Fleming, Bart. (see his burial 21 Feb. 1764), by Dame Jane his wife, afterwards Baroness Harewood (see her burial 19 Apl. 1813). In her father's will she was called Margaret-Mary, as also in the record of administration to her estate, by her mother, 9 May 1774, and her second name is evidently an omission in the Abbey Register.

	May	8	Miss Maria Ladd ; <sup>10</sup> aged 11 years and 5 months : in the West Cloister.

<sup>1</sup> Son of Rev. Thomas Winstanley (see his burial 13 Feb. 1789), by Silvia his wife (see her burial 28 July 1799). He was born 30 Aug., and baptized at St. John the Evangelist, Westminster, 23 Sep. 1748. He was admitted into St. Peter's College, Westminster, in 1761, and elected to Trinity College, Cambridge, in 1766. He died, according to the Funeral Book and his monument, 21 May, in his twenty-first year.

<sup>3</sup> Son of Mr. Thomas Barrow, one of the Abbey choir (see his burial 17 Aug. 1789), by Mary his wife (see her burial 16 June 1810). He died, according to the Funeral Book, 1 Aug., aged thirteen months.

<sup>4</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 13 Aug., in his seventeenth year, and adds: "he was a King's Scholar, and was drowned." He was admitted into St. Peter's College, Westminster, in 1768, and a note in the College records says that he was drowned at Richmond. See a burial 28 Dec. 1750.

<sup>5</sup> Probably dau. of Jeremiah Caldwell (see the burials 16 Sep. 1714 and 3 Dec. 1728, and notes thereto), and certainly dau. of Elizabeth Caldwell (see her burial 1 July 1771). She died, according to the Funeral Book, 3 Sep., aged thirty-nine.

<sup>6</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 10 Oct., aged eighty-three, and was buried on Mr. James Chelsum (see his burial 10 Aug. 1743). She was a sister of his widow, Mary Chelsum. Her will, as of St. John the Evangelist, Westminster, spinster, dated 18 Jan. 1769, was proved 21 Oct. following, by said Mary Chelsum, to whom she left all her goods, except her apparel and linen, which she gave to her nieces Anna and Mary King.

<sup>7</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 9 Nov., aged eighteen years, and adds: "He was servant Boy of Dr. Ballard's" (i. e. of Rev. Reeve Ballard, one of the Prebendaries of Westminster, who does not, however, appear then to have had a Doctor's degree).

<sup>8</sup> Probably wife or sister of Thomas Finny (see his burial 19 Dec. 1776). She died, according to the Funeral Book, 19 Jan., aged eighty-six.

<sup>9</sup> Wife of Thomas Gayfere, mason of the Abbey (see his burial 10 April 1812). Both the Funeral Book and her monument say that she died the 22nd and was buried the 27th of March. The date in the text is therefore an error. See her daughter's burial 30 June 1807.

<sup>10</sup> Dau. and evidently only child of Nicholas Lade, one of the Abbey choir. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 4 May. Her father died at Windsor 9 July 1783, and was described in the journals of the day as "Mr. Nicholas Ladd, senior gentleman of H.M.'s Chapel Royal at St. James, a member of St. Peter's, Westminster, father of the choir of H.M.'s free Chapel of St. George in Windsor Castle, and a member of the Collegiate Chapel of Eton." He was sworn a Gentleman of the Chapel Royal 15 Aug. 1743. His will (signed Nicholas Lade), as of Windsor Castle, Gent., dated 2 June 1783, was proved 18 Sep. following, by his relict Frances. He directed to be buried, if he died in London, in the Abbey Cloister, near his said daughter and her grandmother (see her burial, as Mrs. Mary Smith, 17 Sep. 1773). He bequeathed his real estate to his wife absolutely, and also the interest of £450 for her life, after which the principal was to go to Hannah Lade, widow of his deceased brother Charles Lade, her three daughters, Frances, Ann, and Hannah Lade, and his niece Frances Deloe. If his nephew Charles Lade, who was at Madras when last heard from, should return to England, he was to have his musical books and instruments.

<sup>2</sup> Son and apparently only child of Reimerd Watkins (see his burial 8 Oct. 1742), by Anne his wife. He was baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 25 May 1744, after his father's death, being then, according to the parish register, in his twelfth year. His age, therefore, is erroneously stated in the text, as he was really in his thirty-ninth year at his death. This is further proved by the facts that in 1751, according to the will of his aunt Philippa Watkins (see her burial 13 Sep. in that year), he was already an apprentice, and that he was admitted to Gray's Inn 23 Nov. 1758, when, if only twenty-eight at his death, he would have been respectively only nine and seventeen years of age, much too young for either event. His wife, also, would have been in one case only seven years his senior, which is reasonable, while in the other she would have been seventeen, which is not so reasonable (see her burial 26 Oct. 1807). He died, according to the Funeral Book, 22 July. The journals of the day describe him as of Ware, Herts, and say that he died at his apartments in Cold-Bath Square. His will, as of Ware, Gent., dated 7 June 1769, was proved 26 July 1770, by his relict Anne, to whom he left his entire estate, except a few small legacies to her relations.

<sup>5</sup> Harriot Benson, only dau. and heir of Robert, Lord Bingley (see his burial 14 Apl. 1731), by Lady Elizabeth his wife (see her burial 11 Mch. 1757). She was baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 4 Feb. 1704-5, and was married, at Somerset House Chapel, 12 July 1731, to George Fox, Esq., who afterwards assumed the additional surname of Lane, and was created Baron Bingley 13 May 1762. She died at Bath, according to the journals of the day, aged sixty-three, but was really in her sixty-seventh year. Her husband died 22 Feb. 1773, when the title became extinct, their only son dying in his lifetime, without issue.

<sup>6</sup> He died, according to the Funeral Book, 10 May. His will, as of Princess Court, St. Margaret's, Westminster, dated 19 Aug. 1766, was proved 27 May 1771, by his relict Jane (see her burial 21 Nov. 1775) and his dau. Mary Anne (see her burial 3 Feb. 1810), who were his only legatees.

<sup>7</sup> The Funeral Book calls him "Major William Markham," and says that he died 27 May. He was the eldest son of Daniel Markham, of Kinsale, Ireland, Esq. (descended from the ancient family of his name at Cotham, co. Notts), formerly a Colonel in the army, by Elizabeth, dau. of Captain William Fennell, of Cappagh, co. Kilkenny, whose wife is said to have been a dau. of Bridget Fleetwood, daughter of Oliver Cromwell. He was born at Kilkenny in 1686, and educated at Trinity College, Dublin. He entered the army in 1710, and went to Halifax, Nova Scotia, as major of his regiment, in 1749, where he remained several years, and is said to have erected the first house in that place. He married, in 1717, his distant kinswoman, Elizabeth, dau. of George Markham, of Workshop Lodge, co. Notts, who died 17 July 1732, leaving issue three sons and one daughter. See the burials of his sons, 2 Jan. and 6 Feb. 1801, and 11 Nov. 1807.

<sup>3</sup> The Funeral Book says "a child of a bell-ringer," and that he died 20 June. See his father's burial 20 Feb. 1781.

<sup>4</sup> The Funeral Book says "she was the Quire cleaner," and that she died 27 June, and was buried on her daughter (see her burial 6 Sep. 1769). She was probably the wife or widow of Jeremiah Caldwell (see the burials 16 Sep. 1714 and 3 Dec. 1728, and notes thereto).

<sup>5</sup> The Funeral Book says "she was an almsman's wife," and that she died 9 July. See the burials, of her husband 12 Sep. 1775, of her daughter 25 June 1764, and of her sons, 28 July 1823 and 4 June 1833.

<sup>6</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 7 Sep., and was buried the 13th, thus supplying the omission in the Register. Her will, as of Northumberland Street, Strand, dated 29 Dec. 1766, was proved 15 June 1772, by Robert Baldy, of the same street, Esq., to whom she gave all her china, except her coloured punch bowl, which she gave to her friend Mr. John Jones, of Dean's Yard, Westminster. To her sister Elizabeth Creswell she bequeathed a guinea ring, and the residue of her estate equally to her sons Sampson Salt and James Salt.

<sup>7</sup> Second dau. of Henry White, of the city of Oxford, draper, one of the aldermen of that city (son of Sir Sampson White, Kt., Mayor of Oxford), by Catharine, dau. of William Wright, also an alderman of Oxford. She was baptized at St. Mary the Virgin, Oxford, 19 June 1695, and married there, in the Chapel of Merton College, 2 Feb. 1718-19, to Rev. Edward Willes, afterwards Bishop of Bath and Wells (see his burial 1 Dec. 1773). An amusing account of the marriage will be found in Reliquiæ Hearnianæ, edit. 1869, ii. 89. See the baptisms of her children. 24 May 1726, 29 June 1727, 26 June 1728, 10 Mch. 1729-30, 20 Dec. 1731, and 11 Mch. 1732-3, and the burials, of her daughter 5 June 1742, and of her sons, 10 July 1735, 2 Jan. 1813, and 10 Nov. 1827.

<sup>8</sup> Eldest son of Richard Warburton, of Garryhinch, King's county, Ireland, M.P. for Portarlington from 1692 to 1715, by Elizabeth, dau. of John Pigott, Esq. The Funeral Book, which says that he died 23 Oct., also gives his age as eighty, although he is said to have been born 6 Dec. 1696. He had been many years M.P. for Queen's county. He died at his apartments in Jermyn Street, according to the journals of the day, unmarried, having devised Garryhinch and his other estates to his fourth brother, Peter Warburton, Esq. He descended from the ancient family of his name at Warburton, co. Chester.

<sup>1</sup> According to Drummond's Noble Families (ii. 24), he was a son of James Drummond, of Pitzallonie, Scotland, who died in 1711, by Isabella Murray (or Moray), of Glentarf, widow of another James Drummond, of Monzie. He attained his seniority 12 Jan. 1735-6, and was superannuated 21 July 1747, with the rank and half-pay of a rear-admiral. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 15 Nov. His will, as of Park Prospect, Westminster, dated the 1st, with a codicil 5 Nov. 1771, was proved on the 29th of the same month, by his brother Gavin Drummond, Esq. (see his burial 22 Feb. 1773), and by William Drummond, of Sackville Street, wine merchant. He mentioned no other relations, and his bequests were of a trifling character.

<sup>2</sup> Son of Dr. Benjamin Cooke, organist of the Abbey (see his burial 21 Sep. 1793), by Mary his wife (see her burial 26 Mch. 1784). He was born 13 Aug., and baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 15 Oct. 1761. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 25 Jan.

<sup>3</sup> Youngest dau. of Frederic II., Duke of Saxe-Gotha, by Magdalen-Augusta, dau. of Charles-William, Prince of Anhalt-Zerbst. She was born 30 Nov. 1719, and married at St. James's Palace, 8 May 1736, Frederick-Louis, Prince of Wales (see his burial 13 Apl. 1751). According to her coffin-plate, she died in her fifty-third year. See the burials of her children, 14 Sep. 1759, 4 Jan. 1766, 3 Nov. 1767, 21 May 1768, and 28 Sep. 1790. Her eldest son, King George III., was buried at Windsor.

<sup>5</sup> The Funeral Book says that he was "one of the choristers," and died 1 May.

<sup>7</sup> The Funeral Book says "an almsman's child," and that she died 13 June. See her father's burial 16 Oct. 1800, and her mother's 2 Jan. 1793.

<sup>8</sup> Rightly Francis. According to the Chapter Book, he was appointed a bell-ringer 4 Nov. 1738, which post he resigned 14 Mch. 1745-6 and was made a vergier. He resigned, as first verger, 22 Apl. 1768, and was appointed a sacrist, which post he held until his death. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 29 July, and was buried in the grave of his first wife (see her burial 1 Dec. 1756). His will, dated 23 Mch. 1772, was proved 5 Sep. following, by Joseph Wilcocks, of Barton, co. Northampton, Esq., whom he called his honoured master. After the death of his wife Susanna (see her burial 9 Sep. 1801), his estate was to be divided between his brother John Francis, of Maldon, co. Essex, and his kinswoman Elizabeth Royse, and their children. See the burials, probably, of his sister 6 Dec. 1716, and of his brother 23 Feb. 1720-1.

<sup>1</sup> Dau. of Edmund Ayrton, Doctor of Music (see his burial 28 May 1808), by Ann his wife (see her burial 23 May 1800). She was born 9 July, and baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 12 Aug. preceding. She died, according to her coffin-plate, 16 Oct.

<sup>2</sup> According to the Funeral Book and his monument, he was eldest son of Christopher Steigner, Prefect of Thun and one of the Council of Berne, in Switzerland, and died 23 Dec. He matriculated at Oxford, from University College, 8 May 1771, aged seventeen. The tablet to his memory having become dilapidated, a new one was erected by his countrymen in 1866.

<sup>3</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 2 Jan. His will, as of the Bowling Alley, St. John the Evangelist, Westminster, victualler, dated 1 Jan. 1773, was proved on the 9th of the same month, by his relict Mary, besides whom he only mentioned his nephew John, minor son of his brother William Dove.

<sup>4</sup> Younger brother of Rear-Admiral Charles Drummond (see his burial 22 Nov. 1771, and note thereto). The Funeral Book says that he died 15 Feb., and was buried on his brother. His will, as of Park Prospect, St. Margaret's, Westminster, dated 18 Dec. 1771, with a codicil 26 Sep. 1772, was proved 19 June 1773, by William Drummond, attorney of John Rutherford, of Perth, North Britain, Writer, whom he appointed exeutor in trust for his second son, who was to be his sole heir on condition of assuming the name of Drummond, and investing the money left him in an estate to be called Strageath, or Drummond of Strageath. His other personal bequests were to Anna-Helena Stuart, dau. of his late half-sister Catharine; the children of his late half-sister Margaret; his kinswoman Anna Callendar, formerly Hally; John Drummond of Kelty and his brother Gavin Drummond; and his kinsman William Drummond, of Sackville Street, wine merchant. He also left legacies to numerous charities, and to the poor of Muthill, in Perthshire, especially those of the barony of Strageath in that parish.

<sup>5</sup> Dau. of Sir Richard Lane, Kt. (see his burial 4 Apl. 1756), by Dame Sarah his wife (see her burial 4 Oct. 1733). Her will, as of Abingdon Street, St. Margaret's, Westminster, dated 16 July 1772, was proved 1 Apl. 1773, by her sister Mary Lane (see her burial 16 Dec. 1780). She provided, in case her sister should die before her, that her estates should go to the family of the late Lord Chief Justice Willes, but without intimating any relationship between them. Among other charitable bequests was one of £100 to the poor of Burnham, co. Bucks. She died unmarried.

<sup>6</sup> Second son of the Right Rev. Robert Hay-Drummond, Archbishop of York (who was installed Prebendary of Westminster 29 Apl. 1743), by Henrietta, dau. of Peter Auriol, of London, merchant. He was born 7 Aug. 1752, and matriculated at Oxford, from Christ Church (elected from St. Peter's College, Westminster). 24 May 1769. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 7 Apl., and was buried under the monument of his uncle, the Hon. and Rev. John Hay (see his burial 26 June 1751).

<sup>5</sup> He died, according to the Funeral Book, 22 Aug. His will, as of St. Margaret's, Westminster, apothecary, dated 11 July 1771, was proved 27 Aug. 1773, by his relict Sarah (see her burial 26 Jan. 1784), to whom he left all his estate, except £100 and an annuity of £20 to his cousin Frances Hussey.

<sup>6</sup> The Funeral Book says that she was the mother-in-law of Mr. Nicholas Lade, one of the gentlemen of the choir, and that she died 10 Sep., and was buried in the grave of her granddaughter, Miss Maria Lade (see her burial 8 May 1770, and note thereto).

<sup>8</sup> Second son of Bernard Gates, of St. Margaret's, Westminster, Gent., whose will, dated 9 Aug. 1702, was proved 21 May 1718, in the Court of the Dean and Chapter, by Mary his wife, whose will, dated 22 June 1724, was proved in the same Court 1 June 1725. They left surviving three children, viz., Gabriel-Abel, Bernard, and Eleanor. The latter, who was unmarried at the date of her father's will, at that of her mother's was the wife of John Downes, of Whitechurch, in Shropshire, painter, and her brother Gabriel-Abel was then abroad. This son, Bernard, was sworn a Gentleman of the Chapel Royal in July 1708, having been for some years one of the choristers. According to his will, and the inscription on his monument, he was also one of the Abbey choir, and for many years Master of the children both of the Abbey and the Chapel Royal. He retired some years before his death to North Aston, in Oxfordshire, where he died 15 Nov., according to the Funeral Book, and where there is also a tablet to his memory. His will, as of North Aston, Esq., dated 5 Oct. 1772, was proved 28 Nov. 1773. He directed that his body should be carried to the "Swan and two Necks" in Tothill Street, Westminster, and from thence buried in the Abbey cloisters near his wife and daughter. He bequeathed to his sister Eleanor Downes, then of the city of London, widow, an annuity of £50 for life, and to her son Bernard Downes all his real estate at North Aston and elsewhere, with remainder to his children in succession, and, failing their issue, then to Thomas-Sanders Dupuis, Professor of Music (see his burial 24 July 1796), and his children in succession, with a further remainder to Samuel Arnold, Professor of Music (see his burial 29 Oct. 1802), and his children. The only other relation he named was his niece Elizabeth Musgrave, widow of Charles Musgrave. He must have been a kind-hearted old man, for he directed that his chaise horse should be kept on his estate at North Aston, without doing any work, and never killed, and that when it died naturally it should be buried without mutilation of any sort. See the burials, of his wife 15 Mch. 1736-7, and of his children, 6 June 1717, 11 July 1719, and 28 Nov. 1736.

<sup>1</sup> Son of Rev. John Willes, D.D., Prebendary of Lichfield and Rector of Bishops-Itchington, co. Warwick, by Anne, dau. of Sir William Walker, of the city of Oxford, Kt. He was born 6 Mch. 1693-4, and matriculated at Oxford, from Oriel College, 16 Feb. 1708-9. He took the degrees of B.A. 30 Oct. 1712, M.A. 6 July 1715, and B.D. and D.D. 8 July 1726. He was installed Prebendary of Westminster 26 Aug. 1724, and Dean of Lincoln 16 May 1730, and was consecrated Bishop of St. David's 2 Jan. 1742-3, whence he was translated to Bath and Wells in December following. He appears also to have held the office of "Decipherer to the King." See his wife's burial 18 Oct. 1771, the baptisms of his children, 24 May 1726, 29 June 1727, 26 June 1728, 10 Mch. 1729-30, 20 Dec. 1731, and 11 Mch. 1732-3, and the burials, of his daughter 5 June 1742, and of his sons, 10 July 1735, 2 Jan. 1813, and 10 Nov. 1827.

<sup>2</sup> Son of Abraham Ackworth, Esq. (see his burial 14 Apl. 1781), by Margaretta-Mabella his wife (see her burial 26 Apl. 1794). He was born 20 Dec. 1751, and baptized at St. John the Evangelist, Westminster, 16 Jan. 1752. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 28 Nov.

<sup>3</sup> Son of Andrew Stone, of London, an eminent banker in Lombard Street, by his wife Anne Holbrooke. He matriculated at Oxford, from Christ Church, 6 June 1722, aged nineteen, and was B.A. 2 May 1726, and M.A. 21 Mch. 1728-9. He was tutor to K. George III. when Prince of Wales, and became Treasurer to Q. Charlotte, Under-Secretary of State, Secretary to the Island of Barbados, etc., and was M.P. for Hastings from 1741 to 1760. See the burials, of his wife 13 June 1782, his only son 15 Feb. 1761, his brother (the Archbishop of Armagh) 28 Dec. 1764, and his sister's husband (the Bishop of Derry) 16 Jan. 1768, and the marriage of another brother 17 Feb. 1736-7.

<sup>5</sup> He died, according to the Funeral Book, 21 Mch., and the journals of the day say at his house near Westminster Abbey. See the burial of Elizabeth Rose, 13 Mch. 1768, and note thereto. In her will she called him Captain John Sandys, and made his wife her residuary legatee. His will, as of Abingdon Street, Westminster, Esq., dated 17 Dec. 1770, was proved 30 Mch. 1774, by William Holt, of the Middle Temple, Esq., to whom, and to his brother William Sandys, and Rev. John White, of Holme, co. Norfolk, Clerk, he bequeathed £12,000 out of his personal estate, in trust to purchase freehold lands, etc., and settle an annuity of £100 on his wife Elizabeth-Mary for life, and the residue on his son John-Thomas Sandys, who was also to be his general residuary legatee. He also settled a small annuity on his sister Anne, wife of Mr. George Millet, of Helstone, co. Cornwall, saddler.

 Oct. 19 The Hon. James Cholmondeley, General of H. M.'s Forces, etc.;<sup>8</sup> died the 13th, in his 68th year: in the middle aisle.

<sup>2</sup> The Funeral Book calls him "Dean of Bocking, in Essex," and says that he died 6 Sep. His monument describes him as also Rector of Southchurch, co. Essex. He matriculated at Oxford, from Corpus Christi College, 17 Dec. 1733, aged fifteen, as son of John Hall, of Basingstoke, co. Southampton, Gent., and was B.A. 10 June 1737, M.A. 14 Feb. 1740-1, B.D. 22 Apl. 1749, and D.D. 24 Nov. 1757. He was instituted Dean and Rector of Bocking 20 Nov. 1761, and Rector of Southchurch in 1764, having been sometime chaplain to the Archbishop of Canterbury. He married, 23 Sep. 1762, Elizabeth Carsan, of Lambeth, co. Surrey, described in the marriage allegation as a spinster, aged twenty-four, and she administered to his estate 22 Sep. 1774.

<sup>3</sup> The Funeral Book says "one of the almsmen," and that he died 16 Nov. He appears to have married Elizabeth, dau. of Shadrach Alderson (see his burial 23 Oct. 1744), who in his will described him as a "waterman."

<sup>4</sup> Her monument described her as the "eldest dau. of Andrew Fletcher, of Salton, Esq., and wife of John Grant, of Elchies, Esq., both of North Britain," and the Funeral Book says that she died 5 April. The Scots Magazine, noticing her death, described her as "wife of Baron Grant and daughter of the late Lord Milton." She was evidently the daughter of the well-known Andrew Fletcher, of Salton, better known as Lord Milton, the distinguished Lord-justice-clerk of Scotland, which office he resigned in 1748, on being appointed principal keeper of the signet. He died 13 Dec. 1766. Her husband, John Grant, was son of Patrick Grant, another distinguished judge known as Lord Elchies, and was himself one of the barons of the Exchequer in Scotland.

<sup>5</sup> Child of Anthony Gell, Esq., afterwards Receiver-General of the Abbey (see his burial 4 Feb. 1817), by Frances his wife (see her burial 7 Feb. 1825). The Funeral Book says that he died 8 May, aged twelve days, and was buried on his brother and sister (see their burials 2 Jan. 1766 and 2 June 1769).

<sup>6</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 16 July. Her will, as of St. Margaret's, Westminster, widow, dated on the day of her death, was proved 16 Aug. following, by Raisley Calvert, of Greystoke, co. Cumberland, to whom and to his heirs for ever, without naming any relationship, she bequeathed all her personalty, and all her freehold estates in Bassenthwaite and Under-skidder, or elsewhere, in co. Cumberland. Her only other bequest was £300 to her nephew Thomas Bork, of the Haymarket, grocer. She directed to be buried in the Cloisters.

<sup>7</sup> One of the almsmen. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 5 Sep., and was buried on his wife: see her burial 16 July 1771, and the burials, of his daughter 25 June 1764, and of his sons, 28 July 1823 and 4 June 1838.

was born 18 Apl. 1708, and entered the army as a major 12 May 1725, attaining the rank of General 13 Apl. 1770. He married Lady Penelope Barry, dau. of James, fourth Earl of Barrymore, but was divorced from her in 1736, and died without legitimate issue.

<sup>1</sup> Dau. of Rev. Thomas Yates, D.D., of Charlton-upon-Otmoor, co. Oxford, by Anne Sutton his wife, and first wife of Rev. Anselm Bayly, D.C.L., Sub-dean of the Chapel Royal, to whom married, at St. George's, Bloomsbury, Midx., 3 June 1746 (see more of him in the note to a baptism 27 June 1778). She was born the 3rd, and baptized at St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., 10 May, 1713. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 15 Nov. The extraordinary fact that her husband remarried eight days after her death, and only two days after her burial, suggests some domestic mystery, which is not explained by the wills of her family. See the burials of her children 29 Oct. 1751, 8 Oct. 1754, and 5 Nov. 1782, and of her sister 10 Feb. 1779. Another daughter, Elizabeth, apparently her only other child, was born 10 June, and baptized at St. James, Westminster, 9 July 1748, and was unmarried in 1776, but was living 28 Oct. 1782, the date of her brother's will, as Elizabeth Ridley.

<sup>2</sup> The Funeral Book calls her the relict of Richard Gaven, Esq., and says that she died 9 Nov., and was buried on her husband: see his burial 15 May 1771, and that of her daughter 3 Feb. 1810.

<sup>3</sup> One of Lord Anson's lieutenants, fought gallantly in the "Yarmouth" in May and Oct. 1747, was M.P. for Plymouth in 1750 and for Hedon in Yorkshire in 1754, Comptroller of the Navy 1755, Rear-Admiral of the Blue 1756 and of the White 1758, Vice-Admiral of the Blue 1759, and commanded the fleet in the expedition against Quebec in that year, Lieut.-General of the Marines 1760, installed a Knight of the Bath 26 May 1761, a lord of the Admiralty 1765, and First Lord 1766. He is said to have married, 26 Sep. 1751, the only dau. of James Buck, of London, banker, but she is not named in his will, which was dated 20 Jan. 1773 and proved 14 Dec. 1775. The only relations he mentioned were his sister Anne, widow of Peter Kinsey, and her children Charles and Jane Kinsey, his late uncle Thomas Jenkinson of Cubley, co. Derby, and his children, and his cousin Harriot Egerton, daughter of Colonel Egerton deceased.

<sup>4</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 10 Dec. The place of burial indicates that she occupied some humble position.

<sup>5</sup> Rightly Strode. His monument describes him as Lieut.-General, and Colonel of the 62nd regiment of foot, and states that he died after sixty years' service. His will, dated 20 Oct. 1774, was proved 19 Jan. 1776. He bequeathed the residue of his estate to trustees for the benefit of several charities, but gave his freehold house in Gerrard Street, St. Anne's, Westminster, all his furniture, plate, jewels, books, coach and horses, etc., and an annuity of £100, to Mrs. Sarah Land, dau. of Eustace Harding, late fruiterer and cider merchant, deceased, and then the wife of Thomas Land, husbandman. No relations are named in the will. The London Chronicle, of 19 Jan. 1776, noticing his death, says: "He had such a great regard for the Duke of Cumberland that he erected, at his own expense, a handsome statue to his Royal Highness's memory in Cavendish Square." This well known statue, according to the inscription upon it, was erected 4 Nov. 1770.

<sup>6</sup> Son of John Burland, of Steyning, in the parish of Stoke-Courcy, co. Somerset, Esq., by Elizabeth, dau. and heir of Claver Morris, of the city of Wells, M.D., and born at Wells 10 July

- 1776 March 9 Thomas Ludford, Esq.,<sup>1</sup> in his 67th year: in the North Cloister.
 14th year: in the East Cloister.
 March 23 Mrs. Margaret Vertue;<sup>3</sup> aged 76: in the North Cloister.
 April 20 Mrs. Elizabeth Randall:<sup>4</sup> aged 69: in the West Cloister.

1724. He matriculated at Oxford, from Balliol College, 25 Feb. 1740-1, but appears to have taken no degree. While still a serjeant-at-law, 8 July 1773, he was created D.C.L. by his old University. He was made a Baron of the Exchequer 8 Apl. 1774, and knighted the same day. He married Letitia, only dau. of William Berkeley-Portman, of Orchard-Portman, co. Somerset, Esq., who survived him until 1779, and left an only son. He is said to have died instantaneously, from the bursting of a blood-vessel of the brain.

<sup>1</sup> Son of Samuel Bracebridge, of Ansley Hall, co. Warwick, Esq., who assumed the name and arms of Ludford, by Catharine, dau. of John Lewis, of Guildford, co. Surrey, Gent. He was baptized at Ansley 29 Sep. 1708, and married, at St. John the Evangelist, Westminster, 29 May 1731, Anne, only dau. of Rev. Edward Taylor, Rector of Finsbury, Notts, and widow of Thomas Pold, of London, distiller (see her burial 18 May 1748, and note thereto), by whom he had one son, Edward-Taylor Ludford, who was living 31 Mch. 1743, but evidently died before his father, as he was not named in his will. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 1 Mch., and the journals of the day say at his house at Hayes, co. Midx. His will, as of Hayes, Esq., dated 12 Jan. 1776, was proved 28 June following, by Elizabeth, wife of Richard Bellamy, to whom, and to their children, Elizabeth-Maria Bellamy, and Thomas-Ludford Bellamy, he bequeathed his freehold estates at Hayes and at Westminster, and his leasehold property in Ireland, alleging that his own family had disowned him, but with the proviso that they were to forfeit the whole in case they ever had anything to say to a certain person whom he designated as "that infernal hussey Suett." His other bequests were chiefly to his servants.

<sup>2</sup> Only son of Albany Wallis, of the Inner Temple, Esq. (see his burial 10 Sep. 1800), by Elizabeth his wife, who was buried in the Temple churchyard 3 Mch. 1773. The Funeral Book says that he died 29 Mch., in his fourteenth year, but his monument says in his thirteenth year, and that he was drowned in the Thames, being "his loving father's only hope." The discrepancy probably arose from the fact that the monument was erected by David Garrick, without the knowledge of his father, and the Funeral Book, quoting the coffin-plate, is the most likely to be correct.

<sup>3</sup> Relict of George Vertue, the celebrated engraver (see his burial 30 July 1756). She died, according to the Funeral Book, 17 Mch., and was buried on her husband. Nothing appears to have been known to her husband's biographers concerning her family, nor even her maiden name. In a MS. copy (penes the Editor) of an official list of the inmates of the Roman Catholic Convent at Hammersmith, Midx., carefully annotated by the successive Lady Abbesses, under the date of 1703, occur the names of apparently four sisters, viz., Anne, Frances, Philippa, and Margaret Evans. Against the name of the first the Lady-Abbess of a somewhat later period placed the name of Nugent, and against the name of the last that of Vertue, with, in both instances, a customary mark indicating marriage. There can be no doubt whatever that this entry refers to Mrs. Vertue and her three sisters, as her husband in his will left legacies to his "wife's sisters, Philippa Evans and Mrs Anne Nugent, widow." They appear to have died before her, as the only relation named in her own will, dated 11 Aug. 1775 and proved 27 Mch. 1777, was her cousin Mrs. Mary Dymes. Her other bequests were to various friends of her own and her late husband. Her principal legates were her said cousin Mary Dymes, and Martha Ford, widow of Richard Ford, late of the Haymarket, auctioneer. At the date of her will she was living in Brownlow Street, St. Giles in the Fields. She was of course in the Convent as a child only three years of age, and apparently the youngest of the four. The list gives no further information respecting her or her family.

<sup>4</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 13 Apl. Her will, as of St. John the Evangelist, Westminster, spinster, dated 25 Mch. 1776, was proved 15 Apl. following, by her friend Sarah Power, widow, to whom she left all her money in the funds, the furniture she had bought since she had been in lodgings, all her books and china, etc. Her only relation named was her niece Ann Lane.

<sup>2</sup> Son of Edmund Ayrton, Dr. of Music (see his burial 28 May 1808), by Ann his wife (see her burial 23 May 1800). He was born 31 Jan., and baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 27 Feb., in the same year. The Funeral Book says that he died 12 July, and was buried in the same grave with his sister (see her burial 19 Oct. 1772).

<sup>3</sup> Anne, eldest surviving dau. of John Plomer (or Plumer), of Blakesware, in the parish of Ware, co. Herts, Esq., by Mary, eldest dau. of William Hale, of King's Walden, in the same county, Esq. The Funeral Book, quoting her coffin-plate, says that she was born 29 June 1690. She was baptized at Ware 3 July 1690, and married, about 26 Mch. 1711 (Mar. Lic. Fac.), James Hamilton, afterwards seventh Earl of Abercorn (see his burial 16 Jan. 1743-4).

<sup>5</sup> Child of George Slemaker, chief porter of the Abbey (see his burial 23 Aug. 1802), by Susanna his wife (see her burial 10 Nov. 1818). See his baptism 2 Sep. preceding. The Funeral Book calls him "the first porter's child," and says that he died 28 Sep.

<sup>6</sup> The well-known Roman Catholic divine, canon and librarian of St. Geneviève, Paris, who, chiefly on account of his publication of certain theological works deemed heterodox by his church, found it expedient to come to England, where he arrived in Jan. 1727-8. The University of Oxford had created him a Doctor of Divinity 28 Aug. in the preceding year. He is usually said to have been a native of Vernon, in Normandy, but the Funeral Book, quoting his coffin-plate, says that he was born at Rouen 17 Nov. 1681. He mentions Vernon in his will as the residence of his family, and the place of his education. The work which gave him the greatest celebrity was his dissertation concerning the validity of English ordinations, and the succession of Bishops in the Church of England. He died 17 Oct., in Downing Street, Westminster. His will, as "Peter Francis Le Courayer," Doctor in Divinity, dated 23 Feb. 1774, with codicils 22 Mch. 1775 and 5 Mch. 1776, was proved 29 Oct. 1776. He left legacies to numerous friends, but to only one relation, viz., his brother James Le Courayer, then living at Vernon. He declared that he died "a member of the Catholic Church, but without approving of many of the opinions and superstitions which have been introduced into the Romish Church."

<sup>7</sup> Dau. of Sir William Luckyn, third Bart. of Messing Hall, co. Essex, by Mary, dau. of William Sherington, Alderman of London. Her brother William was created, 29 May 1719, Baron Dunboyne and Viscount Grimston, in the peerage of Ireland. She was baptized at Messing 18 Feb. 1691-2, and married there, 24 Jan. 1721-2, to Joseph Hucks, of Great Russell Street, St. Giles in the Fields, Gent., J.P. for Middlesex, an eminent brewer, being then a widower, who died 8 Aug. 1749. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 2 Nov. Her only child, Sarah, married, first, Rev. Anthony Cope, Dean of Armagh, and, secondly, the Right Rev. Charles Jackson, Bishop of Kildare.

<sup>1</sup> Wife of Pegrum Thorpe (see his burial 29 Jan. 1784), to whom married, at St. John the Evangelist, Westminster, 10 Jan. 1756, as Sarah Bacchus, of that parish, spinster. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 23 Nov. If the ages of herself and husband were correctly given in the Register and Funeral Book, which there is no reason to doubt, she was some twelve years his senior.

<sup>2</sup> Lady Elizabeth Seymour, only dau. and sole surviving child and heir of Algernon, seventh Duke of Somerset (see his burial 24 Feb. 1749-50), by Frances his Duchess (see her burial 20 July 1754), and also sole heir of the ancient Earls of Northumberland. She was born 26 Nov., and baptized at St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., 1 Dec. 1716, and married, about 5 July 1740 (Spec. Lic. Vic. Gen.), Sir Hugh Smithson, Bart., who was created Duke of Northumberland 22 Oct. 1766 (see his burial 21 June 1786). See the burials, of her only brother 6 July 1745, and of her children, 5 June 1761 and 19 July 1817.

<sup>3</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 15 Dec., and adds that he was a carpenter, and was buried at the Dean's expense. See the burial, probably of his wife or sister, 25 Jan. 1770.

<sup>4</sup> The Funeral Book says "wife of Dr. Worgan." Probably the second wife of Dr. John Worgan, the celebrated organist and musical composer, who, as a widower, married, at St. Mary Aldermay, London, 12 June 1779, Martha Cooke, of St. Thomas the Apostle, London, widow. His first wife was Sarah Mackelcan, to whom he was married 1 Sep. 1753, and from whom he was divorced in 1768. Dr. Worgan's will, dated 11 Apl. 1783, with a codicil 3 Aug. 1790, was proved 31 Aug. 1790, by his relict Martha and his son-in-law William Parsons, Dr. of Music.

<sup>5</sup> Spranger Barry, the celebrated tragedian. He is usually said to have been the eldest son of an eminent silversmith in Dublin, and to have been born in the parish of St. Werburgh, in that city, 20 Nov. 1719. A writer in Notes and Queries, in 1850, 1st Ser., i. 212, stated that he and Sir William Betham had succeeded in connecting him, "satisfactorily, and legitimately, with the noble house of Barry, Lord Santry." He appears to have been twice married, although his first wife is seldom named by his biographers. See the burial of his second wife, as Mrs. Ann Crawford, 7 Dec. 1801. He is said to have been married to her about 1768. In the parish register of St. Paul's, Covent Garden, Midx., occurs the baptism, 10 Aug. 1748, of Spranger, son of Spranger Barry and Ann his wife. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 10 Jan. His will, as of King Street, Covent Garden, Esq., dated 24 Jan. 1770, was proved 1 Feb. 1777, by his relict Ann, whom he described as "Ann Barry, formerly Ann Dancer," to whom he bequeathed his leasehold house at Streatham, co. Surrey, with its furniture, etc., also the Theatre Royal, in Crow Street, Dublin, with its contents, and a house adjoining, the same being subject to two annuities of £60 and £40 payable to James Carter. during the lives of Ann Carter and Julia Carter, under an indenture dated 23 Apl. 1768. He also gave to his wife the residue of his personalty, and no other legatee is named in the will.

<sup>6</sup> The Funeral Book says "second daughter of Rev. Dr. Lloyd, late second master of Westminster School," and that she died 22 Jan., aged thirty-six; but either she, or a second daughter of the same name, was born the 2nd, and baptized at St. John the Evangelist, Westminster,

Second Master of Westminster School; <sup>1</sup> died the 8th, aged three months: in the North Cross.
- April 13 Mrs. Dorothy Hull; <sup>2</sup> aged 84: in the North Cloister.
- June 15 Char<sup>s</sup>-Walter Congreve, Archdeacon of Armagh; <sup>3</sup> in his 70th year: in the South Cloister.
- July 30 Mr. Thomas Fisher; <sup>4</sup> aged 63: in the East Cloister.
- Oct. 3 Mr. George Williams; <sup>5</sup> aged 72: in the Dark Cloister.
- Oct. 11 Mrs. Isabella Waters; <sup>6</sup> aged 50: in the Cloister leading to the
- Nov. 3 Samuel Foot, Esq.; <sup>7</sup> aged 55: in the West Cloister.

18 June 1737, and would have been at this date in her fortieth year. Her sister Mary was born 11 Feb., and baptized 8 Mch. 1740-1, and was therefore now within a few days of the age of thirty-six. It is probable that her age, as given both in the Register and Funeral Book, is an error, and that it should read thirty-nine. See her father's burial 12 Jan. 1781.

<sup>1</sup> See her baptism 12 Dec. 1776, and the burials, of her father 29 Dec. 1815, and of her mother 23 Feb. 1807.

<sup>2</sup> She died, according to the Funeral Book, 8 Apl. Her will, as of St. John the Evangelist, Westminster, widow, dated 19 Mch. 1772, was proved 9 Apl. 1777, by William Young, of the same parish, peruke maker (see his burial 21 Nov. 1799), to whom she bequeathed all her goods, but without naming any relationship.

<sup>3</sup> Charles-Walter, second son of John Congreve, of Congreve and Stretton, co. Stafford, Esq., by Abigail, dau. of John Harwood, of Shrewsbury, co. Salop, Esq., and great-nephew of William Congreve, Esq., the celebrated dramatist (see his burial 26 Jan. 1728-9). He matriculated at Oxford, from Magdalen Hall, 11 Mch. 1725-6, aged eighteen, and was B.A. 17 Oct. 1729, as of that Hall, and M.A., as of All Souls College, 6 Apl. 1734. He signed the subscription book, and took his degrees, as "Charles Congreve" only, but appears to have assumed the second name soon after, as he was installed Archdeacon of Armagh, by both names, 13 May 1738. In Apl. 1746 he was appointed Vicar-General of that diocese. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 7 June, and was unmarried.

<sup>4</sup> The Chapter Book mentions him, 5 June 1766, as the College cook. The Funeral Book says that he died 22 July, and was buried with his wife (see her burial 13 Nov. 1761). His will, as of St. John the Evangelist, Westminster, oilman, dated 18 July 1777, was proved on the 29th of the same month, by his dau. Mary Fisher, spinster, whom he made his residuary legatee, giving his other two daughters, Elizabeth and Jane-Frances, £100 each. See the burials of his children, 8 Aug. 1740, 23 Jan. 1741-2, 16 Nov. 1745, 30 Oct. 1748, 28 June 1752, 24 Nov. 1760, 7 Feb. 1780, and 17 Oct. 1804.

<sup>5</sup> The Funeral Book says "one of the almsmen," and that he died 1 Oct. He is mentioned in the Chapter Book, as an alm-man, as early as 27 June 1746. His will, dated 30 Nov. 1770, was proved 23 Oct. 1777, by his relict Sarah. He left bequests to his children in the following order: Samuel Williams, Sarah, wife of John Edwards, Margaret Williams, Elizabeth Williams, and Henry-Hutton Williams. See the burials of his grandsons, 28 Dec. 1753 and 13 Jan. 1769.

<sup>6</sup> The Funeral Book says that she was the second cook's wife, and died 7 Oct. See the burial, probably of her husband, 12 Nov. 1791.

<sup>7</sup> The celebrated actor and dramatist. Third son of Samuel Foot, of Truro, co. Cornwall, Esq., by Eleanor, dau. of Sir Edward Goodere, first Bart. of Burhope, co. Hereford. He was born at Truro, and matriculated at Oxford, from Worcester College, 1 July 1737, aged sixteen, but appears to have taken no degree. As author, actor, and manager, his subsequent career is too well known to require rehearsal. He died 21 Oct., at the "Ship" inn, Dover, on his way to France. His will, as of the Haymarket, Esq., dated 13 Aug. 1768, was proved the day after his death. He bequeathed his possessions, such as they were, in trust for his two illegitimate sons,

- 1777 Dec. 23 Mrs. Jane Hiscox;<sup>1</sup> in her 23rd year: in the East Cloister.
 Dec. 31 Mrs. Mary Catling;<sup>2</sup> aged 40: in the Cloister leading to the School.
- 1778 Jan. 1 John Slemaker;<sup>3</sup> aged two years and three months: in the South Cloister.
 Jan. 2 Miss Sarah Ayrton;<sup>4</sup> aged four years and five months: in the North Cloister.
 Jan. 3 Miss Cath<sup>a</sup> Rawle;<sup>5</sup> in her 20th year: in the North Cloister.
 Jan. 22 Mr. Alexander Hanna;<sup>6</sup> aged 88: in the East Cloister.
 Feb. 19 Robert Halhed, Esq.;<sup>7</sup> aged 53: in the East Cloister.

Francis Foote and George Foote, with remainder, if they should die in their minority, partly to William Jewell, treasurer of the Haymarket Theatre, and partly to his mother and his brother Edward-Goodere Foote.

<sup>1</sup> The Funeral Book calls her "wife of Rev. Mr. Hiscox," and says that she died 15 Dec. She was the first wife of Rev. John Hiscox (son of John Hiscox, Esq., sometime of Carshalton, co. Surrey, but who died at Lambeth 10 May 1772, by Hannah his wife, who also died at Lambeth, about Nov. 1773), who, in his will, as of North Street, St. John the Evangelist, Westminster, dated 14 Jan. 1789, and proved 9 Mch. following, by his second wife and relict Elizabeth (see her burial 9 July 1789), mentioned her as Jean Elphinstone, and cited the contract made before their marriage, dated at Aberdeen 4 Feb. 1775. His two children by her, Jean and Anne, survived him.

<sup>2</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 27 Dec. She was probably related in some way to John Catling, one of the scrifts of the Abbey (see his burial 29 May 1762), but was neither his sister nor his daughter. One of her name was born the 7th, and baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 26 Mch. 1738, as daughter of John Catling and Jane his wife, who appear to have been married there 26 May 1737, as John Catling and Jane Chatty.

<sup>3</sup> Child of George Slemaker, chief porter of the Abbey, etc. (see his burial 23 Aug. 1802), by Susanna his wife (see her burial 10 Nov. 1818). See his baptism 22 Oct. 1775. The Funeral Book says that he died 28 Dec. 1777, and was buried on his brother (see his burial 1 Oct. 1776).

<sup>4</sup> Dau. of Edmund Ayrton, Dr. of Music (see his burial 28 May 1808), by Ann his wife (see her burial 23 May 1800). She was born 31 July, and baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 2 Sep. 1773. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 29 Dec. 1777, and was buried at the feet of her brother and sister (see their burials 13 July 1776 and 19 Oct. 1772).

<sup>5</sup> The Funeral Book, quoting her coffin-plate, says "Catharine Rawle, born 1 Sep. 1758, died 28 Dec. 1777." See her father's burial 15 Nov. 1789, and that of her sister, Caroline Dale, 1 Nov. 1825.

<sup>6</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 17 Jan., aged eighty-eight, but his monument gives his age as ninety. His will, as late of Aldermanbury, London, warehouseman, but then of Duke Street, Westminster, dated 4 Sep. 1777, was proved 18 Apl. 1778, by his son John Hanna (see his burial 25 Mch. 1814) and his son-in-law Thomas Symonds, husband of his dau. Jane. His other legatees were his wife Elizabeth (see her burial 29 Sep. 1786), his married daughters Mary-Margery Clinton and Henrietta Sprat, his unmarried daughters Arabella and Elizabeth, his sister Jane Ditour, and his brother John Hanna, of Athlone, Ireland. The baptisms and burials of several of his children occur in the parish register of St. Mary Aldermanbury.

<sup>7</sup> He died, according to the Funeral Book, 12 Feb., and at his house in Abingdon Buildings, according to the newspapers of the day. His will, as of Abingdon Street, Westminster, but late of the parish of St. Andrew, co. Surrey, island of Jamaica, Esq., dated 8 Feb. 1788, was proved on the 17th of the same month, by his relict Elizabeth (see her burial 13 Oct. 1829), and by William Simpson, of the Inner Temple, Gent. His sister Susanna Halhed, then living with him, an invalid, was to continue to have the annuity left her by her father, Richard Halhed, Esq., deceased, out of his estate in Jamaica, and his only other relations named (besides his son) were the children of his half-sister Leah, wife of Thomas Leadbeater, of St. Thomas in the East,

- May 9 Mr. Phoenix Felton, a King's scholar ;<sup>2</sup> drowned on the 5th, in his 20th year : in the South Cloister.
- May 13 Mr. Robert Whitworth, a King's scholar ;<sup>3</sup> drowned on the 5th, in his 17th year : in the South Cloister.
- May 11 Mrs. Mary Davies ;<sup>4</sup> aged 72 : in the North Cloister.
- June 9 The most noble and puissant Lord, William Pitt, Earl of Chatham and Viscount Pitt of Burton-Pynsent in the county of Somerset,<sup>5</sup> died at Hayes in Kent May 11th, 1778, in the 70th year of his age, and was buried (from the Painted Chamber, at the expense of Parliament) on the 9th day of June next following in the centre of the North Cross of the Abbey.
- June 12 Colonel Achilles Preston ;<sup>6</sup> died July 12th, 1764, aged 31 years : removed from the East Indies and buried on the 12th day of June, 1778, in the South Cross of the Abbey.

Jamaica, both deceased, and his cousin William Halhed, of Clapham, Esq. See his son's burial in the following entry.

<sup>1</sup> See his father's burial in the preceding entry, and his mother's 13 Oct. 1829. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 29 Mch., and appears, from his father's will, to have been his only child.

<sup>3</sup> Fourth and youngest son of Sir Charles Whitworth, Kt., M.P., Lieut.-Governor of Tilbury Fort, Treasurer of the Foundling Hospital, etc., who was knighted 19 Aug. 1768, and died at Bath 22 Aug. 1778, by Martha, eldest dau. of Richard Shelley, Esq., commissioner of the stamp office, second son of Sir John Shelley, third Bart. (Their eldest son, Charles Whitworth, was the celebrated diplomatist, afterwards Earl Whitworth). He was admitted into St. Peter's College, Westminster, in 1775, and, according to the Funeral Book, was unfortunately drowned, on Tuesday, 5 May, which accords with the text. The London Chronicle gives an account of the accident, with, however, some little confusion of dates. The issue of Thursday, 7 May, says : "Yesterday evening, three young gentlemen belonging to Westminster School sailing in a boat between Lambeth and Vauxhall, the boat overset, and two of them were drowned ; the other was taken up by a waterman." The issue of 9 May says : "The young gentlemen who were drowned on Monday last, prove to be the sons of Sir Charles Whitworth and Mr. Felton. Doctor Warren's son was in the boat, but fortunately saved." See the preceding entry.

<sup>4</sup> Youngest dau. of Allen Cliffe, of Mathon, co. Worcester, Esq., by Elizabeth his wife. She was baptized at Mathon 11 Nov. 1706, and married there, 2 Oct. 1735, to Owen Davies, of Westminster, Esq. (see his burial 1 May 1759). She died, according to the Funeral Book, 1 May, and was buried on her husband. See the baptisms of her children 14 Sep. 1736 and 13 Jan. 1739-40, and their burials 6 Feb. 1786 and 2 Apl. 1791 ; also the burial of her brother 23 Apl. 1742.

<sup>5</sup> The celebrated statesman. Second son of Robert Pitt, Esq., by Harriet, dau. of Edward Villiers, Esq., and sister of John, fifth Viscount Grandison. He was born, according to his monument, 15 Nov. 1708, and appears to have been baptized at St. James, Westminster. 13 Dec. following. He matriculated at Oxford, from Trinity College, 14 Jan. 1726-7, aged eighteen, as son of Robert Pitt, of Old Sarum, Esq., but appears to have taken no degree. He became Secretary of State in 1756, and was created, 4 Aug., 1766, Viscount Pitt and Earl of Chatham. See the burials, of his wife 16 Apl. 1803, of his sons 22 Feb. 1806 and 3 Oct. 1835, and of his daughter 2 Oct. 1786.

<sup>6</sup> The journals of the day say that he was gazetted "Colonel of Foot in the East Indies only" in June 1764, and that he was killed at the siege of Madura, while leading the storming party against the fort. He was also described as "the darling of the army, and an ornament to the service," and said to have died at the age of thirty. His will, as a Major in the service of the East India Company of England, then commanding at Trichinopoly, dated 25 Jan. 1763, was proved 8 May 1765, by his father Achilles Preston, and his uncle Alexander Whitchurch. The only other relations he named were his sisters Elizabeth and Martha, both unmarried, and his sister Ann Alanson. His father was buried in the chapel of the Mercers' Company, London, Oct. 1770, near his wife.

<sup>2</sup> Dau. of Benedict-Leonard Calvert, fifth Lord Baltimore, by Lady Charlotte Lee, eldest dau. of Edward-Henry, first Earl of Lichfield. She married, 10 June 1720, John Hyde, of Kingston-Lisle, co. Berks, Esq., then a colonel in the Guards, who died in 1746, and was buried at Southampton. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 15 July. Her will, as of St. Margaret's, Westminster, dated 22 Dec. 1777, was proved 22 July 1778, by her dau. Catharine, wife of the Rev. Thomas Willis, Rector of Bletchley, co. Bucks.

<sup>3</sup> Son of James, sixth Lord Cranston (see his burial 14 July 1773), by Sophia, daughter of Jeremiah Brown, of Abscourt, co. Surrey, Esq. He was born 3 Sep. 1749, succeeded as seventh Lord Cranston, and died unmarried.

<sup>4</sup> According to his gravestone, he was the eldest son of his parents, and died 22 Dec. aged thirteen years, five months, and five days. The Funeral Book, quoting his coffin-plate, says that he was born 17 July 1765, and died 21 Dec. 1778. He was born 17 July, and baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 16 Aug. 1765, as son of Michael Van Millingen and Elizabeth his wife.

<sup>5</sup> The celebrated actor. He was second son and third child of Captain Peter Garrick, of a regiment of foot under the command of Major-General Kirke, by Arabella, dau. of Rev. Mr. Clough, vicar choral of Lichfield cathedral, and was baptized at All Saints, Hereford, 28 Feb. 1715-16. His grandfather, David Garric (as he and at least one of the sons wrote the name), was a refugee from Bordeaux in 1685, and became a merchant in London. Garrick's parents were married 13 Nov. 1707. His father's will, dated 1 Jan. 1736-7, was proved 7 Apl. following, and his mother was buried at Lichfield 28 Sep. 1740. His personal history and professional career are too well known to require recapitulation. See his wife's burial 25 Oct. 1822. They left no issue.

<sup>6</sup> Dau. of Rev. Thomas Yates, D.D., of Charlton-upon-Otmoor, co. Oxford, by Anne Sutton his wife. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 5 Feb. Her will, as of St. George's, Hanover Square, Midx., spiuster, dated 26 May 1767, with codicils 30 June 1769 and 7 Dec. 1776, was proved 18 Feb. 1779, by her nephew, Anselm-Yates Bayly (see his burial 5 Nov. 1782), to whom she bequeathed all her estates after the death of his mother, her sister, Mrs. Jennet Bayly (see her burial 21 Nov. 1775), with remainder to his sister, Elizabeth Bayly, and with final remainder to her own brother, Rev. Richard-Sutton Yates, D.D. She particularly directed that her said sister's husband (Rev. Anselm Bayly, D.C.L., Sub-dean of the Chapel Royal) should in no manner intermeddle with the disposition of her property (see the note to a baptism 27 June 1778).

- 1779 April 1 Mrs. Mary Jennings;<sup>1</sup> aged 66: in the North Cloister.
 May 1 Miss Elizabeth Percy, 2nd daughter of the Right Hon. Lord Algernon Percy;<sup>2</sup> died April 28th, aged two years and one month: in the Northumberland vault in St. Nicholas's Chapel.
 May 29 The Rev<sup>d</sup> Mr. Thomas Baker;<sup>3</sup> in his 62nd year: in the North Cloister.
 Aug. 12 George Ward;<sup>4</sup> in the East Cloister.
 Aug. 23 Clare Persehowse, Esq.;<sup>5</sup> aged 70: in the South Cloister.
 Sept. 4 Robert Jennings, Esq.;<sup>6</sup> aged 72: in the North Cloister.

<sup>1</sup> Wife of Robert Jennings, Esq. (see his burial 4 Sep. 1779). In a pedigree of the family in the various editions of Burke's Landed Gentry, she is simply described as "Miss Ford;" but that account is so full of gross errors throughout that no reliance can be placed upon any of its statements. She appears, from references in various wills, to have been a sister of Mrs. Grace Gostridge (see her burial 15 Feb. 1780), and of Mrs. Sarah Langwith (see her burial 14 Feb. 1784). "Robert Jennings and Mary Dore" were married at St. Peter-le-Poor, London, 8 Jan. 1735-6, a date which accords with the ages of her children. See the burials, of her son 20 Oct. 1787, and her daughter 24 Nov. 1813. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 23 March.

<sup>3</sup> Son of Rev. Thomas Baker, one of the minor canons of the Abbey (see his burial 13 May 1745). He was also a minor canon, one of the priests in ordinary of the Chapel Royal, and preacher at Queen Square Chapel, Westminster. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 24 May. His will, as of St. Margaret's, Westminster, Master of Arts, dated 7 Nov. 1777, was proved 5 June 1779, by his sister Elizabeth, wife of Rev. Henry Evans, as residuary legatee. He directed to be buried in the Cloisters, near his father and his sister Ann Baker (see her burial 1 Oct. 1764). His only other relations named were his "cousins," viz., Ann Baker, then or late of Shrewsbury, her sister Sarah Baker, then or late of the city of Chester, Rev. Daniel-William Remington, then or late of Lichfield Cathedral, and his sister Frances Remington, and William Baker, then or late to be heard of at the Victualling Office on Tower Hill, London.

<sup>4</sup> He died, according to the Funeral Book, 6 Aug., and was described on his gravestone as of Lambeth, co. Surrey, Esquire. His relict Elizabeth administered to his estate 23 Aug. 1779, when he was described as of Furnival's Inn. Neither the Register, Funeral Book, nor his monument, gives his age, which is almost an exceptional omission. See his wife's burial 9 Jan. 1783, when her age is also omitted. From the note to her burial it will be seen that he was probably a very old man.

<sup>5</sup> Second son of Rev. Humphrey Persehowse, minor canon of the Abbey (see his burial 2 Feb. 1762), by Deborah his wife, dau. of John Rawlins, of the city of Oxford, apothecary. He was baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 20 Jan. 1709-10, and was his father's sole legatee and executor. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 17 Aug. Letters of administration to his estate, as of St. Margaret's, Westminster, bachelor, were granted, 1 Sep. 1779, to his uncle Anthony Rawlins, as next of kin.

<sup>6</sup> According to a generally most inaccurate pedigree of his family in the various editions of Burke's Landed Gentry, he was a son of Thomas Jennings, of Curteen Hall, Hartwell, co. Northampton, Esq. (reputed son of the Duke of Monmouth by one of the daughters of Sir John Jennings), by "Miss Chamberlayne, a lady of ancient descent and large fortune," and was appointed, by his godfather Sir Robert Walpole, deputy-auditor of the Exchequer. The Gentleman's Magazine, noticing his death, described him as "Chief Clerk in H.M.'s Exchequer, a gentleman most deservedly and universally respected." He died, according to the Funeral Book, 28 Aug. His will, as of St. John the Evangelist, Westminster, Esq., dated 17 Dec. 1776, with a codicil 7 June 1779, was proved 9 Sep. 1779, by his son Robert Jennings, and his son-in-law Charles Gibbs, of Thames Street, London, sugar-baker. His bequests were to his wife Mary (see her burial 1 Apl. 1779), his son Thomas Jennings (see his burial 20 Oct. 1787), his said son Robert Jennings, his unmarried daughters Christian, Frances, Lucy, and Elizabeth (see her burial 24 Nov. 1813), his dau. Mary Pearce, widow of Thomas Pearce, Esq. (see the burials, of her son 10 Jan. 1791, and of her dau. 28 Mch. 1794), his dau. Grace, wife of William-Hughes Vernon, Esq., his dau. Ann, wife of said Charles Gibbes, his dau. Martha, wife of William Cuming, Esq., his brother Colonel John Jennings, his nieces Mrs. Ann Gibbes and Mrs. Ann Jennings, and Mrs. Sarah Langwith (see her burial 14 Feb. 1784), Mrs. Grace Gostridge (see her burial 15 Feb. 1780), and Mrs. Jane Dunbar.

<sup>2</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 12 Oct., aged sixteen days. See the note to the burial of Thomas Ludford, Esq., 9 Mch. 1776. She was perhaps a child of the parents named therein. Her second name was probably Augusta.

<sup>3</sup> Dau. and coheir of William Brydges, Esq., Serjeant-at-Law, by Susan, dau. of Edward Noel, Esq., and relict of William Wynne, Esq., Serjeant-at-Law (see his burial 23 May 1765), to whom married 30 Sep. 1728. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 20 Nov. See the burials of her sons, 25 Feb. 1736-7, 3 Jan. 1785, and 7 Dec. 1814.

<sup>4</sup> The Funeral Book says that he was the son of the Dean's verger, and died 24 Nov. See his father's burial 28 Nov. 1783, and his mother's 2 Mch. 1786.

<sup>5</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 5 Dec. Letters of administration to the estate of Thomas Say, of St. Margaret's, Westminster, widower, were granted 4 Feb. 1733-4, by the Court of the Dean and Chapter, to his dau. and next of kin, Catherine-Fincham Say. She made her will 21 Jan. following, 1734-5, and appears to have made no alteration in it during the rest of her life of nearly forty-five years. She described himself as of St. Margaret's, Westminster, spinster, and bequeathed her estate in Elme, co. Cambridge, and all her plate, household goods, and other personalty, to her "good friend" Mrs. Hannah Scott, of St. Margaret's, Westminster, spinster, absolutely, there being no other legacy except a guinea to her aunt Mrs. Mary Thomas for a ring. Mrs. Scott survived her (see her burial 21 Aug. 1781), and proved her will 11 Dec. 1779. So marvellous an instance of constancy and friendship is worthy of notice. Mrs. Scott, in her will, bequeathed the entire estate she thus received to Mrs. Elizabeth Say, of Downham, co. Norfolk, widow, and her children.

<sup>6</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 25 Dec. He was son of Edmund Ayrton, Doctor of Music (see his burial 28 May 1808), by Ann his wife (see her burial 23 May 1800). He was born 1 Oct., and baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 4 Nov. 1779. See the burial of his twin-brother 20 Oct. 1780.

<sup>7</sup> Joseph, son of Joseph Newcomb, College cook (see his burial 31 Oct. 1786), by Anne his wife (see her burial 24 Feb. 1781). He was born the 6th, and baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 10 Nov. 1757. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 19 Jan.

	March 29	Mrs. Mary Trevor, one of the daughters and coheir of John-Morley Trevor, Esq., of Trevallin, Denbigh and Flint, North Wales; <sup>4</sup> died the 21st, aged 71 : in St. John Baptist's Chapel.
	April 29	Mr. John Legge; <sup>5</sup> aged 63 : in the West Cloister.
	April 29	Mrs. Sarah Legge; <sup>6</sup> aged 73 : in the West Cloister.
	May 9	The Hon. Capt. George Falconer; <sup>7</sup> aged 58 : in the West Cloister.
	July 14	Edward Willis, Esq.; <sup>8</sup> in his 44th year : in the West Cloister.
	Aug. 11	Mr. Samuel Jebb; <sup>9</sup> aged 49 : in the West Cloister.

<sup>1</sup> Dau. of Thomas Fisher, College cook (see his burial 30 July 1777). by Mary his wife (see her burial 13 Nov. 1761). She died, according to the Funeral Book, 29 Jan., and was buried in her father's grave. She was unmarried at the date of her father's will, 18 July 1777.

<sup>2</sup> Relict of Mr. Con-Comyns Gostridge, who was buried at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 4 Jan. 1724-5. and to whose estate she administered on the 21st of the same month. He was the only son of Francis Gostridge, of St. Margaret's, Westminster, to whose estate letters of administration were granted 24 Aug. 1704, by Jane his wife, to whose estate he administered 6 July 1721. She was certainly a sister of Mrs. Sarah Langwith (see her burial 14 Feb. 1784), and apparently also sister of Mrs. Mary Jennings (see her burial 1 Apl. 1779). She died, according to the Funeral Book, 6 Feb.

<sup>4</sup> Third dau. of John-Morley Trevor, of Plas Teg, in Trevalyn. co. Flint, and of Glynde, co. Sussex, Esq., by Lucy, dau. of Edward Montagu, of Boughton, co. Northampton, Esq., and baptized at Glynde 1 Nov. 1708. Her father died 12 April 1719. and she was, strictly speaking, coheir of her only surviving brother, John Trevor, Esq., who died in 1745. She died unmarried. See the marriage of her sister 3 Feb. 1742-3.

<sup>5</sup> According to his gravestone he had been for many years a member of the Abbey choir. The Funeral Book says that he died 25 April. See the burial of his widow in the following entry.

<sup>6</sup> See her husband's burial in the preceding entry. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 27 Apl., and they were buried at the same time in the same grave. Her son and only child, John Legge, administered to her estate 2 Dec. 1780.

<sup>7</sup> Youngest son of David, fifth Lord Falconer, of Halkertown, by Lady Catherine-Margaret Keith, eldest dau. of William, second Earl of Kintore. He attained his seniority in the royal navy 27 Apl. 1762, and at his death was commander of the "Invincible." He died 3 May, according to the Funeral Book, and the journals of the day say at Liphook, Hants. His relict Hannah administered to his estate on the 18th of the same month. He left an only son, George.

<sup>8</sup> Posthumous son of John Willis, College carpenter (see his burial 2 Jan. 1736-7), by Jane his wife (see her burial 22 Dec. 1744). He was born the 14th, and baptized at St. John the Evangelist, Westminster, 23 June 1737. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 6 July, and was buried under his father's stone. His will, as of St. Giles Cripplegate, London, brewer, dated 10 July 1777, was proved 18 July 1780. He evidently died unmarried, and his bequests, which were considerable, were to his nephew and niece, Henry and Elizabeth Devis, and his cousin Ann, wife of Nicholas Forster, of the Poultry.

<sup>9</sup> Second son of Dr. Samuel Jebb, the eminent physician, and editor of Roger Bacon, Aristides, etc., by Jane, dau. of Patrick Lambe, of London, and brother of the more celebrated Sir Richard Jebb, Bart. (see his burial 9 July 1787), and of Avery Jebb, Esq. (see his burial 6 Sep. 1788). He died, according to the Funeral Book, 9 Aug., and appears, from his brother's will, to have lived in Great George Street, Westminster. He died unmarried, but left an illegitimate dau., Ann Jebb, who was living in 1787, a minor, and to whom Sir Richard Jebb bequeathed £5000.

<sup>1</sup> Son of Edmund Ayrton, Doctor of Music (see his burial 28 May 1808), by Ann his wife (see her burial 23 May 1800). The Funeral Book says that he died 17 Oct. He was born 1 Oct., and baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 4 Nov. 1779. See the burial of his twin-brother 29 Dec. 1779.

<sup>2</sup> The Funeral Book says "Miss Mary Moxam," and that she died 30 Oct. Her will, as Mary Moxam, of St. Martin's Lane, St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., spinster, dated 8 Apl. 1779, proved 11 Dec. 1780, by her brother Edward Moxam. She bequeathed to her father, Thomas Moxam, £30 per annum for life, and the use of £130 he owed her on the mortgage of a house in Bromyard, co. Hereford. To her sister Hannah, wife of Philip Daw, she gave her annuity out of an estate at Greenwich, and to her sister Ann, wife of Edward Williams, an annuity of £10 for life, and to her nephew and niece, Thomas and Sarah Williams, each £100 when of age. To her brother Edward Moxam she gave her freehold house, etc., called the "Hop-Pole," in Bromyard, then in the occupation of the said Edward Williams, and all her other real estate, for life, with remainder to her said sister Ann Williams, for life, and at her death the same was to go equally to the children of her said brother and sister, except Mary and Elizabeth Williams, whom she expressly excluded. Her only other relations mentioned were her uncle Richard Baylis and her aunt Harwell.

<sup>3</sup> He was appointed one of the vergers of the Abbey as early as 23 June 1725. He resigned his vergership 9 Nov. 1748, being then appointed College butler and brewer, and Clerk of the Works, all which offices he continued to hold until his death. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 13 Nov. His will, dated 21 Feb. 1778, in which he described himself as of the Collegiate Church of St. Peter, Westminster, Gent., was proved 14 Dec. 1780. The only relations named were his nieces Elizabeth Heslop and Mary Johnson, widow, daughters of his deceased sister Mary Heslop, and his cousin William Blew, then living with Mr. Alderman Harley, the two former being his residuary legatees.

<sup>4</sup> Only surviving dau. of Sir Richard Lane, Kt. (see his burial 4 Apl. 1756), by Dame Sarah his wife (see her burial 4 Oct. 1733). The Funeral Book says that she died in her eighty-second year. Her will, as of Abingdon-street, Westminster, dated 22 Apl. 1773, with seventeen codicils, was proved 15 Dec. 1780. She bequeathed the most of her property to the family of the late Chief Justice Willes, his sons John Willes, Esq., and Hon. Edward Willes, one of the Justices of the King's Bench, being her residuary legatees and executors. The only relations named were her "cousins," Henry Swymmer, of the city of Bristol, Esq., Rev. George Atwood and the late Rev. Thomas Atwood, sons of the late Archdeacon Atwood, and Mr. George Atwood, then Fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge. See the burials of her sisters, 18 May 1748 and 3 Apl. 1773.

<sup>5</sup> He was admitted into St. Peter's College, Westminster, in 1718, and elected to Trinity College, Cambridge, 1722, where A.B. 1725, and A.M. 1729. The source or date of his degree of D.D. does not appear. On leaving the University, he appears to have returned at once to Westminster School as an usher, and his patent as Second Master was ordered by the Dean and Chapter 4 Mch. 1748-9. He resigned this post after about forty-seven years' service in the School, and his successor was appointed 28 May 1771. He was instituted Vicar of Croughton, co. Northampton, 25 Mch. 1731, which living he resigned in 1779, and was inducted to the Rectory of the First Portion of Waddesdon, co. Bucks, 17 Dec. 1733, which he retained until his death. He became a Prebendary of York 4 Sep. 1777, but resigned, and was appointed Chancellor of that diocese 9 Aug. 1780, shortly before his death. He married Anne, dau. of Rev. John-Maximilian De L'Angle, Rector of Croughton, co. Northampton (see his mother's burial 13 Dec. 1687), who survived him, and by whom he had four children, viz., Robert Lloyd, the celebrated but unhappy poet and friend of Churchill, who died in the Fleet prison 15 Dec. 1764; Anne, born the 6th, and baptized at St. John the Evangelist, Westminster, 20 Jan. 1735-6, who was living, unmarried, in 1787; Elizabeth (see her burial 29 Jan. 1777); and Mary, born 11 Feb., and baptized at St. John's aforesaid 3 Mch. 1740-1, who married, in 1778, Rev. Legh-Hoskins Master, afterwards Rector of Limpsfield, co. Surrey. Dr. Lloyd died, according to the Funeral Book, 5 Jan., and was buried in his daughter's grave.

<sup>3</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 4 Apl., and was buried in the grave of his son (see his burial 6 Dec. 1773). His will, as of St. John the Evangelist, Westminster, Esquire, dated in Mch. 1773, was proved 19 Apl. 1781, by his relict Margaretta-Mabella (see her burial 26 Apl. 1794), to whom he bequeathed his share of the Victualling Office at Chatham, and the residue of his estate. His only other relations named were his son Buckeridge-Ball Acworth (see his burial 26 Aug. 1818), his sister Mrs. Elizabeth Manaton, and his sister Acworth and her children. On his marriage, in 1745, the journals of the day described him as of the Exchequer Office.

<sup>6</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 11 Aug., and was buried over Mrs. Catherine-Fincham Say (see her burial 13 Dec. 1779, and note thereto). Her will, as of Dartmouth Street, St. Margaret's, Westminster, spinster, dated 27 Mch. 1780, was proved 18 Aug. 1781, by her brother John Scott, of Banksfee House, near Morcton-in-the-Marsh, co. Gloucester, residuary legatee, to whom she also bequeathed £1000 bank stock in trust for his dau. Catherine Scott. She mentioned no other relations, but gave handsome legacies to several friends, and bequeathed the entire estate left to her by her said friend Mrs. Say to the family of that lady.

<sup>7</sup> She died, according to the Funeral Book, 4 Nov., and no fees were paid for her burial. From her name and place of burial, it is probable that she was a relation of Mary Catling (see her burial 2 Feb. 1788), whose maiden name was Woolfe.

 Church;<sup>6</sup> died the 24th, aged 59 : in the North Cross.
 July 25 Mrs. Elizabeth Young;<sup>7</sup> aged 76 : in the North Cloister.

<sup>2</sup> Youngest dau. and eventually sole heir of Thomas Coningsby, of Hampton Court, co. Hereford, Esq., created Earl Coningsby 30 Apl. 1719, by his second wife, Lady Frances Jones, dau. and coheir of Richard, Earl of Ranelagh. She was really in her seventy-third year, as she was born 15 Jan., and baptized at St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., 13 Feb. 1708-9. She married at St. James, Westminster, 1 July 1732, Charles Hanbury-Williams, Esq., afterwards created a Knight of the Bath (see his burial 10 Nov. 1759). According to the journals of the day, "she was struck with the palsy in her heart, as she was going out in her carriage, and expired immediately."

<sup>3</sup> Fourth and youngest dau. and eventually sole heir of Daniel Pulteney, Esq. (see his burial 17 May 1732), by Margaret-Deering his wife (see her burial 29 Apl. 1763). She was born 21 Oct., and baptized at St. James, Westminster, 14 Nov. 1725, and married there, 10 Nov. 1760, to William Johnstone, who subsequently assumed the surname of Pulteney (see his burial 11 June 1805). She succeeded to the great Bath estates on the death of her kinsman General Harry Pulteney (see his burial 5 Nov. 1767). She died, at Bath House, 1 June. See the burial of her only daughter 23 July 1808.

<sup>4</sup> Dau. of Stephen Mauvillain, of Tooting and Morden, co. Surrey, by Hannah Gregory his wife, and relict of Andrew Stone, Esq. (see his burial 24 Dec. 1773), to whom married, at Tooting, 7 July 1743. Her will, dated 8 Mch. 1774, with eight codicils, was proved 17 June 1782. See the burials, of her only son 15 Feb. 1761, and of her sister, who was her executrix, 1 Feb. 1804.

<sup>5</sup> Relict of George Wyatt, Esq., Chief Clerk of the Vote Office of the House of Commons, to whom married, at St. Paul's, Covent Garden, Midx., 23 July 1722, and who died 8 Dec. 1758. Her maiden name was Wood, and, according to family records, she was born 28 Oct. 1698. She died, according to the Funeral Book, 10 June. She was mother of the wife of Dean Vincent (see her burial 23 Feb. 1807). See also the burial of another of her daughters 9 Sep. 1790.

<sup>6</sup> Author of the well-known Chronological Tables. He is said to have been a native of Edinburgh, but little is known of his immediate family except that his brother William was a Captain in the royal navy, attaining his seniority 23 Apl. 1778, and died 22 Apl. 1782, from the effects of wounds received while engaging the French fleet. He became a Prebendary of Westminster 10 Mch. 1761, and the same year had the Vicarage of Hinckley, co. Leicester, and the Rectory of Burton-Coggles, co. Lincoln. Resigning the living of Hinckley, he became Vicar of St. Bride's, London, in Mch. 1771, but resigned in Apl. 1776, and took the Rectory of St. John the Evangelist, Westminster, and in the same year that of Horton, co. Bucks. He married, at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 22 Feb. 1770, Ann-Persode, dau. of Colonel John Darby, who survived him, and administered to his estate 7 July 1782. See the baptisms of his children, 11 Mch. 1771, 24 Feb. 1772, 22 Feb. 1773, 23 Apl. 1774, 6 Feb. 1776, 12 Apl. 1777, 18 Apl. 1778, 21 Sep. 1780, and 23 Mch. 1782, and the burial of his eldest son 8 Jan. 1774.

<sup>7</sup> Wife of William Young (see his burial 21 Nov. 1799). She died, according to the Funeral Book, 22 July. Her monumental inscription was on the gravestone of Mrs. Dorothy Hull (see her burial 13 Apl. 1777).

<sup>1</sup> Third dau. (according to her father's will) of John Milner, Esq., H.B.M. Consul-General at Lisbon, by Elizabeth his wife, who were both buried at Kingston-on-Thames, co. Surrey, he 25 Nov. 1712, and she 30 Dec. 1719, and sister of Jane, wife of Bishop Wilcocks (see her burial 1 Apl. 1725), and of Katherine, wife of John Lodge (see her marriage 9 Feb. 1730-1). Her will, as of Queen Street, St. Margaret's, Westminster, spinster, dated 9 Aug. 1781, was proved 6 Aug. 1782, by her nephew, Joseph Wilcocks, Esq., residuary legatee (see his burial 31 Dec. 1791).

<sup>2</sup> He died 11 Aug., according to the Funeral Book, and on his gravestone he was described as a Justice of the Peace for the county of Middlesex and the city and liberty of Westminster. The journals of the day say that he died at his house in St. Margaret's Street, Westminster. His will, as of Petty France, Westminster, Esq., dated 20 June 1782, was proved 13 Aug. following, by his friend George Smith, of Tothill Fields, Gent., whom he appointed executor in trust. He bequeathed to Lucy his wife sundry goods, plate, etc., and the residue of his estate to his dau. Susanna, wife of Thomas Pettit, junior. His relict Lucy administered de bonis non 27 Jan. 1785, and died before 7 July 1795, when further letters were granted to his daughter Susanna Pettit, widow, who also died before 21 May 1818, when further letters were granted to her son William-Joseph Pettit.

<sup>3</sup> Ninth son and fourteenth child of King George III., by Sophia-Charlotte, second dau. of Charles-Louis-Frederick, Duke of Mecklenburgh-Strelitz, and born at Windsor Castle 22 Sep. 1780. His remains were removed to the Royal Vault at Windsor 10 Feb. 1820. See the burial of his brother 10 May 1783.

<sup>4</sup> Only son of John Rutherford, Esq., originally of Kelso, Scotland, but afterwards of St. Botolph's, Aldgate, London, by Jane Kerr his wife, of Durham. He was a captain in the Middlesex militia, and part owner of Covent Garden Theatre, and was endeavouring to establish his claim to the ancient barony of Rutherford, when he was unfortunately killed by a fall from his horse. He published, in 1781, a translation of Cicero's Orations. His will, dated 21 Nov. 1776, was proved 10 Nov. 1781, by his relict Aun (see her burial 30 Jan. 1806), to whom he left all his estate. See the burial of his sister, Hannah Shortland, 6 Jan. 1816.

<sup>5</sup> Son and eldest child of Rev. Anselm Bayly, D.C.L., Sub-dean of the Chapel Royal, by his first wife (see her burial 21 Nov. 1775). He was born the 6th, and baptized at St. James, Westminster, 30 Mch. 1747. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 30 Oct. His will, as of Farley Hill, in Swallowfield, co. Berks, Esq., dated two days before his death, was proved 21 Nov. following, by Jane Day, spinster, whom he described as "my most valuable and fondest friend and wife, for such she has ever proved to me, altho' never tied by law, Elizabeth Bayly alias Jane Day, daughter of Thomas and Joice Day, of Darleston, co. Stafford." He left her all his estate (except £5 to his sister Elizabeth Ridley) for life, with remainder to his cousin Richard Yates, only son of Rev. Dr. Yates, and his heirs for ever.

<sup>6</sup> The Funeral Book calls him one of the Gentlemen of the Chapel Royal, and says that he died 7 Dec. He was also one of the Abbey choir. His will, as of St. Luke's, Chelsea, Midx., dated 5 Nov. 1774, was proved 17 Dec. 1782, by his relict Katherine, to whom he bequeathed his freehold house in Church Lane, Chelsea, and all his personalty.

- 1783 Jan. 2 William Pearce, Esq.;<sup>1</sup> died Dec. 24th, 1782, aged 90: in the North Cross.
- Jan. 9 Mrs. Elizabeth Ward;<sup>2</sup> in the East Cloister.
- Jan. 20 John Storr, Esq.;<sup>3</sup> died the 10th, aged 74: in the North Cross.
- Jan. 21 Lient.-Colonel Alexander Johnston;<sup>4</sup> aged 55: in the South Cloister.
- Jan. 23 Elizabeth-Maria-Michael, Countess of Stafford;<sup>5</sup> died the 16th, in her 74th year: in St. Edmund's Chapel.

<sup>2</sup> Youngest dau. of Sir John Egerton, third Bart. of Egerton, co. Chester, by his first wife, Elizabeth, dau. of William Holland, of Heaton, co. Lancaster, Esq., and relict of George Ward, Esq. (see his burial 12 Aug. 1779). She died, according to the Funeral Book, 4 Jan. Her will, dated 20 Oct. 1758, shortly after her marriage, with a codicil 26 Feb. 1780, was proved 20 Jan. 1783. It cites her marriage settlement, dated 31 Aug. 1758, in which she was described as Elizabeth Egerton, spinster, and thus affords the means of correcting the conjectural statement concerning her in the Egerton pedigree in Baker's History of Northamptonshire, i. 621, which assigns to her another husband. All her bequests were to her brothers and sisters, and their children, as named in that pedigree, so that there is not the slightest doubt as to her identity. She of course left no issue. As in the case of her husband, neither the Register nor the Funeral Book gives her age; but, as her mother died 31 May 1701, she must have been at least in her eighty-second year, and nearly if not quite sixty at her marriage.

<sup>3</sup> Son of Joseph Storr, of Hilston, co. York, Esq. (see a pedigree of the family in Poulson's History of Holderness, ii. 79-80), and born, according to his monument, 18 Aug. 1709. He attained a captaincy in the royal navy 1 Nov. 1748, and became rear-admiral of the white 19 Mch. 1779, and of the red 26 Sep. 1780. The journals of the day say that he died at his house in Bedford Square. His will, dated 27 Jan. 1781, was proved 16 Jan. 1783, by his relict "John-Norris Storr," to whom, by those names, he bequeathed all his Yorkshire estates, for life, and all his personalty. At her death his estates were to go to his own relations. She is described in the pedigree above referred to as "John-Norris, relict of Colonel Gordon." She was married, at St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., 20 Mch. 1764, to John Gordon, Esq., when she was described as "Norris Gordon, heretofore Fisher." The parish register of St. George's, Bloomsbury, Midx., records the marriage, 11 May 1773, of "John Storr, Esq., bachelor, and John-Norris Fisher, formerly Gordon, spinster." She signed the latter register, however, as "Norris Fisher, formerly Gordon." The only reasonable explanation of the first entry is that she had already been privately married to Colonel Gordon, and the second is sufficiently explained by the fact that the Journals of the House of Lords record the royal assent, the very day before, to a bill divorcing her from her first husband.

<sup>4</sup> Second son of Sir James Johnstone, third Bart. of Westerhall, co. Dumfries, by Barbara Murray, dau. of Alexander, fourth Lord Elibank. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 15 Jan., and evidently unmarried. His will, as of Bulstrode Street, St. Marylebone, Midx., Esq., Lieut.-Colonel of H.M. Forces, dated 23 May 1775, was proved 24 Jan. 1783, by his eldest brother, Sir James Johnstone, Bart. (see his burial 17 Sep. 1794), to whom he bequeathed all his estates in the Island of Grenada, and in England or elsewhere, and whom he made his residuary legatee. See the burial of another brother, as Sir William Pulteney, Bart., 11 June 1805.

<sup>1</sup> Second son of Sir James Riddell, first Bart. of Ardnamurchan and Sunart, co. Argyll, by his first wife, Mary, dau. and heir of Thomas Milles, of Billockby Hall, co. Norfolk. Esq. He matriculated at Oxford, from Magdalen College, 21 Feb. 1778, aged nineteen, as of Coxhoe, co. Durham, but appears to have taken no degree. He was a lieutenant in the army, according to his monument, and was unfortunately slain in a duel, full particulars of which may be found in the Gentleman's Magazine, Apl. 1783, p. 362, and in the London Chronicle of 26 Apl. and 3 May in that year. See his stepmother's burial 16 June 1817.

<sup>2</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died 2 May. The place of burial sufficiently indicates his humble position. See his wife's burial 2 Oct. 1793, and his son's 3 Feb. 1806.

<sup>3</sup> Illegitimate son of Henry, third Earl of Bradford (see his burial 20 Jan. 1734-5), by Mrs. Anne Smyth (see her burial 7 Nov. 1742). He was known at first by the name of John Harrison, but by a private Act of Parliament in 1736 his name was changed to Newport, according to the directions of his father. He was a lunatic throughout the most, if not the whole, of his life.

<sup>6</sup> She died, according to the Funeral Book, 1 Sep. Her will, as of New Peter Street, Westminster, widow, dated 12 Mch. 1774, with a codicil 17 Jan. 1778, was proved 28 Feb. 1784, by her son Edward Medley (see his burial 6 Jan. 1809), to whom she left all her freehold estate in Westminster, subject to an annuity of £40 to her dau. Martha, wife of John Waldron, of the Horseferry Road, coach-wheelwright, for her life. She mentioned a house purchased from her nephew Samuel Hazelton.

<sup>7</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died 5 Sep. See the burial, probably of her husband, but perhaps her brother, 22 June 1792.

- 1783 Oct. 11 The Right Hon. Susanna, Lady Delaval;<sup>1</sup> died the 1st: in a new vault in St. Paul's Chapel.
- Oct. 11 William Moore;<sup>2</sup> died the 6th: in St. John Baptist's Chapel.
- Nov. 28 Mr. Henry Ede;<sup>3</sup> died the 20th, aged 62: in the Dark Cloister.
- 1784 Jan. 23 The Right Hon. Elizabeth, Countess Dowager Home;<sup>4</sup> died the 15th: in a vault in St. Erasmus's Chapel.
- Jan. 26 Mrs. Sarah West;<sup>5</sup> died the 18th, aged 63: in the West Cloister.
- Jan. 29 Mr. Pegrum Thorpe;<sup>6</sup> died the 21st, aged 59: in the Dark Cloister.
- Feb. 14 Mrs. Sarah Langwith;<sup>7</sup> died the 8th, aged 91: in the South Cloister.

<sup>2</sup> His monument describes him as having been Attorney-General of the Island of Barbados, and gives his age as sixty. See the burial of his only daughter, Mrs. Anna-Maria Morris, 10 Mch. 1785. According to his son-in-law's will, he died intestate.

<sup>3</sup> According to the Chapter Book, he was appointed a sacrist and porter of the Little Cloisters 8 June 1762, removed 11 Feb. 1768, and re-appointed 22 Apl. following, when he resigned the offices of porter of the Great Cloister, sealer, keeper of the College water, and bell-ringer, all of which he appears to have previously held. At his death he was first verger and sacrist. See the burials, of his wife 2 Mch. 1786, and of his son 29 Nov. 1779.

<sup>4</sup> Only dau. and heir of William Gibbous, of Vere, in the Island of Jamaica, Esq. She married, first, 20 Oct. 1720, James Lawes, Esq., eldest son of Sir Nicholas Lawes, Kt., Governor of Jamaica, who died 29 Dec. 1733, and was buried in that island. She married secondly, 25 Dec. 1742, William, eighth Earl of Home, Lieut.-General in the army and Governor of Gibraltar, where he died 28 Apl. 1761. She appears to have had no issue by either husband. The Funeral Book gives her age as eighty. Her will, as of Portman Square, dated 19 Nov. 1783, was proved 24 Jan. 1784. The only relative she named was her "relation" William Gale, son of the late Henry Gale, of St. Elizabeth's, Jamaica, then at Westminster School, to whom she bequeathed her house, etc., in Portman Square, and her estate in Jamaica left to her by her father. The bulk of her estate reverted to her first husband's family.

<sup>6</sup> His will, as of St. John the Evangelist, Westminster, patent sash-maker, was dated the 17th and proved the 31st of the same month. His chief bequests were to his sister Sarah, wife of Thomas Carrington, of Thorpe, co. Essex, and her children, and to his late wife's niece, Sarah Wright. He directed to be buried in the Cloisters, in the grave of his wife (see her burial 29 Nov. 1776).

<sup>7</sup> Relict of Rev. Benjamin Langwith, who was inducted Rector of Petworth, co. Sussex, in 1718, and buried there 2 Oct. 1743, aged fifty-nine. Her will, as of Bromley College, co. Kent, dated 6 Apl. 1781, with codicils 10 Nov. 1781 and 7 July 1783, was proved 10 Feb. 1784, by her niece Anne, wife of Nathaniel Hone, Esq., to whom she left the most of her estate, with remainder to her great-nephew William Tinswood, only son of said Anne Hone by her former husband William Tinswood, Esq. The only other relations she named were her nieces Sarah Hewett and Elizabeth Jennings, spinster. The Funeral Book says that she was buried on her sister Mrs. Grace Gostridge (see her burial 15 Feb. 1780). She was evidently also a sister of Mrs. Mary Jennings (see her burial 1 Apl. 1779).

- Dec. 20 Samuel Johnson, LL.D.;<sup>7</sup> died 13th December, 1784, and was buried on the 20th of the same month in the South Cross; aged 75 years.

<sup>4</sup> The inventor of that celebrated "sweet boon to children" known as "Dalby's Carmi-native." He was buried, according to the Funeral Book, "at the head of Long Meg's grave-stone." His will, as of Welbeck Street, St. Marylebone, Midx., apothecary, without date, was proved on the day of his burial, by Anthony Gell, Esq., his son-in-law (see his burial 4 Feb. 1817), to whose wife Frances, his daughter, he bequeathed his entire interest in the "Carmi-native," having before instructed her in the art and method of preparing that medicine. To his son Charles-Edward Dalby he gave his interest in certain freehold lands in Great Shrewton, co. Wilts. His other bequests were to his sons, Joseph, then of the Island of Jamaica, Thomas, then a lieutenant in the Navy, Jaques, also in the Navy, and John, and to his daughters, Elizabeth Mitchell, Anne Spencer, and Katharine Dalby. The will itself is an extraordinary literary curiosity, portions of it being unfit for publication, and it is somewhat surprising that the authorities admitted it to probate and allowed it to be copied into their records. See his wife's burial 3 May 1786.

<sup>6</sup> Wife of John Broughton, the celebrated pugilist (see his burial 21 Jan. 1789). The Funeral Book gives the means of her identification.

<sup>7</sup> Younger son of Michael Johnson, of the city of Lichfield, bookseller, by Sarah Ford his wife, who were married at Packwood, co. Warwick, 19 June 1706. He was born at Lichfield 18 Sep. 1709, and married, at St. Werburgh's Church, Derby, 9 July 1735, Elizabeth, dau. of William Jervis, of Great Peatling, co. Leicester, Esq., and widow of Henry Porter, of Birmingham, mercier. She died in Mch. 1752, and was buried at Bromley, co. Kent. Dr. Johnson died at his house in Bolt Court, Fleet Street, leaving no issue, but his inimitable writings will keep his name in perpetual remembrance. His remains are counted among the most sacred treasures of the Abbey.

<sup>1</sup> Dan. of Thomas Morice, Esq., paymaster of the British forces in Portugal, who died at Lisbon in 1713, by Alice, dau. of Sir William Underhill, of Idlicote, co. Warwick, Kt., whose will, dated 12 June 1733, was proved 31 Jan. 1733-4. They were married at St. Michael's, city of Oxford, 14 Sep. 1687. She married, at St. Anne's, Westminster, 17 Feb. 1716-17, Mordaunt Cracherode, Esq., afterwards Lieut.-Colonel, who accompanied Lord Anson around the world, and was appointed Governor of Minorca in 1753. He was buried at St. Paul's, Covent Garden, Midx., 28 June 1773. See the burials, of her brother 24 Jan. 1710-11, of her son 13 Apl. 1799, and of her daughter in July 1802.

<sup>3</sup> The journals of the day say that he was many years assistant-clerk of the House of Lords, and died at his residence in Deau's Yard, Westminster. His will, as of St. Margaret's, Westminster, Esq., dated 20 June 1783, was proved 4 Feb. 1785. His bequests were to his wife Charlotte, his sons Samuel and George-Henry, his sister-in-law Rowe-Barbara Pile, and his nephew William Skipsey. See the burials, of his first wife 23 July 1770, his second wife (as Charlotte Willett) 18 May 1815, and his daughter by her 30 Apl. 1808. His two sons were also by his second wife. Samuel became a clergyman, and George-Henry was at his death, about 1810, a Major in the third regiment of dragoon guards.

<sup>4</sup> Relict of the Right Rev. Dr. John Oswald, who was installed Prebendary of Westminster 13 May 1755, and was afterwards successively Bishop of Clonfert, Dromore, and Raphoe, in Ireland. He died at Raphoe 5 Mch. 1780, and was buried in the Cathedral churchyard. She was married about 29 Aug. 1755, as Anne Buchanan, of St. James, Westminster, spinster. Her will, as then of Paddington, Midx., dated 4 Dec. 1784, was proved 28 Feb. 1785. She left considerable legacies to the family of her late husband, and the only relation of her own named was her nephew John Bogle, lieutenant of the sixty-first regiment of foot, whom she made her residuary legatee.

- 1785 June 28 Mrs. Elizabeth Hollingworth;<sup>1</sup> died the 20th, aged 60 : in the East Cloister.

who was alone named in it (see her burial 14 June 1789). One of their daughters, Amelia, married William-Makepeace Thackeray, Esq., and was grandmother of the late eminent author of those names.

<sup>3</sup> Son of Robert Wright, of Sedgfield, co. Durham, Esq., who died Chief-Justice of the Province of South Carolina. He was successively Attorney-General, Chief-Justice, and Governor of the Province of Georgia, and was created a Bart. 8 Dec. 1772. He married, in 1740, Sarah, only dau. and heir of Capt. Maidman, of the army, who was drowned on her voyage to England in 1763. His will, dated 24 Jan. 1784, then of Fludyer Street, Westminster, was proved 22 Apl. 1786. His successors have generally resided abroad, chiefly at, or in the vicinity of, Charleston, South Carolina.

<sup>4</sup> The well known actor, chiefly famed for his representations of Shakesperian characters, and by many recognised as the legitimate successor of Garrick. His family is said to have been originally of Scotland, but he was the son of an Irish factor in London. He was born in Goldsmith Street, Cheapside, and baptized 8 Mch. 1746-7. According to the journals of the day, he died at his house in Buckingham Street, Adelphi, leaving an infant daughter. See his wife's burial 3 Mch. 1819.

<sup>7</sup> According to the journals of the day, he was "an eminent coal merchant" in Canon

 March 11 The most noble George Beauclerk, Duke of St. Albans, etc.;<sup>3</sup> died at Brussels Feb. 1st, in his 55th year: in the Duke of Ormond's vault in K. II. 7th's Chapel.
 April 15 Edward Smith, Esq.;<sup>4</sup> died the 6th, aged 80: in the West Cloister.
 May 3 Mrs. Anne Dalby;<sup>5</sup> died April 25th, aged 67: in the South Cloister.
 June 17 Mr. James Stone;<sup>6</sup> died the 10th, aged 57: in the Little Cloisters.
 June 21 The most noble Hugh Percy, Duke and Earl of Northumberland, Baron Warkworth, etc.;<sup>7</sup> died the 6th, in his 74th year: in the vault in St. Nicholas's Chapel.

Row, Westminster, and, from his monument, appears to have died at Fulham, Midx. His will, as of St. Margaret's, Westminster, coal merchant, dated 23 Aug. 1783, with a codicil dated at Fulham 3 Jan. 1786, when he described himself as "Gentleman," was proved 15 Feb. 1786, by his relict Ann, Joseph Ward, of Nottingham, tailor, and Thomas Lane, of King Street, St. Paul's, Covent Garden, Gent. His only other relations named were his brother Benjamin Pilkington, of Nottingham, his late sister Mary, wife of John Wigley, and her dau. Anne Cousens, and his nieces, Sarah and Anne Pilkington, and Mary, wife of said Joseph Ward, daughters of his said brother Benjamin.

<sup>1</sup> The Funeral Book says that he was servant to Rev. Dr. Vincent, who was then Second-Master of Westminster School.

<sup>2</sup> Probably Ede. The Funeral Book says that she was buried on the right hand of her husband; see his burial 28 Nov. 1783, and that of her son 29 Nov. 1779.

<sup>3</sup> Only son of Charles, second Duke of St. Albans (see his burial 3 Aug. 1751), by Lucy his wife (see her burial Nov. 1752). He was born 25 June 1730, and succeeded as third Duke. He married, 23 Oct. 1752, Jane, dau. and coheir of Sir Walter Roberts, sixth Bart. of Glassenbury, co. Kent, who died 16 Dec. 1778, and by whom he had no issue. His will, dated 13 Sep. 1785, was proved 10 May 1786. He left all the estate of which he could dispose to his two illegitimate daughters, Rose Beauclerk and Anne-Amelia, wife of Mr. Simon Fromont, for their lives, with remainder to his "nephew" George Beauclerk, son of Topham Beauclerk, Esq., deceased.

<sup>4</sup> His will, as of Millbank Street, Westminster, Gent., dated 4 May 1785, was proved 20 Apl. 1786, by his relict Elizabeth and his son-in-law Charles Armstrong, Esq. His bequests, which were considerable, were to his wife and four daughters, viz., Sophia, wife of John Dickenson, Juliet, wife of said Charles Armstrong, Amelia, wife of William Haynes, and Harriot, wife of John Rayner, and to his grandson Edward Haynes. To his wife he gave his lease of the "Swan Tavern" at the corner of Westminster Bridge.

<sup>6</sup> The Funeral Book adds "no fees," by which, with the place of burial, his humble position is sufficiently indicated.

<sup>7</sup> Hugh Smithson, son of Langdale Smithson, of Langdale, co. York, Esq. (second son of Sir Hugh Smithson, third Bart. of Stanwick, co. York), by Philadelphia, dau. of William Revely, of Newby-Wisk, co. York, Esq. He matriculated at Oxford, from Christ Church, 15 Oct. 1730, aged fifteen, and succeeded his grandfather as fourth Bart. Having married Lady Elizabeth Seymour (see her burial 18 Dec. 1766), he succeeded, on the death of her father, 7 Feb. 1749-50, to the titles of Baron Warkworth and Earl of Northumberland, under a special provision in the patent of creation, and in April following assumed the surname of Percy, in accordance with an Act of Parliament. He was created, 22 Oct. 1766, Earl Percy and Duke of Northumberland, and, 28 Jan. 1784, Lord Lovaine, Baron of Alnwick, with special remainder, as to the latter title, to his second son Algernon Percy. His age appears to be erroneously stated in the text, as, according to his age at his matriculation at Oxford, he was born in 1715, and would therefore have been only seventy-one at his death. See the burials of his legitimate children, 5 June 1761 and 19 July 1817, and of his illegitimate daughters, 24 Nov. 1791 and 24 Nov. 1794.

<sup>3</sup> See the burials, of his wife 24 Feb. 1781, and of his son 24 Jan. 1780. The Funeral Book says that he was buried on his wife. His will, as of St. Margaret's, Westminster, cook, dated the 16th, was proved on the 26th of the same month, by his son Edward Newcomb, residuary legatee. His other bequests were to Sarah, widow of his late son William Newcomb, and their children Joseph and Ann, and to his grandson Edward Newcomb, then a minor, son of his executor.

<sup>5</sup> Second dau. of Oliver Marton, of Capernwray Hall, co. Lancaster, Esq., by Jane, his second wife, dau. of Roger Wilson, of Casterton Hall, co. Westmoreland, Esq., who were married at St. Mary-Aldermary, London, 29 July 1707. Her will, as of St. Margaret's, Westminster, spinster, dated 5 Aug. 1774, was proved 16 Feb. 1787, by her sister Jane Marton (see her burial 15 Oct. 1798), principal and residuary legatee. Her other bequests were to her brother Rev. Oliver Marton, and his sons Oliver and George-Richard Marton, and to her nieces, Jane, wife of Henry Lutwidge, Esq., Elizabeth Molyneux, Mary, wife of John Fletcher, Esq., Lucy, wife of Rev. William Hutton, and Diana, wife of William Dalrymple, Esq.

<sup>6</sup> According to the journals of the day, he was originally a musician in the foot guards, but became the most famous performer on the hautboy in the kingdom, and was appointed one of the Queen's Chamber-band, having been one of the musicians who attended her from the continent. It was added that down to his death he was much respected, but it is also reproachfully said that, although he had acquired a considerable fortune, he left his wife so ill provided for that Dr. Jebb and others resigned to her considerable legacies which he had left to them. His wife was Elizabeth, dau. of the celebrated violinist Matthew Dubourg. They were married by one of the notorious Fleet parsons, 22 Sep. 1753, when he was only twenty-three years of age, and, from some cause, they were not living together at his death. His will, as of King Street, Westminster, dated 4 July 1786, was proved 27 Jan. 1787, by James Galloway, of Cumberland House, Pall Mall, Esq., and Ellis Needham, of Pimlico, Esq., to whom he left £2000 in trust, the interest whereof was to be paid to his wife Elizabeth, then living in Union Street, Westminster. He bequeathed considerable sums to various persons, Sir Richard Jebb's bequest being £100. The only relations named were his nieces, Elizabeth Hickey, and Helen, wife of Captain Rush, both of Galway, in Ireland.

<sup>2</sup> Probably son of Henry Brooker and Hannah Tanner, who were married at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 2 Feb. 1705-6. The journals of the day say that he was many years keeper of the records in the Augmentation Office, having been appointed one of the clerks in 1759. According to the Chapter Book, he was a clerk to the Receiver of the Abbey as early as 9 May 1758, and was appointed library keeper and keeper of the records of the Church 1 Dec. 1764, auditor 6 Aug. 1770, and receiver-general 3 June 1785. He resigned as librarian 3 Mch. before his death. His relict Henrietta administered to his estate 27 July 1787. See his marriage 4 Mch. 1753, his daughter's baptism 2 Jan. 1761, and the burials, of his wife 23 Jan. 1802, and of his daughters, 25 Feb. 1780 and 19 July 1815.

<sup>4</sup> Eldest son of Robert Jennings, Esq. (see his burial 4 Sep. 1779), by Mary his wife (see her burial 1 Apl. 1779). At the date of his father's will, 17 Dec. 1776, he was a Captain in the army, and apparently, from his own will, in the 30th regiment of foot. His will, as of Cowley Street, Westminster, Esq., dated 29 Aug. 1780, was proved 31 Oct. 1787, by his sister Elizabeth Jennings (see her burial 24 Nov. 1813). His only other relation named was his sister Mary Pearce (see the burial of her son 10 Jan. 1791).

<sup>5</sup> Son of Rowland Blore, Clerk of the Works (see his burial 22 June 1792), by (probably) his second wife, Sarah. He was born 20 Jan., and baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 5 Feb. 1786, as son of Rowland Blore and Sarah his wife. The Funeral Book says that he was buried on the right side of Sarah Blore (see her burial 9 Sep. 1783), who was probably his father's first wife, or perhaps his sister.

<sup>6</sup> Son of Francis Calmady, of Combshead, co. Cornwall, Esq., by Cecilia, dau. of Warwick Pollexfen, of Mothecombe, in Holbeton, co. Devon, Esq. He entered the navy, and attained his captaincy 30 Sep. 1743, but never rose any higher, having, it is said, resigned his commission on account of his disgust at the execution of Admiral Byng. This, however, does not appear to be strictly true, as, according to Admiral Hardy's List, he quitted the navy 2 Feb. 1757, and Admiral Byng was not executed until 14 Mch. following. It is possible that the treatment of his superior officer may have induced him to take that step, and, at all events, he did not resume his profession, although on his monument he was described as "Captain Calmady." The same inscription states that he was the last of his family. He died at his house in James Street, Buckingham Gate, unmarried, although the journals of the day stated that his fortune devolved upon "his widow and only surviving child, the lady of John Richardson, Esq., of Bramshot." His will, as of James Street, Westminster, Esq., dated 24 June 1784, was proved 23 Jan. 1788, by "Philippa Wilson alias Philippa Calmady, spinster," to whom, as "Philippa, commonly called Philippa Calmady, now living with me," he bequeathed his manor of Mothecombe, and other lands in co. Devon, inherited from his brother Shilston Calmady, for her life, with remainder to Cecilia, wife of John Richardson, of Bramshot Place, Hants, Esq. A son, by the same mother, named Warwick Calmady, became a merchant in London, and died in his father's lifetime. Both these children were baptized at St. John the Evangelist, Westminster, 31 Mch. 1752, as "Cecilia Calmady," born 19 June 1748, and "Warwick Calmady," born 16 Oct. 1751, both being described as the children of "Warwick Calmady by Philippa," and against each entry being written the words "base-born." It is not unreasonable that, having been faithful to this lady for at least forty years, treating her to the last moment as his wife, and bestowing upon her and her child his entire fortune, the journalists should have made the announcement already quoted.

<sup>4</sup> Dau. and heir of Jonathan Black, of Westminster, a rich brewer, by Elizabeth, dau. and heir of George Burnell, of Lofthouse, co. York, Esq. She married, at Gretna Green, in 1767, the ceremony being repeated at St. Mary Magdalen, Bermondsey, Surrey, 5 Oct. 1768, Edward D'Oyly, eldest and only surviving son of Thomas D'Oyly, of Gray's Inn, Esq. (younger brother of the Rev. Sir Hadley D'Oyly, fifth Bart. of Shottisham), who died at Beneoolen, in Sumatra, about 1770. She died at her residence in Palace Yard, Westminster, leaving an only son, Edward D'Oyly, who eventually succeeded to the estates of both his grandfathers. See a full account of the family in Nichols's Topographer and Genealogist, ii. 17-27.

 Dec. 30 Capt. Richard Murray (of the Navy);<sup>5</sup> died the 23rd, aged 53: in the West Cloister.
 1789 Jan. 21 Mr. John Broughton, Yeoman of the Guard;<sup>6</sup> died the 8th, aged 86: in the West Cloister.

<sup>2</sup> Third son of Samuel Jebb, an eminent physician, and editor of Aristides, Roger Bacon, etc., who died at Chesterfield, co. Derby, 9 Mch. 1772, by Jane, dau. of Patrick Lambe, of London, Esq., and younger brother of Sir Richard Jebb, the celebrated physician to K. George III. (see his burial 9 July 1787). He died "in consequence of the bruises he received a few days before, when thrown from his chaise. He had been in trade, but, meeting with misfortunes, was, by the present chairman of the East India Company, in gratitude for assistance from Sir Richard's medical skill, presented with a place of £400 per annum in the East India warehouses" (Gent. Mag.). His will, as of Lamb's Conduit Street, Midx., Gent., dated 17 Sep. 1787, was proved 10 Sep. 1788. He evidently died unmarried. See the burial of another brother 11 Aug. 1780.

<sup>3</sup> The Funeral Book says: "She was sweeper of the Choir, and wife to the Beadle." See her husband's burial 24 Mch. 1796, and the burials of her children, 24 Mch. 1766, 26 Mch. 1788, and 5 Nov. 1827; also a burial 11 Jan. 1799.

<sup>5</sup> Youngest son of Alexander Murray, of Cringletie, co. Peebles, by Catharine, third dau. of Sir Robert Stewart, of Tillicoultry, co. Clackmannan. He attained his captaincy in the navy 2 July 1781. His will, as "Richard Murray, Captain in the Royal Navy, now on half-pay, and residing in Surry Place, Kent Road," dated 21 June 1787, was proved 10 Jan. 1789. To his illegitimate son, Richard-Murray Brown, then a scholar in the King's Ward, Christ's Hospital, he bequeathed £500, which he was to have on Lady Day, 1792. To Mrs. Jane Brown, then residing at No. 8 Surry Place, he left all the plate, furniture, and goods in the house, £30, and £25 per annum for life (see the burial of Jane-Brown Salton, 27 Jan. 1809, and note thereto). His other bequests were to his nephews, Alexander Murray, James-Wolfe Murray, and James Law, surgeon in Edinburgh, his niece Katherine Murray, his brother Colonel James Murray, and his sister Miss Jean Murray, the two latter being residuary legatees. An affidavit states that he died in Marsham Street, Westminster.

<sup>6</sup> The famous pugilist of his day. He was originally a Thames waterman, plying at Hungerford stairs, but, accidentally discovering his powers, abandoned that pursuit and became a professional boxer. He was patronized by the Duke of Cumberland and the nobility generally, and established a public academy in Tottenham-Court Road. He is said to have been invariably successful in his contests, until finally defeated by Slack, after which he renounced the profession, and became a yeoman of the guard. It was from his arms that Rysbraeck modelled those of his celebrated "Hercules." The journals of the day say that he died at Lambeth, and was buried in the church there, but it appears that he had honourable interment within the Abbey precincts. The Funeral Book says that he was buried on the left hand of his wife (see her burial 18 Dec. 1784). His will, as of Walcot Place, St. Mary, Lambeth, without date (but made after his wife's death, as he directed to be buried near her), was proved 29 July 1789, by his great-niece

Catherine, wife of Roger Monk (see her burial 28 Aug. 1832), to whom he bequeathed the most of his estate.

<sup>1</sup> He matriculated at Oxford, from Brasenose College, 3 Apl. 1734, aged eighteen, as son of Ralph Winstanley, of Wigan, co. Lancaster, paying the fees of a plebeian's son, and took the degree of B.A. there 11 Oct. 1737. His degree of M.A. he appears to have taken at Cambridge, in 1766. He became a Prebendary of St. Paul's 5 Apl. 1766, Rector of St. Dunstan in the East, London, in 1771, and Prebendary of Peterborough 1 Nov. 1781, and held all these preferments until his death. His will, dated 27 Oct. 1788, was proved 26 Feb. 1789, by his relict Silvia (see her burial 28 July 1799), to whom, and to her children by her former husband, he left all his estate. See the burial of his only son 29 May 1769.

<sup>2</sup> The well-known author of the History of the Science and Practice of Music. He is said to have been the son of John Hawkins, an eminent builder and surveyor, by Elizabeth Phillips his wife, and to have been born 13 Mch. 1719-20. He was bred to the profession of an attorney, but after his marriage devoted himself to musical and literary pursuits. In 1765 he became Chairman of the Middlesex Sessions, and was knighted 23 Oct. 1772. He died at his house in the Great Sanctuary. See his wife's burial 25 June 1793.

<sup>3</sup> The Funeral Book says that she was buried on her husband, Colonel Richmond Webb (see his burial 5 June 1785). The pedigrees of his family describe her as "daughter of J. Griffyths, of Downton, co. Radnor, Esq." The journals of the day say that she died in Upper Seymour Street, Portman Square. Her will, dated 9 May 1789, was proved 10 June following, by her sons-in-law, William-Makepeace Thackeray, Esq. (husband of her dau. Amelia), and Peter Moore, Esq. (husband of her dau. Sarah). Her other children named were her son Richmond Webb, and her daughters Charlotte Webb and Augusta, wife of Thomas Evans.

<sup>5</sup> He is said to have been educated in the choir of the Chapel Royal early in the century, but one of his name matriculated at Oxford, from Wadham College, 10 July 1739, aged seventeen, as son of Berea Barrow, of Monmouth, co. Monmouth, paying the fees of a plebeian's son, and took his degree of B.A. 9 May 1743. His age, as will be seen, would be identical with that of the person named in the text. He became a Gentleman of the Chapel Royal and one of the Abbey choir, and was a great favourite of Handel during his management of the oratorios. The journals of the day say that he was buried from his house in the Little Cloisters, with musical services. His will, dated 22 Jan. 1788, was proved 19 Aug. 1789. His bequests were to his wife Mary (see her burial 16 June 1810), his sister Elizabeth Barrow, of Clapham Common, co. Surrey, spinster, his sister-in-law Mary Nash, of Warfield, co. Berks (widow of his late brother John Barrow), his sons John and Thomas, and his daughters, Mary, Lydia, Lucy, and Catharine, wife of William Watkins, of St. James Street, optician, who was his executor. See his son's burial 4 Aug. 1769.

- Sept. 28 His Royal Highness Henry-Frederick, Duke of Cumberland (4th son of H.R.H. Frederick, Prince of Wales, deceased);<sup>7</sup> died Sept. 18th, in his 45th year: in the Royal Vault in K.H. 7th's Chapel.

<sup>1</sup> His monument described him as of Westminster School, and as the youngest son of Rev. Guyon Griffith, D.D., Rector of St. Mary-at-Hill, city of London. His father, who was presented to that Rectory in 1763, and was also Lecturer at St. Michael's, Cornhill, died in Jan. 1784, and was son of Moses Griffith, M.D., of Colchester, in Essex, who died 2 Mch. 1785.

<sup>2</sup> According to the journals of the day, he was a celebrated maker of military accoutrements, in the Strand, and was also well known for his choice and valuable collection of medals, bronzes, ancient armour, etc., among which were several memorials of Oliver Cromwell, including the sword with which he turned out the Long Parliament! His will, as of the Strand, accoutrement maker, dated two days before his death, was proved on the 20th of the same month, by Joseph Dale, of Oxford Street, music master, and John Pearce, of the Bank of England, Gent., to whom he left all his estate in trust for his four children equally, viz., Caroline, wife of said Joseph Dale (see her burial 1 Nov. 1825), Valentine Rawle, Cecilia, wife of Nicholas Price, and Horatio Rawle, subject only to the payment of £100 each to Walter and William, his two children by Martha Reymer. See the burial of another of his daughters 3 Jan. 1778.

<sup>4</sup> Eldest dau. of Arthur Ormsby, Esq. (see his burial 24 Feb. 1795), by Elizabeth his wife (see her burial 28 Mch. 1803). She died unmarried, and her brother Arthur Ormsby administered to her estate 26 Feb. 1790, as attorney of her father, who was then residing at Drogheda, in Ireland.

<sup>5</sup> Dau. and evidently eldest child of James Joye, Esq. (younger son of the well-known Peter Joye, Esq., founder of the Free School in St. Anne, Blackfriars, benefactor to Sion College, etc.), by Mary, dau. of Robert Jeffes, of London, merchant. Her will, as of St. Margaret's, Westminster, spinster, dated 13 Jan. 1783, was proved 8 Apl. 1790, by her sister Jane Joye (see her burial 10 Dec. 1810), to whom she bequeathed the bulk of her large estate, although leaving many thousands of pounds to her nephews and niece and to various friends.

<sup>6</sup> Dau. of George Wyatt, Esq., Chief Clerk of the Vote Office, House of Commons, by Hannah his wife (see her burial 14 June 1782). According to family records, she was their eldest daughter, and was born 18 June 1725. She died unmarried. See the burial of her sister, Mrs. Hannah Vincent, 23 Feb. 1807.

1751), by the Princess Augusta (see her burial 15 Feb. 1772). According to the parish register of St. Anne, Westminster, he was born 27 Oct., and baptized 19 Nov. 1745. The dates are evidently old style. He was created Duke of Cumberland, Duke of Strathern, and Earl of Dublin 22 Oct. 1766. He married, 2 Oct. 1771, Lady Anne Luttrell, eldest dau. of Simon, first Earl of Carhampton, and relict of Christopher Horton, of Catton Hall, co. Derby, Esq., who survived him until 1803. He left no issue.

<sup>2</sup> Son of Thomas Pearce (younger son of William Pearce, Esq., for whose burial see 2 Jan. 1783), who died 15 Feb. 1766, by Mary, eldest dau. of Robert Jennings, Esq. (see his burial 4 Sep. 1779), who were married at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 10 Oct. 1758. He, or perhaps an elder brother of the same name who died in infancy, was born 20 Dec. 1759, and baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 10 Jan. 1760. His will, as of Abingdon Street, Westminster, dated two days before, was proved two days after his death, by his aunt Elizabeth Jennings (see her burial 24 Nov. 1813). He left his estate equally to his mother and his executrix. See the burial of his sister, Mrs. Mary Abbot, 28 Mch. 1794.

<sup>4</sup> According to a pedigree in the College of Arms, he was the second son of James Campbell, Esq., Commissary of the Western Isles of Scotland, and Chamberlain of Argyll, by Elizabeth, dau. of James Fisher, of Durren, Esq., Provost of Inverary, and was born at Inverary in 1739. The inscription on his monument describes him as of Inverneil, M.P., Colonel of the 74th Highland regiment of foot, hereditary Usher of the White Rod for Scotland, Governor of Jamaica and of Fort St. George, and Commander-in-chief of the Forces on the Coast of Coromandel in the East Indies. He attained the rank of Major-General 20 Nov. 1782, and was created a Knight of the Bath 30 Sep. 1785. He died, according to the journals of the day, at his house in Upper Grosvenor Street, leaving no issue. See the burials, of his wife 15 July 1813, and of his nephew 12 June 1819. His will, as K.B., Governor of Madras, and Major-General of His Majesty's Forces, dated at Madras 15 Nov. 1788, was proved 16 Apl. 1791, by his brothers, Sir James Campbell, Kt., and Duncan Campbell, Esq. The former was to be the chief inheritor under the will, subject to the following proviso, which may be considered somewhat remarkable at his period : "Should my brother, Major James Campbell, be so infatuated as to connect himself with any other woman than his lawful wife, it is my positive order that he shall from that hour be struck out of my will and testament, in the same manner as if his existence had naturally terminated : the man who is capable of injuring an amiable wife and family by such connections forfeits the character of an honest and honourable man, and can have no claim to any share of my confidence or fortune."

<sup>5</sup> His brother James Drummond, Esq., administered to his estate 17 Aug. 1791, his mother Mary Drummond, widow, having renounced, when he was described as of Sackville Street, St. James, Westminster, bachelor. Further letters were granted, 8 June 1797, after the death of his brother, to his sisters, Margaret Drummond and Mary Drummond, spinsters. He appears to have been a son of William Drummond, of Sackville Street, wine merchant, named as their kinsman in the wills of Admiral Charles Drummond (see his burial 22 Nov. 1771) and his brother Gavin Drummond, Esq. (see his burial 22 Feb. 1773).

<sup>1</sup> Son of Capt. Robert Harrison, R.N., who died 6 July 1745, after forty years' service, by Hannah his wife, who died in St. Sepulchre's, Loudon, and to whose estate letters of administration were granted 10 Sep. 1756. He was a lieutenant as early as 25 Jan. 1744-5 (the date of his father's will), attained his seniority 4 July 1755, and afterwards served on the East India station, and in 1761-2 in the expedition to Havanuah. After his return he was prostrated by palsy, and continued in a helpless condition for twenty-eight years, the remainder of his life. He was superannuated in 1779, with the rank and half-pay of a Rear-Admiral. He married Margery, dau. of Edward Croke, of Fort St. George, Madras, by Isabella his wife, who was totally blind for several years before her death. She survived her husband only twenty-four days, having proved his will on the 2nd of Nov., and dying on the 8th. By his will, dated 18 Apl. 1766, with several codicils, he gave all his estate to his wife, with remainder to his only sister Eleanor, wife of John Wale, and her children. She survived him only about three months, her will, as of St. Mary's, Islington, Midx., being dated 17 Jan., and proved 10 Feb. 1792.

<sup>2</sup> The Funeral Book gives the name "Watters," and says that no fees were paid. See the burial of Isabella Waters, probably his wife, 11 Oct. 1777, and note thereto.

<sup>5</sup> One of the celebrated architects to K. George III., which office he resigned in 1768, on becoming M.P. for the county of Kinross. He was second son of William Adam, of Maryburgh, co. Fife, also a distinguished architect, by his wife Mary Robertson, of Gladney, co. Fife, and was born, according to his monument, at Kirkcaldy, 3 July 1728. The journals of the day say that he died at his house in Albemarle Street, from the rupture of a blood-vessel in his stomach. His will, dated the day before his death, was proved on the 28th of the same month, by his brothers James and William Adam. He merely bequeathed all his effects to his two sisters, Elizabeth Adam and Margaret Adam.

<sup>6</sup> Second wife of Rev. Samuel Smith, LL.D., Head-Master of Westminster School (see his burial 31 Mch. 1808), to whom married 9 May 1791. She was a dau. of Rev. John Pettingall, D.D., minister of Duke Street Chapel, Westminster, by Susanna Long his wife, who were married at Knightsbridge Chapel 26 May 1741. She was born 17 Nov., and baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 13 Dec. 1749. She died, according to her monument, in her forty-third year. See the baptisms of her twin-children 8 May 1792, and the burial of one of them 7 July 1792.

<sup>1</sup> According to the Chapter Book, he was appointed Clerk of the Works 2 Mch. 1781. See the burial, probably of his first wife, but perhaps his sister, 9 Sep. 1783, and that of his son 22 Nov. 1787. His will, as of Dean's Yard, carpenter, dated 29 May 1792, was proved 24 Nov. following, by his relict Sarah, to whom he left all his estate.

<sup>3</sup> The celebrated commander in the war of the American Revolution. Son of John Burgoyne, Esq. (second son of Sir John Burgoyne, third Bart. of Sutton, co. Beds), by Anna-Maria, dau. of Charles Burneston, of Hackney, co. Midx., Esq. He was born the 4th, and baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 5 Feb. 1722-3, as the son of these parents, although the gossip of the day assigned his paternity to Robert, Lord Bingley (see his burial 14 Apl. 1731), and it must be acknowledged that certain bequests in that nobleman's will give some warrant for the scandal. He, however, called this child, then six years old, his "godson." His coffin-plate described him as "the Right Hon. John Burgoyne, Lieut.-General of His Majesty's Forces, Colonel of the Fourth Regiment of Foot, and one of His Majesty's most honourable Privy Council of the Kingdom of Ireland." See the burials, of his wife 14 June 1776, and of his daughter 10 Mch. 1764. His will, dated 10 Sep. 1783, then Lieut.-General, and Commander-in-Chief in Ireland, with a codicil 1 June 1788, was proved 22 Aug. 1792. Besides his bequests to his relations, he left £4000 to Mrs. Susan Caulfield, late of Bury Street, Westminster, but then residing in Park Street, Dublin, for herself and for the education of her son John, who was born in Queen Street, Soho, on or about 25 July 1782, and in the codicil stated that she had since the date of his will had two daughters, named Maria and Caroline, and another son, named Edward, all of whom had "equal claims to his care and protection" with her said son John, and were to share his bequests equally.

<sup>4</sup> According to the journals of the day, he was born near Kirk-Oswald, co. Cumberland, and he appears to have been the son of a clergyman of the Church of England of the same names. He studied abroad, taking his degree of M.D. at Rheims, and in 1766 was admitted a Licentiate of the Royal College of Physicians of London. He was the first physician appointed to the Westminster Lying-in-Hospital, and is regarded as the founder of that institution. He died at his house in Parliament Street. His will, as of Down Street, St. George's, Midx., dated 2 July 1755 (sic), was proved 14 Aug. 1792, by his brother William Leake, who was described at its date as a surgeon at St. Philip's, in the island of Minorca, to whom he left all his personal effects and his interest in an estate called "Sangh Shields," near St. John's Chapel, Weardale, co. Durham, then in possession of his aunt, Mrs. Ann Gibson, and which was to devolve at her death on his said brother, his eldest sister, and himself. His only other bequest was to Mrs. Rose Carr, of Down Street, who had nursed him during a tedious illness.

<sup>5</sup> The Funeral Book says that he was a servant to the Rev. Dr. Bell (see his burial 8 Oct. 1816), and gives his age as seventy. He was a son of John Kettlewell, almsman (see his burial 14 Apl. 1757), by Mary his wife (see her burial 8 Feb. 1736-7), and either he, or an elder brother of the same name, was born 12 Nov., and baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 4 Dec. 1715. As the Register and Funeral Book do not agree as to his age, it is probable that both are wrong, and that he was really in his seventy-eighth year.

<sup>6</sup> Pope's "silver-tongued Murray." Fourth son of David, fifth Viscount Stormont, by Margery, only dau. of David Scott, of Scotstarvet, co. Fife, Esq. He was born at the Abbey of Scone 2 Mch. 1704-5. He became Solicitor-General in 1742, Attorney-General in 1754, and Lord Chief Justice of the King's Bench 8 Nov. 1756, on which day he was created Baron Mansfield. He was created Earl of Mansfield 31 Oct. 1776. He died without issue, and was succeeded by his nephew (see his burial 9 Sep. 1796). See his wife's burial 20 Apl. 1784. His will, dated 17 Apl. 1782, with nineteen codicils, was proved on the day of his burial, by his said nephew, David, Earl of Mansfield. Lord Mansfield has always been regarded as one of the most brilliant ornaments of Westminster School, and his affection for that institution appears to have been very strong, for almost the first passage in his will is the following : " I desire to be buried privately, and, from the love I bear to the place of my early education, I wish it to be in Westminster Abbey."

<sup>7</sup> His will, as of Queen Anne Street East, St. Marylebone, Midx., Esq., dated 18 Mch. 1793, was proved 5 Apl. following, by his son Harcourt Weston, Esq. He left all his estate and effects equally to his wife Louisa and his children by her (see her burial 10 July 1799).

<sup>8</sup> Dau. of Rev. Dr. Charles Wake, Prebendary of Westminster and incumbent of St. Margaret's, Westminster, who died 1 Nov. 1796. The Gentleman's Magazine, noticing her death, says : " This amiable and beautiful young lady was on the eve of marriage, but a putrid fever put a period to her life in a very few days." The same authority erroneously gives the date of her death as 6 April.

<sup>4</sup> His will, as Captain in H.M.'s Royal Regiment of Artillery, dated 13 July 1793, was proved 20 Aug. following, by his son Charles-Frederick Abbott, to whom he left all his estates in "Deresolagh, Cloncorban, Killvorrow, Kaberkirky, and Killbilogy," all in co. Cork, Ireland, with the payment of £200, Irish money, to Jonas Lander, of the city of Cork, attorney-at-law, charged £50 to Edward Hays, of Dunmanway, Gent., and £100 each to Mr. Henry Thomsou, of Woolwich, co. Kent, his wife Ann, and his son Thomas Thomson. He also bequeathed to his sister Susanna Abbott an annuity of £50, Irish money, for life. He entered the Royal Regiment of Artillery 27 Feb. 1761, and became second lieutenant 28 July 1769, first-lieutenant 22 Oct. 1772, captain-lieutenant 7 July 1779, and captain 1 Dec. 1782.

<sup>5</sup> He is said to have been a son of Benjamin Cooke, a music-seller in New Street, Covent Garden, Midx., and, according to his monument, he was organist and master of the choristers of the Abbey upwards of thirty years. His degree as Doctor of Music was conferred upon him at Cambridge in 1775. His only relations named in his will, dated 22 June 1792, and proved 17 Oct. 1793, besides his children, were his sister Philippa Cooke, of Hampton Court, Midx., spinster, and his kinswoman, Hannah Cooke, living at Newton, near the city of Bath, spinster. See the burials, of his wife 26 Mch. 1784, and of his children, 19 June 1759, 11 Oct. 1760, 18 Apl. 1764, 12 Mch. 1765, 27 Feb. 1766, 28 Jan. 1772, 30 Aug. 1814, 6 Mch. 1819, 6 Oct. 1840, and 22 May 1845. These comprised his entire family.

<sup>2</sup> Relict of Abraham Acworth, Esq. (see his burial 14 Apl. 1781), to whom married, at St. Dunstan in the West, London, 30 Apl. 1745. According to the marriage allegation, at the Faculty Office, she was the dau. of Anthony-Rodney Buckeridge, deceased, and was to marry with the consent of her mother, Ann Ball, widow. Edmund Ball, Esq., a paymaster of Exchequer bills, and widow Buckeridge, of Ware, with £30,000, were married 6 July 1738 (Gent. Mag.) She died, according to her monument, 15 Apl., aged sixty-seven. See the burials of her sons, 6 Dec. 1773 and 26 Aug. 1818. The latter, as her only surviving child, administered to her estate 14 May 1794.

<sup>3</sup> She is called "Mrs." Mary Smith in the Funeral Book, but the place of burial sufficiently indicates her humble position.

<sup>4</sup> Second son and sixth child of Hugh, second Duke of Northumberland (see his burial 19 July 1817), by Frances-Julia his second wife (see her burial 10 May 1820). He was born 23 June, and baptized at St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., 21 July 1787.

<sup>5</sup> Son of Sir James Johnstone, third Bart. of Westerhall, co. Dumfries, by Barbara Murray, dau. of Alexander, fourth Lord Elibank. He succeeded as fourth Bart. 13 Dec. 1772. He was a Lieut.-Colonel in the army, and M.P. for co. Dumfries. On the death of the third Marquis of Annandale, in 1792, he became the head of the family of Johnstone, and was claimant of the Marquisate. He is usually said in the accounts of the family to have died unmarried, but see the burial of his relict 17 Apl. 1797. The Funeral Book says that he was buried "in the South-East Cloisters, near the iron gate." His will, dated 12 Mch. 1790, with codicils 28 Jan. 1794, was proved 21 Mch. 1796, by his said relict, to whom he bequeathed the estates in the island of Grenada left to him by his brother Alexander Johnstone (see his burial 21 Jan. 1783), with remainder to his brother William Pulteney (see his burial 11 June 1805), and the latter became his general heir. Besides liberal bequests to his own family, he provided generously for his illegitimate dau. Anne, then wife of a shop-keeper in Carlisle, named Scott, and for his illegitimate son James-Murray Johnstone, and his mother Jean Swanston, of Romford, co. Essex, spinster.

<sup>6</sup> Illegitimate dau. of Hugh, first Duke of Northumberland (see his burial 21 June 1786). The Gentleman's Magazine (1794, p. 1060) says that she died at Brompton, in consequence of grief for the loss of her elder sister (see her burial 24 Nov. 1791), and speaks very warmly of the character of the two sisters, and the devotion of their father to their interests. They were not, however, named in his will. Her will, as of St. Marylebone, Midx., dated 1 Apl., with a codicil 22 Oct. 1794, was proved 8 Dec. following, by Margaret Marriott, of Baker Street, Portman Square, widow, to whom she left all her possessions. After the death of her executrix, sums of £1000 each were to be paid to two French ladies, and £3000 to her "half-brother, James Macie, Esq., natural son of the late Duke of Northumberland," which appears to indicate that they were not children of the same mother. This half-brother, whose beneficence subsequently founded the well-known "Smithsonian Institution" at the city of Washington, in the United States of America, already taking high rank among similar scientific institutions throughout the world, died at Genoa, Italy, in 1826. In early life he was known as James-Lewis Macie, and in that name was created M.A. at Oxford, 26 May 1786, having matriculated from Pembroke College 7 May 1782, aged seventeen, paying the fees of an Esquire's son, but his father's name not being recorded. A few years after he assumed his father's family name of Smithson, and his will, dated in Bentinck Street, Cavendish Square, Midx., 23 Oct. 1826, thus commences : "I, James Smithson, son of Hugh, first Duke of Northumberland, and Elizabeth, heiress of the Hungerfords of Audley, and niece of Charles, the Proud Duke of Somerset."

<sup>2</sup> His will, as of Cowley Street, Westminster, Esq., dated 8 Jan. 1793, was proved by his eldest son Arthur Ormsby, Esq., but not until 5 Dec. 1803. He directed to be buried in the Cloisters, near his dau. Mary (see her burial 29 Jan. 1790). To his said son Arthur he bequeathed the rents of his estate of Birdhill alias Knockmcan, co. Tipperary. The residue of his estate he gave to his wife Elizabeth (see her burial 28 Mch. 1803), with remainder to his children, said Arthur Ormsby, James Ormsby, of the Inner Temple, Esq., and Elizabeth Ormsby, spinster. He was perhaps a son of Francis Ormsby, of Willowbrook, co. Sligo, Esq., who died in 1751, by Mary, dau. of Arthur French, of French Park, co. Roscommon, Esq. See the burial, probably of his grandson, 21 Apl. 1810.

<sup>4</sup> Relict of Joseph Strutt, of Moulsham, in Chelmsford, co. Essex, Esq., who died 29 May 1772, aged seventy, and was buried at Terling, in that county. They were the great-grandparents of John-James, first Lord Rayleigh. Her will, as of West Ham, co. Essex, dated 17 May 1777, was proved 11 Apl. 1795. She gave to her son John Strutt, Esq., £20, and bequeathed all the estate devised to her by her said husband, and by her late brother Mr. Nathaniel Bridges, to her three daughters, Elizabeth, wife of Rev. Dr. Foote Gower, and Ann and Sarah Strutt, spinsters, as tenants in common. They all proved the will, the first as Elizabeth Gower, widow, and the others as still unmarried. Dr. Gower, who had been presented to the rectory of Great Chignal, co. Essex, in 1761, by John Strutt, of Terling, Esq., his brother-in-law, died 16 May 1780, and was buried in the Abbey church at Bath. The daughter, Ann Strutt, died unmarried in 1803, her sister Sarah, also unmarried, surviving her.

Fields, Midx., 11 Dec. 1758, Mary Adams. The marriage allegation at the Faculty Office described him as of that parish, a bachelor, aged twenty-four and upwards, and her as dau. of James Adams, of St. James, Westminster, spinster, above eighteen. She survived him, and as his widow had a grant of ten guineas from the Chapter 23 Mch. 1795. It will be noticed that his age accords with both the marriage allegation and matriculation register, and, if identical, he must have gone to Oxford the year after his marriage. See the burials of his children, 19 Aug. 1762, 11 July 1763, 5 Feb. 1767, 8 Apl. 1771, and 18 Sep. 1783.

<sup>1</sup> He was appointed one of the sacristis 4 Aug. 1772, but resigned and was made College butler 2 Mch. 1781, which post he held at his death. He was also appointed College brewer 13 Feb. 1784. See the baptisms of his children. 3 June 1782, 22 May 1784, 10 Nov. 1786, and 10 Feb. 1789, and the burials of two of them, 19 Sep. 1797 and Feb. 1800. His will, as of the College of St. Peter, Westminster Abbey, Gent., dated 30 July 1792, was proved 2 May 1795, by his relict Jane, and his dau. Charlotte-Jane Thorne administered de bonis non 8 Aug. 1815, her mother being then dead. The only other relations named were his nephew Charles Wright and his niece Sally Wright.

<sup>3</sup> According to the Chapter Book, he was appointed Coroner of Westminster and Clerk of the Markets 1 Mch. 1762, which offices he resigned 26 Apl. 1792. He was Auditor of the College accounts at his death, and, according to the journals of the day, had been secretary to the Bishops of Chichester and Rochester. His will, as of Dean's Yard, Westminster, Gent., dated in 1788, was proved 5 Oct. 1795, by his only surviving son, Nathan-Seddon Prickard, power being reserved for his relict Ann. His only other surviving child was his daughter Margaret, then unmarried. To his son John he bequeathed his lands and tenements in Cwm-daiddwr and Rhayader, co. Radnor, and his other relations named were his brother John Prickard, his sister Winifred Griffith, his niece Winifred Chandler, his nephew James Hamer, and his nephew William Davies, son of his sister Barbara. He was grandfather of the late Thomas Prickard, of Dderw, Esq., J.P. and D.L. for co. Radnor, and great-grandfather of Rev. Thomas-Charles Prickard, Rector of New Radnor.

<sup>4</sup> Probably daughter of Samuel Arnold, Doctor of Music (see his burial 29 Oct. 1802, and note thereto). The Funeral Book gives her age as seventeen years and two months.

<sup>5</sup> Dau. and coheir of John Staveley, Esq., by Frances, grand-daughter of Sir Walter Hawksworth, of co. York, and relict of Captain Walter Pringle, to whom married, at St. George's, Bloomsbury, Midx., 3 Feb. 1753. She was a sister of Dame Susanna Werden, third wife and relict of Sir John Werden, second Bart. Her will, as of Bridge Street, St. Margaret's, Westminster, widow, dated 10 Aug. 1791, was proved on the day of her burial, by her niece Susanna Bayntun, daughter of her said sister Lady Werden, to whom and to her daughter Susanna-Amicia Bayntun she bequeathed all her estate.

<sup>6</sup> Second but last surviving daughter of James Moyser, of Beverley, co. York, Esq., by Sarah his wife, and baptized at St. Mary's, Beverley, 28 Jan. 1720-1. The journals of the day say that she died at Hammersmith, Midx. Her will, as of Harley Street, St. Mary-lebone, Midx., spinster, dated 29 July 1793, with eight codicils, was proved 12 Feb. 1796. She bequeathed her estates in Yorkshire to her kinsman Rev. Richard Gee, Rector of Hotham, co. York, for life, with remainder to her kinsman William Whyte, second son of James Whyte, late of Denbighs, co. Surrey, Esq., or, if he died in his minority, then to his younger brother Robert Whyte, on condition that he assumed the name and arms of Moyser. There were several other remainders, but on the death of Rev. Mr. Gee, 18 Apl. 1815, said Robert Whyte, his brother William being dead, succeeded to the estates, and had the royal license, 26 May following, to take the name of Moyser. She had outlived all her family, her nearest relations, to whom she left her estates, being the descendants of James Gee, of Bishop Burton, co. York, Esq., by Constantia his wife, daughter of her grandfather, John Moyser, of Beverley, Esq., by his second wife, she herself having descended from his first wife. She left handsome legacies to numerous friends, to whom she appears to have been under obligations in earlier life, and was especially generous to her servants.

<sup>1</sup> His wife's monument describes him as sometime Judge of the Court of Admiralty and Receiver-General of the Casual Revenue in the Island of Barbados, and the journals of the day say that he died at his apartments at Exeter. His will, as of Bridgetown, Barbados, Esq., dated 22 Apl. 1793, with a codicil 7 Feb. 1796, was proved 18 Apl. following. He directed to be buried, if he died at Barbados, in the church of St. Michael, in the grave with his infant daughter Catharine, but if in Great Britain, or on his passage thither, then in Westminster Abbey, with his late dear wife (see her burial 10 Mch. 1785) and his infant son and daughter. Sundry plate, furniture, etc., was to be sent to a house in or near Exeter, co. Devon, for the use of his present wife Mary-Judith, and he made provision for his two daughters, Anna-Maria and Catharine-Ann. His real estate in Devonshire he devised to trustees for the use of any son he might have, with remainder to his daughters. In the codicil he stated that his son William-Cholmley Morris, born 12 Aug. 1793, would inherit his estate under his will, and bequeathed £1500 to his daughter Caroline-Augusta, born 17 Jan. 1795, when twenty-one or married. His relict, Mary-Judith, with two other executors, proved the will.

<sup>2</sup> The celebrated translator or editor of Ossian's Poems. According to his monument, he was born at Ruthven, co. Inverness, 27 Oct. 1736, but little appears to be known of his family. From 1764 to 1766 he was in America, as secretary to the Governor of Pensacola, and on his return settled in London, and devoted himself to literary pursuits. During the latter part of his life he was agent to the Nabob of Arcot, and was M.P. for Camelford, co. Cornwall, from 1780 until his death. He died at his seat called Belleville, in the parish of Alvie, co. Inverness, unmarried, and was buried in the Abbey according to his directions. His will, as of Fludyer Street, Westminster, of Putney Common, co. Surrey, and of Belleville, co. Inverness, Esquire, and M.P. for Camelford, dated 7 June 1793, with a codicil 10 Sep. following, was proved 26 Mch. 1796. The only direct relations he named were the children of his deceased sister Janet Clark, and his nephew John MacIntire, Capt. of Artillery in the East India Company's service. He left considerable legacies to several friends, but the most of his large estate to several illegitimate children, with annuities to their various mothers.

<sup>3</sup> The celebrated architect and surveyor-general of the Board of Works, F.R.S., F.S.A., and treasurer of the Royal Academy. He is said to have descended from an ancient Scottish family, but to have been born at Stockholm, in Sweden, where his father was settled as a merchant. He was the architect of the present Somerset House, in the Strand. He was never knighted in England, but had the rank of knight-bachelor, and the appellation "Sir," from having received from the King of Sweden the Order of the Polar Star. His age, as stated in the text, makes him five years older than is usually stated in the accounts of him. His will, as of Whitton Place, and of Norton Street, and late of Berners Street, co. Midx., Knight, dated 19 June 1795, with two codicils, was proved 16 Mch. 1796. His bequests were to his wife Dame Catherine, his only son

George Chambers and his wife the Hon. Mrs. Chambers; his daughters, Salina, wife of William Innes, Esq., Charlotte, wife of Charles Harward, Esq., and Lavinia, wife of Josiah Cottin, Esq.; and the children of his late daughter Cornelia, wife of John Milbanke, Esq. His relict, Dame Catherine, died 29 Jan. 1798.

<sup>1</sup> According to her monument, she was the wife of Rev. Robert-Poole Finch, D.D., Canon of Westminster, and was born in 1729. See her husband's burial 26 May 1803.

<sup>2</sup> He had been College beadle, but resigned and was succeeded by his son John 29 July 1794. See the burials, of his wife 4 Nov. 1788, and of his children, 24 Mch. 1766, 26 Mch. 1788, and 5 Nov. 1827. His will, as of Chapel Street, St. Margaret's, Westminster, Gent., dated 27 June 1795, was proved 26 Mch. 1796, by his son John, residuary legatee. His only other bequest was the reversion of £300 to his grand-daughter Jane Fenn, then a minor, after his said son's death.

<sup>3</sup> Probably a daughter of Mr. John-Stafford Smith, who was connected with the Chapel Royal as early as 1776 and is mentioned in the preface to Sir John Hawkin's History of Music. The Funeral Book gives her age as eleven years and six months, and says that she was buried at the head of "Long Meg."

<sup>4</sup> According to his family records, he was third son and fourth child of John Dupuis and Susannah his wife, who were natives of France, but he was born in England 5 Nov. 1733, and was therefore in his sixty-third year at his death. His father is said to have occupied some position about the Court, and was educated in the Chapel Royal, under the celebrated Bernard Gates (see his burial 23 Nov. 1773), whose principal heir he finally became. He was appointed organist and composer to the Chapel Royal in 1779, and the degree of Doctor of Music was conferred upon him at Oxford 26 June 1790. He died at his house in King's Row, Park Lane. His will, as Thomas-Sanders Dupuis, dated the day before his death, was proved on the 26th of the same month. He directed to be buried at Fulham, on the coffin of his dear wife, but his wish appears not to have been regarded. He bequeathed £50 to Letitia Dupuis, relict of his late son Rev. Thomas-Skelton Dupuis, and the rest of his estate, except legacies to several friends, to his only surviving son Charles Dupuis, but, if he should die unmarried, it was then to go to Samuel Arnold, Doctor of Music (see his burial 29 Oct. 1802), and his children.

<sup>5</sup> The Funeral Book, quoting her coffin-plate, says that she was born 4 July 1796. See her mother's burial 31 Jan. 1812, and note thereto.

<sup>6</sup> Eldest son of David, sixth Viscount Stormont, by Anne, only daughter and heir of John Stewart, of Inncryntie, Esq., and born 9 Oct. 1727. He succeeded his father as seventh Viscount Stormont 23 July 1748, and his uncle William (see his burial 28 Mch. 1793) as second Earl of Mansfield. The Funeral Book describes him as LL.D., President of H.M.'s most honourable Privy Council, and Knight of the most ancient Order of the Thistle. He was twice married, and left issue.

Lords, and the journals of the day say that he had been in that service more than forty years. His will, as of College Street, Westminster, Gent., dated 12 Jan. 1796, was proved 20 Feb. 1797. He bequeathed his house, etc., to his wife Sarah (see her burial 9 Nov. 1798), also his lands, etc., at or near Oswestry, co. Salop. with remainder to his sister-in-law, Anne Jones, of Oswestry, spinster, and, after her death, to his brother Nicholas Croft, of Milton-Abbott, co. Devon, with remainder to his daughters, Sarah Moon and Mary Anne Patey. He evidently left no issue.

<sup>1</sup> Her monument described her as the wife of Michael Hare, Esq. (see his burial 18 Nov. 1807), and gave her age as forty-eight, which is correct. She was the youngest child of James Merest, Esq., assistant-clerk of the House of Lords, by Jane his second wife, dau. of Charles Battely, Esq. (see her baptism 16 Mch. 1706-7, and note thereto). She was born the 3rd, and baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 27 June 1748, and was married to Mr. Hare, at St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., 19 Nov. 1770. See the burials, of her father's first wife 17 Nov. 1727, and of the daughter and son of her sister Charlotte Fisher, 8 Mch. 1813, and 21 Dec. 1821.

<sup>2</sup> First wife of Mr. Alexander Pope, for some years the principal tragedian at Covent Garden Theatre. She is said to have descended from a good family of the name of Young, and to have been much esteemed as an actress by Garrick. According to the journals of the day, she was married to Mr. Pope, at Dublin, either 9 or 11 Aug. 1785. She died at her house in Half-Moon Street, Piccadilly, and was buried, according to the London Chronicle, "between the remains of Sir Richard Jebb and Doctor Dupuis." See the burial of her husband's second wife, June 1803.

<sup>4</sup> The date of her death in the text is undoubtedly that of her burial, as all the journals of the day say that she died 9 April. She was the relict of Sir James Johnstone, fourth Bart. of Westerhall, co. Dumfries (see his burial 17 Sep. 1794), being so described on her monument and in her will, and recognized as his wife in his will, although the peerages usually say that he died unmarried. There was a considerable mystery about her antecedents which it has been somewhat difficult to solve, but she appears to have been a daughter of a Mr. Colclough, by his wife Elizabeth-Mary-Louisa, illegitimate daughter of Sir Thomas Montgomerie, an Irish knight, by Clemence, daughter of Sir William Hovell, of Hillington, co. Norfolk, Kt., and wife of Charles Stuart, Esq., father of Sir Simcon Stuart, second Bart. of Hartley-Mauduit. Sir Thomas Montgomerie had four other children by this lady, some of them certainly during the lifetime of her husband, who died the 19th, and was buried at St. James, Westminster, 24 Jan. 1705-6. Sir Thomas eventually married Mrs. Stuart, at St. Bride's, London, 11 Feb. 1713-14, and was buried at St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., 23 Mch. 1715-16, she being also buried there 19 Sep. 1720. In the wills of both of them the five children are recognized as illegitimate, and in that of Sir Thomas the date of birth of the only son is precisely given as 1 Jan. 1703-4, and the mother of Lady Johnstone was old enough at his death to be his executrix. Lady Johnstone appears to have had a former husband, Rev. Mr. Merrick, but was married to Sir James Johnstone before 3 July 1759, as is distinctly stated in his will. Her age at her death is not given either on her monument, in the Register, or in the Funeral Book, but her mother was not married until after 1720, in which year she proved her own mother's will, as a spinster. Lady Johnstone's will, as of Bulstrode Street, St. Marylebone, Midx., widow, and relict of Sir James Johnstone, Bart., deceased, dated 2 Dec. 1795, with a codicil 15 Mch. 1797, was proved 15 Apl. following, by her "kinsman" Sir Martin-Brown Folkes, Bart., to whom and to his issue she left her estate called Bellmount, in Hillington, co. Norfolk, with remainders successively to her "kinsman" Sir Simon Stuart, Bart., and his heirs male, and then to the issue male of Rev. Octavian Reynolds by his wife Clemence Montgomerie, another of the illegitimate daughters above named. Her only other bequest, except to a servant, was one of £1000 to Ann Scott, one of the illegitimate children of her late husband named in his will.

<sup>6</sup> According to the Chapter Book, William Miles, of Tufton Street, Westminster, was appointed Clerk of the Works 12 Dec. 1792, and was dismissed 23 July 1803. But apparently another of the same name was appointed College glazier 6 June 1793, and had a gratuity of ten guineas some time later, on account of having been hurt by a fall from a window. This was probably a child of the former. See the burial, doubtless of her brother, 9 Mch. 1799.

<sup>7</sup> Only surviving son of Captain George Johnston, descended from the family of that name of Hilton, co. Berwick, who, on quitting the service, became an army agent in Dublin, by Hester, dau. of Rev. James Bland, Dean of Ardfer, in Ireland. He entered the army as a cornet of dragoons 1 Oct. 1736, was engaged in subsequent continental campaigns, and attained the rank of General 25 Oct. 1793. He was sometime Governor of Quebec, and at his death Colonel of the Enniskillen regiment of dragoons. According to the journals of the day, he died at Hampton, after a painful illness. He married, 5 May 1763, Lady Henrietta-Cecilia West, eldest surviving dau. of John, first Earl Delaware, who survived him and died 24 Feb. 1817. His will, as of South Audley Street, St. George's, Hanover Square, and of Hampton, co. Midx., General of H.M.'s Forces, Governor of Quebec, in the Province of Canada, and Colonel of the sixth or Enniskillen regiment of dragoons, dated 26 May 1796, was proved 13 Jan. 1798. His bequests were to his said wife; his sister Margaret Johnston, of Hilton Lodge, co. Haddington; his daughter-in-law Jane, wife of his son Henry-George Johnston; his daughter Caroline-Georgina, wife of Evelyn Anderson, Esq.; and the children of his late sister Mary, Lady Napier, relict of Francis, Lord Napier.

<sup>4</sup> The date of her burial is not given in either the Register or the Funeral Book.—Died, 21 May 1798, "in Dean's Yard, Westminster, aged sixty-six, of a dropsical complaint, Mrs. Mary Clough, who has long kept a respectable boarding-house there for the Westminster scholars" (Gent. Mag.).—Her will, as Marian Clough, of St. Margaret's, Westminster, widow, dated "Dean's Yard, Jan<sup>r</sup> 1796," was proved 12 June 1798, by Francis Field, of New Cavendish Street, Midx., Esq., and James-William Dodd, Fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge (see his burial 5 Sep. 1818). To the latter she left £50, her new silver cruet, etc., for his care and attention to her house during her illness, and to the former £100, in token of his friendship, and particularly for getting her £500 to pay for her house, her daughter's husband having promised to do so, and then drawn back and left her in distress, "for which reason," she wrote, "I solemnly cut off my daughter's husband, the Rev. Richard Glover, M.A., belonging to St. John's College, Cambridge, from having the most trifling article belonging to me, nor will I allow his wife, my daughter Sarah Glover, to give him the liberty to assist her in looking any think (sic) belonging to me, either taking memorandum, or making inventory, or anything else concerning me." She did not, however, extend her resentment to their eight children, Jane, Marian, John, Thomas, Richard, William, Bright, and Robert Glover, but left them £5 each.

<sup>5</sup> Dan. of Robert Hollinshead, of Wigan, co. Lancaster, merchant, by Alice, dan. of James Allanson, of Chorley, co. Lancaster, Esq. Her will, as Bridget Hollinshead, of Parliament Street, Westminster, spinster, dated 19 Apl., with a codicil 14 July 1798, was proved 16 Aug. following, by her brother John Hollinshead, residuary legatee. She named no other relation, but left considerable legacies to several friends.

<sup>1</sup> Third and youngest dau. of Oliver Marton, of Capernwray Hall, co. Lancaster, Esq., by Jane, his second wife, dau. of Roger Wilson, of Casterton Hall, co. Westmoreland, Esq., who were married at St. Mary-Aldermanbury, London, 29 July 1707. Her will, as of Walcott Place, St. Mary's, Lambeth, co. Surrey, spinster, dated 12 Nov. 1795, with several codicils, was proved 17 Oct. 1798. Her nieces, Mary Fletcher and Diana Dalrymple, were her residuary legatees. See her sister's burial 27 Jan. 1787.

<sup>2</sup> Relict of John Croft, Esq., Clerk of the Journals, etc., to the House of Lords (see his burial in February 1797). From her husband's will, her name appears to have been Jones, and she was probably of a Shropshire family.

<sup>3</sup> He was one of the Gentlemen of the Chapel Royal, and belonged to the choirs of the Abbey and of Eton. According to the journals of the day, he was buried with a grand funeral service, performed by the choirs of Westminster, St. Paul, and St. James. His will, dated 15 Dec. 1798, was proved 24 Jan. 1799, by his relict Jane. His bequests were to his son John Friend, of Durham Cathedral, and his children Mary and Sarah, and to his daughter Grace Burrows, of the Haymarket, stationer, and her sons John-Freckleton Burrows and William Burrows.

<sup>5</sup> Probably the first wife of John Fenn, College beadle, etc. (see his burial 5 Nov. 1827), as she was not named as a daughter in his father's will.

<sup>7</sup> The journals of the day call her the relict of John-Alexander Gresse, of Maidenhead, Berks, Esq. Her will, as of Stephen Street, Tottenham-Court Road, Midx., widow, dated 7 Sep. 1796, was proved on the day of her burial, by her friend Joseph-Lane Yeomans, of King-Street, Bloomsbury, to whom and to his children she left all her estate, except a few legacies to other friends. She directed to be buried in the Abbey, in the clothes she should have on at her death or in the linen of the bed on which she died. Her husband is named in the catalogues of painters as a pupil of Cipriani, as one of the first students at the Duke of Richmond's Gallery, and as afterwards of the Academy in St. Martin's Lane. He died in Feb. 1794, aged about fifty-three, but did not even name his wife in his will.

<sup>8</sup> Son of Colonel Mordaunt Cracherode, by Mary his wife (see her burial 3 Jan. 1785, and note thereto). He was born at Taplow, co. Bucks, 23 June 1730, and educated at Westminster School and Oxford. He was F.R.S. and F.S.A., and a munificent benefactor to the British Museum, of which institution he became a trustee in 1784. He died unmarried. His will, dated 9 Apl. 1792, was proved 17 Apl. 1799, by his sister Anne Cracherode (see her burial in July 1802), his sole heir and residuary legatee.

 July (—) Mrs. Silvia Winstanley;<sup>3</sup> died June 28th, aged 85: in the East Cloister.
 July 10 Mrs. Louisa Weston;<sup>4</sup> died the 4th, aged 70: in the West Cloister.
 July 21 Edward Blackstock;<sup>5</sup> died the 15th, aged 66: in the West Cloister.
 Oct. 5 Richard Atkins;<sup>6</sup> died Sept. 29th, aged 62: in the grass-plat.
 Oct. 30 Mary, relict of the late Sir John Lindsay, K.B.;<sup>7</sup> died the 24th, aged 59: in the North Cross.
 Nov. 21 William Young;<sup>8</sup> died the 15th, aged 84: in the North Cloister.

<sup>3</sup> Her maiden name, according to some accounts, was Cole, and she is said to have descended from the family of that name of Colchester, co. Essex, while others describe her as of Amsterdam. She married, first, Colonel John Brathwaite, who was slain in 1740, during an engagement with a Spanish privateer, by whom she had one son and two daughters. The former, Sir John Brathwaite, attained the rank of Major-General in the army, and was created a Baronet 18 Dec. 1802. The eldest daughter, Silvia, married the celebrated Bonnell Thornton, Esq., and the other, Caroline, married Robert Armitage, of Kensington, Esq., and was grandmother of Rev. Brathwaite Armitage, Vicar of Peterchurch, co. Hereford. Mrs. Brathwaite married, secondly, Rev. Thomas Winstanley (see his burial 13 Feb. 1789), by whom she appears to have had only one son (see his burial 29 May 1769). In her will, as of St. Luke's, Chelsea, dated 9 Apl. 1791, with a codicil 26 Feb. 1798, and proved 12 July 1799, she desired that a certain gold knife should not go out of the family, adding—"it was my grandfather's: he had it in his pocket when he fled from France in the time of persecution: it was his father's." This throws some doubt upon at least the first of the above statements respecting her ancestry. She directed to be buried in the Cloisters, by her "dear Tom."

<sup>5</sup> His monument described him as "Clerk of the Papers to the House of Lords upwards of thirty years." His will, as of St. John the Evangelist, Westminster, dated 18 Jan., with a codicil 30 May 1799, was proved 7 Aug. following, by his relict Harriet (see her burial 23 Dec. 1831) and by his "first cousin" Mr. William Walmesley the elder. His "freehold" at Croydon was to go, after his wife's death, to Mary, wife of said William Walmesley, and their issue. He appears to have lived at No. 2 Great College Street, Westminster.

<sup>6</sup> According to the Chapter Book, Richard Atkins, a poor man, was nominated to Emery Hill's almshouses 27 Dec. 1798. The place of burial sufficiently indicates his humble position.

<sup>7</sup> Only dau. of Sir William Milner, first Bart. of Nun-Appleton, co. York, by Elizabeth, only surviving dau. of The Most Rev. Sir William Daves, third Bart. of Putney, Archbishop of York. She was married 19 Sep. 1768, and died without issue, according to the journals of the day, at Ham, co. Surrey. See her husband's burial 16 June 1788.

<sup>8</sup> His will, as of St. John the Evangelist, Westminster, "late peruke maker," dated 26 July 1785, was proved 28 Nov. 1799, by Mary, his second wife and relict, to whom he left all his possessions, except five guineas to his nephew John Coward, of Ambleside, near Kendal, co. Westmoreland. He directed to be buried in the Cloisters with his late wife (see her burial 25 July 1782). Their monumental inscription was on the same stone with that of Mrs. Dorothy Hull (see her burial 13 Apl. 1777).

<sup>3</sup> His monument describes him as son of Rev. Richard Warren, D.D., Rector of Cavendish and Archdeacon of Suffolk, and brother of Richard Warren, M.D., many years physician in ordinary to the King, and states that he died in his seventy-second year, which is probably correct, as he was A.B. at Cambridge, as of Caius College in 1750, and would not be likely to have had that degree at the age of nineteen. He took his degree of A.M. in 1754, and that of S.T.P. in 1772. He became a Prebendary of Ely 23 Jan. 1768, was consecrated Bishop of St. David's 19 Sep. 1779, and was translated to Bangor 28 May 1783. He died, according to the journals of the day, at his house in George Street, Westminster. His will, dated 20 Mch. 1798, was proved 22 Apl. 1800, by his relict Elizabeth, sole legatee (see her burial 10 Apl. 1816).

<sup>5</sup> Staates-Long Morris, son of James Morris, of Morrisania, near the city of New York, U.S.A., Esq., by Eleanor, second dau. of Augustus Van Cortlandt, Esq., a descendant of the ancient family of that name in the State of New York. He entered the army, and was a Captain as early as 1759, when he raised a battalion of nine hundred men in Scotland, and attained the rank of General 3 May 1796. He married, first, about 23 Mch. 1756 (Mar. Lic. Fac.), Lady Catharine Gordon, dau. of William, second Earl of Aberdeen, and relict of Cosmo-George, third Duke of Gordon, who died 10 Dec. 1779. His will, dated 10 Dec. 1790, was proved 18 Apl. 1800, by Jane, his second wife and relict (see her burial 23 Mch. 1801), to whom he bequeathed all his real and personal estate, except that in America, which he had already disposed of by deed. He appears to have left no issue.

who assumed the surname of Bowes, and died in April 1776, by whom she had three sons and two daughters. She married, secondly, at St. James, Westminster, 17 Jan. 1777, Andrew-Robinson Stoney, of King's county, Ireland, Esq., who also assumed the surname of Bowes, from whom she was divorced in 1789, and who died 16 Jan. 1810, in the Rules of the King's Bench prison, where, according to the journals of the day, he had been detained twenty-two years at the instance of Lady Strathmore and her representatives. She died at Christchurch, Hants, and is said to have been buried "dressed in a superb bridal dress." See the burial of her father's first wife 19 Dec. 1724.

<sup>1</sup> Dau. of Benjamin Clay, of Southwell, co. Notts, Gent., by Elizabeth his wife and relict, who was buried at Southwell 21 May 1781. She was born at Southwell 28 Dec. 1739, and married there, 20 Sep. 1762, to Edmund Ayrton, afterwards Doctor of Music (see his burial 28 May 1808). They were the parents of fourteen children, and the grand-parents of the late celebrated Dr. John-Ayrton Paris. See the burials, of her children, 19 Oct. 1772, 13 July 1776, 2 Jan. 1778, 29 Dec. 1779, and 20 Oct. 1780, and of her grandchild 11 Mch. 1807.

<sup>5</sup> An eminent solicitor in Norfolk Street, Strand. He appears to have been admitted to the Inner Temple, 23 June 1750, as second son of James Wallis, of Knarsdale, co. Northumberland, Gent. He was an intimate friend of Garrick, and erected the monument to his memory in the Abbey. See an account of him in the Gentleman's Magazine, 1800, p. 908, which characterizes this as "the only act of his life that seems entitled to the notice of mankind," and states that he left his large fortune entirely away from his relatives. On page 917 his character is defended. His will, as of Norfolk Street, Esq., dated 14 Feb. 1800, with three later codicils, was proved 8 Sep. following, and does not sustain the charge made against him, as he bequeathed to his brother-in-law Thomas Baxter, the messuage, lands, etc., called The Tower Green, in Knarsdale, and to Jane Leeson, of Cold-Bath Fields, his late wife's sister, £100, while he recognized his heir-at-law, and left him £500. He named no other relations, and made Dame Ann Bayly his residuary legatee, with remainder to her son Lieut.-Colonel Lewis Bayly, who proved the will. See the burial of his only son 20 Mch. 1776.

 in the North aisle.
 Feb. 6 George Markham, Esq.;<sup>6</sup> died Jan. 31st, aged 78: in the North

<sup>3</sup> One of the minor canons of the Abbey. He matriculated at Oxford, from Magdalen Hall, 11 May 1769, aged thirty, as son of Francis Willett, of St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., Gent., and was B.A. 29 Apl. 1774, and M.A. 23 Feb. 1776. His will, as of St. Margaret's Churchyard, Westminster, dated 27 Oct. 1790, was proved 8 Jan. 1801, by his eldest son Thomas Willett. He bequeathed several houses in the Strand, and in Jermyn Street, Westminster, to his wife Hannah, who survived him, and certain shares in the Amicable Society to his sons Thomas, Waring, and Charles, and his daughters Hannah and Lucinda, all being then minors. The youngest son, Charles, was born 10 Aug., and baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 28 Sep. 1782. He appears to have been residing at Camden Town, Midx., at his death.

<sup>4</sup> Third and youngest son of Major William Markham (see his burial 1 June 1771), by Elizabeth his wife, and brother of the Most Rev. William Markham, Archbishop of York (see his burial 11 Nov. 1807). He entered the military service at an early age, and served some time as a volunteer in America. On his return he raised the 112th regiment, or Royal Musketeers, of which he became Major-Commandant. Some years later he was appointed Lieut.-Colonel of the 46th regiment, and served with it in America throughout the whole of the revolutionary war. He died unmarried, and, according to the traditions of his family, was buried wrapped in the colours of the 112th regiment, which had long before ceased to exist. See the burial of his only other brother 6 Feb. following.

<sup>5</sup> Eldest son of George Staunton, of Cargine, co. Galway, Esq. (descended from a Nottinghamshire family), by Margaret, dau. of John Leonard, of Carra, in the same county, Esq. He was born 19 Apl. 1737, and bred to the medical profession, but subsequently became a somewhat distinguished diplomatist. His last mission was to China, in 1792, an account of which he published. He was created a Baronet (of Ireland) 31 Oct. 1785. He married, 22 July 1771, Jane, dau. of Benjamin Collins, of Milford, co. Wilts, Esq., and left issue, but the title is now extinct. According to the journals of the day, he died from paralysis, at his house in Devonshire Street, Portland Place. His age was nearly sixty-four.

 Nov. 27 Mr. Anthony Gell;<sup>6</sup> died the 20th, aged 37: in the North Cloister.
 Dec. 7 Mrs. Ann Crawford;<sup>7</sup> died Nov. 29th, aged 68: in the North Cloister.

Colonel Enoch Markham (see his burial 2 Jan. 1801). He entered the navy at an early age, but subsequently abandoned the profession in disgust, according to the family traditions, on account of not receiving the promotion which he thought he deserved. He afterwards became a commissioner of lotteries, and continued in that post until his death. He died unmarried.

<sup>1</sup> The name in the Funeral Book is "Varren." The place of burial indicates that she occupied some very humble position.

<sup>3</sup> Second wife and relict of General Staats-Long Morris (see his burial 7 Apl. 1800). She was a Miss or Mrs. Urquhart, and was married about Dec. 1780. Her will, as of Berrymead Lodge, Acton, Midx., but then residing at Bathwick, co. Somerset, dated 31 July 1800, with a codicil 15 Mch. 1801, was proved 9 Apl. following, by the Hon. Rufus King, Minister Plenipotentiary from the United States of America to this kingdom, and by Francis Gregor, of Trewarthenick, co. Cornwall, Esq. All the bequests in her will were to the family of her late husband General Morris, all of whom were residing in the United States. In the codicil she bequeathed to Miss Julia Byron £1000, to Miss Urquhart £1000, to dowager Lady Errol £1000, and to Mrs. Gregor and Miss Urquhart her diamonds equally.

<sup>6</sup> Son of Anthony Gell, Receiver-general of the Abbey (see his burial 4 Feb. 1817), by Frances, his wife (see her burial 7 Feb. 1825). He was born 26 May, and baptized at St. Margaret's Westminster, 8 June 1764, and was, according to the journals of the day, clerk of the cash book in the office of the auditor of the Exchequer. He evidently died unmarried.

<sup>7</sup> A celebrated tragic actress in her day. She is said to have been the daughter of a Mr. Street, an apothecary at Bath, and first married an actor named Dancer, who died 26 Dec. 1759. She married, secondly, about 1768, the celebrated tragedian, Spranger Barry (see his burial 20 Jan. 1777), whose pupil she had been. She married, thirdly, in July 1778, a Mr. Crawford (whom she also survived), described by one authority as "a bad actor, an eccentric individual, and an unprofitable husband, much younger than herself," and by another as "a scampish young Irish barrister, who spent her money, and broke her heart." The journals of the day say that she died in obscure apartments in Queen Street, Westminster, and that her executor was the only surviving son of her brother, the late William Street, of Bath, Esq. These accounts, however, which represent her as reduced to poverty, do not accord with her will, which was dated 9 Jan. 1801, and proved 10 Feb. 1802, by her nephew the Rev. Thomas Street, of Lyncombe and Widcombe, co. Somerset, of which parishes she described herself, and with whom she was evidently residing, to whom she bequeathed all her real and personal estate, except £300, which she gave to her sister Edith Brome, of Ipswich, widow, and her daughters Edith Brome and Eliza Brome, and the arrears of her annuity of £100 out of the Crow Street theatre in Dublin, which she gave to her nephew Charles Brome. She probably died at her lodgings, while on a visit to London.

- Oct. 29 Samuel Arnold, Dr. of Music;<sup>7</sup> died the 22nd, aged 62: in the North aisle.

<sup>2</sup> Younger son of the Right Rev. Welbore Ellis, Bishop of Meath, by Diana, dau. of Sir John Briscoe, of Amberley Castle, co. Sussex, Kt. He was created Baron Mendip, of Mendip, co. Somerset, 13 Aug. 1794. He married, first, 18 Nov. 1747, Elizabeth, dau. of Sir William Stanhope, K.B., who died 1 Aug. 1761. See the burial of his second wife 13 Dec. 1803. Dying without issue, the title passed, by limitation in the patent, to his great-nephew, Henry-Welbore Agar, second Viscount Clifden, who, in accordance with his will, assumed the surname of Ellis. See his nephew's burial 21 July 1809.

<sup>3</sup> His monument described him as of Kincraigie in Perthshire, and the journals of the day as Colonel of the Royal Invalids. See his wife's burial in Aug. 1797, and the burials 8 Jan. 1812 and 7 Jan. 1836.

<sup>4</sup> Only surviving child of Colonel Mordaunt Cracherode, by Mary his wife (see her burial 3 Jan. 1785, and note thereto), and sister of Rev. Clayton-Mordaunt Cracherode (see his burial 13 Apl. 1799). She was born 30 Apl., and baptized at St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., 1 May 1718. Her will, as of Queen Square, Westminster, spinster, dated 16 Apl. 1801, with numerous codicils, was proved 5 Aug. 1802, by the Right Hon. Shute Barrington, Bishop of Durham, whom she made her residuary legatee, in trust to distribute her large estate. The date of her burial is not given either in the Register or the Funeral Book.

<sup>5</sup> He had been a servant of Bishop Pearce while Dean of Westminster, and, according to the Chapter Book, was appointed, 11 Feb. 1768, a sacrist and porter of the Little Cloisters, but shortly resigned both offices, and became, 22 Apl. following, porter of the Great Cloisters, sealer, keeper of the College water, and a bell-ringer, all which offices he held, as well as those of chamberlain and messenger, at his death. His will, dated 31 July 1797, was proved 23 Sep. 1802, by his relict Susanna (see her burial 10 Nov. 1818), to whom he left all his real and personal estate whatsoever. See the baptisms of his children, 2 Apl. 1769, 6 Jan. 1771, 18 Oct. 1772, 22 Oct. 1775, 2 Sep. 1776, and 14 Feb. 1779, and the burials of two of them, 1 Oct. 1776 and 1 Jan. 1778.

<sup>6</sup> Letters of administration to his estate, as of Abingdon Street, Westminster, were granted, 10 Sep. 1802, to his relict Mary (see her burial, as Mary Robertson, 7 Jan. 1836). His personalty was sworn under £10,000.

<sup>7</sup> He is said to have been a native of London, and was born, according to his monument, 10 Aug. 1740. He was educated in music under the celebrated Bernard Gates and Dr. Nares, and so rare was his proficiency that he became composer to Covent Garden Theatre in his twenty-third year. His popularity became so deservedly great that the University of Oxford conferred upon him 5 July 1773, the degree of Doctor of Music. The matriculation register fortunately preserved his father's name, which appears not to have been heretofore known to biographers. He was described as the son of Thomas Arnold, and his father's rank given as "Pleb.," which sufficiently indicates his humble origin. In 1783 he became organist and composer to the Chapel Royal, and in 1793 organist of the Abbey. He married, in 1771, Mary-Anne, dau. of Archibald Napier, M.D., who survived him. She administered to his estate 6 Dec. 1802, when his personalty was sworn under £2000. He left a son, Samuel-James Arnold, to whom further letters of administration were granted, 31 Dec. 1812, his mother being then dead, and a daughter, Marianne, who married William Ayrtton (see the burial of their child 11 Mch. 1807, and note thereto). See the burial, probably of another daughter, 20 Dec. 1795.

<sup>2</sup> His will, as of Southampton Row, St. George's, Bloomsbury, Midx., Esq., dated 22 Mch. 1802, was proved 5 Feb. 1803, by his son John Murray, of No. 61 Upper Seymour Street, St. Marylebone, Esq. To his wife Elizabeth he bequeathed all the plate, furniture, etc., in the house then occupied by her in the town of Monmouth, and £100 per annum for life, and to Mary Murray, then living with her, £20 for mourning. To his relation, Ann Murray, then living with him in his house in Southampton Row, he gave the house No. 16 Southampton Row, for the rest of the lease, and the use of the plate, furniture, etc., in his own dwelling-house. All the rest of his real and personal estate he left to his friends Randle Wilbraham, of Rode Hall, co. Chester Esq., Richard Welch, of Lower Seymour Street, St. Marylebone, Esq., and the Rev. Matthew Skinner, of Richmond, co. Surrey, in trust for his said son John Murray, his wife Sarah, and their children, for their lives, with remainder in succession to John Murray, then a cadet (if not higher) in the H. E. I. Co.'s service, on the Bengal Establishment, and Charles Murray, brother of said Ann Murray, and their sons and heirs male, with final remainder to his own right heirs.

<sup>3</sup> Her will, as of Titchfield Street, St. Marylebone, Midx., widow, made 25 Feb. 1803, was proved 18 Mch. following, by John Catlin and John Mansir, of Whitecross Street, London, agents to Messrs. Calvert and Company, brewers. The will shows that she was the relict of William Cawood. To her sister Jane Bird, of the city of Chester, widow, she bequeathed an annuity of £42 for life, to be paid by her bankers in Pall Mall or at Chester, out of the rents of her four houses in Duke Street, Manchester Square, and in Tottenham-Court Road. To Rebecca and Mary Whatmore, children of Sarah Whatmore, her late husband's sister, to David Lewis, of Egham co. Surrey, clock and watch maker, nephew of her said husband, and to James, Mary, and Diana, children of John Harris, late of Winchester Street, London, another nephew of her said husband, she left considerable legacies, making the latter three children her residuary legatees. Her other bequests were to persons evidently not relations. The probate act states that her said sister Jane Bird was her only next of kin. She directed to be buried in the middle aisle of the Abbey, near the organ.

son, Arthur Ormsby, Esq., as one of her next of kin, administered to her estate 5 Apl. 1803, when she was described as of Gloucester Street, St. George the Martyr, Queen Square, Midx., and her personalty was sworn under £300. See the burials, of her daughter 29 Jan. 1790, and probably of her grandson 21 Apl. 1810.

<sup>1</sup> Only dau. of Richard Grenville, of Wootton, co. Bucks, Esq., by Hester, dau. of Sir Richard Temple, third Bart. of Stowe, co. Bucks, who succeeded her brother as Baroness and Viscountess Cobham. She was sister of Richard, first Earl Temple, and was herself created Baroness Chatham 4 Dec. 1761. She was born 8 Nov. 1720, and married, 16 Nov. 1754, the celebrated William Pitt, afterwards first Earl of Chatham (see his burial 9 June 1778). The journals of the day say that she died at her seat at Burton-Pynsent, co. Somerset. See the burials, of her sons 22 Feb. 1806 and 3 Oct. 1835, and of her daughter 2 Oct. 1786.

<sup>2</sup> Son of Rev. Richard Finch and Ann his wife, and baptized at Greenwich, Kent, 10 Mch. 1723-4. He was of Peterhouse, Cambridge, A.B. 1743, A.M. 1747, and S.T.P. 1772. He was Rector of St. Michael's, Cornhill, London, from 1771 to 1784, when he became Rector of St. John the Evangelist, Westminster, and held that living until his death. He was installed Prebendary of Westminster 1 Nov. 1781. See his wife's burial 19 Mch. 1796. His only child, Thomas Finch, Esq., administered to his estate 6 June 1803, when he was described as formerly of Guy's Hospital, but late of Westminster Abbey, etc., and his personalty was sworn under £20,000. This son, who was a Fellow of the Royal Society, died at his house in Great Ormond Street, Midx., 23 Mch. 1810, aged fifty-three, his wife Mary surviving.

<sup>5</sup> The Funeral Book gives his age as only eighty. His will, as of Piccadilly, St. George's, Hanover Square, dated 27 May 1802, was proved 20 Feb. 1804, by his relict Hannah. The only other relations he named were his kinswoman Miss Easter Besford and her sister Miss Mary Besford, and his wife's niece Miss Elizabeth Thompson. He bequeathed to his wife two freehold houses in St. Albans, Herts, and the leasehold house No. 21 Brompton Row, Kensington, Midx.

- 1805 March 4 Clifton-William, son of the Rev<sup>d</sup> William-Saint Andrew Vincent;<sup>9</sup> died Feb. 28th, aged 8 weeks: in the North Cross.

<sup>3</sup> Only son of Henry Pomeroy, second Viscount Harborton, who died 30 Nov. 1829, by Mary his wife (see her burial 31 Jan. 1823). According to his monument, he died at Brighton, in his fifteenth year. He is said in some of the peerages to have been born 22 Nov. 1788, and in others in 1789. The Funeral Book says that he was buried in the South Cloister, at the head of "Long Meg."

<sup>4</sup> The Funeral Book says that he was buried in the South Cloister, and calls him "Master Charles Sedley."

<sup>8</sup> He was appointed College gardener, according to the Chapter Book, 29 Nov. 1765. See the burials, certainly of his first wife 21 Mch. 1768, and probably of his second 30 Oct. 1824.

<sup>9</sup> See his father's baptism 31 Dec. 1772, and note thereto, and the note to the baptism of his sister, 30 Nov. 1806, for an account of his mother. He was born, according to the family records, 5 Jan. 1805.

- 1805 March 6 William Buchan, M.D.;<sup>1</sup> died Feb. 25th, aged 76: in the West Cloister.
- March 15 Ann Cleave;<sup>2</sup> died the 12th, aged 58: in the North-west burial ground.
- May 14 Richard Smalbroke, LL.D.;<sup>3</sup> died the 8th, aged 79: in the South Cloister.
- May 23 The Hon. Algernon-James Percy;<sup>4</sup> died May 19th, aged 19 months: in the Northumberland vault in St. Nicholas's Chapel.
- June 11 Sir William Pulteney, Bart.;<sup>5</sup> died May 30th, aged 76: in the South Cloister.
- 1806 Jan. 30 Anne Rutherford;<sup>6</sup> died the 24th, aged 62: in the North Cloister.

<sup>1</sup> Author of the well-known Domestic Medicine, or, the Family Physician. He is said to have been a native of Ancrum, near Jedburgh, in Roxburghshire, Scotland. He was educated at Edinburgh, and became Physician to the Foundling Hospital at Ackworth, in Yorkshire, and afterwards practised at Sheffield, but eventually returned to Edinburgh, became a Fellow of the Royal College of Physicians, and remained there some years, having married a lady named Peter. His celebrated work was first published in 1769. He eventually removed to London, where he enjoyed a lucrative practice. He died, according to the journals of the day, at his son's house in Percy Street, Rathbone Place. His will, dated 30 Jan. 1805, was not proved until 7 Aug. 1806. To his son, Dr. Alexander-Peter Buchan, he bequeathed all his literary property and MSS., and the residue of his estate equally to him and his sister Helen Buchan, spinster, both of whom proved the will. They appear to have been his only surviving children, another son, William, having died in infancy. Their mother evidently died long before her husband. See his son's burial 13 Dec. 1824.

<sup>3</sup> Second son of the Right Rev. Richard Smalbroke, Bishop of Lichfield and Coventry, by Catherine his wife (see her burial 15 Mch. 1765). The Register gives his age incorrectly, and the same error was repeated on his monument. He matriculated at Oxford, from University College, 18 Oct. 1733, aged seventeen, and was B.A. 25 June 1736. He was, therefore, eighty-nine at his death, and the Funeral Book gives that as his age. He succeeded his brother Thomas as Chancellor of the diocese of Lichfield in 1778, having occupied that post jointly with him since 1742. He died, according to the journals of the day, at his house in Hamilton Street, Piccadilly. His will, dated 12 Sep. 1797, with a codicil 19 Oct. 1804, was proved 18 May 1805, by his nephew Rev. William Vyse, D.D., principal legate. See his brother's burial 17 June 1797.

<sup>4</sup> Eldest son and second child of George, Lord Lovaine, afterwards second Earl of Beverley, and eventually fifth Duke of Northumberland (see his burial 30 Aug. 1867), by Louisa-Harcourt, third dau. of Hon. James-Archibald Stuart-Wortley, brother of John, first Marquis of Bute. He was born, according to the Funeral Book, 23 Oct. 1803.

<sup>5</sup> William Johnstone, third son of Sir James Johnstone, third Bart. of Westerhall, by Barbara Murray, dau. of Alexander, fourth Lord Elibank. See the burials of his brothers, 21 Jan. 1783 and 17 Sep. 1794, the latter of whom he succeeded as fifth Bart. He married, first, 10 Nov. 1760, Frances, dau. of Daniel Pulteney, Esq. (see her burial 8 June 1782), and, on her succeeding to the great Bath estates in 1767, assumed the surname of Pulteney. He married, secondly, at Dundas Castle, 5 Jan. 1804, Margaret, relict of Andrew Stuart, of Castlemilk and Torrance, Esq., who survived him. The journals of the day say that he was considered the richest commoner in the kingdom, his funded estate reaching nearly two millions sterling, and that he was the greatest American stockholder ever known. He died intestate, and letters of administration to his estate were granted 20 June 1805, to his only child Henrietta-Laura, Countess of Bath (see her burial 23 July 1808).

dau. of Hon. Algernon Greville, second son of Fulke, Lord Brooke. She was sister of Sir Edward Boughton and Sir Charles-William Rouse-Boughton, eighth and ninth Barts. of Lawford, co. Warwick. She married, after 21 Nov. 1776, John Rutherford, Esq. (see his burial 11 Oct. 1782), who, in his will of that date, bequeathed to her all his estate, as his intended wife. She appeared to have died intestate.

<sup>2</sup> Second son of the celebrated William Pitt, first Earl of Chatham (see his burial 9 June 1778), by Lady Hester his Countess (see her burial 16 Apl. 1803). He was born 28 May, and baptized at Hayes, co. Kent, 3 July 1759. He was Prime Minister (with the exception of three years) from 1783 until his death, and was buried at the public expense. He died unmarried and deeply in debt, but, in consideration of his services, his obligations, amounting, it is said, to £40,000, were subsequently discharged from the public purse.

<sup>3</sup> His will, as of Leicester Square, St. Anne's, Westminster, dated 21 Feb. 1805, with codicil 7 Mch. 1806, was proved on the 20th of the latter month, by his relict Elizabeth. He bequeathed his freehold estate in Clewer, co. Berks, and £2000 in Imperial annuities, to trustees for the separate use of his dau. Sarah-Elizabeth Cutler and her children, and his freehold estate in East Smithfield, Midx., to his grandson Richard-John Baron, when of full age. He also gave £500. out of a sum due to him from his son-in-law John Wright, to his grandson John-William Wright, and, if he died in his minority, the same was to go to said Richard-John Baron, whom he called the brother of said John-William Wright. See the burial of his daughter, Frances Wright, 17 Nov. 1802.

<sup>4</sup> The Funeral Book says Robert Vincent, and that he died 25 Apl., aged two years and three months. See the burial of his brother, of the same name, 16 Sep. 1807. They were, according to the Funeral Book, sons of one of the organ-blowers.

<sup>6</sup> See his wife's burial 6 Dec. 1784. In their marriage allegation at the Faculty Office, dated 1 Jan. 1753, he was described as of Henley-on-Thames, co. Oxford, a bachelor, aged twenty-eight. His will, as of Pall-Mall, St. James, Westminster, Esq., dated 7 Mch. 1795, was proved 23 Dec. 1806, by his eldest son, George-Lane Blount, residuary legatee. To his youngest son, John Burrell Blount, he gave all his investments in the five per cent. annuities. His only other bequests were fifty guineas to Mr. Hugh Rowland, of St. James's Palace, Gent., and to two servants. See his son's burial 26 Mch. 1847.

<sup>7</sup> One of his name was of King's College, Cambridge, A.B. 1778 and A.M. 1781, and another of the same College, was A.B. 1780 and A.M. 1783, but neither of them appears to have had Doctor's degree there, nor any one of the name at Oxford. He was installed Prebendary of Westminster 12 May 1792, being then only Master of Arts. The Funeral Book gives his age as

- 1806 Oct. 10 The Right Hon. Charles-James Fox;<sup>1</sup> died Sept. 13th, aged 57: in the North Cross.
- Oct. 30 George-Giles Vincent;<sup>2</sup> died the 25th, aged 11 months: in the North Cross.
- 1807 Feb. 11 Margaret Clayton;<sup>3</sup> died the 4th, aged 68: in the South Cloister.

- March 11 Louisa Bourne;<sup>5</sup> died the 4th, aged 76: in the North Cloister.

fifty-three, and describes him as Rector of Mersham and Vicar of Shoreham, both in co. Kent. He married, in 1795. Mary, second dau. of Sir William Blackstone, the celebrated author of the Commentaries on the Law of England, who survived him until 1830, but had no issue. His will, as Doctor of Divinity, Rector of Mersham, Vicar of Shoreham, and Prebendary of Westminster, dated 26 Dec. 1805, with codicils 20 Aug. and 2 Sep. 1806, was proved 17 Oct. following. He provided liberally for his wife, and bequeathed an annuity of £20 to his father, William Cole, for life. His other bequests, which were considerable, were to his brother Robert Cole; his sister Mary, wife of Andrew Long, of Faversham, Kent, Esq., and their children; his brother-in-law Charles Stapells, of Mersham aforesaid, Gent., and his children; and to several friends. The will was proved by his wife Mary, his brother Robert Cole, and Edward Tournay, of Hythe, co. Kent, Gent.

<sup>4</sup> Fourth dau. of George Wyatt, Esq., chief clerk of the Vote Office, House of Commons, by Hannah his wife (see her burial 14 June 1782), and wife of the Very Rev. William Vincent, Dean of Westminster (see his burial 29 Dec. 1815), to whom married, at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 15 Aug. 1771. She was born the 3rd, and baptized at St. John the Evangelist, Westminster, 21 Aug. 1735. See the baptisms of her children, 31 Dec. 1772, 12 May 1774, and 12 Dec. 1776, and the burials, of her son 3 Feb. 1859, of her daughter 13 Feb. 1777, and of her sister 9 Sep. 1790.

<sup>5</sup> Rightly Lucia Bourne. Only dau. of Vincent Bourne, the celebrated Latin poet, by Lucia his wife (see her burial 16 Mch. 1767, and note thereto). Her age is also incorrectly stated in the text, as she was born the 7th, and baptized at St. John the Evangelist, Westminster, 20 Nov. 1729, and was therefore in her seventy-eighth year. Her will, as a spinster, residing in Ward's Row, in Pimlico, and one of the Sisters of St. Katharine's Hospital, near the Tower of London,

 May 1 Mary Ward;<sup>4</sup> died April 24th, aged 36: in the North Cloister.
 May 26 Monseigneur Antoine-Philippe d'Orleans, Duc de Montpensier Prince du Sang Royal de France,<sup>5</sup> died at Salt Hill May 18th 1807, in the 32nd year of his age, and was buried May 26th 1807, in the vault in the North aisle of the Tombs in the Abbey.
 June 30 Frances-Elizabeth Gayfere;<sup>6</sup> died the 23rd, aged 54: in the West Cloister.
 July 15 Mary Marquet;<sup>7</sup> died the 11th, aged 25: in the North-west burial ground.
 Sept. 15 Mary Fenton;<sup>8</sup> died the 11th, aged 53: in the North-west burial ground.

dated 16 Nov. 1802, was proved 12 Mch. 1807, by Rev. Robert-William Baxter (one of the Brothers of said Hospital), and Robert Preston, of Bath-Weston, co. Somerset, Esq., the latter of whom she made her residuary legatee, naming his daughter Lucia, her god-daughter. She bequeathed her house in Millbank Street, then occupied by the relict of Admiral Ommamey, to Mrs. Martha-Carolina Goldsworthy, in testimony of the kindness she had received from her mother, her brother, and herself; but mentioned no relations, and it is evident that her only brother, Thomas Bourne, had died long before.

<sup>1</sup> Dau. of William Ayrton, second son of Edmund Ayrton, Doctor of Music (see his burial 28 May 1808), by Marianne, dau. of Samuel Arnold, Doctor of Music (see his burial 29 Oct. 1802), who were married 17 May 1803. The Funeral Book says that he died 7 Mch., aged nine months.

<sup>5</sup> The Funeral Book says: "Removed, September 26th. 1807, to Henry the 7th's Chapel, where the Duchess of Buckingham and her son stand in wax-work." He was the second son of the celebrated Louis-Philippe-Joseph, fifth Duke of Orleans (called Philippe Egalité), and was born 3 July 1775. He died during his exile in England. His monument, by Westmacott, was erected by his elder brother, Louis-Philippe, afterwards King of France.

- 1807 Sept. 16 Robert Vincent;<sup>1</sup> died the 9th, aged 2 weeks: in the North-west burial ground.
- Sept. 22 Joshua Perkins;<sup>2</sup> died the 15th, aged 57: in the North-west burial ground.
- Oct. 5 Charles Wright, Esq.;<sup>3</sup> died Sept. 27th, aged 73: in the South Cloister.
- Oct. 26 Anne Watkins;<sup>4</sup> died the 15th, aged 82: in the West Cloister.
- Nov. 11 The most Rev<sup>d</sup> William Markham, LL.D., Archbishop of York;<sup>5</sup> died the 3rd, aged 89: in the North Cloister.
- Nov. 18 Michael Hare;<sup>6</sup> died the 9th, aged 75: in the West Cloister.
- Dec. 24 Henry-Churchill White;<sup>7</sup> died the 16th, aged 6 years and 8 months: in the West Cloister.

<sup>4</sup> Relict of Charles-Reimerd Watkins, Esq. (see his burial 30 July 1770). Her will, as late of Ware, co. Herts, but then of Cold Bath Square, St. James, Clerkenwell, widow, dated 2 Mch. 1803, was proved 17 Oct. 1807. She directed to be buried in the Cloisters with her said husband. Her principal legatees were her two nieces, Jane, wife of Daniel Carter, of Cold Bath Square, tailor, formerly Jane Robinson, spinster, and Mary, wife of Robert Creighton, late of Fore Street, baker, formerly Mary Robinson, spinster, and their children. Her only other relation named was Thomas Bee, son of her late sister-in-law Anne Bee, deceased, to whom she gave £100. Her maiden name appears to have been Bach. Her husband, in his will, bequeathed £50 each to his wife's brother Mr. Herbet Bach, and her sister Mrs. Mary Robinson, evidently the mother of the two nieces above mentioned.

<sup>6</sup> His will, as of Millbank Street, St. John's, Westminster, Esq., dated 18 July 1802, with codicils 7 and 9 Nov. 1804, was proved 23 Nov. 1807, by his brother John Hare, of Eastgate, in the town of Lincoln, Esq., to whom he left all his estate, except liberal legacies to two servants. In an affidavit to his handwriting he was described as a captain of dragoons on half-pay. See his wife's burial 16 Mch. 1797, and note thereto. He evidently left no issue.

<sup>7</sup> Second son of William-Henry White, of Parliament Place, Old Palace Yard, Westminster, Esq., by Ann his wife (see her burial 30 Apl. 1832). According to the Funeral Book, three other of their children were buried here at the same time, evidently removed from their former place of burial, but the monumental inscription mentions only two, viz., William-Barrett-Neate White who died 15 Apl. 1796, aged one year and two months, and Frederick-William-Halhead White who died 22 Jan. 1798, aged seventeen days. The other was probably a still younger infant. See his sister's burial 15 Nov. 1839.

<sup>3</sup> According to the Chapter Book, he was appointed Clerk of the Works to the Abbey 23 July 1803, for a year, and the appointment was renewed 12 Mch. 1804. His will, as of Delahay Street, St. Margaret's, Westminster, Esq., dated 31 Jan. 1808, was proved 18 Mch. following. He bequeathed considerable legacies to his wife Margaret, his minor children Thomas-William and Emily, his mother-in-law Mrs. Bertie, his sister Miss Glanvill, his sister Elizabeth, wife of Mr. Simon Stephenson, and their son William Stephenson, his godson. He also mentioned that he was engaged in trade with Mr. Jeremiah Glanvill, which was to be continued for the benefit of his said son.

<sup>5</sup> Son of John Rice, porter to the Abbey (see his burial 5 Feb. 1768). The journals of the day say that he was born in Westminster, received a musical education, went to America, and settled in New York as an organist, where he acquired a considerable sum, and that, returning to England, he became a thorough miser, living and dying in a miserable condition, but leaving about £40,000, of which he gave £10,000 to the Bishop of New York. As is usually the case, his will contradicts this newspaper gossip in its general tone, and represents him in a much more agreeable light. He may have been saving, and even penurious, during his life, but his will affords ample evidence of his generous nature and grateful heart. It was dated 24 Feb. 1808, only three weeks before his death, and states that he was then residing at No. 10 Little Peter Street, Westminster, but was formerly of New York, and organist of Trinity Church in that city. His first bequest was one of £7000 to William Boyce, of Hammersmith. Midx., Gent. which he made, he said, out of respect and gratitude to his father, the late Dr. William Boyce, Master of H.M.'s Band of Musicians, from whom in early life he had received many favours, and to whom he was under many obligations, as well as in consideration of his own kindness to him. To his cousin Mrs. Mary Powell, of St. Nicholas, near Cardiff, co. Glamorgan, he gave £200, and to each of her children £50. This was the only relation he named. He gave to the corporations of Gloucester and Cardiff each £100, the interest of which was to be expended in bread, to be distributed to the poor annually on the 31st of July, his birth-day. To the Royal Society of Musicians he gave £100. To several friends in New York, including the late Bishop, clergymen, a clergyman's widow, and others, he left legacies varying from £40 to £300, and similar bequests to several friends in England. He even bequeathed ten guineas to his landlord, and £50 to his servant. The residue of his estate he gave equally to the Rev. Mr. Moore, then Bishop of New York, and the said William Boyce. An affidavit attached to the probate act states that he died at the house of the latter, in Hammersmith. It is very evident from the tenor of the whole will that, octogenarian as he was, he remembered gratefully the kindness of early friends, and of his friends and patrons in New York, and, having no family of his own, divided his fortune among them and their descendants.

<sup>2</sup> Son of Samuel Smith, of Compton Street, St. Anne's, Westminster, merchant, by Christian Paine his wife, said to be of a Huntingdonshire family of that name. He is supposed to have been their only child, no other being named in his father's will. He was educated at Westminster School, and elected to Cambridge in 1750, where A.B. 1754, A.M. 1757, and LL.D. 1764. He became Head-Master of Westminster School in June 1764, and resigned in 1788. He was installed Prebendary of Westminster 29 Mch. 1787, and collated Prebendary of Peterborough 28 Sep. following, and held both preferments until his death. See the burials, of his first wife 4 Dec. 1789, and of his second wife 29 Mch. 1792. He married, thirdly, 19 June 1794, Mrs. Ann Pinckney, who survived him, and was living in 1824, by whom he had no issue. See the baptisms of his children, 15 Oct. 1765, 27 Aug. 1767, 8 Feb. 1770, 7 Mch. 1772, 24 Feb. 1774, 24 Feb. 1777, 28 Oct. 1778, and 8 May 1792, and the burials of his sons, 27 July 1773, 7 July 1792, and 22 Mch. 1824.

<sup>3</sup> Dau. of Samuel Strutt, Esq. (see his burial 31 Jan. 1785), by Charlotte his wife (see her burial, as Charlotte Willett, 18 May 1815). She was born 10 Mch., and baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 8 Apl. 1780. She died unmarried, and her mother administered to her estate 9 May 1808.

<sup>4</sup> See her son's burial 20 Jan. 1808, and her husband's 3 Apl. 1820. The place of burial sufficiently indicates her humble position.

<sup>6</sup> Rightly Edmund Ayrton. He was a pupil of Dr. Nares, became a Gentleman of the Chapel Royal, and succeeded his old master as master of the children in 1780. He was also vicar-choral of the Abbey and of St. Paul's. He was created a Doctor of Music, at Cambridge, in 1784. He died at his son's house in James Street, Buckingham Gate. His will, dated 6 Oct. 1802, with a codicil 15 May 1808, was proved 15 June following. The only relation named, besides his own children and their husbands, was his late brother-in-law Nicholas-Thomas Dall, evidently the Danish landscape and scene painter, who died in 1777, and who must have married his sister. He was the father of fourteen children, the baptisms of twelve of whom occur in the parish registers of St. Margaret, Westminster. See the burials, of his wife 23 May 1800, of his children, 19 Oct. 1772, 13 July 1776, 2 Jan. 1778, 29 Dec. 1779, and 20 Oct. 1780, and of his grandchild 11 Mch. 1807.

<sup>7</sup> Second but eldest surviving son of Francis-Blake Delaval, Esq., by Rhoda, dau. of Robert Apreece, of Washingley, co. Huntingdon, Esq. He was created a Baronet, as of Ford, co. Northumberland, 1 July 1761, succeeded to the family estates on the death of his elder brother, Sir Francis-Blake Delaval, K.B., in 1771, was created Baron Delaval, of Redford, co. Wicklow, in the Irish peerage, 17 Oct. 1783, and was elevated to the English peerage, 21 Aug. 1786, as Baron Delaval, of Seaton-Delaval, co. Northumberland. See his first wife's burial 11 Oct. 1783. He married, secondly, 5 Jan. 1803, Miss Susanna-Elizabeth Knight, who survived him. He left no male issue, and his titles became extinct. See the burials, of his daughter Sarah-Hussey, Countess of Tyrconnel, 4 Nov. 1800, and of his brother 23 Aug. 1814.

<sup>2</sup> Only dau. and heir of Sir William Johnstone, afterwards Sir William Pulteney, fifth Bart. of Westerhall (see his burial 11 June 1805), by Frances, dau. and eventually sole heir of Daniel Pulteney, Esq. (see her burial 8 June 1782). She was born, according to her coffin-plate, 6 Dec. 1766, and married, 23 July, 1794, Sir James Murray, seventh (Nova Scotia) Bart. of Clermont, co. Fife, who survived her, and died 26 Apl. 1811, being then a General in the army, and having assumed the surname of Pulteney. After succeeding to the magnificent Bath estates, she was created Baroness Bath 23 July 1792, and Countess of Bath 26 Oct. 1803. She died at Brighton, and was buried from her residence, Bath House, Piccadilly. Leaving no issue, her titles became extinct.

<sup>3</sup> Sixth dau. of the Most Rev. William Markham, Archbishop of York (see his burial 11 Nov. 1807), by Sarah his wife (see her burial 3 Feb. 1814). She was born 25 May, and baptized at St. George's, Bloomsbury, Midx., 10 June 1778. She died unmarried, and was buried, according to the Funeral Book, in her father's grave.

<sup>4</sup> Son of Mary Medley (see her burial 5 Sep. 1783), who was a widow as early as 1774. The Register does not give the day of his burial, which is supplied by the Funeral Book. His will, as of New Peter Street, Westminster, dated 17 Apl. 1789, with codicils 21 June 1791 and 23 Aug. 1798, was proved 11 Feb. 1809, by his relict Mary (see her burial 15 Aug. 1821). He bequeathed to his niece Martha Spice, formerly Martha Walldron, an annuity of £10 for life, in accordance with his mother's will, and the rest of his estate to his wife Mary, his sons Edward, Samuel, John, Charles, William, George, and Henry, and his daughters Mary, Harriet, and Charlotte, all unmarried at the date of the will. In the first codicil, the eldest daughter was described as then Mary Harris.

<sup>5</sup> Second son and fourth child of George, Lord Lovaine, afterwards second Earl of Beverley, and eventually fifth Duke of Northumberland (see his burial 30 Aug. 1867), by Louisa-Harcourt, third dau. of Hon. James-Archibald Stuart-Wortley, brother of John, first Marquis of Bute. He was born 25 Apl. 1806. The Funeral Book says that he was buried 9 Jan., supplying the omission in the Register.

<sup>6</sup> The Funeral Book says that she was "niece to Captain Richard Murray" (see his burial 30 Dec. 1788, and note thereto). She was evidently the "Jane Brown" named in his will, but he certainly did not call her his "niece." Her will, as "Jane Brown, of College Street, Westminster, widow," dated in December 1809 (at the utmost less than two months before her death), was proved 23 Feb. 1810. She directed to be buried in the Cloisters, near her "much respected uncle, Captain Richard Murray, of the Royal Navy." She bequeathed all her estate, real and personal, and particularly her leasehold house, etc., No. 3 Union Place, Blackheath Road, Greenwich, Kent, and £1080 stock in the Navy five per cent. annuities, to Gilbert Salton, of Queen Street, Westminster, Edward Marjoribanks, of the Strand, banker, and John Spottiswood, of Sackville Street, St. James, Westminster, Esquires, in trust for the use of her dear and only child, Jane-Helen-Melville Salton, then a minor, for her life, with remainder to said Gilbert

Salton for life, and then to the surviving children of her deceased brother, Lieut. Henry Hicks, of the Royal Navy. She appointed said three trustees her executors, and they all proved the will, said Gilbert Salton, Esq., being described in the probate act as the lawful husband of the deceased.

<sup>2</sup> Third son of Henry Agar, of Gowran Castle, co. Kilkenny, Ireland, Esq., by Anne, only dau. of the Right Rev. Welbore Ellis, Bishop of Meath, and sister of Welbore Ellis, first Baron Mendip (see his burial 7 Feb. 1802). He was born 22 Dec. 1736, and educated at Westminster School. He matriculated at Oxford, from Christ Church, 31 May 1755, and was B.A. 4 May 1759, M.A. 23 Mch. 1762, and D.C.L. 31 Dec. 1765. He became Chaplain to Hugh, afterwards first Duke of Northumberland, who, while Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, presented him to the Deanery of Kilmore, to which he was instituted 22 May 1765. He was consecrated Bishop of Cloyne 20 Mch. 1768, enthroned Archbishop of Cashel 19 Aug. 1779, and translated to Dublin by patent dated 7 Dec. 1801. He was created Baron Somertou, of Somerton, co. Kildare, 12 June 1795, Viscount Somerton 21 Dec. 1800, and Earl of Normanton, co. Kilkenny, 7 Feb. 1806. See his wife's burial 1 Nov. 1826. It is to this prelate that the world is indebted for completing the destruction, commenced by his predecessor, of the magnificent old Cathedral on the Rock of Cashel, for there is no evidence to sustain the assertion of his friends that he made a vain attempt to restore it, and felt compelled to supplant it by the erection of the new cathedral. The devotion to this purpose of a comparatively small portion of the immense fortune which he acquired in a most extraordinary manner, the loss of which he could scarcely have felt, would have sufficed to preserve for future ages one of the grandest mediæval relics of the three kingdoms.

<sup>3</sup> Dau. of Jonathan Farr, of Moorfields, citizen and draper of London, by Mary his wife. She married, first, about 22 Mch. 1755 (Mar. Lic. Bp. Lond.), Rev. John Abbot, D.D., Rector of All Saints, Colchester, Essex, who died 29 Apl. 1760, by whom she had two sons, viz., John-Farr Abbot (see his wife's burial 28 Mch. 1794), and Charles Abbot, created Baron Colchester (see his burial 14 May 1829). She married, secondly, at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 14 Oct. 1766, Jeremiah Bentham, of Westminster, Esq. (father, by his first wife, of the celebrated Jeremy Bentham), who died in 1792, and was buried in the Abbey Church at Bath, by whom she appears to have had no issue. In his will he declared that they had lived together with as much conjugal felicity as he could conceive it possible for any one to be blessed with. Her will, dated 11 Nov. 1803, was proved 9 Oct. 1809, by her said son Charles, to whom she bequeathed all her estate.

<sup>4</sup> Dau. and evidently the only child of Richard Gaven (see his burial 15 May 1771), by Jane his wife (see her burial 21 Nov. 1775). Her will, as of Great Smith Street, Westminster, spinster, dated 28 Oct. 1805, was proved 15 Feb. 1810, by Mary, wife of Thomas Sheppard, of Great Smith Street, Gent., to whom and to their children she bequeathed all her estate, but without mentioning any relationship.

<sup>5</sup> His will, dated 28 June 1810, was proved 16 Apl. following, by James Hague, of Limehouse, Midx., whom he called his brother-in-law. His only bequests, which were trifling, were to his wife Mary, and his daughters Lydia and Caroline, then minors. The eldest daughter, Lydia

- Dec. 10 Jane Joye;<sup>7</sup> died Nov. 30th, aged 84 : in the North Cloister.

Dare, spinster, administered de bonis non 28 Aug. 1818, when he was described as formerly of the Stamp Office, in Somerset House, Midx., but late of the Cloisters, Westminster Abbey. The place of burial sufficiently indicates his humble position, and he had probably occupied some minor position at the Stamp Office. See the baptism of his daughter 25 July 1793, and the burials, of his first wife 3 Oct. 1797, of his son 5 Mch. 1804, and of his second wife 8 Mch. 1828.

<sup>1</sup> See the burial, probably of his son, in the same place, 14 Jan. 1845. He evidently occupied some humble position about the Abbey.

<sup>2</sup> Second dau. and third child of George, Lord Lovaine, afterwards second Earl of Beverley and subsequently fifth Duke of Northumberland (see his burial 30 Aug. 1867), by Louisa Harcourt, third dau. of the Hon. James-Archibald Stuart-Wortley, brother of John, first Marquis of Bute. She was born, according to the coffin-plate, 18 Mch. 1805.

<sup>5</sup> Only dau. of Henry Wrixon, of Ballygiblin, co. Cork, Ireland, Esq., by Anna, dau. of William Mansfield, Esq., and first wife of William Hare, then Baron Ennismore, afterwards Viscount Ennismore and Listowel, and Earl of Listowel (see his burial 24 July 1837), to whom married 30 May 1772. She was ancestress of the present Earl of Listowel. See the burial of her niece, Miss Henrietta Wrixon, 2 June 1800.

<sup>6</sup> Consort of Louis XVIII., of France, who survived her until 16 Sep. 1824. The Funeral Book, quoting her coffin-plate, gives her age as fifty-seven years, two months, and eleven days. The interment was intended to be only temporary, and, according to the Funeral Book, her remains were taken up, 5 Mch. 1811, and delivered to Mr. Martin, undertaker, for the purpose of being removed to Sardinia.

<sup>7</sup> Third and youngest dau. of James Joye, Esq., by Mary his wife. See the note to the burial of her sister 15 Apl. 1790. She was baptized at Acton, Midx., 10 Sep. 1727. Her monument says that she died in her eighty-fourth year, which is correct. She died at Richmond, co. Surrey, unmarried, and "immensely rich," according to the journals of the day, having become sole heiress to her own family and that of her mother. Her will, as of Hanover Square spinster, dated 6 Oct. 1807, with several codicils, was proved 8 Jan. 1811. It contains large legacies to numerous persons with whom no relationship is alleged, but the principal legatees were her nephew Keane Fitzgerald, of the Inner Temple, Esq., his sister Mary, wife of John Fitzgerald, Esq., and her daughter Frances, wife of John Purcell, of Gower Street, Midx., Esq.

- Jan. 16 John Fife;<sup>3</sup> died the 6th, aged 89: in the North grass-plat.
- Feb. 20 Andrew Van-Yzendoorn;<sup>4</sup> died Jan. 30th, aged 66: in the South aisle.
- March 2 José-María de la Cueva, Duke de Albuquerque, Grande de España de primera Clase, etc., etc.;<sup>5</sup> died Feb. 18th, aged 37: in the Ormond vault in K. H. 7th's Chapel.
- May 2 William Sayer;<sup>6</sup> died April 24th, aged 74: in the North Cloister.
- May 14 Richard Cumberland;<sup>7</sup> died the 7th, aged 80: in the South Cross.

<sup>5</sup> The Funeral Book gives nearly two pages of his Spanish titles, and has this foot-note: "Taken up and delivered to Demay, undertaker." He was the Spanish Ambassador to this Court, and died in Portman Place, Edgeware Road. The interment was intended to be only temporary. An account of him will be found in the Gentleman's Magazine, 1811, p. 197, and a copy of the inscription on his coffin-plate, p. 290.

<sup>6</sup> His will, as of Parliament Street, Westminster, late of H.M.'s Victualling Office, dated 6 June 1809, with codicils 16 Nov. 1809 and 7 Feb. 1811, was proved 13 May 1811, by his relict Sarah (see her burial 7 Apl. 1830). He bequeathed his freehold messuage at Penkridge, co. Stafford, to his brother John Sayer and his heirs, subject to an annuity of £10 for life to Mary, widow of his late brother Thomas Sayer, and one of £25 to his nephew Nathaniel Sayer, organist of Ingestre, in that county, who was blind. To his sister Mary Price, widow, he gave £200, to her dau. Sarah Price £100, and to her sons Thomas, James, William, Nathaniel, and John Price, each £10; but, their mother having died before the date of the first codicil, he increased the legacies of said sons to £100 each. He gave smaller bequests to his nieces, Mary Brown, widow, and Alice Robinson, and their children, and the children of his late niece Watson, his nephew Thomas Sayer, carpenter, and his "relations" Mr. Lawrence Fell and Mr. Edward Fell. To his own daughter Sarah, wife of Mr. Walter Barrett, he gave £3500 three per cent. consols, for her separate use, and to his daughter Mary Sayer a similar sum, and also £4000 five per cent. bank annuities. The residue of his estate he bequeathed to his wife.

<sup>7</sup> The well-known versatile author. Only son of the Right Rev. Denison Cumberland, Bishop of Kilmore, by Joanna, youngest dau. of the celebrated Dr. Richard Bentley, in whose house, while Master of Trinity College, Cambridge, he was born, 19 Feb. 1731-2. He was to some extent in public life, and on one occasion ambassador to Spain, but will be chiefly remembered for his dramatic productions. He married, 19 Feb. 1759, Elizabeth, only dau. of George Ridge, of Kilmiston, Hants, Esq., by whom he had six children, and whom he survived. He died at Tunbridge Wells.

- Oct. 11 The Right Hon. Lady Mary Coke;<sup>3</sup> died Sept. 30th, aged 86: in the Argyll vault in H. 7th's Chapel.
- Nov. 2 Capt. John Stewart, R.N.;<sup>4</sup> died Oct. 25th, aged 36: in the Nave
- 1812 Jan. 8 James Robertson;<sup>5</sup> died Dec. 14th, 1811, aged 66: in the South Cloister.
- Jan. 23 Rachael Willes;<sup>6</sup> died the 16th, aged 73: in the Consistory Court.
- Jan. 28 Charles March;<sup>7</sup> died the 21st, aged 77: in the East Cloister.

<sup>3</sup> Lady Mary Campbell, fifth and youngest dau. of John, second Duke of Argyll (see his burial 15 Oct. 1743), by Jane his second wife (see her burial 23 Apl. 1767), and born, according to her coffin-plate, 6 Feb. 1726. She married, 1 Apl. 1747, Edward Coke, commonly called Viscount Coke, only son of Thomas, Earl of Leicester, who died in 1753, in his father's lifetime, leaving no issue. See the burial of her sister, Caroline, Dowager Countess of Dalkeith, 25 Jan. 1794.

<sup>4</sup> Son of William Stewart, of Castle Stewart, Wigtonshire, Esq., by Euphemia Mackenzie, sixth daughter of Kenneth, Lord Fortrose (see his burial 22 Oct. 1781). According to the journals of the day, he had been in active service from his boyhood, and had distinguished himself greatly while in command of the "Sea-Horse" frigate. He was also said to have sailed round the world with Capt. Vancouver. He died unmarried, still in command of the "Sea-Horse," and his sister Mary Stewart, spinster, administered to his estate 25 Nov. 1811, his said mother renouncing.

<sup>5</sup> His will, as of Abingdon Street, Westminster, dated 1 Dec. 1809, with a codicil 10 Jan. 1810, was proved 17 Jan. 1812, by his eldest son Capt. James-Thomas Robertson (and two others), to whom he left his freehold house in Abingdon Street and its contents, after the death of his present wife Mary (see her burial 7 Jan. 1836). To his second son, Robert Robertson, then a lieutenant in the H. E. I. Co.'s service, he gave £600, besides the property in Perth that belonged to his late mother and was already settled upon him. To his youngest son, William-Daniel Robertson, he gave £1500, etc. To his daughter Maria, wife of John Elphinstone, Esq., he gave £1000, and £500 to his grand-daughter Charlotte Hunter, daughter of Dr. William Hunter, by his wife Charlotte Robertson, who appears to have been, although he did not distinctly say so, another of his daughters, and then dead. Both of his said sons-in-law were living at the date of the codicil. He directed to be buried in the same grave with his late wife and child, in St. Dunstau's churchyard, Fleet Street, which explains an entry in the Funeral Book, viz., that the remains of Mrs. Charlotte Robertson (doubtless his wife), who died 2 Mch. 1802, aged forty-eight, were buried in the grave prepared for him, 7 Jan. 1812, the day before his own burial.

<sup>6</sup> The Funeral Book says that she was the wife of John Willes, Esq., and was buried in the family vault of Bishop Wilcocks (see his burial 9 Mch. 1756). The journals of the day say that she was a niece of that prelate, and the last survivor of his family, and that the estates of his son, Joseph Wilcocks, Esq. (see his burial 31 Dec. 1791), went to her son as next heir. She was a considerable legatee under the will of said Joseph Wilcocks, who called her his cousin, and her husband was one of his executors. She died at Dulwich, co. Surrey, and her husband remarried Ann, daughter and sole heir of Thomas Wright, Esq., alderman of London.

<sup>7</sup> Rightly Marsh, and so in the Funeral Book and on his monument. He was the only son of Charles Marsh, who is said to have been originally clerk to a chapel in Westminster, then a bookseller, and subsequently an assistant in the Westminster Court, and a justice of the peace. He was admitted into St. Peter's College, Westminster, in 1748, and elected to Trinity College, Cambridge, in 1753, where A.B. 1757, and A.M. 1760, becoming a Fellow of his College. According to the journals of the day he became a clerk in the War Office, and, after many years' service, retired on a pension of £1000 per annum. His sister and only next of kin, Mary, wife of Amos Vials, Esq., administered to his estate 17 Mch. 1812, when he was described as of Piccadilly, St. James, Westminster, and of Twickenham, Midx., Esq. His personalty was sworn under £60,000. See the burial of his nephew, Rev. Thomas Vials, 16 May 1831, and note thereto. He evidently died unmarried.

<sup>1</sup> Second dau. of Peter Burrell, of Beckenham, co. Kent, Esq., by Elizabeth, daughter and coheir of John Lewis, of Hackney, Midx., Esq. She was a sister of Peter, first Lord Gwydir. She was born 19 Dec. 1750, and baptized at St. Anne's, Westminster, 17 Jan. following, and married, at Sion House, Isleworth, Midx., by special license, 8 June 1775, Hon. Algernon Percy, second son of Hugh, first Duke of Northumberland (see his burial 21 June 1786), who succeeded his father as second Lord Lovaine, and was created Earl of Beverley 2 Nov. 1790. He survived her, and, dying 21 Oct. 1830, was buried in a vault in the parish church of St. Marylebone, Midx. She died at her residence in Portman Square, really having only just entered her sixty-second year. See the burials of her children, 1 May 1779, 9 May 1781, 26 Aug. 1796, and 30 Aug. 1867.

<sup>4</sup> He appears to have been the eldest son of Thomas Gayfere, of Wapping, Midx., mason, by Mary Townsend, of Burford, co. Oxford, spinster, who had a license from the Bishop of Oxford, 14 Jan. 1717-18, to marry at Shipton-under-Wychwood, in the latter county. He is mentioned in the Chapter Book as mason to the College as early as 26 Oct. 1762, and a joint patent was renewed to him and his son 7 Dec. 1802. His son and only surviving child, Thomas Gayfere, administered to his estate 13 May 1812, when he was described as of Abingdon Street, Westminster, Esq., widower, and his personalty was sworn under £10,000. See the burials, of his wife 22 Mch. 1770, and of his daughter 30 June 1807. Another son, William, was baptized at St. John the Evangelist, Westminster, 29 July 1757, and another daughter, Mary-Ann, 3 Dec. 1761, both of whom evidently died young. The son Thomas, who was baptized at St. John the Evangelist 23 Jan. 1755, died 20 Oct. 1827, and was buried at Newton-Solney, co. Derby.

<sup>5</sup> Dau. of Sir Henry-Brooke Parnell, fourth Bart. (of Ireland), who was created Baron Congleton, of Congleton, co. Chester, in the peerage of the United Kingdom, in 1841, and died 8 June 1842, by Lady Caroline-Elizabeth Dawson, eldest dau. of John, first Earl of Portarlington, who died 16 Feb. 1861. According to her monument, erected by her mother, she was born 28 Oct. 1806.

<sup>6</sup> The journals of the day say that he died suddenly, in a fit of apoplexy, at his apartments in Oxford Street. The original Faculty for the removal of his remains says that it was granted at the request of his sister, Sarah Roberts, spinster. His will is in the following words: "Most humbly I urge the assistance of any person whose hands this may fall into after my death to remit all my property, consisting of money and plate, to Messrs. Hammersley and Co., Bankers, Pall Mall, for my sister, living with Mrs. Harrington, Park Street, Windsor, Berks; and I further his body was removed from St. James's Chapel, Hampstead Road, and deposited in the South Cloister, on the 7th of November, 1812.

[After the last date the records of Burials in the Abbey and Cloisters are no longer separated. There are, however, two copies of the Register : one gives the name, age, and usually the late residence of the deceased, while the other also states the date of death and the place of interment. In the following pages the particulars in both sets of entries have been carefully combined.]

beg all my letters, both private and public, may be destroyed without inspection, and that my writing case may be sent to my sister, as my last remembrance. Snake, Port Royal, Jamaica, November, 1803. W<sup>m</sup> Roberts." Letters of administration were granted to his said sister Sarah, 25 May 1811, as only next of kin and universal legatee. In an affidavit she stated that she found the foregoing will written on the first leaf of a book containing extracts from poems, plays, etc., and the Messrs. Hammersley also made oath to the writing of the deceased. He was described as late of Windsor, co. Berks, and a Captain belonging to H.M.'s Navy.

<sup>2</sup> Dau. of Rev. Francis Fisher, of Burwash, co. Sussex, by Charlotte, dau. of James Merest, Esq., Clerk-Assistant of the House of Lords (see his first wife's burial 17 Nov. 1727, and note thereto), who were married, at St. John the Evangelist, Westminster, 9 Mch. 1758. She died unmarried, and her brother James Fisher, as next of kin, administered to her estate 13 Apl. 1813 (see his burial 21 Dec. 1821). See the burial of her mother's sister, Mrs. Mary Hare, 16 Mch. 1797.

<sup>3</sup> Son of Christopher Dobson, of Edenhall, co. Cumberland (who appears to have been agent to the family of Musgrave), buried there 22 July 1794, aged eighty-four, by Mary his wife, also buried there 13 Aug. 1772, aged fifty-six. He was baptized at Edenhall 22 Mch. 1749-50. According to the journals of the day, he was "a man of singular mechanical ingenuity, and an excellent classical scholar," and it is said that, "in consequence of an asthmatic complaint, he had not lain down in bed for the last sixteen years of his life." His will, as formerly of Great James Street, but then of No. 7 Chapel Street, Bedford Row, dated 21 June 1811, was proved 14 Apl. 1813, by his only sister and heir-at-law, Isabella Dobson, spinster, whom he described as residing with his aunt, Mrs. Alderson, at Lynn, in Norfolk, and to whom he left all his property, which he said was entirely personal, and by Mr. Marmaduke Langdale, senior, of New Ormond Street, stock-broker, to whom he bequeathed £50. In an affidavit it was stated that a letter was found after his death, in which he wished a fowling-piece to be given to Captain Barker, then abroad, his watch to Mr. Barker of Dumfries, North Britain, £20 per annum long annuities to his cousin Jane Marshall, of Millar Street, Glasgow, spinster, and £100 per annum long annuities to his friend Dr. Alexander-Peter Buchan (see his burial 13 Dec. 1824).

<sup>4</sup> Wife of Rev. Thomas-Weldon Champnes, who became a minor canon of Westminster in 1800, and was afterwards Vicar of Upton, co. Bucks, Rector of Cottesford, co. Oxford, and finally Rector of Fulmer, co. Bucks, at which latter place he died 21 Dec. 1841, aged sixty-eight. Her monumental inscription is on the same stone with that of Jane Joye (see her burial 10 Dec. 1810), who described her in her will as one of the daughters of John Macnamara, of Baker Street, Midx., and Mary his wife, and bequeathed to her £3000, and to her said mother and her three youngest children £4500, but without intimating any relationship. Their only son, Rev. Edward-Thomas Champnes, succeeded his father as Vicar of Upton aforesaid in 1841, and died at Bath 7 Jan. 1875, aged sixty-eight.

<sup>5</sup> The celebrated architect. According to the Chapter Book, he was appointed, 23 Jan. 1776, both "Fabrick Surveyor" and "College Surveyor." He also held the post of Surveyor-General of H.M.'s Works. He was the most popular architect of his day, and among his best known designs may be mentioned Fonthill Abbey, Cashiobury, Hanworth Church, the old Pantheon in Oxford Street, the Palace at Kew, etc. He died suddenly, from the effects of a fall, his carriage being overturned near Marlborough, on his journey to London. His son, Benjamin-Deane Wyatt, Esq., administered to his estate 4 Oct. 1813, his relict Rachel renouncing, when his personalty was sworn under £10,000.

- 1813 Nov. 27 George-Lindsay Johnstone;<sup>1</sup> Hanover Square, Middlesex; died the 20th, aged 46: in the South Cloister.
- 1814 Jan. 4 Dame Mary Willes;<sup>2</sup> Hill Street, Berkeley Square; died Dec 25th, 1813, aged 71: in the North aisle.
- Jan. 5 Mary Mac-Gougan;<sup>3</sup> Smith Square, Westminster; died Dec 29th, 1813, aged 50: in the West Cloister.
- Jan. 15 Elizabeth Barrett;<sup>4</sup> College Street, Westminster; died the 7th, aged 79: in the South Cloister.
- Feb. 2 Archibald Mac-Gougan;<sup>5</sup> Smith Square, Westminster; died Jan. 26th, aged 39: in the West Cloister.

by Mary his wife (see her burial 1 April 1779). She died unmarried. Her will, dated 27 Jan. 1806, was proved 13 Dec. 1813, by her nieces, Mary, wife of Thomas-Hammond Cooper, Esq., Mary-Ann Gibbes, spinster, and Ann, wife of Thomas Poole, Esq. She directed to be buried under the same stone with her brother Thomas Jennings (see his burial 20 Oct. 1787). Her bequests were to her brother Robert Jennings, her sisters Ann Gibbes and Grace Vernon, and their children.

<sup>1</sup> In the Funeral Book and on his monument he is called "M.P. for Heydon," and the journals of the day say that he died suddenly, in a fit of apoplexy. His will, as "George Johnstone" (and so signed, although in the margin he is described as "George Johnstone alias George-Lindsay Johnstone"), of Hanover Square, Midx., Esq., dated 13 June 1812, with codicil 23 July 1812 and 8 July 1813, was proved 1 Feb. 1814, by his sister Sophia Johnstone, spinster (see the burial of her son 24 May 1817). He bequeathed to his "mother, Martha Ford," then residing in Oxford Street, London, £1500 per annum for life, free from all taxes, legacy duties, etc., and to his natural daughters, Sophia Johnstone, then at school at Hammersmith, Midx., and Ann Hurst, then at school at Miss Jacques's, in Sloane Street, each £200 per annum for life, free from all taxes, etc. To Mrs. Elizabeth Mills, otherwise Wyld, he gave £200 per annum for life, in addition to the annuity he had already secured to her by his bond to John Rankin, Esq. The residue of his estate he left to his said sister Sophia, with remainder to his nephew George Buller Johnstone, son of his late brother Alexander-Patrick Johnstone, who, if he succeeded to the estate, was to pay to his sisters Sophia and Emily Johnstone £25,000 each.

<sup>2</sup> Eldest dau. of Hon. George Clinton (second son of Francis-Fiennes, sixth Earl of Lincoln), by Anne, dau. and heir of General Peter Carle, and wife of Sir Francis Willes, of Hampstead, Midx., Kt., sometime an under-secretary of state (see his burial 10 Nov. 1827), to whom married about 22 July 1788 (Mar. Lic. Fac.). She left no issue. She was a sister of Sir Henry Clinton, the celebrated commander-in-chief of the British forces in America during the war of the Revolution.

<sup>3</sup> According to her monument, she was the relict of John Mac Gougan, of Westminster, who died near Hastings, co. Sussex, 29 Dec. 1807, aged forty-six. The Funeral Book describes her as of No. 2 Smith Square. See the burials of her husband's brother 2 Feb. 1814, and of her own daughter 6 Dec. 1816, and the notes thereto.

<sup>4</sup> Her will, as widow of the late William Barrett, Esq., dated 30 June 1812, with a codicil 4 Mch. 1813, was proved 19 Mch. 1814, by Alexander-Francis Haselar and Charles-Churchill Haselar, to whom and to their sister, Mrs. Sarah-Ann Roberts, widow, she bequeathed considerable sums, besides plate, jewels, etc. She was evidently connected in some way with the Tufnell family so often mentioned in the Abbey Registers, but the only relations she named were her daughter-in-law, wife of William-Henry White, Esq. (see her burial 30 Apl. 1832), and her cousins, Mrs. Edmonds and Mrs. Groves, of Stafford Row, Pimlico. She appears to have been the daughter of Robert Churchill, by Dorothy, dau. of William Tufnell (see his burial 24 Dec. 1733), who were married, at St. Bartholomew-by-the-Exchange, London, 31 Oct. 1734. In 1739-40 she had remarried Thomas Clapham, and was then living, with a daughter Elizabeth Churchill, whose age would accord with that of the person named in the text, and the Haselar would have been distantly related to her. She was the second wife of Mr. Barrett.

- 1814 Feb. 3 Sarah Markham;<sup>1</sup> Mortimer Street, Cavendish Square; died Jan. 26th, aged 75: in the North Cloister.
- March 3 The Right Hon. Lady Mary Markham;<sup>2</sup> Park Place, St. James's; died Feb. 24th, aged 36: in the North Cloister.
- March 25 John Hanna;<sup>3</sup> Crown Street, Westminster; died the 17th, aged 79: in the East Cloister.
- March 28 William Marshall;<sup>4</sup> the Close, Westminster; died the 22nd, aged 9 years: in the North-west grass-plot.
- March 28 Edward Marshall;<sup>5</sup> the Close, Westminster; died the 22nd, aged 6 years: in the North-west grass-plot.
- March 28 Richard Ings;<sup>6</sup> the Close, Westminster; died the 21st, aged 7 months: in the North-west grass-plot.
- April 9 Sarah Wilkes;<sup>7</sup> the Close, Westminster; died the 5th, aged 57: in the Dark Cloister.
- April 11 Mary Bell;<sup>8</sup> the Close, Westminster; died the 2nd, aged 72: in the Nave.
- June 29 The Right Hon. Gilbert, Earl of Minto;<sup>9</sup> 4 Burlington Street; died the 21st, aged 63: in the North Cross.

Westminster, Gent., late of H.M.'s ships "Caroline" and "Doris," dated on the day of his death, was proved 24 May following, by his nephew John MacGougan, son of his said late brother John. He directed that his estate should be divided equally between his brother Angus MacGougan, of the Island of Gigha, in co. Argyll, Gent., his said nephew John, and his niece Mary Ann, sister of said John (see her burial 6 Dec. 1816), requesting them to give such portions as they could spare to his other brothers, Nevin MacGougan and Donald MacGougan, and his sister Anne MacGougan. He evidently died unmarried.

<sup>2</sup> Lady Mary Thynne, dau. of Thomas, first Marquis of Bath, by Lady Elizabeth-Cavendish Bentinck, eldest dau. of William, second Duke of Portland. She was born, according to her coffin-plate, 17 May 1778, and married, 10 June 1806, Osborne Markham, Esq., sixth son of the Most Rev. William, Archbishop of York (see his burial 11 Nov. 1807), to whom she was first wife, who died 22 Oct. 1827, and was buried at South Weald, co. Essex.

<sup>3</sup> Son of Alexander Hanna (see his burial 22 Jan. 1778), by Elizabeth his wife (see her burial 29 Sep. 1786). The Funeral Book says that he was buried in his father's grave. Letters of administration to his estate were granted, 6 Apl. 1814, to his nephews and niece, and only next of kin, Alexander-Hanna Spratt, Esq., John Clinton, and Arabella Symonds, spinster, when he was described as formerly of Duke Street, afterwards of Queen Street, Story's Gate, and finally of Crown Court, all in Westminster, Esq., a bachelor, and his personalty was sworn under £60,000.

<sup>9</sup> Eldest son of Sir Gilbert Elliot, third (Nova Scotia) Bart., by Agnes, dau. and heir of Hugh Dalrymple, Esq., who assumed the name of Murray-Kynynmound. He was born 23 Apl. 1751, succeeded as fourth Bart. in 1777, and was created Baron Minto, of Minto, co. Roxburgh, in 1797, and Viscount Melgund and Earl of Minto 24 Feb. 1813. He married, 3 Jan. 1777,

- 1814 July 9 Ann Forster ;<sup>1</sup> 20 Great Coram Street, Brunswick Square ; died the 2nd, aged 76 : in the West Cloister.
- Aug. 23 Edward-Hussey Delaval ;<sup>2</sup> Parliament Place, Old Palace Yard ; died the 14th, aged 86 : in the Nave.
- Aug. 30 Robert Cooke ;<sup>3</sup> New Palace Yard ; died the 23rd, aged 46 : in the West Cloister.
- Oct. 18 George Day ;<sup>4</sup> Peter Street, Westminster ; died the 15th, aged 3 weeks : in the North-west grass-plat.
- Dec. 7 Luttrell Wynne, LL.D. ;<sup>5</sup> Queen Anne Street West ; died Nov. 29th, aged 76 : in the North Cloister.
- Dec. 31 Alice Gibbins ;<sup>6</sup> the Close, Westminster ; died the 27th, aged 59 : in the Dark Cloister.
- 1815 Jan. 5 Thomas Huntly ;<sup>7</sup> George Whicher's Alms-house, Westminster ; died Dec. 29th, 1814, aged 95 : in the North-west grass-plat.

Anna-Maria, eldest dau. of Sir George Amyand, first Bart., who survived him until 1829. They were ancestors of the present Earl of Minto. See his brother's burial 10 Dec. 1830.

<sup>2</sup> Younger son of Francis-Blake Delaval, Esq., by Rhoda, dau. of Robert Apreece, of Wasbingley, co. Huntingdon, Esq., and brother of Sir John-Hussey, Lord Delaval (see his burial 13 June 1808), to whose estates he succeeded, and was the last survivor of his name. He was M.A., Fellow of Pembroke College, Cambridge, F.R.S., and member of several other learned societies at home and abroad, and was distinguished for his devotion to philosophical studies and scientific pursuits. He married Sarah, dau. of George Scott, of Methley, co. York, Esq., who survived him, as well as an only daughter, Sarah-Hussey, wife of James Gunman, of Dover, co. Kent, Esq.

<sup>5</sup> Last surviving son of William Wynne, Serjeant-at-Law (see his burial 23 May 1765), by Grace his wife (see her burial 27 Nov. 1779). He was born in the parish of St. Clement Dane, Midx., and matriculated at Oxford, from Jesus College, 15 Mch. 1758, where B.A. 23 Oct. 1761, B.C.L., as of All Souls' College, 24 Oct. 1766, and D.C.L. 26 June 1771. He was a Fellow of All Souls, and died unmarried. His monument, which describes him as Rector and patron of St. Erme, co. Cornwall, was erected by his cousin and heir, Edward-William-Wynne Pendarves of Pendarves, in that county, Esq.

<sup>6</sup> The Funeral Book says that she died at the Rev. Dr. Carey's house. Her will, as Alice Gibbons, at Dr. Carey's, at Westminster, dated 8 Mch. 1810, was proved 11 Jan. 1815, by John Pattison Panton, of Old Burlington Street, Westminster, Gent., and Thomas Douglas, of Gunpowder Street, Spitalfields, Midx., tailor. She gave half of her effects to the children of her brother James Gibbons, of Marples Bridge, co. Chester, and the other half to her niece Maria Gibbons, daughter of her deceased brother Humphrey Gibbons, whom she had brought up from infancy. She was probably in the service of Rev. Dr. William Carey, then one of the Prebendaries of Westminster.

- 1815 Jan. 31 Elizabeth Tuffnell;<sup>1</sup> Thayer-Street, St. Marylebone; died the 26th, aged 84: in the South Cloister.
- Feb. 6 John Bligh;<sup>2</sup> Abingdon Street, Westminster; died Jan. 30th, aged 65: in the North Cloister.
- March 21 Jane Purslow;<sup>3</sup> the Cottage, Tothill Fields; died the 12th, aged 40: in the North-west grass-plot.
- May 18 Charlotte Willett;<sup>4</sup> Dean Street, Soho; died the 11th, aged 69: in the South Cloister.
- June 16 John Milles;<sup>5</sup> 49 Park Street; died the 6th, aged 76: in the middle aisle.

<sup>2</sup> He appears to have been in the legal profession, and was a son of Richard Bligh, of Bodmin, co. Cornwall, tallow-chandler, by Mary his wife. His monument describes him as "Cornubiensis ortus antiquo genere sed obscuræ sorti natus," etc. He was baptized at Bodmin 25 Apl. 1750. His will, as of Abingdon Street, Westminster, dated 4 Oct. 1806, with a codicil 15 May 1807, was proved 15 Feb. 1815. To his wife Mary he bequeathed all his plate, furniture, etc., the money due to him from the estate of the late Sir James Laroche, Bart., and a part of his estate in Cornwall, called Redvile in the parish of St. Tudy, held under the Prince of Wales, although he believed that would naturally belong to her, and he recommended that his brothers Reginald and Richard should relinquish their right thereto. His two shares in the Lambeth Water Works he directed to be applied to the payment of his own debts, and of any balance due to the Chelsea Water Works from his son John Bligh as collector of water rents. To his dear little son Timothy he gave his watch, stating in the codicil that he was then only eleven years old, and would be entitled on his mother's death to £1695 6s. 8d., as settled on her and their children previous to their marriage. The residue of his estate he gave equally to his three children, Lucy Stanley, John Bligh, and Richard Bligh. He named William Gatty, of the King's Remembrancer's Office, and Robert Gatty, of Angel Court, Throgmorton Street, London, as executors with his son Richard, but the latter alone proved the will, as Richard Bligh, Esq.

<sup>4</sup> Second wife of Samuel Strutt, Esq. (see his burial 31 Jan. 1785), to whom married, 10 Sep. 1771, as Charlotte Locke, of Clerkenwell, Midx., spinster. See the burial of their daughter 30 Apl. 1808. She married, secondly, 15 May 1786, at his house in Dean Street, St. Anne's, Westminster, by special license, Ralph Willett, Esq., of Merley, co. Dorset, to whom she was second wife, and whom she also survived. (The sale of his rare collection of early printed works and botanical drawings, by Leigh and Sotheby, in December 1813, occupied no less than seventeen days.) Her son and only surviving child, Rev. Samuel Strutt, administered to her estate 26 May 1815, when her personalty was sworn under £300.

<sup>5</sup> His monument describes him as third son of Christopher Milles, of Nackington, co. Kent, Esq., and brother of Richard Milles, of the same place and of North Elmham, co. Norfolk, Esq. His will, as of Park Street, Grosvenor Square, Esq., dated 3 May 1815, was proved 4 July following, by his sister Mary Milles, of Green Street, Grosvenor Square, spinster, to whom he gave only £10. He gave the same sum to his said brother Richard, and his silver inkstand to his nephew Rev. Henry-Nicholas Astley, of East Basham, co. Norfolk. All his books, pictures, plate, furniture, etc., and the entire residu of his personalty, he bequeathed absolutely to his reputed daughter Mary-Ann Blackburn, to her sole use for ever.

- 1815 July 19 Mary Brown, otherwise Byles, daughter of the late Henry Brooker, Receiver of this Collegiate Church;<sup>1</sup> Blackheath Hill, Lewisham; died the 10th, aged 60: in the East Cloister.
- Oct. 5 John Minnitt;<sup>2</sup> Whicher's Alms-house, Chapel Street, Westminster; died the 1st, aged 66: in the North-west grass-plot.
- Oct. 26 Lient.-General Andrew Gammell;<sup>3</sup> Southampton Place, New Road; died the 14th, aged 50: in the South Cloister.
- Dec. 2 John-Peter Salomon;<sup>4</sup> 70 Newman Street, Oxford Street; died Nov. 25th, aged 70: in the South Cloister.
- Dec. 29 The Very Rev<sup>d</sup> William Vincent, D.D., Dean of this Collegiate Church;<sup>5</sup> Deanery House, Cloisters; died the 21st, aged 77: in St. Benedict's Chapel.

<sup>1</sup> See her father's burial 6 June 1787, and her mother's 23 Jan. 1802. She was born 14 Nov. and baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 7 Dec. 1755. Her will, as "Mary Byles, now residing at Langbourne Ward School, Lime Street, Fenchurch Street, city of London, wife of Robert Byles, late of Aldermaston, co. Berks, surgeon, but from whom I live separate and apart," dated 23 Nov. 1809, was proved 31 Oct. 1815, by her sister Elizabeth Abbott and her husband Henry Abbott, of Blackheath Hill, co. Kent, Gent., whom she made her residuary legatees. Her only other legacies were £150 each to her cousins Mr. Thomas Belcher and Mr. William Belcher. She appears to have cited her ante-nuptial settlement, dated 8 Sep. 1793, she being then a spinster and was evidently living with her husband at the date of her mother's will, 3 May 1799. She had probably been passing by the name of Brown for the purpose of concealment, as she certainly could have had no husband of that name.

<sup>3</sup> He attained the rank of Lient.-General 4 June 1813. His will, as Captain in H.M.'s first regiment of Foot Guards and Licut.-General in the army, dated 14 Jan. 1814, was proved 14 Dec. 1815, by Sir William Kay, Bart., banker in London. He bequeathed to his "dear friend Martha Stageldoir, named Mrs. Gammell," £300 per annum for life, and to a daughter of his by that lady, named Jessie, who had "disgraced herself by marrying a blackguard," only £100 per annum for life. All the rest of his real, personal, or hereditary property was to be divided equally between his "seven following children by the aforesaid Mrs. Gammell," viz., Lient. William Gammell, Martha Gammell, Ensign James Gammell, Mary Gammell, Margaret Gammell, Andrew Gammell, and Ernest Gammell.

<sup>4</sup> The journals of the day describe him as "a very eminent performer on the violin." His will, dated 30 Oct. 1815, was proved 8 Dec. following. He directed that his house, No. 70 Newman Street, should go to the next of kin of his late uncle Herman Bowjedsen, viz., the three brothers Munch, sons of Coopermaster Munch at Bonn on the Rhine, and the relict of Mr. Geiger, formerly purveyor to the Elector of Cologne. He mentioned no other relations. He gave £200 each to Mr. Ferdinand Ries, for the encouragement of his younger brother's musical genius, and Mr. William Morris, of Great Marlborough Street, surgeon, and appointed them his executors, but the former only proved the will, the latter having already died. His other bequests were to various musical and other friends, and among them was that of his Stradivarius violin, formerly belonging to La Motte, which he gave to Sir Patrick Blake, of Bury St. Edmunds. Bart.

<sup>5</sup> Fifth son of Giles Vincent (fourth and youngest son of Rev. George Vincent, Rector of the South Medietty of Sheepy, co. Leicester), an eminent packer and Portugal merchant in London, and Deputy of Lime Street Ward for twenty-seven years, by Sarah, dau. of Francis Holloway, of Newnham-Murren, co. Oxford. He was born 2 Nov. 1739, admitted into St. Peter's College, Westminster, in 1753, and elected to Cambridge in 1757, where A.B. 1761, A.M. 1764, and S.T.P. 1776. He became an usher in Westminster School in 1762, second master 28 May 1771, and Head Master Sep. 1788. He was for a few months Vicar of Longdon, co. Worcester, but resigned in

- 1816 Jan. 6 Margaret Shortland;<sup>1</sup> College Street, Westminster; died Dec. 25th, 1815, aged 68: in the North Cloister.
- Jan. 10 Lucy Bell;<sup>2</sup> the Close, Westminster; died the 3rd, aged 89: in the middle aisle.
- Jan. 29 William-Henry Clarke;<sup>3</sup> the Close, Westminster; died the 19th, aged 9 months: in the North-west grass-plot.
- April 10 Elizabeth Warren;<sup>4</sup> Mortlake, Surrey; died March 29th, aged 83: in the North Cross.
- May 16 Edward Oxley;<sup>5</sup> Porter's Lodge, the Close, Westminster; died the 12th, aged 14 months: in the Dark Cloister.
- July 13 The Right Hon. Richard-Brinsley Sheridan;<sup>6</sup> Saville Row, St. James's; died the 7th, aged 65: in the South Cross.

1778, and became Rector of Allhallows the Great and Less, London. Resigning this living in 1803, he had the Rectory of St. John the Evangelist, Westminster, until 1807, when he presented himself to the Rectory of Islip, co. Oxford, an Abbey living, which he held until his death. He was installed Prebendary of Westminster 21 Apl. 1801, and Dean of Westminster 7 Aug. 1802. He had also been Chaplain to the King in 1771, and Sub-almoner in 1784, and was President of Sion College in 1798, and Prolocutor to the Lower House of Convocation in 1802. See the baptisms of his children, 31 Dec. 1772, 12 May 1774, and 12 Dec. 1776, and the burials, of his daughter, 13 Feb. 1777, and of his son 3 Feb. 1859.

<sup>1</sup> Second and youngest daughter of John Rutherford, Esq., originally of Kelso, Scotland, but afterwards of St. Botolph's, Aldgate, London, by Jane Kerr his wife, of Durham, and relict of Capt. John Shortland, of the royal navy, to whom married, at St. Mary's, Whitechapel, Midx., 5 July 1764, and who died at Lille, in France, 30 Jan. 1803. She was a sister of John Rutherford, Esq. (see his burial 11 Oct. 1782). The Funeral Book says that she died of apoplexy, and that the fees for her monument were paid by Lady Eyre. Her will, as of St. John's, Westminster, dated 15 Oct. 1815, was proved 5 Jan. 1816, by her son-in-law William Peace, Esq., husband of her daughter Peggy, to whom, and to her son Capt. Thomas-George Shortland, R.N., she bequeathed all her possessions. This son was afterwards Commissioner of the Navy at Port Royal, Jamaica, where he died 23 Nov. 1827, in his fifty-seventh year. Her only other son, Capt. John Shortland, R.N., died at Guadaloupe, early in 1810, from the effects of wounds received while gallantly defending H.M.'s frigate "Junon" against an attack by four French frigates. Her only other daughter, Jane, married Mr. Williamson, chief commissariat officer in New South Wales.

<sup>2</sup> Sister of Rev. Dr. William Bell (see his burial 8 Oct. 1816), and perhaps of Mary Bell (see her burial 11 Apl. 1814). Her will, as of Dean's Yard, Westminster, spinster, dated 10 May 1814, with two codicils, was proved 23 Jan. 1816, by John-Francis Norris, Esq., whom she called her cousin, and to whom she bequeathed whatever was due to her under the will of her late brother John Bell, Esq., with remainder to his children. The only other relation named was her cousin Mrs. Norman, wife of the Rev. Mr. Norman, to whom she gave £1000 in South Sea stock.

<sup>5</sup> Child of Edward Oxley, then College porter, by Mary his wife (see her burial 31 Jan. 1842, and note thereto). He was born at Islip, co. Oxford, and baptized there 14 May 1815.

Chamberlaine, Prebendary of St. Patrick's, Dublin, an authoress of considerable reputation. He was born in Dorset Street, Dublin, 30 Oct., and baptized at St. Mary's Church, in that city, 4 Nov. 1751. Of his personal and political career it is unnecessary here to treat. He married, first, in 1773, Elizabeth-Anne, dau. of Thomas Linley, Esq., who died in 1792, and secondly, in 1795, Esther-Jane, dau. of Rev. Newton Ogle, D.D., Dean of Winchester, who died at Frogmore, near Windsor Castle, 27 Oct. 1817. See the marriage of his great-grand-daughter 30 June 1864.

<sup>1</sup> He was of Magdalen College, Cambridge. A.B. 1753, A.M. 1756, and S.T.P., by royal command, 1767. He was installed Prebendary of Westminster 12 Oct. 1765. His will, dated 20 May 1815, was proved 3 Jan. 1817, by George Harrison, Esq., Assistant-Secretary to the Treasury and Sherrard-Beaumont Burnaby, of Doctors' Commons, Doctor of Law. The only relation named was his "only surviving sister" Mrs. Lucy Bell (see her burial 10 Jan. 1816. and probably that of another sister 11 Apl. 1814), who was to inherit after his death what was due to him under the will of his late brother John Bell, of Fludry Street, Whitehall, Esq. His other bequests, which were large and very numerous, were to friends, clergymen and their families, and various charities.

<sup>2</sup> According to her monument, she was a daughter of John MacGougan, by Mary his wife (see her burial 5 Jan. 1814), and niece of Archibald MacGougan (see his burial 2 Feb. 1814), and died at the age of twenty. An inscription, contained in a letter from her brother John MacGougan, dated 22 George Street, Adelphi, 25 June 1825, and still remaining in the Funeral Book, gives her age as twenty-two. He stated that she was his only sister.

<sup>3</sup> This child was the last of the Royal family buried in the Abbey, and, according to the Funeral Book, her remains were removed, 7 July 1837, to St. George's Chapel, at Windsor. The father succeeded as King of Hanover, 20 June 1837, and died 18 Nov. 1851. The mother died 21 June 1841.

<sup>4</sup> He was called "cousin" in the will of Daniel Gell, Chapter Clerk (see his burial 18 June 1763). According to the Chapter Book, he was appointed Receiver-General 19 June 1787, jointly with Mr. Thomas Prickard (see his burial 23 Sep. 1795), who resigned 1 Dec. following. He was also appointed, 26 Apl. 1792, Coroner and Clerk of the Markets for Westminster, and, on 5 May 1801, a new patent as Receiver-General was issued to him, jointly with his son John-Henry Gell. He had evidently been in the service of the Abbey long before the date of his first patent. See the burials, of his wife 7 Feb. 1825, and of his children, 2 Jan. 1766, 2 June 1769, 12 May 1775, 28 Dec. 1792, 27 Nov. 1801, 24 May 1838, and 16 Oct. 1856.

<sup>5</sup> Third son of John Leith, of Leith Hall, co. Aberdeen, Esq., by Harriot, dau. and heir of Alexander Steuart of Anchlunkart, Banffshire, Esq. He was born 8 Aug. 1763, and entered the army in 1780. The Funeral Book, quoting his coffin-plate, describes him as "Grand Cross of the most honourable Military Order of the Bath, Knight Commander of the royal Military Order of the Tower and Sword of Portugal, Grand Cordon of the royal Military Order of Merit of France, Governor of Barbados, Commander of the forces in the Windward and Leeward Islands, and Colonel of the fourth West India regiment." He attained the rank of Lieut.-General 4 June 1813, having been created a Knight of the Bath 4 Mch. in the same year. He died at Barbados, of yellow fever. He married, 14 Feb. 1798, Lady Augusta Forbes, second daughter of George, fifth Earl of Granard, who survived him, and administered to his estate 27 Mch. 1817.

<sup>1</sup> A special license was granted from the Faculty Office, 4 May 1814, for the marriage, at any time or place, of Francis Platamone, Count St. Antonio, a bachelor, and Sophia Johnstone, spinster, both of South Molton Street, St. George's, Hanover Square, Midx., and both aged above twenty-one. The latter was a sister of George-Lindsay Johnstone, Esq. (see his burial 27 Nov. 1813, and note thereto), on whose monument was added an inscription for this child. The Funeral Book says that he was born 30 Sep. 1815.

<sup>2</sup> Dau. and heir of Thomas Burden, Esq., and wife, first, of John Swinburne, Esq., and secondly, of Sir James Riddell, first Bart. of Ardnamurchan and Sunart, to whom married, as his second wife, in 1775, and who died 2 Nov. 1797, by whom she had no issue. She died at Bath. See the burial of her step-son 2 May 1783.

<sup>3</sup> According to the Chapter Book, he was appointed librarian 4 Nov. 1803. His brother Richard Horsfall administered to his estate 24 July 1817, when he was described as a lay vicar of the Abbey, and a bachelor, and his personalty was sworn under £600.

<sup>4</sup> Eldest son of Hugh, first Duke of Northumberland (see his burial 21 June 1786), by Lady Elizabeth Seymour (see her burial 18 Dec. 1776). He was born 14 Aug. 1742, was summoned to Parliament as Baron Percy in 1777, and succeeded to all his father's titles except that of Lord Lovaine. He married, first, 2 July 1764, Lady Anne Stuart, third daughter of John, third Earl of Bute, by whom he had no issue, and from whom he was divorced, by an Act of Parliament, in Mch. 1779. See the burials, of his second wife 10 May 1820, and of his children, 8 May 1781, 23 June 1794, 20 Jan. 1820, 23 Feb. 1847, 13 June 1856, and 25 Feb. 1865.

<sup>5</sup> Fourth son and ninth child of Rev. Dr. William Page, Head Master of Westminster School, etc., by Mary his wife (see the note to the baptism of his sister 5 July 1804). See his baptism 15 Apl. 1816. The Funeral Book says that he was buried in the North Cloister, and gives his age as one year and eight months.

<sup>6</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died at Esher, and was buried from his late residence in Tothill Street, Westminster. On his monument he was described as Esquire, Major-commandant of the regiment of St. Margaret's and St. John's Volunteers, and one of the burgesses of the city and liberties of Westminster. According to the Chapter Book, he and his partner Lancelot Burton, being the College plumbers, were discharged 4 Nov. 1803, "in consequence of the late fire at the Church, caused by the negligence of their servants." His will, as of Tothill Street Westminster, plumber, dated 7 Aug. 1817, was proved 5 June 1818, by John Abington, of Downing Street, Westminster, Esq., and John Mills, of Parliament Street, Esq., attorney-at-law, whom he made his residuary legatees. The only relation named was Sarah, wife of William Burrows, carpenter, daughter of his late aunt Sarah Hewitt, to whom and to her children he bequeathed £400. To Elizabeth Clinton, widow, of No. 6 Great College Street, Westminster, he gave £500 also £70 per annum for life, and a house in Lambeth. The rest of his bequests were to friends and servants, one of them being a ring of the value of three guineas to each member of the club of "Old Friends," to which he belonged. His final instruction was in these words : "Whatever horses or mares I may possess, it is my wish and desire that they may be killed, in the easiest way that can be devised, within fourteen days after my decease."

<sup>1</sup> Son of the Hon. Charles-Hope-Vere Hope (second surviving son of Charles-Hope, first Earl of Hopetoun), of Craigichall, by his third wife, Helen, daughter of George Dunbar, Esq., and born 6 July 1767. Entering the navy, he attained the rank of Rear-Admiral 1 Aug. 1811, was created K.C.B. 5 Jan. 1815, and had been one of the Lords of the Admiralty since 1812. He was twice married, and left issue. In his will he was called Sir George-Johnstone Hope, and so signed it.

<sup>3</sup> Son of Abraham Acworth, Esq. (see his burial 14 Apl. 1781), by Margaretta-Mabella his wife (see her burial 26 Apl. 1794). His will, dated in May 1818, was proved 28 Aug. following by his cousin Francis-Molyneux Ommaney and his friend Mr. Andrew Edge. He was a governor, trustee, or treasurer of many of the charitable institutions of the period, and left liberal legacies to them all. He evidently died unmarried.

<sup>4</sup> He is said to have been the son of an actor of some celebrity. He was admitted into St. Peter's College, Westminster, in 1774, aged thirteen, and was elected to Trinity College, Cambridge, in 1779, where A.B. 1783, and A.M. 1786, becoming a Fellow of his College. He became an usher of Westminster School in 1781, and retained that position until his death. He became Vicar of Swineshead, co. Lincoln, in 1800, and Rector of North Runcton, co. Norfolk, in 1811. He married, at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 16 May 1811, Ann Whitaker, of St. Pancras, Mdx. spinster, and their son Edmund-James was baptized there 6 Nov. 1812. His will, as of James Street, St. Margaret's, Westminster, dated 22 Aug. 1815, was proved 28 Sep. 1818. He bequeathed all his possessions to his wife Ann for life, with remainder equally to his six children (some of whom must have been twins), viz., Charles-William, Ann-Sally, Susan, Frances, Martha-Ann, and Edmund-James.

<sup>5</sup> The Funeral Book describes her as "a married woman," and her monument stated that she was a daughter of Edward Hayward, of Goldstone, co. Salop, and born 15 Jan. 1794.

<sup>1</sup> She was baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 4 June 1738, as daughter of Matthew Burt and Elizabeth his wife, and married there, 28 Apl. 1768, to George Slemaker, afterwards chief porter of the Abbey (see his burial 23 Aug. 1802). She died, according to the Funeral Book, at the residence of her daughter Elizabeth, wife of Pitt Cobbett, who administered to her estate 15 Feb. 1819, when her personalty was sworn under twenty pounds. See the baptisms of her children, 2 Apl. 1769, 6 Jan. 1771, 18 Oct. 1772, 22 Oct. 1775, 2 Sep. 1776, and 14 Feb. 1779, and the burials of her sons, 1 Oct. 1776 and 1 Jan. 1778.

<sup>2</sup> Relict of Mr. John Henderson, the celebrated actor (see his burial 3 Dec. 1785), to whom married, according to the journals of the day, 13 Jan. 1779, as Miss Jane Figgins, of Chippenham, co. Wilts. The Funeral Book describes her as his widow, and refers to his burial.

<sup>3</sup> Dau. of Dr. Benjamin Cooke, organist of the Abbey (see his burial 21 Sep. 1793), by Mary his wife (see her burial 26 Mch. 1784). She was born 28 July, and baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 14 Sep. 1762. She died unmarried, and her brother Henry Cooke (see his burial 6 Oct. 1840) administered to her estate 27 May 1819, when her personalty was sworn under £3000.

<sup>4</sup> The Funeral Book describes him as Colonel of the London and Westminster Light Horse Volunteers, and says that he died at Hastings, and was buried from the head-quarters in Gray's Inn Lane. The journals of the day say that he was a native of Scotland, brother of Sir Robert Herries, the eminent banker in St. James Street, who died in 1815, and himself an eminent merchant in London, trading under the firm of Herries and Naylor, and that he was buried with military honours, under a special order from the Commander-in-Chief. His will, as of Cadogan Place, Chelsea, dated 24 Oct. 1815, was proved 28 May 1819. His only legatees were his sons John-Charles Herries and William-Lewis Herries, and his daughters, Isabell-Maria Herries, Catharine, wife of Henry-Knowles Creed, Esq., and Julia Mary Herries. The daughter Catharine appears to have been baptized at Carshalton, co. Surrey, 18 Sep. 1791, as daughter of Charles Herries and Mary his wife.

<sup>5</sup> Isabella, dau. of George-Ebenezer Williams, organist to St. Peter's, Westminster, and Eliza his wife, was born 2 Aug. 1817, and baptised at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 27 May 1818.

<sup>6</sup> Son of James-Townsend Oswald, of Duunkier, co. Fife, Esq., M.P. for the Kirkcaldy Burghs, by his wife Janet Gray, of Skibo, co. Sutherland. He was born 6 May 1779, and was in the Civil Service of the East India Company. He died, according to the family accounts, in the English Channel, just as the ship came in sight of England. He died unmarried, and his brother Sir John Oswald, K.C.B., administered to his estate 12 July 1819, his mother renouncing. See the burials, of his great-grandmother 5 Apl. 1762, his grandfather 1 Apl. 1769, his grandmother 28 Sep. 1779, and his great aunt 21 Feb. 1785, and the marriage of his niece, Lady Augusta Bruce, 22 Dec. 1863.

Archibald Campbell (see his burial 12 Apl. 1791). He was sometime Civil Commissioner to the Ionian Islands and Commander of the Forces in the Adriatic, and was created a Baronet 4 Dec. 1818. He married, at Greenwich, Kent, 3 May 1794, Agnes-Margaretta, only daughter of John Hunter, Esq., the celebrated surgeon (see his burial 28 Mch. 1859), but left no issue, and the title became extinct. In his will, dated at Messina 9 Dec. 1807, and a codicil also dated there 22 Jan. 1808, he provided liberally for his wife, but in another, dated at Palermo, 12 Nov. 1812, he stated that they had separated. In subsequent codicils, dated at Zante and Corfu 27 Sep. 1813, 8 Aug. 1814, and 1 Oct. 1816, he characterized her in very opprobrious terms, revoked every bequest to her, and directed that she should have nothing from his estate that could possibly be withheld.

<sup>3</sup> See his wife's burial 2 May 1808, and his son's 20 Jan. 1808. The place of burial sufficiently indicates his humble position.

<sup>4</sup> According to the Chapter Book, 10 Nov. 1808, he was employed to attend upon the workmen about the Abbey, and by an order on the day of his burial his coffin was to be paid for out of the Abbey treasury.

<sup>5</sup> Third dau. of Peter Burrell, of Beckenham, co. Kent, Esq., by Elizabeth, dau. and coheir of John Lewis, of Hackney, Midx., Esq. She was born 21 Dec. 1752, and baptized at St. Anne's, Westminster, 19 Jan. 1753. She married, 21 May 1779, Hugh, then Lord Percy, afterwards second Duke of Northumberland (see his burial 19 July 1817), to whom she was second wife. See the burials of her children, 8 May 1781, 23 June 1794, 20 Jan. 1820, 23 Feb. 1847, 13 Jun. 1856, and 25 Feb. 1865, and that of her sister 31 Jan. 1812.

<sup>6</sup> The celebrated statesman and orator. Son of James Grattan, Esq., Recorder of and M.P. for the city of Dublin, by Mary, dau. of Thomas Marlay, Chief Justice of the King's Bench in Ireland, and born in Dublin 3 July 1746. The record of his illustrious career forms a part of the history of the nation. He married, in early life, Henrietta Fitzgerald, by whom he had numerous issue.

<sup>7</sup> According to his monument, he had formerly been a chorister and lay clerk of the Abbey and a Gentleman of the Chapel Royal, and was born 19 Sep. 1769. The Funeral Book says that he was buried from No. 45 Berners Street. He died unmarried, and his sister Jane Bartleman spinster, administered to his estate 18 May 1821, when his personalty was sworn under £5000. According to subsequent letters of administration, he had also a brother George, and sisters, Jemima, wife of Thomas Godwin, Mary Bayntin, widow, and Selina-Ann Bartleman, spinster. His brother George and sister Selina-Ann were living 16 Nov. 1848, the two other sisters being then dead.

<sup>2</sup> Lady Mary-Elizabeth Townshend, second surviving daughter of Thomas, first Viscount Sydney, by Elizabeth, eldest daughter and coheir of Richard Powys, of Hintlesham, co. Suffolk, and wife of John Pitt, second and last Earl of Chatham (see his burial 3 Oct. 1835), to whom married 9 July 1783. She was born 2 Sep. 1762, and died without issue.

<sup>3</sup> Only daughter and heir of Henry Stephenson, of East Burnham, co. Bucks, and of Cox Lodge, near Newcastle-on-Tyne, Esq., and wife of John Savile, second Earl of Mexborough, to whom married 25 Sep. 1782, and who died 3 Feb. 1830. Her only son succeeded as third Earl of Mexborough.

<sup>4</sup> Relict of Edward Medley (see his burial 6 Jan. 1809). Her will, as of New Peter Street, Westminster, dated 24 Oct. 1811, with a codicil 30 Dec. 1815, was proved 4 Dec. 1821, by her son George Medley. From an affidavit attached, she appears to have died at Farringdon, co. Berks, but directed to be buried with her husband. Her other children named were her sons, Edward Medley (who died before her, in 1814), Charles Medley, William Medley, and her late son John Medley, and her daughters, Mary Bell, Harriet Roe, and Charlotte Vardon.

<sup>5</sup> The Register has no entry of the burial of Major André, but the Funeral Book contains the following: "Major André's remains, brought from America, by order of His Royal Highness the Duke of York, in a sarcophagus, were, this 28th day of Nov<sup>r</sup> 1821, removed from Islip's Chapel, and deposited nearly in front of his monument, and nine feet from the South side of the Church, and [blank] feet from Iron gate, one foot under pavement, in the presence of the very Rev<sup>d</sup> the Dean and General Taylor." The unhappy history of this young officer has always excited great interest throughout the British nation, and that interest seems almost as intense and earnest at the present day as it was at first, nearly a century ago. This being the case, it seems remarkable that no one has hitherto elicited the slightest information respecting his antecedents—not even so little as his father's name. The Editor has, therefore, devoted considerable time and labour to the subject, and with the following results. The earliest ancestor of Major André so far ascertained was James André, of Nîmes, in the South of France, living in the latter part of the 17th century, and perhaps early in the 18th, who left two sons, David and John. The former was a merchant at Genoa, where he died 8 Mch. 1737-8, and it is from his will, proved in London 30 Sep. 1738, that much of the information obtained has been derived. The other son, John André, appears to have remained at Nîmes, and married Louise Vazeille, by whom he had seven children. Their third son, William André, appears to have removed to Geneva, where he died about 1747. He married Mary Privat, who survived him, and also died at Geneva in 1767. They were the parents of ten children, of whom three sons, Anthony, David, and John-Lewis, came to England, the two former being naturalized, by Act of Parliament, in 1748. The two latter became merchants in London, married, and had families, and their descendants are doubtless still living in England. The eldest son, Anthony André, also became a merchant in London, residing, during the latter part of his life, at Clapton, in Hackney, where he died 14 Apl. 1769, aged fifty-two. He was buried in the family vault in St. Augustine's churchyard. He married Marie-Louise, daughter of Paul Girardot, of Paris. She survived her husband nearly forty-four years, and died at Bath 22 Feb. 1813, aged, as was said, ninety-one. They were the parents of two sons, John and William-Lewis, and of three daughters, Mary-Hannah, Ann-Marguerite, and Louisa-Catherine. The youngest son, William-Lewis, was baptized at St. Martin Outwich, London, 25 Nov. 1760, and was created a Baronet 24 Mch. 1781, shortly after his elder brother's death. He died, unmarried, in 1802, and the title became extinct. The three sisters continued to reside at Bath, at No. 23 Circus, and all died there, unmarried. Ann-Marguerite, Miss Seward's "tuneful Anna," died in 1830. Louisa-Catherine died 25 Dec. 1835, aged eighty-one, and Mary-Hannah, the eldest, outliving all her family, died 3 Mch. 1845, aged ninety-three. The eldest son was Major John André, who appears to have been born in 1751, but the precise time and place of his birth or baptism have not been ascertained. It is very probable that he was born at Paris, where his mother's father lived and died. Of his early life nothing is absolutely known, but he purchased a second lieutenant's commission in the army when he must have still been a minor, being gazetted 2 Apl. 1771. He subsequently became a Captain in the 26th regiment of foot, and Adjutant-general, with the rank of Major. The rest of his history is too well known to require recapitulation. He was executed at Tappan, in the State of New York, 2 Oct. 1780, probably before he had entered his thirtieth year, and his remains were subsequently disinterred and removed to this country, in order that they might have honourable interment in the Abbey.

<sup>1</sup> Son and evidently eldest child of Rev. Francis Fisher, of Burwash, co. Sussex, by Charlotte, dau. of James Merest, Esq., Clerk-assistant of the House of Lords (see his first wife's burial 17 Nov. 1727, and note thereto), who were married, at St. John the Evangelist, Westminster, 9 Moh. 1758. His monument and his will described him as "Chief Clerk in the office of the Auditor of the Receipt of H.M.'s Exchequer." His will, dated 27 Nov. 1821, was proved 4 Jan. 1822, by his uncle Rev. James Merest, of Wortham, co. Suffolk, and by his friend Thomas Francis, of the Stock Exchange, London, Esq. He directed to be buried in the grave of his late sister Charlotte Fisher (see her burial 8 Mch. 1813). He bequeathed £50 per annum for life to his much esteemed friend Mrs. Barbara Pullen, spinster, then residing in the family of James Elder, in the city of Exeter, Esq., and the residue of his estate to his said uncle, Rev. James Merest, and Sarah his wife. See the burial of his mother's sister, Mrs. Mary Hare, 16 Mch. 1797.

<sup>2</sup> Eldest son of George Woodfall, printer (son of the celebrated printer of "Junius"), by Mary Brown his wife, whose father is said to have been a coal-merchant in Milford Lane, Strand. He was born 28 Nov. 1799, and baptized at St. Faith's, London, 6 June 1800. The Funeral Book says that he died at his father's house in Dean's Yard, in his twenty-third year. See his aunt's burial 19 Feb. 1862.

<sup>3</sup> The celebrated Secretary of State, better known as Viscount Castlereagh. Second but eldest surviving son of Robert Stewart, first Marquis of Londonderry, by his first wife, Sarah-Frances, second daughter of Francis Seymour-Conway, first Marquis of Hertford, and born, according to his coffin-plate, 18 June 1769. He succeeded, as second Marquis, 8 Apl. 1821, but died without issue, and his titles passed to his brother. He died at his residence at North Cray, co. Kent, having committed suicide, during temporary insanity. See his wife's burial 20 Feb. 1829.

married, at a chapel in St. Giles in the Fields, Midx., and afterwards in the chapel of the Portuguese Embassy, 22 June 1749, as Eva-Maria Violotte, of St. James, Westminster. The Funeral Book says that she died in her ninety-ninth year. Nothing appears to be absolutely known concerning her origin, but she is said to have stated that she was born at Vienna, 29 Feb. 1724, and that she was of noble blood. Her reputed father was John Veigel, of that city, certainly not a nobleman. She had been a popular dansuse, but had been withdrawn from the stage previous to her marriage, and was then living under the protection of the Earl and Countess of Burlington. She appears to have lived thirty years a faithful wife, and forty-three years a faithful widow. She left no issue. Her will, dated 28 Jan. 1819, with codicils 28 Nov. 1821 and 15 Aug. 1822, was proved 30 Oct. 1822. The only relations of her own whom she named were her niece Elizabeth, wife of Mr. Peter de Saar, of Vienna, and her god-daughter Eva-Maria de Saar, daughter of her late nephew Louis de Saar, of Oldenburgh, in Hungary.

<sup>4</sup> The Funeral Book says: "Senior Almsman of the Collegiate Church of St. Peter, Westminster." See the burials, of his father 12 Sep. 1775, of his mother 16 July 1771, of his sister 25 June 1764, and of his brother 4 June 1838.

<sup>5</sup> The Funeral Book says: "Late wife of Sir Robert-Thomas Wilson, Kt., M.P." (see his burial 15 May 1849). In his will he cited her ante-nuptial settlement, dated 5 July 1797, and stated that subsequently, after the deaths of her father William Belford and her uncle Gustavus Belford, she became entitled, under the will of her grandfather William Belford, to certain estates, among which was the "China farm" in Harbledown, co. Kent. Her father is said to have been a colonel in the army.

- 1824 Oct. 30 Sarah Perry;<sup>1</sup> Whicher's Alms-house, Little Chapel Street, Westminster; died the 25th, aged 76: in the North grass-plat.

- 1825 Feb. 7 Frances Gell, widow of the late Anthony Gell, Esq., Receiver of this Collegiate Church;<sup>3</sup> Bexley, Kent; died Jan. 31st, aged 85: in the North Cloister.
 June 1 William Menzies;<sup>4</sup> Whicher's Alms-house, Chapel Street, Westminster; died May 26th, aged 96: in the North grass-plat.
 Nov. 1 Caroline Dale, widow;<sup>5</sup> Henrietta Street, Brunswick Square; died Oct. 22nd, aged 74; in the North Cloister.
 Nov. 19 Sarah Newcombe;<sup>6</sup> the Close, Westminster; died the 13th, aged 73: in the North Cloister.
- 1826 Nov. 1 The Right Hon. Jane, Countess Dowager of Normanton;<sup>7</sup> 13 Montague Square, Middlesex; died Oct. 25th, aged 74: in the North Cross.
- 1827 Jan. 8 William Gifford;<sup>8</sup> James Street, Westminster; died Dec. 31st, 1826, aged 71: in the South Cross.

(see his burial 31 Mch. 1808), by Anna his first wife (see her burial 4 Dec. 1789). See his baptism 24 Feb. 1777. He was of the Inner Temple, and a Fellow of the Royal Society, and died unmarried.

<sup>2</sup> Only son of the celebrated Dr. William Buchan (see his burial 6 Mch. 1805). He is said to have been born at Ackworth, co. York, and his mother to have been a daughter of Mr. Peter, of Edinburgh. His will, dated 3 June 1824, with two codicils, was proved 28 Jan. 1825, by his friends, William Tassie, of Leicester Square, and Thomas Mapleson, of John Street, Golden Square, power being reserved for four others. He bequeathed £70 per annum for the maintenance and education of his only child, Helen-Anna Buchan, during her minority, and the residue of his estate to his wife and sister, except £100, which he gave to his cousin Alexander-Peter Buchan. In an affidavit he was described as late of Percy Street, St. Marylebone, Midx., Doctor of Medicine. See a burial 3 Sep. 1819, although there is no evidence that he was related to the person then buried.

<sup>5</sup> The Funeral Book says that she was buried in the same grave with her father, William Rawle, Esq. (see his burial 15 Nov. 1789). She appears to have been his eldest daughter, and he described her in his will, dated 6 Nov. 1789, as wife of Joseph Dale, of Oxford Street, music-master, who was one of his executors.

<sup>7</sup> Daughter of William Benson, of co. Down, Ireland, Esq., said to have been a merchant in Dublin, and relict of the Most Rev. Charles Agar, Archbishop of Dublin, first Earl of Normanton (see his burial 21 July 1809), to whom married 22 Nov. 1776.

<sup>8</sup> The celebrated critic and editor of the Quarterly Review. Son of Edward Gifford, of Ashburton, co. Devon, where he was born in Apl. 1756. The Funeral Book says that he died in his seventy-first year, and was buried in "Poets' Corner." From almost the lowest rank in the social scale, he raised himself to a position of influence and wealth. He matriculated at Oxford, from Exeter College, 16 Feb. 1779, and was B.A. 10 Oct. 1782, but never proceeded to the higher degree of M.A. Besides his literary engagements, he was one of the comptrollers of the lotteries, and paymaster of the Band of Gentlemen Pensioners. He died unmarried. His will, dated 3 Aug. 1823, with codicils 10 Mch. 1825 and 28 Nov. 1826, was proved 7 Feb. 1827, by his friend the Very Rev. John Ireland, Dean of Westminster.

<sup>1</sup> Child of Edward Oxley, one of the College porters, by Mary his wife (see her burial 31 Jan. 1842). The Funeral Book gives his age as one year and seven months. He was born the 5th, and baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 30 Oct. 1825.

<sup>2</sup> The celebrated statesman. Only surviving son of George Canning, of the Middle Temple, Esq., barrister-at-law, by Mary-Anne, dau. of Jordan Costello, of Connaught, Ireland, and born 11 Apl. 1770. He was Prime Minister at his death. His will, dated 20 Sep. 1809, was proved 21 Aug. 1827. He simply bequeathed all his personalty to his wife, desiring her to secure to his mother an annuity of £300 for her life. See the burials, of his wife 23 Mch. 1837, and of his sons 3 Dec. 1828 and 21 June 1862.

<sup>3</sup> Third son of Rev. William Goodenough, Prebendary of Brecon, Rector of Broughton-Pogis, co. Oxford, and sometime Rector of Kimpton, Hants. He was born at Kimpton, and matriculated at Oxford, from Christ Church (elected from St. Peter's College, Westminster), 9 June 1760, aged seventeen, and was B.A. 9 May, 1764, M.A. 25 June 1767, and D.C.L. 11 July 1772. He was at various periods Rector of Broughton-Pogis, and Vicar of Brize-Norton and of Cropredy, all in co. Oxford, and Rector of Boxley, co. Kent. He had a school at Ealing, Midx., from 1772 to 1798. He became a Canon of Windsor 3 Feb. 1798, and Dean of Rochester 27 Aug. 1802, and was consecrated Bishop of Carlisle 13 Feb. 1808. He married, 17 Apl. 1770, Elizabeth, daughter of Dr. James Ford, of St. George's, Hanover Square, Midx., an eminent physician, whom he survived only about eleven weeks. See the baptisms of his grandchildren, 27 Feb. 1822, 3 July 1823, 5 Mch. 1825, 7 June 1826, 27 Nov. 1827, 17 Dec. 1829, and 5 Feb. 1831, and the burials of two of them, 29 Apl. 1828 and 24 Apl. 1838.

<sup>4</sup> The Funeral Book calls him "Beadle of the Collegiate Church of St. Peter," etc. He was appointed College beadle 29 July 1794, in the place of his father (see his burial 24 Mch. 1796), and was also one of the bell-ringers. See his mother's burial 4 Nov. 1788, and probably that of his wife 11 Jan. 1799.

<sup>5</sup> Youngest and fifth surviving son of the Right Rev. Edward Willes, Bishop of Bath and Wells (see his burial 1 Dec. 1773), by Jane his wife (see her burial 18 Oct. 1771), and born 30 May 1735. He was sometime an Under-Secretary of State, and was knighted 11 Aug. 1784. He left no issue. See his wife's burial 4 Jan. 1814.

<sup>6</sup> He was mentioned in the Chapter Book, 3 Mch. 1817, as then junior minor canon. He appears to have matriculated at Oxford, from Worcester College, 12 Oct. 1790, aged eighteen, as son of John Shelton, of the parish of St. Helen, in the city of Worcester, Gent., and was B.A. 13 Feb. 1795. According to the inscription on the monument of his mother, Mrs. Mary Shelton in St. Helen's Church, his father was one of the proctors of the diocese of Worcester. She died in 1787, aged sixty-one.

<sup>3</sup> Son of Augustus Henry, third Duke of Grafton, by Elizabeth his second wife, daughter of the Very Rev. Sir Richard Wrottesley, seventh Bart., Dean of Worcester. He was born, according to his monument, 19 Apl. 1770, and was installed Prebendary of Westminster 1 Jan. 1807. He married, 10 Sept. 1800, his cousin Caroline, youngest daughter of Vice-Admiral Hugh Pigot, by whom he left issue, and who survived him until 1 Jan. 1835.

<sup>7</sup> Second son of the Right Hon. George Canning (see his burial 16 Aug. 1827), by Joan his wife (see her burial 23 Mch. 1837). He was born 16 Dec. 1802, and was drowned while bathing at Madeira, being then Commander of H.M.'s ship "Alligator." He died unmarried, and his mother administered to his estate 5 Mch. 1829. See his brother's burial 21 June 1862.

<sup>8</sup> The well-known musical composer and special favourite of King George IV. The Funeral Book calls him "late Master of H.M.'s Band of Musicians." He is said to have been the son of a singing-master at Smalwell, co. Durham, and to have been apprenticed to a boat-builder at North Shields, but adopted the profession of music at the end of his service. He was some time connected with Covent Garden Theatre, for which most of his productions were composed. His will, as of No. 31 Berners Street, St. Marylebone, Midx., dated 29 June 1826, was proved 16 Mch. 1829, by Ann Stokes alias Shield, spinster, to whom he left all his estate, and whom he described as his "beloved partner Ann, Mrs. Shield upwards of forty years, whose maiden name was Ann Stokes, being the daughter of James and Mary Stokes, late of the parish of Marylebone, but now deceased." He left nothing to his relations, but commended them to the beneficence of his "beloved Anne, Mrs. Shield." His favourite instrument, "supposed to be a Stainer tenor," he bequeathed to the King, who had admired it.

<sup>3</sup> Charles Abbot, second and youngest son of Rev. Dr. John Abbot, Rector of All Saints, Colchester, Essex, by Sarah his wife (see her burial, as Sarah Bentham, 3 Oct. 1809, and note thereto), and born 14 Oct. 1757. He was created Baron Colchester 3 June 1817, having been Speaker of the House of Commons since 1802. He married, 29 Dec. 1796, Elizabeth, eldest daughter of Sir Philip Gibbs, of Spring Head, in the island of Barbados, Bart., who survived him until 10 June 1847, and by whom he left two sons. See the burial of his brother's wife 28 Mch. 1794.

<sup>4</sup> Relict of Robert Halhed, Esq. (see his burial 19 Feb. 1778). Her will, as of Abingdon Street, dated 22 Aug. 1829, was proved 24 Oct. following, by Robert-William Halhed, of the Priory, near Reading, co. Berks, Esq., and his brother, John Halhed, of Yateley, co. Hants, Esq. An affidavit attached states that she died at Tunbridge Wells. She directed to be buried in the grave of her husband and her child Robert-Spencer Halhed (see his burial 5 Apl. 1778). She named no relations, but either she or her husband appears to have been connected in some way with the family of Mrs. Ann White (see her burial 30 Apl. 1832), to whom and to her daughters she left considerable legacies.

<sup>7</sup> The celebrated geographer and antiquary. The Funeral Book, quoting his coffin-plate, describes him as "F.S.A. of London and Edinburgh, Member of the Imperial Academy of St. Petersburg, F.R.S. of Gottingen, late Major of Engineers and Surveyor-General of Bengal." He is said to have been the son of James Rennell, brother of the Rev. Dr. Thomas Rennell, Rector of Drewsteignott, co. Devon, and to have been born at Chudleigh, in that county. For a memoir of him, and an account of his literary and scientific works, see the Gentleman's Magazine for June 1830, p. 561. He married, in India, Jane, third daughter and ninth child of Rev. Dr. Thomas Thackeray, Head-Master of Harrow School, who died at Brighton 2 Jan. 1816. His only daughter, Jane, wife of John-Tremayne Rodd, Esq. (afterwards Vice-Admiral and K.C.B.), administered to his estate 9 June 1830, when he was described as formerly a Major in the H.E.I. Co.'s service, and his personalty was sworn under £70,000.

<sup>1</sup> Relict of William Sayer, Esq. (see his burial 2 May 1811), and born, according to her monument, 12 Aug. 1744. Her will, dated 8 Jan. 1830, was proved 24 Apl. following, by her daughter Mary, wife of William Bent, of Great Queen Street, Westminster, Esq., to whom, and to her other daughter, Sarah, wife of Walter Barrett, of Brighton, Esq., she left the most of her estate. Her only other relations named were her nephews William Drake and John Drake, and her niece Mary Tutteitt.

<sup>2</sup> Second son of Sir Gilbert Elliot, third (Nova Scotia) Bart., by Agnes, dau. and heir of Hugh Dalrymple, Esq., who assumed the name of Murray-Kynynmound, and born 6 Apl. 1752. He was for many years engaged in the diplomatic service abroad, and was subsequently Governor of the Leeward Islands, and finally of Madras. A memoir of him, by his grand daughter, the Countess of Minto, was published in 1868. He married, while abroad, in 1780 Charlotte von Krauth, daughter, by a former husband, of the Countess of Verelst, from whom he was afterwards divorced. His second wife, whose name and history have not been preserved or, at all events, not revealed, died at Madras, in 1820, leaving six sons and three daughters. See his brother's burial 29 June 1814.

<sup>3</sup> Son of Amos Vials, of St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., who was described in his marriage allegation as a coach-harness maker, by Mary-Ann, daughter of Charles Marsh, and sister of Charles Marsh, Esq. (see his burial 28 Jan. 1812). He was admitted into St. Peter's College Westminster, in 1784, aged 14, and was elected to Trinity College, Cambridge, in 1788, where A.B. 1792 and A.M. 1795. His monument described him as of Twickenham, Midx., many years Vicar of Boldre, in the New Forest, and stated that he died in his sixty-second year, which is more in accordance with his age when he entered Westminster School. The Funeral Book says that he died at No. 1 Elm Tree Road, St. John's Wood, St. Marylebone, Midx., while on a visit, and was buried, from his late residence at Twickenham, in the grave of his uncle Mr. Marsh. He married, at Twickenham, 1 July 1813, Louisa, dau. of Samuel Marshall, Esq., Serjeant-at-Law, and sister of Sir Charles Marshall, Kt., formerly Chief Justice of Ceylon, who survives him, and by whom he left issue.

<sup>4</sup> Son of Anthony Greateorex, of Riber Hall, Matlock, co. Derby, and born at North Wingfield, in that county. He was a pupil of Dr. Cooke, and was sometime organist of Carlisle Cathedral. He was also an eminent mathematician and astronomer, and a Fellow of the Royal and Linnæan Societies. His will, dated 12 Aug. 1830, was proved 30 July 1831, by his friend Charles Knyvett, Esq., and by his son William-Anthony Greateorex. His other relations named were his wife Elizabeth, his sons Thomas, James, Henry-Wellington, Arthur, and Edward, and his daughter Annie-Martha.

<sup>5</sup> He was described on his monument as "Esquire, late Exon of H.M.'s Yeomen of the Body Guard," and the Funeral Book says that he died at Brighton, and was buried in the same grave with his relations, Mrs. Broughton (see her burial 18 Dec. 1784), and Mr. Broughton (see his burial 21 Jan. 1789). His will, as a citizen and tallow-chandler of London, dated 10 Apl. 1828, then residing at Knightsbridge, Midx., with a codicil 3 Oct. 1831, was proved 8 Nov. 1831. He bequeathed all his estate, subject to a few pensions, to his wife Catharine (see her burial 28 Aug. 1832), for her life, with remainder to the Company of Tallow-chandlers of London. He evidently left no issue.

<sup>1</sup> The Funeral Book says: "Widow of Mr. Edward Blackstock, and buried in the same grave" (see his burial 21 July 1799). According to her husband's will, her maiden name was Willis.

<sup>2</sup> The celebrated author of the Madras system of Education. According to his monument, he was born at St. Andrew's, in Scotland, 27 Mch. 1753. He was educated at the University in that city, and spent some years as a chaplain at Fort St. George and Madras, in the service of the East India Company. After returning to England he became Rector of Swanage, co. Dorset, and Master of Sherborne Hospital, and was installed Prebendary of Westminster 24 Apl. 1819. The Funeral Book describes him as "D.D., LL.D., F.A.S., F.R.S., etc.," and says that he died at Cheltenham, and was buried from No. 18 Berkeley Square, Midx. His will, as D.D. and LL.D., of Egmore, in the parish of Crossmichael and stewartry of Kirkcudbright, Prebendary of Westminster, dated 13 Aug. 1831, with a codicil 10 Jan. 1832, was proved 19 May 1832. He left legacies to numerous assistants, pupils, servants, etc., but the most of his estate to trustees for the purpose of furthering the introduction of his system of education, and for various charities. The sum so bequeathed, according to the journals of the day, amounted to £120,000. The only relation he named was a sister, who, he said, was amply provided for. To Robert Southey, LL.D., of Keswick, he bequeathed £1000, and a similar sum to William Wordsworth, of Rydal Mount, Esq., but revoked the latter bequest in the codicil, and gave his wife Dorothy and daughter Dorothy each £100, and the same sum to his god-daughter, the daughter of said Robert Southey.

<sup>3</sup> The Funeral Book says that he died at Evesham, aged eighty years, one month, and fifteen days, and was buried from No. 26 Newman Street, Oxford Street. He was an eminent musical composer, and is said to have been born at Rome, and to have been brought from Italy to England, at an early age, by the celebrated Peter Beckford, Esq. He was at least twice married, as he had a license from the Faculty Office, 3 July 1811, being then a widower, to marry Emma Gisborne, of St. Giles in the Fields, Midx., spinster. His will, as late of Lincroft House, near Lichfield, co. Stafford, but then of Evesham, co. Worcester, Esq., dated 2 Jan. 1832, was proved 24 Apl. following. He bequeathed £400 among the children of his late brother Gaetano and of his sister Regia Clementi Maltesi, and the residue of his estate, as well as £1000 for immediate use, to his wife Emma.

pugilist, John Broughton (see his burial 21 Jan. 1789). Her second cousin and only next of kin, Thomas Roberts, administered to her estate 30 Mch. 1833. when she was described as of Queen's Row, Brompton, Midx., and her personalty sworn under £1500.

<sup>1</sup> Third son and eighth child of Rev. Dr. William Page, Head-Master of Westminster School, etc., by Mary his wife (see the note to the baptism of their eldest child 5 July 1804). See his baptism 10 Feb. 1814. He was admitted into St. Peter's College, Westminster, in 1828. The Funeral Book says that he died in his twentieth year.

<sup>2</sup> The Funeral Book says: "Esquire, late Surveyor-General of the Duchy of Cornwall." His informal will, dated Dec. 1832, was proved 4 July 1833, by his relict Margaret, power being reserved for his nephew William-Brent Brent, Esq., to prove the will thereafter, and the Rev. James Bligh and Richard Bligh, Esq., his cousins-german and only next of kin, having consented thereto. See his wife's burial 20 June 1835.

<sup>3</sup> Second son of the Very Rev. James Webber, Dean of Ripon, by Caroline-Frances his wife (see the note to the baptism of their eldest son 1 Jan. 1815). He was born 15 Aug. 1816, and baptized the next day at St. Margaret's, Westminster. He was admitted into Westminster School in 1828, and into St. Peter's College, Westminster, in 1831. and was drowned while boating on the Thames during a violent storm.

<sup>4</sup> The celebrated philanthropist. Only son of Robert Wilberforce, of Kingston-upon-Hull, co. York, by Elizabeth, dau. of Thomas Bird, of Barton, co. Oxford, Esq., and born at Hull 24 Aug. 1759. He first entered Parliament in 1780, as member for his native town, and subsequently represented the county of York. He married, 30 May, 1797, Barbara, eldest daughter of Isaac Spooner, of Elmdon Hall, co. Warwick, Esq., who survived him until 1846, and the third of their four sons was the late Samuel, for a short period Dean of Westminster, and afterwards Bishop successively of Oxford and Winchester. The Funeral Book says that he died at the house of Mrs. Lucy Smith, No. 44 Cadogan Place. See the baptism of his great-grandson 23 Apl. 1868.

<sup>5</sup> The Funeral Book says that he was buried from his son's residence: see his burial 8 Mch. 1837, and probably that of another son 29 Mch. 1798.

- 1834 Sept. 10 Thomas Telford;<sup>1</sup> 24 Abington Street, Westminster; died the 2nd, aged 77: in the Nave.

- March 21 George Elrick, the College Gardener;<sup>7</sup> Whicher's Alms-house; died the 15th, aged 75: in the North grass-plat.

<sup>1</sup> The celebrated civil engineer. Son and only child of John Telford, a shepherd at Glendinning, near Westerkirk, in Eskdale, co. Dumfries, Scotland, by Janet Jackson his wife, and born there 9 Aug. 1757. From this humble origin, of which he was never ashamed (having himself cut upon his father's gravestone the descriptive words "an unblameable shepherd"), he eventually advanced himself to the very front rank in his profession, and acquired the universal respect of the nation. His latest biographer appropriately describes him as "the good, great engineer." He died unmarried, and apparently without relations, as none are named in his will. Among his bequests were one of £1000 to the minister of Westerkirk in trust for the use of the parish library; and two, of £500 each, to Robert Southey, poet laureate, and Thomas Campbell, the poet.

<sup>2</sup> Daughter of John Shorter, of Witney, co. Oxford, Esq., and wife of the Rev. Dr. William-Whitfield Dakins, Precentor of the Abbey (see his burial 21 Jan. 1850), to whom married, at Witney, 24 Nov. 1792. See the baptisms of her children, 1799, 1801, and 1802, and her son's burial Jan. 1800.

<sup>3</sup> Relict of Timothy Brent, Esq., Surveyor-General of the Duchy of Cornwall (see his burial 6 Mch. 1833). Letters of administration to her estate, as of Saville Row, St. James, Westminster, were granted, 1 July 1835, to William-Brent Brent, Esq., described as her nephew and one of her next of kin, when her personalty was sworn under £9000.

<sup>4</sup> According to the Chapter Book, he was appointed, 14 Sep. 1802, porter of the Great Cloister, bell-ringer, keeper of the College water, chamberlain, sealer, and messenger, and, 27 Feb. 1816, College butler. The Funeral Book says that he was buried in the grave of his late wife (see her burial 9 Apl. 1814). His son and only child, John-Wood Wilkes, administered to his estate 18 Dec. 1835, when his personalty was sworn under £300.

<sup>5</sup> John Pitt, eldest son of the celebrated William, first Earl of Chatham (see his burial 9 June 1778), by Hester his wife (see her burial 16 Apl. 1803). He was born 10 Sep. 1756, succeeded as second Earl, and died without issue, when the title became extinct. See his wife's burial 30 May 1821.

<sup>6</sup> Daughter of Aaron Clayton, Esq., by Margaret his wife (see her burial 11 Feb. 1807). She married, first, John Borrett (see his burial 1 Sep. 1802), and, secondly, James Robertson, Esq. (see his burial 8 Jan. 1812), to whom she was second wife. Her will, dated 23 Apl. 1833, was proved 30 Jan. 1836, but names no relations of her own. She bequeathed her household furniture to Colonel James-Thomas Robertson, son of her late husband.

<sup>7</sup> He was appointed College gardner, as George Elrick, 21 June 1797. The Funeral Book, however, gives his name as "Eldrick."

- 1836 Oct. 27 Daniel Beakley;<sup>1</sup> from the house by the side of the gateway leading into Dean's Yard; died the 20th, aged 73: in the North grass-plat.

- July 25 Thomas Waters;<sup>8</sup> Lady Dacre's Alms-house, Westminster; died the 21st, aged 14 days: in the South Cloister.

<sup>1</sup> The Funeral Book says that he was "night watchman in Dean's Yard," and that he was buried in the grave of his late wife (see her burial 9 May 1834).

<sup>2</sup> The Funeral Book says that he was buried in the grave of his father, Mr. Joseph Clarke (see his burial 5 Dec. 1833). His child, George-Henry, was baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 28 Dec. 1827, as son of Joseph Clarke, tomb-shower in Westminster Abbey, and Sarah his wife. See the burial, probably of another of his sons, 29 Jan. 1816.

<sup>3</sup> Youngest daughter and coheir of Major-General John Scott, of Balconie, co. Fife, by Margaret, youngest daughter of Robert Dundas, of Arniston, Lord-President of the Court of Session, and relict of the Right Hon. George Canning (see his burial 16 Aug. 1827), to whom married 8 July 1800. She was created Viscountess Canning 22 Jan. 1828. See the burials of her sons, 3 Dec. 1828 and 21 June 1862.

<sup>4</sup> Son of Richard Hare, Esq., by Catherine, daughter of Samuel Maylor, Esq., and born Sept. 1751. He was created Baron Ennismore 30 July 1800, Viscount Ennismore and Listowel 22 Jan. 1816, and Earl of Listowel 12 Jan. 1822. See the burial of his first wife 11 Aug. 1810. He married, secondly, 5 Mch. 1812, Anne, second daughter of John Latham, of Meldrum, co. Tipperary, Esq., who survived him until 2 Oct. 1859. He was succeeded in his titles by his grandson.

<sup>5</sup> Son of the Very Rev. Dr. Edmund Goodenough, Dean of Wells, by Frances his wife (see the note to the baptism of their daughter 27 Feb. 1822). The Funeral Book says that he was buried in the grave of his grandfather (see his burial 18 Aug. 1827). See his baptism 17 Dec. 1829.

<sup>6</sup> Son of Anthony Gell, Esq., Receiver-General of the Abbey (see his burial 4 Feb. 1817), by Frances his wife (see her burial 7 Feb. 1825). He was born 30 July, and baptized at St. John the Evangelist, Westminster, 23 Aug. 1781. According to the Chapter Book, he was appointed Auditor 5 May 1801, succeeding his brother John-Henry Gell (see his burial 16 Oct. 1856). His will, dated 15 Jan. 1833, was proved 21 Aug. 1838, by his relict Jane, to whom he bequeathed his entire estate.

<sup>8</sup> The Funeral Book says that he was buried "from his father's residence in Lady Dacre's almshouse."

- 1838 Aug. 15 Harriett Bental; <sup>1</sup> Little Dean's Yard; died the 7th, aged 30 : in the North Cloister.
- 1839 Feb. 4 Augusta-Frances, daughter of the Rev<sup>d</sup> Henry-Hart Milman, Prebendary of this Church; <sup>2</sup> Little Dean's Yard; died Jan. 29th, aged 9 years: in the North aisle, within the gates.

<sup>1</sup> Wife of Rev. John Benthall, of Trinity College, Cambridge, M.A. 1831, one of the assistant masters of Westminster School from 1829 to 1846, and Vicar of Willen, co. Bucks, since 1852, to whom married, at Berry Pomeroy, co. Devon, 27 May 1835. She was the youngest child of Joseph Everett, of the city of Salisbury, Esq., and was born 27 Mch. 1806. Her age, therefore, was thirty-two, as was correctly stated on her monument. See her son's burial 26 Nov. 1846.

<sup>2</sup> Daughter of the late venerable Dean of St. Paul's (see the note to the baptism of her brother 26 June 1845). The Funeral Book says that she was born 23 Mch. 1830. See the burials, of her sister 23 June 1842, and of her brother 22 Feb. 1849.

<sup>3</sup> The Funeral Book says that he had been a carpenter to the Abbey about seventeen years.

<sup>4</sup> The Funeral Book says that she was buried under the same gravestone with her mother, Mrs. Ann White (see her burial 30 Apl. 1832). Her will, as of Camden Street, St. Pancras, Midx., spinster, dated 5 Sep. 1838, was proved 25 Jan. 1840, by her sister Caroline-Anna White, spinster, residuary legatee. Her only other bequests were £100 each to her brothers, Charles-Barrett White and William-Frederic White. See her brother's burial 24 Dec. 1807.

<sup>5</sup> Son of Dr. Benjamin Cooke, organist of the Abbey (see his burial 21 Sep. 1793), by Mary his wife (see her burial 26 Mch. 1784). He was for many years connected with the General Post Office. He died unmarried, and his sister Amelia (see her burial 22 May 1845) administered to his estate 19 Nov. 1840, when his personalty was sworn under £6000.

<sup>6</sup> Daughter of John Newcombe, of London, linen-draper, by Elizabeth, sister of the Very Rev. William Vincent, Dean of Westminster (see his burial 29 Dec. 1815, and note thereto for her parentage). She was born, according to the Funeral Book, 20 Jan. 1754, and died unmarried. In her will, proved 23 Jan. 1841, she bequeathed her "coat of arms," and her bequests, which were considerable, were chiefly to the Vincent family. See her sister's burial 19 Nov. 1825.

<sup>7</sup> Son of Rev. George Preston, and younger brother of Isaac Preston, who assumed the name of Jermy, and was with his son brutally murdered at Stanfield Hall, co. Norfolk, in 1848. He was admitted into St. Peter's College, Westminster, in 1805, aged fourteen, and elected to Trinity College, Cambridge, in 1809, where A.B. 1813, and A.M. 1821. He was for a short time curate of Shotley and Harkstead, co. Suffolk, but became an usher of Westminster School in Oct. 1818, and second-master in June 1826. He was appointed Chaplain to the Foundling Hospital in 1820, and Vicar of Christ Church, London, in 1829. See his son's baptism 2 Feb. 1826. The baptisms of five other children occur in the parish register of St. John the Evangelist, Westminster, between 1832 and 1838. See also the burial of his daughter 23 Feb. 1830. The Funeral Book says that he died at his country residence at West Heath, and adds: "the age on the coffin-plate is 52 years." This does not accord with the Register, nor with the records of Westminster School, while his monument states that he died in his fifty-second year. His will, dated 31 July 1838, with a codicil 19 Oct. 1839, was proved 29 Sep. 1841. He left all his estates to his wife Emma, and their children, with remainder to the children of his sister Jane, wife of Charles-Edward West.

<sup>1</sup> Daughter of John Fidler, of Islip, co. Oxford, gardener, by Mary his wife, and wife of Edward Oxley, who was appointed an Abbey porter 27 Feb. 1816, and afterwards College butler to whom she was married, at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 13 Apl. 1813. See the burials of his children, 16 May 1816 and 14 May 1827.

<sup>2</sup> Daughter of the late venerable Dean of St. Paul's (see the note to the baptism of his brother 26 June 1845). The Funeral Book says that she was born 17 July 1827. See the burials of her sister 4 Feb. 1839, and of her brother 22 Feb. 1849.

<sup>3</sup> He matriculated at Oxford, from Oriel College, 8 Dec. 1779, aged eighteen, as son of Thomas Ireland, of Ashburton, co. Devon, paying the fees of a plebeian's son, and was B. 30 June 1783, but did not take his degree of M.A. until 13 June 1810, proceeding to those of B.D. and D.D. 24 Oct. following. He was born at Ashburton 8 Sep. 1761, became Vicar of Croydon, co. Surrey, 15 July 1793, Prebendary of Westminster 21 Aug. 1802, and was installed Dean of Westminster 9 Feb. 1816. He founded the Scholarship and Professorship at Oxford that bear his name. He married Susanna, daughter of John Short, of Bickham, co. Devon, Esq. whom he survived. He left no issue.

<sup>4</sup> His monument stated that he had been for forty years a member of the choir of the Abbey and of the Chapel Royal, and the Funeral Book says that he "died in the District of Lambeth, Wood, Birmingham, co. Warwick."

<sup>6</sup> Son of the Rev. Sir William-Henry Cope, twelfth Bart. of Hanwell (see the note to the baptism of his daughter 1 May 1849). He was born in July 1839.

<sup>7</sup> The Funeral Book says that he had been a College bricklayer about thirteen years, and died at the Westminster Hospital.

clansman, but not his relation. He was born at Glasgow 27 July 1777, and educated at the University in that city. He married, 10 Sep. 1803, his cousin Matilda Sinclair, of Greenock, who died in Sep. 1828. He resided during the last forty years of his life at Sydenham, in Kent, or in London, his last town residence being at No. 8 Victoria Square, Pimlico. In the summer of 1843 he retired to Boulogne, on account of his health, and remained there until his death. The Funeral Book says that his remains were deposited in the Spiritual Court on the 29th of June, where they remained until their interment. His will, dated 7 Nov. 1842, with a codicil 8 May 1844, was proved 31 July 1844, by his "staunch and inestimable friend" William Beattie, M.D., and William Moxon, of the Middle Temple, Esq., whom he appointed guardians of his only son, Thomas-Telford Campbell, who was already amply provided for. He therefore bequeathed all his estate to his niece Mary Campbell, daughter of his late brother Alexander, including his MSS., copyrights, steel plates, etc., and also, using his precise words, "the silver bowl presented to me by the students of Glasgow when I was rector of that University, and the copy of the portrait of Her Majesty, Queen Victoria, which was sent to me by the Queen herself, and which two articles I reckon the jewels of my property."

<sup>1</sup> The well-known translator of Dante. Eldest son of William Cary, Esq. (son of Rev. Henry Cary, Archdeacon of Killala, and grandson of the Right Rev. Mordecai Cary, Bishop of Killala), by Henrietta, daughter of Rev. Dr. Theophilus Brocas, Dean of Killala. He was born at Gibraltar 6 Dec. 1772, and matriculated at Oxford, from Christ Church, 29 Apl. 1790, where B.A. 14 Jan. 1794, and M.A. 23 Nov. 1796. He married, at Donnybrook, near Dublin, 20 Aug. 1796, Jane, daughter of James Ormsby, of Sandymount, in that parish, Esq., who died 22 Nov. 1832. He occupied for many years an important position at the British Museum. His will, dated 6 Apl. 1835, was proved 26 Aug. 1844, by his sons William-Lucius Cary, Esq., Rev. Charles-Thomas Cary, and Francis-Stephen Cary, to whom, and to his three other sons not named, he bequeathed all his estate equally.

<sup>2</sup> Daughter of Clinton-James Fynes-Clinton, Esq., M.P., by Penelope his wife (see the baptism of another of their daughters 22 June 1827, and note thereto). She was born in Cadogan Place, and baptized at St. Luke's, Chelsea, Midx., in May 1829, then aged about three weeks.

<sup>4</sup> Daughter and last surviving child of Dr. Benjamin Cooke, organist of the Abbey (see his burial 21 Sep. 1793), by Mary his wife (see her burial 26 Mch. 1784). She was born 7 Oct., and baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 1 Dec. 1768, and died unmarried. Her will, dated 22 July 1841, was proved 24 May 1845, by her cousin and residuary legatee, Rev. Thomas-Charles Brown. Her other relations named were her cousin Susanna Brown, of Stamford, co. Lincoln, and the children of her cousin Rev. John Wayet, deceased.

<sup>5</sup> The Funeral Book calls her "Miss Frances Camplin," and her monument stated that she was born at Bristol 25 Mch. 1774.

at Ickenham, in the grave of William-Egerton Gell (see his burial 24 May 1838), but that, at the desire of Mrs. Gell, his remains were removed, 19 May 1847, to the grave of his wife (see his burial 3 Feb. 1823). His monument says that he died in his fifty-third year. His brother Henry Hawkins, Esq., administered to his estate 15 June 1847, when he was described as late of the Albany, Piccadilly, and of Ickenham, Midx., and his personalty sworn under £6000.

<sup>1</sup> He matriculated at Oxford, from Christ Church, 30 May 1782, aged eighteen, as son of Rev. Edward Edwards, of Caerhun, co. Carnarvon, and was B.A. 3 May, 1786, and M.A. 14 Jan. 1789. His first name, as he always signed it, was Howel. He is said to have been born at Penryn, Eglwysfach, co. Denbigh, 6 Nov. 1762, and, according to his will, his grandfather was Jeffrey Holland, of that place. He was sometime librarian and chaplain to the Duke of Marlborough, who presented him, 31 May 1794, to the Rectory of the Second Portion of Waddesdon, co. Bucks, and in 1799 was nominated Rector of Pennant aforesaid, and Vicar of Llanrwst, in the same county. He became a Prebendary of St. Asaph 19 Apr. 1799, and was installed Prebendary Westminster 31 May 1803. From 1806 to 1832, he was Rector of St. John the Evangelist Westminster. His will, dated 13 Sep. 1842, was proved 2 Nov. 1846. He bequeathed the moiety of his estates in co. Denbigh to his nephew, Rev. John Boulger, of Llanrwst, and his issue, with remainder to his niece Margaret-Grace Jones. See his wife's burial 28 Apr. 1834.

<sup>2</sup> He was born 24 Mch., and baptized at St. John the Evangelist, Westminster, 30 Mch. 1836, as son of Rev. John Bentham and Harriett his wife. The Funeral Book gives his age as 1 year and eight months, and says that he was buried, from his father's residence at Feltham, in his mother's grave (see her burial 15 Aug. 1838).

<sup>3</sup> His monument described him as a Gentleman of the Chapel Royal and Vicar Choral of the Collegiate Church of St. Peter, Westminster, and the Funeral Book says that he was buried 19 Jan.

<sup>4</sup> Eldest son and fourth child of Hugh, second Duke of Northumberland (see his burial 19 July 1817), by Frances-Julia his second wife (see her burial 10 May 1820). He was born 20 Apr. 1785, and succeeded as third Duke. He left no issue, and the titles passed to his brother Algernon (see his burial 25 Feb. 1865). See the burials, of his Duchess 3 Aug. 1866, and of his twin-sister 13 June 1856.

<sup>5</sup> Eldest son of George Blount, Esq. (see his burial 9 July 1806), by Esther his wife (see his burial 6 Dec. 1784). He was born 22 Sep., and baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 20 Oct. 1756. His will, dated 22 Aug. 1844, was proved 19 Apr. 1847, by his cousin John-Henry Belli, Esq., and James-Gascoigne Lynde, Esq., the former being his principal legatee. The Funeral Book says that he died in his ninety-first year, and adds: "This was the First Cloister, and the corpse was taken into the Abbey, and the whole of the Funeral Service read over, previous to its interment."

<sup>2</sup> Second daughter of James Tappenden, of Faversham, co. Kent, Esq., by his second wife, his cousin Margaret, daughter of John Tappenden, Esq. She was born 5 Dec. 1785, and married at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 13 Dec. 1817, George-Giles Vincent, Esq., Chapter Clerk and Registrar of the Abbey (see his burial 3 Feb. 1859), to whom she was second wife. See the baptisms of her children, 4 Nov. 1818, 24 Dec. 1819, 26 Nov. 1822, and 20 Oct. 1828.

<sup>3</sup> Daughter of the Rev. Stephen-Jordan Rigand, one of the ushers of Westminster School, by Lucy-Frances-Sarah his wife. She was born 9 Jan., and baptized at St. John the Evangelist, Westminster, 25 Mch. 1848. The Funeral Book gives her age as one year and five days, and says that she was buried in the same grave with her sister Mary-Jane (see her burial 23 Mch. 1848).

<sup>5</sup> Second son of Benjamin Wilson, F.R.S., an eminent portrait-painter in London, who died in 1788, by Jane his wife, and said to have been born in Great Russell Street, Bloomsbury, Midx. He was never knighted in Great Britain, but had the rank of Knight-Bachelor, and the appellation "Sir," from having obtained a royal license to accept the order of Maria-Theresa, previous to the regulation of 1812. He attained the rank of Major-General 4 June 1813, and was removed from the service in Sept. 1821, but was subsequently restored, and became a General 23 Nov. 1841. He was some time Governor of Gibraltar. His will, as "Robert-Thomas Wilson, General in the British army, Colonel of the 15th King's Hussars, and for the time being Governor of Gibraltar, Commander-in-Chief, etc., etc., etc., Knight Grand Cross and Commander of various Orders won in the field of battle, etc., etc., etc.," dated 18 July 1847, with a codicil 17 Aug. following, was proved 24 May 1849, by his brother Edward-Lumley Wilson, Esq., his nephew and son-in-law Rev. Herbert Randolph, Vicar of Abbotsley, co. Huntingdon, and his nephew by marriage, Rev. John-James Saint, Rector of Speldhurst, co. Kent. He mentioned as his surviving children, Bosville-John Wilson (then Lieut. R.N.), Belford-Hinton Wilson (then a Consul-General and afterwards K.C.B.), Jemima-Mary-Gwyn Wilson, Rosabelle-Stanhope (wife of the said Rev. Herbert Randolph), and William-Frederick-Platoo Wilson. An affidavit states that he died at Marshall Thompson's Hotel, in Cavendish Square. See his wife's burial 29 Aug. 1823.

<sup>7</sup> Son of William Dakins, of Romsey, Hants, Gent., by Sarah his wife, and born at Romsey 4 Feb. 1767. He matriculated at Oxford, from Alban Hall, 21 Nov. 1789, but appears to have taken no degrees there. He subsequently became Precentor of Westminster, and had the degrees of D.D. and LL.D. from Lambeth and Glasgow. He died at Dover, where he had been residing for some time on account of his health. His will, dated at Dover 9 Feb. 1849, was proved 21 Feb. 1850, by his son-in-law Louis-Henry Desanges, Esq. See the baptisms of his children, 1799, 1801, and 1802, and the burials, of his wife 11 Dec. 1834, and of his son, Jan. 1800.

<sup>4</sup> The following occurs in the Funeral Book only : "The supposed remains of William Lyndwoode, Keeper of the Privy Seal to Henry 6th, and Bishop of St. David's from 1442 to the time of his decease on the 22nd of October 1446, aged between 70 and 80 years, disinterred on the 16th of January 1852, in a roughly formed cavity cut from the inside into the foundation wall of the under chapel or crypt of St. Stephen at Westminster, beneath the stone seat in the easternmost window on the North side of the crypt, and within about 8 inches below the level of the original floor, removed from St. Stephen Chapel and buried in the North Cloister of Westminster Abbey, under a black marble ledger, close to the North wall, 16 feet from the bottom step of the east entrance door to the centre of the coffin, on Saturday morning, the 6th of March 1852." It has been thought best to preserve in this place the foregoing (at least) semi-official account of the final disposition of the remains of Bishop Lyndwood (or Linwood). Further particulars may be found in the Report of the Committee of the Society of Antiquaries, Archæol. xxxiv., pp. 406-430.

<sup>6</sup> Lady Agnes Percy, daughter of Hugh, second Duke of Northumberland (see his burial 19 July 1817), by Frances-Julia his second wife (see her burial 10 May 1820), and wife of Major-General Frederick-Thomas Buller, to whom married 16 Aug. 1821, and who survived her until 5 June 1860. She was born 20 Apl. 1785, twin with her brother Hugh, third Duke of Northumberland (see his burial 23 Feb. 1847). She left no issue.

<sup>7</sup> Son of Charles Monk, an officer of the 40th regiment, by a daughter of Rev. Joshua Waddington, Vicar of Harworth, Notts, and nephew of Sir James Monk, Chief-Justice of Montreal. He is said to have been born at Buntingford, Herts. He was of Trinity College, Cambridge, A.B. 1804, A.M. 1807, S.T.B. 1818, and S.T.P., by royal command, 1822. He became a Fellow of his College, and was Regius Professor of Greek from 1808 until 1822. He was admitted Dean of

- Oct. 21 Robert Stephenson, M.P.; <sup>4</sup> 34 Gloucester Square, Hyde Park; aged 56.

Peterborough 7 Mch. 1822, and appointed a Canon of Westminster 19 June 1830. He was consecrated Bishop of Gloucester 11 July 1830, and became the first Bishop of the united dioceses of Gloucester and Bristol, under the order in Council dated 5 Oct. 1836. He died at the Bishop's palace, Stapleton, near Bristol. His will, dated 22 July 1853, was proved 7 Aug. 1856, by his relict Jane-Smart Monk (only daughter of Rev. H. Hughes, Rector of Hardwick, co. Northampton), and two friends. His children named, for whom he made ample provision, were his daughters, Jane-Emily, Mary, and Penelope-Anna, and his son Charles-James Monk, who, at the date of the will, was about to marry Miss Julia Ralli.

<sup>2</sup> Son of the Very Rev. William Vincent, Dean of Westminster (see his burial 29 Dec. 1815) by Hannah his wife (see her burial 23 Feb. 1807). See his baptism 12 May 1774. He was appointed Chapter Clerk and Registrar of the Abbey 4 Nov. 1803. For his first wife, see the note to the baptism of his daughter 17 Oct. 1804. See the burial of his second wife 12 Sep. 1848, the baptisms of his other children, 11 Apl. 1806, 25 June 1807, 4 Nov. 1818, 24 Dec. 1819, 26 Nov. 1822, and 20 Oct. 1828, and the burial of his son 30 Oct. 1806. The Funeral Book says that he died 28 Jan., and was buried in the North Cloister, in his wife's grave.

<sup>3</sup> The celebrated surgeon. The Funeral Book only contains the following entry: "John Hunter, Esq., died the 16th of October 1793, aged 64 years. These remains were removed from the Church of St. Martin's in the Fields, by the Royal College of Surgeons of England, on Saturday, March 26th, 1859, was re-interred on Monday afternoon, on the North aisle, South side of Sir Robert Wilson, in West' Abbey." It seemed important to preserve this entry here, in spite of its grammatical construction, as being the only official record of the final disposition of the remains of this eminent man. He was buried at St. Martin in the Fields 22 Oct. 1793. He was the youngest of ten children of John Hunter, of Long Calderwood, in the parish of Kilbride, Lanarkshire, where he was born, according to the parish register, 13 Feb. 1728-9. He first came to London in 1748, as assistant to his elder brother, Dr. William Hunter, and rose rapidly in his profession. In 1776 he was appointed surgeon extraordinary to the King, and in 1789 inspector-general of hospitals, and surgeon-general to the army. He died suddenly, in the board-room of St. George's Hospital. He married, in 1771, Ann, daughter of Robert Home, Esq., surgeon in the army, a poetess of some note, who survived him until 7 Jan. 1821. His will, as of Leicester Square, Midx., Esq., Surgeon, and Inspector-General of H.M.'s Forces, dated 11 July 1793, was proved 2 Nov. following, by his relict Ann, his nephew the celebrated Dr. Matthew Baillie, and his brother-in-law Everard Home, surgeon. He left surviving an only son, John, and an only daughter, Agnes-Margaret, who subsequently married Lieut.-General Sir James Campbell, Bart. (see his burial 12 June 1819, and note thereto.)

<sup>4</sup> The celebrated engineer. The Funeral Book describes him as "Civil Engineer, D.C.L. and F.R.S.," and says that he died at his residence in Gloucester Square, 12 Oct., and was buried in the nave, between Thomas Telford, Esq. and Rev. Dr. Andrew Bell. He was the son and only child of George Stephenson, equally well known as the founder of the system of English railway engineering.

<sup>1</sup> The celebrated historian. etc. Eldest son of Zachary Macaulay, Esq. (son of Rev. John Macaulay, minister of Inverary, in Scotland), a Sierra Leone merchant, by Selina Mills, a Quaker lady, of Bristol. He was born at Rothley-Temple, co. Leicester, 25 Oct. 1800. After filling many important public offices at home and abroad, he was created, 10 Sep. 1857, Baron Macaulay, of Rothley. He died unmarried, 28 Dec. 1859, and the title became extinct. The Funeral Book says that he was buried in the South Cross (Poets' Corner).

<sup>2</sup> The eminent architect. Fourth son of Walter-Edward Barry, a stationer in Bridge Street, Westminster, who died in 1805, by Frances his wife, who died in 1798. He was born 23 May, and baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 17 June 1795. He was R.A., F.R.S., etc., and was knighted in 1852, in consideration of his services as architect of the new Houses of Parliament. He died, according to the Funeral Book, 12 May, and was buried in the Nave. A second edition of his Life and Works, by his distinguished son, the Rev. Dr. Alfred Barry, Principal of King's College, London, was published in 1870.

<sup>3</sup> Thomas Cochrane, eldest son of Archibald, ninth Earl of Dundonald, by his first wife, Anne, second daughter of Capt. James Gilechrist, R.N. He was born 14 Dec. 1775, and succeeded as tenth Earl 1 July 1831. He was a Rear-Admiral of the United Kingdom. He married, 8 Aug. 1812, Katherine-Frances-Corbet, dau. of Thomas Barnes, of Romford, co. Essex, Esq., who survived him, and died at Boulogne, in France, 25 Jan. 1865. The Funeral Book says that he died 31 Oct., and was buried in the centre of the Nave.

<sup>4</sup> Daughter and youngest child of Henry-Sampson Woodfall, the celebrated printer of "Junius," by Elizabeth his wife. She was born the 8th, and baptized at St. Faith's, London, 29 Oct. 1768. According to her monument she died 12 Feb., having resided many years in Dean's Yard. Her will, as of No. 14 Dean's Yard, spinster, dated 17 June 1854, with a codicil 27 July 1857, was proved 27 Feb. 1862, by her nephew Henry-Dick Woodfall, Esq., residuary legatee, who died at Nice 13 Apl. 1869, being the last surviving son of her only brother, George Woodfall. See the burial of another of her nephews 16 May 1822. The Funeral Book says that she was buried in the West Cloister.

<sup>5</sup> Third, youngest, and only surviving son of the Right Hon. George Canning (see his burial 16 Aug. 1827), by Joan his wife (see her burial 23 Meh. 1837), and born 14 Dec. 1812. On his mother's death, 15 Meh. 1837, he succeeded as Viscount Canning, was appointed Governor-General of India 4 July 1855, and was created Earl Canning 21 May 1859. He married, 5 Sep. 1835, the Hon. Charlotte Stuart, eldest daughter and coheir of Charles, Lord Stuart de Rothesay, who died 18 Nov. 1861. He died 17 June, leaving no issue, and the title became extinct. See his brother's burial 3 Dec. 1828.

<sup>6</sup> Second son of Benjamin Ontram, of Butterley Hall, co. Derby, Esq., an eminent civil engineer, by Margaret, daughter of James Anderson, of Mounie, co. Aberdeen, and of the city of Edinburgh. He was born at Butterley Hall 29 Jan. 1803, and went to India as a cadet in 1819, where he attained the rank of Lieut.-General. He was appointed a Knight Grand Cross of the Military Division of the Order of the Bath 29 July 1857, and created a Baronet 10 Nov. 1858. He married, 18 Dec. 1835, his cousin Margaret-Clementina, daughter of James Anderson, of Bridgeend, Brechin, co. Forfar, Esq., by whom he had an only son, Francis-Boyd, who succeeded to the title. He died at Pau, in France, 11 Feb., according to the Funeral Book, and was buried in the Nave of the Abbey. His fame might well rest upon his splendid services at Lucknow, never to be forgotten so long as the British Army has a history; but they were after all only more brilliant examples of a whole life of noble and gallant deeds, both civil and military, which have rendered his memory, to those who knew him intimately, almost holy.

<sup>1</sup> Son of John M'Liver, a cabinet-maker in Glasgow, near which place he was born 20 Oct. 1792. On entering the army in 1808 he assumed the name of Campbell, from a family of which name his mother is said to have descended. His military career is too much a part of modern history to require recapitulation. He attained the rank of General 14 May 1858, and on the 16th of August, in the same year, was created Baron Clyde, of Clydesdale, in Scotland. He died at Chatham 14 Aug., and, being unmarried, the title became extinct. He will be best remembered, as he is known in history, as Sir Colin Campbell.

<sup>2</sup> Youngest son of Hugh, second Duke of Northumberland (see his burial 19 July 1817), by Frances-Julia his second wife (see her burial 10 May 1820). He was born 15 Dec. 1792, and baptized at St. Martin in the Fields, Midx., 15 Jan. 1793. He was created Baron Prudhoe 27 Nov. 1816, and succeeded his brother Hugh, as fourth Duke of Northumberland, 11 Feb. 1847 (see his burial 23 Feb., in that year). He married, 25 Aug. 1842, Lady Eleanor Grosvenor, eldest daughter of Richard, second Marquis of Westminster, who survived him, and by whom he left no issue. He died 12 Feb., and was succeeded by his cousin George, then second Earl of Beverley (see his burial 30 Aug. 1867.)

<sup>3</sup> According to his monument he had been Receiver-General for twenty-one years. His will, as of the Cloisters, Esq., dated 28 Feb. 1865, was proved 11 July following, by his relict Louisa, and his friend Philip-Smith Cox. He bequeathed to his wife his estate called Hill Farm, in Bures St. Mary, etc., co. Essex, and all his other possessions whatsoever. The Funeral Book says that he was buried in the North Cloister.

<sup>4</sup> The celebrated statesman and Prime Minister. Eldest son of Henry, second Viscount Palmerston, in the peerage of Ireland, by his second wife, Mary, daughter of Benjamin-Thomas Mee, of the city of Bath, Esq. He was born 20 Oct., and baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 23 Nov. 1784. He is usually said to have been born at Broadlands, near Romsey, Hants, which may possibly be true; but the baptisms of himself, his brother, and three sisters, are all recorded in the parish register of St. Margaret. He succeeded as third Viscount 17 Apr. 1802. He died at Brockett Hall, Herts, 18 Oct., and was buried in the North Transept of the Abbey. Dying without issue, and being the last male descendant of the first Viscount, the title became extinct. See his wife's burial 17 Sep. 1869.

<sup>5</sup> Lady Charlotte-Florentia Clive, second daughter of Edward, first Earl of Powis, by Lady Henrietta-Antonia Herbert, daughter of Henry-Arthur, first Earl of Powis of the second creation, and relict of Hugh, third Duke of Northumberland (see his burial 23 Feb. 1847), to whom married 29 Apr. 1817. She was born 12 Sep. 1787, and was Governess to Her Majesty, Queen Victoria, when Princess. She died 27 July, leaving no issue, and was buried in the Percy vault.

<sup>1</sup> Eldest son and third child of Algernon, first Earl of Beverley, by Isabella-Susanna bi (see her burial 31 Jan. 1812), and born 22 June 1778. He succeeded as second Earl of Beverley, on the death of his father, 21 Oct. 1830, and as fifth Duke of Northumberland, on the death of his cousin Algernon. 12 Feb. 1865 (see his burial 25 Feb. in that year). He married 22 June 1801, Louisa-Harcourt, third daughter of Hon. James-Archibald Stuart-Wortley, brother of John, first Marquis of Bute, who died 30 June 1848. He died 21 Aug., and was buried in the Percy vault. See the burials of his children, 23 May 1805, 9 Jan. 1809, and 17 Mch. 1810.

<sup>2</sup> Sixth son of Henry Hawkins, of Lawrence End, in the parish of Kimpton, co. Herts, Esq., a major in the East India Company's service (whose father, grandfather, and great-grandfather were successively Rectors of Higham-Gobion, co. Herts), by Ann, only child of John Gurney, of Bedford, co. Beds, merchant. He was born at Lawrence End 25 Jan. 1802, and matriculated at Oxford, from Balliol College, 19 Apl. 1820, where B.A. 28 May 1824, M.A. 8 Feb. 1827, and B.D. as of Exeter College, 14 June 1839. He was Secretary of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts from 1838 to 1864. He became a Prebendary of St. Paul's in 1844, Minister of Curzon Chapel, May Fair, in 1850, and was installed as a Canon of Westminster 5 Dec. 1864. He married, at St. Mary's, Bryanston Square, 29 July 1852, Sophia-Anna, daughter of Rev. John-Henry-George Lefroy, Rector of Ashe, co. Hants. He died 5 Oct., and was buried in the Cloisters.

<sup>3</sup> Eldest daughter and eventually sole heir of Peniston Lamb, first Viscount Melbourne, by Elizabeth, only daughter of Sir Ralph Milbanke, fifth Bart. of Halaaby, co. York, and born 2 Apl. 1787. She married, first, 20 July 1805, Peter-Leopold, fifth Earl Cowper, who died 27 June 1837, leaving issue, and secondly, 16 Dec. 1839, Henry-John, third Viscount Palmerston (see his burial 27 Oct. 1865), by whom she had no issue. She died 11 Sept.

<sup>4</sup> As the person named in the text was not really buried in the Abbey, nor intended to be, his name somewhat improperly appears in the Register. His remains were merely deposited there for a few days, until their removal to his native country, although with the performance of the usual funeral ceremonies. He was the second son and third child of Thomas Peabody, by Judith Dodge his wife, and was born at Danvers, in the State of Massachusetts, U.S.A., 18 Feb. 1795. He died in Eaton Square 4 Nov., unmarried. His first American ancestor emigrated from Hertfordshire, as a husbandman, in 1635.

<sup>5</sup> The celebrated author. Eldest son and second child of John Dickens, of the Navy-Pa Office, by Elizabeth, second daughter of Charles Barrow, Lieut. R.N., and born at Landport, in Portsea, Hants, 7 Feb. 1812. He married, at St. Luke's, Chelsea, Midx., 2 Apl. 1836, Catherine, eldest daughter of Mr. George Hogarth, who survived him, and by whom he left issue. In the record of the marriage in the parish register his name is given as Charles-John-Huffbam Dickens. He died suddenly, at his residence, Gadshill Place, Higham, Kent, 9 June.

<sup>6</sup> Only son of Sir Frederick-William Herschel, of Slough, co. Bucks, K.C.H., the celebrated astronomer, by Mary, daughter of Adeel Baldwin, of Slough, Esq., and relict of John Pitt, of Upton, co. Bucks, Esq., and born 7 Mch. 1792. He was created a Baronet 17 July 1838, and was some time Master of the Mint. He married, 3 Mch. 1829, Margaret-Brodie, daughter of Rev. Alexander Stewart, D.D., of Canongate Church, Edinburgh, and left issue. He died 11 May. See his daughter's marriage 28 July 1868.

<sup>1</sup> The celebrated historian. Eldest son of George Grote, Esq., an eminent banker in London, by Selina-Mary, only daughter of Rev. Henry Peckwell, Rector of Bloxholm, co. Lincoln. He was born 17 Nov., and baptized at Beckenham, co. Kent, 27 Dec. 1794. He was F.R.S., D.C.L., Vice-Chancellor of the University of London, a trustee of the British Museum, member of the Institute of France and of various foreign Royal Academies, and M.P. for London from 1832 to 1841. His reputation as an author will be based chiefly upon his well-known History of Greece. He married, in 1820, Harriet, second daughter of Thomas Lewin, Esq., authoress of the Life of Ary Scheffer, and other works, by whom he left no surviving issue. He died 18 June.

<sup>2</sup> Second daughter of the Right Hon. Sir Herbert Jenner, Kt., Judge of the Prerogative Court of Canterbury (who assumed, in 1842, the additional surname of Fust), by Elizabeth, daughter of Lieut.-General Francis Lascelles, and wife of Rev. Evan Nepean, Canon of Westminster (see his burial 18 Mch. 1873), to whom married 15 Sep. 1832, and by whom she had eight sons and six daughters. See the marriages of her children, 18 June 1862, 9 Nov. 1864, and 27 July 1869, and the baptisms of her grandchildren, 16 Oct. 1865, 2 Mch. 1869, 8 Mch. 1870, and 4 Mch. 1871.

<sup>3</sup> Third son of David Pollock, of London, Esq., by Sarah, daughter of Richard Parsons, Esq., receiver-general of the Customs, and born 4 June 1786. He entered the military service in India at an early age, attaining the rank of General in 1859, and was subsequently made a Field-Marshal. He was Constable of the Tower of London at his death, and was created a Baronet 26 Mch. 1872. He married, first, in 1810, Frances, daughter of Mr. Sheriff Barclay, of Tain, in Scotland, who died in 1849, and by whom he had issue. He married, secondly, in 1852, Henrietta, second daughter of George-Hyde Wollaston, Esq. He died 6 Oct.

<sup>4</sup> The celebrated novelist, best known by his original name of Bulwer. Youngest son of Brigadier-General William-Earle Bulwer, of Wood-Dalling and Heydon, co. Norfolk, by Elizabeth-Barbara, only daughter and heir of Richard-Warburton Lytton, of Knebworth, co. Herts, Esq., and born 25 May 1806. He assumed the additional surname of Lytton in 1844, in pursuance of his mother's will. He was some time M.P. for co. Herts, and was Secretary of State for the Colonies in 1858. He was created a Baronet 18 July 1838, and was elevated to the peerage, as Baron Lytton, 14 July 1866. He married, at St. James, Westminster, 29 Aug. 1827, Anna-Rosina, only surviving daughter of Francis-Massey Wheeler, of Lizzard-Connel, co. Limerick, by whom he had issue a daughter, who died in 1848, and one son, Edward-Robert, second and present Lord Lytton, Viceroy of India. He died 18 Jan., at Torquay, co. Devon.

<sup>5</sup> Fourth son of Sir Evan Nepean, first Bart. of Loders and Bothenhampston, co. Dorset, by Margaret, daughter of William Skinner, Esq., captain in the army, and born, according to his coffin-plate, 23 Apl. 1800. He was sometime Rector of Heydon, co. Norfolk, and subsequently Chaplain in ordinary to Her Majesty, Minister of Grosvenor Chapel, South Audley Street, and Canon of Westminster, being installed 19 Sep. 1860. He died 13 Mch. See the burial of his wife 11 Sep. 1871, the marriages of his children, 18 June 1862, 9 Nov. 1864, and 27 July 1869, and the baptisms of his grandchildren, 16 Oct. 1865, 2 Mch. 1869, 8 Mch. 1870, and 4 Mch. 1871.

<sup>6</sup> He matriculated at Oxford, from Christ Church, as a servitor, 7 July 1819, aged nineteen, as son of James Lupton, of the city of York, and was B.A. 1 Feb. 1823, and M.A. 20 Oct. 1825. He became Vicar of Blackburnton, co. Oxford, and Rector of St. Michael's, Queenhithe, London, and was a minor canon of the Abbey and of St. Paul's. He married Anne, daughter of Thomas

<sup>1</sup> The distinguished missionary and explorer in Africa. The memorial tablet recently erected in the Abbey thus tells his history: "Brought by faithful hands over land and sea, here rests David Livingstone, Missionary, Traveller, Philanthropist: born March 19, 1813; died May 1, 1873, at Chitambo's Village, Ulala. For thirty years his life was spent in an unwearying effort to evangelise the native races, to explore the undiscovered secrets, and to abolish the desolating slave trade of Central Africa, wherc, with his last words, he wrote, 'All I can add in my solitude is, May Heaven's rich blessing come down on every one—American, English, or Turk—who will help to heal this open sore of the world.'" He was son of Neill Livingstone, a small tradesman near Hamilton, in Lanarkshire, and was born at Blantyre, near Glasgow. He married a daughter of the venerable Rev. Robert Moffat, the celebrated African missionary, and buried her in Africa in 1862.

<sup>2</sup> The eminent musical composer and organist. Son of Robert Bennett, of Sheffield, co. York, professor of music, by Elizabeth, daughter of James Donn, Curator of the Botanic Gardens at Cambridge, and born at Sheffield 13 Apl. 1816. He was elected Professor of Music at Cambridge 4 Mch. 1856, and created Doctor of Music 30 June following. He received the honorary degree of D.C.L. at Oxford in 1870, and was knighted at Windsor Castle 24 Mch. 1871. He died 1 Feb.

<sup>3</sup> The distinguished geological writer. Eldest son of Charles Lyell, of Kinnordy, Forfarshire, Esq., by Frances, only daughter of Thomas Smith, of Maker Hall, Swaledale, co. York, Esq., and born 14 Nov. 1797. He was knighted in 1848, and created a Baronet 22 Aug. 1864. He married, at Bonn, in Prussia, 12 July 1832, Mary-Elizabeth, eldest daughter of Leonard Horner, Esq. He died 22 Feb.

<sup>4</sup> Son of Rev. Thomas Thirlwall, Rector of Bowers-Gifford, co. Essex, and born at Stepney, Midx., 11 Feb. 1797. He was of Trinity College, Cambridge, A.B. 1818, and A.M. 1821. He was called to the Bar at Lincoln's Inn in 1825, but withdrew from the legal profession in 1828, and, having entered into holy orders, became Rector of Kirby-Underdale, co. York. He was consecrated Bishop of St. David's 9 Aug. 1840, and resigned the See in 1874. His monument appropriately describes him as "Scholar, Historian, Theologian." He died 27 July.

THE ROYAL WARRANT FOR THE DISINTERMENT OF CERTAIN COMMONWEALTH PERSONAGES.

[As the well-known royal warrant for the disinterment of the bodies of certain persons who had been buried in the Abbey during the Commonwealth period contains several names that do not appear in the existing Register, nor in the preceding pages, and as the warrant itself is sufficient evidence that the persons named were so buried, it is deemed proper to reproduce it here. The precise place of re-interment has been identified as the green on the North side of the Abbey, between the North transept and the West end. The warrant, which has been re-transcribed from the original copy, reads as follows :—]

“It is his Maiesties express pleasure & cōmand that you cause the bodies of the severall persons undernamed, w<sup>ch</sup> have bin unwarrantably interred in Henry the 7th and other Chappels and places wthin the Collegiate Church of Westminster since the year 1641, to be forthwith taken up and buried in some place of the churchyard adjoining to y<sup>e</sup> said church, whereof you may not faile, and for so doing this shall be y<sup>r</sup> warrant. Dated at y<sup>e</sup> Court at Whitehall, Sept. 9, 1661.

<sup>3</sup> The mother of Oliver Cromwell. Daughter of William Steward, of the city of Ely, Esq., by his second wife, Catharine, daughter of Thomas Payne, of Castle-Acre, co. Norfolk, Esq. She appears to have been a second child of this name, and baptized at Holy Trinity, Ely, 28 Oct. 1565. She married there, 10 Feb. 1588-9, William Lynne, Gent., who was buried there 26 July following, and their only child, Catharine, was also buried there 17 Mch. 1589-90. She married, secondly, about a year after her first husband's death, Robert Cromwell, of Huntingdon, Esq., by whom she was mother of the Protector, and who was buried at All Saints, Huntingdon, 24 June 1617. If the above dates are correct, she had just entered her ninetieth year. She died 18 Nov. 1654, and was buried in great state, contrary to her express desire. Before the disinterment of her remains, the body of her son Oliver (buried 26 Sep. 1658) had been exhumed, and hung at Tyburn. It is unaccountable that, as the authorities entertained a special spite towards the family of Cromwell, the name of the Protector's second and favourite daughter, Elizabeth Claypole, was omitted from the list given in the warrant. She died at Hampton Court 6 Aug. 1658, in her twenty-eighth year, and was buried on the 10th of the same month in a little vault in Henry VIIth's Chapel, which seems to have been expressly constructed with a view to isolation and secrecy. At all events, her remains unquestionably escaped the sacrilegious hands that carried away those of her grandmother, and as unquestionably continue where they were first deposited to this day.

<sup>1</sup> There can be scarcely a doubt that this was Jane Cromwell, sister of the Protector, and first wife of John Disbrowe (or Desborough). Major-General in the Parliamentary army. She was the fifth daughter of Robert and Elizabeth Cromwell, and was baptized 19 Jan. 1605-6, and married 23 June 1636. She was dangerously ill in the early part of the year 1656, and probably died about that time, as her husband re-married in April 1658.

<sup>2</sup> Probably a child of the parliamentary general, Charles Fleetwood, by Bridget, daughter of Oliver Cromwell, and widow of Henry Ireton. It is certain, from Fleetwood's letters, that he had issue by her, of whom no trace has been found, and in Rugge's MSS., in the British Museum, where her burial is referred to, she is called "a child." The body of Ireton, who died 26 Nov. 1651, and was buried in the Abbey 6 Feb. following, was exhumed with that of Cromwell, and subjected to the same indignity at Tyburn. Mrs. Fleetwood, this child's mother, was buried at St. Anne's, Blackfriars, London, 1 July 1662 (not at Stoke Newington, Midx., 5 Sep. 1681, as is commonly stated). Her father, General Fleetwood, who married a third wife, Mrs. Mary Hartopp, 14 Jan. 1663-4, died 4 Oct. 1692, and was buried in Bunhill Fields.

<sup>5</sup> The celebrated republican statesman, sometime Clerk of the Exchequer, and many years M.P. His name is usually written Pym. He matriculated at Oxford, from Broadgates Hall, 18 May 1599, aged fifteen, as the son of an Esquire, of co. Somerset, and then signed the Subscription Book as "John Pim." He died at Derby House, in Canon Row, Westminster, 8 Dec. 1643, and was buried in the Abbey on the 13th of the same month.

<sup>6</sup> William Strode, for many years M.P., and one of the five members demanded by King Chas. I., on his memorable entry into the House of Commons with an armed force, in January 1641-2. He had acquired for himself the appellation of the "Parliament Driver." He was the second son of Sir William Strode, of Newnham, co. Devon, Kt., by Mary, daughter of Thomas Southcote, of Bovey-Tracey, in the same county, Esq. He matriculated at Oxford, from St. Mary Hall, 5 May 1598, aged nineteen, as an Esquire's son, of co. Dorset. He died, of a pestilential fever, 10 Sep. 1645, and was buried in the Abbey, by order of the Parliament, on the 22nd of the same month. His will, dated 4 July 1644, was proved on the day of his death, by Sir Edward Barkham, Kt. and Bart.

<sup>9</sup> Eldest son of John Bond, of Melcombe Regis and Lutton, co. Dorset, Esq., by Margaret, eldest daughter of Richard Pitt, of Melcombe Regis aforesaid and of North Cricket, co. Somerset, Esq. He was born 30 Aug., and baptized at Melcombe Regis 1 Sep. 1588. He was many years M.P., one of the Council of State from 1648 to 1652, and was appointed Clerk of the Pells in the Exchequer 20 Aug. 1654. He was named on the Commission for trying King Chas. I., but does not appear to have taken any part in those proceedings. He died 30 Aug. 1658.

<sup>10</sup> Probably Mary, wife of John Bradshaw, the president of the tribunal which condemned King Chas. I. She was a daughter of Thomas Marbury, of Marbury, co. Chester, Esq., by Eleanor, daughter of Peter Warburton, of Arley, Esq., and was baptized at Great Budworth co. Chester, 1 Dec. 1596. She was living 10 Sep. 1655, the date of a codicil to her husband's will, but died before him. The body of her husband, who died 22 Nov. 1659, and was also buried in the Abbey, was exhumed with those of Cromwell and Ireton, and hung at Tyburn.

<sup>4</sup> Son of Sir Thomas May, of Mayfield, co. Sussex, Kt., by his first wife, Barbara, daughter of Edward Rich, of Horndon, co. Essex. He was born at Mayfield in 1595. He was a dramatic writer of some note, and gained considerable reputation by his translation of Lucan's Pharsalia. His offence was that he had been Secretary to the Long Parliament, a History of which he wrote. He died 13 Nov. 1650.

<sup>7</sup> John Earles. He matriculated at Oxford, from Christ Church, 4 June 1619, aged eighteen, as of co. York, paying the fees of a plebeian's son. He signed the Subscription Book “John Earles.” He appears to have migrated to Merton College the next year. After taking orders he became tutor to Prince Charles, and subsequently followed him into exile, becoming his chaplain and clerk of the closet. Immediately after the Restoration, he was made Dean of Westminster, and installed 14 June 1660. He was consecrated Bishop of Worcester 30 Nov. 1662, and translated to Salisbury Sep. 1663. He died at Oxford 17 Nov. 1665, and was buried on the 25th in Merton College Chapel. His relict Bridget administered to his estate 18 Dec. 1665, under his nuncupative will made two days before his death, when he gave all his estate to her. His name, throughout the will and the probate proceedings, is invariably Earles.

<sup>8</sup> Sir Edward Nicholas, Kt., the well-known Principal Secretary of State to Kings Charles I. and II. He was the eldest son of John Nicholas, of Winterbourne-Earls, co. Dorset, Esq., and brother of Rev. Dr. Matthew Nicholas, Dean of St. Paul's. He married Jane, third daughter of Henry Jay, Esq., Alderman of Loudon, who survived him, and by whom he left issue. He died 1 Sep. 1669, in his seventy-seventh year, and was buried at West Horsley, co. Surrey. See the marriage of his grand-daughter 10 May 1687, and of his niece 1 Sep. 1672.

ADDITIONAL BAPTISMS.

ADDENDA ET CORRIGENDA.

- Page 3, note 1, line 6 : for "Sir William," read John Dugdale.
- Page 4, note 3 : Barnaby Thurlow and Millicent Hilton were married at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 9 Nov. 1647.
- Page 17, note 8, end of first line : for 26 "May" 1726, read June.
- Page 53, note 1 : James Brown was the only surviving son of James Brown, M.D., Fellow of the Royal College of Physicians of Edinburgh, by Mary, daughter of James Bowden, Esq., some time one of the Baillies of the city of Edinburgh, and was born at Kelso 23 May 1709. He was buried at Stoke Newington, Midx., 31 Dec. 1788. Sarah Miller was the eldest daughter and coheir of Thomas Miller, of Spitalfields, Midx., Esq., by Ann his wife. She died at Stoke Newington 14 June 1751. They left an only son, James Brown.
- Page 56, note 4, last line : for "Forrester," read Forester.
- Page 57, note 3 : Emily-Constantia Thynne, dau. of Lord John Thynne, and relict of Eustace John Wilson-Patten, Esq., married secondly, at St. Mary's, Bryanston Square, 29 Nov. 1875, Thomas Taylour, third Marquis of Headfort, to whom she was second wife.
- Page 58, note 1 : Lady Augusta Stanley died 1 Mch. 1876, after a protracted and distressing illness, universally beloved and lamented, and was buried on the 9th in Henry VIIIth's Chapel, by the special direction of Her Majesty, who, with thousands of sympathising mourners of all degrees, attended the obsequies of their common friend.
- Page 63, note 1 : The Hon. Beatrix-Charlotte-Elizabeth Grosvenor was born 22 May 1845, and died 16 Jan. 1876, having given birth to a daughter 7 Dec. 1875.
- Page 78, note 1 : It was the Elizabeth Battely named in the text who then married James Brooker. They were both living at the date of her mother's will, 6 May 1776.
- Page 90, note 3, line 2 : in his will he is described as "Thomas-Newbee alias Newby Reeve."
- Page 97, note 3 : Commodore James-Graham Goodenough died at Santa Cruz, 20 Aug. 1875, from the effects of wounds received from the natives in Carlisle Bay, in the West Pacific. He was a Companion of the Orders of the Bath and of St. Michael and St. George.
- Page 104, note 2, line 4 : for "Charlotte," read Charlotte.
- Page 113, note 5 : Lewis Prowde was steward of the Abbey manors and lands, jointly with Sir James Whitelocke, who, in his Liber Famelicus (p. 53), described him as a reader of Lincoln's Inn, a justice of assize for three shires in Wales, and one of the governors of Sutton's Hospital. He had a license from the Bishop of London, 24 Dec. 1590, to marry Ursula Trappes, of St. Michael-Bassishaw, London, spinster, daughter of Francis Trappes, of said city, Gent., deceased. The defective date in the text should, of course, be 1616-17.
- Page 145, note 1, line 4 : for "Patrick, Lord Ruthin," read Hon. Patrick Ruthven.
- Page 157, note 3, line 1 : Margaret, wife of Henry Sterrell, was a daughter of Robert Teshe, Gent., by Lucy, third daughter of Sir Robert Drury, of Egrecy, co. Bucks, Kt. Sir James Whitelocke, in his Liber Famelicus (pp. 69, 70), mentions her as his wife's kinswoman.

- Page 192, note 5, line 4 : for "1672," read 1692. Sir Francis Clinton succeeded as sixth Earl of Lincoln in November 1692.
- Page 195, note 2 : Sebastian Currall and Martha Lowrie were married at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 13 Dec. 1624.
- Page 214, note 7 : James Amos and Margery Jaques were married at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 27 Dec. 1666.
- Page 290, note 2 : Hammond Witherley was of Caius College, Cambridge, A.B. 1674.
- Page 291, note 4 : Mrs. Mariamne Herbert was the only daughter of William Finch, Lord Maidstone (eldest son of Heneage, second Earl of Winchelsea, but died in his father's lifetime), by Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas Windham, of Felbrigge, co. Norfolk, Esq. Her only brother Charles, a posthumous son, succeeded as third Earl of Winchilsca.
- Page 295, note 1, line 13 : for "King Arms," read King of Arms.
- Page 313, note 2 : Dr. Benjamin Ibbot was son of Rev. Thomas Ibbot, Vicar of Swaffham and Rector of Beachamwell, co. Norfolk, and was born at Beachamwell in 1680.
- Page 319, note 4, line 1 : for Robert Robartes, Viscount "Bodwin," read Bodmin.
- Page 321, note 5 : Mr. Flintoft's Christian name was Luke.
- Page 338, note 4, line 5 : Lady Charlotte Beauclerk did not die 17 June 1745, although so stated in most of the peerages, but survived until 3 July 1770. Her will, dated 20 Mch. 1770, was proved 7 July following.
- Page 369, note 1 : The Christian name of Major-General Lowther was Anthony.
- Page 416, note 6, line 1 : for "Right," read Most Rev.
- Page 452, note 7, line 4 : for "Charles," read George, first Marquis Townshend.
- Page 475, note 4, line 9 : for "Herbet," read Herbert Bach.

INDEX.

The names in the Text are in SMALL CAPITALS, those in the Notes in ordinary type, and the italic letter n indicates that the following references are to the Notes.

In the cases of married ladies, they are indexed as far as possible under both their married and maiden names, and hence one or the other surname does not always appear, but with this hint there will be no difficulty in identifying the reference.

All children, whose Christian names only are mentioned in the text or notes, will appear in the Index under their proper surnames.

The same name often occurs more than once on the same page, both in the text and the notes, but in such cases will appear only once in the Index.

The names in the text are indexed as properly spelt, and where the orthography is manifestly erroneous it does not appear in the Index : e.g., the name "Louder," on page 11, is indexed only Lowther.

The Index is most elaborate, and it is hoped and believed that not a solitary name in the text or notes will not be found in its appropriate place.

hands of the law for the riots at Monmouth, the design of which the Government concluded was the rescue of Vincent.

Under this apprehension the subject of it was removed from Monmouth Gaol to Millbank, which was then just opened under the new prison régime. He was again removed to Oakham, and each journey became the occasion of a public ovation, he being cheered by the thousands. The working classes who thus applauded him did so because they saw in him the embodiment of their grievance; which consisted mainly in their being excluded from power by the Reform Act, by omission of their claims, rather than by the loss of a few faggot votes of which that measure deprived them.

Upon his release in 1841, Mr. Vincent was welcomed on his return to London with the greatest enthusiasm, and at a public banquet his manly courage was the theme of high eulogium. He never at any moment abated his crusade in the cause of truth and right, though this banquet may be cited as a period to his stormy-style of agitation. And, indeed, as a writer in a daily contemporary remarks, the political and social system must, at the time of Mr. Vincent's incarceration, have been very defective somewhere to have turned such men as we know Henry Vincent to have been into disturbers of the existing condition of things. It is matter for some wonder that a man so honest, so respectable, so open, and so religious could ever have been regarded as a disturber of social order and an enemy to the throne and altar.

The death of so good a man as Henry Vincent brings home to us the truth as to the former defects of our constitution and their subsequent repairs, and how those who laboured hard to bring about an amelioration of our social and political life have been misunderstood. But the British public has never failed to understand, and, according to the measure of its correct apprehension of their aims, to support those who have contended, on principle, against measures of which they disapprove, and, however unpopular their cause, to demand for those who espouse the cause of civil and religious liberty a fair field at least.

Mr. Vincent repeatedly attempted to enter Parliament, but with no avail; his efforts in that direction commenced with contesting Banbury in 1841. The 10*l*. householders in Westminster in 1841, the Editor of the Abbey from 1660 to 1673, who prefixed this heading:—

The headings and burials begin in 1607

Peter, Westminster. Edited and Annotated by Joseph Lemuel Chester. (Printed for the Harleian Society, 1876.)

THE volumes hitherto published by the Harleian Society are interesting only to a limited circle of antiquarian readers, but the registers of Westminster Abbey have a world-wide interest, for they abound with names which are honoured and familiar wherever the English language is spoken.
The handsome volume now lying before me is not a mere list of names, however illustrious, for every page is more than half filled with notes, in which the editor has worked out the history of the persons named in the register with marvellous accuracy and minuteness. His information is mainly derived from wills, marriage-licences, and other unpublished authorities, which enable him to correct on almost every page statements hitherto accepted without challenge in standard books of reference. The amount of time and labour which has been expended on such a work can only be appreciated by those who have attempted enquiries of a similar kind, for, as the editor says in his preface, "there is many a line and half line which is the concentrated result of weeks of patient research." For this important contribution to the materials of English biography the Harleian Society is indebted to Colonel J. L. Chester, an American gentleman resident in London, whose genealogical collections are so widely known that of late years few books of genealogy have been published in England or America in which the assistance derived from them is not gratefully acknowledged.
He discovered some years ago that the extracts from the Abbey registers printed in the Collectanea Topographica et Genealogica by the late Sir Charles Young, Garter, were so full of errors, both in the text and notes, as to be worthless for historical purposes.
He thereupon transcribed with his own hand
the whole of the registers down to 1875, and has devoted several years to the labour of identifying the persons named in them.
His arrangements for publication were interrupted by the death of Mr. J. G. Nichols, when he liberally permitted the Harleian Society to print an edition exclusively for their own members.

Considering the rank and importance of the persons who were married, christened, or buried at the Abbey, it is surprising that the registers should have been more irregularly kept than in many obscure country parishes. The earliest existing register was compiled after the Restoration by the zeal of Philip Tynchare, Precentor of the Abbey from 1660 to 1673, who prefixed this heading:—

"The Register of the Collegiate Church of Westminster of Weddings, Christenings, and Burialls; such as could be found in imperfect books, and such as have been carefully taken notice of since the happy restauration of His Ma<sup>tye</sup> King Charles the Second; by Philip Tynchare, Chaunter of the said Church."

EDMOND CHESTER WATERS.

The Comedy of the Noces Ambrosianae. By Christopher North. Selected and Arranged by John Skelton, Advocate. (Edinburgh and London: William Blackwood & Sons, 1876.)

It was a fortunate idea to extricate from so much that was purely local, purely temporary, and often enough in ill humour, all that seemed permanently human in Wilson's Noces. Few people nowadays would take the trouble to go through the fruit of these ten years of high-pressure literary action. Of the few who did so, most would feel a strange weariness and despair creep over them among these warfares of the dead. Bygone personalities have an odd smack of the grave; and we feel moved to turn the tables on the high-stepping satirist, and remind him, with something of the irony of country headstones, that not only they, but he—not only the rejected Whigings, but the redoubtable Kit North—point the moral of dust to dust.

But of the more perennial part, picked skillfully from among this debris of old literary and political convulsions, Mr. Skelton has erected what is perhaps the most durable monument to Wilson's fame that we possess. In it we find the immortal trio at their best throughout. From beginning to end, their meetings are inspired and sanctified by Bacchus and Apollo. North can always lay aside his crutch; Tickle is always six feet high; and the Shepherd is always the Shepherd. For how is it possible to praise that adorable creation but in terms of himself? He is the last expression of sophisticated rusticity; at once a poet, a journalist, a Scotchman, and a shepherd; oscillating between Burns and the Daily Telegraph in things literary; and, in things moral, occupying all sorts of intermediate stations between a prize-fighter and Peden the Prophet. If it were lawful to marry words of so incongruous a strain, we might classify him as a Presbyterian Faun.

And this book is not only welcome because it takes us on a visit to Wilson when he is in his best vein, but because Wilson, in all his veins, is the antidote, or at least the antithesis, of much contemporary cant. Here is a book full of the salt of youth; a red-hot shell of animal spirits calculated, if anybody reads it, to set up a fine conflagration among the dry heather of present-day Phariseism. Touch it as you will, it gives out shrewd galvanic shocks, which may perhaps brighten and shake up this smokedried and punctilious generation. Look at the profound animal sensuality, which breaks out in the praise of all sorts of exercise, and gloats, through near one-half the pages, over the details of eating and drinking. "O man," says the Shepherd to Tickle, "it was a great peety to dee wi' sic an appetite!"

Again, the Shepherd explains his own position immediately before dinner: "I'm nae glutton—nae gormandeizer—but a man o' a gude, a great appetet—and for the next half-hour I shall be as perfectly happy as any man in a' Scotland." And those who can read the "towsy tea" in the snuggery without an access of imaginary hunger must have something amiss with their digestions. Look at the grand inhumanity; see how they laugh over the two bagmen lost in the snow, for no better reason than that they were Cockneys, and wore false collars something delicately starched; or listen to them declaring that "any man may well lose patience to think of fools being sorry for the death of a fox." And then look at that curious and most Scottish enthusiasm which rages at large in all descriptive passages, and inspires such extravagant poetry and reasoning that one is never rightly sure whether it be in jest or earnest. Some of it is false fire, I dare say; but by far the most is the uncontrollable expression of the man's high spirits. If any other writer broke out into a fervent "Thank God that Nelson died at sea!" we should be not a little exercised as to his sanity; but in Wilson we like the extravagance, because we understand the man. And it all goes well enough with his copious and headlong style. For it is scarcely literature: at most, a sort of inspired talking, as it purports to be; and the fiction of Gurney the short-hand writer in the ear of Dionysius seems almost necessary to explain the existence of the book.

Wilson looked upon life with the positive acceptance of a man in excellent health; his heart never seems to have failed him over anything, however squalid or sad; but, squaring his elbows, he put it outside of himself in some easy and forcible pages. The man who wrote the Alderman's death (p. 220), or the Shepherd's commentary over the oysters (p. 121), was certainly of no very dainty stomach. But it was to this same unscrupulous catholicity of taste that we owe masterpieces (after their fashion) like the dog-fight in the Guse Dubs, the execution of the mutineer, or those scathing pictures of depravity with which the Shepherd silences some sentimental aspirations after the improvement of the species.

ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON.

Studies in the Philosophy of Religion and History. By A. M. Fairbairn. (London: Strahan & Co., 1876.)

THE author has hesitated, he tells us, before deciding to collect these studies, which, as he says, "embody the results of much thought and not a little enquiry." We congratulate ourselves on his decision, though we are not surprised at his hesitation. He has given us much which is well worth having, but in a form which is less final than we could wish; it is not merely that the results are tentative, or that there is a certain amount of repetition, but the processes themselves are incomplete: the reader is embarrassed by recurrent attempts which are not carried through to isolate discussions which cannot be isolated, and by the habitual use of unsifted conceptions, on which we shall have more to say hereafter.

The main scheme of the book is to show by example that the German investigations into the earlier history of "culture-folk" are a better foundation for an historical study of religion than the English investigations into the present condition of "nature-folk" even when these are supplemented, as they sometimes are, by references to parallel traits in the oldest traditions of "culture-folk," and more or less doubtfully supported by inferences from prehistoric archaeology. Now, there can be little doubt that among the half-instructed the views which Mr. Fairbairn combats have much more vogue than they deserve: they lend themselves easily to concrete popular exposition; they attract a particular class of minds, and where this is the case it is always probable that the consent of investigators is influenced to an unknown extent by "idola." Apart from these presumptions, it is true, as Mr. Fairbairn points out in an admirable passage, that the existing "nature-folk" are in no sense primitive; that they are as "old" as the most civilised community in the world; that they have very likely changed more, as they have shorter memories and are less capable of undergoing the growing influence of an abiding past; that they certainly differ radically from the ancestors of civilised nations in being unprogressive; and that this fundamental difference is probably connected with others. If we are to choose between two exclusive methods, we should decidedly prefer Mr. Fairbairn's; still we could wish that he had borne in mind the saying, "Howbeit, that is not first which is spiritual, but that which is natural." The author succeeds in showing that we cannot trace the religion of the Hindoos, or the Greeks, or the Hebrews to the fears of ignorant savages, or to their still more irrational confidence in charms and fetiches. With the higher races religion must be taken to have begun with a disinterested awe at the spectacle of the universe as a whole. But it is not equally clear whether this is a difference in degree or in kind: according to Comte, the indigenous religion of China, which Confucius only systematised, is to be reckoned as a form—though the highest form—of fetishism; the existing fetishism of Western Africa may very conceivably be related to primitive religion, as the cultus of our Lady of Lourdes and kindred devotions would be related, if they stood alone, to primitive Christianity. Every advanced religion gradually specialises itself into a multitude of minute beliefs and observances which look ridiculous to outsiders; a religion is degenerate when these absorb the whole of its vigour; a religion is in great peril when there is a constant struggle between those who maintain and those who deny the solidarity of the developments or accretions on the surface with the central thoughts and aspirations which both profess to venerate.

These reserves affect our estimate of Mr. Fairbairn's polemical success rather than the historical merit of his exposition of the primitive idea of God, and this must be rated decidedly high. Perhaps he lays a little too much stress on the paternity which may be traced by the help of etymology in the Indo-European conception of God. Was

LITERATURE.

A special interest of this remarkable work, ever and above its unquestionable ability, lies in the circumstance that by the translator, that it is not the work of a sincere and liberal Catholic, inspired by a genuine desire to promote the welfare of the Church, but also that "the writer has means and opportunities of elucidating the incidents which he depicts; the words of the Italian editors, which are stronger in the original than in English," that the author was an eye-witness of all he relates is beyond doubt, and of itself proves." The author himself in his Introduction that he has noted that of which he was a person or which he received on authority of great value; and he elsewhere speaks being "impossible for a person not a witness" of what took place in the Council, to understand the feeling of isolation from the rest of the world.

It is, in fact, an open secret that the author derived his information on the Council from the late Cardinal Vitelleschi, who took part in the Vatican Council of 1870, and kept a copious diary, which he placed at the disposal of his brother-in-law, under whose roof he was residing, and who prepared this volume in press and edited it. We understand then the original work, which appeared more than two years ago, was brought under the notice, although he naturally did not like it, he refused to have it placed on the market. All this gives a peculiar importance to the statement of facts contained here; and it is the more reason for insisting on the cause the writer confirms with singular emphasis and precision the very points which have been most sedulously and indignantly called into question by those professing to be well informed, and notably confirms in their test details, so far as we have been able to serve, the accuracy of the Letters of Quirini, while he adds, as might be expected, graphic touches of his own as they occurred within the Council Hall, it is this "simple chronicle" of events, divided according to the month in which the Council remained in session, which constitutes the speciality of the work, though the chapters where the author enters more fully into an exposition of

The Marriage, Baptismal, and Burial Registers of the Collegiate Church or Abbey of St. Peter, Westminster. Edited and Annotated by Joseph Lemuel Chester. (Printed for the Harleian Society, 1876.)

THE volumes hitherto published by the Harleian Society are interesting only to a limited circle of antiquarian readers, but the registers of Westminster Abbey have a world-wide interest, for they abound with names which are honoured and familiar wherever the English language is spoken. The handsome volume now lying before me is not a mere list of names, however illustrious, for every page is more than half filled with notes, in which the editor has worked out the history of the persons named in the register with marvellous accuracy and minuteness. His information is mainly derived from wills, marriage-licences, and other unpublished authorities, which enable him to correct on almost every page statements hitherto accepted without challenge in standard books of reference. The amount of time and labour which has been expended on such a work can only be appreciated by those who have attempted enquiries of a similar kind, for, as the editor says in his preface, "there is many a line and half line which is the concentrated result of weeks of patient research." For this important contribution to the materials of English biography the Harleian Society is indebted to Colonel J. L. Chester, an American gentleman resident in London, whose genealogical collections are so widely known that of late years few books of genealogy have been published in England or America in which the assistance derived from them is not gratefully acknowledged. He discovered some years ago that the extracts from the Abbey registers printed in the Collectanea Topographica et Genealogica by the late Sir Charles Young, Garter, were so full of errors, both in the text and notes, as to be worthless for historical purposes. He thereupon transcribed with his own hand the whole of the registers down to 1875, and has devoted several years to the labour of identifying the persons named in them. His arrangements for publication were interrupted by the death of Mr. J. G. Nichols, when he liberally permitted the Harleian Society to print an edition exclusively for their own members.

Considering the rank and importance of the persons who were married, christened, or buried at the Abbey, it is surprising that the registers should have been more irregularly kept than in many obscure country parishes. The earliest existing register was compiled after the Restoration by the zeal of Philip Tynchare, Precentor of the Abbey from 1660 to 1673, who prefixed this heading:—

"The Register of the Collegiate Church of Westminster of Weddings, Christenings, and Burials; such as could be found in imperfect books, and such as have been carefully taken notice of since the happy restoration of His Ma<sup>ty</sup> King Charles the Second; by Philip Tynchare, Chaunter of the said Church."

The baptisms and burials begin in 1607, and the marriages in 1655. Before these dates they are lost beyond recovery, and the existing registers (especially before the Reformation) are constantly deficient and inaccurate. "These discrepancies have been reconciled by the editor whenever positive evidence could be obtained." In these corrections he displays considerable learning and ingenuity. For example, the third entry in the Burial Register records the interment of "Mary, daughter of King James," on December 16, 1607, and the same date is stated on her monument in the Abbey as the day of her death. But Col. Chester proves by a catena of evidence that there is an error of three months in these dates, for the Princess really died on September 16, and was buried on September 23. It might have been expected that the burials of the King's children would be accurately registered. But Charles Prince of Wales is said to have been buried on May 13, 1629, and his sister, the Lady Anne, on December 8, 1640, whereas these were the days respectively of death and not of burial. Their sister Catherine, who was born and died January 20, 1638-9, and is known to have been buried in the Abbey, is not mentioned in the register. "Richard Hackler, Prebendary of this church, buried November 26, 1626," is identified with Richard Hakluyt, the famous collector of voyages and discoveries, who died November 23, 1616. His burial, therefore, is post-dated ten years in the register. Camden, the antiquary, was buried on November 19, 1623, and not on November 10, as the register states. In the entry "Dr. Lee, buried September 21, 1645," Colonel Chester discovers the fate hitherto unknown of Dr. William Leo, alias Lee, sub-dean of Gloucester, the ingenious author of verses composed exclusively of monosyllables, which were reprinted in 1871 by the Rev. A. B. Grosart. It is related of Dr. Lee that, having to preach in a church near London in the morning where Mr. Adam was going to preach in the afternoon, he chose for his text, "Adam, whereart thou?" to which Mr. Adam responded in the afternoon by preaching from the text, "Lo, here am I." "1707-8, January 22, Mr. Christian Fox buried." This should be Mrs. Christian Fox, the twin sister of the first Lord Holland, who was born September 28, 1705, and tumbled out of the window on January 20, 1707-8. Colonel Chester adds that her mother, the second wife of Sir Stephen Fox, is wrongly described in all the peerages as Christian, daughter of the Rev. Charles Hope, of Nasely, county Lincoln. The error is an old one, for it appears in a pedigree in the College of Arms, which is signed by Sir Stephen himself. But there is no such place as Nasely in Lincolnshire, and there was no clergyman of the name of Charles Hope at that period. Lady Fox was the daughter and co-heir of the Rev. Francis Hopes, rector of Haseby, and afterwards of Aswarby, both in Lincolnshire, who died March 13, 1704-5.

The omissions from the registers are serious and frequent. The burials of Ben Jonson and Old Parr and others can only have been omitted from sheer neglect; but there is good reason to suspect that other entries were wilfully suppressed after the Restoration by some over-zealous Loyalist. "Else," asks Colonel Chester, "why do we fail to find the name of a single member of the Protector's family? Yet Cromwell himself was buried in the Abbey, as were his mother, his sister, his daughter, his son-in-law, and his grandchild. Why do we also fail to find the names of Bradshaw, and Pym, and Strode, and Bond, and May, all of which appear in the Royal Warrant for disinterment in 1661, and of whose places of burial there must have been some record, as their coffins were readily found?"

On the other hand, "many persons have the historical reputation of interment in the Abbey for whom its gates were never opened." The monumental inscriptions cannot be trusted, for in many cases the monuments are cenotaphs of persons buried elsewhere, and hic jacet is often a mere synonym for in memoriam. Even the dates are often wrong, and the famous monument by Ronilic of Lady Elizabeth Nightingale gives the year of her death as 1734 instead of 1731. It is curious that this error is neither detected nor corrected in the elaborate History of the Shirleys.

Several notes are specially devoted to refuting standing scandals of history. For instance, Robert Townson, Bishop of Salisbury (who was buried May 16, 1621), is said to have left his widow and her daughters in so great poverty that his wife's brother, Dr. John Davenant, was appointed to the bishopric on condition of providing for his nieces. But it turns out that Bishop Townson's widow bequeathed by her will considerable sums of money, and that Bishop Davenant speaks in one of his letters of her giving good marriage-portions with her daughters. Again, Stephen Marshall, the celebrated Presbyterian preacher (who was buried on November 23, 1655), is commonly reputed to have been the father of Anne and "Beck" Marshall, who were actresses and mistresses of Charles II. in 1672; but Colonel Chester shows that at the date of his will, in 1655, his wife was dead, and five of his six daughters were already married, and had children. His only unmarried daughter, Susan, was then more than twenty-one, for she proved her father's will. Again, the Lady Alisbury, buried in 1661 in the Hyde vault, is now identified with the grandmother of Anne Hyde, Duchess of York, for whom the Duke went into mourning in November, 1661, which Pepys calls "a great piece of fondness." The current story is that she was of very humble origin, and that Sir Thomas Aylesbury fell in love with her at the washing-tub. Her descendant, Lady Theresa Lewis, wrote in 1852, "it is not known from what family she sprang, or when she died." Colonel Chester proves that she was of gentle blood both on her father and mother's side, and that she was Anne, the eldest daughter and co-heir of Francis Denman, of West Retford, Notts, by Anne, daughter of Robert Blount, Esq., of Ekeington, Derbyshire. Her only sister, Barbara Denman, married Edward Darrell, Esq., son of Sir Thomas Darrell, Knight, of Pagham, Sussex.

But if some scandals are exploded in these notes, others are dragged to light. The beautiful Countess of Grammont, Elizabeth Hamilton, has hitherto had the credit of being one of the few who in her youth resisted the temptations of the corrupt Court of Charles II., and in her later years was a model of piety and devotion. But Lord Stafford, the husband of her daughter, gives a very different account of her in his will, which is dated February 2, 1699-1700. He says:—

"I give to the worst of women, who is guilty of all Ills, the daughter of Mr. Grammont, a Frenchman, whom I have unfortunately married, 45 brass half-pence, which will buy her a pullet to her supper, a greater sum than her father can often make her, for I have known when he had neither money nor credit for such a purchase, being the worst of men, and his wife the worst of women, in all Debaucheries; had I known their character, I had never married their daughter, nor made myself unhappy."

Again, Joseph Dalby, apothecary, of Welbeck Street, was buried July 27, 1784. He was the inventor of Dalby's Carminative, and his will is "a literary curiosity, of which portions are unfit for publication."

The origin of Dr. William Paul, Bishop of Oxford, 1663-5, has hitherto defied curiosity. He was baptised at St. Leonard's, Eastcheap, October 14, 1599, being one of the sixteen children of William Paul, citizen and butcher of London, by Joan, daughter of John Harrison, headle of the Butchers' Company. The bishop had three wives, all of gentle families, of whom only the third (Rachel Clitherow) is noticed in the recorded pedigree. Brian Duppa, Bishop of Winchester, was not the son of the Rev. Geoffrey Duppa, Vicar of Lewisham, Kent, by a daughter of the Rev. John Bungay, Prebendary of Canterbury; but his father was Geoffrey Duppa, Esq., of Pembridge, in Herefordshire, who married at Lewisham in 1580 Lucrece Maresall. "1674, October 23, Mrs. Stanhope buried." She is identified with Henrietta Maria Price, one of Queen Catherine's maids-of-honour, whose parentage and fate have puzzled all the editors of Grammont's Memoirs. She was the daughter of Sir Herbert Price, Knight and Bart. M.P. for Brecon, by Goditha Arden, and married, at St. Andrew's, Holborn, December 4, 1673, Alexander Stanhope, Esq., of the Inner Temple. It is probable that she died in child-bed.

The last note for which I can find space relates to the gallant and ill-fated Major John André, whose remains were brought from America in 1821 by command of the Duke of York. The editor expresses his surprise that so little should be known about his parentage, and has "devoted considerable time and labour to the subject." The major was born about 1751, the eldest son of Anthony André, merchant, of London, by Mary Louise, daughter of Paul Girardot, of Paris. Anthony was a native of Geneva, the grandson of John André, of Nismes, and was naturalised by Act of Parliament in 1748. He died at Hackney, April 14, 1769, leaving two sons and three daughters, who all died unmarried. His widow survived both her sons, and died at Bath in 1813, at the age of ninety-one. Her younger son, William, was created a baronet in 1781, in recognition of his brother's services, but the title became extinct on his death in 1802.

The editor has crowned his labours by a most useful index, which contains nearly 15,000 names. He has produced a book of permanent interest and value, and if we must suggest a fault it is that in some of

JOSEPH LEMUEL CHESTER, D.C.L.

The death of Col. Chester has caused a feeling of genuine sorrow in the hearts of all English genealogists, and created a breach in their ranks which time is not likely to fill up again, at all events in our day. The results of his extensive research, always given with the most open-handed liberality to anyone interested in historical or genealogical pursuits, but best known and appreciated by the class of students to whose interests this Magazine is especially devoted, render it not only a duty but a pleasure to record in these pages, inadequately though it be, some tribute to the generous friend and genial correspondent whose work is done.

Joseph Lemuel Chester was born at Norwich, Connecticut, U.S.A., 30th April, 1821. His father having died while the son was quite young, the future genealogist was left to face the battle of life dependant solely on his own endeavours. According to the 'Supplement to the Cyclopædia of American Literature,' published in 1866, "He commenced the study of law in New York in 1838, but abandoned it for a branch of the mercantile profession, in which he was engaged in that city and Philadelphia until about 1852, during the whole of which time he was a frequent contributor to the weekly and monthly press, under various signatures, that of 'Julian Cramer' being the one best known to the community. He then became connected with the Philadelphia press, both there and as a corresponding editor at Washington. For a time he was one of the assistant clerks of the United States House of Representatives. Since 1858 he has resided in London. His earlier publications include 'Greenwood Cemetery, and other Poems' (12mo, New York and Boston, 1843); 'The Personal Narrative of Mrs. Margaret Douglas, a Southern Woman, who was Imprisoned for One Month in the Common Jail of Norfolk, under the Laws of Virginia, for the Crime of Teaching Free Coloured Children to Read' (12mo, Boston, 1854); 'Life of John Rogers, the Marian Proto-Martyr, with Biographical Sketches of some of his Descendants,' &c. (8vo, London, 1861, pp. 452). The last mentioned work, one of much labour and research, has received the unqualified commendation of the English press."

Col. Chester came to England in 1858, and was employed here, in an official capacity, during the Civil War. The primary object of his visit was, however, to investigate the history of the Pilgrim Fathers, and the genealogy of his own English ancestry. He soon made his mark here as a genealogist of great ability and painstaking research. He was one of the founders of the Harleian Society in 1869, and a member of the first council of the Royal Historical Society in 1870. For the former he edited the Parish Registers of St. Dionis Backchurch, St. Mary Aldermary, and St. Thomas the Apostle, London; and was at the time of his death engaged in editing, in conjunction with Dr. J. J. Howard, the Visitation of London in 1634, of which one volume has already appeared. His greatest work, and that by which he has earned a place amongst English men of letters, was the editing and annotating 'The Marriage, Baptismal, and Burial Registers of the Collegiate Church or Abbey of St. Peter, Westminster,' London, 1876, 8vo. On this book he spent ten years' labour, and then generously allowed the Harleian Society to issue it as one of their publications (vol. x), his sole object being to leave it as his legacy to the nation which he was wont to say had always treated him kindly and whose hospitable shores he never intended to leave, and where at length, as he always wished, he has found a final resting-place. It has been said, with much truth, that scarcely a modern book appears relating to biography, genealogy, county or parish history, that is not indebted more or less to the investigations of Col. Chester.

The 'Westminster Abbey Registers' are so well known to the readers of this publication, and the historical value of the notes to them appreciated by so wide a circle, that further comment on them here would be quite superfluous. They were not unappreciated by his own countrymen, for, in recognition of his labours on this work, Columbia College, New York City, an institution from which such a compliment is an honour, conferred on him the honorary degree of LL.D. in 1877. On the 22nd June, 1881, our own University of Oxford gave him the degree of D.C.L., a recognition of his services to English literature more highly valued by him than any other honour bestowed upon him. There was only one distinction he would have greatly appreciated which he never lived to attain, but to which he had a far better right than most of the distinguished foreigners on whom it is lavishly bestowed, that of Hon. F.S.A.

It is, however, the object of this notice to place on record a permanent testimony to the noble nature of the man, rather than to detail his labours or give an account of his life.

His personal appearance was in every way characteristic. Tall, of stout build, well proportioned, with long flowing gray beard, and a peculiarly kindly expression of countenance, he naturally prepossessed those with whom he came in contact at first sight, and his quiet and unobtrusive manner at once commanded respect. Generous and genial in disposition far beyond most men, he was at the same time highly sensitive, and felt keenly any want of gratitude on the part of those who obtained his assistance in their researches, while, on the other hand, the most trivial attention shown him was accepted and valued with childlike simplicity and delight. Ever ready to afford to anyone who asked him all the aid which his large collection could supply, he spent half his time in replying to the enquiries of his numerous correspondents, and it was rarely, however much trouble it involved or time it took, that the desired information was not supplied by return of post. The only return he expected, though for that he never asked, was thanks.

Incessant work, and the sedentary life which it enforced, naturally told on what was to all appearances a robust constitution, but till within a few weeks of his demise, the gout, from which he frequently suffered, was his only serious complaint. He spent a fortnight last Christmas, as he had been in the habit of doing during most of his residence in England, at the house of his friend Mr. Cokayne, and seemed, though perhaps a little less active, much in his usual health and spirits. In February he was attacked by his old enemy the gout, and though he did not rally as soon as usual nothing serious was anticipated till the end of April, when his medical attendant, Mr. Cooper, suspected that he was suffering from disease of the nature of internal tumour. On the 5th of May Sir James Paget, and Dr. Moxon, of Guys, examined him, and pronounced the case to be that of a cancerous tumour in the stomach of considerable size and long standing, but not of necessity immediately fatal. These, or some such words were told him by Sir James, and since that time he seemed to lose all heart, and I believe never wrote a line more. He continued however to sit up in his library on an invalid couch, and though his voice became feeble, was able to converse with his friends till the 23rd of May, when, though weak, he appeared much as usual; but on that night came an attack of bronchitis, then an abscess in the throat, and though he appeared to recover from both these, soon after midnight his strength gave way; and on the 25th he gradually sank, and at 10 a.m. on the 26th expired.

On the last day of the month his funeral, which was of a private character, took place at Nunhead Cemetery; a large number however of his poorer neighbours (among whom he had so long resided, and to whom he had ever been a liberal and most kind benefactor) were present. The American Embassy was represented by Mr. E. S. Nadal, one of the Secretaries of Legation. The service was read by Dr. Bradley, Dean of Westminster, who thus, on behalf of himself and his Chapter, testified the respect due to one who had done so much towards illustrating the history of their glorious Abbey.

Nothing more remains to be told, unless it be to add that of the many good qualities exemplified in his life his genial disposition was the most striking. Having acquired knowledge himself, by imparting it to others he made the best possible use of it, and thus derived the truest and noblest enjoyment from its possession. In this respect he has left behind him a bright example, and taught a useful lesson. His too early death has caused a general and heartfelt feeling of sorrow amongst all whose good fortune it was to come in contact with him. We shall see his kindly face no more, no longer learn our work under his able guidance, and though we cannot wish to recall him from the reward of a life well spent and of work well done, our heart is still human, and

BUCKS.

Mr. Rupert Carrington, the Liberal candidate for Bucks, last evening addressed a meeting of the electors in the Town-hall at Chesham. Referring to the atrocities in Bulgaria, he said,—The first, and, he thought, the foremost, of our grounds of dissatisfaction was the conduct of the Government with reference to the atrocities in Bulgaria. During three months at least, from early in May until early in August, if not even till now, Bulgaria had been the scene of horrors such as no tongue could tell. Under the eyes of Europe, within a few days' journey from where he stood, a whole population had been herded together into villages and towns, and there brutally slaughtered. Outrage, torture, and conflagration had been let loose upon a defenceless people. These things had lowered the humanity of Europe. They had left a lasting stain on the memory of the 19th century. It might have been expected that England would have been the first to protest not by words only but if need were by active interference to prevent these things. They were in a great degree answerable for the continued existence of Turkey as a Power in Europe. But for our conduct in past times either a Christian and a civilized Power would have now been ruling at Constantinople or these Provinces would have been governing themselves. They had lately renowned in the sight of Europe and in that of Turkey herself their protectorate by sending a fleet to the Bosphorus at a time and in a manner which signified moral if not physical support of the Turkish Government. These things laid us under an obligation to see that we were not holding down the Christian population of Turkey to be outraged and exterminated by the Turks. We had prevented the interference of the European Powers; we were bound to take care that our support was not abused. He might ask, how did the Government discharge that obligation? There was no one who imputed to any member of the Government any sympathy with those atrocities. But he did impute to them an apathy which had contributed in some degree to the continuance of that horrible state of things, and which left a stain on the honour of England. He would give them proofs. He held in his hand an extract from The Times of the 12th of August. In the last speech which the Prime Minister made in the House of Commons he found the following passage:—

"From the very commencement of these transactions the Ambassador was in constant communication with Her Majesty's Ministers, and that could be proved by the papers on the table. In May and throughout June the Ambassador is perpetually referring to the atrocities occurring in Bulgaria, to the repeated protests he is making to the Turkish Government, and to his conversations with the Grand Vizier and others on the subject. The hon. and learned gentleman says that when questions were addressed to me in this House I was ignorant of what was occurring. That is exactly the question we have to decide. I say we were not, and that is the very point I am now calling attention to. I say during all this period we were constantly receiving communications from Her Majesty's Ambassador informing us of what was occurring in Bulgaria, and apprising the Government of the steps he took to counteract evil consequences."

Her Majesty's Ministers could not get out of that statement. By the Prime Minister's own account his Government were throughout those long three months of blood, outrage, and torture kept fully informed of all that was going on from the very beginning, and they were kept so informed on the unimpeachable authority of their own Ambassador, Sir Henry Elliot. But what had they done to protect the inhabitants of Bulgaria and the honour of England? They had done nothing in May, nothing in June. On the 23d of June a newspaper which had acquired a deserved reputation for trustworthy foreign intelligence—the Daily News—published full details of some of the atrocities. No inquiry was made by the Government. On the 26th of June Mr. Forster asked a question in Parliament. The Prime Minister said he knew nothing about it. Time went on. More atrocities were continually committed and reported in the newspapers. On the 10th of July Mr. Disraeli's attention was again called to the matter in Parliament. His answer was of a kind which, probably, no one now regrets more than himself—a joke about Turkish customs, and a jocular statement that these things were inevitable in civil war. That answer aroused the feeling and indignation of the country, and that feeling and indignation were freely expressed. It was only after that, on the 14th of July, that so much as an inquiry was addressed to our Ambassador in Turkey. A fortnight later Mr. Disraeli again denounced the accounts as imaginary—as "collethouse babble." We now know how far that was a just description. It was not until these things had been going on for three months that the remonstrance of the 9th of August was addressed by Lord Derby to the Turkish Government. Sir H. Elliot was still our Amba-
